Dear Sir,—Many thanks for gloves received safely. Am so pleased with them that in future will send all my things to you to be cleaned.

Yours faithfully, Mrs. G. C. Wallace.

33, Flanders-mansions, Bedford Park, W., Jan. 14, 1906.

Dear Sir,—My white dress which you have just dyed for me for the part of Esther Coventry in "One of the Best" came last night, and I am delighted to find how successfully it has turned out. I am the more pleased that, as the lining is silk and the skirt wool, I feared one might have shrunk, and much needlework be needed, but they are just right. Thank you very much for all the trouble that must have been taken over it, and for letting me have it so quickly.

Yours faithfully, Margaret Davies Webster.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

AT a meeting of the Committee of the Heads of Departments' Association it was decided to invite a well-known West-end manager to take the chair at the forthcoming fourth annual dinner, the date to be subject to his convenience. It was also decided to convene the annual general meeting of members as soon as the date of the annual dinner was fixed.

OWING to the success of this Association, whose funds now amount to some £240, it is proposed that the subscriptions shall be reduced, and Mr. Cullen, president, and Mr. Barbour, hon. secretary, propose that the subscription shall be uniform, and reduced to 6d. per week, for which will be given sick pay at the rate of £1 per week, with benevolent and funeral benefits in addition. Voting papers on the proposal are being issued to members.

THE nineteenth annual dinner of the staff of the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Sunday last, was a great success. The dinner was given in the Crown and Woolpack Hotel. Mr. Samuel James, the managing-director, presiding. A lengthy programme of speeches and music occupied the whole of the evening. The Chairman, in the course of his response to the toast of "Success to the Grand Theatre, Ltd.," paid a tribute to the staff for the able manner in which they had performed their duties and the goodfellowship they had shown towards one and all at the theatre. He had never had, and never wanted to have, a better staff than the one he had at the Grand Theatre. It was unity that tended towards success, and he was proud to say the Grand Theatre was on the high road to success once again, that is, if he could believe the box-office returns, and, he for one, did not look for a better barometer than that.

AMONG those who contributed to the entertainment that followed the dinner were—Mr. Austin, Mr. Ernie Williams, and Messrs. A. George, J. Belmore, B. Miller, H. Penny, and F. Richards. Mr. T. F. White acted as accompanist. Votes of thanks to the Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and Stewards brought the proceedings to a close.

A MEETING of the members of the Theatrical Carpenters' Society will be held on Sunday evening at the Salisbury Hotel, St. Martin's-lane, W.C., at 8.30.

ON Monday at Wandsworth Cemetery the interment took place of Mr. W. Munday, who died Jan. 15 from consumption. Deceased had for several years acted as a check-taker at the Grand Palace, Clapham Junction, and was most popular with both public and staff. Wreaths were received from the staff of the hall (two), from the New Grand Cycling Club (of which he was a prominent member), Mr. and Mrs. J. Davis, and many others. Deceased was only twenty-one years of age.

THE IMPORTANCE OF AMUSEMENT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I read your leading article on the above subject last Saturday, and must admit there is a great deal of truth in it; but there is one question I should like to bring before all amusement caterers and artists—viz., the "Jingoism" that prevails in the theatres and variety halls. I think it is a great pity professionals should play on one string only, or carry all their eggs in one basket. They are assured of the support of those who have patronised them for years, and should seek after those who rarely enter a theatre or music-hall. The vast body of dissenters generally seek some other form of amusement, and denounce the theatre and music-hall, possibly because when they are tempted to enter they hear or see something they hold dear held up to ridicule. They go out with the determination never to enter such a place again, or allow any of their family or friends to do so, if they can help it.

The same argument applies to politics. Liberal money is as good as Conservative money. Yet there are very few of the profession who are Liberals politically, and the programme as a rule is plentifully supplied with Conservative tit-bits at the expense of the Radical, which is not pleasant to the latter, more especially when he has a Tory friend sitting next to him, who digs his elbow into his ribs, or uses some derisive remark to drive the point home. My experience is that the vast majority of the profession are not political students, and even if they were, they can invent plenty of fun and jokes that will please all and offend none. At my Gloucester theatre I have cultivated the patronage of the Dissenter and also the Salvation Army (although a Churchman myself), and I am pleased to say I get their support.

I do not mean that the eccentricities of the curate, the sneaking of the Stigginses, and the faults of politicians should not be shown up in their true form, as much good is done thereby, but that other samples should not be dragged in just for the sake of causing a laugh amongst the commonest of our audiences. Mr. Gladstone and other famous Liberals of the past were ardent theatre-goers, and there are plenty to-day who recognise the vast amount of good the theatre and music-hall can do when used as they should be—viz., in the true interests of all.—Yours faithfully,

C. W. POOLE.

Theatre Royal, Gloucester, Jan. 25, 1906.

ACTING-MANAGERS AND THE A. A.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—May we by means of your columns notify our intention of bringing forward the following proposition at the next annual general meeting of the A. A., viz: "That acting-managers shall be admitted as members of the A. A." We take this step because we feel it to be an important question, and would prefer that it should be fully considered and discussed before the meeting, rather than submitted to the chance of a catch vote. By acting-managers we mean those who are on the salary list, and who, in most respects, are subject to the same conditions as the actors employed by the proprietor of the company. Evidence of their service in this capacity would have to be supplied to the council before election.

Yours faithfully,

C. AUBREY SMITH and A. E. DRINKWATER.

Jan. 22, 1906.

MR. GRAHAM FALCON, whose enterprise at Luton has caused his theatre there to become so greatly popular, has instituted a series of high-class Sunday concerts, the second of which was held on Sunday last, under the direction of Messrs. White and Sharp, who had provided a capital programme. The principal artistes engaged were Miss Ethel James (soprano), Miss Marian Brereton (contralto), and Mr. Laurence Derrick (baritone and musical monologue artiste). Miss Brereton and Mr. Derrick were very successful in their duets "The Children's Home" and "Life's Dream is O'er," and Mr. Derrick made a remarkable impression with a fine rendering of Geo. R. Sims' recitation, "A Man-Hunt," being compelled to give a double encore. A first-class cinematograph show was sandwiched in between the vocal items, and greatly contributed to a highly successful entertainment. Mr. Graham Falcon must be congratulated on providing an elevating and amusing attraction on the one evening in the week when the streets are too often the only means of recreation available.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company occupies the boards this week with The Christian, which is well received by large audiences. Miss Grace Chalmers plays with great intensity as Glory Quayle; Mr. Frank Tennant gives a strong, manly portraiture of John Stern; Mr. T. R. Lockwood acts incisively as Lord Robert Ure; and the other parts are capably filled.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Mr. W. J. Ashcroft appears in an exceedingly humorous musical interlude, in which he is assisted by Mr. C. W. Morton; and the Caledonian Boys make a great hit as instrumentalists and singers. Doody and Wright are as successful as last week; Miss Mona McDonald sings sweetly; and the rich, powerful voices of the Brothers Ralston are heard to excellent advantage. Paller and Cussick are warmly received; Hortin and Linder contribute an amusing grotesque acrobatic act; and Mr. Eric Graham is appreciated as a comedian. A capital new series of pictures is shown by Vernon's Bioscope.

ABERTILLERY.—THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General and Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. W. Ventoin.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke and company are here this week in the musical comedy The Naval Detective. In the title-rôle Mr. Fred J. Kirke is very good; Mr. Geo. Freer scores as Dr. Schreiner; Mr. Mark Practice as Capt. Hustle is exceptionally smart; Mr. Bert Leighton as the Hon. Bertie Fairlox keeps the house in good humour; Miss Edith Claris, who plays the part of Susan Scrubbs, causes roars of laughter; Miss Edith W. Stuart as Lulu Kaufmann well suits the part; Miss Lily Seymour is also good as Rebecca Gentle; and Miss Louise Fountain has become a firm favourite as Phyllis Leslie. The special dances by the Gaiety Girls, the Sisters Shazd, deserve mention.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—On Monday Miss Florence Baine's company opened here in Miss Lancashire, Limited. Mr. David Donaldson was excellent as John Higgins; Mr. Patrick Evans must be complimented on his performance as Harry; and R. C. Hick was good as Herbert Fox; Messrs. Charles Reeves and Horace Pollock score in their respective parts. Miss Florence Baines had a cordial reception; Miss Jennie Hallworth was highly successful as Eva Lancashire; and Miss Patti Groves made an ideal Bridget Thompson.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Vandy, Potter, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. Campkin.—An excellent company this week includes Harry Taff, the laughing comedian; Will Percival, who is a wonderful dancer; the Arundels; the Arizona Troupe; Fields and Lewis; Wilfred Stylo; and Martin. The Hippodrome pictures complete a good bill.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sonnes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Williams.—Mr. Sonnes' pantomime The Forty Thieves is being presented here. The pantomime, from a spectacular point of view, is certainly one of the best that has been seen here, the electrical effects being especially brilliant. There are some first-class songs. Miss Mary Thorne as Ganem sings with unbounded success "If the world were only mine for a day." There is a genuine children's harlequinade, which has been invented and arranged by Mr. Harry Gardner, the popular clown. The pantomime itself is from the versatile pen of Mr. Fred Bowyer, and the familiar rôles are well and faithfully portrayed. Mr. Leonard Barry works hard and successfully as Ali Baba, the wood-cutter, and Miss Mary Thorne as Ganem plays with marked vivacity. Roars of laughter are elicited by Mr. Frank Gee in the rôle of Cogia, Ali Baba's wife; Miss Lucie Caine makes a prepossessing Morgiana; Miss Beatrice Fitgerald cleverly portrays the rôle of Lola, Cassim's daughter; Miss Rosie Bartlett does well as Doris.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—Mr. Peter Thompson's spectacular burlesque The Babes in the Wood is running for the week at the Theatre Royal. It is some time since we heard so capable a couple in the parts of principal boy and girl as Miss Maud Beaumont as Robin Hood and Miss Molly Hackett as Maid Marion. They are the beau-ideal of vivacity and song, and they dance with ease, grace, and nimbleness. The comedy parts are mainly in the capable hands of Mr. Fred Danvers as the masculine female Nurse to the Babes, the Danbys as the two Ruffians, and the Bad Baron, Mr. Templar Ellis; and much comic relief is given to characters of a minor type by Messrs. Willie Barrett and Fred Paget. Mr. Danvers is the very spirit of drollery; he has inherited the Danvers' unctuous manner, which is extremely ludicrous and laughter-provoking. The Danbys, in a different type of humour, also command attention. The burlesque duel in the forest is very funny, and their share in the unfolding of the plot makes them prominent on the stage for a large part of the evening. The Babes are Little Renée Grahame and Little Daisy Noel, who fill their respective rôles to the great delight of all. Indeed, the juvenile talent of this couple is exceptional. Miss Georgie Thomas is a charming Fairy Queen. The pantomime is specially notable for its expert and capable terpsichorean artists, prominent, of course, being the Yankee Quartette of supple-limbed girls; also Miss Rose Walmsley, remarkably graceful as a skipping-rope and acrobatic dancer; and Miss Nellie Grahame, as a nimble speciality dancer. Special mention should also be made of the talent of Little Renée Grahame, one of the Babes, as a male impersonator; and the Danbys as Hungarian dancers. Perhaps the most exciting "turn" as a "speciality" is the wonderful performance of Kioto, the Japanese equilibrist. He should be seen to be appreciated. From a spectacular point of view, the pantomime is very attractive, notably the scene, entitled The Village of Ashton in the Time of Henry VIII.

THE EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—Mr. H. A. Jordison's pantomime Cinderella is here for the week. Some little curtailment of the familiar nursery legend is necessary to give two exhibitions each evening, but a very satisfactory performance is given, nevertheless. Much fun is extracted from the humours of Buttons, Baron Bunker, and the two Ugly Sisters, and Ben and Bob, a couple of broker's men. Mr. Will Letters made his mark as Buttons, the impersonation being ridiculously funny. Miss Mamie Iris makes a very attractive little maiden as Cinderella, singing and dancing prettily. The Prince of Miss Daisy Morrell is a capital principal boy. She sings well, and by her pleasing manner earns the approbation of her auditory. Miss Madge Allen is a good second hero to the Prince. Some ludicrous business is carried out successfully by Mr. C. Russell as the Baron; and his two masculine daughters, Mr. J. Worman and Mr. Billy Keene. There are also a number of sprightly and shapely girls who sustain minor characters very gracefully. Mr. Jordison's eight juvenile lady vocalists and dancers add to the attraction of the "panto." The pantomime is run in eight scenes, and is very prettily staged and dressed.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director. Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—The drama What a Woman Did is the attraction here this week, presented by Mr. William A. Armour's company.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Gibbons.—This week's "bill" includes The King's Highway, in which Mr. Frank Gerald makes a dashing Dick Turpin; the sketch is received with hearty applause. The Franch Brothers, Chinese grotesque acrobats and equilibrists, give a clever exhibition; Miss Amy Bellwood, comedienne, is well received in her songs and dances; Mdlle. Sylvesto is a contortionist of more than average merit; the popular Attergraph, under the direction of Mr. E. C. Clayton, shows a varied number of pictures; Mr. Arthur Holland, vocal comedian, does well; Gold and Stirling in their refined musical-scena entitled The Street Singer, or the Welsh Girl and the Artist, are heartily applauded; and Peublo and Cropp score as Creole speciality artistes.

AYR.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—Messrs. Little and Darcy's company is here in Sinbad the Sailor. Miss Marion May in the title-rôle displays much life and dash; the Zorilda of Miss Amy Calcott is excellent; while Madame Corra Arnitta makes an admirable Lustre. As Tinbad, Mr. Walter Adams is funny; and Newcombe and Sullivan, as Baccah and Sioppah, give valuable support. The Mrs. Sinbad of Mr. John E. West is also lively and provocative of much mirth. The Stuart Quartette of dancers; the Calcott banjoists; Little Tim, big boot dancer; the Westwoods, eccentric cyclists; Dobito and Buxton, operatic vocalists; and Miss May Wyatt 'cellist, give enjoyable turns.

BACUP.—NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denmann-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Richard Nightingale.—Messrs. Griffin and Drake's pantomime Cinderella is here this week. Mdlle. Du Roche is a very popular principal boy, and infuses animation into her songs. Miss Ivy Dawn gives a charming impersonation of Cinderella, and her songs are sung in cultured style. Miss Marie Le Grahame is a vivacious Dandini. As the Baron, Mr. Charles Benett displays a fund of dry humour. Mr. W. Griffin is responsible for a funny representation of one of the ugly sisters, and Little F. Elliot plays the second ugly sister. The Brothers Lang provide plenty of amusement as Flip and Flop, and work energetically to make their part of the performance a success. Mr. Jim Topping is funny as Choddles, the Baron's Page. Miss Sadie Bush makes a charming Fairy God-Mother, and Mr. Clifton Hall scores as Demon Dischord. A popular turn is the juggling entertainment given by Marlo. Harland and Rollinson are two clever artists, whose musical performances are much appreciated. Lona, Dora and Maude are clever trapeze performers, and the three Sisters Le Graham execute some graceful dancing.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—Mr. Geo. Dance's company is here in the Cingalee this week. Mr. Lauri De Frece in his impersonation of the part of Chambuddy Ram, takes high honours; the Hon. Harry Vereker is a masterly embodiment by Mr. Frank Crimp; Mr. Bertrand Gates is an impressive Boobhama; Sir Peter Loftus as presented by Mr. Cook Edmunds is all that can be desired; Bobby Warren is remarkably well acted by Mr. Ethelbert Edwards; Mr. A. Wilmer is responsible for the part of Nyamgah. Owing to the indisposition of Miss Winifred O'Connor, Nanoya was successfully played by her understudy, Miss May Owen; Lady Patricia was charmingly portrayed by Miss Marjorie Clarke; Miss Gladys Guy delighted everyone with her rendering of Peggy; and Miss Essie Perrin was a bewitching Angy Loftus.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company in the musical comedy Three Little Maids is the attraction here this week. Miss Doris, Miss Lingara, and Miss West give charming and artistic representations of the maids. Miss Laura Wright is a capital Gretchen, and, together with Mr. Ewart Drake, a droll Cupid, has to respond to several encores for songs and dances. Mr. F. Henderson as Lord Cheyne is extremely funny; and Mr. Wilfrid Heath is full of life and vivacity as the Frenchman.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Charles Frohman's company in Leah Kleschna is here this week. The difficult part of Paul Sylvaine is played with delightful effect by Mr. Langhorne Burton; Mr. Thomas Sidney gives a fine character study of Kleschna; Mr. Cyril Rawdon is a capable Schram; Mr. Pat Newall plays the part of Raoul with force and subtlety; and Mr. Dan Fitzgerald is an acceptable General Berton. Miss Pearla Gardner is a pleasing Claire Berton, and Miss Pilar Morin in the title-rôle displays histrionic gifts of high order.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—At the top of an exceedingly strong bill here this week is Max Wessley's troupe of jugglers, who obtain a tremendous reception for their bewildering tricks; Tom and Mary Motramo give a musical sketch of a very high order; Miss Cora Grey has a particularly good soprano voice and a charming stage presence. Alf Berg, as a strong man, gives a novel show that is much appreciated; and Ben Houndsworth, Beatty and Blanche, and Tom Johnson are also in the bill.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—For the second time The Girl from Kay's is exercising her sway over Bath admirers, Mr. George Dance sending one of his excellent companies again to present this bright and entertaining musical play. Upon Mr. George Blunt, as Max Hoggenheimer, much of the go of the piece depends, and this gentleman is never at a loss to keep the audience amused. Winnie Harborough is portrayed in a captivating manner by Miss Beatrice Poole, who can sing well, and dances with agility and grace. Mr. Reginald Grey impersonates the dude Fitzthistle in droll style, creating plenty of laughter. The young bride and bridegroom Norah and Harry Gordon are pleasingly enacted by Miss Emily Taylor and Mr. J. S. Durrant. Miss Mabel Dent throws plenty of brightness into her work as Ellen; and Mr. Tom Seymour supplies an excellent sketch of the Hall Porter, Joseph. Others who win favour are Miss Lily Beaumont (Mrs. Chalmers), Mr. Robert Rivers (Theodore Queuch), Mr. Thomas Pauncefort (Mr. Chalmers), and Mr. H. Val Morgan (Pepper). A delightful item is the rendering of "Under the Bamboo Tree" by two ladies and a gentleman of the company. The chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Arthur L. Spittle, are much to be praised for their work.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Charles Schubert.—It is difficult to choose out of the present bill which of the artists claim premier place in the appreciation of the audience, one and all being so popular. The first number announced here is the well-known sketch duo Nelson and Thomas, who appear in Mushroom Ketchup; Frank Coyle, comedian, follows with some amusing songs; Burke and McVoy perform amazing acrobatic feats; a vocal turn of merit is submitted by the Four Avocas, whose part-singing in their scena, The Reckless Miner, is loudly applauded; the conjuring of Loudoun Camero equals anything that has been seen here; the Sisters Caselli continue to hold their own as expert high kickers; and nothing funnier could be desired than the interlude in which Howard and Harris appear, entitled The Adventures of a Happy Tramp. Raymond's bioscope concludes with an interesting series of hunting scenes.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Howes, jun.—A return visit is this week being paid by the New Animated Picture Company, under the direction of Mr. Albany Ward. The subjects are quite up to date, and are highly interesting and amusing. Madame Edith Vivian in illustrated songs, and Mr. George A. Deighton, ventriloquist and sleight-of-hand performer, appear at intervals with success.

BATLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty.—At Cripple Creek, an exciting melodrama dealing with American mining life, is proving a success at this theatre. Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow have got a capable company together for its performance. Mr. Hilliard Vox, a sound and earnest actor, takes the part of the hero with infinite credit to himself; Mr. Walter Thornton plays the Terror of Cripple Creek very well; Mr. Chas. W. Pitt does good work; Mr. Reginald H. West gives a telling rendering of a picturesque Indian; Mr. Albert Rogers is humorous as the coloured servant; and Mr. Will Hook gets through his comedy work excellently, introducing some excellent grotesque dances. Miss Vera Fordyce is a complete success, giving an embodiment of a difficult part which carries conviction; Miss Daisy Carlton is smart, alert, and effective; Miss May Straker gives a quiet, ladylike portraiture of Belle Gordon; and a child's part is intelligently played by May Douglas. The play is suitably dressed and staged.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—This week the boards are occupied by Mr. James Kiddie's pantomime Cinderella; or, the Bibulous Baron. Mr. Dick Thomas makes a merry Baron Shiphtalotte; Mr. Sydney Benson and Mr. W. G. Wesley contribute a great deal of the fun as the two ugly sisters Ethel and Maud respectively. The life of the piece is undoubtedly Pimples the Pye, humorously impersonated by Mr. Frank Dunlop. Miss Adele Roze makes a charming little Cinderella, and her sweet voice quite captivates the audience. Prince Perfect is well represented by Mdlle. De Rose. There is a powerful chorus, trained ballet, and augmented orchestra. Mr. John S. Kershaw is the musical director.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—The annual visit of Mr. F. R. Benson and his clever company is always anticipated with feelings of much pleasure by his many Belfast admirers, who certainly attended largely on Monday to welcome this talented Shakesperean actor. The piece selected was Romeo and Juliet, and the performance was in every sense most satisfactory. Mr. Benson was an interesting Romeo, speaking his lines with the utmost effect, and his success was certainly undeniable. Mrs. Benson was a delightful Juliet, her charming interpretation gaining the entire approval of the audience. Mr. Cyril Keightley—a clever actor and a decided acquisition to Mr. Benson's company—made an excellent Mercutio. Miss Elinor Aicken furnished a finished rendering of the Nurse; and Mr. George Buchanan, as Paris, acquitted himself with distinction. Mr. H. O. Nicholson's acting as Capulet was admirable; and the same may be said of Mr. Stanley Howlett's impersonation of Montague. Miss Violet Holland and Miss Mildred Forster were good as Lady Montague and Lady Capulet; and a decidedly humorous interpretation of Peter was submitted by the Belfast favourite, Mr. George R. Weir. Other rôles were carefully sustained by Messrs. P. D. Owen, C. Derwent, Philip Sanders, B. A. Pittar, Miss L. Hannam, and Miss A. P. Nicholson. On Tuesday evening Julius Cæsar was the attraction; and during the week The School for Scandal (Annual Students' Night), King Lear, The Merchant of Venice, Much Ado About Nothing, and Macbeth have also been performed.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Edwin Leslie.—This handsome theatre reopened for the variety season on Monday, under the direction of Mr. Frederick Mouillot and Mr. Walter De Frece, and provided a capital programme, headed by Captain Woodward's sea lions and seals, whose remarkable feats have created quite a sensation. Mr. Michael Nolan, the clever Irish comedian, has been most successful with his capital rendering of several songs; and a big hit was made by Virginia, who introduces with much effect a troupe of genuine coloured boys and girls in Coons Cutting Capers. Mr. Juno Salmo, "the Golden Mephisto," is undoubtedly one of the finest contortionists in existance; and Miss Agnes Hazel, a dashing comedienne, with fine songs, takes well. Mr. Charles Fanning is a good comedian; and also appearing are Miss Flo Cecil, comedienne; Narstro and Oreta, in a clever acrobatic act; and the attractive Palace pictures. The prices on Mondays and Saturdays have been reduced in gallery, pit, and balcony, and this reduction should be a strong incentive to the Belfast public, who will doubtless patronise this popular and handsome theatre in crowds. Mr. Edwin Leslie is the courteous resident-manager.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—Mr. Fred Karno's company tops the bill, and produces with great success the exhilarating sketch, Jail Birds, which has created roars of laughter. Baker and Balfe, the clever xylophone players, render several selections, which have been well received; and Miss Ethel Ra-Leslie handsomely costumed, commands much success with her refined songs, so daintily rendered. The Three Sisters Chester gain much approval with their banjo selections and their dancing; and Mueller and Coyne, the talented comedy duo, who are always up to date, are paying a welcome return visit. Also appearing are Charles Adams, comedian; Helen Martin, a good balladist; and Corty Brothers, aerial humorists.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The Three Richards head the list here, and have amazed the crowds with their startling acrobatic feats. Ned Kennedy and company create roars of laughter with their funny Irish sketch, Life in a Tenement House; and Mr. J. A. Cassells, a clever Scotch comedian, has been loudly and deservedly encored. The comedy acrobatic act of Ryde and Beeman is responsible for much merriment; and the Brothers Hannaway, vocalists and dancers, are accorded a good reception. Also appearing are Miss Minnie Dare, a charming comedienne; Mr. Shirley Liggins, negro joker and vocalist; George Helem and Emmie Cozens in speciality act, The Doctor and the Patient; and Miss Aida Martin, comedienne.

BILSTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—We have this week the first visit to Bilston of Sapho, with Miss Annie Bell in the title-part. This popular actress plays Fanny le Grande admirably, and holds the audience. Mr. Pringle Roberts makes the most of Jean Gausin; and Mr. Lawrence Kingsley carefully depicts Paul Dechelette. Mr. Charles M. Daly combines with his acting-management the part of Father Legrand successfully; and the general management is in the hands of Mr. James Bell.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—A powerful attraction is provided by Mr. William Greet's company in the musical comedy The Earl and the Girl. The comedy is admirably performed throughout, and the staging is beyond reproach. Mr. Reginald Switz sustains the rôle of Jim Cheese with great natural humour; Mr. Alec Fraser is a capital Dick Wargrave; Mr. Stanley Harrison displays great ability as the Hon. Crewe Poodle; and A. Bunker Bliss is admirably enacted by Mr. H. E. Brandreth. The important part of Elphin Haye is entrusted to Miss Mary Fraser, who possesses vocal and histrionic powers of a high order. Miss Maud Aston is an excellent Daisy Fallowfield; Miss Maud Adams is well suited as Mrs. Shimmering Black; Miss Mary Morison is unexceptionable as Miss Virginia Bliss; and Miss Florence Wix is an efficient Liza Shoddam. Mr. Frank Lane as Downham, Mr. Robert Rous as Mr. Talk, and Mr. Tom Redmond as Mr. Hazell also contribute important aid. The chorus is strong in numbers and efficiency, there are several pretty dances by Miss Maud Schwitz, and the orchestral arrangements are under the direction of Mr. Norman Bath. Phenomenal business rules at this popular theatre.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Dottridge, Longden, and Willard's combination, in a well-played and amusing sketch entitled Did He Deserve It, is an important item in an attractive programme. Tom Lloyd, an excellent eccentric comedian, and a favourite here, is on a welcome return visit; Mr. Charles Diamond and Miss Beatrice present an exceptionally good instrumental and variety entertainment; Miss Katie Marsh is an accomplished mimic; Miss Bertha Duckett is a promising young comedienne and dancer; and the company also includes Burg, Hand, and Wise (acrobatic pantomimists), Dwight and Son (comedians and dancers), Miss Winifred Ward (male impersonator), the Sivoronis (comedy artists), and an up-to-date display by the bioscope. Mr. Ernest Denny is musical director.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Aladdin has, without doubt, secured for Mr. Tom B. Davis a mighty hit, and Mr. Robert Arthur, whose pantomime it is, can be most heartily congratulated on the success of his production. Miss Ada Reeve continues to delight in "Two Brown Eyes," "If the World were Ruled by Women," "Bed," etc., being numbered among her vocal successes. Mr. Harry Tate, as Abanazar, is full of resource, and his name is great in Birmingham, while the other principals are no less indefatigable in their parts.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Cinderella continues its prosperous career, and Mr. Henry Johnston, who rules the front of the house like the able and amiable manager that he is, is often put to it to find room for the patrons of this successful pantomime. Miss Edith Fink, as the dainty heroine, does much to retain the poetry of the tale, both in song and story; Miss Lelia Roze as the Prince, is renewing past triumphs; and Messrs. Mark Sheridan and George Lashwood are in their respective styles impeccable. The morale of the company is well maintained, its vigour and spontaneity being most praiseworthy and exemplary.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—The Sleeping Beauty is winning for Mis Maud Mortimer and Company much popularity, Miss Mortimer, as the Prince, receiving such favour as is likely to advance her well. Miss Lillian Digges, as Beauty, is in receipt of much applause for her chic and charm, and Messrs. James Chippendale, Alfred Bishop, Lonnen Meadows, J. W. Churchill, and the Morton Trio are in the forefront, and score many hits.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Blue Beard, the popular saying of which, "Are we down-hearted?" with its emphatic "No!" from the public, has, in addition to being the great catch-phrase of the Birmingham elections, been actually quoted by Mr. Chamberlain himself, shows no signs of diminishing in favour, and is sure to run for many weeks to come. Miss Minnie Jeffs, Miss Lilian Stanley, Miss Bertha Cousins, and Miss Millie Warde on the ladies' side, and Messrs. Fred A. Marston, Fred W. Graham, and Bert Atherton among the comedians, are great favourites, and the Bogannys are a tower of strength in their clever acrobatic speciality.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville.—The Beast and the Beauty, as noticed in our last week's issue, is retained for the current attraction, and is again successful in drawing crowded houses.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—Cinderella is presented here in a charming and pretty manner by Mr. and Mrs. John Walter's Company, which includes many finished adult performers and a clever team of juvenile artistes. Cinderella possesses a sweet and clever exponent in Miss Kitty Rafferty; the Prince's rôle is delivered with much esprit by Miss Jessie Hardacre; Miss May Bishop plays the valet's part with much success; Miss Kitty Chester as the Fairy Godmother is among the favourites; Mr. A. Benson scatters fun in rich profusion with his clever acting as the Baron; Miss H. Deacon adds to the feast as the Baroness; Mr. Paddy Mills, as the indefatigable Buttons, is highly popular and Messrs. Dan Dougherty and Geo. Swinhoe disport humorously as the Ugly Sisters.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—Jack and Jill, produced by the Six Bros. Luck, has provided a pantomimic treat of rare quality and fun. The Misses Mabel Thorne and Marjorie Cecil do excellent and graceful work in the name parts; Miss Flora Macdonald gives a charming interpretation of the fairy's rôle; Mr. E. Bathurst shines as King Usurpa; Mr. Harry Levaine kindles laughter continously as Dame Miggs; and the fun is completed by Mr. Ernest Luck as Herbert, Mr. Fred Luck as Henry, Mr. Phil Luck as the Chef, Mr. A. Luck as the Dude, Mr. Oscar Luck as the Dwarf, and Mr. Harry Luck as the Demon. Miss Edie Brenton gives a sprightly representation of Margery, and the Misses Maggie and Brenda Travers sing and dance in a clever style.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Spadoni, the Cannon Ball King, is displaying his feats with his usual skill; Lilieth Leyton is seen to advantage in a smart sketch, The Order of the Bath, which is well played; the musical entertainment of Wood and Bates is artistic and amusing; Harry Carsdale is applauded for his farmyard and other imitations; Rosie Archer is a mimic of considerable merit; the Uessems in their clever equilibristic act, and Gallagher and Hild in their speciality act, "The Dancing Goose," are well received, and Katie Butler, comedienne, and Walter Munroe, Irish comedian, are very successful.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Nellie Wallace is proving a wonderful success here in her quaint songs, which are repeatedly encored. George Leyton remains another week, with a new song scena, The Scamp of the Regiment. The Charles Fisher Tabloid Opera Co. renders its selections in excellent style. The Osaka Troupe give a clever acrobatic display; Norman French is an exceptionally neat, eccentric dancer; Hector is an expert equilibrist, and an up-to-date series of films on the Bioscope is also attractive.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The Six Brothers Luck, in their absurdity, The Demon of the Cellar, cause a continual roar of laughter. Charles Coborn, arouses admiration for his songs, which is well deserved; the Royal Tokio Troupe of Japanese Jugglers come in for a fair amount of applause; the Sisters Marion, juvenile duettists, are a good turn; the Delornes have a weird act, The Phantom Clogs; Miniature Marie scores a success with her songs, as also does Violet Stockelle. E. J. Wilkes and his dog are amusing, and Frances Lyrio, vocalist and dancer, and the Jansons, in a novel gymnastic display, are well received.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster, Payne's Little Vagabond's, in their latest comedy act are proving a distinct success; Driscoll, Beattie and Co. have an excellent sketch; Sam Elton, a comedy juggler, makes things hum; the Glenroy Troupe are fine dancers, and the Brothers Andreassen, expert acrobats. Other popular turns are Margaret Ashton and Chas. Cardow, who complete the bill.

MASONIC HALL.—Catlin's Royal Pierrots, on a return visit here, have been attracting crowded houses. Professor Lewis is a ventriloquist of a high order; George Houghton's tenor voice is heard to advantage; and Tom Catlin is loudly applauded for "My Lady Molly. The troupe also includes W. Catlin, H. C. Lovell, Sid Frere, Frank Blythe, and W. Fowler, an excellent pianist.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—EDEN THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. J. Huntley.—The patrons of the above place of amusement are this week enjoying the return visit of Mr. J. Bannister Howard's Co., in the successful musical comedy, Florodora, which is attracting large audiences. The company, which is a very large one, contains several talented artists, who do not fail to take full advantage of the parts allotted them. As Anthony Tweedlepunch Mr. Albert Bruno invests the part with much innocent fun, occasioning continuous peals of laughter. The part of Dol

Lillian Hope and Elspie plays with much feeling, and Miss Ethel Ashleigh as Zamet, a gipsy boy, gives an excellent performance. The humorous parts are capitally played by Mr. David Hamilton as Bobbie Bloom, and Miss Fanny Wallace as Pollie Pluck, her clog-dances being particularly well received.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—Mr. George Dance's company, on a return visit, opened here on Monday in The Cingalee. Mr. Kenneth Wynne was successful as Harry Vereker; Mr. Helier Le Maistre, as Boobhams, gave a good performance; as did Mr. Roy Sydney as Bobby Warren. Mr. Johnny Osborne, as Chambuddy Ram, evoked heaps of applause; and with Mr. J. G. Williams, as Sir Peter Loftus kept the audience delighted. As Nanoya, Miss Zoe Gilfillan was distinctly good; and Miss Cissie Sephton as Peggy Sabine, Miss Emily Mayhew as Lady Patricia, and Miss Vi Holmes did excellently in their respective parts. Special praise is due to Mr. Edward Whitehall as musical conductor.

BRADFORD. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—The pantomime Mother Goose is now in the full tide of success, the audiences are large and appreciative, and there is every prospect of a long and prosperous run for Mr. Hart's latest charming production.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Merriment reigns supreme here, and Dick Whittington bids fair to establish a record.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—At the head of an excellent bill of fare here this week is Herbert Lloyd, who, in his very funny sketch, Crazy on Napoleon, introduces many novel features which elicit roars of laughter. With cornets, bugles, and kettledrums the Sisters Mullini are clever, and their performance is appreciated; Warren Doyle submits some good clog dancing; those smart sketch artists, Bella and Bijou, are paying a welcome return visit, and are greatly applauded; Bijou Russell submits a bright turn, introducing a remarkably clever sand dance; Ruth Dorris is a charming young comedienne; the Brontes are here again with their entertaining sketch, How I Love the Army; Dan Conroy submits a good comic song in capital style; Sam Redfern's songs are funny, and his "patter" proves positively irresistible; and a new series of up-to-date films shown by the American Bioscope are greatly appreciated.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—There is a well-varied and attractive programme here this week. Paulinetti and Piquo heading it with a comedy gymnastic act as clever as it is original and humorous. Arthur Melrose submits a humorous turn as a "word whistler"; Rose Elliott's songs are in excellent taste, and rendered with effect; Barton and Ashley, on a return visit with their breezy sketch Canal Boat Sal, are as popular as ever; a remarkable turn by Mephisto the Contortionist (who is assisted by Mdlle. Marie) earns well-merited plaudits; Mdlle. Rosa, with her canine pets, gives an interesting performance; in admirable style Sidney Dolf illustrates some peculiarities in music hall turns; a capital acrobatic comedy entertainment, Uninvited, submitted by the Louberts is received with much favour; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux show some interesting films.

BRIGHTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr. William Greet's company concludes a fortnight's engagement here this week. Mr. William Stephens affords unbounded fun by his droll impersonation of Jim Cheese, whose sweetheart, Liza Shoddam, has an excellent exponent in Miss Dot Carey. Miss Aimee Grey is a pleasing Elphin Haye; Miss Florence Imeson is a vivacious Daisy Fallowfield; and Miss Helen Langton's Miss Virginia Bliss and Miss Gladys Fountaine's Mrs. Shimmering Black are well played. Mr. Ernest Torrence is admirably suited as the irate American uncle; and Mr. Percy Carr acquits himself effectively as Dick Wargrave. The remaining characters are ably sustained; and the chorus and augmented orchestra are under the direction of Mr. Evelyn Baker.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—The pantomime Robinson Crusoe maintains its popularity here. New songs and comic business have been introduced, and all the artistes work with a hearty goodwill. Miss May Mars, a charming actress and artistic vocalist, is a great favourite as Robinson Crusoe; Miss Rosalie Jacobi makes a refined and delightful Polly Perkins; and the humorous business, jokes, and singing of Mr. Walter Kooney (Will Atkins), Mr. Harry Karr (Dick Deadeye), and Mr. Allan Wye (Mrs. Crusoe) are very entertaining. The vocal specialities submitted by Mr. Ernest Laws and Miss Winifred Norman are popular items; and the dances of Miss Maud Percy and Mr. Edgar Budden find great favour with the audience.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—A capital programme is sustained here this week. Frank, Willie, and Albert Boisset and company are prime favourites, and are highly amusing in their pantomime, The Bricklayers; Little Salvino is a musical wonder; Daisy Reed, charming comedienne and dancer, wins hearty applause; Harry Thurston, a clever mimic, introduces an impersonation of R. A. Roberts in the protean act, Dick Turpin; the Jalvans, coloured Oriental humorous entertainers, give an excellent and refined performance; Harry Cooke is an amusing patter comedian; Princo Yata's speciality novelty painting act is cordially appreciated; A. W. Hall and B. P. Earle are a pair of eccentric comedians; Cooke and Miss Rothert, the Yankee Doodle boy and girl, merit praise; and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—There is an admirable company here this week. The Dandies, a capital troupe of entertainers, achieve distinct success; Austin Rudd, comedian, is very mirth-provoking; Mike Gray, a comedy juggler, submits an excellent turn; the Waldrons are highly successful in their comedy act The Silly Burglar; the Ergotti and King Luis troupe are expert Risley acrobats; Hector and Paulus, comedy acrobats and equilibrists, display great skill; Francis Letty, American comedienne and dancer, is well received; Keen and Wallen are a talented and humorous pair of acrobats; J. P. Dane is a pleasing character comedian; Wat Tyler, in an extra turn, is effective in an act entitled The Poacher's Son; and the Barrascope pictures add to the success of the entertainment.

WEST PIER. — Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—The Cherry Girl is still popular here. Miss Ellaline Craigie acquits herself admirably as the Queen; Mr. G. Langford Kirby gives clever impersonations of Moonshine and Happy Joe; much fun is provided by Mr. J. P. E. Hussey and Mr. George Howard, who figure as chamberlains and policemen; and the remaining characters are capitally represented.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. J. Sallmayer; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. John Henderson.—The pantomime Robin Hood maintains its popularity here. Miss Millie Henderson is a dashing Robin Hood; Miss Lottie Page makes a handsome Wilfrid of Ivanhoe; Miss Susie Rusholme is a graceful and pleasing Maid Marion; and amusing representations are given by Newham and Latimer (Baron and Baroness), Mr. Coningsby Brierley (Friar Tuck), and Mr. Gerald Maitland (Little John).

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mother Goose is attracting a very large attendance in all parts of the house. Mr. Wilkie Bard's quaint assumption of the title-rôle obtains the utmost appreciation, and his songs all go well. Happy Fanny Fields has become an immense favourite; her Gretchen is a clever assumption, and her songs and dances are warmly applauded. Miss Lily Morris is pleasing in all respects as Colin, doing full justice to all her songs, and acting well. Miss Nina Wood acts very prettily as Jill, and also scores in song and dance. All the other artists in the principal rôles are highly successful; the mounting, both as to scenery and dresses, deserves high commendation, and the pantomime throughout runs smoothly.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—Goody Two Shoes continues to be successful in attracting good houses. Miss Harriet Fawn, as Boy Blue, and Miss May Fallowfield, as Goody, have become acknowledged favourites, and the same may be said of Mr. Dave O'Toole as Dame Durden. Jack and Jill are capitally taken by the Sisters Lunelle, their specialities of song and dance adding much to the attractions of the pantomime.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The leading attraction here is an interesting nautical sketch, The Little Stowaway, under the direction of Ethel Arden and George Abel, Ltd. The sketch is well staged, the solid built-up deck of the s.s. "Carisbrooke" being quite realistic. Miss Eva Lumley presents a fine exposition of the title-rôle. She acts with much earnestness, and her pathos has a true ring. Mr. J. K. Walton plays well as Captain Worley, and the other members of the company give effective support. The Brothers Ashley amuse with their boxing sketch, Next, Please; Professor McCann's Irish terriers and leaping dogs provide a good turn; Sydney Lee is an expert in card manipulation, &c.; Rumbo Austin amuses as an acrobatic comedian; and Herbert Madden, comedian, and Bert Weston, comedian, both obtain appreciation. The performance concludes with "The Wonderful Album," cleverly projected by the Barrascope.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Harry Atkinson heads the programme here, his imitations of various instruments obtaining much applause. Hanvarr and Lee present a smart juggling act, "The Golfer and the Maid"; George Davis and company have a good comedy sketch, Jack's Uncle; Sherlock and Van Dalle present a pleasing speciality, The Mummy and the Undergrad; Terras Brothers are successful acrobats; Ernest Montefiore and company introduce a capital scena, The Little Colonel; Harry Maxam, patter comedian, obtains appreciation; and George Adams, baritone vocalist, renders his songs in good style. The performance concludes with an excellent display of Vernon's animated pictures.

COLSTON HALL.—Mr. Joseph Poole's Myriorama continues to attract good houses.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. James W. Haworth; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—On Monday evening, before a good house, commenced a return visit of Mr. Walter Melville's A Girl's Cross Roads. Miss Ada Oakley as Barbara Wade deserves much praise for her exertions, and so does Miss Nannie Meade, who presents Nellie Meadows with good effect. John Meadows is in the capable hands of Mr. Charles Franmore, and Mr. Frank R. Robertson cleverly sustains the part of Jack Livingstone. Mr. John Brooks as Luke Ramsden, Mr. Fred Ingram as Tony Turvey, Miss Elsie Saville as Constance Cornell, and Mr. Roy Fortesque as Cuthbert Luniley give successful performances.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company in the pantomime Aladdin is playing to crowded houses here. Miss Maidie Scott gives a charming performance as Aladdin, and her songs are well applauded. Miss Lily Lonsdale makes an excellent Princess, and is also an able vocalist, her rendering of "Violets" being highly pleasing. M. Julian Mack is a most amusing comedian, and is seen to advantage as the Widow Twankey. Another clever mirth-provoker is Mr. Ernie Myers as Abanazar. Others who render assistance are Mr. Geo. Cooper as the Emperor, Mr. Joe Robins as Wot Zi, Miss Flo Collier as Loo Li Ah Tee, and Miss Madge Northcote as Rhadiant.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. T. Culeen; General-Manager, Mr. James E. Culeen.—The Convent Bell is being presented here by Mr. Howell Webb's excellent company, and is doing good business.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—A good programme is submitted here this week, and includes the Musical Johnstons, a trio of clever xylophone players, whose performance is loudly applauded. Will and August, comedy jugglers, are successful in creating much laughter; the Three Seymons are very acceptable in a smart equilibristic act, and "Roose," a supple contortionist, is greeted with much applause; Monty Walker is an amusing comedian; Kate Lynd, comedienne, is given a hearty welcome; Raymond's Bio-Tableaux is as popular as ever; and Charlie Dixon, eccentric comedian, is very good.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—Mr. John Gerant's company is here for the week with the military drama, At Duty's Call. Mr. Frank O Fenn is conspicuous as Captain George Allison and, in conjunction with Miss Alice Capel (Dora Drummond), readily gains the sympathy of the house. Villainy is capably enacted by Mr. John Gerant, his Harold Allison being a masterpiece of deceit and cunning. Miss Georgina Hamilton renders capable assistance as Salema, a slave. A well-studied portrait is that of Mr. Ernest St. John as General Gordon. In the lighter vein Mr Harry Ugar (Terry O'Hallaron), Mr. Gwyn Richardson (Jack Spencer), and Miss Harlington (Mary) all do well.

BURY (LANCS).—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson and company are presenting a drama entitled Revenge here this week. The play is well staged, and very forcibly played by a capable company, including Mr. Hill Mitchelson, Mr. Wellesley Draper, Miss Violet Carlyle, and Miss Rosabel Dodd.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The Brothers Artois, acrobatic clowns head the bill, their performance being very clever. Augustine and Hartley, jumpers; Zenary Brothers, acrobats; Gertrella, trapeze artist; Frank Stephens, vocalist; Minnie Dorina, dancer; and the Greys, operatic vocalists, are all good turns.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. Broadhead, jun.—The Leotards, comical clowns, are clever; the Sisters Petram have a good exhibition of marionette figures; and Lottie Abbey, vocalist; Grogie the Sussex yokel; Fred Villiers, comedian; and Great Hughes, who exposes hypnotism, add to the attractions of the bill.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P.D.L.—Mr Arthur Bourchier's Co., under the direction of Messrs. Sylvanus Dauncey and Mr. V. Leveaux paid on Monday night a return visit with the successful play, The Walls of Jericho, this being the company's first appearance after the visit to Holland. Mr. Edward A. Warburton played Jack Frobisher in a commanding and manly way; Miss Amy Ravenscroft gave him great assistance as Lady Alethea, her rendering of the part being excellent in every detail; Mr. Alfred S. Barber made the most of Hanky Bannister; Mr. Cecil Brooking was also very good as the Marquis of Steventon; Mr. A. W. Tyrer played the thankless part of Harry Dallas remarkably well. Miss Nora Wynne made a charming Lady Lucy; Miss Helen Haye was most effective as Lady Westerby; Miss Jean Harkness (Miss Mornington); Miss Mary Weigall (Duchess of Skye); Miss Mary Brooke (Lady Parchester); and Miss Alice Myddleton (Miss Wyatt) were all thoroughly capable in their respective parts.

CARDIFF.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford. — Mr. Redford has opened his season well, Mr. George Dance's principal company appearing this week in The Orchid. Mr. Bertie Wright is undoubtedly the life and soul of the piece, and in his exceedingly amusing impersonation of Meakin causes much merriment. Mr. Alfred Bennett, as the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour, is particularly droll and quaint; Mr. William Benson gives a clever and humorous portrayal of the fire-eating Comte de Cassignat; Mr. Clarence Seaton submits a capital delineation of Mr. Chesterton; Dr. Faussett has a reliable exponent in Mr. C. Stone; and Mr. Harry T. Butler's performance of Zaccary is decidedly good. Charming impersonations of Lady Violet and Josephine Zaccary are given by Miss Chrissie Ralland and Miss Mamie Stuart; while Miss Florence Vic as Caroline Vokins, Miss Elsa Werner as Zelie Humbert, and Miss Ruby Garman as Thisbe, are captivating exponents of their respective rôles.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Bateman; Business-Manager, Mr. Reg. Grant.—The pantomime Cinderella is here for another week. Miss M. Sadie, as Prince Charming is accorded much praise, her delineation being one of the most attractive features of the production. Miss Cissy Wade is doing extremely well as Cinderella; and the same can be said of the other artists, who render such excellent service. The comedians are also proving a big draw, and are largely responsible for the excellent business which has been done during the pantomime stay.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—As a contrast to Madrall and his wrestling troupe of last week, we have the scientific style of the well-known jiu-jitsu wrestler, Tarro Myaki, whose performance has excited much admiration; Verno and Voyce present their latest song scenas with great success; the Wally-Hoste Trio are clever acrobats and jugglers; the Picquays do extremely well with their graceful and difficult acrobatics; Ryan and Hall fairly bring down the house by their amusing and clever performance; while Alburtus and Bartram excel as club experts. The Sisters Gasch, graceful athletes; Sybil St. Elmo, a charming and gifted vocalist; and Leona Dare, in her refined musical trapeze act, complete a programme of exceptional merit.

CARLISLE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Trustees of R. S. M'Kino; Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers.—Capital audiences have this week accorded a hearty welcome to Mr. George Dance's company in the popular comic opera, Veronique. Miss Rita Leonhardt, in the title-rôle, contributes a most attractive and clever performance; her delightful rendering of the musical numbers allotted to the part is bright and artistic, and has gained her hosts of admirers. Miss Florence Lee is a lively Agatha, and Miss Florence Aylwin as the Countess is heard to advantage in her songs, and also displays histrionic powers of high merit. Miss Mary Young has met with much success as Denise, acting with plenty of "go" and singing nicely. M. Coquenard is clevery portrayed by Mr. Ellis Holland, a comedian with a style quite his own, which suits the character admirably, and creates roars of laughter. Mr. Roland Bottomley is a good-looking and smart exponent of the hero, Florestan; his singing is most effective, and is enthusiastically aplauded. Mr. Jack Crichton as the Bailiff and Mr. Tom Shefford as the Groom are responsible for much merriment.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME. — Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Veitch; General-Manager, Mr. C. Algie.—Frank Hilbert, the handcuff expert, is the star turn here this week, and meets with great appreciation; Jack Pleasants has made himself a firm favourite; M. C. Ugo, the illusionist, meets with a good reception; Bert Lytton, the swell comique, gets a fair share of applause; Carl Lynn is a clever mimic; the Voldam Bros., eccentric Dutch acrobats, cause roars of laughter; and Pollo Jerome is a graceful gymnast; the Hippodrome pictures complete the bill.

CARMARTHEN.—ASSEMBLY ROOMS. — Proprietors, Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—Large and enthusiastic audiences greeted the appearance on Monday and Tuesday evenings of Mr. Lawrence Brough's original West-End company in the delightful farcical play The Lady of Ostend and The Cruise of the Saucy Sally. Mr. Lawrence Brough himself appeared as Le Baron de Longueville, and his performance of the Frenchman's part left nothing to be desired. Mr. Harry Hampson as Dick Whortles was irresistibly funny. Mr. Percy Marshall was admirable as Joseph Cadbury. Miss Kate Milford as Dorothy Whortles impersonated the part with much vim; and Miss Edith Ommandsen as Millie Grace enacted her part with grace and vivacity; Miss Dorcas Crosbie as Matilda Cazbury performed the rôle of the much-maligned mother-in-law excellently; Mr. Harold McNay made a droll Toby Knockitt; and Miss Stoke Edith in the title-rôle enacted her part capitally; Mr. Charles Groves, jun., as John Humbert; Mr. Hewson Elliott as Thompson; Miss Daisy Cook as Jane; and Mr. Ray L. Cody as James assisted in the success. On Tuesday evening The Cruise of the Saucy Sally was performed.

CASTLEFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Charles Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor H. Masterman.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company in The Love that Women Desire, are appearing here, and meet with a good reception. Mr. J. C. Stewart plays effectively as Squire Abingdon, whose son Richard is well embodied by Mr. C. Quinton Fulford. Mr. David G. Noble is commendable as Philip Carnaby; Mr. G. Carlton Wallace proves himself a clever artist by his excellent portrayal of Frank Hardy; Miss Lydia Donavon gains approbation as Sybil Thorburn, and Miss Alice N. Livesey is a praiseworthy Madge Abingdon; Mariquinha finds a satisfactory exponent in Miss Clarissa Bamford; Mr. E. Morris and Miss Maud Stuart cause genuine hilarity as Dennis O'Rourke and Pattie Swift respectively.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. George G. Ridley.—Mr. Frank Curzon's Sergeant Brue company is paying a very welcome return visit to the Royal. Mr. George Barrett (Crookie Scrubbs), Miss Constance Lait (Aurora Brue), and Violet Dene (Lady Bickenhall) repeat their excellent representations to everyone's satisfaction; while among the new members of the company we notice Mr. Percy Clifton, immensely popular as Sergeant Brue; Mr. Charles Hanbury, an energetic Michael Brue; Miss Constance Berkeley, a lively Daisy; and Mr. A. E. E. Edwards, an eccentric Mr. Crank.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Miss Marie Kendall tops the bill here, and proves as popular as ever. Steve McCarthy is applauded for his neat dancing; Mozarto's instrumental selections are well received; plenty of pathos is introduced into Mr. and Mrs. R. Royston Dene's sketch, His Birthday; and lots of fun in The Registry Office, played by Matt Wilkinson's company. Violet Beatrice, Irish comedienne, pictures by Lacey's Erascope, and character songs by George Edney complete the attractions.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. Frank J. Donne.—Here we have Beattie Kent, comedienne; Tom Collins, character comedian; Ada Vernon, burlesque actress; Mountford and Walsh, in a pleasing scena; Frank Cass, whose most successful ditty is "In Vanity Fair"; Jessica Grace, with a travesty on the coon song craze, in which she is ably assisted by a couple of smart lads; Joe O'Gorman, with patter, song, and dance, fairly brings down the house; while the concluding item comprises a number of interesting pictures projected by means of the Edisonograph.

CHELTENHAM.—OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company presented Dr. Wake's Patient on Monday evening. Mr. Douglas Vigors was dignified and human as the doctor; Miss Olive Terry played delightfully the part of the wayward yet lovable Lady Gerania; Mr. Alfred Wellesley and Miss Amy Fanchette as the doctor's parents—old Devonshire folk—made the most of their chances; Mr. Arthur Willoughby as the Earl of St. Olbyn was convincing; and Miss Ina Pelly as the heartless Countess was effective. Mr. Herbert Ross made an amusing Duff Wynterden, giving a clever and well-defined study of the good-natured man about town; Miss Harriett Webb was pleasing as Harriet Bronson; and Mr. Alfred Phillips as the Bishop of Selby; Miss Lidia Rachel as Mrs. Murdoch; Mr. H. L. Dobree as Mr. Murdoch; Miss Amy Townsend as the Gipsy, and Mr. Henry Martyn and Miss Dorothy Gordon as the farm servants, neatly sketched in their respective parts. The play is effectively mounted; the scenery being by Mr. Edmund G. Banks.

VICTORIA ROOMS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. B. Shenton.—Paul Vandy and his London company are here for two weeks. On Monday evening Mr. Victor Newman gave a thrilling impersonation of the late Sir Henry Irving as Mathias, and met with a very flattering reception. Vernando submitted a refreshingly original ventriloquial entertainment; Mr. J. McCann was responsible for an astounding exhibition of step-dancing, roller-skating, &c.; and the Bodina Trio and Miss Dora Barrington, mandolinists, banjoists, &c.; Mr. Paul Vandy in clever legerdemain; and a Bioscope entertainment complete the programme.

CHORLEY.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. G. T. Sante; Manager, Mr. J. Clay.—Messrs. Stillwell and Teulon's Company in the romantic drama The Branded Woman is paying a visit to the above theatre this week. Mr. James Stillwell in the dual rôle of Zarke and Philip Maurice shows considerable talent, his acting being greatly appreciated by the audience. The part of Geneviene Laroche, the Branded Woman, is well sustained by Miss Zana St. George. Miss Catharine Barrett, as Marie, and Miss Cissy Haighton, as Jaqueline, ably acquit themselves in their respective parts; as also do Mr. Edward Fryer, as Leon Baron Hauber, and Mr. Paul E. Toulon as Louis Duroc.

CLYDEBANK.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Bayne.—The attraction here this week is The Ugliest Woman on Earth, presented by Mr. Frederick Melville's Company. Miss Beatrice Homer sustains the title rôle in a manner worthy of high praise; Mr. Philip Darien as the hero, Jack Merriman, displays histrionic abilities; as the scheming Antonio Luchesi Mr. Charles Barrett has a part that fits him like a glove; Miss Margaret Wilson is highly successful as Usrita; Miss Agnes Denver submits a convincing reading of the adventuress, Rose Courtney; Mr. William Wallace gives a smart character sketch of Raggles, a loafer; Mr. Tubby Eblin, as Herrick, and Miss Nellie Jackson, as Aggie Brown, are responsible for much of the fun; Mr. Leyton Chancellor, as Hubert Gold, and Mr. Allan Devonport are also worthy of mention.

COATBRIDGE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Coatbridge Theatre Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Commins.—The Cragg's Congress of Comedians occupy the boards here this week with the musical-pantomimical absurdity Laughter Land, and on Monday evening the house was crowded. Mr. H. B. Lewis represents Professor Sylvanus Wood with great effect; Mr. Harry Rousby scores a big success as Dick Marlow; too much praise cannot be given to Mr. Cremorne Cragg for his admirable rendering of Billy; Mr. C. Edwards takes full advantage of his opportunities as Ald. Trentham; Mr. Dan Hardie is exceedingly happy in his impersonation of Squire Topsham; and as Archie Mr. S. Basil Reynolds meets with a good reception; Miss Amy Hastings deserves high commendation for her capable interpretation of Clarisse; and Miss Louise Millward acquits herself creditably as Clothilda. Specialities are introduced by the Sisters Belgrave, banjo duettists; the Cragge (six in number); Mr. H. B. Lewis and Mr. Harry Rousby in a catchy song, "Maiden fair and charming."

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—Mr. G. H. W. Burroughe's pantomime Sinbad, is here this week, and on Monday opened to a very good house. In the title-rôle Miss Louie Fuller is excellent; and as the dame Mr. H. G. Brandon is most efficient. Among the other male artists, Mr. Chas. J. Langton, Mr. Will Denny, Mr. Clarence Franks, Mr. Jack MacMahon, Mr. Fred Fuller, Mr Arthur Weston, Mr. J. Sanbrook, Mr. J. Graham, and Mr. Dick McKay are most noticeable, whilst the ladies include Miss Florence Barnes, Miss W. Hamilton, Miss May Gower, Miss Ada Langton, Miss Flo Spencer, and Miss Nellie Trevellian.

GRAND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Business-Manager, Mr. Ralph le Butt.—Prominent among the turns this week is a farce by Kitty Clover and Co., entitled Mistaken Identity; Harry and May Kent are a welcome item; Charles Clark scores as a character comedian; and a clever performance is that of Frobel and Ruge in an aerial act; Flo Banks, comedienne, and Harry Wenburn, comedian, well sustain their rôles; and the re-introduction of the biograph into the programme is greeted with acclamation.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Mr. Henry Swinerd's company is paying a return visit here this week with the musical comedy, Dare Devil Dorothy. Gerald Garston is being played by Mr. Walter Bryce, and Captain Geo. Fielding and Captain Edward Dudley are in the safe hands of Mr. Cecil W. Parke and Mr. Henry C. Wood respectively. Mr. Arthur Verne as Silas Crump, and Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith are exceedingly funny. Miss Norah Caronne is very pleasing as Ruth Montrose, and Miss Dorothy Desmonde is a charming Dorothy Montrose. Miss Nellie Harcourt in her song, "My Irish Molly" and her skipping-rope dance is deservedly applauded. Miss Dorothy Desmond is loudly encored for her song, "You're not the only rosebud," and her "Cuckoo" song.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company opened a fortnight's engagement here on Monday in Carmen. As Escamillo Mr. Lewys James was capital, his conception of the part being admirable; Mdlle. de Lussan as Carmen was as brilliant as ever, acting and singing with great charm; Mr. Joseph O'Mara as Don Jose was excellent in the part, his solos being heartily received; Miss Kate Anderson as Michaela was sympathetic. The other parts were well sustained, and the chorus and orchestra did good work. The Huguenots, Tannhäuser, Faust, The Marriage of Figaro, and Maritana are also in the répertoire.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—The programme here is up to the usual high standard. The Boccaccio Minstrels are singers and musicians of much excellence, Signor Francia being a remarkably skilled mandolinist; Gillin is a capital ventriloquist; Craig, Rose, and Craig, dental athletes, give a sensational turn; Miss Fanny Erris, as a character comedienne, does well; R. C. Note sings a number of popular songs; the Clement Trio of trapeze artists accomplish some clever feats; Volp and Cleveland delight the audience with selections on musical instruments; and Davis and Gledhill give an exciting turn in a sensational bicycle race around a miniature track.

COVENTRY.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Bennett.—The 10.30 Down Express, a stirring drama, played by Mr. Horace Stanley's company is paying a welcome return visit here this week. Mr. George Arthur, as the villain, James Inderwick, shows marked ability; while Mr. Charles Burdon succeeds admirably as the hero, Jack O'Malley; Mr. Claud Haviland makes a very clever detective, Huntley Mason; Mr. Arthur E. Francis as Bletherby Bags, the man in possession, is another well-sustained part; Miss Elsie Capel is pleasing in her rendering of Besse Leigh; Miss Clara Stanley is good in the difficult part of Olive Coombes; Miss Evelyn M. Walton ably fills the amusing part of Letitia Leigh; and Miss Kate Kilpack is successful as Peggy Potts.

THE HIPPODROME. — Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester.—A varied and capable company is drawing good houses to this place of amusement, amongst whom are the Eight Lancashire Lads, who prove to be talented singers and expert clog dancers; The Collinson Combination appear in a pleasing act entitled the Cook's Guest; J. C. Callaghan is a good comedian; The Camerons appear in a comedy duel entitled The Ploughman and the Lady Guide; Miss Florrie St. Clair, comedienne, Miss Gertie Gitana, a capable vocalist, Miss Beattie, comedienne, and Wallace Whitney, comedian, also contribute.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Driven from Home is being played here this week by Mr. Andrew Melville's company. Mr. Felix Pitt takes the rôle of Anthony Raybrooke in a pleasing and dignified manner, and Mr. Herbert Humphreys is seen to advantage as Walter Heatherleigh. Miss Frances Ruttledge gives a pleasing interpretation of Laura Raybrook, and Miss Florence Nelson is effective as Barbara Ashdown. Mr. Andrew Emm deserves special mention for his rendering of Willie, the outcast; and Mr. Fred Harker wins applause as Geoffrey Waring. Mr. Howard Tracey shows a careful study as George Clissold, as also does Mr. Geo. Lawrence as Peter Pettifer. The fun of the play is in the capable hands of Mr. H. Liddle as John Anderson and Miss Evelyn Marrable as Margaret Bailey. Miss Jessie Yatman is a capital little boy (Walter Hatherleigh), and Miss Florence Wilson deserve mention as Peggy.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor.—The pantomime, Babes in the Wood, is presented here this week by Messrs. C. St. John Denton and George Blunt's Company to large and enthusiastic houses. Miss Rose Dearing makes a charming principal boy; and Miss Dot Reeve is admirably suited to the part of Phyllis, a village maid; Miss Nora Doonen and Miss Marie Dunca make two very clever and pretty Babes; Mr. George Rowlands depicts the wicked Baron in really funny style; and Messrs. Myles and May make very amusing and eccentric robbers; Mr. Edwin Adeler convulses the house with his drolleries as the Dame, and as the Baron's page Mr. Tom Parker is responsible for a large amount of mirth. Specialities are introduced by Messrs. Myles and May, the Olympian Stars, and Mr. Tom Parker, all of whom are very successful.

CROYDON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. James; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Herrick.—The attraction here this week is East Lynne...Mr. Frank Stone is satisfactory as Archibald Carlisle; Mr. Ernest Edwards is excellent as Lord Mountsevern; Mr. Fred Morgan is well placed as Francis Levison; Mr. J. C. Manning deserves praise as Richard Hare; and Mr. James May is adequate as Lawyer Dill; Miss Marie De Ross is a sympathetic Lady Isabel; Miss Nell Gilmore is commendable as Cornelia Carlisle; Miss Minnie Grey is creditable as Barbara Hare; and Miss Lottie Moss is a suitable Joyce.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—Messrs. Haddon and Loader's pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk, is here this week. The company is a capable one. Miss Nellie Burdette, as principal boy Jack, well fills the part; Miss Rose Sylvester's singing is charming; Miss Rene Rennie, as the wicked Fairy, vocalises with great effect; the Sisters Poole are very charming dancers; Messrs. Grant and Allen cause much amusement in their eccentric business; Mr. H. A. Lonsdell, as the Giant, gives a wonderful performance; Mr. Dan Paulton as Squire Musty is amusing; Mr. James Laurier as Silly Billy is very droll; and the Sisters Florenca and the Alhambra Trio are clever in their speciality dances.

DARWEN. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. Loader; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—Drama is again the fare here, Messrs. Hill and Ayrton's company presenting The Gambler's Daughter to excellent houses. In the dual rôles of Mildred Grant and Miriam Grant Miss Adria Hill excels herself; Mr. Robert Ayrton as Desmond O'Dare gives a fine impersonation of an Irish character.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE. Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. C. Denley. Miss May Austine and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds are presenting this week The Golden Ladder. As the young missionary, Frank Thornhill, Mr. Harry Cullenford scores a distinct success; the Lilian Grand of Miss Ena Moss is equally praiseworthy; as Michael Severn, Mr. J. Milner Taylor is eminently satisfactory; and the Greek adventurer is capably accounted for by Mr. Graham Winsford. Samuel Peckaby has a capital exponent in Mr. Joseph Rowlands; Miss Nellie Graham receives adequate support as Mrs. Peckaby; and Mr. Hy. Delford extracts a good deal of fun out of Jim Dixon. Miss Kate Haselwood as Prisoner No. 2, Miss Jessie Gillette as Victoria, and Miss Holly Haselwood, a child actress; Mr. William Millward as John Grant, Mr. Wm. Clayton as Noah Learoyd, Miss Janet Wakeling as Rossomazy and Mr. Eric Thompson as Rao, also deserve special mention.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. A. Edwards; Assistant-Manager, Mr.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—The management here provides a rare treat this week in A Chinese Honeymoon, the whole being under the capable management of Mr. H. R. Matthews. The part of Hang Chow is in the capable hands of Mr. St. John Hamund; Mr. Jack Lisle ably represents the Lord High Admiral; Mr. L. B. Webster acted in dashing style as Tom Hatherton; Mr. Foster Courtenay as Mr. Pineapple works hard, presenting comedy that is irresistible; and a delightfully vivacious exponent of Mrs. Pineapple is found in Miss Poppie Wilkinson, who captivates all by her piquant acting and charming singing and dancing. Miss Edie Ross as the mother-in-law, Mrs. Brown, deserves praise; Miss Ada Watson as Soo-Soo acts throughout very prettily; and Miss Minnie Leslie plays in inimitable style as Fi-Fi the waitress, her every appearance being the signal for a roar. All the principal songs are heartily encored, and the piece is highly appreciated.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Edwards.—The Great Haydas, a troupe of comedy acrobats, head the bill with a performance of exceptional skill; Rezene and Robini keep the house convulsed during their clever and amusing double trapeze act; Spry and Monti introduce some capital dancing into a very enjoyable turn; Frank Boyce, character comedian, is scoring with some smart songs; Lilian Rigby delights with first-class music and dancing; a very acceptable turn is that of Dan Filmer, comedian and dancer; and Madge Roberts, comedienne and dancer; and Alfred Le Thomas, vocal comedian, complete the programme.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Perkins.—Mr. Esmonde Bramley's company of Shakespearean players are located here this week. Romeo and Juliet was efficiently presented on Monday. Miss Millie Ford gave a cleverly-enacted embodiment of Juliet; Miss Maude Garth made an excellent and stately Lady Capulet; Mrs. Bernard Parkin acted with skill the part of the Nurse; Mr. Cyril Este was an admirable Romeo, and at times his acting rose to a very high level indeed; Mr. Philip Gordon as Peter, Mr. F. Owen Chambers as Friar Lawrance, and Mr. Baliol Holloway as Mercutio gave most praiseworthy interpretations of their respective parts. The week's bill includes The Merchant of Venice, Hamlet, and Richard III.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—The New York Nippers, in their clever speciality act, Bedtime, are again delighting the audience here. Mr. Arthur Croxon gets a good reception for his clever imitations; G. Wilson returns with his exciting equilibrist act; and a fine programme also includes Miss Hetty Lee, Fifi Gordon, Jack Charman, vocalists; Albert Morrow, conjurer; and the Vernon animated pictures.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—The pantomime Dick Whittington has proved a very big draw. Mr. Pearce is a clever comedian; Mrs. Williams appears with great success as Alice; Miss Kathleen Emmet is still to the fore as Dick, and introduces "My Japanesy girl" with great success; Mr. Fred Collins is a big favourite as the Scotch Cook; Alveno and Cleo introduce a daring act on the swinging break-away ladder; and altogether the pantomime must be voted a popular success.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Mon-Tag-a-Ragra, an Indian hypnotist, gives a most amusing and instructive performance; Josef Yerinik challenges with success all comers in any style of wrestling; Mons. Tevelayan is a clever trick cyclist; and Otto Roseno is a successful mimic; Russel and Hatton are smart comedians; and Nellie Spenser, vocalist, Arabella Rose and Charley Morris, clog dancers, complete the bill.

DUNFERMLINE.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—Mr. Leslie Norman's company appeared here the first three nights of the week in A Trip to Chinatown. Mr. Harry Stuart is a capable exponent of Welland Strong; Mr. Edward De Vere makes a capital Ben Gay; Mr. Oswald Grey is well placed as, and sings well, as Rashleigh Gay; Mr. Leonard May does justice to the character of Slavin Payne; Miss Hettie Gale is a vivacious and fascinating Mrs. Guyer, singing and dancing well; and Miss Lake Grange is a very clever Flirt. Mr. J. Clifford Wright and company appeared the latter part of the week.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. Standen Triggs.—During the first part of the week Mr. Harold V. Neilson's company is appearing here in A Doll's House. As Nora Helmer Miss Amy Sangster scores quite a triumph; her work generally is worthy of the highest praise, and in the last act she displays commendable grip and judgment. Miss K. M. Romsey is a gentle and very effective Mrs. Linden, and Miss Marguerite Romney a homely, pleasing Anna. Mr. Courtenay Thorpe is again a very fine Torrald, giving a clever and polished performance. Mr. Lionel Atwill is an excellent Doctor, and plays with much appreciation of the part. Mr. Harold Neilson is a well-defined Krogstad. During the latter part of the week A Maker of Men, The Light that Failed, and Cousin Jo were billed.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Experimentally a melodrama is being offered to the patrons here, and Miss Maud Hildyard and company are appearing in The Great Awakening. Miss Maud Hildyard has established her right to be considered one of our leading actresses in melodrama, and as Lola Selby she fully maintains her reputation. A willowy form, clothed in brilliant raiment, a gliding grace and a seductive manner, all combine to make her performance a startling and effective one. Miss Isa Bellington as Selina Worts is the source of much fun, and Miss Jessie Burgwitz is a satisfactory Molly Merton. Mr. Charles Vivian submits a powerful and well-defined portrait of James Selby; Mr. Bernard Copping does skilful work as Sir Henry Merton and Jack Merton; Mr. Julian Hartleigh is a capital villain as Guy Loganne; and Mr. Willie Scott provides the comic element in liberal quantities as Billy Brass. Mr. James E. Page is a very good Richard Wilson; Mr. Tracy Barrow is an animated Antoine; and Mr. Charles Fancourt a satisfactory Captain Lambert. The scenery, dresses, and staging generally are of the best.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—The top-of-the-bill item is certainly a novelty here. Colossus (weighing 36 stone), and L'Homme (34lb.) are objects of admiration and wonder. Messrs. Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls' company creates roars of laughter with the sketch, The Battle of the Belles; the Stavordale Quintette contribute a very meritorious musical turn; Miss Jenny Belmore is quickly a favourite with the audience in her songs; Mr. Andy Higginson scores with his up-to-date songs; Miss Edna Payne succeeds in her male impersonations; Mr. Martell amuses as a small comedian; and the bioscope pictures complete the bill.

EDINBURGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—The pantomime, The Forty Thieves, is wonderfully popular here. The mixture of beautiful scenery, excellent acting, and good music has drawn all the town, and the piece seems to run with as much vitality as it did at its early performances. Miss Ruth Lytton has proved to be a most fascinating principal boy, and her acting has lost none of its vigour or brightness. Miss Rhoda Gordon's pleasing impersonation of Morgiana is another capital bit of work, and Miss Molly Maguire's Fairy Sesame is also a graceful and easy performance, in which admirable singing is a feature. Mr. Tom E. Murray, Mr. M. S. Rigg, Mr. Henry Claff (a cultured singer), Mr. Ernest Rees, and other members of the cast work heartily together towards the general success.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull.—Mr. George Edwardes's company made an instantaneous success here on Monday in The Little Michus. The house was crowded and the audience enthusiastic. The melodious music of M. André Messager was admirably interpreted, and the opera was staged with the completeness of all Mr. Edwardes's productions. Mr. Eric Thorne as General Des Ifs was in excellent form, and played with immense comic force. His business was extremely humorous, his byplay thoroughly entertaining, and his speeches were delivered in irresistibly amusing style. The audience roared with laughter while he was on the stage and followed his exits with the heartiest applause. That sterling comedian, Mr. Jack Cannot, had in Bagnolet a part to which he did complete justice. His acting was funny, his dancing—frequently encored—was dexterous, and his singing was admirable. Mr. Leonard Mackay displayed his fine baritone voice to advantage in the music allotted to the character of Aristide Vert, and acted with quiet humour; Mr. Arthur Royd sang and played with credit as the young officer, Gaston Rigaud; Mr. Eardley Turner was happily cast as Pierre Michu; and Mr. Willie Wardo, jun., was a quaintly funny market man. The little Michus—Blanche Marie and Marie Blanche—had very charming representatives in Miss Iris Hoey and Miss Mabel Green. These young ladies acted with delightful grace and sweetness, and sang with taste and expression. Miss Lenora Braham was a bright and pleasant Madame Michu, and a word of praise is due to the capital sketch of a market woman by Miss Adeline Lester. Miss Ivy Louise, as Mdlle. St. Cyr, gave two solo dances with a daintiness and beauty that aroused the enthusiasm of the audience. Subordinate parts were filled with spirit by several young and pretty girls, gowned in the picturesque dresses of the Empire period. The chorus and orchestra did well under the direction of Mr. Harold Vicars.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Eade Montefiore.—Mr. Montefiore has added another to his many successes in the pantomime Aladdin. The piece is still running merrily before crowded and delighted audiences, who are abundantly satisfied with the feast of good things provided for them. Songs and dances are cheerful, quaint, happy, and the humour of the actors, headed by Mr. Walcroft, the Scottish comedian, finds full scope. Mr. Montefiore must be congratulated upon the production of a spectacle which contains so much that is undoubtedly enjoyable, whether as regards the art of the actor or the warmth and colour of the scenic effects.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. J. Cawood.—Quality is by no means overlooked in the quantity of items included in this week's bill. The most prominent turns include an amusing demonstration in electricity and hypnotism by Dr. Carl Hermann, the extraordinary aquatic feats of Mr. James and Miss Marie Finney, excellent singing by Miss Florrie Gallimore, and the Four Coloured Meisters, and some very mirthful diversions by the Brothers Leslie. A clever display of acrobatic dancing is given by the Three Amaranths; smart trapeze performances are successfully carried through by Lydia and Albino and by the Hans Hansen Trio; Princess Pauline proves herself a dashing comedienne; Mr. Barney Vox is a good ventriloquist; and some enjoyable singing as well as expert dancing is provided by Mr. Billy Hobbs, the Three Bostonians, and the Sisters Neilson.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. John Henry Cooke.—An excellent programme of equestrian and variety turns, including a graceful act by Miss Marie and Miss Edina Moika, and the Four Watsons in their society sketch, followed by the exciting Arctic spectacle, Lapland, continues to attract good houses to this popular place of amusement. The enterprising veteran manager never fails to cater well for his patrons, and the present entertainment is a signal addition to the successes of many seasons past. Some important changes in the bill are announced for the coming week, when a big spectacular novelty will be introduced.

EDMONTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Joseph L. S. Moss; Manageress, Mrs. H. B. Moss.—On Monday, Miss Winifred Maude's company, under the direction of Mr. Victor Du Cane, opened with The Sins of a City. Miss Winifred Maude impersonated the heroine, Seaweed (afterwards known as Nora), in a charming and graceful manner, and Sandy McDonald was capitally played by Mr. Royce Carleton. As Donald McIvor, Seaweed's adopted father, Mr. Edward Finlay was all that could be desired. Mr. Victor Du Cane acquitted himself admirably as Isaac Levi. He acted with finish and sound discretion, and his dresses were all well chosen. In the dual parts of Joe Woodleigh and Jasper Woodleigh (twin brothers) Mr. Norton Shields worked hard, and was quite successful. The part of Ralph Blackwater, K.C., was safe in the capable hands of Mr. Arthur E. Pringle, and another K.C. (Mr. Williams) was well played by Mr. Marton. Mr. Wilbrague was sufficiently important as the Judge; Miss Amy Corallie, who plays Midge, the servant of Jasper Woodleigh, greatly pleased the audience not only by the manner in which she interpreted the part, but by her singing and dancing also. Other characters were capitally played by Miss Jessie Mason, Miss Marie Lyons, Miss Lily Mason, Mr. W. E. Simpson, Mr. Yale, and Mr. Reginald Green.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—The pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk, concludes a most successful run this week. It has drawn crowded and appreciative houses each night, and the company has given every satisfaction. Miss Bessie Allayne as Jack, and Mr. Harry Buss as Dame Durden, have been popular from the first; Miss Allayne has a very nice voice, and Mr. M. Buss is an excellent comedian. The Sisters Leigh are graceful dancers, and their songs are good. The other comedians, Professor Phlibinite (Mr. E. W. Laceby), the MacHagges (Mr. H. A. Griffiths), and Messrs. Esmond and Verona have ably assisted Mr. Buss, and have caused much laughter. The singing and dancing of the other members of the company have given unbounded satisfaction, and the pantomime has gone with a capital swing throughout. Captain Max Gruber, with his performing elephant, horse, and pony is the speciality this week.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—The stage at this cosy little house was occupied on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday by Mr. E. Lockwood's company in the successful musical comedy Sergeant Brue. The title rôle is admirably filled by Mr. Paddy Dupres. Mr. C. M. Logan as Crookie Scrubbs was also responsible for much of the amusement. As Aurora Brue Miss Lilian Middleton scored a success by charming and animated acting. Mr. Crank found a capable exponent in Mr. Henry Chichester, and Mr. E. Percy Rogers as Michael Brue. Miss Midge Clark as Lady Bickenhall, Miss Elina Earle as Daisy, Miss Aileen Macdonald as Mabel Widget, and Miss Vera St. Claire as Eva Graham are deserving of special mention. Mr. Geo. Edwardes's company, with the Gaiety success, The Toreador, filled the bill the remainder of the week.

FLEETWOOD.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—This week Mr. Bert Rutlev's company is paying a return visit with An English Belle, described as a pantomimic burlesque. Miss Ida Dorrie is a dashing Jolly Jack; and Miss Gertie Wasley, a winsome Alice Oakfield, renders several songs in a pleasing manner. Miss Stella Sanger gives a good character sketch of Mrs. Oakfield; Mr. Bert Rutley, as Squire Hardacre, has a part which suits him to a nicety; Mr. Harry Hunter is exceedingly funny as Consul, and he is ably assisted by Mr. Will Redmond as Sunny Jim. Mr. Jas Christie is well placed as the Rajah. Several entertaining specialities are introduced in Act II., including Miss Lizzie Levaine, a pleasing coon singer and dancer; Mr. Will Redmond, bone soloist; Mdlle. Zarina, acrobatic contortionist; and the Three Cheers in Dick Whittington.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—This week's attraction is supplied by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in The Freedom of Suzanne. Miss Beatrice Lindley (a native of Folkestone) is entirely successful in the title-rôle, which she enacts with much spirit and charm; Mr. Percy D. Standing, as Charles Trevor, gives a pleasing impersonation; Mr. F. G. Thurstans is equally successful, and causes fun as Fitzroy Harding; Mr. William Mallalieu as Sir Horace Hatton is exceedingly good; Mr. Townsend Whitling as Lord Datchet fills the part with ability; Mr. Edward Bonfield as Lord Cecil gives a neat portrayal; Mr. Archie Selwyn's Tommy Keston is well played; Lady Charlotte is capitally acted by Miss Emily Patterson; Miss Violet Ley is charmingly natural as Lady Isabel; Miss Annie Stalman makes the most of Mrs. Tustal; Mrs. Mallalieu and Miss Charlotte Mead must be commended for the skilful rendering of their respective parts.

TOWN HALL.—Lessee, Mr. E. J. Chadwick.—Mr. C. W. Poole's combination of amusements are here this week delighting large audiences. Miss Daisy Graham scores a success with her collection of birds; Little Doretta is a smart acrobatic dancer; Harry Stewart, Protean artist, receives applause; Kitty Woodford's canine circus and orchestra is a novel and interesting turn; the Avondale Quartette makes a hit; Leonard and Mac, comedians, show marked ability; and Cecil F. Couper, as the guide and descriptive vocalist, leaves nothing to be desired. The animated pictures are good; and the orchestra is under the efficient conductorship of Mr. A. S. Morrell.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Arthur Carlton Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Kirk.—Mr. Thos. Mackenzie's company (by arrangement with Mr. Lockwood) appeared here for three nights last week in Sergeant Brue. Mr. Harold Carson gave an amusing impersonation of the title-rôle; Mr. Albert James, as Crookie Scrubbs, was excellent; and Miss Elsie Molloy as Lady Bickenhall and Miss Gertie Fawcett as Aurora were charming. Mr. Frank Wilson sang well as Michael Brue; and the rest of the characters were capably played. The chorus was well-balanced and the scenery and costumes were pretty.

GATESHEAD.—KING'S THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—The Sailors of the King is the attraction here this week. Mr. Charles Harrington is seen to advantage in the part of Admiral Drake; Mr. Harry Douglass is a convincing Dick Drake; Orrel Drake, a villainous naval chaplain, is successfully portrayed by Mr. F. Vernon Travers; an admirable piece of acting is that submitted by Mr. Walter Farnsworth, who plays Rufford Dent; Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., is very amusing as Barnet Fair; a like remark being applicable to Mr. Fred Owen, who portrays Harris Wilkinstein; Miss Sylvia Stela creates a good impression as Felicia Phrynne; Miss Maud Digby is sufficiently replusive as Rebecca Crosby; Daisy Dent is excellently impersonated by Miss Hero Hathway.

METROPOLE THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—At this house, Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard are presenting, with great success, the romantic play The Midnight Wedding. Mr. Paumier submits a powerful impersonation of Paul Valmar, and is the recipient of loud applause; the Crown Prince receives full justice at the hands of Mr. Fred W. Freeman; Mr. Clinton Baddelely makes a villainous Captain Von Scarsbruck, and is ably assisted in his vile schemes by Lieutenant Eugene von Strelsburg, a part capitally played by Mr. Sidney Lynn. Mr. W. S. Hardy is successful in the small part of Father Gerrard. In the lighter parts of the play Messrs Fred Constable Reginald Payne, and Algie Spalding, as Max, Otto and Bobe, do well in their respective parts. In Miss Annie Saker is found an admirable actress for the part of Princess Anstrea; Miss Ada Champion is a very lively Kathie; Miss Florence Hunt as Satanella and Miss Prudence Laurence as Marie play their parts satisfactorily.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon. Acting-Manager, Mr. M. S. Smith.—The attraction here is Mr. Walter Reynolds's new play, Mr. Smith. In the title-part Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart scores a big success; as the Earl of Oxted, Mr. Sidney Price gives a good account of himself; Mr. William Dunlop's impersonation of the Duke of Angleland is complete in every way; Herr Diedrich Anheuser is in the capable hands of Mr. Herbert Bentone; as the Duchess of Angleland, Miss Mary Relph is seen to great advantage; Miss Phyllis Relph is a charming Ruth Anheuser; Mrs. Alfred Davis acquits herself creditably as Mrs. Smith; Lady Mary Hildergate is successfully impersonated by Miss Ethel Milton.

GLASGOW.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphrys.—Aladdin continues to cram the Royal nightly to its utmost capacity, and the advance booking is strong. Mr. Harry Lauder, Mr. Dan Crawley, Misses Bessie Featherstone, Alice Russon, Birdie Sutherland, and Jose Collins, and Messrs. Barrett and Knowles, in their respective parts, have combined to make one of the biggest successes the Royal has ever had.

ROYALTY, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is revisiting this city for a few weeks in the gay and tuneful comedy, Lady Madcap. The bright particular star of the company is still Miss Marie Studholme, in the part of Lady Betty. Miss Nina Sevening's Gwennie Holden is also a lady of considerable charm; and the parts of Mrs. Layton and Susan are attractively filled by Miss Ethel Griffies and Miss Mabel Russell respectively. Mr. J. Robert Hale sustains the part of Bill Stratford with fine, breezy humour; and in the hands of Mr. Oliver J. Round the character of Posh Jenkins becomes quite a study; a skilful delineation of Count de St. Hubert is given by Mr. Ernest Mahan; Mr. Arthur Longley's Oroya Brown causes much amusement; and Mr. E. Statham Staples is well-suited as Corporal Ham. Distinctive military types are seen in the Colonel Leyton of Mr. W. E. Richardson, the Major Blatherswaite of Mr. B. H. Eustace, and the Captain Harrington of Mr. J. Edward Fraser; while the parts of Lord Framlingham and Palmer are characteristically portrayed by Messrs. Henry Latimer and Douglas Munro.

KING'S THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Little Red Riding Hood continues to meet with undiminished popularity. As Red Riding Hood, Miss Phyllis Monkman has established herself as a favourite; Miss Margaret Ruby, with her taking style, wins a host of friends. The comedians, Messrs. Malcolm Scott, George Le Clerq, Ben Brown, Fred Gray, Harry Grell, Will Cutler, and Arthur Ricketts, fill their respective parts with credit. Miss Dorothy Monkman as Bo Peep is most successful; and the clever dancing of the Tiller Girls is still one of the best items in the production.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Judging by the attendance, the interest taken in Simple Simon seems to be on the increase. Miss Esta Stella is now an established favourite; the Sisters Hall and Miss Lily Lingard are greatly appreciated. Plenty of humour is also provided, Messrs. Lawrence Barclay, Larry Lewis, and Jack Lorimer being the chief purveyors in this line. The dresses and scenery are pretty and effective, and new songs and business are being added whenever opportunity offers.

GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Mascard.—This week sees the close of the run of Aladdin, and this bright and enjoyable pantomime, which has held the boards here since November, will soon be but a memory. Miss Carrie Moore's Aladdin has brought her hosts of admirers; and the Biddy of Miss Ada Blanche, the Princess of Miss Kathleen Courtney, and the lively "second boy" of Miss Rosie Begarnie, have all been of special merit. The comedians, too, have proved their ability, and Messrs. Charley Harvey, Alfred Beers, and Alfred Clarke are assured of a hearty welcome on their next visit. Mr. Arthur Sutcliffe's singing as Pekoe has also been a feature.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Mr. and Mrs. William Maclaren's company is here this week with the interesting play, Proof, in which Mr. F. H. De Quincey sustains with fine effect the part of the hero, Pierre Lorance. Miss Lucy Pritty Tydd gives a good rendering of Madeline in the prologue and of Adrienne in the drama. The part of Valentine is powerfully acted by Miss May Grimshaw. A word of praise is due to Miss Ellina Turner for her charming rendering of the little girl Adrienne in the prologue; Mr. William Dexter satisfactorily portrays the villainous Lazare; Mr. Wilford Bailey imparts some enlivening comedy to the part of Chamboran; pleasantly picturesque representations are those of Madame Duprets by Miss Phena Powell, and the Duchesse D'Aubeterre by Miss Dorothy White.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Govan playgoers are this week revelling in their second pantomime, which is Mr. Milton Bode's Puss in Boots, after its successful season in Aberdeen and Dundee. Miss Gladys Warren as Colin makes a handsome and striking principal boy, with a taking style, and her songs are rendered with special animation and appreciation of their possibilities; Miss Janet H. Reynolds is a sprightly Princess Joy, sings well, and dances neatly, and ably helps in the general success. The comedians are a lively lot, headed by Mr. Tatten Hall, whose King Crabbus is a most amusing personation; while Mr. Harry Bickley as Dame Shortly, afterwards the Queen, is screamingly funny in every scene. Mr. Leo Sterling makes a comical Rumphiz, and, in addition to his share in the fun, gives a very clever musical turn; Mr. Tommy Nelldon as Muggles is most versatile, and in his numerous make-ups, and with his command of the Scotch, he soon establishes himself a favourite; Miss Marie Reeve is a smart Prince Rudolph, and her coon song and dance was enthusiastically encored; Miss Grace Langley as Phyllis also shares the honours in song and dance; Mr. Barry Gilmore makes a clever Puss in Boots, and his acrobatic antics are clever and enjoyable.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Mussett.—The Grigolati's Flying Ballet is at the top of the bill here, and the flights are as wonderful as they are graceful, while the lighting effects are marvellous in their beauty; Jan Rudenyi, the Hungarian violinist, shows his skill in three diversified and difficult selections; Frank Seeley's eccentric humour keeps the audience in roars of laughter; Edie King contributes a clever Cinderella scena, introducing some very neat dancing; Poole and Poolo are a clever couple of eccentric dancers, who are also well received; the Sarnthaler Troupe of Tyrolean singers and dancers give an enjoyable turn; Griffin and Judge are smart acrobats, and their jumping feats are extremely good. The Debreans, Japanese jugglers; Vi and Ethel Esdaile, as dancers; and the bioscope complete a fine programme.

ZOO-HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The principal attraction here is the engagement of the well-known basso profundo, Lemprière Pringle, assisted by Scott Russell, in an excerpt from Gounod's opera Faust. Both artists had a good reception. Nellie Coleman gives impersonations of different characters in her own funny style; a good turn is submitted by Dome, the expert clay-modeller; while the dancing of the Northern Troupe is much enjoyed. The other members include the Four Ramlos, whirling comedians; Alice May and company, sketch artists; Celest, wire marvel; American Comedy Four; Ruth Molloy, clever mimic; and animated pictures by Hippodrome Bioscope.

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—Richard Sawade's lions, bears, tigers, &c, provide a star turn here of special merit; the Serenaders give an enjoyable musical turn, combining humour, song, and dance; the Tups are an amusing couple of comedy acrobats; the St. Johns again give their clever musical act, and also prove themselves step-dancers of much ability; Little Barney's quaintly comic style is effective; Frank Seeley ably deputises for an absent turn. Edie Veno, in lively coon song and sand dance; Lily Lenora as a Spanish dancer; and the bioscope complete a varied and enjoyable entertainment.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rich Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. McKelvie.—A first-rate variety company is the draw this week, in which good dancing turns are a strong line. Ford and Barris are musicians of ability, and give a varied selection of popular airs and clever dances; Mr. J. C. Morris is a comedian of ability; and a musical entertainment by Les Tafonas is of pleasing quality. Two able singing comedians, dancers, and patterers are Tennyson and Wallis, and they evoke hearty laughter, and secure much applause; Miss Nellie Chandos gives dances of the "rag time" order, and is in great request; the sand dancing of Hughes and Elliott delights those with a leaning to this branch of the art of terpsichore; the Hendres are clever young jugglers, and vary a pleasing performance with a display of club-swinging; extraordinary somersaulting is the feature of the Brothers Martine's contribution; and the bioscope pictures are good.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lyodd.—The top of the bill is taken up by Paul Martinetti and company, in the clever sketch, entitled A Duel in the Snow; and the King's College Boys give selections from opera and comedy. Tennyson and Wallis, comedians, are prime favourites; Joe Archer, comedian, has made a decided hit; and the Kentucky Trio, jugglers, are well received. The rest of the company include Mollie Doon, comedienne; the Falcons, in comedy act; and Chicago Girls, dancers and acrobatic experts.

QUEEN'S.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. T. J. Colquhoun and Barney Armstrong.—Mr. John Tiller's No. 1 company is here in the pantomime of Red Riding Hood. In the name part, Miss May Merry invests the rôle with engaging brightness; and an able and clever coadjutor is Miss Violet Palfrey as Boy Blue. As Dame Crump, Mr. Howard Ward is a clever comedian, and sustains well the humour of the piece; Miss Bessie Cohen is a pretty Prince Charming; and subsidiary parts, all, however, very well enacted, are embodied by Misses Edna Morgan, Maud St. John, Lily Bevin, Florence Leonard, Daisy Palfrey, and Cissy Walker. Mr. H. M. Morgan makes a deal of Algernon; and Mr. C. G. Calvert scores as Redfangs. Pleasing variety is introduced by the Excelsior Troupe of children and the Poppy Quartette in the several scenes. Mr. Ted Gibbs as Johnnie Green and Mr. Harry Elliston as Johnnie Stout are responsible for considerable fun.

HARMONIC CONCERTS.—Musical Secretary, Wm. Biggam.—Large and delighted audiences were drawn to this association's concerts, the leading attraction being Mr. W. F. Frame, the genial and popular Scotch comedian. Mr. J. M. Hamilton's tenor songs were a genuine treat; violin solos were played by Mr. Holroyd Paull; the Smith Family and the Murray Troupe in a series of national dances; Mr. W. E. Hilton, the Scottish Valentine Vox; Miss Clara A. Butter, well-sung ballads; Mr. Tony Black, Scotch comedian; and Mr. Archie Jack, descriptive vocalist; Lindsay and Harte, in the laughable sketch, The Scotchwoman and the Heiress, completed a first-rate entertainment.

GLOSSOP.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Mr. A. E. Smith's pantomime Aladdin is making a week's stay. On Monday evening the popular parts of the house were crowded, and the performance was in every way satisfactory. Mr. J. H. Maxwell as Abanazar scores on all occasions; Mr. Edward Raymond as Emperor of China, and Mr. Frank Wheatcroft as Grand Vizier are very good; Mr. Fred Ramsdale as Widow Twankey is excruciatingly funny; Nab'em and Catch'em, in the persons of the Brothers Astley raise the harmless, necessary laugh; Miss Edith Wallis, a charming Aladdin, is recalled for good renditions of up-to-date songs; Miss Vera Ray, as Princess Balroulbadour, scores a success; and Miss Marie Walker, Geni of the Lamp; and Miss Edna Vincent, Geni of the Ring, are praiseworthy. In the Palace scene good specialities are given by Miss Ray Anderson, top-boot dancer; Mr. J. H. Maxwell, big boot dancer and hat-spinner; Madame Helen Godfrey, instrumentalist; Mr. Bob Padley, contortionist; Miss Marie Walker, trombone player; and the Silverdale Troupe of lady dancers. The scenery is pretty, and the mechanical effects are excellent.

GLOUCESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole.—Mr. Geo. Testo Sante and company are this week playing here in the drama The Life of a Showman, which is chiefly written round Mr. Sante's strong acts. He plays the part of Brien Leader in a capable manner. The scheming Hendrick Marais is excellently enacted by Mr. Logan Darra, and Agatha Winter is well represented by Miss Amy McNeill. Mr. Edward Warden makes a good Rev. Cyril Arliss and Master Harry Warden and Miss May Warden enact the juvenile characters of Dickie and Lynette respectively with much skill. Mr. Charles Osborne is noticeable as Sir Noel Hartland. The comedy element is well provided by Miss May Neilson as Angelina Mutton, Mr. Frank Sante as Tommy Allthere, and Mr. Ernest Turner as Ben Tic-Tac. In Act II. the Brothers Testo successfully appear as musical acrobatic clowns, and Mr. Geo. Sante's strong performances win loud applause.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. John E. Tomlinson.—This week we have a visit from Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's Co. in the Anglo-Indian drama, A Traitor Prince. The company was accorded a hearty reception from a well-filled house on Monday night. Mr. G. M. Montanini as Prince Rao Dalmirez is conspicuous in his assumption of this trying rôle. The part of Lieutenant Frank Derrick is excellently rendered by Mr. Victor Rae; Mr. Alfred Selwood makes an amusing Bobby Bright; Mr. Ernest A. Duval in the dual rôle of Colonel Vane and Richard Vane, acts with conviction and power; Mr. Francis Everard submits a well-defined sketch of Cora; Mr. Jerold E. Reed is a capital Hon. Bobby; Miss Rose Routledge is to be complimented on her rendering of Lola Vane; Miss Nita Langford as Vashti acts with all the cynicism which the part demands; and Miss Kitty Thomas as Pansy Blossom, Miss Clara O'Grady as Mrs. Martha Blossom, and Miss Ethel Bateman as Gertie De Vere are also worthy of special mention. The admirable scenery used in the drama adds considerably to the success. On Thursday the company presented A Beautiful Fiend.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—The attraction for the week is the pantomime Puss-in-Boots, the scenery and dressing of which are exceedingly pretty. Messrs. Lauri and Ellis make the most of the comic side of the rôles of Marmaduke and his Queen; Princess Pansy is charmingly represented by Miss Kitty Courtney; Miss Mabel Murray is effective as Jilbert; Mr. George De Lara and Mr. Fred Tenaur provoke roars of laughter as Blinky Bill and Jaunty Joe; Mr. Reuben Kitchen makes a capital Cat; Miss Lillie Vine sings well as Cupid; the Rosie-Rice Quartette of dancers win loud applause for their clever dancing.

GREENOCK.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Bright.—This week we have Mr. Arnold Bell's company with Ben My Chree. Mr. Arnold Bell gives a capital representation of Dan; and Mr. Cuthbert Imrie makes an excellent Bishop; Mr. John Belton is an able exponent of Ewan Mylrea; and the part of the Deemster is well filled by Mr. Frank Carlile; Mr F. C. Robson submits a capital piece of acting as the Governor; Mr. H. Glenville does well as Davy Fayle; and Mr. Joe Bardsley is good as Hommey-Beg. Miss Lillian Earle, a charming heroine, acts very gracefully, and the other parts are all in capable hands.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—The principal turn here is Nelson's Newsboys, who sing and dance smartly. Other good turns are Harry Kardoc, handcuff king; Cinizelli, comedian; Millie Denham, burlesque actress; Rex and Ford, comedians; and the Bromleys, in a musical entertainment entitled, The Music Master.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Palace Theatre (Greenock) Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Slingsby.—Hardeen, handcuff king, heads the bill here and gives a clever, and interesting performance. Other members of a good company are Edith St. Claire, vocalist and burlesque actress; Little Harry, vocalist and comedian; Mamie Cannon, mimic; Marco, juggler; the Goldens, jugglers and equilibrists; and J. W. Hall, comedian.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The annual pantomime commenced its

J. Henry Rogers depict admirably the respective parts of George Harris and Legree; Mr. Walter Langford is most amusing as Marks. Miss Annie Watson as Topsy is a decided success, her antics being most amusing; Little Minnie as Eva plays with much effect. The songs, chorus, hymns, &c., are sung with good effect.

GRAND.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—Mr. G. Ginnett this week is presenting his capital sketch, Dick Turpin, which is well received. The horses used are most intelligent. The Eskimo Troupe are seen in a smart turn, consisting of dancing, singing, conjuring, and acrobatic business; the Lyons Trio are paying a return visit in their clever and diverting pantomimical sketch; Keir and Allen are amusing in their eccentric boxing act; Little Queenie May sings her songs charmingly; Juan and McQne are a capable pair of comedians; and the Grand pictures are as usual capital. This week we are shown a film depicting the Sultan of Morocco and his Army.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock.—The Harrogate Amateur Dramatic and Operatic Society on Tuesday presented Planquette's comic opera, Rip Van Winkle, a piece which has never been before played in Harrogate. It is a novel and daring experiment for amateurs. Messrs. B. J. Simmons and Co. have dressed the opera in their usual artistic and capable manner, and the special scenery by Egerton and Co., of Bradford, was greatly admired. Mr. George Musgrove, the musical director, undoubtedly added materially to the success of the piece by the capable and energetic way in which he performed his duties.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—Undoubtedly one of the most gorgeous and brilliant sights ever witnessed on a Hartlepool stage is The Palace of Orpheus, with its myriads of electric lights, pretty dresses, novel instruments, and effective music. The Sisters Russell, old favourites, come in for a flattering welcome, and their performance fully deserves it. A sketch that is exceptionally funny and smartly worked is Aunt Matilda, as played by Frank Elliston and company; Yorkshire Tom's imitations are good; the Two Romers characteristic speciality Romers, are also renewing their acquaintance, and successfully too, with an Empress audience. A chic and pretty dance is executed by Jolly Criss Cross, comedienne and dancer; Florence Platt's songs, with their acompanying illustrations, are attractive; and some new pictures on the Bioscope are also on the programme, which is supplemented by a cycling show by the Elliotts at the first house Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Smith.—On Monday Mr. Peter Davey's pantomime company in Puss in Boots opened a week's visit here. Miss Marie Kildare made a success as Juan, the hero of the story. Mr. Arthur White as Gimalkin was very natural, and put in some good contortion business. The Princess was daintily played by Miss Nellie Groves. King Komilfo supplied much merriment, being quaintly played by Mr. Wyn Weaver. Mr. Arthur Royce proved a good comedian as Donna Dolores; Mr. Ernest Noble was quaint as Bilbalio; and Messrs. Eugene and Willie are diverting as the bull, and also contribute a clever turn as musical acrobats. The principal danseuse, Miss Dollie Shaw, was responsible for a clever pas seul; Perdita, the fairy had an attractive representative in Miss May Hollom; Miss Maud Brockwell was a pleasing Lola; and Messrs. Leslie Digby and Reginald Ring assisted effectively as Sancho and Pancho. Mr. R. Entwistle stage-managed, and the scenery was very good. the "Apotheosis of Pussy" being a very effective stage picture.

PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—A Wrecker of Men, as produced on the pier, is a well-staged drama. Mr. C. Watson Mill gives a fine characterisation to the part of the Burglar; Railton has an excellent exponent in Mr. Gilson Brooke; Mr. Milner Noble's Pharosaphus the Egyptian is a telling impersonation; Mr. Percy Horton, as Guise Strange, is a well-studied part; Miss Cissy Podmore gives a charming rendering of Dorris Melville; the acting of Miss Rosaline Tate, as Risca Mallison, shows all the piquancy which the character demands.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Ewing.—A good selection of artists occupy the boards this week. Saxo is clever on a variety of instruments; Mr. Charles Bignell sings a good comic song; Cavern and Cave introduce an amusing sketch, A Morning Dip; Mr. Harry Henrick keeps his audience in good humour by his droll patter; an excellent pianist is found in Miss Adey Spencer, who is also a pleasing singer; the Illumino Statuo is a lady represented as a statue, who vocalises amid electric and floral effects; Kisbey the Call Boy is remarkably smart; Miss Minnie Cunningham is an attractive comedienne; a highly sensational turn is given by Mr. Dartigan, whose feat of "Looping the Loop" on a motor-cycle is certainly astounding.

HEBBURN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. G. H. Austin; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Graham.—Mr. Chas. Carte and company are here this week in A Noble Brother. As Jerry (the tramp) Mr. C. Carte leaves nothing to be desired, sustaining his part throughout with the utmost zeal; Miss Doris Brookes capably fills the rôle of Nan Leigh, while Miss Alice Ballards scores as Mrs. Leigh; Mr. Alexander Haviland finds plenty of scope in the Strange Preacher; Mr. Maurice Jones successfully undertakes the part of Colonel Leigh; Mr. Arthur Gilroy portrays Henry Travers with considerable ability, and Miss Katie Cameron makes the most of Rosie Rapid.

HEYWOOD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Jopes.—The Prairie Flower, under the management of Mr. John Soden, opened for six nights here last Monday the eve of the poll, the result of which was announced from the stage on Tuesday evening. As Rosalie, Miss Ella Forrest plays commendably; and Mr. Gilbert Fernie shows marked ability in his songs.

HORWICH.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessees, The Provincial Theatres Co.; General-Manager, Mr. C. M. Neville; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben Hawke; Secretary, Mr. Chas. E. Bradley.—After a long spell of varied mixed management, a brighter era seems to be dawning here. The theatre has been closed several weeks, but the fact that both Messrs. Bradley and Hawke are well-known residents appears to be creating confidence in the town. It fell to Mr. Herbert Barrs' lot to open under the new management, and that gentleman's popularity in Horwich was fully exemplified on Monday evening when the curtain rose on his pantomime Cinderella, a packed house testifying their appreciation in no half-hearted manner. The scenery and dresses are very elaborate, and the musical numbers, under Mr. H. L. Gibson's direction, fully deserve the generous applause bestowed on them. Miss Evelyn Desa, in the title-rôle, proves a very winsome and charming character; Miss Lillie Monckton makes a very vivacious and picturesque Prince Charming; and Miss Josephine Preece plays Dandini to perfection, her singing being highly successful; Messrs. Grapho and Jackson, as the ugly sisters, have full scope for some genuine rollicking comedy, and do not fail to take every advantage of it; Mr. Carl Fredericks plays the Baron with great gusto; Mr. Alf Widdowson, as Buttons, has a part that he fairly revels in, and does not forget to make a very good use of his opportunities; Messrs. Duncan and Morton, as the Broker's Men, are brimful of comedy. The specialities include Madame Cordelia, in a very excellent picture dance; the Olive Trio, in a most amusing Doll song and dance; Ya Pyn Keto and family, Japanese magicians, in a very neat and clever exhibition: Grapho and Jackson, in a smart quick-change scena, entitled In a Restaurant; and Duncan and Morton, in cross-talk and song and dance. The electric coach, with real ponies, is especially picturesque, and the whole show goes without a hitch.

HOYLAND.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Arthur Carlin and Co.; Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—A Modern Adventuress, played by Mr. Lingford Carson's company, is visiting Hoyland this week. Special mention must be made of Mr. Leonard Aardale as Pietro Donelli, his scene in the third act being especially good; Miss Kate Froude as the adventuress makes the most of her part: Miss Alice Defoe is charming as Vivette Delby, and gains the sympathy of her audience throughout; Mr. Leonard Montgomery as John Crompton, the Yorkshireman, is very good; and Miss Ivy Chandos, a servant who afterwards becomes Mrs. Crompton, is very amusing. Mr. Louis Edmonde is satisfactory as Harry Delby; Mr. Stanley F. Champion as Walter Beal. Mr. Frank Wilton as William Delby, Mr. Frank Orchard as Steve Meredith, and Mr. Sydney Grant as Wallace Dalton aquit themselves creditably.

HUDDERSFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy G. Arthur.—The many loyal admirers of Mr. Edward Compton are always glad to have him here with his company in the fine reproductions of old English comedy associated with them. The present week's plays are that favourite perennial Davy Garrick, preceded by The Desperate Lover, The Rivals, To-Morrow, She Stoops to Conquer, School for Scandal, and New Men and Old Acres. Mr. Compton's performance of Garrick on Monday evening showed all the old charm and brilliance. Mr. Henry Crocker has a very natural and convincing style, displayed to advantage as Gresham; Mr. A. B. Imeson had the necessary dash as Tallyhaut; Miss Mackenzie was sweetly dignified as Miss Gresham; and the other principal parts were effectively played by Mr. Herbert Pigot (Rumbelow), Mr. Arnold Lucy (Sowerberry), Mr. G. W. Johnston (Simkins), Miss Marie Hassell (Mrs. Rumbelow), and Miss Muriel Meek (Selina).

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The entertainment here is provided by Charlene and Charlene in their clever speciality; Gus Harris, Hebrew descriptive vocalist; Sisters Melba, duettists; Fred Fox, comedian; Ray and Calden, comedians; Permane's troupe of highly-trained bears; Spring and Spring, expert jumpers; Hinton and Wooton, cycling footballers and the pictures on the Biograph.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Following hard on the heels of the successful pantomime, Dick Whittington, Mr. Morton has been most fortunate in securing Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company with Aladdin, which comes here from Gateshead with a high reputation. Miss Leonora Grieve is a complete success in the title-rôle, having a charming voice which is heard to great advantage in her musical numbers. Mr. Daley Cooper, who plays Abanazer, is extremely popular, and keeps the house thoroughly amused. Miss Lily Gullich is very pleasing as the princess, her songs being particularly well rendered; Miss Louie Sands gives a graceful performance as Petti Sing; and Miss Nellie Barnwell is very attractive in the part of Pekoe. Little Briton is most amusing in the character of Wishee Washee, and contributes a large share of fun. A pair of clever acrobats are Messrs. Story and Trigg, who do some excellent knockabout business; and the Gilbert Girls in their speciality dances show considerable ability.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Peggy Machree, presented by Mr. Charles E. Hamilton's company, is here this week, and is one of the most charming comic operas which have been seen in Hull for some time. Miss Claudia Lasell as Peggy is an accomplished actress and her voice is of excellent quality; Mr. Leslie Stiles makes a good impression as Barry Trevor, being heard to great advantage in his musical numbers; Mr. Milroy Cooper is a conspicuous success as McDougall, giving a genuinely comic impersonation of a solemn Scot; and Mr. Edgar Ashwin as Michael is also well placed. Miss Blanche Astley makes a very pleasing Molly, singing and dancing in a charming manner; Miss Madge Avery as Moira is also worthy of special mention; and Miss Dorothy Garden as the Hon. Emily Prior looks extermely well. Mr. Ralph Lynn as Sir Lawrence Borthwick gives an excellent study of an eighteenth-century dandy.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Morton, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—Her Second Time on Earth, presented by Mr. Walter Melville's company, is here this week and, as on previous occasions, is drawing good houses. Miss Hilda Beverley gives an excellent portrayal of her original creation, Dora Grey, acting the part in a thoroughly realistic manner; Miss Dorothy Hilderbrande is very charming as the heroine, Laura Norman; and Mr. Harry Hiller's representation of Jack Carlton is highly commendable. Mr. George Gaisford ably impersonates Captain Norman; Mr. W. H. Porter as Guy Brand is very successful; and the comedy element is well sustained by Mr. Wm. C. Reid as Teddy Butterfly and Miss Marjory Millbank as Kitty.

NEW PALACE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Jno. S. Barnett.—Miss Florence St. John presents a well-acted comedy, My Milliner's Bill; Seeley and West are a popular turn; the Three Missouris are very funny in their sketch, Captain Kettle; Brooks, Dale, and Blitz, Amber Austa, Marie Duma, O'Gust, Bert Woodward, Will Haines, and Mazzetti and Mora all help the success of the programme.

THE NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—Leo Dryden is the top turn here, with several excellent songs; Rastus and Banks are old favourites; a pretty Japanese scena, headed by Miss Santoi, and assisted by a number of ladies and gentlemen, is one of the principal items. Alf Levarni, Percy May, and Joe Mac complete a good programme.

THE BIJOU.—Lessee, Mr. T. N. Turner; Manager, Mr. Fred Thorne.—Appearing here are Ada Lawn, Eno, the Three Schaffers, Charlie Jerome, The Dillons, Blanche Gerrard, Joe Humphreys, and the Two Romers.

THE CIRCUS.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—Animated pictures are drawing good houses here.

HYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Mr. Julian Malvern's I Defy the World company, under the direction of Mr. Charles M. Julian, has done good business here this week. Mr. Lewis Gilbert gives an earnest and convincing interpretation of the rôle of Leon Darville, and his various disguises are cleverly assumed. The villainous side of human nature is well depicted by Mr. Horace Booth, as Count de Beaulieu; and Mr. Charles Conway, as Laroche; Mr. H. Creagh Hunt plays with zeal the part of Andre; and Mr. E. H. Cartwright makes the most of his lines as Sergeant Gamion. Miss Maud Malvern acts with power and feeling as Blanche Darville; a charming and graceful exponent of Pauline Dalaporte is found in Miss Trixie St. Albans; and the rôle of Fanchette is intelligently taken by Miss Gertrude Coat. Plenty of comedy relief is supplied by Mr. Charles M. Julian, as Samuel Wozzle; Miss Maud Lilian, as Marie Wozzle; and Messrs. Dunlop Stewart and Dalton J. Bosher, as Najac and Bochan.

ILKESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The Swiss Express is taking well here, Messrs. C. and F. Renad providing the company. The Renads themselves as James and John, eccentric servants, work assiduously, and are greeted with abundant applause; Mr. Herbert Lewis makes an excellent Dr. Gull; Miss Jessica Ford as Virginia (the Bride) is all that can be desired; Mr. George Martin (Bob Rollingstone) and Mr. Alec Finlayson (Dudley Green) ably assist the fun of the piece; the part of Rhino is well taken by Mr. Frank Coston; and the Edna Quartette of vocalists and dancers are clever.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Knightall.—Dickinson and Johnson, ornamental swimmers, &c., give a clever show here; Elliott and Warne, comedy artists, are an amusing turn; Fred Evered is much applauded as a lady impersonator; and James Hewson, instrumentalist, Fred Ambrose, comedian, Marie Milford, serio, and Tom Dalton, comedian, complete the list.

INVERNESS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. Cameron Burgess.—Mr. George Dance's company is here this week with The Girl from Kay's. Miss Lily Edmonds makes a fascinating Winnie Harborough; the acting of Miss Irene Vere as Norah is clever; Mr. J. W. Hooper presents an exceedingly droll impersonation of Max Hoggenheimer; Mr. Fred Thomson as Percy Fitzthistle and Mr. Claude Dampier as Joseph are responsible for a large amount of merriment; and Mr. Herbert Franklyn plays the part of Harry Gordon with unflagging spirit.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Jennings.—Blue-Bell in Fairyland, now on a return visit for six nights, is played by Messrs. Murray King and Clark's company. This charming dream-piece is well received. The title-rôle was impersonated by Miss Gladys Cooper in a graceful and winning manner. Miss Muriel Juin, another clever lady, in the dual part of the Reigning Queen and the Water Lily, rendered excellent assistance to the cast; Miss Ruby Carter as Will o' the Wisp, and Miss Minnie Blanchard as the Good Fairy, were both seen to advantage; Mr. Lawrence Emery and Mr. Percy Farrimond filled the two most important parts satisfactorily, the last-named being much applauded for his vocal contributions.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—An attractive programme here includes some novel and effective turns. One of the most striking items is the appearance of Alma Gray, a young and accomplished Australian dancer, whose terpsichorean efforts are rewarded with a furore of applause. Another successful turn is that given by Vermette and Dionne on the triple bars, their feats including some unique somersaults. Some eccentric business is furnished by Les Pollos, a pair of Continental acrobats; Tom White's Arabs cause merriment; and other turns include Frederic Neiman, with his clever ventriloquial business; Albert Ventnor, low comedian; and Dare and Mavern in a laughable sketch.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—The holiday season here concludes this week with Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. M. V. Leveaux's first-rate company in the successful play, The Walls of Jericho. Mr. Herbert Bunston gives a fine interpretation of Jack Frobisher; Mr. George A. Brandram is equally good as Hankey Bannister; Mr. Lawrence Hanray and Mr. Sidney Hamilton must be complimented on their rendering of the Marquis and Harry Dallas; Miss Edith Cuthbert is a pretty and interesting Miss Mornington; Miss Nora Greenlaw is good as Lady Westerby; and Miss Molly Carton does well as Lady Lucy; Miss Florence Jackson deserves the highest commendation for her performance of the difficult part of Lady Alethea.

KETTERING.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Payne.—Messrs. W. H. and R. A. Maddox's company is here with Dick Whittington. Miss Mabel Kessler is a dashing Dick; and Alice is charmingly presented by Miss Reggy Fame. The comedians work hard and successfully. Mr. Dan Lyndon as Fitzwarren is very funny; Mr. Harry Howe is highly diverting as Betsy; Mr. Gus Granville is a distinct success as Idle Jack; and the comicalities of Messrs. Kempton and Pastor cause roars of laughter. Mr. Harry Wright is a successful extempore vocalist, the Dandies contribute some clever dancing, and Miss Kessler gives solos on the cornet, &c., in first-class style. The scenery and dresses are admirable, and the electric ballets most effective.

KIDDERMINSTER.—NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. James P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon, jun. The Moore-Kennedy company is here this week in the pantomime entitled Dick Whittington. Mdlle. Lucretia makes a dashing Dick; Miss Lilly Townsend is a handsome Princess; Miss Mollie Revell sings well as the Fairy Queen; Miss Vera Snowden, as Dick's Sweetheart, is very pleasing; Mr. Dan Agar, as Idle Jack, keeps the fun going from start to finish; Mr. Clarence Turner, as Captain Bunting, is distinctly quaint; Mr. Arthur Behan, as Betsy Mary Ann, is very comical; and the Palais Royal Quartette of dancers are clever.

KILMARNOCK.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Hales.—Good entertainment is being provided here by Mr. Wm. Greet's company in The Earl and the Girl. Mr. Alfred Dinohoe makes an admirable Jim Cheese; Dick Wargrave is well represented by Mr. Leslie Gaze; Mr. Fred Locking is capital as George Bellamy, and Mr. A. E. Wilson does well as A. Bunker Bliss; Miss Lina Hicks is lively and interesting as Liza Shoddam; Miss Ida Stratham is vivacious as Daisy Fallowfield; and Miss Winnie Plumptress does well as Miss Virginia Bliss.

KIRKCALDY.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Rex Sugden.—Mr. Geo. Edwardes's company in The Toreador is paying a return visit, opening on Monday night before a good audience. Mr. Richard Telford as Sammy Gigg is more amusing than ever; Mr. F. Hulme Sharp does good work as Sir Archie; and as Pettifer Mr. Tom May is capital; Mr. Charles M. Heslop is acceptable as Augustus Trail, and Mr. J. C. Fagan is good as Carajolo, his singing being well received; Miss Leah Howard is a charming Susan; Miss Sadie Neville as Dora and Miss Ethel Netherton as Nancy also score; Miss Grace Desmond is an effective Mrs. Hoppings; and Miss Florence Spurgeon as Donna Teresa is well suited; the chorus and orchestra lend valuable assistance.

LANCASTER.—ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. H. Wilkinson.—Home, Sweet Home is being well presented here by Mr. Frank Lindo's company. Mr. Lindo appears to special advantage as Stephen Armitage; Mr. J. W. Henson is successful as David Armitage; and the same may be said of Captain Gerald Gambier as the Duke of Ancaster; Miss Daisy Rochefort gives a fine portrayal of Dora; and Miss Edie Langley is equally successful as Sybil Fay. Special mention should be made of Miss Marion Wakeford who, as Joan, delivers her lines with remarkable clearness.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. W. J. Fergusson and J. Porter.—Miss Lillie Langtry, comedienne, heads the bill this week, and is well received. Robert Gilbert's troupe of dogs and cats merit applause; and the Four Hearnes are clever acrobats; Harry Weldon, comedian, has a good reception; and others who contribute successfully include F. S. Hulme, actor vocalist, the Cellos in a musical act, and Daisy Pearl, comedienne. Walter Payne's pictures are still an attraction.

LEAMINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—Mr. Milton Bode's pantomime The Babes in the Wood occupies the boards here this week. The principal boy is Miss Ernestine Desborough, who acts and sings gracefully as the chivalrous Prince. The fun is provided by a thoroughly competent quintette of comedians, prominent among whom is Mr. Happy Attwood as the droll Beadle; the Brothers Brookes are diverting ruffians; Mr. Percy Dawsone makes the most of the absurd ditties of Maria Slapp; Mr. Will Harman is an amusing Buttons; the Babes are prettily enacted by Miss Renee Reel and Miss Daisy Connell; and the guardian Uncle is funnily impersonated by Mr. Ernest Sefton. The powerful chorus and orchestra are under the direction of Mr. C. F. Trevor; specialities are introduced by the daring Bellong Brothers, acrobats and balancers; Cyclo, a clever trick cyclist, and the Cameron Glee Quartette.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—This is the fifth week of The Babes in the Wood, and this gorgeous production continues to arouse the utmost enthusiasm in the crowded audiences which nightly assemble. Miss Hilda Jacobsen, with a plenitude of charming and fine singing, has hosts of admirers; Miss Katie May has likewise endeared herself by her charming and vivacious methods; and Miss Ivey Roye and Miss Kitty Lindley are also a clever and attractive pair. In enjoyable comedy Mr. Arthur Stigant and Mr. J. W. Rowley are indefatigable leaders, with the Anartos, Mr. Frank Calvert, and Mr. G. H. Elliott also playing strong rôles.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—The excellent pantomime Jack and Jill continues to increase in popularity, and is received nightly with unbounded enthusiasm by an admiring crowd. The presentation is a special triumph for the comedians—Mr. Bob Selvidge, Mr. Harry Conlin, and Mr. Freddy Fowler—who have all reached the high-water mark of popularity with their witty songs and humorous business. Those clever juveniles, Miss Cissie Iris and Miss Emmie Moulson, continue to evoke unstinted praise for their excellent work as Jack and Jill. Miss Marguerite Broadfoote and Miss Lily Black have developed their parts of principal boy and girl with great success, and all goes with delightful and refreshing snap and smoothness.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Cinderella is going exceedingly strong here, and promises to break all records before the end of the run. Miss Hilda Guiver, with a charming and dashing assumption of the Prince; Miss Aimed Roberts, as the attractive Cinderella; and Miss Nora Emerald, prominently successful in the rôle of Dandini, make an attractive and talented trio of leaders. Miss Dulcie Garland and Miss Elsie Stuart are not far behind in their efforts to please. The humorists are a merry lot and keep things going with exceeding briskness, Mr. J. G. Taylor as the Baron, Mr. T. Hybert and Mr. T. Beck as the Ugly Sisters, and Mr. Morny Cash as the Page doing specially well in this connection. The New Macs are also smart and entertaining; whilst Donaldson Bros. and Ardel get a big reception for their clever speciality interlude.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—The Three Merrils are a strong feature of the week's entertainment here, their expert and humorous trick cycling turn arousing great enthusiasm. Selina Braatz is exceedingly smart with feats of jugglery, and Ella Retford gets a hearty reception for a clever song and dance turn of the coon variety. Sinclair and Parr are a pair of accomplished duettists; the Gittis introduce their canine marvel; the Fitzroys are expert with an interesting acrobatic act; Frank Harwood finds a welcome for his song-scena, The Looking-Glass; Stephens and Rennior are to the fore with eccentric comedy business; Lora ? is a decidedly mystifying novelty; and further capital entertainment is subscribed by Irving Jones, the "little black man."

TIVOLI.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Managers, Mr. Charles Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Belle Davis pays an early return visit with her clever juveniles, and is scoring the usual solid success. Mdlle. Ghita Corri is at the bottom of the bill with a realistic illuminated song-scena, The Maiden's Prayer, in the presentation of which her fine voice is heard to advantage. The Bros. Hartbert O'Reilly have a fine equilibristic and athletic act; Andrews and Thompson are doing well as vocal jokers; in the same line Fred Laud is also very popular; a smart song and dance turn by Starr and Jerome goes exceedingly well; as also do the excellent contributions by Ida Ross, vocalist; Reynolds' Minstrels, in a fine musical entertainment; and the Sisters Lytton, in song and dance.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Marguerite Ismay presents her accomplished juveniles in a pleasing and novel act, which is generally admired. Paul Courtney and company are prominent fun-providers in comedy sketch, The Doctor; the Three Gladenbecks arouse interest and enthusiasm with a fine gymnastic display; whilst James Brady and Frank Cumminge are strong favourites with vocal and comedy business; the Caritons do a novel living statuary act; Harry Tomlinson is a vocalist of merit; and the excellent speciality turn by Mill, May, and company is very well received.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. M. Slater.—Frederick Mouillot's chief company is presenting here, on a return visit, the favourite play, A Message from Mars. Mr. Cyril Austen Lee displays exceptional histrionic ability as Horace Parker; Mr. William H. Brougham repeats his sterling portrayal of the Messenger; and Mr. Bruce Lindley is very good as the Tramp. Both Miss May Saker as Minnie Templar, and Mrs. Edward Saker as Miss Parker, are in every way admirable; and Mr. J. Edgar Stevenson as Arthur Dicey, and Mr. Lionel Gadsden as the Policeman, are excellent. The play is well staged.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. M. Slater; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. C. Candler.—Mr. Edward Neville and Miss Lole Esmond's company, presenting the drama, The Anarchist Terror, is on a return visit here this week. Mr. George Langdon, who appears in a number of characters, is seen to considerable advantage; and others who play with success are Miss Lole Esmond as Kitty Malone, Mr. J. Nelson-Turner as Silas Washington Goldstraw, Mr. Gus Bowerman as Ishmael, Mr. J. Malcolm J. Cumming as Lieutenant Armstrong, Miss Constance Medwyn as Marita, and Miss Eleanor Groves as Columbia Goldstraw.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leonard Vidal.—The leading attraction this week is provided by Morris Cronin and his talented troupe, whose remarkable juggling with clubs evokes the heartiest applause. The turn stands out as one of the smartest of its kind seen here. Newhouse and Ward, comedy cyclists, gain their usual warm welcome for their clever and versatile show; the Bandurrias are prominent with their delightful musical act, which is received with well-deserved applause; the Huxter Brothers score their usual success as acrobats and remarkably clever vaulters; Francis Wylie introduces his well-trained dogs, who go through a performance reflecting great credit on their trainer; Baker and Lynn arouse much merriment, Baker being especially mirth-provoking; Bell and Henry provide an entertaining and amusing turn; Grace Merton, the original street singer, is well received for her songs; Bertha Vere, comedienne, contributes a capital song; the American Bioscope is projecting "When father got a holiday," and "The Press Illustrated," to the delight of all sections of the audience.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—Fred Southern and company, the most popular sketch artists that visit this hall, are receiving their usual warm welcome here this week, and are presenting for the first time Only a Trooper, which is beautifully staged and elaborately dressed. The chief parts are well played by Mr. Fred Southern as Trooper Murphy, Mr. Percy Emery as Colonel Conway, Miss Gipsy Alexander as Countess Zarlinsker, Mr. Frank Delamere as Howard Darnley, Miss Ada Frank as Nadine, and Mr. Courtney Robinson as Mons. Zouroff. The company is also evoking the greatest merriment with the sketch, His Lordship's Birthday, in which Mr. Fred Southern, as the village tinker, causes screams of laughter. Mr. Ronald Bayne and Miss Hope are seen to great advantage in their historical duologue, An Emperor's Divorce; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, always a popular feature here, is projecting "Two Little Waifs" and other films; Renson and Waite are most amusing vaudeville entertainers; and Mark Merry, in mirthful melancholy, and Ford Williams, the Welsh basso, also contribute.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Dewhurst.—Mr. A. E. Smith's pantomime, Little Bo Peep is occupying the boards here this week. Miss Kathleen Garnon, a capital Boy Blue, sings with great vivacity; Miss Elsie Douglas plays the title-rôle charmingly, her singing and dancing being greatly appreciated; Miss Issa Steel scores a success as the Fairy Queen; Mr. William Greene, as King Sulphurino, is applauded for his songs; Messrs. Reed and Lerne provide ample fun in their amusing performances of Percy and Patsy; plenty of humour is also furnished by Mr. H. J. Kemble as Granny Peep; and Mr. F. Wheatcroft, as Baron Hardupp. In the Palace scene appear the Doreen troupe of lady dancers; Arnold, illusionist; Oliver Chew, silleur; and Bendini, boy contortionist.

OHMY'S CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr. King Ohmy; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Prince.—A good variety entertainment is here this week headed by the Five Whiteleys, in a good novel all-round acrobatic turn; Messrs. Phinas and Arda, in a revolving and balancing act, are very good; Funny Stelling and his performing dogs are very interesting; Miss Lilly's performing horse is very cleverly trained; and the Anartos, Mr. Frank Calvert, and Mr. G. H. Elliott also playing strong rôles. Mr. Harry Martino, in his act, "The Viper's Nest," is well received. On Monday night, Mr. King Ohmy, hero of the balloon, appeared to give his daring and sensational act in mid-air, his efforts being cheered to the echo.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Owing to the continued success of the pantomime, Jack the Giant Killer, the management have decided to retain this very popular entertainment in the bill until further notice. Since its production four weeks ago, the piece has proved increasingly attractive, thanks to the all-round smartness and ability of the company, and their happy method of working together. Individually and collectively the principals have gained favourable recognition from large and appreciative audiences; and the many subordinate parts are all adequately filled.

LICHFIELD.—ST. JAMES'S HALL.—Mr. Cecil Claiston's pantomime company appeared here on Wednesday night in Dick Whittington. Miss Annie Rose was an excellent Dick; Mr. A. Evermond a capital Alderman; Mr. Tom Taylor a sprightly Idle Jack; and Mr. Tom Warren a most amusing Angelina. The remainder of the company was efficient; indeed, as a fit-up pantomime the company, scenery, and general appointments were excellent.

LIMERICK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Proprietor, Mr. Robert Fogerty.—Mr. Leigh Lovel's comedy company in The Duke of Killiecrankie opened here on Monday before an appreciative audience. Mr. Walter Ringham was good in the title-rôle, and Mr. Lovel amusing as Henry Welby. Mr. Ivan Gore proved a most interesting Reporter Hicks, and as McBaine Mr. Arthur McCulloch was well placed. Mr. Eric West was a capital butler, and Mr. Frank Webber sound as the footman. The Countess of Pangbourne had a clever interpreter in Miss Celia Gordon, and as Mrs. McBaine Miss Ethel Savill was realistic. The rôle of Mrs. Mulholland had an admirable exponent in Miss Naomi Wilson, and Miss Octavia Kenmore was effective as Lady Henrietta.

LINCOLN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Frank King.—Audiences are giving unanimous approval to Her Luck in London, presented by Mr. George Kirk, in which Miss Mary Neil scores heavily as Nellie, the village girl, whose adventures in London form the subject of the play. Mr. Charles Leicester and others are concerned in the adequate representation of an interesting play.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. Sydney Arthur.—The Andos, one of the cleverest troupes of Japs yet seen on the boards, are giving their wonderful show here, and patrons are cracking their sides over Harry Tate's company in the clever sketch on Motoring. Belle Braham scores with illustrated songs; Howard and St. Clair are an entertaining couple; and Bert Brantford gains renown as a comedian. Percy Hannam is a pleasing baritone; the Seddons are amongst the most amusing jugglers we have seen; and Jimmy Shields gets through a dance very smartly, despite his one leg.

CENTRAL HALL.—The Lincoln Amateur Operatic Society is presenting The Pirates of Pensance very creditably. The coach is Mr. R. Weathersby, of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company.

LIVERPOOL.—ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—At the popular north-end house Mr. J. Gar Kiddie's pantomime, Babes in the Wood, continues to enjoy a great measure of success. It has already remained three weeks, and will put in another. A deal of new business is being introduced, with the result that many of the public are paying the theatre a second visit.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—Entertaining and decidedly amusing is this week's programme, which is headed by the Cratons in the screechingly funny sketch, Front and Behind, in which they depict the laughable side of stage life. Maude A. Edwards, an uncommonly clever ventriloquist, who is also very amusing, receives rounds of applause; Onda and Artell are clever and up-to-date gymnasts; Alsop and Beckwith are particularly good in their patter; Emma Don and company receive deserved applause; the Miltons delight the house with their banjo playing; Harry Hayton is a capable comedian; J. P. Carroll is successful; and the bioscope shows good pictures.

STAR THEATRE.—Pro

able dancing and singing are provided by the Three Victorias; Frank Darwin, descriptive vocalist, is given a capital reception; and Miss Gertrude Bradshaw, possessor of a charming voice, sang several songs in good style.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Heading a capital bill here this week is Miss Dolly Elsworthy's company with The Orange Girl, an episode in the life of King Charles. Miss Elsworthy's interpretation of the title part was praiseworthy, and she received able support. In the variety list Madame Bernice de Pasquali was principal. She is a talented vocalist. Austin and Cowan were a capital pair of entertainers; Mr. and Mrs. Blake Adams offered one of their successful duologues; Tom Yerke was a capable coster comedian; as musicians Roma and Romani are not easily beaten; Carson Hicks causes much laughter with his comedian work and buck dancing; a smart pair of repartee comedians are Maxford and O'Neil; and the Two Rubies, comediennes, are a good turn.

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—The Mysterious Cardo, with his smart drawing-room entertainment, is at the head of the bill here this week. He has had a good reception. Martine and Sons, with their latest illustrated songs, remain another week; Queena Barnes, with her march and ragtime songs, has delighted everyone; some smartness as a comedian was shown by Will Harvey; Calvo, comedian and double-voiced vocalist, is a good turn; and Fred Graham sings with taste and effect.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—A Traitor to His Country is the title of the Russian sketch being played here this week by Percy Boucher's principal dramatic company. The rôle of Petroff Petrovitch is undertaken by Mr. Boucher, who receives cordial support from Messrs. Harry Tresham, Herbert Cecil, E. D. Allen, Cecil Ravenswood, Kyburn Dellar, Miss Lina Nazeby, and Miss Beryl Ravenswood. Cissie Farrell is a smart comedienne, and John Etheridge has several taking songs.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Percy Boucher's dramatic company is at the head of the bill here this week with A Wife's Dishonour, a smart sketch in six tableaux. The Autheitts (James and Lily) have a neat vocal speciality act; Tom Hayes, for a lad, showed much ability as a comedian; and Miss Cissie Oliphant, a local prize-winner, sang several capital songs.

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—One of the principal attractions here this week is the old-time favourite, Horace Wheatley, who seems as fresh as ever; Lillian performs some astonishing feats on the bicycle; the Orestos, with their impersonations of past and present celebrities, are a capital turn; Kendrick and Laura provide some excellent singing and dancing; Drum and Major are a versatile comedy team; Shelia McNeil, Scotch comedienne, proves pleasing; and Farr and Farland, vocal and banjo experts, submit one of the best items in the programme.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. F. Willmot.—Mr. E. Wordley, Hulse, and company are at the head of the bill here with the sketch, The Fight in the Forge; or, a Sister's Honour, in which a dispute with sledge-hammers is introduced. Hector and Lauraine are a capable pair of acrobatic comedy grotesques; Carney and Armstrong have a smart vocal act, The Pro. and the Baggage Man; a neat musical act is submitted by the Tysons; Bob Forrester acquits himself creditably as a comedian; and operatic selections are pleasingly rendered by the Elgars.

WESTMINSTER.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Foremost here this week is Addie Dorina, with her duologue, How It Was Done. Vandinoff, the lightning picture painter, surprises his audience; the Bros. Wynford give a display of marvellous jumping; Harry Bent, a clever society humorist, has some smart imitations in his A Peep into the Music Hall; the Custances present a bright comedy duologue, A Game for Two; and others in the list are Lily Currie, a charming singer, and Carlotta Lunn, vocalist.

OLYMPIA. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—Under the business direction of Mr. Wallace Kennedy the Gems are here this week with their charming entertainment of song, play, and mirth. Diane de Fontenoy is a strong attraction, her beautiful poses being watched with interest; Vasco, the mad musician, is loudly applauded for his wonderful playing; Leo Stormont sings several ballads with taste and effect; some smart gymnastic work is done by Alexandra and Bertie; Frank H. France and Miss Edith Stewart have a neat comedy entitled 100 to 1 Chance; a deal of fun results from the efforts of Whallen and West, a comedy duo; Tony and Flo Vernon submit a most acceptable turn with their singing, dancing, and paper tearing; and Jimson and his dogs provide a laughable item entitled The Burglar's Surprise.

LLANELLY.—ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manageress, Miss Alice Rocheforte.—This week Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company, under the direction of Miss Marie Beckenham, is here in The Christian, the part of Glory Quayle being admirably embodied by Miss Laura Walker, whilst Mr. Alfred Goddard is most successful as the Hon. John Storm.

LONG EATON.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—A variety programme is presented this week, Caban's performing ponies, donkeys, and dogs, having a large share in the entertainment. The ponies' orchestra is greatly enjoyed; and the Royal Zerbinis Troupe give a capital instrumental performance.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—The Curate is this week being played here by Miss Hettie Jeffries' company. As Gilbert Westwood, Mr. Whitmore Ledger is forcible; Mr. Arthur Mervyn is well placed as the Rev. John Audley; to Miss Hettie Jeffries falls the rôle of Dick, the trumpeter, a part in which she is seen to advantage; Miss W. Stuart is good as Katinka Vodsky; Mr. Chas. Coventry is an excellent Gregory Verner; and Miss I. Norman does well as Mabel Verner, Mr. C. Spencer causes plenty of fun as Simon Muggs; and the remaining characters are in good hands.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Mr. Gus Levaine's company is appearing here in the pantomime Aladdin. Miss Florrie Gibson as Princess Baldroulbadour, depicts the rôle charmingly; Miss Marie Harding is an admirable exponent of Aladdin; Mr. Arthur Collins does exceedingly well as the Emperor of Chin, as does also Mr. Arthur Burgon as the Grand Vizier. The comedy element is supplied by Mr. Arthur Teesdale as the Widow Twankey; and Mr. Charles Arnett and Mr. Cecil Barry as the policemen. Some very good speciality turns are introduced, amongst them being Leon and Leoni, musical experts; Phil Ross, double voiced vocalist; Watty Griffin, the flexible marvel; Mdlle. Alberto, on the telephone wire; Cyrus Bell, Continental musical comedian; Ethardo, comedy juggler; Mdlle. Pardoe, dancer and contortionist; Robert Williams, sword expert; and the Baden troupe of dancers MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME. — Manager, Mr. T. Sylvester.—Herr Fritz, mystifier, is heading the bill here this week, and introduces some novel illusions, his cabinet mysteries being very smart. The Dunedin Troupe are causing great enthusiasm with their clever cycling and acrobatic act; the Cribb Comedy Trio, in their scena, Idle Fellows with Idle Thoughts, are popular. Les Strads appear in a clever musical entertainment; Mr. George Prince and Jimmy Martin, comedians, together with the Hippograph, complete the programme.

MANCHESTER.—ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A very interesting play, The Power of The Cross, is presented here this week by a strong company under Mr. Lingford Carson. The chief interest centres in the Vampire part of Baron Curzola, in which Mr. Hartwell J. Kirby particularly shines. Miss Cissie St. Elmo as the adventuress, Rita Lascelles, gives a powerful rendering, and is well supported by Mr. Edgar L. Hocking as the shady solicitor, Mr. Hawke. Miss Stanley Burt and Miss Violet Ingram acquit themselves with credit in two strong and charming rôles; Mr. Fred W. Goddard and Mr. Horace Denton act cleverly as the brothers; and some engaging humour is exploited by Mr. Percy Hayes and Miss Etta Turner. The play from beginning to end is enthralling, and the scenery and dresses are excellent.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A big turn here this week is Spiff! Spaff! Spoof! a farcical absurdity, in which Walter Howard (the author) and Ellen Snow appear, supported by a smart company. Carr and Rose introduce a song-scena entitled Catching the Catch of the Season; Flora Lumiere's Fairy Grotto is a beautiful electrical set; the Harris L. Bell and Lily Pearl company appear in their popular sketch A Bit of String; and other clever and pleasing turns are supplied by Copeland and Son, expert dancers; Lilian Dorie, graceful wire walker; Rice and Rudge in a comic cycle act; Fred Horsfall, an accomplished mimic; and Jack Hylton, a capital eccentric comedian. The bioscope pictures show a series entitled "Jail Birds."

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company form the attraction here this week in a strong presentment of The Still Alarm. The cast includes Mr. Cecil Du Gue as the villain Jack Bird, a part he renders powerfully. A very fine impersonation of Jack Manley is given by Mr. M. H. Glenville, and Mr. Fred Osmond also succeeds in the rôle of Doc Wilber. Mr. Tom Beasley is funny as Willie Manley, "his mother's boy"; Mr. J. Sutton Pateman does well as the merchant Fordham; Miss Eva Reed is particularly good as Carrie Wilbere, of the music halls; and Miss Maud Warburton as Elinore sustains her share of the heroic interest with effect. The performance includes the usual sensational attractions of the fire-alarm and the fire, the vocal firemen (the Lyric Comedy Four), and a pair of beautiful horses. Altogether, it is a fine show.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. A. Jordison; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. S. Nicholas.—Mr. Frank E. Burdett's company is here this week in a new version of George Daventry's well-known military play The Indian Mutiny. An excellent performance is given, the principal British characters being played by Mr. George Steel, Mr. Cyril Harrison, Mr. John Davidson, and Mr. George Scully; and the prominent Hindoos by Mr. Villiers Stanley, Mr. J. S. Shedden, Mr. Ernest Keand, and Miss F. Melrose Millett. The staging and effects are capital.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—An attraction somewhat out of the ordinary here this week is the Cowboy Hypnotist Ahrensmeyer, who provides considerable entertainment without any help of machinery or electricity. One of his items is the breaking of a large stone by a 14lb. sledge-hammer upon the suspended body of a lady who is under hypnotic influence. He adds to the sensation of his visit also by making wonderful blindfold drives through the streets. Ahrensmeyer is not a very clearly articulate entertainer, but his business is certainly interesting and amusing. Another prominent item on the bill is a miniature pantomime of Cinderella, produced for Mr. Mouillot by Leslie Moreton; but it is unfortunately not long enough to provide sufficient opportunities for the cast, though several—particularly Miss C. Leonard and Miss Dolly Denton—act nicely, and Ben Nevis has one or two chances to exhibit his remarkably clever dancing. Of the other turns, Salbo gives a smart juggling entertainment; the Five Sisters Warwick are seen in a neat and graceful trick-cycling act; Bonnie Goodwin's piccaninnies dance well; and Chas. Williams, the Scotch nigger, and Wall Robbins, black and white musical comedian, satisfactorily complete the bill. The Palace pictures are good, as usual.

EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Collins.—One of the most amusing turns seen here for some time is that of the Harmony Four, whose capital vocalism is supplemented by excellent dancing and uproarious fun. For those who like to see highly-trained animals, there are Spessardy's bears and ponies, who ride, cycle, and eat at table; and an equally wonderful exhibition is given by Orla's acrobatic dogs, one of the neatest and cleverest of its kind. McPhee and Hill are extremely smart comedians and dancers; Terley exhibits a novel plastic figure performance; Robert Ganthony presents some humorous sketches in crayon; Brown and Robinson in their vocal item, "Harmony in the Kitchen," are pleasing; Rackett and Hazard give their "Musical Trip round the World" with success; and Dot Hardy distinguishes herself in "Slavey" songs. The pictures on the bioscope are up-to-date.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Chirgwin of the White Eye is one of the attractions here this week, and his amusing patter and quaint business are greatly appreciated. A screamingly funny sketch entitled The Runaways is presented in fine style by Charles Majilton and company. Highly amusing also are the Five Delevines in a sketch The Bell Inn; and the Arthur Lloyd Trio are seen to advantage in their capital playlet The Twin Sisters. The Brothers Hayes are clever sand dancers; George Ridgwell has a fine baritone voice, and is well received; Kelly and Ashby, the bounding billiardists, are remarkably clever; and Hart and Leo are smart comedy artistes. "The Wreck of the Hesperus" for the third week is well rendered by the choir, and the bioscope pictures, depicting "The Bicycle Thieves," are good.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Edith Muir and David Bartlett and company are appearing here this week in a decidedly amusing tabloid comedy entitled The Collar Stud; Les Parisiennes, Cecile and Francois, are clever in a novel pot-pourri act, introducing wire-walking, globe-rolling, acrobatic dancing, and a unique loop the loop dance; Les Rubens are exceedingly good operatic vocalists; Kate A. Traill sings popular songs at the piano in an original manner; and Bert Marsden is a versatile comedian. Other items of interest are those of Irene Meldon, comedienne and dancer; Le Tostia, mandoline soloist; Wheeler and Wilson, acrobatic comedians; Fred Walker, comedian, and Raymond's Vivagraph.

GAIETY THEATRE. — Proprietors, the United Theatres Company, Ltd.; Licensee, Mr. John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—A big attraction here this week is Mr. George Edwardes's company in the latest Gaiety success The Spring Chicken. The principal parts are all in good hands. As Mrs. Girdle Miss Irene Verona is well placed, and scores a big success; Miss Gertrude Gilliam is charming as the Baroness Papouche; and Miss Gertrude Glyn as Rosalie, and Miss Rita Everard as Dulcie Babori act, sing, and dance in a delightful manner. Mr. George Gregory, a resourceful comedian, makes a big hit as Mr. Girdle; and Mr. L. W. Harris as Gustave Barbori and Mr. Donald Hall as Boniface are good; Mr. Frank Hector as the Baron is capital, and his dancing nothing short of wonderful; Mr. C. D. Cleveland is decidedly funny as the head-waiter; and Miss Nellie Lonnen and Mr. Nelson Keys are particularly good as Emmy Lou and Stephen Henry respectively. The chorus and orchestra are under the direction of Mr. Clarence Lucas.

THE KING'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead; Resident-Manager, Mr. P. Baynham.—William Holland's pantomime Aladdin is the attraction here this week, and is presented in fine style by a capable company. Frances Haskoll does well as Aladdin, and sings "Molly, I love you" with plenty of go; Florence Wood is pleasing as the Princess, and sings "Rainbow" nicely; Flo Warner as Pekoe is good; and Fred Russell and Dan Armstrong as Abanazer and Widow Twankey respectively are decidedly amusing. Others who take prominent parts successfully, and from time to time appear in their own specialities are Jack (a sterling comedian) and Evelyn, who are particularly good; the Three Floradora Girls, excellent dancers; Sandy and Carl, knockabouts, burlesque boxers, and capital dancers; and the Colonial Comedy Four. The scenery and dresses are good.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—An excellent dramatic episode, The Hypocrite, is presented here this week by Fred S. Peak and company, and receives well-merited applause. Conway and Garland offer a laughter-making sketch; the rifle shooting of Winona, who is assisted by Colonel King, is clever; Smiler Lee sings and talks in eccentric fashion; the Gregson Trio appear in an amusing sketch; and the instrumental playing of the Carolottis is very good. The Three Rolands receive hearty applause for a wonderful performance in strength; and Olive Veno, the champion lady clog dancer, and Bernard Noble, character comedian, are excellent.

HIPPODROME (Hulme).—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The Celtic Comedy Trio are the top star turn this week, and are highly successful in their vocal and humorous efforts. The Ringling Trio cause much laughter with their funny antics, and do some clever stilt cake-walking, a novel turn; Will Souls, a favourite laughing comedian, is as successful as ever; the Five Calandx play some tuneful melodies on various instruments; and a novel acrobatic act is gone through by the Bounding Avolos, who throw double somersaults from upright poles. Other good turns are given by Hallam and Stanton in a song-scena; Clara Walters, a juvenile pianist; Henderson, a clever blind musician, and James, a smart banjoist and bone soloist. Animated pictures complete the bill. King and Delane, who figure on the programme, did not appear on the occasion of our visit.

MANSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Morella and Jennings.—A good programme here includes Mdlle. Adelina, facial expert; the Coopers, musical artistes; the Vaudevilles, in a comedy sketch; Mons. de Lil, illusionist and card expert; Alex and Jollig on the triple bars; and Professor Halbert in his ventriloquial turn; there were also the usual clowns and riders.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. G. Fox.—Mr. Edward Neville and Miss Loie Esmond's company appeared in The Sorrows of Satan on the 19th inst. Mr. Edward Neville as Prince Lucis was good, and was admirably supported by Messrs. Ben Brae, Gus Bowerman, Le Fleming, Cumming, and J. Nelson Turner; Miss Constance Medwyn, Miss Loie Esmond, and Miss Eleanor Groves. On Thursday and Friday this week Mr. E. Lockwood's company appeared in Sergeant Brue.

MARGATE. — HIPPODROME. — Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree: Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. P. Powell.—This week's programme includes among those contributing towards the variety entertainment Charles Deane, the comedian; May Moodie, piccolo soloist; the Lorrisons, eccentric comedy duo; Francisco, equilibrist and novelty juggler; Fred Harrison, the funny Chinee; and Zaro and Arno in their clever bar act. The series of films shown by Ruffell's bioscope is as amusing as ever, "The hen that laid the golden eggs," a really fine picture in colours, being especially good.

MERTHYR TYDFIL. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson.—Hardie and Von Leer's company is here this week playing to good houses in A Path of Thorns. John Edmunds is embodied in manly fashion by Mr. William Fazan; and the Rev. Frank Selby is capably handled by Mr. F. Grebert Fenn; Mr. Chris Mason makes the part of Sam Hallett most humorous; and Jonas Dean is effectively impersonated by Mr. Gordon Kay Bull. Mr. Frank Gordon gives a capital impersonation of Tom Rice; and Mr. Harry G. Wright is successful as Gabbett. Miss Muriel Dean is painstaking and pathetic as Bessie Edmonds; and Miss Marion Ryder presents an intelligent reading of the child-part; Lucy Constance Howard and Nellie Hallett have suitable representatives in Misses Kitty Lofting and Miss Emil Leslie.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Messrs. Jazon and Warner's company is playing here this week in the pantomime Aladdin. Miss Marie Braham is a dashing principal boy, and sings well; Miss Daisy Lane is a pleasing Princess Badroulbadour; and Miss Effie Morde a capital Petroe; Mr. Edwin C. Jazon plays capitally as Abanazar; the Widow Twankey is in the safe hands of Mr. Harry Carmen; Mr. Pete Vone as Snowball, and Mr. Dan Romans as Demonica do well; specialities are introduced by the Delaine Troupe of Continental Gymnasts; Mantel and Oval, comedy cyclists; Salidi and Vone, dancers; and the Sisters Varley, operatic vocalists.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. Charles Imeson.—Mr. Fred Granville's company, in the pantomime, The Forty Thieves, is meeting with success. The pantomime is prettily staged, the Oriental scenery being greatly admired. The company is one of exceptional merit. Miss Madge Western is a charming and winsome Fizzali; Miss Cissie Kingsley makes a big hit as Abdallah; Miss Lily Brammer is a vivacious Morgiana; and Miss Gertie Douglas and Miss Loftus figure prominently in the cast. The comic element is well supplied by Mr. Walter Purvis, Mr. Fred Conynghame, Mr. Leo Trainor, and Mr. Forsyth Bruce. The Revals, the Sisters Loftus, Miss Patty Transfield, and the troupe of Bedouin Arabs provide specialities which add much to the success of the pantomime.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—The visit of Mr. Martin Harvey and company is always anticipated with pleasure by theatre-goers here, and the theatre has been crowded to its utmost capacity. During the week The Only Way and The Breed of the Treshams have been presented. The former play was given on Monday, when Mr. Harvey again triumphed in his favourite rôle of Sydney Carton. Miss N. de Silva did well as Mimi.

EMPIRE.—Manager, Mr. Chas. Rembges.—The big attraction here this week is Atlas and Miss Vulcana, the great society athletes, who gain a very popular reception. The charming Miss Lily Burnand sings three songs in excellent style; and Miss Gladys Mavius is a capital dancer. Virto and his daughter Irene are capital instrumentalists; the Three Sisters Hayden delight the audience with their songs; and a pleasing novelty is A Ba Be, picture postcard album. Johnny Walker is here for another week; and Vincent, the tumbler, does some clever feats.

OXFORD.—Proprietor and Director, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Griffiths.—Excellent entertainment is provided here this week. The bill includes Fred Lloyd and company, sketch artists; the Pichel troupe of acrobats; Harold Hughman, impersonator; Agnes Molteno, balladist; the McConnell Trio, Captain Slingsby, Elly Adair, Dot Stanley, and the Kaufmann Sisters.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. W. Davies.—Messrs. Little and Darcy's company is here this week in Robinson Crusoe. A bright and vivacious exponent of the title-rôle is found in Miss Marion Armitage; Miss Nellie Moore being an equally good principal girl. Mr. Allen Hanbury scores as the Dame, receiving excellent support from Mr. Willie Black (Will Atkins) and Messrs. Bass and Guinness (the Crusoe Twins). Mention should be made of the singing of Miss Cissie Conyers and Miss Bertha St. Ruth. The specialities include the Sidney Quartette of Dancers, the Snow Family, in their roller skate act, and the George French troupe of trick cyclists.

NELSON.—NEW GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft; Business-Manager, Mr. George E. Mudd.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds's company is this week presenting Arthur Shirley's Passion's Power. Miss Cecil Cromwell as Zorah Varno scores a great success; Mr. Gerald Kennedy gives a capital performance as Prince Kandos; Mr. Stephen E. Scanlan is good as Michael Laski; Mr. Walter Roberts submits a fine portrayal of Rudolph Laski; Mr. Henry Howard as Patrice plays his part creditably; Miss Stella Carmichael is much appreciated as Countess Delaunay; and Mr. Walter Raynham ably sustains the character of General Zuram.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Leah Kleschna is being played here this week to appreciative houses. Miss Haidee Wright sustains the part of Leah Kleschna with feeling and power. Mr. J. Greanne Campbell represents Paul Sylvaine with polished dignity, and Mr. E. H. Brooke portrays Schram admirably. Mr. Kenneth Rivington does well as General Burton; Mr. Cyril Harcourt is a good Raoul Burton; and Mr. Ronald Daniel is good as Tallerton Favre. Miss Ethel Marryatt, Miss Haidee Hansley, and Miss Dorothy Sidney are well placed as Madam Berton, Claire Berton, and Sophie Chapomière respectively. Kleschna in the hands of Mr. H. Cooper-Cliffe is regarded as one of the finest pieces of character acting ever seen in Newport.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—George Gray and his company in The Fighting Parson give much satisfaction. Fred Poplar is a favourite comedian; the Sisters Moulier in a graceful gymnastic act are applauded; Professor Dunning presents a very interesting ventriloquial turn; Harry Drew is a bass vocalist of merit; Kitty Mayer is a singer with style and expression; Kahn and Kahn in modern necromancy are warmly applauded; Sadie Simson, comedienne, is a pleasing artist; and Minnie Duncan and Arthur Godfrey in a coster romance, Me and 'Er, are responsible for much laughter.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mr. John Tully and company are here this week with Uncle Tom's Cabin, in which Mr. Tully himself appears to advantage as Phineas Fletcher; Mr. William Taylor is very good as Uncle Tom; Mr. Fred G. Kay acts with intensity as Simon Legree; Mr. St. Vincent Beechey is amusing as the rascally Lawyer Marks; Miss Florence Venimore plays the rôles of Eliza Harris and Cassy with well differentiated effects; Miss Marie Lyndon is properly precise as Aunt Ophelia; Miss Kitty Wood is a lively Topsy; Little Marie completely realises the part of Little Eva; Mr. James Palmer, as Mr. Selby; Mr. J. D. Geddes, as George Harris; Mr. Charles Colwyn, as Mr. St. Clair; and Miss Annie Moore, as Emmeline, are all highly efficient. The Plantation Festival introduced into Act 4 gives opportunities to Kitty Wood, flap-shoe dancer; Lilian Francis, vocalist; Florrie Mack, coon songstress; Billy Taylor, whistling coon; Sergt. H. Danby, rifle and tambourine expert; and King Roy, basso, to show their varied abilities.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—Helene and Emilion give a pretty and clever gymnastic display; Zanfretta and Napio, the musical knife grinders, submit a high-class entertainment; Warden Reed and Co. are warmly welcomed on their return with the amusing duologue, "Married or Photographed"; Miss Jessie Albini is a refined comedienne, with some effective songs, notably, "My Little Diary"; Miss Ida Corral is broadly humorous as a comedienne; Fred Keeton sings a couple of good comic songs; and the Maitland Comedy Trio, in their funny absurdity, "The New Cook"; Charles H. Harrold, comedian and raconteur; and the Palace Pictures complete the programme.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee. — Messrs. Granville and Thorne's company is this week presenting Napoleon the Great, which has had a cordial reception. As Napoleon, Mr. Hugh Montgomery is responsible for a capital portrayal of the character; Mr. Henry Earlesmere acquits himself well as Colonel Lavarennes; Mr. Phil Harper is highly successful as Colonel Jules Menrow; Mr. E. Bulmer Pitt plays with ability the part of Paul Lacqinska; Mr. Frank M. Thorne is well suited as Pierre Pomponnet; and Mr. C. W. Spencer shows capabilities as Sergeant Choupin. As Marie Valewska Miss Leslie Warner is particularly good; Miss Marie Harcourt is seen to advantage as Marcelle Choupin; Miss Maud Russell is clever as Mdlle. Leonie Marbronf; Miss Florence Thorne makes the most of the part of Mère Dumont; and Miss Adelaide Cromer is pleasing as Lisette.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—An attractive programme here is headed by Aryama, a clever wire walker and barrel manipulator. Mr. Oliver Conroy, comedian, comes in for a flattering reception; the Rushforths, song illustrators, meet with their usual success; King Leoni, ventriloquist, is entertaining; the Hindoo Trio in their scena, An Eastern Maid, meet with much favour; Mr. George Young, blind musician, is loudly applauded; and Messrs. Dardan and Iris, vocalists and tip-toe dancers, and the bio-photoscope complete a good bill of fare.

NORWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Hardie and Von Leer's original company is occupying the boards this week in Two Little Vagabonds. Mr. Henry Hare is very successful as George Thornton; whilst Mr. Douglas Cecil is equally so as Capt. Darville. Mr. John F. Traynor is good as Bill Mullins; Mr. Dunstan Haye represents John Scarth with ability; and Ernest K. Nelson as Dido Bunce and Mr. Fred Archer as The Coughdrop deserve mention. Mr. Frank G. Kent as Leeson, Mr. Marston Moor as Hargett, Mr. Thomas Blakeman as Dr. Lynn, Mr. Hugh Holliman as Joe Gargoyle, Mr. Henry Buckland as Wiffles, and Mr. W. T. Harris as footman render valuable assistance. Miss Grace Heywood gives an effective rendering of the part of Marion Thornton; and Miss F. Russell Spiers deserves praise as Barbara Scarth. Miss Muriel Clay appears as Sister Randall; and Miss Constance May as the maidservant. Miss Freda Ettrick as Dick and Miss Helen Grenville as Wally submit an admirable representation of their respective parts; Miss Marie Pritchard's performance as Biddy Mullins is most realistic.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—A successful programme is presented this week. James De Voye's educated horse, Billy, is a wonderful exhibition of the kind, and astonishes all by his remarkable intelligence. The Paolias are well received in their classical poses, illustrative of physical culture; Will McIvor displays much ability as a vocalist; Adams and Ward are clever as well as humorous acrobats; Walter Curtis, comedian, excites much laughter; the Three Sisters Anderson, lady foot equilibrists, are a good turn; and Alice Melrose is a smart comedienne and expert dancer. In consequence of the indisposition of one of the troupe, the Three Resiras were unable to appear, but their place in the programme was admirably filled by Messrs. Thompson and company, in an amusing absurdity, At the Front. The Hippo Bioscope causes much merriment by the display of new comic pictures; and Captain Selby's band render valuable assistance.

AGRICULTURAL HALL.—Messrs. Barker and Thurston continue their "World's Fair" at this place of amusement, and for a short time have engaged Mr. Hardy, the king of the high rope, who displays his great ability twice each evening. The side shows of Messrs. J. Holmes, Westrope, Mackintosh, Tidman's mystic swing, &c., are all doing good business.

NOTTINGHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—Humpty-Dumpty is now nearing the end of its successful course, much to the regret of many patrons who have thoroughly enjoyed the gorgeous scenery and dressing, smart dialogue, charming music, tuneful songs, and wholesome fun. Laughter has reigned supreme each night, and nothing but pleasant recollections will be the outcome of Mr. Arthur's ninth annual.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles P. Cooke.—The Babes and Robin Hood has now come to its last week, and the verdict is that it forms a record in every way for the "Grand." Miss Sophie Harriss has won golden opinions not only for her singing, but by her gracious demeanour and kindly manner, and Miss Lulu Evans has secured well-deserved popularity. The daintiness of the Four Sisters Tree is conspicuous; the Brothers Lorenzi and the Sisters Phillips have worked hard for their undoubted success; and the comedy element has been well looked after by Messrs. Rokeby Macmillan and Riley. The beautiful dresses and scenery have been rendered more effective still by the novel lime-lighting effects, for which Mr. Collingwood Hope has been responsible, and which have added so much to the artistic success. Miss Sophie Harriss took her benefit on Friday night.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. A. W. Bull.—The juvenile pantomime company of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell is presenting Beauty and the Beast this week. The youngsters fairly revel in their work, and it is at times difficult to imagine they have only a limited knowledge of stage-craft, so capitally do they fill their rôles. The scenic arrangements are excellent, and the dressing well considered. Miss Kitty Trewhitt carries herself well as Prince Charming, and sings pleasantly. Miss Dolly Dodds makes a winsome and delightful Beauty, and Miss May Gibson plays and sings as Silver Star with a grace and vivacity that gain hearty favour. Miss Mona Townshend (Will Scarlett), Miss Isa Green (Maid Marion), and Miss Maggie Adair (Evil Heart) contribute much to the success. Miss Daisy Fielder (Tommy) and Miss Gladys Skipp (Marjorie) are also a lively couple. Master Will Kay (Baron Mumps), Master J. G. Aitken (Dressalinda), and Master Fred Ellis (Marigolda) contribute a large amount of fun, which is also helped by Masters Freddie Bentley, Tot Hunter, and Will Orston.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles H. Bowmaker.—The episode of a ten-pound note, sung by Tom Costello, evokes hearty laughter, and his portraiture of a poor old clown sounds the pathetic note, and is received with the warmest appreciation. Morton and Elliott are a lively pair with their musical instruments, and their manipulation of paper into various devices. The comedy juggling of Derenda and Green is worthy of high praise; F. V. St. Clair is cordially received for his songs; Paul Powell's electrical marionettes are a marvel of cleverness; another skilful item is provided by the Sisters Geretti, a graceful pair of trapeze artists; the descriptive vocalism of Phil Herman is an interesting feature; Mattie Wilks sings with taste and expression; and the equilibristic performance of Mdlle. Chaloni and the step-dancing of the Two Bostons are attractive items.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS CO., LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—The Worst Woman in London, as presented here this week by Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company, is full of interest and excitement from beginning to end. Miss Florence Dalton gives a skilful portrayal of Frances Vere; Mr. H. H. Barrington is well suited to the part of James Milford; and Mr. Wallace Campbell makes a first-rate Jack Felton; Mr. Paul Barry-Lewers is an excellent Vincent Lyle. In the rôle of Hugh Drayton, Mr. A. W. Monte displays considerable ability; Miss Effie Bartlett is well placed as Ruth; Miss Florence Lovell ably portrays Matilda Parker; and Mr. Alvin Sayer makes a good Bob Goldfinch.

OLDBURY. — PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Tom Prichard; Manager, Mr. R. A. Brown.—A good bill here this week includes Messrs. Vowles and Ryan, comedy duettists, in a refined act; Mazzetto, expert juggler; Haddon and Clyde, comedy speciality artistes; Eva Searle, ballad vocalist; Frank Buckley, comedian; Bob Rixby, comedian; Dan Kennedy, comedian; and the Palace Bioscope.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE, LIMITED.—Manager and Proprietor, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hulme.—Mr. Gar Kiddie's pantomime, Little Bo Peep, is receiving excellent support here. Miss Lizzie Payne, in the title-rôle, and Miss Susie Beavan as Boy Blue, are charming in their acting and singing; Mr. Dawson Dewick, J. W. Groves, Gilroy and Gross, Harry Wren, and Stern and Stern contribute largely to the fun.

ROYAL, LIMITED.—Manager, Mr. Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howgate.—An excellent programme is submitted here. The centre of attraction is that wonderful magician, Horace Goldin, who is astounding his audience by his illusions; the Babusian Bros. are well received for their smart acrobatic performance; R. A. Speedwell, the demon painter, is highly appreciated; Marba and Verity create roars of laughter by their acrobatic dancing performance; Tom Brantford is successful in a musical turn; Harry Clifford is appreciated as a vocalist of merit;

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton.—The pantomime of Cinderella is still attracting capital houses here, despite its five weeks' run. It has been a marked success, reflecting credit on all concerned.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr. J. Field.—The star turn here this week is provided by the Loonies, who contribute an abundance of fun and music. Tilley's Minstrels are extremely good, excelling in all that they undertake; Little Don is a versatile and smart comedian who is much appreciated; the Henderson and Stanley Quartette play, sing, and dance well; Mr. Jack Thornbury is a skilful ventriloquist, and his sand and smoke paintings excite general admiration. Other contributors are Miss Ethel May, comedienne and dancer; Etelka Nicklas, comedienne; and Vernon's animated pictures.

PONTYPRIDD.—ROYAL CLARENCE THEATRE.—Owners and Proprietors, Mrs. Trenchard and Miss L. Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—Mr. F. Marriott-Watson's powerful company is appearing here in A False Wife. Mr. W. Howard Barlow makes a manly and powerful Lieut. George Mansfield; Mr. Elton Morgan admirably utilises the opportunities presented by Ben Rattler; Archibald Brown Tee finds a capable exponent in Mr. Owen Edwin; Mr. John Cecil scores a great success as Zorak, the mad wizard; Miss Florence E. Florence as Lady Mansfield wins great admiration by her brilliant acting; Miss Nita Imeson scores as Bessie Blaser; and Miss Aileen Armour is a sympathetic Alice Weyland.

PORTH.—POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Bynorth.—On Monday evening Mr. Frank Bateman's company opened here in the play entitled No Wedding Bells for Her. Mr. George C. Doughty gives a clever impersonation of Dick Delver, a detective. As Frank Hatherleigh Mr. Stuart is most successful. Mr Louis Garton displays power as Montague Blair; Mr. Walter T. Clifford is well suited in the part of Abney Stone; Mr. Edward E. Louis makes a capital Harold Trevelyan; Horatio Lane, an old actor, has an excellent exponent in Mr. A. Balfour Mackay; Miss Ida Mackay is extremely fascinating as Doris Fane; Mr. Herbert J. Walton scores as Adonis Tightfist; Miss Ellen Owen gives a satisfactory representation of Marie; Miss Lizzie Montague is seen to advantage as Lola Delaspierre. The lighter parts are entrusted to the following, who contribute greatly to the evening's enjoyment: Mr. Will Skeleton as Simkins and Miss Helen Stewart as Peggy.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—The Talk of the Town is for the first time being presented to a Portsmouth audience at this house by Mr. William Greet's company, who opened on Monday for twelve nights and four matinées. The piece was received with every mark of approval by a large audience, convulsed by the very natural and clever way in which the "man in possession," Jerry Snipe, was impersonated by Mr. William Cromwell. Reggie Drummond was presented by Mr. Arthur Harrold with ability and much earnestness, his singing of "My Ellaline" being admirable. Messrs. Tom Graves and A. Gambier created lots of merriment as Ernest and Frank English; Miss Louie Tinsley's Geraldine Evelyn Snipe was a capital embodiment of the part, and quietly effective; Ellaline Lewin, in the hands of Miss Joan Kiddie, was a charming and vivacious personage; Madame Modiste was acted by Miss Gertrude Melville in capital style; and the Gipsy Girl Jane was made the most of by Miss Evelyn D'Alroy. The costumes and scenery were much admired.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate—The naval drama, A Sailor's Sweetheart, the attraction here this week, is played by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. Grace Mayland is excellently portrayed by Miss Molly Pearson; Mr. Mark Blow as Lieut. Charles Clive, R.N., makes a manly hero; Mr. Charles H. Lester fills the rôle of the villain Phillip Pemberton with admirable judgment; and Mr. Douglas Carlile acts the rascally solicitor, Stephen Lucas, with ability. Phœbe Pembury and Mrs. Pembury, in the hands of Miss Ella Dixon and Miss Lucy Lester, together with Mr. Walter Westwood as Tim Kelly, A.B., are responsible for a great deal of fun. Messrs. Dan Shields, Thomas, Miller, E. R. Wyvers, and A. B. Cunliffe are also worthy of mention.

EMPIRE PALACE. — Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—The programme for the week here is one of great variety. The Lorch Family, risley act performers, top the bill, and give an entertainment that is thoroughly appreciated. The Twin Bros. Dean, opera whistlers and dancers, are applauded for their excellent turn; Frank Leslie, vocal comedian, also has a good reception; Brett and Orford, with The Two Lovebirds, meet with success; the Crown Trio, speciality vocalists, are very good; Mr. A. Wyndham and company, with the Shakespearean sketch Prince Arthur, win much favour for their very capable efforts; Walker and Lake are popular patter purveyors; and the Three Sisters Thurbani, vocalists and instrumentalists; and Cissie Scofield, comedienne, aid the attractiveness of a capital programme.

RADCLIFFE. — GRAND OPERA HOUSE. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—Mr. Frank Ayrton's Co. in The Power of Gold, is pleasing audiences here. Mr. Charles Whitlock as Hadji Lambra, the Malay Doctor, is capable, and so is Mr. Tom Ronald as Paul Jutson. Mr. William Pimm undertakes the character of Dr. Stephen Saumners with success; Mr. Albert Sefton is good as Mark Harley; Mr. Wilson Wyte's Marc Anthony is funny; Mr. Frank Ayrton, as Sammy Smudge takes advantage of his opportunities for forcing the fun; Miss Lilla Wilde as Lady Brandon submits an interesting portrayal; and Miss Madge Seymour does good work as Norah Donnelly. Miss Georgina V. France is commendable as Miss Judson, and Little Mabel is praiseworthy as Paddy Blake.

RAMSGATE.—AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—On Tuesday night Mr. J. D. Hunter—who is an esteemed native of this town—commenced an engagement with his brightly-written, well-staged pantomime, Cinderella. The genial "J. D." or "Johnny," as he is known to Ramsgate audiences, is thoroughly at home and extremely humorous as the Ugly Sister." Miss Blanche Bayley is a dashing Prince, and Miss Doris Dew a charming Cinderella. Mr. Dick Tubb is an amusing Baron, and the other parts are capably sustained. There is a full and efficient chorus; the Cleveland Troupe indulge in marvellous acrobatic revels, and an excellent finale to the panto. is provided in the shape of Little Rosie's Miniature Circus, introducing highly-trained performing ponies, dogs, etc. Mr. Hunter personally supervises the production, and Mr. L. J. Gunnell courteously acts as manager. The show is in all respects a very attractive one.

RAWTENSTALL.—GRAND THEATRE. — Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Fred C. Somerfield's excellent company opened here on Monday with a fine performance of Nita Rae's powerful new play, Geoffrey Langdon's Wife. As Elinore D'Arville Miss Marie Dagmar gave a finished impersonation, thoroughly delighting the audience with her artistic rendering; Mr. Fred C. Somerfield was also exceedingly clever as Will Maynard; in the dual part of Cyril and Geoffrey Langdon, Mr. Fred Emery was decidedly successful; Mrs. A. Ross Ford was a good Janet Miles; and as Rosina Phillipi Miss Marie Clavering proved herself an actress of undoubted talent; Miss Mildred Clay gave a delightfully natural reading of the part of Lily Lorrimer; Mr. T. G. Vane as Leonard Vimbart was admirable, and Mr. Edwin Cheetham was equally good as Harold Hingston; Miss Maudie Grayson as Phœbe gave a bright and piquant portrayal; and Miss Daisy Ruby as Florette de Vere was all that could be wished; M. Bradford Crosby as Peter Miles, Mr. Chas. E. Warne as James, and Mr. C. Barney as Charles were all thoroughly competent.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr. Reginald Taylor.—The popular comic opera, Lady Madcap, is being presented this week for the first time in Reading by Mr. George Dance's chief company. Miss Vera Vere plays with chic and vivacity as Lady Betty; Miss Kathleen Ronayne is effective as Gwenny Holden; Miss Peggy Primrose's light and graceful dancing in the part of Susan, the lady's maid, creates great applause; Mr. H. V. Surrey plays the part of Oraya Brown with much humour; Mr. Vincent Erne is exceedingly droll as Corporal Ham; Mr. Ray Russell plays with ability and dances with great skill and agility in the character of Bill Stratford; Mr. Fred Payne is highly diverting as Posh Jenkins. The officers of the East Anglican Hussars are well impersonated by Messrs. Lyall Grant, Fredk. C. Leister, Robert Cranny, and E. Whitelock; Mr. Alex Chentrens is very successful as the French Count; Mr. Louis du Cane as Lord Fralingham, Mr. Ralph Holland as the Butler, and Miss C. Johnstone as Mrs. Layton all sustain their parts well. The full chorus and augmented orchestra are under the able direction of Mr. Alfred C. Toone. The production throughout is exceedingly well received, most of the musical numbers being vociferously redemanded.

ROCHDALE.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hayne.—Mr. H. A. Jordison's pantomime The Babes in the Wood is attracting good houses here this week. The scenery is exceptionally pretty and tasteful, and the pantomime is brimming over with rollicking fun and humour. Miss Madge Daley impersonates Bold Robin Hood in dashing style. Miss Nancy Thornton wins all hearts as Maid Marion; Mr. A. Stratton maintains the traditions associated with the bad Baron; Mr. Gus Balsizer is amusing as the black page Bantam; Mr. R. Hill, as the Dame, creates roars of laughter with his merry patter; and the two robbers have a pair of clever representatives in Mr. Bennett and Mr. Martell, whose burlesque acting is immensely enjoyed. The Babes are charmingly acted by Little Dolly Cullen and Little Elsie Jordison, specialities are introduced by Mr. David Poole, ventriloquist; Gus Balsiger; and the Ariston Quartette of Dancers.

CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr. S. L. Lee.—Good business is being done here this week. The Marconis submit an interesting series of experiments with gas and electricity; Decona is an amusing and novelty instrumentalist; Mdlle. Marvelle's trained cockatoos and macaws perform some wonderful tricks; the Darnton Sisters, duettists; Miss Lily Turner, vocalist; Henry Abdy's canine hippodrome; H. O. Borie, comedy juggler; and Stephen Blythe, actor vocalist; complete a capital programme.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—The programme submitted here this week includes several smart turns. The Llewellyns, operatic artistes, render some refined and tasteful songs; the Hugo Troupe submit a novel turn as "The Human Calyspintic-Kromocrene"; the Two Blamphins, in a nigger act, Old Kentucky Home; Connie Ford, vocalist and dancer; Harry Mansfield, comedian; Haig and Novel, comedy couple; Ray Ford, comedienne and dancer; and "Election results" by the Empire Bioscope, complete the list.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's Company is presenting The Mid night Mail this week. Mr. George Harvard is seen to advantage as Harry Steyne; Mr. Fred G. Evison scores as Billy Brewer; Mr. Austin Mortimer is a manly Leonard Royle; and Mr. T. Vincent is deserving of mention as Gerald Eustace. Hassai Padisha is capably enacted by Mr. C. R. Wentworth; Mr. H. Dobell Lyle does well as Donald Craig; Messrs. Warburton and Harry Emmerson as Edward Barclay and Jasper Thornleigh are effectively rendered parts; Miss Kitty Johnstone is a sprightly Parker; and Miss Jennie Weston scores as Mrs. Mildmay. Miss Lydia Hart is very smart as Nancy Brewer; Miss Hilda Merriles is pleasing as Lady Phyllis Eustace; Miss Grace Lester as Mary Steyne, gives a thoughtful and sympathetic rendering of the part, and Miss Ethel North, as Patty, speaks her lines effectively.

DRILL HALL.—The Joseph Poole Myriorama and Variety entertainment are paying their annual visit to the town with quite an up-to-date programme of pictures. Amongst the specialities may be mentioned Mr. Felix-de-Marce's exceedingly clever performing ponies and dogs; the Three Phydoras in their smart, knockabout turn; Miss May Finch, a pleasing character vocalist; and Messrs. Nash and Nash; the Vernons, and Mr. Nat Abatt, who all deserve special mention.

RUGBY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. A. F. Cross. This week the drama At the World's Mercy is being presented here. Mr. Carr Loates as Captain Frank Manley is robust and effective, and as the Solicitor Mr. Albert Guyon gives a clever rendering; Mr. Hyland Shea as Goldstein submits an able and amusing impersonation; and as Charlie Smart Mr. W. G. Irving proves himself to be a versatile comedian; Mr. Leo Rodway as Slouching Sam is also successful; Miss Cissie Milford as Skittles meets with much applause; Miss Ginnevre Shilton as Alice Lloyd does exceedingly well; and as Kitty Smart Miss Annie Hunter is highly effective; Miss Kitty Jerome as Rose in smart and dances excellently, as also does Little Vera, who takes the part of Dot; Miss Alice King as Mother Haggard, and Miss Jennie Gilmore as Mrs. Rouke are both good.

RUNCORN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. H W. Caddick.—A repertoire of popular classical plays is being staged this week by Mr. Alan Wilkie's company, a pronounced success being the result. On Monday Othello was the attraction, the title-rôle being taken by Mr. Wilkie, who gives an interesting interpretation; Mr. G. Lambton is quite successful as the scheming Iago; Mr. Clifford Rean is responsible for an earnest rendering of Cassio; and Mr. Edwin Ling does well as the Duke of Venice; and Mr. Jas. Willoughby is effective as Brabantio; Miss Cameron enacts Desdemona with charm and emotional power; and Emilia is well played by Miss Lizzie Maddocks.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Mr. Peter Eland's pretty pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, was welcomed here on Monday by a large house. It is under the management of Mr. Harry Flockton-Foster, who cleverly sustains the part of the naughty Baron. Babs Lloyd, a clever little lady, made an ideal heroine in the title-rôle, singing and dancing in a charming manner. Miss Ruby Winstone is a dashing Robin Hood, and Maid Marian is well presented by Miss Celestine Brandon. Mr. Oswald Battye as the village policeman, Mr. Arnold Richardson as the village postman, Mr. Fred Cherry as Widow Bailey, and Mr. W. Brandon as the page form a comical quartette whose business keeps the audience in a continual roar. Miss Daintree as the good Fairy, Mr. Lorimer Stuart as the Wolf, Miss Fanny Humber as Will Scarlett, and Mdlle. Carmencita as Nell o' the Knoll also do well. Among the specialities is a most amusing cycling act by the Keegans; Mdlle. Thelma does some clever clay modelling; Miss Ruby Dahl's novelty marionettes cause roars of laughter; and Stentora, a lady baritone, and the Lotus Troupe of Dancers.

REGENT OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Sentenced for Life is presented by Mr. Bulmer's company this week. Sir Walter Stillwell is fittingly portrayed by Mr. Brancepeth-Nevill, and Mr. E. Vaughan successfully plays the villain, Captain Paul Derrick, and the hero, Lieutenant Roy Stillwell, is excellently undertaken by Mr. Arthur Keand. Mr. James F. Firth as Percy McGentle is very comical. Miss Madge Douglas, who sings well as Adele Gray, Miss Mary Dalby as Kate Reumel, and Miss Gladys Hawthorne are charming in their several rôles. Rev. Martin Orris is carefully sustained by Mr. Glenville. Messrs. Horton and Oldroyd as Old Sharkey and Toby add much to the comedy element.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Ben Hur deserves praise for his remarkable feats of strength; Miss Ada Colley's songs are well received; The Daybreakers is a comical acrobatic sketch. The excellent programme also includes Winnie D'Aubyn, burlesque artist; C. F. Best, a smart comedy acrobat; Grey and Welford, comedians in comic boxing; the Lurins, in comic sketch; Harry Nation, laughing comedian; and some comic bioscope pictures.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—Maggie Walsh, Lancashire singing mill girl, makes a great hit with her songs. Chas. Ashdowne, eccentric comedian and dancer, is well received; A. J. Rebla's comic and clever juggling is much applauded; and other good turns include the Two Neros (funny burglars), the Hartley Wonders, the Vyponds (in the song-scena, The Wedding Day), Carle and Carmanelli (musical comedians), Harry Morris, Marie Blythe (comedienne), and Payte's Society Entertainers, concluding with some interesting bioscope pictures.

SEACOMBE.—IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Councillor James Kiernan.—Lovers of the sensationally dramatic are well catered for here this week by Messrs. E. H. Knight and George Denham's company in The Grip of Iron. Mr. Fred Powell gives a powerful delineation of Jagon, alias Simmonet, and Mr. George Denham presents a satisfactory Loustalot. Miss Nellie Fletcher is excellent as Cora Simmonet. The other characters are in excellent hands.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. C. Harrison.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's company is engaged here this week and presenting with success Her Wedding Day. Weedon Kenyon finds a capital exponent in Mr. S. Herbert Humber; Seth Mayson is performed with telling effect by Mr. T. Edward Ward; Harold Saxby is given an effective portrayal by Mr. Percy Brown; Jordan J. Jessop is made an amusing study by Mr. Morris Maud; Sam Klink is well done by Mr. James Barrett; Madge Conway is admirably acted by Miss Ward; Dora is acceptably presented by Miss Eva Bertram; Dolly Klink is pleasingly embodied by Miss Beatrice Sinclair; and Mrs. Caccles is capably interpreted by Miss Ettie Spalding.

SHEERNESS.—THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton.—The programme submitted here still maintains its usual standard of excellence. Frank Purcell's comedy company in the farcical sketch, Three Husbands, provides an attractive feature of the bill. Mr. Cyrus Dare in his mimical entertainment includes some capital imitations of a child; the San Remo Girls, vocalists and dancers, are much admired; a recitation by Mr. Frank Purcell meets with well-deserved applause; Miss Jennie Reeve, comedienne, and J. D. Toner, mimic, are also worthy of praise; and a series of new and interesting pictures by Ruffell's Bioscope completes the entertainment.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. P. Reymond.—A good all-round bill here includes the Arundel Sketch Company in the comedy act, The Artful Photographer; Miss Flo Windsor, male impersonator, is also paying a welcome return visit; Mr. Will Danton, descriptive vocalist; Miss Lettie Young, Scotch comedienne; Mr. Charles Howard, comedian and dancer; and the Dennisons, comedy duettists, complete the programme.

SHEFFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. T. S. Carter.—The second edition of Mr. George Davey's pretty pantomime Babes in the Wood presented to a good audience on Monday. Mr. Kirby's flying ballet and the Lottie Stone ballet troupe continue popular features of the pantomime, and Little Ganty, the whimsical Baron, keeps the house in roars of laughter.

LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The annual visit of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company is a big event with local lovers of music, and on Monday a large and demonstrative audience listened with pleasure to a fine performance of Tannhauser, which was excellently staged and efficiently cast, Herr Julius Waether and Miss Hana Mara specially distinguishing themselves. The ensemble was admirable, and vocally and dramatically the opera was an artistic success. On Tuesday the delightful Marriage of Figaro was given, with Mesdames Nicholl, Woodall, and Burgess, and Messrs. Winckworth and Victor as principals. On Wednesday Mr. Edward Davies, Mr. Winckworth, and Miss Grace Nicholl appeared in Faust, and the programme for the rest of the week was as follows:—Thursday, The Bohemian Girl; Friday, Tristan and Isolda; Saturday morning, Carmen; and evening, Wallace's ever popular romantic opera, Maritana.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—A more merry and exhilarating annual than Cinderella could not be desired, and crowded houses continue to testify by loud applause how much the Sheffield public appreciate the efforts of the enterprising and indefatigable management. A large share of the great success of the annual is due to the capital performances of Pete and Juno, the renowned transatlantic coloured comedians, and the extraordinary vivacity of the troupe of dancers known as the Tivoli Quartette, whose efforts nightly bring down the house. Miss Alma Obney, assisted by the Tivoli troupe, makes a big hit with "Four merry, pretty little Maidens." The Sisters Terry, handsome, clever, and refined, are big favourites. The Bros. Lavelle are applauded to the echo. Miss Celia Kent makes a hit with her songs and dances. Messrs. Dale and Mackenzie are two mirth-provoking Ugly Sisters. Miss Edie Endon, with her smart dancing, evokes great applause. Miss Townend makes a charming Fairy Sunbeam, Mr. Fred. C. Biron is a bluff John Bull-like Baron Hardup, and Mr. Harry Pleon scores with his funniosities and impersonations.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, the Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The bill this week is headed by the Empire Comedy Four, who appear in a novel, humorous, and versatile entertainment. Mendal, the blind pianist, again justifies the position he holds in the estimation of all lovers of music. Griff is still full of quips and quiddities, and continues a big favourite; the smart patter of Fraser and Mac causes hearty laughter; and other successful performers are Liddon and Hayward, A-Bo-Kon, W. H. Clemart (mimic), the Royal Six (in a novel act), Lux and his well-trained canine pets, Gallando, and Alpha.

GRAND PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Richard Ralli.—On Monday a large and appreciative audience welcomed the following new-comers:—The Brothers Zampah, Miss Mabella May, Miss Cordite, Mr. Nat Watkins, the popular Mortimers, and Prof. Pallister with his animated pictures of local and topical events.

MONTGOMERY HALL.—The famous Maskelyne and Devant mysteries and illusions are still drawing well-pleased audiences. A special feature this week is "The Burmese Gong."

WONDERLAND.—Proprietor, Mr. Victor Sampson.—The pantomime of Beauty and the Beast, invented and produced by Mr. Herbert Lemley, is being performed here to good houses.

SHREWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Business Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Mr. Chas. Macdona's company was here on the first four nights of this week with the pretty musical comedy A Country Girl. Mr. J. Mansell Stringer was a thoroughly capable Geoffrey Chaloner; Mr. Bernard Vaughan looked well and sang effectively as the Rajah of Bhong; Mr. W. O. Billington was droll and lively as Sir Joseph Verity; Mr. W. Besley Beltran acted with ability as Douglas Verity; Mr. Geo. Stone was a picturesque rustic as Granfer Mummery; Mr. A. W. Metcalf made a capital Lord Anchester; Mr. W. Womack was successful as Lord Grassmere; Mr. Sawyer as Herr Tootser acquitted himself creditably; and Mr. Heath satisfactorily sustained the rôle of Rube Fairway. Mr. Johnny Clegg was a lively and clever Barry. Miss Eileen Guilbert was a charming and tuneful Marjorie Joy; Miss Vera Vizard made a fine Princess Meehelanah; Miss Madge Campbell was bright and pleasing as Madame Sophie; Miss Florence Brewster acted with care and judgment the part of Mrs. St. Quintin; Miss Kitty Stone was a sympathetic Nurse; Miss Cecilia Broughton sustained creditably the part of Lady Anchester; Miss Nellie Read was good as Miss Carruthers; Miss Barbara Antonie played conscientiously the part of an Indian attendant; and Miss Florence Burdett made a lively Nan.

SMETHWICK. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—The Temptress made her bow to a large audience here on Monday, and her career proved very interesting in the hands of Mr. W. H. Hallatt's company. Mr. W. H. Hallatt brings to bear on the part of Pedro Gonzales, a lion tamer, histrionic abilities of a high order; and Miss Blanche Steele in the title-rôle is also a conspicuous success. Mr. C. James Ashworth is excellent as Sir Oswald Fordyce; Mr. Robert Wilton makes a capital Austin Dale; Mr. Frederick Ross is well placed as Lucas Denbigh; Miss Dora Mason is good as Denis; and both Miss Lizzie Chambers and Mr. Allan Carruthers are responsible for popular and clever portrayals.

SOUTHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton.—This week's attraction is the musical comedy The Catch of the Season, which is admirably presented by Mr. Chas. Frohman's company. Miss Maie Ash is charming as Angela, and with Mr. Frank Lincoln (the Duke) easily carries off the honours of the evening. Mrs. A. B. Tapping is well placed as Lady Catherham; and Miss Belle Napier scores as Lady Crystal. Miss Alice Lethbridge dances delightfully; and Miss Hettie Muret excels as a vocalist. Mr. Laurence Caird and Mr. E. W. Royce also do exceedingly well.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Willie Trussell.—A popular feature here is the presentation of a number of scenes from the works of Charles Dickens, which are realisticaly given by Miss Eva Hope and Mr. Jack Wayho. Leo Tell excels as an animal imitator; and Tate and Tate do well in their acrobatic speciality. Lydia Yeamans, assisted by F. J. Titus, also wins golden opinions; and other capital turns were given by Wright and Elton, Harry Lawson, Toch and Tard, and Frank Bernard and Co. in a funny sketch, Hello.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Freece; District Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percy Aldin.—The bright particular star is Marie Loftus, who evokes a perfect hurricane of applause by her versatile contributions. The Lynches, song illustrators, also do well; and others who appear are Jean Seul, the Indian mystery; Will English, the all-black; Onda and Leon, acrobats; Mayon and Marle; and Arthur Boyne.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Sole Owners, The Southend Theatre Co. (1905), Ltd.; Managing Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Mr. Geo. Brydon-Phillips is presenting the pantomime, in two parts, entitled Little Red Riding Hood, and Monday's production was received most enthusiastically. The scenery is very pretty, and both this and the dresses are much admired. The choruses are well rendered, and the dancing by the Six American Belles deserves mention. Mr. Fred Maple and Miss Amy Maple, who take the parts of the Wicked Squire and Jill respectively in good style, are to be highly complimented on their really clever dancing, their exhibition of the cake walk, as danced in Japan, being rapturously applauded. Miss Louie Hurman made a dashing Prince Amoroso, being well supported by Miss Vera Saunders as Cupid, and Miss Marie Beaufort as the Fairy Gossamer. Mr. Henry de Sola gives a really clever impersonation of Lawyer Slyfox, working hard throughout. Mr. Philip Sefton and Mr. George Elliston as the Wolf and the Poodle respectively are good, and Mr. Charles Gardiner is seen to advantage in his character of Granny. Miss Lily Stewart is responsible for a clever portrayal of Little Red Riding Hood.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—For the second time this season pantomime occupies the stage here, the company engaged being that of Messrs. Charles Carey and Alexander Loftus in a good all-round production of Cinderella. The title-rôle had a chic and clever exponent in Miss Freda Godfrey; Miss Ernestine Walter piquantly depicted Prince Charming; Miss Maud Terry capably represented Dandini; the Fairy Godmother has a charming representative in Miss Hilda Blanche; Miss M. Nichols undertook the part of Lord Gadfly very creditably; the comic element was well sustained by Mr. Norman Bower and Mr. W. E. Chewd as the two Ugly Sisters; Messrs. Nash and Noel as the Broker's Men, and especially by Mr. Joseph B. Montague, who was the drollest possible Peter the Page. Mr. J. Grant scored highly in the part of Baron Bounder, and the remaining characters were all well sustained.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz.—An attractive entertainment is provided here this week. Prominent amongst the items submitted are Bert Williams, ventriloquist and chapeaugraphist; Oily Oakley, banjoist; the Society Quartette of vocalists, comedians, and dancers; and Hurman, juggler and hoop manipulator. Other good turns are supplied by Lily Dresden, refined vocalist; Syd Herman, Hebrew comedian; Minnie Mace, comedienne and dancer; and the Bio-Tableaux.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—The pantomime Cinderella maintains its popularity here. Mr. Eade Montefiore has carefully selected his company, and, judging from the excellent houses, the result is altogether satisfactory. The comedy, headed by Mr. George Rydon, a versatile comedian, is as strong as ever, adequate support being lent by Messrs. Fred Lincoln, Arthur Byron, George Antley, and Conan and Doyle. Among the ladies Miss Nellie Merton (Cinderella), and Miss Georgina Leonard (Prince Peerless) have both created favourable impressions. A further word of praise may be allotted to Miss Vera Schlesinger (Fairy Godmother) and Mr. Geo. W. Travener (Demon King).

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. M. Thompson.—A remarkably clever equilibristic act is submitted by the Riogokus Family of Japanese acrobats, who are loudly applauded. Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, are old favourites here. Expert dancing is given by Bertha Winder, the dancing marvel. A good comedy sketch is shown by Collins and Rice. Other attractive performances are supplied by Fred Elton, mimic; Rhoda Bros., acrobats; F. H. Dundas, vocal comedian; Horace White, ventriloquist; and the much-appreciated American Bioscope.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr. Joseph Sweeney.—The attractions this week include the Four Blackbirds, coloured comedians and dancers, who head the bill. A clever turn is presented by Kloof and Ramsey, in their musical novelty burlesques; Vasey and Reed, smart comedians and patterers, find favour; and James Lowery, singing furnaceman, wins applause. Bert Bowden is a quaint comedian. Other turns contributing to an excellent programme are Bertha Norwood, comedienne; and Walter Payne's Bio-Photoscope, which is still popular.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee Mr. Harding Thomas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Herbert Vere.—Messrs. Monti and Firth are this week presenting their popular pantomime, The Babes in the Wood. The choruses and dances are a marked feature of the performance. As Robin Hood Miss Florrie Bray is very piquant, and her rendering of several popular songs is much relished; Miss May Edney is conspicuous as Will Scarlett; the sisters Lily and Maudie Cleave submit a good performance of the Babes; Miss Ada Clare as Maid Marian and Miss Daisy Cecil as Phyllis do well; a good Dame is seen in Mr. Dean Idle, who succeeds in keeping his audience in the best of tempers. Mr. Arthur Allen fills the rôle of Baron Graball with distinction, and the Brothers Valmore are very funny as Weary Willie and Tired Tim.

STAFFORD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—Last Friday and Saturday Mr. Chas. Macdona's company in the bright musical comedy, The Gay Parisienne, was a big attraction at this theatre. Mr. Edward Kipling gave a droll and capable portrayal of Ebenezer Honeycomb; Miss Alice Nixon was a most vivacious and chic Parisienne; Miss Gwennie Harcourt was capable as Ruth; and as Norah Miss Lucia Collins was good. The singing of the Imperial Glee Singers (Messrs. Jones, Reed, Carey, and FitzJames) met with great applause. This week the theatre is occupied by Messrs. Ernest Chisney, Arthur C. Sanderson, and Miss Bessie Elma's company in the powerful drama The Power and the Glory. The play, which is of a highly sensational character, is well received, and the acting is good all round.

ST. HELENS. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, the St. Helen's Theatre, Ltd.; General Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—We have here this week a return visit from Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company with The Village Blacksmith. Mr. Sam Livesey sustains the title-rôle is a manly and clever manner; Miss Laura Hansen is thoroughly at home as Kate Strong; as the villain Leo, Mr. Joseph Carter is forcible. Other prominent parts are well-filled by Miss Edith Giddens, Miss Bertha Hanbury, Miss Cassie Edwards, and Messrs. C. Livesey and T. E. Marshall.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Will Sley, and F. Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. V. Carnell.—Miss Violet Whinworth's Cycling Girls in the act Riding to Win are proving a great draw here; Messrs. J. S. Benyon and G. Campkin, racing cyclists, are also well received; Livesey and Rosebery cause much hilarity in the sketch, The Would-be Actors; Dusty Rhodes scores as a vocal comedian; the Alskarno Trio are Risley acrobats of no mean order; Miss Lilian Victoria is clever in her vocal scena, Aunt's Troubles; the Perkins, coloured vocalists and dancers, are very good; Tony Iveson, "the Aristocratic Ragman," is funny; and Zaid, contortionist, is popular.

ST. LEONARDS.—THE KURSAAL.—Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—The orchestral concerts this week are supplemented by the distinguished soprano Miss Ethel Grimes, and Madame Ella Russell.

STOCKPORT. — NEW THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—A large and appreciative audience assembled here on Monday night to welcome Mr. George Dance's musical play The Duchess of Dantzic on the occasion of its second visit. Mr. Gilbert Yorke gave an effective impersonation of Napoleon, and Mr. Leonard F. Griffiths acted with satisfactory ability as Francois. Mr. Gilbert Childs, in the character of Papillon, created abundant laughter; and Mr. J. H. Goldsworthy made a smart and able Adhemar. Miss May Glum's performance as Sans Gene was exceedingly delightful; Miss Ella Derwent impersonated the Empress Josephine with dignity; and Renee was charmingly presented by Miss Maggie White.

EMPIRE, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—The amusing patter of Cliff Ryland has quite suited the habitués of this establishment, who have laughed heartily; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, styled the Factory Nightingales, are a trio of entertaining vocalists; and the Autos, in their comedy, The Musical Doll, are well received. Gus Hindell in song and story is successful; whilst Henry Carlton as Billy Blobbs, ably supported in a sketch, One Night Only, causes abundant merriment. The Harlem Brothers show their versatility as rifle manipulators, acrobats, and dancers; Donna and Cliff sing and dance ably; and the Sisters Bartholomew, duettists, share in the applause of the evening.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—Mr. Chas. Macdona's company in Are You a Mason? is here this week. As George Fisher, Mr. Allan Pollock

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. John H. Stringer; Treasurer, Mr. Alfred Browne.—A diversified bill is provided here this week, including as it does Jee and Arden, Scotch comedy artistes; The Children's Party, in which some half-hundred local youngsters appear; Harry Freeman, comedian; Frank Bertram and Co. in a short comedy sketch, entitled The Chaperon; Linton, a clever slack-wire performer; the Three Clarions, in their musical absurdity, The-Would-be-Tenor; Vernon's Animated Pictures; and last, but by no means least, Alexandroff's troupe of Russian singers and national dancers.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Captain Clayton; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company in The Two Little Drummer Boys is here this week, and a good house showed considerable approval on Monday. Mrs. F. G. Kimberley acts in a forcible manner as Margaret Rivers (Drunken Meg); Mr. Lionel Hamilton is excellent as Captain Frank Carsdale; Mr. Edward Birtker is good as General Kingsley; and Mr. Andrew Money as Captain George Darrell plays the heavy lead in a manner that is cool and refined. The comedy is well looked after by Miss Edie Macklin as Molly, Mr. F. G. Kimberley as Quincy O'Quirk, and Mr. Horace Custins as Timothy Trimmer; Little Elsie May, child vocalist, gains applause.

SWINDON.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Mr. Milton Bode's pantomime Robinson Crusoe, which, under the general management of Mr. Hugh Nolan, has been transferred in its entirety from the Theatre Royal, Cardiff, is the attraction here. Miss Maisie Ellinger, as principal boy, plays with remarkable freshness and refinement, and Miss Veronica Brady is bright and captivating as Polly Perkins, both these talented artists being vociferously encored for their songs and dances. Miss Cassie Walmer is an ideal Empress of Jungalow, and is very popular; while Miss Lily Beverley as Lieut. Bobs, and Miss Blanche Courtenay as Jenny Hopkins, are each seen to considerable advantage. Mr. Tom Owen, the Welsh comedian, is an excellent widow, and with Mr. Frank Couch as Billy, and Messrs. Downes and Langford as Salt and Pepper respectively causes unbounded fun throughout. Larola is particularly good as Friday, and scores heavily with his clever speciality. Mr. Clifford Morgan has made a fine study of the part of Will Atkins, his well-rendered songs being highly appreciated.

TON-Y-PANDY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth; Acting-Manager, Mr. Barrie.—Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson's company this week is presenting Her One Great Sin. Being well mounted and capitally played, the piece is followed throughout with great interest. Mr. Sam Arthur gives a strong exposition of the part of Reuben Warhurst; Arnold Thornhill, a spendthrift squire, is excellently portrayed by Mr. J. L. Jackson; and Miss Blanche St. Albans is admirably cast as the erring Grace Warhurst.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey; Acting-Manager, Mr. Gunnell.—There have been large audiences this week on the occasion of the first visit of Mr. Henry Bedford's company in such favourites as Gipsy Jack and Mafeking. In the first-named piece, on the opening night, Mr. Bedford had a cordial reception in the title-rôle, and was well supported by his company. On Thursday Mr. Carey, in conjunction with Mr. F. Hunnibell, gave a successful matinée concert in aid of the Mayor's Unemployed Fund.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr. James Kiddie's company, in the pantomime Dick Whittington and His Cat is here this week, and has proved very popular. Miss Bessie Willows makes a dashing Dick. Miss Maggie Summersin is smart and refined as Alice; Miss Florence Hilton is lively as Sir Algernon de Mash, and wins applause with her pleasing songs; Miss Isabel Taylor is a handsome Captain Navycutie; the part of the Cat is well filled by Mr. M. V. Vido. The comedians, Mr. Cyril Dundas (Alderman Fitzwarren), Mr. Victor Vernon (the Cook), Messrs. Clifton and Gibson as the Apprentices, along with Mr. Will Summersin (Idle Jack), keep the house in continuous laughter, and contribute largely to the success of the pantomime. Mr. Archie J. Milne is good as the Emperor of Morocco, and Miss Florrie Crompton is dainty as the Princess. Some clever specialities are introduced by Curtis and Vanity, who head some excellent cake-walking; the Three Sisters Kilner, who dance delightfully; La Belle Troupe of Parisienne dancers; a capital acrobatic dance turn is also contributed by Miss Vanity; the Horbury Handbell Ringers win applause; Miss Cissie Clifton as the Fairy, and Mr. Archie J. Milne as the King of Rats sing well.

CORN EXCHANGE.—Mr. J. W. Turner's Opera Company occupies the boards here this week. The principals include Messrs. J. W. Turner, John Ridding, F. J. Hargreaves, Chas. Le Sœur, Sidney Clifford, Miss Jennie Dennis, Miss Alice Boaden, and Miss Kitty Brownless. The programme for the week includes Maritana, The Bohemian Girl, Faust, Il Trovatore, and Killarney.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucan.—A good programme is headed by Morritt, who performs some astounding, mystifying feats. Mr. J. H. Carney, vocalist and quick change artist, gets a good reception; Blind Man displays a wonderful memory; the Two Eltons are clever bar performers; Cliff and Keane, vocalists and dancers, make a great hit; the Marblesque Trio, in statuary poses, contribute an interesting turn; and Miss Nellie Dunbar, comedienne, is pleasing.

WALTHAMSTOW.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr. Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Slatter.—Pantomime, having run its brief but satisfactory career at the Palace, Mr. Barclay is this week tempting his patrons to forego the delirious pleasures of General Electioneering with a programme that certainly affords general satisfaction to the most eclectic tastes. The place of honour on the bill is occupied by Sidney Bacon's great dramatic production entitled The Ellaniae, written by Arthur Jefferson. If the tendency of this short drama be of the weird and gruesome nature, there is no mistaking its power and its potency to enthrall the audience. For the chief character, that of Nathan Black, Mr. Melville Bickford has been engaged, and that actor—whose face, when he is first beheld peering out from between the curtains, bears an almost startling resemblance to that of the late Sir Henry Irving in Shylock—gives a rendering of the part which for concentrated hatred and passion would be difficult to surpass. The impersonation is artistically worked up to the thrilling climax, and the death of the unfortunate maniac is the signal for loud and prolonged cheers, richly deserved. Mr. George Wybrow affords welcome relief to the sombre tone of the piece by his rich humour as Sammy Carrot; Mr. William Brandon acts with point the brutal cynicism of Jasper Woodleigh, whose long-suffering wife, Florence, has a careful and clever representative in Miss Alwynne Ermon; Miss Josie Bickford is full of life and spirit as the light-hearted Sally Jenkins; and Mr. George Proctor is good as Chawles. The final set of the Maniac's Den, with the awe-inspiring implement of death in full working order, is finely built up. The variety portions of the programme are all satisfactory. Chill and Clark repeat their lively singing and dancing with great appreciation; Farley, Rennie, and Farley are very droll in their act, Fun at a Railway Station. Mr. Charles Norton is an admirable mimic of many of the stars of the variety stage, those imitations of artistes who have appeared at the Palace meeting with immediate and hearty recognition; Selkirk's grand spectacle, Our Empire's Defenders, with its wealth of colour and its crowd of cleverly-trained children, proves no less popular than on previous visits; Mr. Charles Mildare is perfectly astonishing in his whistling imitations of many song-birds; Frazer and Haley, two young ladies with good voices and nimble toes, sing and dance charmingly; Miss May Belrose is loudly applauded for her song "Alexandra"; and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope displays a series of amusing pictures.

KING'S THEATRE.—A pretty little burlesque on the popular subject of Aladdin occupies the boards here and is capitally played by the Regent Theatre Company under the personal supervision of Mr. St. John Beecher, assisted by Mr. James Dunlop. The burlesque has been adjusted and arranged for this theatre by Mr. Bernard Mervyn, and some pretty scenery has been painted by Mr. C. H. Markham and assistants. As Aladdin's "Ma," Mary Ann Twankey, Mr. James Dunlop is the life and soul of the piece, his drolleries keeping the audience in a constant state of effervescent mirth. He is capitally seconded by Mr. Edwin Fergusson as Abanazar, who acts with great point and speaks as a highly-educated magician should. Mr. Ernest Munro is amusing as the Emperor Gozgou, and Mr. Edward Alworth is a clever Fite Shi, the Vizier. A very sprightly hero is to be found in the elegant person of Miss Marie Jones, who is the personification of mischief; Miss Grace Emery is a pretty and captivating Princess Badroulbadour; Miss Gertie Winters is a neat Pekoe, and Miss Emily Petengall as the Genie of the Lamp and Miss Rhoda Dendon as ditto of the Ring both do well. The Doris Quartette perform adroitly some dances of the acrobatic description arranged by Miss May Doris; and a lady wrestler arouses enthusiasm by her deeds of daring. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. J. Sheridan Gordon, does ample justice to the music, composed and arranged by Mr. H. J. Wilcocks.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece. — The delightful and vivacious comedy, San Toy, is the attraction here this week, and it seems almost needless to add that the George Edwardes company is in every way an admirable one. Miss Nina Osborne enacts the title-rôle, and submits a graceful and effective portrayal, her duets with Captain Bobby Preston, admirably played by Mr. Howard V. Cropton, being vociferously applauded. Miss Madge Hamilton acts with animation as Poppy; and Miss Maud Lucy, as Dudley, is lively and vivacious, her dancing meriting the highest admiration. Miss Ethel Twitchen is seen to advantage as Rose Tucker; and Miss Lucy Donati makes the most of her opportunities as Ko Fan. Mr. Clifford Seigler, as Li, is exceptionally clever, giving a ludicrous exposition of Chinese cunning and duplicity. Mr. Edward G. Hall invests the character of Yen How with a grotesque humour, and incidentally he is to be congratulated on his six little wives, headed by Miss Florence Cameron as Yung Shi. Mr. George Partie is amusing as the Emperor; Mr. Harry Turner makes a droll Sir Bingo; and Mr. A. H. Majilton an efficient Lieutenant Harvey Tucker. Mr. Francis Hamilton is good as Fo Hop.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmot.—Jake Friedman, the "one-man opera," is a great attraction here this week; Les Momets supply an acceptable entertainment in the sketch The Master and the Maid; and T. W. Barrett scores in a capital repertory of songs. Other attractions are Rosa Cass, vocalist; Mdlle. de Devena, juggler; Alic Aubrey, gymnast; the Demon Chef; Bob King, comedian; and the Royal Bioscope pictures.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manager, Mr. W. J. Cranston.—Mr. Fred Karno's celebrated company, in the successful musical pantomimical farce, His Majesty's Guests, is appearing here this week. The important rôle of Sergeant Lightning is amusingly portrayed by Mr. Arthur Lenville; Mr. Frank Morton makes a clever Lord Easem; and as Mr. Miffin Mr. Charles Usher is responsible for good work. Mr. H. W. Lumley as Mr. Winks and Mr. N. Simpson as Fritz prove themselves capable artists. The part of Miss Manley, the new woman, is humorously interpreted by Miss Amy Rogerson; Selina, by Mr. Harry Hawe, is also worthy of special mention; Miss L. Castelle displays remarkable talent in her rendering of Lady Maud Easem; and Mr. F. Fredericks evokes roars of laughter in his comical representation of Bunker.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore.—Cinderella is a bright, entertaining, and amusing pantomime, and as presented by the Pardoes' capable company here this week has not failed to draw delighted and large audiences. A comedian of fine talent is Mr. George Hyman, who provides abundant fun as Scoot; the Cinders of Miss Dolly Wright is all that could be desired; the same may be said of Miss May Daventry's Dandini; Mr. Tom Hulme is good as the Baron; the Prince Charming is in the capable hands of Miss Lottie Holland, who delights the house with her rendering of all the new songs; Miss Annie De Brice does remarkably well as the Good Fairy; Eva and Maude, the ugly sisters, are both well portrayed by Mr. Tom Gordon and Mr. Jess Boxer.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—The bill this week includes the names of several artists who have already gained popularity in the district, among whom are Lady Mansell and her smart troupe of well-trained children; Caselli and James, who execute some really classical work on the banjo; and the Haverleys, with capital pictures accompanied by songs given in good style; Marie Gibson, a pleasing soprano, sings to the delight of her hearers; Mdlle. Haydee's mannikins are manipulated in a manner which gives them lifelike action. A conspicuous hit is made by Orpheus, who, on a variety of instruments, discourses some pretty music; the sabot dance by the Three Sisters May is well applauded; Harry Luck, character comedian, and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are also in the programme.

GRAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's principal company this week is presenting The Sin of Her Childhood to appreciative audiences. Little Mabel gives a remarkably well-studied rendition of the rôle of Little Mary; and a marked success is made of the part of Mary Haysel by Miss Ruth Sheppard. The acting of Little Dot Moss as Hannah Spry and her rendering of some smart songs and dances calls forth warmest appreciation; a naive and lively Eliza Muggins is found in Miss Annie Megson, who, in conjunction with Mr. Fred Elvin as Barney O'Reilly, are responsible for the comedy of the play. Mr. Beresford Lovett as Rev. Alan Grey, Mr. Franklyn Graham as John Thornton, and Miss Jenny Douglas Hicks satisfactorily discharge their alloted tasks; and the character of Stephen Haysel is made a distinctly telling one by Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company in The Little Breadwinner is here this week. As Lord William Dorrington, Mr. J. A. Campbell, the author, gives a good reading of the part. Richard Lawrence is acted in manly fashion by Mr. David Gordon; a cool and clever Joseph Prior is found in Mr. Roland Yorke; Charles Prior is given with a versatility and a humour which win great credit for Mr. Allen Charles; the arduous part of Meg, the little breadwinner, is undertaken by Little Emmie Thomas, who plays with delightful freshness and charm, whilst her singing is very pleasing; Miss Mary Mallalieu is a capable and sympathetic Margaret; Kate Cherry is ably acted by Miss Maud Buchanan; and Miss Emma Litchfield is a pleasing Ruth Cherry; Bridget O'Flanaghan is humorously drawn by Miss Jennie Bostock.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. David Williams.—Miss Lena Stanton's pantomime company is here in Robinson Crusoe. Miss Stanton is a capital Crusoe, and Miss Minnie Melbah is a charming Polly Perkins. Mr. Bruce Green keeps the audience in the merriest of moods as Dame Crusoe. Others who have been prominent are Miss Marie Grove as Britannia; Miss Eva Yank as Young Yank; Miss Millie Maxwell as Captain Teapot Taylor; Miss Dollie Richardson as Princess Pree-Tee-Fair; Mr. Dennis Syndon as King Kopp-'em; Mr. Bob Beirne as Davy Jones, Jun.; Mr. Geo. Melbah as Friday; and Little Keeno as Sunny Jim Crusoe. Specialities were introduced by Little Keeno, the boy comedian; the Musical Melbahs; La Belle Esma, in her graceful performance on the silver thread; the Orient Troupe of lady acrobats and dancers; the Drofias, in their juggling act; and Miss Nina, the wonderful lady gymnast.

WEXFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. E. P. Ronan.—A great treat is provided this week by the visit of the Osmond Tearle Shakespearean company in a number of classical plays. Hamlet was produced on Monday before a packed house. Mr. G. Alex. Marsh played the Prince of Denmark with much power and his impersonation can be highly commended; Mr. Cyril Grier gave a finished portrayal of Claudius; and Mr. T. Wilson Gunning as Horatio was all that could be desired. Mr. R. Seath Innes as Laertes had a part for which he was in every way suited; and Mr. Julian J. Gallier's presentation of the character of Polonius could scarcely be excelled. The Ghost was played in an effective manner by Mr. Ernest Lodge; and Mr. George Tearle as the First Gravedigger was highly amusing. Miss Lillian Harries as Ophelia held the audience breathless by her pathetic rendering of the rôle, and Miss Fannie Chamberlain was very imposing as the Queen, while Miss Kathleen Magee as the Player Queen was all that could be desired. On Tuesday night The Merchant of Venice was produced. Othello, Romeo and Juliet, Gisippus, and Macbeth were to be performed during the week.

WHITEHAVEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Clarke.—A welcome return visit is being paid here by Mr. J. H. Tomkinson's Gipsy Children. The first half of the programme consists of songs, dances, and instrumental selections, and in the letter half the following clever variety turns are introduced: Elsie Rubina; the Lizzette Troupe, lady acrobats; Miss Minnie Richardson, solo violinist; Frank Weir, comedian; Dean Ryves, tenor vocalist; Miss May Jones, contralto; and the Musical Keiths.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. James Kiddie.—This week Miss Winifred Chalmer's company is here with the powerful melodrama, The Master Criminal. Mr. Henry L. Osmond does good work in the extremely onerous part of Telford Lestage; Mr. Leonard Deurdon is a capital Philip Manners; Mr. Elinore Frith contributes a good study of a detective; Mr. J. W. Gallagher is a humorous Gentleman Jim; and Mr. Harry Cooke is well suited with the part of Tommy Dale. Miss Kate Summerville as Mabel Manners earns the sympathy of every member of the audience. Miss Mabel Tremere plays joyously as Peggie Perks; and an intelligent representation of little Winifred Manners is given by Miss Ivy Rochefort. Miss Winifred Chalmers as Lady Trevennes makes the hit of the evening, playing the part of the adventuress for all it is worth. The staging of The Master Criminal is adequate.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Mr. James Kiddie has presented an excellent pantomime entitled Little Aladdin this week. Mr. D. J. McCarthy gives an excellent portrayal of Nanti Off, the emperor; and Mr. Jack Waller plays in amusing style the part of Wun Lung, the vizier. Mr. W. G. Wesley makes a good Widow Twankey, and, together with Messrs. Will and Tom Kelso, as Bossi and the Wrong 'Un, keeps the audience in roars of laughter. Mr. Arthur Aiston as Abanazar, the magician, and Mr. Joe Bell as Wishee Washee, create much fun. Miss Maria Beresford as Aladdin is a capital principal boy; the part of Radia is admirably taken by Miss Lena Page, who is responsible for some good songs; Miss Emmie Milstead, as Saucee, is also responsible for some good vocal selections and dances. The performances of Miss Minnie Grey as Lumino; Miss Ruby Danzell as Prince Peko; Miss Cissie Gold as Princess Badroulbadour; Miss Edie Graham as Lardi Doo; and Miss Minnie Parker as Fan Tan, are likewise greatly appreciated.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—A varied and attractive performance is given here this week. La Vails, on the silver arch chain ladder, gives a somewhat original and daring performance; Haley's Juveniles, in their carnival scene, are accorded a hearty reception; Zarmo, the comic juggler, with his clever show keeps the audience in a continual roar of laughter; the Sisters Lee, dancers and acrobats, give a pleasing turn; and Lillian and Vera, two Yorkshire ladies, are truly crack shots; Billy Burns, the Wigan pit lad, sings in fervent style; J. P. Ling, comedian and mimic, wins much applause; Harry Hale is a versatile comedian and vocalist; and the Donatos, the one-legged clowns, are also excellent.

WORCESTER.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. Le Wards.—With characteristic enterprise Mr. Carlton has provided his Worcester patrons with an opportunity to witness the gorgeous pantomime production which delighted so many people at the London Hippodrome. The story of Aladdin is admirably told in Mr. Jack Cromo's book. Messrs. Stephen E. Blyth and H. F. Housden have provided some capital topical lyrics for the musical setting, for which Mr. Housden has also been responsible. Mr. Wilfred Shine is the life and soul of the production as Widow Twankey. Miss Lallah Davies is a dashing Aladdin and Miss Julia Kent a charming and vivacious principal girl. Messrs Carl and Cara are responsible for the knockabout business, which is excellent of its kind; Mr. Will Sanders makes up splendidly as the wicked uncle; and Mr. Louis Kerno and Mr. Dan Clifford as the Emperor and his Vizier respectively cause a lot of fun. There is a host of characters, all in most capable hands, and the quality of the voices of both principals and chorus is exceptionally good. Some marvellously effective ballets are provided, and the principals also are responsible for some delightful songs and dances.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This week a strong company has appeared here. The Wiltons, in their comedy leg-mania triple-bar act, are decidedly smart and clever; Mr. Louis Murray, vocal character comedian, has caught on well; Vere and Royal, comedy artists, meet with a good reception; as do Miss Marguerita Chappelle, a chic comedienne; Mr. Fred Ryce, eccentric comedian, is also good; while the animated tableaux complete the programme.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Messrs. Little and D'Arcy's company has appeared during the week with great success in The Forty Thieves, a pantomime finely mounted and written in a humorous and racy style. Miss Minnie Silcott, with a handsome stage presence, makes a dashing Abdallah, singing several catchy songs in excellent style; Miss Marie Silcott is pleasing as Morgiana, dancing tastefully and contributing a large share towards the success; Miss Violet Silcott is a petite and pretty Ganem who has made many friends during the week; James Ferguson, quaintly amusing as Cogia, causes much amusement and enjoyment by his clever and quaint impersonation; George Rapley is a lively representative of Ali Baba, and hilarity is caused by Malone and Conley as two of the thieves. Specialities are freely introduced by the Three Sisters Silcott, the Daunton Shaw troupe, and the Three Henriques.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—The doings of the Dayton family are being heartily appreciated, and the applause which greets them must be very gratifying. Bosanquet's manipulation of the violin in various shapes is wonderfully clever; the Ladderites give their high-class show, and Geo. Barron is as mirth-provoking as of yore; Martin and Quigg are amusing; and Clarke and Gold give a clever exhibition, the bill being completed by the Three Zaracs.

"THE LITTLE MICHUS," played by Mr. George Dance's company, visited the Grand Theatre, Wolverhampton, on Monday, and nothing more attractive in musical plays has been seen for a long time. Mr. Leslie Holland is particularly successful as the General des Ifs, and kept the audience in a roar almost the whole of the time he occupied the stage. As Gaston Rignard Mr. Gerald Clifford sang and played very well; Mr. Cecil Clayton was a capital Baguolet; Mr. T. E. Conover was an excellent Pierre Michu; and Mr. D. FitzGibbon was efficient as Aristide Vert. The Little Michus were impersonated by two dainty and fascinating artists in Miss Alice Coverick and Miss Grace Sinclaire, who both played charmingly throughout, the former also singing admirably. Miss Marie Gay possesses a good voice, and portrayed the part of Madame Michu very effectively. Some finished and clever dancing was executed by Mdlle. Marjorie.

MR. H. G. PLACE'S Alexandra Opera Co. is this week's attraction at the King's Theatre, Ebbw Vale, opening on Monday with a highly creditable performance of Maritana. Miss Constance St. Bride's singing and acting in the title-rôle was particularly good. Mr. Frank Lund was also a success as Don Jose. The Bohemian Girl was given on Tuesday, Mr. Fred Wade as Thaddeus and Miss Kathleen McCabe as Arline being admirable. Mr. H. G. Place was seen to advantage as Count Arnheim. Faust, The Daughter of the Regiment, Il Trovatore, and The Lilly of Killarney also figured in the bill.

MR. EDITOR,—Sir,—In last week's issue your Dover correspondent states in his notice for the Theatre Royal that the illustrated song, "The face in the firelight," was sung by Kitty Wood, who also appeared later with her canine circus and orchestra. If should have been yours faithfully, KITTY WOODFORD.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Jan. 22,
the Drama, in Five Acts,
"OLIVER TWIST,"
Adapted by J. Comyns Carr.

Mr. Clarence Sounes was doubtless right in concluding that, after four weeks of pantomime, his patrons would prefer something quieter in tone, and the booking of Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company in Mr. J. Comyns Carr's version of Oliver Twist was a particularly happy thought, the sombre setting of the play and the human interest of the story being in the nature of a welcome relief from the glare and glitter which have recently held the stage here. A very clever impersonation of Fagin was submitted by Mr. Stanley Drewitt, who has evidently made a close study of the character. Every word and gesture was carefully thought out and admirably "in the picture," and in the strong scene in Fagin's cell, in the last act, Mr. Drewitt's acting kept the audience literally spell-bound. Miss Maria Polini played Nancy with considerable tenderness and undoubted power, being particularly successful in portraying the poor girl's desperate attachment to her lover, and her consuming anxiety that no harm should come to the boy Oliver. The last-named character was excellently enacted by Miss Dorothy Marsdin, who made a pathetic, lovable figure of the high-spirited lad trying to escape from his infamous associates. Foremost amongst these latter was Mr. William H. Kemble, whose Bill Sikes was a thoroughly artistic piece of work, Dickens's character being realised in voice, in manner, and in appearance to a really remarkable degree. Miss Helen Clement was responsible for a sympathetic rendering of Rose Maylie; Miss Alice Maude was a dignified Mrs. Maylie; Miss J. Tyers was amusing as Mrs. Bumble; and Miss Dorothea Black made the most of the small part of Betsy. Mr. Cyril Cattley playcd Harry Maylie in straighfforward, manly fashion; Mr. W. H. Rotherham, who doubled Mr. Grimwig and Monks, was notably successful in Monks's great scene in the third act; Mr. Arthur Brown made a charming old gentleman of Mr. Brownlow; and Mr. Charlie Clark acted well as the Artful Dodger. The smaller parts were in capable hands, and the drama was well mounted and staged, a particularly good effect being obtained with the scene showing London Bridge.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Jan. 22,
the Drama, in Five Acts, by Henry Arthur Jones, entitled
"THE SILVER KING."

The Maryleboners assembled in full force on Monday to once again welcome The Silver King to the West London. Messrs. Polini and Austin's clever company is headed by Mr. Herbert Ford, who impersonated Wilfred Denver in most convincing fashion, his acting being neat and finished. Mr. Edward J. George was responsible for a truly characteristic rendering of Daniel Jaikes, all his actions being well-timed. The rôle of Captain Herbert Skinner, alias "The Spider," was quite safe in the capable hands of Mr. Algernon J. Hicks, who gave an admirable reading of the part; Mr. James L. Power did well as Henry Corkett; Mr. Arthur Wright scored as Elijah Combe; and Master Jack Evan deserves mention as Ned Denver. As Nellie Denver, Miss Daisy Scudamore made a most favourable impression, and her success was quite deserved; Miss Georgina Wynter was decidedly good as Olive Skinner, and certainly scored well; Miss Bessie Wright was bright and cheery as Susie; Miss Amy Wood and Miss Dolly Norton both did well respectively as Tabitha Durden and Mrs. Gamage, whilst Miss Amy Manfree was pleasing as Cissy Denver.

THE PAVILION.

the Play, by William Gillette and A. Conan Doyle,
"SHERLOCK HOLMES."

That excellent play Sherlock Holmes is once again at the Pavilion this week, and Mr. Harry Yorke's capable company was warmly welcomed on Monday evening by a large audience, who watched the interpretation of this successful piece with keen interest throughout. Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton acted with discretion and power as the famous detective, whose arch-enemy, Professor Moriarty, was admirably sustained by Mr. W. F. Stirling. This actor's performance was marked by fine dramatic force. Mr. Ernest Gray was meritorious as James Larrabee; and Sidney Prince, in the hands of Mr. Philip Renouf, received judicious treatment. Master Charles Chaplin, who was here in July, 1903, was again seen as the faithful Billy, and deserves sincere praise for a capital representation. Mr. Edward Heanley played Dr. Watson with care and judgment; and a successful portrayal of John Forman was contributed by Mr. J. Poole Kirkwood. Miss Beatrice Marsdene, an attractive Alice Faulkner, gave a delineation of the character which was refined and artistic; Miss Gertrude Harrison must be warmly complimented on her excellent exposition of Madge Larrabee; and Terese was smartly presented by Miss Doris Digby. Mr. William Mansfield displayed care and intelligence as Jim Cragin; and Mr. Walter Maynard was satisfactory as Alfred Bassick, good work being done by Mr. Henry Littlejohn as Sir Edward Leighton, and Mr. Sydney Chaplin as Count Von Stahlburg. Miss Armine Grace was pathetic as Mrs. Faulkner; and Miss Constance Howard did all that was necessary as Mrs. Smeedley. The remaining parts were capably sustained by Messrs. Edward H. Fairburn, Harold Broughton, William Wilson, and S. Richardson. The scenery and mounting were unusually good. Mr. Walter J. Bayliss is the manager for Mr. Harry Yorke.

"PUSS IN BOOTS" at the BROADWAY THEATRE.

(SECOND NOTICE.)

The pantomime of Puss in Boots is still going merrily, and large audiences assemble to witness each performance. The entertainment remains unchanged with one exception—Miss May Audrey now appears in the place of Miss Peggy Pryde. Miss Kathleen Grey repeats her delightful impersonation of Colin; Miss Florence Esdaile still sings as tunefully and acts as pleasingly as at the commencement of the run; Little Stella continues to score; and Miss Edith Adeson, as Phyllis, is a great favourite. The fairies are prettily represented by Miss Joan Webb, Miss Isa Bell, and Miss Mabel Clifford.

Mr. Martin Adeson has made a decided hit as King Grabbus; Mr. Fred Lyne is a capital exponent of the Dame; Mr. Phil Smith is funny as Muggles; Mr. Harry Johnson acts well as the Ogre; and Mr. Bert Lloyd, in the title-rôle, is deserving of unstinted praise. The songs of the Cecilian Glee Singers are admirably rendered and greatly enjoyed; while the agile and graceful dancing of the Tiller "Superba" Troupe is one of the undoubted attractions of the pantomime.

THE STANDARD.

On Monday, Jan. 22,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Walter Melville,
entitled,
"A DISGRACE TO HER SEX."

A large audience gathered at the Standard on Monday to witness the initial performance of Mr. Walter Melville's successful drama, A Disgrace to Her Sex. The company engaged in the interpretation of this play is practically the same as appeared in the last production here, and is, without a doubt, a particularly strong and powerful one. Mr. Wingold Lawrence shows exceptional ability in his delineation of Jack Dawes. His acting is characterised by intense power and feeling. The lighter scenes of the drama are safely entrusted to Mr. G. H. Asquin as Barnaby Mugg and Miss Daisy Maynard as Bella Mugg. Of every opportunity which is offered to raise a hearty laugh full advantage is taken by this amusing couple. Mr. Edwin Wilde makes a business-like detective; and Mr. Eugene Santley plays the part of David Carrington, a retired merchant, with marked success. Mr. Frank Adair is seen to great advantage as Jules Delarnet; he makes a typical Frenchman; Mr. Thomas Holding is well placed as Arnold Travers; and as Mabel Valley Miss Maude Stewart Drewry is pretty and effective, her acting in parts reaching a high standard of excellenco. Miss Ada Marius makes as much as possible out of the rôle of Mildred Carrington; Miss Marie McAulay enacts the part of Hilda Valley with success.

OPERA HOUSE, CROUCH END.

On Monday, Jan. 19,
the Comedy, by H. J. Byron, entitled
"OUR BOYS."

Mr. H. J. Byron's celebrated comedy has this week been very successfully presented at the Crouch End Opera House. As the retired old butterman, Perkyn Middlewick, Mr. F. Thorpe Tracey is excellent. He cleverly portrays the feelings of the old man who is not too proud to acknowledge that his money was made as a tradesman, and who has a wealth of affection for his son. As Sir Geoffrey Champneys, Mr. Charles Langley is also very good, his study of the stern, irascible old county magnate being quite convincing. Mr. A. P. Kaye makes a manly Charles Middlewick. As Talbot Champneys, Mr. E. Harvey White gives an interesting study of the effeminate but good-natured young man. Miss Ida Phillips, as Violet Melrose, is charming, being both graceful and natural in her manner; and Miss Minnie Grey, as the poor cousin Mary Melrose has a winning and pleasing style. Miss Emma Victor, as Clarissa Champneys, is well placed; and the minor parts are all in capable hands.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Jan. 22,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by F. A. Scudamore,
entitled
"THE BIGGEST SCAMP ON EARTH."

Sensationalism figures prominently in most of the productions from the pen of the late Mr. Scudamore, and The Biggest Scamp on Earth is no exception, for the principal incident is concerned with the working of a gigantic idol of torture, presumably set in motion by the terrible contortions of an unhappy prisoner incarcerated in the interior of the contrivance. This thrilling scene is watched with rapt interest, and it is a matter for general rejoicing when the extricated Vivian Wakefield gets the better of his tormentors. Mr. George Lyttleton plays Derrick Knight, the "biggest scamp," with an ease and fluency well befitting the character of this callous miscreant; and Mr. Percy Carne Waram is responsible for a forcible delineation of Vivian Wakefield, whose sufferings in the Idol scene are portrayed with a startling realism. Mr. Charles Kean ably undertakes the part of Napoleon Hawke; and Mr. Leslie York submits a dignified embodiment of Sir Aubrey Knight. Miss Frances Delaval skilfully handles the important rôle of the adventuress Naomi Belvedere, and meets with much success in the part; Miss Dora Hammersley makes a sympathetic and charming Irene Way; Mrs. Edmund Lyons admirably portrays the vicious nature of Mother Hawke; and a word of praise is due to little Miss Minnie Johnson as the child Bobby. Plenty of comic relief is provided by the amatory by-play of Rufus Liggins and Joe Piper, both in love with Molly Stirling, and these three parts are thoroughly safe in the hands of Mr. Harry Delmar, Mr. Charles Stewart, and Miss Nelly V. Warden. Minor parts are all capitally played, and the piece is well mounted.

THIS play is of historical interest, especially now when the leters of Liselott, recte Elisabeth Charlotte, Countess Palatine of Baden, are being published. Liselott was married by proxy to Philipp, Duke of Orleans, the brother of Louis XIV. At the opening of the play she is eagerly expected by her husband and his household. The German girl forms a strong contrast to the affected men and ladies of the great King's court, who sneer at her and ridicule her simple manners. Liselott is greatly disappointed at finding things so different from what she had hoped for. Her husband, though good at heart, wastes his time inventing elixirs for the complexion and ballets for the entertainment of the court

THE MUSIC PIRATES' DOOM.

After a hearing extending over eight days, the trial of James Frederick Willetts, William Tennant, William Wallace Ross, George Wootton, John Wesley Puddefoot, and Philip Fleming Bockenham, who were indicted for conspiring to print and sell copyright music, came to an end at the Central Criminal Court on the 19th inst., before the Common Serjeant, Mr. Bosanquet, K.C. In summing up the case, the Common Serjeant said that it was now his duty to ask the jury to see what the men were charged with and what was the evidence against them. He was not going to trouble them with a long definition of the law, which might apply to one case and another. It had been pointed out several times in this case that, to do by unlawful means that which in itself was lawful, was one sort of conspiracy, and that to do by means which were lawful in themselves that which was unlawful was also conspiracy. By conspiracy they did not mean always the meeting of people with dark lanterns in dark places, and the taking of secret oaths and things of that kind. What the law meant was that if people combined to do that which was the subject of a conspiracy—that which was unlawful—then there was a case made out. The way in which what was called conspiracy at law was proved was not by production of verbal or written evidence of an agreement to do a thing, but was to be gathered from acts. If they found that people were working together to carry out an unlawful purpose, that was proof of conspiracy. They must deal with the evidence, and by the application of common sense and the elementary principles of law they ought to be able to come to a conclusion, and to treat the case fairly for the public and for the men charged. Now, it was said—and rightly said—that the law had not created an offence with regard to copyright—a term that they all understood; the law had not stated that to infringe a copyright was in itself a criminal act. Continually people were printing and publishing things which were copyright, and yet they did not know that they were copyright; but if a person had done a civil wrong, then he had to make compensation. What the law had said in the plainest possible terms was this: It had made copyright a property, and it had given to those who had composed a work, whether literature or music, the right to benefit by what they had made as the result of their brain and of their study. The statute spoke of such compositions as property. It stated how the property was to descend at death, and what sort of property it was to be—personal property, belonging to the owner of the copyright. It has also provided that, to prevent piracy so-called, of copyright—that was to say, infringement of copyright—certain very summary proceedings may be taken against anybody who is found publishing or selling (confining it to that case) what was called pirated music. The statute provided what steps might be taken against an offender; it provided that summary proceedings might be taken before a magistrate, and that the pirated music found must be destroyed. What they had got in the first place was property, and they knew how valuable it was in some cases—in this case to an extent which surprised him, for they were told that over two thousand pounds were paid for the copyright of a song. They all knew that copyright was a valuable property, and the law had provided that the person entitled to it had the exclusive right to make copies, and to deal with the copies of a composition exclusively; and it was provided for, not only by the word "exclusive," but other parts of the statute stated that nobody else shall infringe this exclusive right. If one man does intentionally infringe this right, it is not a thing for which you can indict him; but he may be subjected to civil proceedings. If one pirate of music carried on business and published by himself, and another man independently and not working with him also printed in large quantities, they could not be indicted for conspiracy; but the law was that, if people combined to work together to carry out an unlawful purpose (to deprive a man of his property), then they became liable to indictment. It might be that the case was a small affair in which no one would care to prosecute, and which, if brought before a jury, the latter might say that it was such a trivial case that it should not be brought into a criminal court. If two or more worked together (as in this case of pirated music), and so made profits to which they had no right so as to deprive the owner of his property, that would be a subject of conspiracy, and the two might be indicted and made liable. This was the plain case that the jury had to consider as regarded all the defendants and each of them; also to see if they or any of them combined together or if any one of them combined with other people not in the dock—a circumstance which would not probably arise in the present case. But, supposing that it was found that five of the defendants were wrongfully identified, and that the sixth was engaged in this nefarious business, and was carrying it out with somebody else not in the dock, then the sixth man would be guilty.

Mr. Bosanquet then traversed the chief points in the case, and referred to the prisoners in detail.

The jury, after a brief retirement, found all the prisoners guilty.

Mr. Head moved for an arrest of judgment, on grounds which he had previously stated.

The Judge: I shall arrest no judgment. I have had it fully argued before me. I have held the indictment to be good; if it is bad, you have your remedy without my help.

Mr. Avory stated that Willetts had recorded against him a conviction for embezzlement in 1901. All the time he was carrying on this business he was an undischarged bankrupt, so he was just the class of person who could do it with impunity, as he could not be sued under the statute.

Detective-sergeant Laing proved the conviction referred to by counsel, which was at the North London Sessions. The sentence was three months' imprisonment in the second division.

An officer of the Bankruptcy Court stated that Willetts was adjudicated bankrupt in 1899, and was still undischarged.

Detective-inspector Bower said Puddefoot had been sentenced to six weeks' hard labour for printing lottery tickets. He and Ross had also been fined at the Guildhall for a similar offence.

Counsel then addressed the Court in mitigation of punishment, Mr. Head mentioning that Willetts had a wife and eleven children dependent upon him. On behalf of Ross, Puddefoot, and Bockenham, it was pointed out that they had carried on genuine businesses as printers.

In passing sentence, the Common Serjeant said: You have all been found guilty of a nefarious conspiracy to defraud publishers, the owners of copyright music, of their right, and you, Willetts, have celarly been the head of the whole scheme, and have had a number of men working under you—some are here, and some have not been brought up—and have led other people into these criminal transactions. You were, at the time you were doing this, an undischarged bankrupt, and you have been convicted of embezzlement. The sentence upon you, therefore, must be heavier than upon the others, or than it would have been upon you if you had not led others into this mischief and been convicted before. The sentence upon you is nine months' imprisonment; I don't impose hard labour. As to you, Tennant, you were not a principal as Willetts was, but you were one of the managers of this business. The sentence upon you is two months' imprisonment. You, Puddefoot, have been taking an active part in this business, and that after promising that you would not engage in it again. You will be sentenced to one month's imprisonment. You, Ross, must pay a fine of £50, and will be kept in prison until it is paid. You, Wootton and Bockenham, have been convicted on clear evidence, but in some ways you played a minor part, and you will be treated very leniently. In the case of all you defendants (except Willetts), you must not expect such treatment if you do anything of the kind again. Now that this has been proved an illegal conspiracy, you must not expect to be dealt with as lightly again. This is a very important case, and the extent to which you have defrauded other people is very much. As to you, Wootton and Bockenham, you will each be bound over in £50 to come up for judgment, and if you do anything of the kind again, you will be brought up and sentenced.

THE MUSIC PIRACY TRIAL.

OPINIONS OF PUBLISHERS.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER).

The fraudulent transactions of six men who were indicted for conspiring to print and unlawfully issue copyright music to the prejudice of the proprietors of the copyright, excited a great deal of public interest during the course of the case at the Old Bailey. The trial commenced before the Common Sergeant on Jan. 11, and terminated on the 19th inst. in the conviction of all the prisoners. The accused were John Frederick Willetts (aged 47), a secretary, who had been previously convicted of embezzlement; W. Tennant (36), hawker; John Wesley Puddefoot (50), printer; W. Wallace Ross (33), who styled himself a "journalist"; George Wooton (42), builder; and Philip F. Bockenham (30), printer. Willetts was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, Tennant to two months, Puddefoot to one month, Ross was fined £50, and Bockenham and Wooton were bound over to come up for judgment if called upon. The nominal prosecutors in the case were Messrs. Chappell and Company, the well-known music publishers, of whose songs many thousand pirated copies were seized in London alone within two years.

MESSRS. CHAPPELL'S VIEWS.

During a few minutes' conversation with our interviewer, Mr. Edward Goodman, of Messrs. Chappell and Co., stated that he regarded the case as an eminently successful one from the point of view of the music trade. "It is now established for the first time," he said, "that music piracy is indictable as a criminal conspiracy, and at the same time it does not do away with the necessity for an amendment of the Copyright law; in fact, it strengthens the argument for the Copyright Act. This is where Mr. James Caldwell floundered. He has all along opposed us, and he stated that he considered that copyright generally was not a property but a privilege. The Copyright Act says that copyright is a personal property, and can be assigned. The Common Sergeant, in dealing with this case, emphasised that point. He stated that they all knew copyright to be a valuable property, and the law provided that the person entitled to it had the exclusive right to make copies, and to deal with the copies of a composition exclusively; and it was provided for, not only by the word "exclusive," but other parts of the statute stated that no one else should infringe this exclusive right. As the Judge pointed out, it was the duty of the law to protect that right. Now, whatever reasons Mr. Caldwell has had for his misguided actions, he cannot stand up in face of that eminent pronouncement. To argue that copyright is only a privilege is to talk drivel. The effect of this action is this: We have certainly established these dishonest transactions of music pirates as a criminal indictment. It is not, however, to be expected that copyright-holders are always to be put to this enormous expense in protecting what belongs to them. There must be a more summary method of securing the protection of the Courts. Instead of our having to engage in a costly, cumbersome, and lengthy police court and criminal court prosecution, there ought to be a short Bill passed by Parliament which would make music piracy an offence punishable in a summary manner. Any new measure must contain a penalty clause to make it effective. The penalty clause was taken out of the 1902 Act to please Mr. Caldwell, and it made the Act nothing more or less than a farcical measure, for, since then, piracy has increased rather than decreased. This 1902 Act is simply an Act authorising the seizure and destruction of pirated copies. To make the new Act operative, a penalty must be fixed, according to the nature of the offence, and in default of a fine being paid, there should be a term of imprisonment. All we ask for is the same protection that is granted to the property of the jeweller, or the bootmaker, or the grocer. It is a scandalous state of the law which permits a man to be robbed of the product of his brains. Counsel for the prisoners in the case under review admitted the nefarious nature of his clients' illegal traffic, and practically there was no defence to offer."

"I believe, Mr. Goodman, you and other music publishers have been interesting yourselves in the Election fight of Mr. Caldwell?"

"Mr. Scott-Gibson, the Labour candidate for Mid-Lanarkshire, has been working very hard in our interests by opposing Mr. Caldwell's re-election. Mr. Scott-Gibson is a Glasgow town councillor, and one of the strong points in his programme was the provision of legislative protection for musical property. All the Scottish musical people were supporting him."

"You probably do not anticipate that the Old Bailey verdict will put an end to the piracy business?"

"Hardly. We do not suppose that it will absolutely stop it. I would like to mention that we have been working on this case for six months. We stood forward as prosecutors on behalf of the musical profession and the trade of the country, and you can imagine that our expenses, the full extent of which I am not at the moment aware of, have been enormous. And let me say that we have been extremely patient in the matter generally of dishonest song merchants. Piracy has been going on for ten years, and we have waited for one Session of Parliament after another in the hope of obtaining some redress. At the present time we are just as badly off as ever. We have, as I have already stated, established a criminal indictment, but we really cannot afford to go on with such expensive prosecutions as the Willetts trial has proved to be."

"Have you approached any members of the new Government on the subject of adequate legislation?"

"We have very great hopes of getting a Bill through at a comparatively early date, and we know that some of the prominent members of the predominant party are in favour of an ameliorative enactment."

"What is the position of the public in regard to the purchase of pirated music?"

"The public should know that all the money which has been spent on pirated editions of music is money that has been absolutely diverted from the proper channels of labour. It has been keeping music engravers and printers out of work. The honest workmen have been walking about doing nothing, while the black sheep have been making a fine income out of the misappropriation of other people's property. The small music publishers have been absolutely ruined, and thousands of pounds have been lost to composers. How can a man who pays a fair price for his wares compete with the retailer of stolen goods? If a man steals diamonds, and sells them at a ridiculously low figure, is it to be expected that an ordinary jeweller can thrive in his neighbourhood? The same reasoning applies to pirated music."

"I suppose you do not intend to slacken your vigilance, even after this conviction?"

"You may be sure of that. But it is a great shame that we have to keep a small army of men in London and the provinces on the lookout for copyright thieves. And then, imagine the enormous cost. What is the law for, what are the police for, if they are not to protect property?"

Mr. David Day, of the firm of Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, was also good enough to grant a brief interview. Smart, brisk, and business-like, Mr. Day went to the heart of the subject at once. "The uppermost thought of all is that the public attention, which has been focused upon this trial, must certainly exert an influence that ought to ensure in the forthcoming Parliament the passing of such legislation as will effectually put an end to the scandalous state of the copyright law. If it should not, then all the money that has been spent on these proceedings is simply thrown into the gutter, and similar costly prosecutions will have to be taken over and over again—a condition of affairs that would be nothing less than a disgrace to what is considered a civilised country."

"The sentences upon the six prisoners, Mr. Day, are generally regarded as extremely lenient. In fact, justice in this case seems to have been very much tempered with mercy."

"I suppose," replied Mr. Day, "that the Judge made the sentences as light as he did because the conviction was the first under an hitherto unknown charge of conspiring to print, publish, and sell copyright music without the permission of the owners. One would think that the sentences should have been very much more severe. But there was this solatium: The Common Sergeant said that any further offences of the kind coming before him would not be dealt with so gently."

"I believe, Mr. Day, that you took a personal part in the hunting down?" And one could scarcely help smiling at the idea of this dapper, well-groomed gentleman, coming to grips with an up-to-date Captain Kidd, possessed of an insatiable craving for sentimental songs, coon melodies, and comic ditties.

"Well," returned the head of the famous Charing Cross-road firm, "I myself called upon Ross, in Faringdon-road, and, after a long conversation with him, I succeeded in gaining access to the basement of his premises, where I saw the pirated music being printed. There were thousands of copies. I claimed them, and he surrendered them. I knew he was printing them for Willetts, who gloried in the sobriquet of the Pirate King. On more than one occasion I gave Ross a receipt for what I took away, so that when he saw Willetts he could say that Mr. Day had been and claimed them."

There was something irresistibly humorous in the calm, sportsmanlike manner which characterised Mr. Day's description of his sallying forth and raiding a pirate's den, where he not only personally seized a quantity of illicit music, but coolly left an acknowledgment of his capture.

"Since 1902," continued Mr. Day, "we have been able, on laying information before different magistrates, to get an order to seize the contraband sheets. You have to take a policeman with you to claim the music, which is left in the possession of the police, and then you have to summon the pirate to show cause why the copies should not be destroyed. In summoning Willetts on several occasions, the Court not only ordered the destruction of the music, but mulcted him in costs, which sometimes reached as much as £10 at a time. Then, at the suggestion of a rogue of a solicitor, who ought to have been in the dock with the other prisoners, Willetts and his confederates formed themselves into a limited liability company, with the object of dodging the payment of the costs of the legal proceedings taken against them. They were advised by this solicitor that no individual member of a limited company could be summoned, and all that could be done in the event of non-payment was to make an application in the High Court for the company to be wound up. In addition, the Pirate King was informed that if one company was wound up one day, he and his friends could form themselves into a new one the next day."

"How are your efforts regarded by the provincial Bench?"

"We get very little support from them. In Leeds the authorities have shown no sympathy whatever towards the owners of copyright. Perhaps the country magistrates will realise the gravity of these crimes against commercial morality now that their attention has been drawn to the trial at the Central Criminal Court. But our great hope is in approaching the Government for protection against piracy. It is understood that the Prime Minister and the Home Secretary intend to give the subject their serious consideration at an early date. Mr. T. P. O'Connor was very helpful last session, and he will probably take the matter in hand again very shortly."

"Do you think the public always understand whether they are buying pirated music or not?"

"The method of discriminating is very simple. The public have only to look for the name of a firm of responsible music publishers at the foot of the front sheet. Of course, this music piracy is a very profitable business for those engaged in it. The sheets are always produced in the most economical and flimsy style, no fees are paid to anybody, and the sales are bound to be remunerative because only the successful songs are printed."

"Have you made a personal effort to induce Mr. Caldwell to modify his attitude on this question?"

"I had an interview with him, when he stated that he considered the price of music to be too expensive for the pockets of the general public. My own opinion is that he took the wrong view of the case at the outset, and, having made a mistake, did not feel inclined to withdraw from the position he had taken up. If ever there was an obstinate man in the world, it is surely he. I don't think he can possibly have realised what a serious interference his opposition to the rights of music composers and publishers has caused in the conduct of a useful calling."

MR. LESLIE STUART'S VIEWS.

"You, I believe, Mr. Stuart, hold opinions somewhat different from those of many of your musical confrères?"

"I am afraid," replied the famous song writer and composer, "that this case will not act as a deterrent against music pirates because they are all so familiar with every phase of the copyright law. It is my opinion that this conviction will only show them that they need only now avoid the charge of conspiracy to keep themselves within the pale of the law. The solicitor for Messrs. Chappell and Co., the nominal prosecutors, who were successful in obtaining the conviction of Willetts and his accomplices, joined issue with me on this point. It has been urged by those who disagree with me that it is not wise for me to publish my views, as by so doing I am giving the pirates information such as they were not in possession of before. Now what I want to emphasise is the fact that every pirate will give almost any lawyer points on the question of the restrictions regarding infringement. Any man selling these pirated editions in the street knows the law on the subject, so that, in drawing attention to this fact in the papers, I did it for the purpose of preventing men in Parliament, most of whom are entirely in ignorance of these matters, coming to the conclusion that we have been all these years asleep as to our procedure and that we have only just now wakened and found out that we have redress. It was only on a technical charge of conspiracy that these six men were convicted. We have always had the process of injunction against the printer after he has been discovered, and on many occasions we have obtained nominal damages—which were never paid—after we had spent hundreds of pounds in his detection. I defy any man to tell me that this conviction gives us more power to-day to seize copies from the street-hawker or that we have any power whatever to punish him any more than we could do before the conviction of Willetts."

"But surely this conviction must be of immense moral, if not material, assistance to you?"

"I fear that the result of the Old Bailey trial will damp the enthusiasm of our supporters in the House of Commons, as it may appear to them that we have now ample means of restitution. Certain publishers who have taken a very active part in the campaign against piracy have created an impression that musical piracy dates back only three years. I may tell you that musical piracy commenced at least twelve years ago, but publishers of music—and I cannot too strongly urge this point—assume that the pirating of copyright music dates only from the time when their publications were first attacked. The first song, as far as we know, pirated was 'The Soldiers of the Queen,' a work of my own. Two million copies of this were admitted to have been sold in the streets. A man named Oliver was injuncted after many months had been spent in trying to ferret him out, and many hundreds of pounds spent in his detection. He was brought before, I think, Mr. Justice Darling, and what seemed to us an exemplary order for damages—which, by the way, Oliver never paid—seemed to everybody else as the death-blow to music piracy. I am going back nine years, and for at least twelve months every second day was spent by us in instituting police-court proceedings."

"Did not the result in the least check these dishonest transactions?"

"Practically, no. The man Oliver learned after each case precisely what not to do. I believe it is true that on two or three occasions within the last half-dozen years men have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment in connection with music piracy, but always on some minute and technical infringement of the criminal law in connection therewith. The question now arises—How does it come about, in face of all these fines, penalties, and harassing police-court proceedings against these men, that music piracy is as rampant as ever? Therefore, I tell you frankly, that no possible harm can be done by my stating bluntly that this conviction of Willetts and his confederates will in no way mean that many hundreds of other men will immediately cease the remunerative business they have been engaged in for years."

"Very well; but on that assumption, what steps do you now propose taking?"

"It is my firm belief that the failure in our attempts to get Parliament to seriously take up this pirate question as a Government measure has been due entirely to the fact that so many different men have from time to time taken upon themselves the entire responsibility of securing a measure while they have not seen the immense difficulties in the way of getting the Government leaders to treat the subject seriously."

"Will you tell me what assistance you got from the legal advisers of the late Ministry?"

"I, myself, had several interviews with the late Attorney-General, Sir Robert Finlay, some nine years ago. I tried to get him to give his fiat in magisterial proceedings which might then in the early stages of piracy have resulted in summary conviction, which would have had much more effect than twenty of the convictions such as have been meted out to Willetts and his crew. The unfortunate optimism of all concerned in musical publications, in the thought that we would immediately get a Bill of the drastic kind, was the cause of my being told to stand aside, and although I had an appointment with Sir Robert Finlay, who, by the way, had promised to lend the aid of his high office, I was instructed that my action was not necessary, and that Parliament would readily see that such an iniquitous state of things would meet with immediate legislation."

"And friend Caldwell—did you not see him, too?"

"I did, but I failed dismally in my attempts to explain away the absurdly unfair position he had taken up. I could not even get him to realise that the music pirate was able to sell his sheets cheaply because he had no one to pay for the composition, &c. Now, Mr. Caldwell, who I see has been returned again for Mid-Lanarkshire, is a wealthy calico printer, and a big employer of labour, possessing valuable patents in printing and in calico designs. His name figures frequently in Somerset House as the owner of these patents. Yet the Gilbertian spectacle presents itself to us that while he is so often engaged in injuncting infringers of his own copyright, he is not opposed to piracy against music composers.

"I am going to tell you something you perhaps already know," continued Mr. Stuart. "About thirty years ago Miss Thompson, now Lady Butler, exhibited her wonderful pictures, 'Balaclava,' 'Quatre Bras,' 'The Last Stand,' and other famous battle scenes. Almost directly afterwards pirated photographs of these were sold on the side-walks at sixpence. That was soon stopped. An Act of Parliament passed almost within a week, making it a penal offence to sell photographs of copyright pictures, the punishment being six months' imprisonment. Unfortunately for music composers and publishers, this Act did not at the time include literary and musical publications.

"What is wanted," concluded Mr. Stuart, "is a keen organisation; not picturesque meetings at Queen's Hall, but an active, working organization consisting of men who can prove to the Government the depredation we have suffered from."

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

An interesting concert was given at the Royal College on Wednesday evening, the programme commencing with Brahms' fine quartet for strings in A minor op. 51, cleverly interpreted by Miss Vera Warwick-Evans, Mr. William Armstrong, Mr. Frank Bridge, and Mr. Ivor James. A first performance of three piano solos, composed by Mr. James Friskin, showed decided talent; they consisted of an Intermezzo in C sharp minor, quite Russian in treatment; a clever prelude in G major, and a bright and original Caprice in A major, all admirably played by the young composer, who at the close had to respond to no less than five recalls from the large audience. Also included in the programme was Grieg's sonata for violoncello and piano in A minor, the executants being Mr. F. Gershom Parkington, who produced a fine tone from his instrument, and Miss Alice Cotton. Several songs were given at the concert. Miss Enid Gabell, although at first somewhat nervous, displayed her fine voice to much advantage in two songs by Schumann, "Seit ich ihn gesehen" and "Er der Herrlichste von Allen." Mr. Frank Webster, who has a most pleasing and musical tenor voice, gave Goring Thomas's pretty song, "The Willow," with great success; and Miss Dilys Jones, Schubert's song, "Die Allmacht." The programme concluded with a trio for piano and strings in E flat, by Beethoven, carefully played by Mr. Edmund O'Neill Phillips, Mr. Herbert Kinze, and Mr. Ivor James. The accompanists were Miss Clara Smith, Miss Alice Cotton, and Mr. Edward G. Mercer.

The name of Miss Alice Nixon was inadvertently omitted from our notice of The Gay Parisienne, performed by Mr. Chas. Macdona's capable company at Shrewsbury last week. Miss Nixon plays the part of Mdlle. Julie Bon-Bon with refinement and vivacity, her spirited dancing and sweet singing being most attractive features in this entertaining piece.

"ON THE LOVE PATH"

IN THE SUBURBS.

Early possession of the field outlying the London area has been taken by On the Love Path, which began its travels, at the Grand Theatre, Croydon, on Monday, on what is inevitably the road of success. The piece is in the care of a select company, organised by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison, a name that is associated with the foremost West-end attractions on tour, and the impression which Mr. C. M. S. McLellan's piece created on its production at the Haymarket in the early part of September last is certain to be renewed among playgoers outside the metropolis. The plaint of the provinces for improvement in the material set before them has in the immediate past grown quite pathetic; but with such pieces and such companies as those sent out by the well-known entrepreneurs above named, the cry need never be heard, a fact of which the appreciative audience crowding the stalls, boxes, and other parts of the well-appointed theatre at Croydon on Monday was sufficiently convincing. The dialogue of the comedy abounds in literary graces, and the story, slight as it is, stimulates the interest throughout, and provokes a keen sense of enjoyment.

Numbered among the powerful company is Miss Lilias Earle, who invests the part of Charity Concannon with delicacy and grace. Miss Earle possesses the rare art of enunciation which allows of every word being heard, and a musical intonation and elegance of movement, added to her charm of manner, succeed in realising to perfection the irresistible fascination by which the youthful Mrs. Concannon takes final possession of the heart of Arthur Taunton. It is not easy to win sympathy for a character of so invertebrate a nature as the amorous Arthur, who woos so indefatigably but inconsistently; but Mr. Percy Hutchison's ease and buoyancy, his light and airy manner, secured the general favour of the house, which remained with him throughout. His comedy methods are very agreeable, his dialogue being delivered with such skilfully varied emphasis as to make every line tell. Laughter loud and hearty is the constant accompaniment of the utterances of the young man, whose nobility of character is nevertheless also thoroughly suggested, and in the more serious moments, notably in the stormy scenes with his blackmailer, Mr. Hutchison rises by well graduated stages to a high level of dramatic attainment. Miss Earle and Mr. Hutchison are the central figures of the comedy, and well do they acquit themselves of their responsibilities. Mr. Frank Elliott gives a neat sketch of the aspiring young inventor, Gerald Marvel. His coolness is a valuable contrast to the mercurial nature of Arthur Taunton, and his gradual surrender to the influence of Cupid is also admirably depicted. The duty of pleasing the eye is well discharged by Miss Hilda Honiss, who adds to an attractive appearance as Norah Concannon a voice of power and sweetness; and Miss Margaret Marshall looks the intrepid and athletic Mary to the life. A liberal share of the laughter that prevails is to be credited to Mr. Frank Hill, whose depiction of Peter Concannon is irresistibly comic. It is a character-drawing which stands well beside the many fine assumptions of this finished comedian, who gives in both speech and manner a typical presentment of the retired Chicago beef magnate. A vivid assumption of the despicable Denbigh Thryle is given by Mr. T. W. Rawson, whose coarseness and arrogance are admirably in keeping with the part. There is something original about his laugh, which for savagery and brutality would be difficult to surpass. The fussy and officious solicitor, John Gripleigh, is played with tact and no little energy by Mr. George Mudie, who makes the personage as ridiculous as can be; and Mr. S. Irwin Barrett and Mr. J. Mitchell, in minor parts, complete the excellent cast.

Mr. McLellan's piece is preceded by the farce, by Vincent Collier, entitled My First Patient, originally produced at Ealing last October. Mr. T. W. Rawson makes up particularly well as the fierce Oriental who provides the mild-mannered Dr. Wilby with his first case; and Mr. George Mudie in the latter rôle acts quietly but effectively. Miss Margaret Marshall and Miss Hilda Honiss appear as the young wife and the serving-maid respectively. On the Love Path, which is produced by Mr. Percy Hutchison, whose experience as stage-manager with Sir Charles Wyndham is an assurance of perfection, is mounted with every care and taste, and the dresses are exquisite. The curtain had to be twice raised after each act.

ALBERT VISETTI'S PUPILS IN LIVERPOOL.

MISS KATHARINE WYLIE'S RECITAL.

In the small concert room of St. George's Hall, Liverpool, on Monday evening, Miss Katharine Wylie gave her first vocal and instrumental recital. Miss Wylie is a young Liverpool lady who possesses a fine soprano voice, besides being an accomplished pianiste; and her efforts on Monday evening gave every promise of some excellent work being done by her in the near future. She received her early musical education from Miss Todd and Miss M. L. Wood, both of Douglas, Isle of Man. Nearly three years ago she went to the Royal College of Music, and studied singing under Miss Anna Williams, afterwards becoming a pupil of Mr. Albert Visetti. Miss Wylie recently sang at one of the College concerts, and was recalled three times, as well as being warmly congratulated by Sir Hubert Parry on her success. At Liverpool on Monday Miss Wylie appeared, naturally, to suffer from some little nervousness, but nevertheless acquitted herself with distinction in the numbers "Convien Partir," from Donizetti's Daughter of the Regiment, and "Le Nil," by Xavier Leroux, for the latter of which she received an encore. She was also heard to advantage in four neat little songs by Eugen D'Albert, James H. Rogers, C. Willeby, and Wilhelm Belzer. Some excellent vocal contributions came from other artists of merit. Mr. Alfred Ross, who is well known in Liverpool, was particularly fine with his violin work, rendering, among other items, Schumann's "Sonata in A Minor." Miss Helena McCullagh brilliantly presiding at the piano. Mr. Frederic Pedgrift, a baritone, possessed of a splendid voice, gave with most creditable ease and tender feeling Sargent's delightful song, "Blow, blow, thou winter wind," and "The Devout Lover," by M. V. White. Mr. Pedgrift has a fine range and a full, round tone. Mr. Ben Ivor, whose tenor notes were clear and strong, provided a treat with his rendering of "How Vain is Man" (Judas Maccabeus); and Miss Meta Buring, a contralto enjoying a rich, mellow tone, afforded every satisfaction with two sweet songs by Grieg and a selection from A. Woodforde-Finden's "A Lover in Damascus." Mr. Albert Visetti, who journeyed from London in order to be present, accompanied Miss Wylie's singing with characteristic skill and judgment. The recital was altogether a distinct success.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

A BRILLIANT first-night audience assisted at the triumph of Nero at His Majesty's on Thursday, among the distinguished assembly being Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft, Sir Edward Clarke, the Duke of Abruzzi, H.H. Princess Hatzfelt, Hon. Mrs. Petre, Mr. Nat Goodwin, Sir George and Lady Lewis, Sir Alfred and Lady Fripp, Lady Northcliffe, Mr. J. M. Barrie, Lady Campbell, Sir Ernest and Lady Cassel, Sir Edward and Lady Clarke, Colonel Fletcher, Sir Charles Euan-Smith, Miss Lena Ashwell, Sir Francis Laking, Lady McIver, Sir Albert Seymour, Mr. Rufus Isaacs, the Under Secretary for the Colonies, Sir Douglas Straight, Canon Wilberforce, Mr. Louis N. Parker, Viscountess Parker, Sir Gilbert and Lady Parker, Lady Maude Warrender, Lord and Lady Granby, Lord Churchill, Sir Felix and Lady Semon, Sir W. Young, Mr. John Hare, Mr. Lionel Brough, Miss Mary Brough, Mr. John Morley, Mr. W. S. Gilbert, Sir Lawrence and Lady Alma Tadema, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Pinero, Mr. Alfred Sutro, Sir Francis Burnand, Mr. Sidney Colvin, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, Mr. Winston Churchill, Miss Viola Tree, Major-General Warden, Mr. Alfred Stead, and Mr. Norman Forbes Robertson.

SIR SQUIRE AND LADY BANCROFT'S wedding present to Miss Mary Boyd-Carpenter, who was recently married to Mr. Wentworth Shields, M.Inst. C.E., consisted of an elegant set of carvers in case. The bride is the daughter of the Bishop of Ripon.

MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER returns to his own theatre on Thursday, an event which will be marked by the production of His House in Order, written by one of our foremost dramatists, whose absence has been overlong lamented. Mr. Arthur W. Pinero, who furnishes Mr. Alexander with his newest play, may be trusted to prove that his pen possesses the power in an added degree to create situations of absorbing interest.

MESSRS. CHAPPELL AND CO., the well-known music publishers, who have suffered severely by the depredations of the music pirates, whom justice has at last to a certain extent overtaken, write as follows:—"Now that the defendants in the musical piracy case have been pronounced guilty of a criminal offence at the Old Bailey, it will be well to remember that but for Mr. James Caldwell's mistaken advocacy of their cause their ringleaders would not at this moment have found themselves in prison. Any one of the reasonable copyright Bills asked for by us, and persistently obstructed by Mr. Caldwell, would, by acting as a deterrent of crime, have at once knocked on the head this illicit traffic in other people's property, and would have made unnecessary the costly and laborious process by which their crime has been brought home to these misguided men.

"SMALL wonder that the men now convicted thought they could defy the law with impunity when they were so far encouraged by a Member of Parliament as to be afforded interviews by him in the Lobby of the House of Commons, and when their head and chief, who was admittedly the worst offender, was honoured by an invitation to give evidence before the Royal Commission on Copyright, upon which Mr. James Caldwell sat. An even more instructive fact is that, when the premises were recently raided of one of the defendants in this present case copies of Mr. James Caldwell's attack upon music composers and the music trade were discovered there, and upon the premises of another of the defendants letters from Mr. Caldwell arranging the terms for the printing of his circulars and instructions as to how they should be distributed. Further comment is superfluous." Mr. Caldwell, it may be noted, retains his seat for Mid-Lanark with an added majority.

THE annual general meeting of the subscribers to the Actors' Benevolent Fund, we may remind our readers, will be held on the stage of His Majesty's Theatre on Monday, at 12 noon for 12.30 punctually, to receive the report of the Committee and the accounts for the year 1905. Mr. Beerbohm Tree will be in the chair, and all those interested in the work of the fund are invited to be present.

THE Secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund has received a cheque for £78 16s. from Messrs. Christie, Manson, and Woods, being the amount realised by the sale of catalogues during the disposal of the effects of the late Sir Henry Irving, and devoted to the Fund.

THE will of the late Sir Henry Irving has been proved at £14,633 4s. 4d. net, and after providing for an annuity to be paid to Mr. Walter Collisson, who was for many years his personal attendant, the bulk of the late actor's residuary estate is bequeathed to his two sons, Mr. H. B. Irving and Mr. Laurence Irving, in equal shares.

MR. HARRY NICHOLLS hopes shortly to make his re-appearance in London in a new three-act farce, tentatively named His Little Joke, which he has written in collaboration with Mr. Ralph E. Kerr. This announcement will be received with pleasure by large numbers of playgoers, who have known and admired Mr. Nicholls work' during his long career, and have lamented his too extended absence from the Metropolis. Mr. Nicholls, it will be remembered, was for fourteen years principal comedian at Drury-lane; four years at the Adelphi, during its palmiest days; many years at the Grecian, Surrey, &c., making in all a record of thirty years of good service on the London stage. Mr. Nicholls, it may be added, is part author of Jane, A Runaway Girl, The Toreador, and many pantomimes at Drury-lane.

EVERYONE at Terry's Theatre on Wednesday evening was remarking how pretty the house looked, so daintily is it re-upholstered by Messrs. A. and R. Dean, of Birmingham, who have excelled themselves in the creation of comfort and taste in the appointments of this comfortable and "cosy" playhouse.

MR. E. S. WILLARD was recently the object of an extraordinary demonstration at the National Theatre, Washington, at the conclusion of his admirable performance of Tom Pinch. The eminent actor had been seen at his best in one of his most fascinating impersonations, and at the end the audience rose en masse and continued to applaud until Mr. Willard was obliged to make a speech. In a few well-chosen words he expressed the pleasure he felt in visiting Washington, and his appreciation of the cordial reception given him, promising, in conclusion, to return next season and the season after. He then retired amid another ovation. The demonstration was remarkable from the fact that the audience in the upper circles, as well as in the lower part of the house, was on its feet cheering enthusiastically.

MR. A. W. PINERO, whose new play, His House in Order, is to be produced at the St. James's Theatre on Feb. 1, will be the subject of the Vanity Fair cartoon next Wednesday. Mr. Pinero, wildly caricatured but unmistakably recognisable, is turning away to the left of the picture; and in the background Mr. Bernard Shaw stalks along in Bohemian costume, glancing over his shoulder at his brother dramatist's fashionable up-to-date attire. It is an amazingly humorous effort by the well-known caricaturist who hides his identity under the name of "Ruth," but whose style, eccentric and individual as it is, betrays him. The production of this smart and spirited cartoon is one of many proofs of the enterprise and energy with which Vanity Fair is being conducted by the present proprietors.

TO-DAY is Actors' Saturday, when an appeal is made to the whole of the profession to contribute towards the collection throughout the United Kingdom on behalf of the Actors' Benevolent Fund. Contributions may be made at every theatre to gentlemen who are kindly collecting, and no sum will be considered too small to add to the returns. It is well to bear in mind that a subscription of not less than ten shillings annually carries with it an absolute title to the Fund's assistance, and also enables the subscriber of that amount to recommend deserving applicants for help. We commend the cause heartily to our readers, and sincerely trust that to-day's result will surpass the highest expectations.

THE Actors' Association will hold their annual general meeting on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 15, at His Majesty's Theatre, kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. Beerbohm Tree. Sir Squire Bancroft, the president of the Association, will take the chair at the meeting, to which all actors and actresses, whether members of the A.A. or not, will be admitted on presentation of their professional cards.

MRS. BEERBOHM TREE is an earnest student of Tariff Reform, and pleaded the unsuccessful cause of the Unionist candidate in Bermondsey, speaking at meetings and canvassing the constituency with indomitable energy. The experience which the charming actress met with has a ring of wholesome sentiment. The lady who was with her went into a shop in the Old Kent-road and said, "Here is Mrs. Beerbohm Tree come to ask if you will vote for Mr. Cust." "No, I won't," the man replied; then suddenly he looked at Mrs. Tree and said, "What did you say your name was?" "Mrs. Tree," answered the actress. "And does Mr. Tree want us to vote for Mr. Cust?" he inquired. She assured him that Mr. Tree had sent her down to canvass for that reason. "Then I will vote for Mr. Cust," said the man. "I made the first pair of boots Mr. Tree wore in Captain Swift. Those were my prosperous days, when I lived in the Haymarket; but though I have come down in the world, I shall always be ready to do what Mr. Tree asks of me."

MISS DENISE ORME, the captivating "Little Michu" of Daly's Theatre, enthusiastically sings the praises of the Empire gown, in which she looks so attractive. She has carefully studied the most becoming manner of wearing it. "First of all," she says, "grace of movement must be considered and practised. There is no doubt that those gowns are difficult to manage, because they are narrower than the wide, flounced, modern skirt we are accustomed to. The girl who wears the Empire gown must learn to take short steps—strides would be terribly inappropriate—and she must also hold herself very upright. There is, however, a difficulty in walking upstairs in an Empire gown with a train, which only practice will overcome. To wear the Empire dress to perfection, it is absolutely necessary to adopt the Empire shoe, which is quite flat, and without the suspicion of a heel. At first I found this very tiring, but I am quite accustomed to it now."

MR. BEERBOHM TREE thus defends himself from the imputation which arose in some quarters that he made interpolations in An Enemy of the People at His Majesty's for political purposes: "As some representatives of the Press, some members of my audiences, some even of my personal friends are under the impression that in the Public Meeting scene of An Enemy of the People, produced here last week, I was so carried away by the electoral excitement as to interpolate references to the newly-elected Liberal majority, may I be allowed to quote briefly from the published version of the play? It will then be seen that I spoke on the stage as an actor presenting an author's words, not—as has been hastily assumed—a partisan intruding his private opinions on an inappropriate occasion. 'Dr. Stockmann: Yes; you may be sure I shall name them, for this is the great discovery I made yesterday. The most dangerous foe to truth and freedom in our midst is the compact majority. Yes; it's the confounded, compact, Liberal majority—that, and nothing else. There, I've told you.'"

MR. FREDERICK SARGENT has been engaged by Mr. R. C. Buchanan to play the title-rôle in Jevan, the Prodigal Son, in the forthcoming production of the piece at the Princess's Theatre, Glasgow.

MR. WILLIAM HAVILAND, who has concluded a highly-successful six months' tour in South Africa, will arrive at Southampton to-day, accompanied by his leading lady, Miss Edyth Latimer, and his manager, Mr. W. Angus MacLeod. Mr. Haviland had a most gratifying season in Johannesburg, where he played for five weeks, to record business, his répertoire consisting of Resurrection, The Bells, David Garrick, Leah Kleschna, and a new version of The Vicar of Wakefield.

"THE FASCINATING MR. VANDERVELDT," Mr. Alfred Sutro's new play, was produced on Monday at Daly's Theatre, New York, with every success. Miss Ellis Jeffreys is credited with a delightful impersonation of Lady Clarice, and Mr. Frank Worthing in the title-rôle found many admirers.

MR. ARTHUR HOWARD, who has been business manager for his brother, Mr. J. Bannister Howard at the New Royal Theatre, King's Lynn, during the greater part of 1905, has gone to the Crystal Palace Theatre, where he takes over the management on behalf of J. Bannister Howard's Co., Ltd. On Saturday last Mr. Howard was the recipient from the whole of the theatre staff of a silver-mounted cigar case, a silver cigarette case and match-box, suitably inscribed, the last-named bearing the borough coat-of-arms, and an address expressing regret at his departure, signed by all employed at the theatre. The management at King's Lynn is now in the hands of Herr Pareezer, a gentleman of wide experience.

MR. H. SUTHERLAND EDWARDS, journalist, musical critic, and dramatic author, died on Sunday morning in his seventy-ninth year. As a young man he lived many years in Paris, and an amusing and interesting account of Paris in the fifties is to be found in the Reminiscences which he published a few years ago. Mr. Edwards was the author of several dramatic pieces, including The Late Ralph Johnston, produced in 1872; Sampson and Delilah, Frou-Frou, and Fernande, the two last mentioned being adaptations. He wrote the English libretto of La Marjolaine, Madame Cartouche, and Eugene Onegin. In association with Mr. Augustus Mayhew, he wrote the farce of The Goose with the Golden Eggs, produced at the Strand Theatre on Sept. 1, 1859, and collaborated with Mr. Brandon Thomas in Lillie's Flight, and with Mr. Sydney Grundy in A Wife's Sacrifice, both produced in 1886, and with Mr. W. Taylor in The Fiend at Fault (1894). Mr. Edwards was also the author of "The Lyrical Drama," "Famous First Representations," "Idols of the French Stage," and several novels. The funeral service was held on Wednesday morning, at St. Saviour's Church, Paddington.

"SHERLOCK HOLMES," which has done such extensive and successful touring, is again appearing in the suburbs. Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton, who has made a decided hit in the provinces, is seen in the title-rôle.

MR. EDOUARD JOSE, manager for Messrs. B. and F. Wheeler's enterprises in South Africa, who has been spending a holiday in England, sailed this week by the Kildonan Castle.

MR. CHARLES FROHMAN proposes to present The Beauty of Bath at the Aldwych Theatre about Easter, up to which time it is probable that Bluebell will run. There have been some recent changes in the cast of Messrs. Cosmo Hamilton and Seymour Hicks' piece. Miss Ellaline Terriss, Mr. Hicks, Miss Filippi, Mr. Stanley Brett, Miss Sydney Fairbrother, Miss Maudi Darrell, Miss Mollie Lowell, Miss Barbara Deane, and Miss Topsy Sinden are still among the principals, but Messrs. William Lugg, Laurence Caird, and Murray King, and Miss Nellie Sousay and Miss Clarita Vidal have taken the places of others previously announced.

MR. GEORGE DANCE'S name appeared in a contemporary on Saturday as the defendant against whom Mr. George Edwardes obtained an injunction from producing The Cingalee, The Duchess of Dantzic, A Country Girl, The Girl from Kay's, and The Orchid, in Rangoon, Penang, Singapore, and Hong-Kong. Mr. Dance's association with the best musical comedies from the Gaiety, Daly's, and other theatres is such a long and extensive one that it is almost incredible that such a statement should gain currency, and the denial and apology had necessarily to be prompt and complete.

"CINDERELLA" went into a second edition at the Coronet on Monday, eight new songs being introduced. Mr. Robert Arthur's Kennington pantomime, Dick Whittington, and the Camden Babes in the Wood both commence the last week of their run on Monday. The dramatic season at Kennington will be opened by Charley's Aunt, and the first attraction after the pantomime at the Camden will be What the Butler Saw.

THE twenty-fifth anniversary of the Compton Comedy Company will be celebrated at Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, on Wednesday, February 7th, with a revival of Lytton's celebrated play Money. The event will be specially interesting in view of the public presentation which it is intended to make to Mr. Edward Compton, as a testimony to the quarter of a century's devotion to old and new comedy, and a record of twenty-five years' work

MR. STERLING MACKINLAY'S forthcoming book, "Antoinette Sterling and other Celebrities: Stories and Impressions of Artistic Circles," goes to press in about a fortnight, and will be published by Messrs. Hutchinson early in March. In addition to various pictures of his mother, Mme. Antoinette Sterling, there will be signed photographs of Mary Anderson, the centenarian Manuel Garcia, Adelina Patti, Val Prinsep, Sims Reeves, Charles Santley, Ellen Terry, and others equally famous in artistic circles whom the writer has met. Of the chapters dealing with celebrities of the stage, one is devoted to the Lyceum, and contains anecdotes and impressions, not only of the "chief" and his life-long friend, J. L. Toole, but also of those who were most intimately connected with Sir Henry Irving's successes—Ellen Terry, Geneviève Ward, Forbes Robertson, William Terriss, W. G. Wills (the playwright), Bram Stoker, and others. Mr. Mackinlay was also recently commissioned to write for the March number of the Strand Magazine an article on "The Art of Expression in Singing," a subject of which he has made a special feature in his work as a teacher. Mr. Mackinlay is also at work on a four-act romantic drama of the 16th century, with a strong plot, the scene of which is laid in Holland.

"LUCKY MISS DEAN," that bright and clever "little comedy" recently played at the Criterion and Haymarket Theatres, will shortly be sent on tour. Mr. Eugene C. Stafford, having arranged with Miss Ethel Irving for the sole provincial and suburban rights, will commence a spring tour on March 5 at Eastbourne. Included in the company will be Mr. William E. Ashcroft, so long associated with the late Sir Henry Irving, and Miss Dora Gray.

MR. W. H. HALLATT has achieved another deserved success with his new production, The Temptress. The play has been enthusiastically received by large audiences in all towns visited. The local Press has been unanimous in its praise, and resident-managers have endorsed the verdict by their letters to Mr. Hallatt in eulogy of play, company, and mounting

MR. HARRIS FINEBERG, proprietor of the Star Theatre, Liverpool, accompanied by Mrs. Fineberg, made a good motor-car run this week from their villa near Southport to London. The roads were exceedingly heavy, but Mr. Fineberg's new motor did excellent work, performing the journey of 220 odd miles in about nine hours. The longest stretch covered without a stop was ninety miles.

MR. ALLAN WILKIE, who is doing excellent business with his répertoire company, in spite of the General Election and pantomime opposition, fully realises the importance of up-to-date printing. A special plant is being prepared for him by Messrs. David Allen and Sons, and when this is completed Mr. Wilkie will have as large a variety of pictorial printing as any répertoire company touring.

A SERIES of true detective stories, taken from the journal of M. F. Goron, late chief of the Paris Detective Police, and edited by Albert Keyzer, our Paris correspondent, has been begun in the January number of the Novel Magazine, published by C. Arthur Pearson. The first instalment is an engrossing episode entitled "The Scar," describing the discomfiture of a blackmailer.

"THE GILDED FOOL" is in active preparation at the Shaftesbury, and may be looked for in a little more than a fortnight. The play, which has had a long run in America, will be found to be entirely English in tone, and the scenery and accessories will all be of London make. Mr. Nat Goodwin, who will appear in his original rôle, will have the support of Miss Isabel Grey, Miss Agnes Thomas, Miss Jessie Bateman, Miss Alexandra Carlyle, Miss Martheze, Mr. J. H. Barnes, Mr. H. Cooper Cliffe, Mr. Hylton Allen, and Mr. Neil O'Brien.

MR. FRANK MACNAGHTEN, having renewed his lease of the King's Theatre, Nottingham, has added a heating apparatus that will come as a boon to the audiences of this popular house. Under the guidance of Mr. A. W. Bull, who, for the past eighteen months has directed the fortunes of the theatre, the extension of patronage has been considerable. Mr. Bull has laboured assiduously to promote the pleasure and comfort of all his clientèle.

MISS BEATRICE EDWARDES'S performance as Prince Charming in the highly-successful Stratford pantomime Cinderella, is winning her many eulogiums, a fact that is especially gratifying when it is considered that it is practically her first appearance in "principal boy" parts, although she is well accustomed to playing in male garb through touring in the name-part in My Lady Molly during the past two years. Miss Edwardes, whose native place is Cardiff, is in no way related to anyone bearing the same name on the stage.

SINCE Mr. W. T. Lovell left the cast of Lights Out at the Savoy, Mr. Fred W. Permain has been playing Lieutenant von Howen, the part originally played by Mr. Dawson Millward.

MISS MAUDE DARRELL, who is making a great success in Bluebell at the Aldwych Theatre, will this autumn be sending to the principal cities a company of her own.

MR. J. BANNISTER HOWARD'S pantomime Aladdin, after enjoying a most successful season at the King's Theatre, Gateshead, came to a conclusion last Saturday night. At the end of the performance, all the principal artists individually thanked the audience for their support and appreciation of their efforts. Mr. J. Bannister Howard also spoke a few words. He deeply regretted the fact that this (Saturday) must be their last night in Gateshead, as previous arrangements compelled them to open in Hull on Monday. He was glad, however, to inform them that his company had been specially engaged to open at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle, on Feb. 19, in Florodora, when all the pantomime favourites would be in the cast, including Mr. Daley Cooper, Miss Leo Grieves, and Miss Lily Gullick, a remark which was received with much applause. He hoped during that visit to renew acquaintance with all his Gateshead friends.

MISS BESSIE ALLAYNE, who has just finished a successful season as Jack in Jack and the Beanstalk at Theatre Royal, Exeter, has been re-engaged by Mr. Mouillot, to play O Mimosa San in The Geisha and Maia in The Greek Slave for the spring tour, and San Toy for the autumn tour.

"AS YOU LIKE IT" will be given for the last time at St. James's Theatre this evening, owing to the inability of Messrs. Durward Lely and William Mollison to secure any further extension of the lease of that house. An endeavour is being made to secure another West-end theatre whereat to continue the run of the successful Shakespearean production. Meanwhile the company will go on tour in order to fulfil contracts long since arranged, and at the close of these bookings they will return to London and resume their highly successful production of As You Like It.

MR. LESLIE CARTER has been engaged by Messrs. Addison Bright and Walter Maxwell to create the part of Schaube in their forthcoming production of When It Was Dark.

MR. MARTIN ADESON, who is playing King Grabbus, in Puss in Boots, at the Broadway, New Cross, is taking his benefit on Friday next, Feb. 2, when, in addition to the pantomime, there will be a host of other attractions.

MR. STANLEY ROGERS, whose Cinderella is making a pantomime "record" at Brixton, has a trio of triumphs this season. Jack the Giant Killer, written and produced by this master of pantomime stagecraft, is still proving a huge success at Leith; while his Fair One With the Golden Locks, after a prosperous run at Glasgow, has been transferred to Newcastle. Author of thirty-three pantomime "libretti," Mr. Rogers has eight of his books in use this year.

MR. HENRI DE VRIES, the celebrated Dutch actor, made a brilliant début in America at the Madison-square Theatre, New York, on the 8th inst. in A Case of Arson, under the direction of Mr. M. B. Leavitt. Mr. De Vries, who impersonates seven out of the nine rôles, has been highly praised for his clever character delineations, the manner in which he changes his voice and appearance being regarded as marvellous. It is certainly the most artistic and wonderful performance of its kind that has ever been seen in New York.

MR. HERBERT ST. JOHN, who has made a great success by his artistic impersonation of Dandini in Cinderella at the Brixton Theatre, will not be able to take part in the extended run of the pantomime after Feb. 3, as he has to fulfil a long-standing engagement with Mr. J. Bannister Howard to play Captain Donegal in Florodora, opening at Bath on Feb. 5.

"CINDERELLA" is still running merrily at the Brixton Theatre, enormous audiences thronging this cosy playhouse. In consequence of the increased patronage the management have decided to extend the run of the pretty pantomime for at least another two weeks. A contingent of the Eccentric Club propose to visit the Brixton Cinderella on Thursday, Feb. 8.

THE seventy-fifth performance of Mr. Popple (of Ippleton) at the Apollo Theatre takes place to-night (Saturday). Mr. Paul Ruben's charming and amusing play is going better than ever, and promises to continue its success for many a long day to come.

MR. MATTHEW BRODIE gave a dramatic and musical recital to the patients, doctors, and nurses of Nordrach-on-Dee, Scotland, last Monday. This was the fifth anniversary of his having entered that sanatorium, where he so quickly regained his health.

MR. J. H. CLYNDES and his company will appear in A Royal Revenge at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Salford, on Monday next, this making their third visit to Manchester within eight months.

"THE MOUNTAIN CLIMBER," after a run of three months' at the Comedy, will come to an end in about a fortnight's time, and will then be sent on tour. The theatre will shortly afterwards be occupied by Mr. John Hare, whose appearance under the direction of Messrs. Arthur Chudleigh and Charles Frohman, in Captain Robert Marshall's new comedy is being awaited with interest.

MR. F. R. BENSON, who is this week paying a visit to Belfast, unfortunately wrenched his knee in a hockey match played on Wednesday by his company against the Cliftonville eleven, and had to retire before half-time was reached. The match was a finely contested one, and resulted in a draw, both sides scoring a goal. The teams were as follows:—Mr. F. R. Benson's XI.: Goal, B. A. Pittar; backs, Cyril Keightley and Reg. Davis; halves, Stanley Howlett, J. P. Wilson, and W. Owen; forwards, D. Robinson, F. G. Warlock, F. R. Benson, G. R. Buchanan, and T. Lucas. Cliftonville: Goal, W. Campbell; backs, J. G. Dick and R. C. Robb; halves, A. H. Jarman, H. Harper, and W. Snape; forwards, J. Moore, F. J. Clarke, R. H. O. Smith, W. M'Cammond, and A. J. Dempsey. An interesting match was played in the same town on Tuesday, when Queen's College was engaged. The result was a victory for Mr. Benson's team, which was similarly constituted to the list given above, and scored two goals to one.

A SLIGHT accident happened at the Theatre Royal, Hull, on Monday night to Miss Gladys Raymond, who is playing in Mr. J. Bannister Howard's pantomime Aladdin. Upon making her entrance at the end of the trap scene, she fell through the vamp trap, which was about to be secured. She escaped with one or two bruises and a severe shock, but was able to resume her part.

MISS AURELIE REVY, the Hungarian prima donna, has been winning golden opinions in Dublin, where she has appeared at four concerts. Her voice and culture have won the praises of connoisseurs, and the newspapers are quite enthusiastic concerning her.

MR. NORMAN V. NORMAN is making arrangements to shortly produce a play in four acts, adapted by Messrs. Freeman Wills and Frederick Langbridge, the authors of The Only Way, from Stanley Weyman's powerful historical novel, "Count Hannibal." This adaptation is by special permission of the author, very few of whose works have been dramatised.

ON Thursday afternoon, January 18, the members of the Corinthian Club, which is one of the most representative clubs in Dublin, its members being drawn from the bar, music, art, literature, journalism, and society, gave a luncheon at the Gresham Hotel to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manners, and the principal members of the Moody-Manners Opera company. Sir Charles Cameron was in the chair, and in his speech welcoming the company to Dublin he reminded his hearers that Mr. Manners was an Irishman, and had been many years resident in Dublin, and that his professional career as an impresario began practically in Dublin, and that no one who visited Dublin at any time was surer of a warmer welcome. Speeches were also made by Mr. Justice Ross, and Mr. Manners replied on behalf of Madame Fanny Moody and the members of his company, and spoke very warmly and sincerely of the innumerable and continuous kindnesses he has received from the Dublin public. After the luncheon songs were rendered by Mr. John Child, Mr. Lewys James, Mr. Charles Manners, the Earl of Drogheda, Madame Fanny Moody, and Madame Clementine De Vere; and altogether the meeting was a most memorable and delightful one. Before breaking up, the chairman said it was not the least happy of similar meetings that had gone before, and hoped that there were many more similar meetings to take place in the future. The Corinthians had honoured soldiers, sailors, diplomatists, explorers, and scientists in a similar manner again and again, but a very warm corner was kept for artists and actors, and the warmest corner for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manners and the members of the Moody-Manners Opera Company.

THE value of a name is strikingly exemplified in the case of Mrs. Brown-Potter, who it is said has received an application from the lady who has become the second wife of Mr. Brown-Potter to give up the use of the name for a consideration. The popular lady would no doubt act as fascinatingly under any other name, but her attractive powers would necessarily for the time being suffer. She has therefore set the price of £50,000 upon the cognomen, a sum which would appear prohibitive, so that the celebrated actress is likely to remain Mrs. Brown-Potter to the end.

AN iniquitous "deadhead" has recently been brought to book in Paris. He is the secretary of a theatre, and wrote for two free seats for the Opéra Comique, a request which was immediately granted. The recipient, however, sold the two stalls, worth 8s. apiece, for 12s. to a tobacconist, who let a customer have them for 7s. each. The Opéra Comique prosecuted and claimed £200 damages, but the Court ordered the delinquents to pay £2 compensation jointly.

"MISS HOOK, OF HOLLAND," is the title of the new comedy in which Mr. Paul Rubens is again playing the part of author, composer, and producer. The scene of the new play is set in Holland, all the characters are Dutch, and the story, though fantastic, is thoroughly modern. It will follow Mr. Popple at the Apollo whenever that remarkably attractive play requires a successor.

ANOTHER contingent of poor children will be the guests of the Playgoers' Club to-day. As on previous occasions, the little pantomime-goers will each receive a meat pie, some cake, fruit, and sweets on entering the various theatres where arrangements have been made for their visits, which on the present occasion are the Grand, Islington (2500), the Marlborough, Holloway (900), and the Grand Theatre, Fulham (600). On the following Saturday the Pavilion, Mile End, will accommodate 3500, and 1000 will be sent to the Camden.

MISS OLGA NETHERSOLE'S courage and coolness saved the situation at the Harlem Opera House, New York, on the 19th inst. A boy struck a match in the gallery, and the cry of "Fire!" was at once raised. Miss Nethersole went to the front of the stage, and said: "Don't be frightened; there is no fire." Fortunately the audience listened to her reassuring words, and resumed their seats, without any mishap occurring.

MR. SEYMOUR HICKS has been compelled still further to postpone the matinées for the benefit of various charities, owing to the advance booking at the Aldwych Theatre necessitating two performances a day of Bluebell for some weeks to come. Two shows a day and preparations for the production of The Beauty of Bath constitute a great strain upon Miss Ellaline Terriss and Mr. Hicks; but as soon as rehearsals for the new play are more forward, Mr. Hicks hopes to be able to announce the dates of the matinées, and also of one for the benefit of Mr. Charles Danby.

MR. SEYMOUR HICKS proposes to make his museum at the Aldwych the means of assisting theatrical charities, making a small charge to all persons booking seats at the theatre by which they will be permitted to view the interesting exhibition. The collection is made up principally of Irving relics, including the chair which the late actor used in his dressing-room at Bradford on the night of his death, the jewelled snuff-box, and the bag which he carried as Shylock, the real Waterloo medal which he wore in his famous impersonation, his doublet as Benedick, his dagger as Macbeth, the fencing foils of Hamlet, and many of the character costumes of his most notable parts. In addition to the Irving mementos, there are Kean's sword, Sir Joshua Reynolds' painting of Garrick, Zoffany's picture of Mrs. Garrick, and the late Fred Leslie's "Press cutting" book, containing an interesting collection of old Gaiety programmes, theatrical autographs, souvenirs, and menu cards. Garrick's cane, and the gnarled walking stick used in The Spitalfields Weaver by Mr. J. L. Toole also figure in the exhibits.

MR. H. B. IRVING'S resolve to take up the dual rôle in The Corsican Brothers, a part which is associated with the fame of his lamented father is one that will give satisfaction to all. Seldom has so striking an example of inherited genius been given as in the case of the late distinguished player's son, while the young actor possesses an individuality of his own that will give added significance to any rôle which he essays. It is hoped that the drama may be produced during the spring at Drury Lane.

MR. STEPHEN PHILLIPS' tragedy, Paolo and Francesca, is being translated into Japanese, and will be produced at Tokyo in the spring. The adaptation is being made by Mr. Shoyo, the leader of the new theatrical movement in Japan, where Othello and other Shakespearian plays have already been enthusiastically received.

AT the Elephant and Castle Theatre last Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Harold Wagner was called upon at a moment's notice to take the part of Billy Crusoe, in addition to that of The Bos'un, which he has played since the run of the pantomime, receiving an encore for his capital rendering of the song, "That's him!"

MESSRS. CARDWELL AND LEVY'S juvenile pantomime, Beauty and the Beast, is meeting with enormous success on tour, being pronounced by all who have witnessed it as the most dainty and charming production seen in the provinces. On the termination of its three weeks' run at the Colosseum, Oldham, the Misses Dolly Dodds (Beauty), May Gibson (Silverstar), and Isa Gibson (Maid Marion), were the recipients of lovely presents from the staff of the theatre.

"History tells us" a good deal about Nero, but very little that is to his credit. He began his reign—so it is stated—well, being an objector to flattery and capital punishment; but when he had his mother murdered, people began to explain his scruples on the latter subject unpleasantly. When, however, he declared that he had taken away his parent's life to save himself from ruin, the Senate and the people signified their approbation in the manner then usual. He then, we are informed, "sacrificed to his fury or caprice all such as obstructed his pleasure or diverted his inclination." There was, literally, "no living with" such an Emperor. He not only went on the stage, but chose bad parts to appear in—an instance of unnatural depravity which is almost incredible. He had a hoarse, rough voice, which he did his best to improve; but he neglected to ameliorate his morals, which were simply "unspeakable." He got into "a bad habit of killing people." He kicked his wife to death because she objected to his coming home late one night; although she did her best to please him in the only way possible, keeping 500 asses to supply her daily bath with their milk. He put to death Seneca, Lucan, and Petronius; and though some may feel that the execution of the last was not altogether undeserved, the sternest moralist must deplore the removal of the first-named writer. Nero burnt down Rome—so they say—for the sake of the spectacle, singing to his lyre during the conflagration. His subjects, strangely enough, put up with him for nearly fourteen years; but they seem to have got tired of him in the end, and the Senate finally ordered him to be whipped to death. To escape this doom, he committed suicide, remarking, "What an admirable artist now puts an end to himself!"—a vain estimate which emphasises the objection to letting persons write their own "notices."

"History tells us" all this, and more; but there is no reason why we should believe all the statements of the historians, who were naturally devoid of the sense of proportion, and avid of "spicy" and scandalous details. So Mr. Stephen Phillips has been in the favourable position, as regards Nero, of having a suggestion of a character, and a free hand in moulding it to his purpose. Except in Paolo and Francesca, he has never chosen a really dramatic theme. The legend of Nero, however, is not only full of "movement." It is capable, as Mr. Phillips proves, on the solviter ambulando principle, of being used for the finest achievement of drama—the development of character by action.

Nero is an epoch-making play. It is a work, not of deft and artful talent, but of high genius—a fine intellectual conception, realised with all the skill of the practical stage-craftsman. The idea with which it is inspired is that of an artistic temperament placed, by accident of fortune, in the stream of active life. The "notion," as Mr. Pinero used to put it in the old days, is raised to a height of tragic intensity by the possessor of the temperament being placed in the possession of absolute power in an age of general egoism and unscrupulousness. The idea is carried out, up to the end of the third act, with a masterly supremacy, a princely liberality and profusion of beauty that leave one breathless with admiration. Just as Shakespeare went to Plutarch for his facts, and "stuck to his text" as far as was possible, so Mr. Phillips has made his drama almost a chapter of history. In the first act we have the poisoning of Nero's father, Claudius, by his wife, the remorseless and ambitious Agrippina. Nero, fresh from success at a chariot-race, enters to be hailed Emperor. When his imagination is excited by the thought of the vastness of his dominion, he cries, "I shall go mad!" Five years and absolute power has made him a poetic voluptuary, an amateur artist surfeited with adulation and conceit. Agrippina has seized power, and governs while Nero is singing in public. The Ministers of State, alarmed at her aggressions, suggest to Nero that she shall be banished from Rome. When he gives her the order to depart, she seizes the young Britannicus, Nero's possible rival for the purple, and, after a furious and eloquent speech, goes off to lay her wrongs—remember, she is the daughter of the great Germanicus, whose memory is beloved of the Army—before the soldiers, who really settle Imperial elections. Nero is frightened. He dissembles, and sends a messenger, with fair words, to fetch Agrippina back again. Britannicus must die. The boy is poisoned at a banquet, and falls dead after reciting to the guests. "You are a poisoner?" cries Agrippina. Nero replies:—"I am—your son." Pale and grim, they gaze in each other's faces.

The deadly game does on. The Ministers use the beautiful Poppæa as their agent to persuade Nero to consent to the murder of Agrippina. Otho, Poppæa's husband, is sent out of the way to Lusitania; the woman plays her part craftily. One of the Ministers, Anicetus, invents a plan to kill Agrippina on board a pinnace off Baiae. Nero agrees to this; but natural filial instinct tortures him—until he learns of his mother's escape, when fear masters him again. The lives of the Ministers hang on a thread. Anicetus grips the situation desperately, and sends a party of soldiers to kill Agrippina at the villa to which she has fled. Three notes of a trumpet, ringing across the bay, announce that the murder has been done. Then comes the news of a great victory over the Armenians, and Nero enters Rome in a "triumph." The last act yields to the exigencies of spectacle. There are some comparatively "cheap" scenes, in which Poppæa and Nero's old playmate, Acte, are concerned; but the act exists for the inevitable "sensation" of Rome in flames with the now-insane Nero singing a dirge to his murdered mother.

A bald scenario like this can give no idea of the pomp, pride, and beauty of Mr. Phillips's drama. Speech upon speech rings out, absolutely in its place in the scheme, never exuberant or ornate, and always splendidly direct and dramatic. Nero's terror in the first act when he realises the awfulness of world-empery; Agrippina's tremendous tirade in reply to her threatened expulsion; and the agonised effusion of the Artist-Emperor after he has consented to his mother's murder, are examples which instantly occur; but the whole play is studded and jewelled with rich and rare poesy. Nero is not only the best-conceived work that Mr. Phillips has done; it is the best written, the best understood, and the most various.

Mr. Tree's grand creation of the principal character demands more than ordinary description and analysis; and we give a detailed "appreciation" of it in another column. It is, without doubt, the grandest achievement of his genius. Mrs. Tree astonished her warmest admirers by the vigour and vitality of her performance as Agrippina. Always distinct, dignified, and impressive, Mrs. Tree rose to unsuspected power in such intense efforts as Agrippina's desperate and almost tigerish denunciation of Nero's ingratitude in the second act, and in her denunciations of her son and his Ministers. Her delivery of the verse was excellent. Miss Constance Collier had a fine opportunity in the scene between Otho and Poppæa. Here not only dramatic energy was required, but subtle by-play and crafty touches of expression; and very cleverly did Miss Collier depict the artful treachery of the ambitious wanton. Otho's agony of distrust and his final delusion were spiritedly shown by Mr. Basil Gill; and all the Ministers of State had good representatives. Mr. J. Fisher White gave a calm and well-considered embodiment of the pliable philosopher Seneca; Mr. Lyn Harding, magnificent in appearance and sturdy in style, did full justice to the character of Burrus; and Mr. C. W. Somerset put such strong individuality into the character of Tigellinus that it stood out notably, and remains firmly fixed in the memory. Mr. Robert Farquharson gave a keenly original and very remarkable performance of the part of Anicetus, whom he made equally acute and repulsive; Miss Dorothea Baird was delightfully simple and tender as the young and affectionate Acte; and a picturesque interpretation of the rôle of Locusta was contributed by Miss Mary Price-Owen. The briefer rôles were all ably sustained. Mr. James Hearn spoke his lines well as a Seaman; and Mr. Frank Lascelles and Mr. Henry Lesmere were thoroughly competent as the Parthian and British Chiefs, Mr. Yates Southgate doing valuable service as Xenophon. Miss Phyllis Embury made a pleasing Octavia, and Miss Hilda Moore was an agreeable representative of Myrrha. That clever young actress, Miss Winifred Arthur-Jones, was very commendable as Flavia, and the other maidens were well represented.

So superb was the mounting of the play that a special notice is needed to do it justice. The beauty and the magnificence of the scenes were overpowering, the luxurious life of the Roman Emperors being brought before us in all its lavish splendour. The stately palace, finely painted by Mr. Joseph Harker, which formed the background for the first and second acts, and Mr. Henry Emden's beautiful sets in the third, may be briefly mentioned as examples of what our scenic artists can do when given full scope; and Mr. Harker's Conflagration in the last act could not have been better managed. Archæological accuracy in the beautiful dresses and accessories was secured by the superintendence of Mr. Percy Macquoid; and Mr. Louis d'Egville was responsible for the arrangement of a dazzling Oriental dance, introduced in a scene of Roman revelry, which "beggared description" by its elaborate stage-management, and the sumptuous liberality of its arrangement. Mr. Coleridge Taylor's fine incidental music merits a separate critique. This, indeed, is the difficulty of dealing with Nero—it has so many merits and beauties that some of them must needs be overlooked in a first notice.

The production was a triumph as complete as the Emperor's after the victory over the Armenians; and the three white horses of Mr. Tree's chariot—the noble drama, the fine acting, and the noble setting—will certainly bear Nero on its way for many a month to come.

"BROTHER OFFICERS" AT THE GARRICK.

The Comedy, by Leo Trevor, Revived on Monday, Jan. 21.

John Hinds, V.C. ..... MR. BOURCHIER
Lieut. Launcelot Pleydell.... MR. J. L'ESTRANGE
Colonel Stapylton ..... MR. O. B. CLARENCE
Lieut. The Earl of Hunstanton.. MR. W. PEARCE
Captain Hutchinson .... MR. ALFRED BRISTOWE
Lieut. Calverley ..... MR. D. IMBERT
Sergeant Foxall ..... MR. HARRISON CARTER
Jarvis ..... MR. F. CECIL
The Dean of Orchester.. MR. CHARLES GOODHART
Robert Hutton ..... MR. GEORGE TROLLOPE
Lady Margaret Pleydell ... MISS K. SERJEANTSON
Kate Johnson ..... MISS MURIEL BEAUMONT
Mrs. Hammond ..... MISS ELFRIDA CLEMENT
Mrs. Laceby ..... MISS CELIA POWIS
Maid ..... MISS ANNIE STUART
The Baroness Roydon .. MISS VIOLET VANBRUGH

No one can reproach Mr. Arthur Bourchier with want of variety in his artistic enterprises. Translations of serious French dramas, social satires, and Shakespearean revivals have been presented by him at the Garrick with marvellous boldness and experimental energy. When Mr. Bourchier wishes to rest—se reposer, pour mieux sauter afterwards—he revives an entirely agreeable and amusing piece like Brother Officers, in the leading part of which he is so much at home as to be able to act, in an emergency, as prompter of those of his company who are less letter-perfect than himself. It is too late in the day to criticise Mr. Bourchier's John Hinds, a creation familiar to every London playgoer. It is the same quaint, humorous characterisation as it was when Brother Officers was produced at the Garrick in the October of 1898. Mr. Bourchier shows, perhaps, a tendency to underline certain points, and to emphasise others more palpably than on that occasion; and he reaps his reward in the laughter evoked by the grotesque efforts of Hinds in the first act to adapt himself to the painful circumstances of promotion from the ranks to a commission. The piece is a valuable illustration of the difficulty experienced in the English Army in getting "rankers" to take commissions. There are hundreds of non-commissioned officers who, in action, would be in their proper place at the head of a company, but who shrink from the ordeal of introduction to the officers' mess. We never realised so fully the force of their objections till we saw that fine fellow John Hinds in Brother Officers rendering himself ridiculous by each attitude, movement, and speech. The author, for the sake of effect, has made Hinds especially unadaptable and obtuse; but still, the sketch is no exaggeration of the awkwardness of the promoted plebeian's position, which is really pathetic in its painfulness. A great merit of the revival is the excellent way in which the characters of the young officers are sustained. Mr. Julian L'Estrange as Lieutenant Launcelot Pleydell and Mr. Walter Pearce as the Earl of Hunstanton might have walked straight from any barrack-square to the stage of the Garrick Theatre, so simply and naturally well-bred are they, and so exactly do they reproduce a type of which Englishmen are proud. Mr. O. B. Clarence, always "safe" in an elderly character-part, plays Colonel Stapylton in his usual neat, crisp, and carefully-accentuated manner; and Mr. Alfred Bristowe and Mr. D. Imbert are quite efficient as Captain Hutchinson and Lieutenant Calverley. Quietly finished performances of the little parts of Sergeant Foxall and Jarvis are contributed by Mr. Harrison Carter and Mr. F. Cecil; and Mr. Charles Goodhart as the Dean of Orchester is the "image" of a sleek, self-important clerical dignitary, and acts with an oily humour which is very diverting. Mr. George Trollope plays Robert Hutton in a style of his own, which is original and effective; and Miss Kate Serjeantson is exactly the aristocratic, amiable mother suggested by the text. Miss Muriel Beaumont as Kate Johnson is as pretty and unaffected an example of a young English girl as could be desired; and Miss Elfrida Clement gives a bright, animated interpretation of the rôle of Mrs. Hammond. Miss Celia Powis does good work as Mrs. Laceby; and Miss Annie Stuart is a presentable maid. As for Miss Violet Vanbrugh's Baroness Roydon—how can we do justice to its noble frankness, its tender delicacy, its sensitiveness, its freedom, and its deep and tender feeling? The pleasure given by such a delightful embodiment can hardly be conveyed in words. Mr. Bourchier has had the advantage of the assistance of that excellent authority, Colonel Newnham-Davis, in the reproduction of the piece, so we may feel safe as to the accuracy of the military details. Mr. Edmond Rickett has arranged some pleasant incidental music. The revival of Brother Officers at the Garrick on Monday was received with every sign of satisfaction.

"THE HEROIC STUBBS."

The Comedy of a Man with an Ideal,
In Four Acts, by Henry Arthur Jones.

The sight of a good man struggling with incorrect diction or awkwardness in Society is supposed to be a delight to the playgoing public. We have such a spectacle at the Garrick, where the fun of the first act is chiefly created by Mr. John Hinds's solecisms; and at Terry's on Wednesday Mr. Jones gave us a companion picture in the trials and troubles of a little boot-maker. The piece possesses all the virtues and defects of the Jones-ian method. In the first place, it has all that outside actuality which is such a valuable quality of Mr. Jones's plays. The first act is excellent in every way. We are shown a boot-maker's shop, a boot-maker's assistants, and a boot-maker—all most convincingly put upon the stage. The two assistants go up ladders and open boxes; the leather apron hangs over the back of a chair; the boot-maker himself talks much as the boot-makers we have known talk, allowing for Roland Stubbs's peculiar character. Stubbs owes his success in life to an incident of his apprenticeship. His cruel master had been ill-treating him, and a little girl of the upper class—a customer—spoke kindly to him, and encouraged him to persevere. This incident was engraved on Stubbs's memory, and by attention to business and by inventing a certain patent "soft kid," he rose to the possession of a fine business and four thousand a year. The kind little girl, when the play begins, has become Lady Hermione Candlish, the wife of a pardonably jealous husband. She is pursued, with evil intent, by a Don Juan called Willie Dellow. Stubbs worships Lady Hermione with a distant and reverent adoration; and when he finds that, without her husband's knowledge, she is going to trust herself on board the dangerous Dellow's yacht, Stubbs orders a special train so as to get down to the little watering-place of Yavercliff and save her from the consequences of her folly.

Here we touch the real weakness of the piece. Stubbs is "too silly for anything." Lady Hermione is quite old enough to know her own business best; and Stubbs has not the least right to interfere with her risky flirtations. Realising this, Mr. Jones makes the rest of his play action and intrigue. In fault of development of character, he falls back on incidents and complications. Dellow's plan is to get Lady Hermione on board his yacht to meet some friends, who will be conveniently absent, and then to run off with her to Dieppe. Lady Hermione—one of those female "players-with-fire" who are so useful to the constructive dramatist—is by no means prepared to be Dellow's victim; but Stubbs does not know that. He takes rooms at the only inn in Yavercliff, and boldly attacks Dellow, who yields when Stubbs threatens to make a disturbance which would spoil the seducer's scheme. The latter manages to get Lady Hermione after all to go on board his "lugger," but she refuses to be taken to Dieppe and insists, indeed, on being sent back to Yavercliff Pier. There the boat she is in upsets, and Stubbs, who has been following her in another, jumps into the water and saves her life. Fresh complications are created by the accidental presence in the inn of a reporter from a London daily paper, who sees an opportunity of making good "copy" out of the incident, especially if he can discover the name of the lady whom Stubbs saved. The faithful boot-maker smuggles Lady Hermione off at daybreak, and for the time prevents the disclosure of her identity, so that the mysterious heroine of the "Yavercliff mystery" remains unknown to the public. Taxed by her husband in the last act, Lady Hermione lies; and when the reporter turns up at her husband's country house and recognises her, she is in great distress. Stubbs, ever her good angel, persuades the reporter, for the lady's sake, to keep the secret, and induces her ladyship to "make a clean breast of it" to her husband. The piece ends with the reconciled pair embracing, and Stubbs strolling off pensively with his box of boots.

Roland Stubbs is a most difficult character to render probable or convincing, and Mr. James Welch had an up-hill task on Wednesday almost from the outset. A stage personage may easily be either ridiculous or admirable, but it is almost impossible to make him both at the same time. One felt from the first that there was a good deal of impertinence in Stubbs's egotistical intrusion into Lady Hermione's life, and in his attempt to arrange it for her by his interference. The position of the "hero" is a false one, and all Mr. Welch's delicate and finished treatment could not conceal that fact from the audience. On the other hand, there is far too much good in Stubbs for him to be heartily laughed at, like the mean little parvenu in Mr. Hopkinson. It was not Mr. Welch's fault, but the author's, that, despite the actor's entirely admirable handling of the rôle, the one creation fell a little short of the complete success of the other. Mr. Dennis Eadie was very intense and earnest as Sir Arthur Candlish; and Mr. Sydney Brough, in the few minutes during which he was on the stage as Sir Thomas Starbuck, made a very favourable impression by a vigorously funny depiction of a burly, red-faced, and stupidly-jocular baronet. Mr. Eille Norwood played the "bold, bad man," Willie Dellow, with a judgment and discretion which were much assisted by an exterior quite suitable to the character; and Mr. George F. Tully was full of vivacity and smart energy as Harvey Dix. Mr. E. Dagnall, as the oily inn-keeper, treated us to one of those "satisfying" low-comedy creations in which he so conspicuously excels; and Mr. Leonard Calvert contributed a picturesque and effective performance as a "long-shore" boatman. Mr. Leopold Profeit was efficient as Ballard; and Miss Rose Temple and Miss Eva Turnour were unimpeachable as the assistants in Mr. Stubb's shop. Miss Gertrude Kingston sustained the rôle of Lady Hermione Candlish with her usual complete accomplishment, making every point with care and cleverness, and looking very nice in some most becoming dresses. Miss Helen Palgrave was a dignified and well-bred Lady Mildred Starbuck; and Miss Marie Hudspeth gave a neat character-sketch as Lady Bodicote. Miss Gertrude Burnett being particularly bright and pleasing as Flora Stubbs, and Miss Irene Rooke enacting Mrs. Treviss with skill and sincerity. Miss Estelle Winwood made the most of her opportunities as Flitton; and Miss Ethel Hollingshead did useful work as Agatha. Miss Pauline Potter being commendable as Miss Pierpoint. Mr. Bruce Smith's shop interior for the first act was remarkably realistic; and Mr. Walter Hann's seaside hotel and country house sets were all that could be desired. The Heroic Stubbs had a cordial and friendly reception, and Mr. Welch's popularity was shown by a call for him, to which he responded.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"LA PETITE MADAME DUBOIS,"

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, Jan. 25.—If the two last acts of MM. Gavault and Lahaix's comedy had proved as good as the first tableau the work would have been a perfect gem. But from subtle comedy we soon drift into vaudeville, and the dialogue in the second act drags considerably. On the other hand, we are treated to a series of very amusing incidents, and the laughter that greeted the performance augurs well for the future success of the piece. Moreover, the authors have a great surprise in store for us. Their heroine, Madame Dubois, is a good-principled woman, and, more remarkable still, remains respectable till the end of the piece, a feat thus far never yet performed by any other heroine at the Nouveautés Theatre. In the opening scene we are introduced to the Dubois family in Soissons. Dubois is rich, his wife is pretty, and Elodie, an elderly aunt who lives with them, does not make herself more unpleasant than strictly necessary. One day Jardy, a Parisian, gets stranded in the small provincial town, and spends a few days with the Dubois. He is a man of about fifty, a bachelor, very fond of the ladies, and beloved by them. Before he has been an hour in the place, he tries his luck with the pretty Eve Dubois, when, to his surprise, he finds that his advances do not meet with any response. Jardy, the sceptic, does not believe in a woman being virtuous. If a lady resists him, it is because she loves someone else. He expounds this theory very cleverly to his charming hostess, adding that as she would not be so foolish as to have a lover in the little scandal-mongering town, the gentleman on whom she had centred her affections must be a Parisian. And he triumphantly proves to her that the happy man can be no other than Gerbier, a young barrister who visits her frequently. Jardy's deductions are almost right. I say almost. Eve certainly loves Gerbier. She even loves him very much; but he is not her lover. She is a good-principled woman, and refuses to deceive her husband. Gerbier's prayers and lamentations are of no avail; he cannot drag her from the right path. At last Gerbier loses patience. "If you refuse to be my mistress," he says to her, "then get a divorce and become my wife." Eve accepts this plan with enthusiasm, but it wants working. Dubois has no mistress; he is kind to his wife; and Eve has no other choice than to run away. This she does with the old aunt Elodie, leaving a note to her husband informing him that she left him to meet the man she loves. "With whom can she have gone?" sighs poor Dubois. And Gerbier, whom Eve has not informed of her departure because she will only see him after her divorce, likewise asks, "With whom did she run away?" Jardy, too, is very much upset and also wonders who the happy man can be. Suddenly Dubois returns home in a great state of excitement. Théodore, Eve's cousin, a young idiot who stammers, has also left his home, and he, of course, is supposed to be the seducer. Dubois remains alone in the house, and feels sad. But at this opportune moment Mdlle. Hortense, a young employee in a dressmaker's establishment, comes to bring a toilette for Eve. She gives poor Dubois a sympathetic look, and he understands that with her he will find consolation. Six months elapse, during which time Eve and the old aunt have been travelling; and Eve, for some unexplained reason, has not communicated with Gerbier. Dubois has applied for a divorce, which the Court has granted. Gerbier and Eve meet, and the latter has no difficulty in proving that she never ran away with Théodore. They want to publish at once their banns, but an unforeseen difficulty has arisen. According to French law, Dubois had to give legal notice to his wife that the divorce was pronounced against her, and he has not done so. Why? Because Hortense (who has become Dubois's mistress) wants him to marry her, and the man has no inclination to do so. And as Eve is in a hurry to become Madame Gerbier, she calls on Dubois to ask him not to keep matters any longer in suspense. And here we witness a typical scene; for Jardy has turned up again, and this time it is he who is believed to be Eve's lover. At one moment it looked as if Dubois and Eve would fall into one another's arms, which would have been a tame ending to the piece, but we were spared that dénouement, and things take another course. Dubois promises to give Eve the required legal notice. The latter will marry Gerbier; Hortense will marry Dubois; and Jardy will become Hortense's lover. The work was fairly well acted. Mdlle. Cassive was not seen at her best in the rôle of a virtuous woman; flighty parts suit her better. MM. Germain and Torin imparted much humour to their rôles, but M. Rozenberg, as Gerbier, made a decided hit. His impersonation of that distracted lover was excellent in every respect. M. Colombey was a far too heavy Jardy; and Mdlle. Piernol supplied an amusing type of the vulgar and scheming Hortense.

MR. W. C. HORNER, of the Victoria Theatre, Burnley, was so delighted with Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's pantomime, Aladdin, that he 'phoned Mr. Dottridge as follows: "Delighted with the brilliant pantomime you have sent me, the best I have had for many years, and the business is sure to be gigantic."

MR. FREDERICK MELVILLE is presenting his drama, Her Forbidden Marriage, at the Theatre Royal, Dewsbury, this week. Mr. Albert Ward, in the rôle of George Maddison, makes a real hit. Mr. Lionel D'Arragon as the callous Charles Devereux also enacts his part in good style; Mr. F. De Vere is very funny as Timothy; Miss Barbara Gott as the Mother Superior could scarcely be improved upon; and Miss Eugenie Magnus as Lady Lucretia essays her rôle with character and feeling. Among others who appear are Messrs. E. Campbell, G. Lyttleton, Misses S. Hammersley, and I. G. Vane as Sir Geo. Lancaster, Lambkin, Patty, and Lucy.

THE BIJOU THEATRE.

"KING JONATHAN,"
a Musical Phantasy,
Written and Adapted to Popular Melodies, by A. M. Lee.

Jonathan ..... MR. LEONARD HEYWOOD
Ferdinand ..... MR. A. M. LEE
Douglas Mortimer ..... MR. CALDWELL MOORE
Daphne Ray ..... MISS DOROTHEE SNOW
Ruby ..... MISS MADGE LEE
Susanne ..... MISS MURIEL CAMPBELL
Babs ..... MISS ISABEL BURROWS
Première Danseuse .... MISS WINSOME WALKER

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 23, a performance of King Jonathan was given at the Bijou Theatre in aid of the Mersey Mission to Seamen, a large audience being present. King Jonathan is entitled a musical phantasy, and is written and adapted to popular melodies by Mr. A. M. Lee. The story relates how Jonathan, formerly known in humble life as Ikey Wilkins or Williams, reigns as king over the island. The first act shows the Gardens of the Cavern Palace of the King at night, and Before the Storm, and the two characters that first appear are Jonathan and Ruby, a lady to whom the King makes a proposal; but Jonathan, who it seems has a perfect mania for making proposals (this being his nineteenth), explains that he is not serious in this case, but is really in earnest as regards a young lady called Babs; but that lady has rejected him, and he has a rival in one Ferdinand. When Miss Babs appears, the King makes another appeal, but with no success, and, later on, discovering her with her lover Ferdinand, whose real name is Hugh Russell, declares he will banish the gentleman to the Island of Desolation. This so depresses the young man that, after Jonathan departs, he asks Babs to sing to him, which she does, giving a coon song about her "Little log cabin," and this being encored by the audience, considerably improves his spirits. The next couple that come on are Douglas Mortimer and his young lady, Daphne Ray, both in correct modern dress. We may here mention that the costume of Ferdinand is Elizabethan in character, and the King wears a long red robe, an ermine cape, and a crown. Douglas Mortimer and Daphne Ray have landed from a yacht, and lost their way on the island, and the first act closes by the King inviting all to a dance at the Palace that night. The second act takes place in the Antechamber of the Palace. All the former characters come on, and a fresh one in the person of Susanne, a young French girl, who recognises the King as the man Ikey Williams, who has not only some time before proposed to her, but also taken her money. They eventually agree, however, to square matters for £5, and sing a duet "Listen to my tale of woe," which was well received by the audience. The other scenes in this act are An Elfin Fantasy, with some effective solos by Miss Norah Campbell, and the Terrace Room, which serves to finally wind up the plot. Mr. Leonard Heywood played Jonathan with a certain amount of humour, being very successful with his song relating to a certain kidney pudding; and Mr. A. M. Lee acted well in the character of Ferdinand, and sang his solo, "Go slow, little boy," in the second act remarkably well. Mr. Caldwell Moore also appeared with success as Douglas Mortimer. In the part of Ruby, Miss Madge Lee was graceful, and has a most effective dance with a quaint cinématograph appearance, caused by clever treatment of lighting. Miss Winsome Walker also won applause for a clever dance. The character of Babs was skilfully undertaken by Miss Isabel Burrows, and that of Susanne by Miss Muriel Campbell. The orchestra was under the direction of Mr. Algernon Clarke, and the dances were invented by Miss Lizzie Maynard and Madame Wordsworth, and the dresses by J. A. Harrison, of Leicester-square.

DEATH OF B. C. STEPHENSON.

We regret to record the death, which took place on Monday morning, of Mr. Benjamin Charles Stephenson, the well-known dramatic author. He passed away at his residence, Hill Cottage, Taplow, and was in his sixty-seventh year. He was the only son of the late Sir William Stephenson, K.C.B., and a nephew of General Frederick Stephenson, who was in command of the Army of Occupation in Egypt and the Soudan from 1883 to 1888. Mr. Stephenson when a young man entered the Civil Service, but devoted much of his spare time to playwriting and other literary work. For the German Reeds' entertainment he wrote Charity Begins at Home, with music by Alfred Cellier, first performed at the Gallery of Illustration, London, on Feb. 7, 1872, and revived at the Gaiety Theatre in Feb., 1877, and at the Shaftesbury in Sept., 1901. It was also staged at St. George's Hall in June, 1892, and is a favourite one-act piece with amateurs. He was one of the adaptors of Sardou's Nos Intimes, produced by the Bancrofts under the title of Peril in Sept., 1876, at the old Prince of Wales's Theatre. The adaptors' names were given as Messrs. Bolton Rowe and Smith Rowe, the last-mentioned being Mr. Clement Scott. The same authors again collaborated in the version of Sardou's Dora, entitled Diplomacy, produced at the Prince of Wales's Theatre on Jan. 12, 1878.

Mr. Stephenson achieved a notable success with the comic opera, Dorothy, Mr. Alfred Cellier being responsible for the charming music. This was produced at the Gaiety on Sept. 25, 1886, by Mr. George Edwardes, in conjunction with Mr. H. J. Leslie, and ran for about one hundred nights. On its withdrawal it was transferred to the present Prince of Wales's, and later to the Lyric. Altogether, its career lasted over three years. Miss Marie Tempest, Mr. Hayden Coffin, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Arthur Williams were conspicuous in the cast.

Some years previously, namely in 1878, Mr. Stephenson collaborated with Mr. Clement Scott in a version of Le Petit Duc, named The Little Duke, staged at the old Philharmonic, Islington. Impulse, an adaptation of La Maison du Mari, Mr. Stephenson wrote for the Kendals, who produced it at the St. James's in December, 1882. He was the author of Doris, music by Alfred Cellier, first performed at the Lyric Theatre on April 20, 1889, but this failed to enjoy the unqualified success of its predecessor, Dorothy. Nor was the career of The Young Recruit, written in conjunction with Sir Augustus Harris, and produced three years later, more prosperous. The comedy called The Passport, by Mr. Stephenson and Mr. William Yardley, was produced at Terry's in 1895, and has since been revived. The list of Mr. Stephenson's productions also includes Comrades, presented at the Court Theatre on December 16, 1882, of which Mr. Brandon Thomas was part author; A Woman of the World, being a translation of the German play, Der Probepfeil; Warranted Burglar-Proof, Faithful James, both one-act pieces; and On the March, a comic opera, in the authorship of which he was associated with Mr. W. Yardley and Mr. Cecil Clay, produced at the Prince of Wales's in June, 1896.

ATROY, the society juggler, is achieving much success at the Hippodrome and Varieties, and Johnny Walker, character comedian, does well. Joe Oliver, singing coon, has a good style; and Verne and Verne, trick skaters, are clever. Viola, an instrumentalist of much ability, and Davis and Davis, refined comedians, have a good reputation. Ariel and Astarte, gymnasts and bar performers, have a very clever act; and Ted Waite, eccentric comedian, is amusing. The Harriscope gives an extended series of pictures.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA. 1850—1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

MR. F. R. BENSON IN BELFAST.

The annual "Students' Night" in connection with Mr. Benson's visit took place on Wednesday evening at the Theatre Royal, Belfast. A procession of the students in all kinds of fantastic costumes left Queen's College about 6 p.m., and marched through the city to the theatre. There they took entire possession of the gallery, and furnished a programme of songs, in which Messrs. J. Laird, H. C. Laird, C. Boas, N. Gordon, C. Cooper, D. McElroy, Stewart Megahy, and others took part. The piece, produced before a crowded and fashionable audience (including Sir James Henderson, J.P., Lady Henderson, and party), was The School for Scandal, in which Mr. Benson (although suffering from an injury to his leg sustained at hockey during the day) delighted his hosts of admirers with his dashing and manly impersonation of Charles Surface, and Mrs. Benson's graceful impersonation of Lady Teazle was certainly exceedingly charming. Other parts were cleverly sustained, and at the conclusion of the performance Mrs. Benson was the recipient of a handsome bouquet of flowers composed of lily of the valley and daffodils tied with black and blue ribbon (Queen's College colours), which was lowered from the gallery by wire.

There were loud calls for a speech, and Mr. Benson on coming forward was accorded an ovation. He thanked the students for the very warm, orderly, and harmonious greeting. The members of his company offered to them their heartiest congratulations on the successes achieved during the year, and on the way in which they intended, through the munificence of many generous frinds, to enlarge the scope of the college. If those present had observed anything appearing to limp or halt in that performance he hoped it would be imputed to an accident, and would therefore be overlooked He congratulated the students present on all the successes achieved in the school of medicine or the school of law; their school that evening had been The School for Scandal, a subject entirely unstudied by them. He asked them to give the performers a diploma in their examination, and see they were not "stuck." Once more would they allow him to offer, on behalf of his wife and himself, their sincere thanks for that very pleasing floral offering that came down the wire, and she asked him to say that the most precious flower in the bouquet was expressed in their friendship, their favour, and their goodwill which those flowers betokened. He would now bid his old young friends good-night, and he wished to thank them very much indeed for the warm welcome they had given him that evening. It added but one more to the many memories they possessed of college days, of college work, of college play, and of college joyousness. They could only thank them again and again for that heartiness and kindliness, which made those memories abide with them as the years rolled merrily on, and always kept their hearts hopeful and youthful.

"A QUESTION OF AGE," the comedy in three acts by Robert Vernon Harcourt, will be produced at the Court Theatre on the afternoon of Feb. 6. Mr. Frederick Kerr, Mr. C. M. Hallard, Mr. Kenneth Douglas, Mr. Stratton Rodney, Mr. Frederic Topham, Mr. C. L. Delph, Mr. Frederick Lloyd, Miss Fanny Brough, Miss Mabel Hackney, Miss Agnes Knight, Miss I. Fitzgerald, Miss Darragh, and Miss N. Daniells will be in the cast. Mr. Harcourt's piece will be followed by a play entitled The Convict on the Hearth, by Frederick Fenn, the cast of which will comprise Mr. Edmund Gwenn, Mr. Edmund Gurney, Miss Mary Brough, Miss Eily Malyon, Miss Merrie Omar, Mr. Ralph Green, Mr. Stratton Rodney, Miss Clare Greet, Mr. Norman Page, Miss Madge McIntosh, and Mr. C. V. France.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

The usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association was held last Tuesday, when there were present Messrs. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy chairman), Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), J. Cooke Beresford, Clarence Blakiston, Acton Bond, C. Hayden Coffin, Thalberg Corbett, F. Cremlin, Will Dennis, Wm. Devereux, A. E. George, Lawrence Grant, Arthur Holmes-Gore, Alfred Kendrick, Ernest Legh, Fewlass Llewellyn, Norman McKinnel, M. R. Morand, Walter Russell, A. M. Seaton, C. Aubrey Smith, Edward Terry (vice-president), Brandon Thomas, Hubert Willis, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary).

The hon. solicitors reported they had advised a member on a point submitted, and had also written on behalf of another member making a claim for arrears of salary, &c. They were requested to advise another member as to his rights in connection with an alleged breach of contract, and also as to a claim for damages against a railway company for loss of luggage.

Edith L. Barwell and S. D. Allan Wade were nominated for election. A former member was proposed for reinstatement.

The suggestions for the institution of professional qualifications for actors were again under consideration, and after a lengthy discussion further deliberation was postponed until the next meeting, the secretary receiving instructions to inform those members of the Council who were absent of the adjournment.

The accounts for the year 1905 having been placed on the table, the preparation of the report of the Council was referred to the Finance and General Purposes Committee. The date was fixed for holding an arbitration. Two cases of alleged insanitation at provincial theatres were considered, and the secretary was directed to place the correspondence in one of the cases before the hon. medical officer of health.

The hon. solicitors reported that the negotiations between the A. A. and the company who were arranging for the carrying out of the insurance scheme were nearing completion, and that they (the hon. solicitors) had incorporated the two proposed agreements in one, and made certain provisos in connection with the settlement of claims. The secretary was authorised to sign the agreement with the insurance company on behalf of the association on receipt of a letter from the hon. solicitors informing him that the agreement was satisfactory.

The secretary reported that he had arranged for the holding of the fifteenth annual general meeting of the association at His Majesty's Theatre (by kind permission of Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree), and that Sir Squire Bancroft (the president of the A. A.) would preside. The Council fixed Thursday, Feb. 15, next, at 3 p.m., for the holding of such meeting, when members of the profession who were not members of the association would be admitted on presentation of their professional cards. The report of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was received.

The Finance and General Purposes Committee held their usual weekly meeting on Tuesday last, when there were present Messrs. Acton Bond (chairman), A. E. Drinkwater, Lawrence Grant, Arthur Holmes-Gore, Alfred Kendrick, M. R. Morand, C. Aubrey Smith, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). The committee drew certain suggestions as to matters in connection with the relations between members of the association and the hon. solicitors. The committee, having considered the question of the preparation of the annual report of the Council for 1905, adjourned their meeting until the following Friday, at 11.30, for the purpose of drafting such report for submission to the Council at their meeting next Tuesday.

During the week the secretary of the Actors' Association has been the highly-gratified recipient of a framed and signed photograph of the president, with the following inscription: "To Charles Cruikshanks, from Squire Bancroft, with good wishes for 1906." In 1902 Mr. Cruikshanks received a portrait of the late president, inscribed "Charles Cruikshanks, from Henry Irving, with kindest and most cordial greeting."

"THE DEAN'S DILEMMA."

A Comedietta, by Albert J. Dearden, Produced at the Garrick Theatre, on Thursday, Jan. 25.

The Dean ..... MR. O. B. CLARENCE
The Master ..... MR. CHARLES GOODHART
The Professor of Fine Arts ..... MR. ARTHUR WHITBY
Percy Smithells ..... MR. DOUGLAS IMBERT
Tibbetts ..... MR. FRANK LACY
Violet Grey ..... MISS EVELYN BEAUMONT

Mr. Albert J. Dearden's comedietta precedes Brother Officers, which Mr. Arthur Bourchier has revived at the Garrick Theatre. The scene is laid in the dean's rooms at a college in Cambridge during May week. The dean is a thin, pale, nervous individual, devoted to books, and so absent-minded as to excite the secret derision of Tibbetts, the gyp. The reverend gentleman has invited some college friends to luncheon, but cannot quite remember who they are. He is, however, considerably surprised by the sudden appearance of a charming young lady, who shyly informs him that she is engaged to Percy Smithells, an undergraduate, who occupies the set of rooms overhead. Her uncle, who is the Master of the college, is opposed to the engagement, and she called to impart some important information to her sweetheart, when, seeing him approaching with a party of fellow undergraduates, she sought refuge in the dean's room. The dean is acquainted with Smithells, and is, indeed, expecting a visit from him. The church dignitary sympathises with the girl who has brought a ray of sunshine into his bachelor abode, and she, having presented him with a bunch of violets, is about to depart, when the expected visitors are heard on the stairs, and she darts into the dean's study. The Master, accompanied by the Professor of Fine Arts, then make their appearance, and, sitting down to luncheon, their host behaves in an unaccountably nervous manner, which, however, is explained when the finding of a lady's glove on the floor leads to the further discovery of its fair owner in the dean's study. The Master is furious, and demands an explanation of the presence of his niece in the dean's apartments, and the lady herself comes forward and explains matters. The Master is eventually induced to give a reluctant consent to the marriage of the young people; and the dean, left alone once more, indulges in memories of some one he was once very fond of, and a vision of whom has been recalled by the visit of the fresh young girl who is engaged to the undergraduate.

The new curtain-raiser was favourably received. Mr. O. B. Clarence presented a very natural embodiment of the dean, whose extreme nervousness and anxiety to avoid the discovery of his lady visitor were cleverly depicted. Mr. Charles Goodhart did well as the bluff Master; and Mr. Arthur Whitby was excellent as the Professor. Mr. Douglas Imbert as Percy Smithells and Mr. Frank Lacy as Tibbetts the gyp rendered good service; and Miss Evelyn Beaumont was a pleasing and girlish Violet Grey.

MR. LESLIE STUART, one of the popular composers who is most directly injured by the illicit trade in music, points out that the sentences on the men at the Central Criminal Court last week will in no wise deter "piracy," for the prisoners were only convicted on the technical offence of conspiracy to print copyright music. It must not be assumed, therefore, that composers and publishers have obtained the redress they seek.

THE HIPPODROME.

THE touch-and-go travesty, Among the Stars, so ingeniously and drolly written by Mr. Arthur Shirley, still serves as the means of introducing a number of most attractive turns into the Hippodrome bill, and several of these made their first appearance at the Cranbourn-street house on Monday. It is somewhat bewildering to watch performances on the stage and in the ring at the same time; but this is practically what Sir Edward Moss, Mr. Oswald Stoll, and Mr. Frank Allen ask their patrons to do, so determined are they to give them an embarras de richesse. Early announcements by Mr. Hal Forde—the mere human being who is wafted from below to the planet Minerva "among the stars"—are Mdlle. Doris and the Brothers Delbosq. The lady commences her turn by dancing in very graceful fashion on the floor of the ring. She soon, however, proves her quality and skill as an equestrienne on a bare-back steed, and is responsible for a daring and fascinating performance, which includes skipping on horseback. The Brothers Delbosq, who are on the stage while Mdlle. Doris is in the ring, justify their title of drolls by their amusing tricks.

A great hit is made by the Novellos in their act "India in Europe"—one of the most interesting and varied shows that it has been our good fortune to witness. Nothing seems to come amiss to these clever people. In a wonderful series of acrobatic feats they, or some of them, are assisted by a small but sagacious elephant, who plants his foot on one end of a see-saw, and by thus immediately raising the other end, on which stands an acrobat, sends that performer into the air to turn a somersault over the animal's back. A number of intelligent fox terriers, a boarhound, and a pony add to the attractiveness of the show by performances that are entirely out of the ordinary groove. One terrier is balanced at the top of a pole, and a number of them do some clever tricks with the patient pachyderm already mentioned. The critic would be content to give his undivided attention to the Novellos, but he has also to note at the same time the wonderful doings of the Lukushimas, Japanese artists, in a remarkable Risley act. A notable achievement is the swinging round at express speed of two brass vessels attached to the ends of a rope, which is done with rare deftness and skill by an adult Jap. One of the kiddies revels in a series of balancing feats on a pole balanced by an older performer, and the force of acrobatic skill could no further go. The Sisters Urma—three pretty and well-formed girls—are seen to great advantage in their lithe and active doings on a suspended trapeze. The celerity with which the trio go through their tricks immediately strikes the visitor. The charm of the exhibition of these perfect lady gymnasts reaches its culminating point when the chief performer acts as a sort of apparatus for her sisters in a series of smart feats. The Hardinis are a quartet of violin players, who are responsible for an attractive musical act. Mr. Hardini, the tutor, and his companions—three pretty girls just entering their teens—choose Il Trovatoré, and perform a fantasia on the airs "Il balen" and "Ah che la morte," both well known to a popular audience. Their tone is excellent, and their technique remarkable. The most gifted of the girls adds to the success by a lively Scherzo, in which the playing of one of the variations is distinguished by a command of harmonics.

The Cole-de-Losse Duo may be credited with originality and comicality in their slack-wire act. One of the pair clowns delightfully, but cannot conceal the real difficulty of the many funambulistic feats that he performs. His partner negotiates the thin filament of steel on a bicycle; and the exhibition throughout is one of the very best of its kind. Lavater Lee and his mule form an amiable combination, and are special favourites with the kiddies. The animal certainly enjoys the performance as much as those watching him, and his owner well sustains the best traditions of English clowning. Tschernoff's animals include a trio of ponies, a number of borzois, a white poodle, and a fox terrier. One of the equines is very artful when, after eating the meal provided for his trainer, he lugs a fox terrier from his kennel and places him close to the empty plate. Another pony lets loose a number of pigeons, who alight on his back; and a third carries away some immense vases by placing his neck through the handles. Altogether a very amusing and ingenious show this of M. Tschernoff. The Pissiutis are apparently brother and sister, and their equestrian act is one on which to build a solid and enduring reputation. The brother is a perfectly formed and handsome athlete, and the sister is also beautifully proportioned. Both are dressed in white. At one time the sister mounts to the brother's shoulders, and the pair ride round in triumph; at another she is held aloft at arm's length by the young gladiator. The act is devoid of sensational incident, but it has a grace and skill much above the common. The Auroras, a quintet of performers, are clever cyclists. Four of them support on their shoulders and keep revolving a tea-cup track, while the youngest member of the troupe—a little girl—rides inside. It is a novel, refined, and marvellous act and never becomes monotonous, as wheel acts are apt to do. Genaro and Theol compass many difficulties in their contortionist business, the gentleman accomplishing his feats with his lady partner clasped round him. The latter can easily touch her back-hair with her toe, and the show generally is refined and graceful. Mdlle. Lorette, who appears early in the evening, is responsible for a very interesting series of pictures, in which she poses as a sportswoman with her intelligent statue dog—a well-trained white setter—as companion. The act is a decided novelty, and is most effectively presented.

Miss Annette Kellermann is literally a perfect duck in the water, and no lady swimmer that we know of has attained such popularity in so short a time as this really distinguished nageuse. She gives clever imitations of Holbein's and Burgess's methods of swimming, and dives into the Hippodrome lake in all sorts of ways with the grace and ease of a dolphin. Miss Kellermann, besides being a magnificent swimmer—always delightful to watch—is a most frank, unaffected girl, and her performance is entirely free from the conventionalities of the showman—or rather showwoman. Her dives, headers, and somersaults form a variety of feats that are accomplished with wonderful ease and finish, and though she comes late in a lengthy programme, no one thinks of departure until she makes her final bow. Other turns on the Hippodrome bill are the Mezzettis in a comic bar act; the Rinaldos, comedy head and hand balancers; the American Bioscope, with dramatic and comic pictures; and the interesting exhibition of the Chinese fishing cormorants. Belling and Augouste, the latter a droll dwarf, are responsible for much amusing business in the ring, in which they are ably assisted by Mr. Otho Twigg.

ON Friday evening last, at the Royalty Theatre, Llanelly, the performance of Mr. Alfred H. Hook's company in The Prodigal Son, was under the patronage of Mr. Llewyllan Williams, M.P. for the Carmarthen Burghs, the Hon. Vere Ponsonby, Lady Oranmore, and the Hon. Mrs. Congrieve. There was a large house, and at the conclusion Mr. Williams, the successful candidate, thanked his constituents for their kindness, and Mr. Hook and Mr. Andrews for their courtesy.

DR. WALFORD BODIE is the principal attraction at the Empire, Wolverhampton, this week, his performances drawing large houses. The variety company includes T. M. Mills, impersonator; Bella Skene, comedienne; Little Dolly Robson, child artist; Helen Henri, vocalist; and Signor Bandoni, one-man band. Ruffell's Bioscope also displays pictures.

MR. GEORGE DANCE'S Company presented The Orchid at the Leven Town Hall on Wednesday. Miss Margery Moore was an attractive Lady Violet, her singing of "Little Mary" being much appreciated; Miss Phil Gumpel made good use of her opportunities as Caroline Vokins. Miss C. Beck proved a sprightly Thisbe; Miss C. Brand was an acceptable Zelie Rumbert, and Miss Maud Davis as Countess Anstruther was effective. Miss Trilby Collier sang and acted brightly as Josephine Zacchary. Mr. Harry Walsh, who played Meakin, kept the audience amused, and the parts of Dr. Faussett and the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour were well played by Mr. V. Wakeman and Mr. Sinclair Holden. Mr. Albert Sealy was an agile Zacchary, Mr. Charles Seymour a politic Aubrey Chesterton, and others who may be mentioned are Messrs. George Asaph, J. Burt, Davies Hallam, H. Malthouse, Mann, Collis, and Graham. The chorus did capital work.

DEATH OF MISS ELIZABETH BESSLE.

WE regret to announce the death on Wednesday morning of Miss Elizabeth Bessle, the actress. She was born in London, but came of an Irish family quite unconnected with the stage. During some years she "roughed it" in the provinces, graduating from "walking on" to lead in companies under the management of John Coleman, Henry Loraine, Rebecca Deering, &c. On coming to London she joined the "Dramatic Students," a band of enthusiasts which included Ben Greet, Hayden Coffin, Fuller Mellish, Eric Lewis, Rose Norreys, Ada Farrar, and Rose Dearing among its members, and she appeared at matinees at the St. James's, the Shaftesbury, and other West End theatres. Engagements at the Shaftesbury, the Princess's, and the Opera Comique followed, and about this time Miss Bessle organized a company to play poetic drama in the open air at places within easy distance of London. This enterprise obtained a great success under the able direction of the late Mr. Sidney Herberte Basing. The company included Sam John, John Le Hay, Henry Loraine, Frank Lindo. F. H. Westerton, Herbert Shelley, Mrs. Theodore Wright, Mrs. F. H. Macklin, and others. After touring with her own company for a couple of seasons, Miss Bessle tried an experiment in local management by turning an interesting little old theatre in a midland town into an artistic up-to-date house. In the summer of 1899 she joined the Pinero Comedy Company, playing Ruth Rolt, Mrs. Porcher, and other parts in the repertoire with much success.

Miss Bessle showed much skill in condensing old plays and in adapting comediettas from foreign pieces, and she also displayed talent as a contributor of papers on stage management, costumes, &c., to theatrical and other artistic journals.

A FOOTBALL match between the members of the Lady Madcap company and the Edinburgh University Wednesday, in aid of the funds of the University Dramatic Club, took place on the 18th on the ground of Hearts of Midlothian Club at Tynecastle, Edinburgh. The fact that Miss Marie Studholme had been announced to set the ball in motion was, no doubt, an additional attraction, and when, carrying a handsome bouquet presented to her on behalf of the Dramatic Club, she kicked off, a hearty cheer was raised, and the operation, it may be stated, was not overlooked by several possessors of cameras who had come as near the centre of the field as possible with the view to getting a good snapshot. There was a large attendance of students and their lady friends, and the ladies and gentlemen of the theatrical company lent their patronage to the proceedings by turning out in strong force. The ladies were keenly interested in the progress of the game, and many were the shouts of encouragement and praise which came from the pavilion stand. Some of the ladies, indeed, became quite excited when the prospect of a score for Madcap became anything like bright. The theatrical men made a good fight, and were only beaten by two goals to one.

APARTMENTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—May I be permitted to offer a criticism of Mr. William Lockhart's letter on apartments published in your columns on Jan. 13 last? I think his suggestion excellent. I am afraid, however, that the careful and methodical actor would simply be keeping the careless and unmethodical in good addresses.—I remain, yours faithfully,
SIDNEY RENNEF.
Grand Theatre, Swansea, Jan. 24.

THE DUBLIN THEATRE COMPANY, LTD., held a meeting on the 15th inst, when Mr. D. Telford, the chairman of the company, presided, the other directors present being Messrs. S. C. Allen, David Allen, and F. Mouillot, managing-director. The director's report and statement of accounts for the year was read, and the chairman congratulated the proprietors on the satisfactory financial position of the company. The directors recommended the payment of the usual dividend of 6 per cent. per annum on the share capital; the reserve funds were augmented by a further sum of £800, and carrying forward the substantial balance of £1,977. Mr. Mouillot, who seconded the chairman's resolution, paid a compliment to the resident-manager, Mr. G. Parrington, and to all the staff of the theatre. The retiring directors and auditors were re-elected.

MISS HETTIE LEE made a very decided success on her first appearance at the Empire, Glasgow, and was complimented by the management.

THE Pavilion Theatre, Edinburgh, was sold at auction on the 18th inst., the building, together with a hall and several shops adjoining, realising £1,000.

MR. EDITOR,—Sir,—In his notice of the Palace, Halifax, last week, your correspondent omitted the names of yours faithfully, SPENCER and MARKS, speciality comedians.

ALEC LEONA HATZAU, proprietor of the American Dramatic and Vaudeville Touring Co., and a well-known composer and sketch author, who, unfortunately, sustained a severe compound fracture of the leg in a railway accident, and was taken to Guy's Hospital, has, after seventeen weeks' detention, been allowed to return home. He fears it will be quite another six or eight weeks before he will be able to get about again.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.
Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr. Albert A. Strong's new work entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr. Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act passed by the United States Congress last March are full of interest.—Referee.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.

"The Era" Almanac and Annual for 1906, is not only a valuable collection of information and a history of the dramatic and musical year. It is also a very amusing and entertaining shillingsworth It contains contributions from many well-known actors and actresses. Mr. Frank Desprez, the editor, contributes a delightful story about an actress who sold her collection of Press notices in order to help a colleague in distress. There are numerous portraits. The lists of English, French, and German plays produced during the year are very useful. Altogether, "The Era" Almanack is indispensable to all interested in the stage.—The Star, Jan. 24, 1906.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1906.

MUSICAL PIRACY.

The termination of the musical piracy case last week, and the significant, if far too lenient, sentences which were passed on some of the prisoners, show most conclusively the need of more stringent legislation on the subject. As Mr. MUIR, the able counsel for the prosecution, reminded the jury, the success of the unlawful trade in pirated music has been extraordinary. In 1903 it was so flourishing that the different publishers of music had to engage a small army of inspectors, or agents, to discover the places at which pirated music was stored in order that it might be seized and destroyed. Within the London area only, Messrs. CHAPPELL and Co., the nominal prosecutors in the case which opened at the Old Bailey on the 11th inst., found that three hundred thousand pirated copies of their songs were seized. These confiscations had no effect. The musical piracy business apparently resembles the slave trade, in which the rascals who carried it on found that if only one out of six of their cargoes escaped capture they made a handsome profit. Within the same year and limits two million copies of pirated music of other publishers were seized—a proof how lucrative, with all its losses, was the business, and what large sums were being stolen from the music-publishers. In the case which was concluded on the 19th inst., the care taken by the prisoners to conceal their operations showed that they were well aware of the illegality of their deeds; their solicitude to conceal identification by means of anonymous bill-heads; the blocks left in fictitious names at the cloak-rooms of railway stations; the payment of cash without anything so compromising as a receipt—all proved the full consciousness of fraud.

General indignation in the matter has been modified by the fact that the trade of music-publishing is a little out of the comprehension of the "man in the street." The actual "daylight robbery" of a chair or a table from the shop-front of a cheap cabinet-maker is comprehensible to him as a criminal act; but when he comes to deal with intangible things like copyrights he is not so apt at understanding. The fact is that property in brain-work is a thing that the Englishman is slow to realise. Our antiquated Patent Laws have done much to keep England back in the race for commercial success; and there is no nation in the world which has been so backward in defending Intelligence from the attacks of the unscrupulous. We are, however, slowly but surely advancing; and the decision of the jury in what we may call the WILLETT case, while it by no means does away with the necessity for the amendment of the Musical Copyright Law, establishes the fact that music piracy is indictable as a criminal conspiracy. Even this result has not been obtained without a vast expenditure—an expenditure which, in a country where the rights of traders were properly maintained, and not sacrificed to party considerations and petty expediency, would never have had to be made. It is nothing less than scandalous that business men carrying on a perfectly honest and open trade—a trade on which depend several other trades, giving employment in all to hundreds—should have to defend itself against open and acknowledged robbery. The Common Serjeant's statement that copyright is a valuable property is a truism to those who are and have been mixed up with trades with which talent is the motive-power; but we daresay, obvious as it is, it will be new to a great many ordinary persons, at the back of whose heads is the absurd idea that copyright is only a privilege. If there is a thing which a man has a right to as his own "property," it is that which he creates by his own brain, spinning it out of his own bowels as a spider produces its threads. An idea, musical or dramatic, is bone of a man's bone and flesh of his flesh; and, of course, if those willing to purchase the composer's or the playwright's ideas cannot make sure of the property belonging to them, the occupation of the "inventor" of music, of plays, and of books is gone. It seems unnecessary to state a conclusion so obvious; but it is not only necessary to state it, but to repeat it and to keep on repeating it, until it is driven by successive blows into the brains of the British public.

The present Government has gone into power with an immense majority, which deprives it of excuse for neglect of its duties. It has promised the electors to turn its attention specially to what we may call domestic legislature and to the improvement of education. There are few trades which minister more directly to the culture and elevation of the country than the music-publishing trade does. "Let us make the songs of a people, and anyone who likes may make their laws," said a celebrated writer; and the ballad and the instrumental "piece" humanise, refine, and elevate the public as nothing else can. The Government, therefore, is, by obvious implication, pledged to legislate on the musical piracy question. It is placed in power on the understanding that it shall make good the omissions of its predecessors. Whatever may be one's politics, it is a satisfaction to think that the recent election makes the passing of the Musical Piracy Bill a little more probable. We congratulate the music-publishers on the plucky way in which they have fought, and are fighting, their battle with the pirates. We feel sure that, in the end, they will win that battle; but we feel more or less indignant that they should have been forced into this costly crusade, that they should have had to pour out money in such profusion in doing work that ought to have been made unnecessary long ago by an Act of Parliament. If the present Government does not choose as one of its first good deeds the taking up of the Musical Copyright Act as a Government measure, and the carrying it through the House with the aid of its great majority, we shall know what to think of the protestations and promises at the recent election. We feel confident, however, that the Government will redeem its pledges; that the Bill will be an Act before many months have passed by; and that musical piracy will become a thing of the past.

MR. THALBERG CORBETT, who is going to produce Mrs. Bertha Pogson's English version of the successful German play, Alma Mater, as soon as time and tide allow—"time" meaning at the Easter or following autumn season, and "tide" representing in this instance his ability to obtain a suitable West-End theatre—is an actor who is ever young. He will himself play the leading character in Alma Mater, and although there are many men who could bring an equally long stage experience, running into the 'twenties, to bear upon the part, there are few who could look like the boyish student, of Old Heidelberg type, as Mr. Corbett is sure to do. For the past year he has been more or less resting on his oars, having only appeared in Voysey's Inheritance at the Court, after two years' touring in South Africa, with seventeen modern plays, when he worked with the energy and enthusiasm that alone ensure the success of a stock company, only snatching an occasional week's shooting and hasty visits to the places of interest in connection with the South African War. The leading lady in his company was Miss Katherine Pole, who will be remembered by theatre-goers for several pretty and intelligent performances—notably in Mrs. T. P. O'Connor's comedy, A Lady from Texas, as the heroine of A Fatal Wedding at the Princess's, and in The Second in Command on tour—and who is now married, and has left the stage.

IN the days when Mr. Thalberg Corbett toured America as Madame Modjeska's leading man, he met with the usual experiences, pleasant and otherwise, that fall to the lot of "strolling players" on the other side of the Atlantic. Once he was in a train that was flood-bound, and, in common with his fellow-passengers, felt the pangs of hunger added to the anxiety of the situation. So he volunteered to make his way on a hastily-constructed raft to the nearest farm-house, in search of food, if, like Horatius on the bridge, there were two others who would help him. Two men promptly offered their services, and the adventurers departed, punted and paddled their way to the farm house, and purchased a goodly number of fowls. These they prepared in a summary manner for the pot, made such a stew as a man does not readily forget, and returned to the train in triumph. This, in bald words, is a brief outline of how Thalberg Corbett fed the hungry and cheered the forlorn!

MISS EDNA MAY distinguished herself in Boston on Wednesday by averting a panic which seemed likely to arise through a fire breaking out in the cellar of the theatre. Despite the fumes and smoke, Miss Edna May boldly declared that the fire was in the yard outside, and so confidence was restored, and she continued playing while the men below put out the flames.

On the 31st inst., the marriage will be celebrated of Mdlle. Piérat, the charming actress of the Comédie Francaise, with M. Guirand de Scevela. M. Claretie, the manager of the Comédie Francaise, and M. de Féraudy, the well-known actor, and who was Mdlle. Piérat's professor at the Conservatoire, will be the bride's witnesses.

"NERO."

A RAPID IMPRESSION.

This is a rapid and brief impression. I would describe Nero as a study in ancient life under the light of modern science. Nero is no longer that inhuman monster who kills for sheer love of bloodshed. He is horrible, but human. And let me say at once that both Mr. Philips, the author, and Mr. Tree, the actor, having formed their conception of what Nero was, have drawn between them a portrait brilliant, symmetrical, and strong; with not a single contradiction except the natural contradictions of the character, with nothing irrelevant, nothing which is not as rigidly harmonious, as though it were a picture drawn by some mighty and steady painter's hand.

What, then, is Nero, as written by Mr. Philips and played by Mr. Tree? He is the Degenerate who has been so closely studied and analysed by modern science, and has figured so largely in the world of society—in the world of letters—above all, in the world of crime. We have seen the Degenerate in society—sometimes in what was supposed to be the best society; his name is synonymous with that of more than one brilliant man of letters; above all, we have seen the Degenerate in the Law Court. At this moment the image and specimen of the creature I best remember is that of Cream or Neill, an American degenerate who had taken his highest pleasure in poisoning fallen women. I saw the creature in the dock at Newgate—cool, watchful, moving his teeth all through the long days of the trial as though he were chewing tobacco; and silent and controlled until now and then when he felt that he was trapped, he burst into a wild and bestial cry of rage and protest. And yet this tiger was known by many people as a pleasant boon companion. In the evidence you could trace his course through that under-life of London—the life of the crowded and brilliantly-lit bar, with men drinking, good fellowship, and at boisterous or bibulous peace with all the world; and the women he killed, he first did his best to attract and to win.

The Degenerate of Mr. Phillips and Mr. Tree is a blend of the Degenerate of different types. He is at once Jack the Ripper and the poet or romancer who writes of lust with something of the suggestion of blood—to whom blood suggests lust. There is a modern writer—not an Englishman—whom I once in my wrath described as Jack the Ripper in literature. Nero is Jack the Ripper on the throne and in art. His worst crimes present themselves to him as part of a great artistic show; he stands outside his own acts, and gazes on them with admiration or philosophic contemplativeness. He is at once actor and spectator—that strange double attitude which is an essential part of the artistic mind, whether it be the mind of the good man, the sane man, or the Degenerate man. The heart of Nero is really in the circus, in the dance, in the poem, in the lyre. While he murders he is chiefly concerned in the thought of how it all looks as a bit of stage-production.

There is one very powerful and striking instance of this attitude which I may choose out of several. After some persuasion and some resistance, Nero consents to the murder of his mother. She is to be drowned as she crosses the bay from her son's house to her own. Nero and his parasites stand waiting for the shriek which is to announce her murder. The lake is soft and silent, the sky is clear, the moonshine bright and high; there is that extraordinary feeling of calm which makes the heart of man beat with a new sense of the peace that passeth all understanding. And meantime, amid this deadly silence, they wait for its being broken by the shrill shriek of violent death. This son, who is thus awaiting the last cry of a mother's agony, stops to dilate on the thrill of this scene; of the artistic completeness of its irony, and contrast its irony in the confidence with which the mother leaves the ardently loving arms of her son; in its contrast between the hideous work that is being done and the stillness of the night. He even dwells upon his own sensation and that of his companions as they stand in the strange pause that comes between the expectation of the shriek and its utterance. To him it is all drama—more than reality.

This is one side of the monster; the other is that of the pure debauchee—the creature of feastings and wine and lewdness. It is in these scenes that Mr. Tree reveals a splendid consistency and intelligence that are possible only to an actor of genius. The face is transformed. With puffy cheeks, with pendulous jaws, the loose and humid lips, with a curious leer at once tigerish and simpering, he brings up before you one of those wretched beings that come unbidden and unwanted into this world; who are neither man nor woman, but half one, half the other, and beast more than either. See him under the influence of this fatuity grow gradually more and more the victim of his own inordinate self-conceit, until, in the end, he dreams of himself as the divine poet; as the greatest of all artists; as the ruler who can sway even the heavens, and bid the thunder cease.

And mark how wonderfully the transformation is produced from the mime to the tiger. Of the several moments when the actor allows the face to change, and the wild animal to burst forth, there is one in particular which I must mention as perhaps the finest of them all. Nero has asked his mother and his brother and rival to a feast of reconciliation, and he is lavish in his fondlings of both; and then suddenly a draught is given to the boy, and he falls and dies poisoned. Then attendants and the nobles disappear. Nero and his mother Agrippina are left alone, and these two monsters look at each other—each horrible—and each loathing the other; and yet each groesquely and cruelly alike. "What art thou?" asks the mother. And, leering horribly, all the simper gone from the face, and only its rigid and hideous cruelty revealed, Nero replies, "Mother, I am your son." Words fail to give an idea of all the sinister horror of that moment.

I have only time and space to add that the character of Agrippina is also wonderfully well conceived; like that of Nero, rigid, consistent, and closely constructed. And Mrs. Tree never had a part in which she played with such distinction and success. As to the production, it stands supreme for magnificence and impressiveness, even amid the many wonderful things Mr. Tree has done.

T. F.

AMONG the good things provided at the Richmond Theatre this week, special mention may be made of the drolleries of Mr. W. P. Dempsey (a clever comedian), of Mdlle. Sylvia's charming electric tableaux, of Miss Rose Newport (a dainty comedienne) and Mr. Tom Dunmore (a quaint humorist). Other excellent turns are Florence and Lilian, Mazella and Millay, and Harold Alberto. Mr. Hubert Bartlett and Miss Edith Muir win approval in a bright little comedy of the tabloid order, entitled The Collar Stud. The bioscope is good.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

MR. WALTER GIBBONS will be glad to welcome his friends at the private view of the Holborn Empire from three to five o'clock to-day. A descriptive account of the luxurious house will be found in another column of this issue. Mr. Eustace Jay, late of the Palace, Croydon, has been appointed manager, with Mr. Harry Bawn as general-manager. The musical-director is Mr. James Sale, late of the Grand, Clapham.

THE chief attraction of the opening programme will be A Trip to the Isle of Man, originally produced at the Palace, Manchester. The variety turns will include J. W. Rickaby, Silent Tait, conjurer, the Two Bees, Lily Lawrence, Lee and Kingston, the Australian Meister Singers, Zaro and Arno, Hill and Hull, Frazer and Haley, and Edward Sillward and Co. in a sketch. The Imperial Bioscope will provide an excellent series of films. The programme will be given twice nightly, and the house will be run in conjunction with Mr. Gibbons's other ventures at the Empire, Islington, the Duchess, Balham, and the Grand, Clapham.

IT grieves us very much to announce that Mr. Caldwell, the protector and open ally of the music pirate, was returned for Mid-Lanark by a large majority on Tuesday. We may draw the attention of our readers this week to our leader, which discusses the question of musical copyright and the prospects of a Bill protecting the composer and publisher in the new Parliament.

THE Water Rats, the Terriers, and the International Artists' Lodge will be represented at the conference to be held at the M.H.A.R.A. offices on Sunday, when will be discussed the question of the formation of a music-hall artists' association. The necessity for such an organisation need not be argued here; and the time is ripe for the M.H.A.R.A., with its comprehensive membership and administrative machinery, to extend the scope of its action on progressive lines, and form a united and representative body that will care for the best interests of the profession. The association started in the early 'eighties signally failed; but then there was no such thing as a railway concession to bind and consolidate members of the variety stage; and we trust that the result of the conference on Sunday, which, by the way, is private, will be a judicious and well-considered scheme of union.

ALL those who have subscription lists for the George Le Brunn fund are requested to kindly return them at once to the hon. treasurer, Mr. David Day, 142, Charing Cross-road, as the committee wishes to wind up the fund without delay.

THE committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association has decided to discontinue the annual dinner and dance that has been given for several years on the Sunday nearest to the date of the founding of the Association (Feb. 2, 1897). At first these popular functions were held at the Horns, Kennington, and at two of them the late Mr. Herbert Campbell and Mr. Dan Leno presided over large gatherings. Last year the venue was changed to the Trocadero, with the result that the Association sustained a loss. The abolition of the pleasant reunion will cause much regret in variety circles, as there are few such opportunities for social intercourse among members of the profession as the dinner supplied.

A NEW farcical extravaganza, designed to fill the entire Coliseum programme, is in active preparation. Mr. Arthur Shirley has been commissioned to do the book, and a burlesque by Chris Davis, of Nero, as well as Eugene Stratton's Coon in Love, will form two items to be introduced within its wide scope, besides many other novelties. Several important engagements are pending.

THE Palace scene from Act 2 of La Mascotte is to be submitted by Mr. Oswald Stoll at the Coliseum on Monday. In this the principal characters will be taken by Mesdames Cora Williams, Sybil Lonsdale, and Messrs. Andre Kaya and Watty Brunton. The musical numbers have been arranged by Mr. Walter Slaughter; Mr. Will Bishop is responsible for the dances; and the whole is produced by Mr. Marshall Moore.

THE ever-resourceful Mr. Alfred Butt, in order to give Miss Kate Cutler sufficient time to change her costume from the white muslin gown worn by the mischievous Baroness Papouche in The Spring Chicken at the Gaiety to the black robe of the heroine in the melodramatic skit at the Palace, has provided her with a specially illuminated and fitted-up Vanguard car as a dressing-room. She is able to be absent altogether from the Gaiety stage for only forty-three minutes; and as the Palace sketch occupies twenty-two minutes, and, in addition to getting to the Palace and returning to the Gaiety, Miss Kate Cutler has to change her dress twice, a few seconds delay at any point would spoil both productions.

MR. ALBERT GILMER, at the Oxford, announces a series of special matinées every day (Saturdays excepted), commencing Monday next at 3 p.m. The special attraction will be the marvellous photographic reproduction of the struggle for the light-weight boxing championship of the world between Jimmy Britt and Battling Nelson. It will be remembered that Jimmy Britt defeated the renowned Jabez White, and his encounter with Battling Nelson is one of the most determined on record. The pictures are exceedingly fine.

MR. JACK CAMP, his friends will regret to hear, is laid up with an attack of laryngitis, and hemorrhage of the right lung. So serious was his condition that the doctor at first had very little hope of his recovery. He has, however, taken a turn for the better, and hopes to resume work shortly in the syndicate halls.

THE opening of the new Johannesburg Variety Theatre—which is being built on a scale of magnificence hitherto unknown in our Colonies—has been postponed until May 18, and Miss Ada Reeve has thus been enabled to postpone her departure from England until April 21.

MR. B. PEARCE LUCAS, managing-director of the Bedford, on Thursday invited the aged dwellers in the St. Pancras Almshouses, Maitland Park, and the juvenile inmates of the St. Pancras Female Orphanage, Hampstead-road, to the usual Thursday matinée that is now a popular feature at the Camden Town establishment. Besides the exceptionally good programme now at the Bedford, there were special delights for both old and young, thanks to the kindness of friends of the two institutions, among the contributors being Mr. J. W. Hewett, who provided oranges and buns for the children and old ladies, with cigars for the old boys; Mr. Lucas, who had handed round chocolates for the girls; and Mr. G. Stevens, who sent over bananas for all.

MISS BESSIE TRAVIS (Mrs. Alec Huline), the lady ventriloquist, has had to cancel several weeks' engagements by her doctor's orders, as she is suffering from laryngitis and partial loss of voice. She is resting at her home in Highfields, Sheffield. We hope that her indisposition is of an ephemeral nature.

MR. WAL CROFT, the Scotch comedian of the Edinburgh Grand Theatre pantomime, has secured some excellent new songs, and will return to the halls at the termination of the pantomime.

THE Bijou Empire Theatre of Varieties, Grimston-street, Hull, of which Mr. T. N. Turner is the lessee and Mr. Fred Thorne the manager, is closing on Saturday, Feb. 10.

CHARLES COLLETTE, an old Nottingham favourite, was the chief attraction at the Nottingham Glee Club concert on Tuesday last. He went down specially from London, and gave a numerous selection from his repertoire of patter musical sketches, to the great delight of a large and enthusiastic audience. Mr. Collette returned on Monday week to the London Pavilion.

THE Chas. Fisher Pocket Opera Co. finished on Saturday last the Stoll tour at the Hippodrome, Manchester. Mr. Fisher has lately introduced La donna e mobile; also, as a grand finale to his highly humorous sketch The Music Master, a slightly condensed version of Faust in appropriate costumes, which has met with the success it so richly deserevs.

MISS DAISY DORMER, the dainty principal girl at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle, will shortly open at the Palace, London, with a big collection of coon and chorus songs especially written for her by Geo. Collins, author and composer of her popular number "I'll be your Butterfly"; Charles Collins, whose chorus, "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you," is the biggest success of modern times; Edgar Bateman, and Harry Castling. It might be mentioned that Miss Dormer is the original singer of "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you."

A NEW company has taken over and reopened the Empire Palace, in Market-square, Dover, Mr. Chas. R. Standfield being the secretary. Popular prices and good entertainment are promised, and without doubt a house of this kind should do well in the town. The place has been closed for the last few months, and the reopening has been signalised by redecoration and refurnishing.

MR. GEORGE LEYTON produced his latest military scena The Scamp of the Regiment at the Birmingham Gaiety on Monday, when both song and singer enjoyed an exceedingly fine and hearty reception. The scamp who has been supplanted in love by his own brother, and is "ill-treated through tyrants," emerges from his disreputable state by an act of rare and unselfish daring which brings him his death and sanctifies the hero among his comrades. The words and music are by Messrs. Harrington and Tate, and some picturesque scenery illustrative of the "tented field" has been supplied by Mr. Geo. Hemsley. Mr. Leyton, looking as soldierly and handsome as ever, retailed the story with much fervour and art, and was at the conclusion recalled before the curtain again and again. The Scamp of the Regiment is not only Mr. Leyton's latest, it is his best, and should serve the singer long and well.

MISS MAUDE A. EDWARDS, the new lady ventriloquist, is meeting with wonderful success in the provinces. This clever lady is sister to Tom Edwards, the well-known ventriloquist, and will make her first London appearance in a few weeks' time in the West End, where her artistic performance is sure to be fully appreciated. She has been offered the Moss and Stoll tours, but contemplates visiting America this year, having just received a very good offer to appear in New York.

MR. DAVE OWEN, the "Taffy" of the British Quartet, passed away on Sunday last. As a tenor vocalist he had been connected with the combination mentioned since its formation. Although very ill, he appeared on the first two evenings of last week at the Brixton Empress, but, becoming worse, took to his bed on Wednesday. The cause of death was pneumonia. The interment took place at Finchley Cemetery on Thursday. He leaves a widow and one child.

MISS MARGARET ASHTON, who has this week been appearing in Birmingham, has met with an extremely cordial reception in the Midland city. The popular American lady, who numbers many personal friends in Edgbaston and its neighbourhood, has been busy with a round of social engagements, besides paying flying visits to such institutions as the Hospital and King Edward's School. On Wednesday she entertained a luncheon party at the Queen's, and later gave a highly amusing children's party. She returns to town the second week in February.

MISS LELIA ROZE, at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham, has introduced a new medley, entitled Musical Neighbours, which has proved a great success, obtaining several encores nightly.

HARRY NATION narrowly escaped being drowned on Thursday whilst rescuing a boy who had accidentally fallen into a canal at Manchester. He succeeded, however, and seems none the worse for his plucky deed.

MR. J. BANNISTER HOWARD AND MR. A. D. VERNON (of Peterborough) have arranged to run their theatres at King's Lynn and Peterborough alternatively as hippodromes.

A SYNDICATE is being formed, with a capital of £500,000, for the purpose of erecting several new hippodromes. We understand that the buildings will be of an entirely new design with many new ideas, which for the present will be kept quite secret. The new enterprise will commence at Coventry, where a splendid site has been secured. Plans are now being prepared by a well-known architect, and the building will be open before Christmas

WHEN returning home from school one day, young Eugene Stratton was struck dumb in astonished admiration by a butcher boy, who was carrying a tray of meat on his head and whistling like a couple of engines. It was a revelation, and from that day Eugene practised hard and with so much effect that in later years he was able to give forcible point to "The Whistling Coon."

"AS I grew into a bigger boy," says Stratton, who is now appearing at the Coliseum, "I became a devotee of the footlights. To visit the theatre cost money. So I used to pick up scrap-iron and odd-and-ends, which I sold to the dealers. My heroes were the acrobats. I thought they were sublime creatures, and I panted to do as they did. There was an old saw-mill near home, and in the yard I learned to tumble. Dancing I learned through practising on a flat stone in a tan yard. When I saw a new 'step' at the music hall at night, I would struggle next day on the stone till I had mastered it. My juvenile accomplishments were to me a source of great delight, and really procured for me my first appearance in public, for being a failure as a telegraph boy I finally persuaded my parents to let me take to the stage.

"I ENTERED into partnership with a full-grown man, and we appeared as 'song and dance artists.' As Wesley's hand was too hard and heavy we parted. For months after I had the pleasure of waiting for engagements; then I went away on tour with a Japanese troupe. When I was thirteen I became a regular Christy Minstrel. I spent some time with the Haverley Minstrels, coming with them to London in 1880. I joined the Moore and Burgess Minstrels soon afterwards. It was when I came into the halls that George Le Brunn wrote for me 'The Dandy Coloured Coon,' one of my greatest successes."

MR. GUS ELEN produced at the Tivoli on Saturday afternoon a sketch of one of the unemployed—a gentleman suffering from the inertia of the born-tired brigade, whose conduct brings into disrepute the honest "out o' works." The popular comedian, in this clever bit of character, amusingly satirised the idea of looking for work instead of "wyting" until it comes round, and spends his time drinking and resting. At length, temporarily throwing off his laziness, he hoists his bag of tools on his shoulder and starts for work; but his scarcely perceptible ardour is damped by the prospect of rain, and he turns into bed again as the curtain falls. The new impersonation was a great success, and has been repeated by Mr. Elen every evening during the week.

THE engagement between Mr. Leo Dryden and Miss Ada Colley is announced. Mr. Dryden is one of our most famous descriptive singers, and his fiancée is one of the most brilliant vocalists that have ever appeared on the variety boards, possessing a vocal compass that is extremely rare.

RATHER a sensational incident occurred at the London Pavilion on Wednesday evening. Albert Attila, of the Attila Brothers, the well-known athletes, accepted the challenge of Lionel Strongfort, the strong man, for £25, to lift above the head a dumb-bell weighing 312lbs. (world's record). The stalwart accomplished this wonderful feat of strength easily at the first attempt. The money (£25) was at once paid over to him by the management amidst great cheering and excitement.

"A POOR WEAK WOMAN"—the title of a comic sketch which Miss Helen Kinnaird has written and produced—is to be played at the Brixton Empress on Monday, when the favourite actress, who made such a success in the rôle of Mrs. Shimmering Black in The Earl and the Girl at the Adelphi, will appear in the title-rôle. Those who remember Miss Kinnaird's performance in the above-mentioned musical play will agree that she is exactly suited for the new part, which admits of handsome dressing. She will wear a different dress for each of the six performances. Miss Kinnaird is a fine figure of a woman, and she will be supported by two "small men." The situations in the farce are very funny.

RACHEL LOWE.

MR. B. P. LUCAS, of the Bedford, on Friday (yesterday) presented his patrons with a souvenir of the very successful pantomime of Aladdin, produced by Mr. Dan Thomas at Christmas and again played this week to crowded houses at the Camden Town establishment.

THE following artists will sail by the Kildonan Castle from Southampton on Saturday, Jan. 27, to fulfil engagements with the Messrs. Hyman in South Africa, at the Empire Palace Theatre, Johannesburg, and the Tivoli Theatre, Cape Town: The Brothers Horne, Walter Emerson, G. W. Desmond, the Brothers De Wynne, Miss May Evans, and the Strolling Players. Amongst those arriving home on the same day are: Ross and Grayson, Cissie Curlette, Winifred Stewart, Ferguson and Mack, and Grace Cameron.

"APPY 'AMPSTEAD" is going on Monday to the Paragon, where it will be mounted with special care. Mr. Joe Elvin is an immense favourite at this fine eastern palace, where this famous sketch beat all records on its original production for money taken at the doors. Let us hope this agreeable experience will be repeated. 'Appy 'Ampstead goes to the Euston after its run at the Paragon.

THE remains of the mother of Mr. George Courtney and Miss Maud Courtney were interred at St. Mary's Cemetery, Kensal Green, on the 18th inst. Miss Courtney, who had the sad experience of losing her mother on the day following her début at the Empire, Johannesburg, will leave Cape Town on Wednesday next, arriving in London on Feb. 17.

MISS DAISY JAMES, "the Gibson girl," finishes her engagement on Feb. 2 at the Orpheum Theatre, Vienna, where she has been the biggest success of any English artist that has appeared in Vienna. She will be heartily welcomed back on her reappearance in London.

MLLE. GHITA CORRI, who has been repeating her Lyceum Theatre successes with the big Cathedral scena in the principal theatres on the Macnaghten and Barrasford circuits, returns to town on Sunday, having given 150 consecutive performances of this exacting sacred "turn" to enthusiastic and crowded houses throughout the tour.

MR. FREDERICK MAXWELL'S latest production, Dick Dare M.P., is proving an immense draw wherever it is played. His company, which includes Miss Lois Du Cane, is a particularly strong one, and with its clever acting and artistic mounting, the sketch deserves the success it has undoubtedly achieved.

MISS ALICE MAY, whose capital sketch Tranquillity enables her to impersonate no less than seven different characters, is winning the golden opinions of the good folk of Glasgow. Miss May is appearing at the Zoo-Hippodrome.

THE International Artists' Lodge held its meeting on Sunday, Jan. 21, at Leicester-square. There were eighteen members present and four guests. The minutes having been read and adopted unanimously, the Chairman proceeded to deal with the correspondence. The meeting then elected six delegates, to be sent to the M.H.A.R.A. Conference at the Association's offices on Sunday. The Chairman referred to the desire of the I.A.L. to get into nearer touch with other organisations in England. With this object they had some time ago approached "The Water Rats'" Association, and they were met in a most friendly spirit. A member of that fraternity, who had just become a member of the I.A.L., suggested that some kind of pamphlet explaining the aims and principles of the I.A.L. should be got up, and a resolution was passed to this effect, the proposal being made by Brother 1226, and seconded by Brother 1243, and carried unanimously.

A LONG and animated discussion then ensued as to the desirability of lowering the salary limit, which constituted one of the conditions of eligibility for membership of the Lodge. Brother 1226 agreed that if an artist is willing to pay the entrance fee and the monthly dues the Lodge has no right to demand that his salary should reach a certain sum, and that it would be advisable to abolish the limit of salary. The entrance fee could remain as it was. Brother 1202 contended that not only should the limit be abolished, but that the amount of entrance fee be lowered, for it was more than many performers could afford. There was a great deal of discussion over this point, and it was declared by the Chairman that the meeting had no right to alter anything in the by-laws except by resolution at a general meeting, and this would have to be specially called. The question would be resumed at another meeting.

MR. HARRY WRIGHT, who is playing the part of Emperor and stage-manager in the Dick Whittington pantomime company, had a narrow escape of a serious accident. While assisting in the electrical scene a lamp exploded in his face. Fortunately, the electrician immediately, by aid of a strong arc light, located the two pieces of glass, and extricated them before any serious injury to the eye was done. Mr. Wright is able to work again.

IT is pleasant to record the success of a new comedian; and Mr. Charles Penrose, who has appeared this week at the Paragon, and rendered a laughing song, followed by another, entitled "Oh, who says so?" in the character of an imbecile child, made up with knickers and white socks, is particularly welcome. We understand that he has been secured by Mr. G. Adney Payne for the remainder of the halls he controls.

MISS MILLIE PAYNE will renew her acquaintance on Monday with the Camberwell Palace audience. It was there only two months before Christmas that she was spotted by Mr. Will Oliver. Her rapid strides since then are familiar to all. Those who gave her such a good start will be pleased, no doubt, to welcome her back.

MR. DAN BURKE (of Burke, Moller, and Teller) will shortly produce an entirely new music and dancing sketch, especially written for him by Mr. J. F. Lambe. The new departure will, as usual, introduce the Misses Moller and Teller's singing and dancing, and Mr. Burke's wonderful terpsichorean performance.

MR. CYRIL DANE produced an oriental musical scena, The Sailor and the Slave, with great success at the People's Palace, Hounslow, on Monday. The story deals with an Arab slave-owner, who sells his entire human stock with the exception of one girl. Her he determines to marry. But the inevitable British Naval officer comes along and upsets his calculations. Special scenery and dresses have been provided by Mr. Dane.

WE regret to announce the death on Sunday last of Mr. Charles Pholte Pinaud (Charles Hunt), one of the members of the original Pinauds. The deceased joined Mr. T. Reed Pinaud as one of the trio calling themselves the Pinauds in 1876, and three years afterwards they started a tour round the world, appearing in every city and town of importance in the four continents. No artists can boast of having played before so many crowned heads as did the Three Pinauds, including the late Queen Victoria, and our present King and the members of his family. The deceased was a past master in his particular line of business, and an artist to his finger tips. His life-long friend and former partner, Mr. T. Reed Pinaud, who is now engaged in producing a selection of the Karno pantomime sketches on the Continent, received a great shock when, on leaving the stage at the Apollo Theatre, Dusseldorf, on Sunday night, he was handed a telegram announcing the sad news. For a considerable time the deceased has lived in retirement, but recently he crossed the Atlantic on a visit to England. The funeral took place on Wednesday at Blackpool. Much to their regret neither Mr. nor Mrs. Reed Pinaud (Miss Florrie Robina) was able to attend.

CATCHY songs, pretty costumes, and good looks are the stock-in-trade of Miss Nellie Wilson, who is creating quite a success at the Palace, Camberwell, and the Grand, Clapham, this week.

ON Sunday evening 220 persons sat down to the annual staff dinner of the Palace Theatre at tables arranged on the stage, which, by means of scenery, was converted for the occasion into an old baronial hall. The company invited 70 more or less regular patrons of the house and a number of artistes, including Miss Kate Cutler, Miss Violet Loraine, Mr. Arthur Playfair, Mr. Horace Goldin, and "The Palace Girls." Mr. Alfred Butt was in the chair, and the directors were represented by Count Max Hollender. Mr. Ernest Polden, another of the directors, who for the first time since the inauguration of these dinners was compelled to be absent, paid the penalty by giving a £5 note for the nearest guess as to the number of leaves on a particular pine-apple. Only members of the staff were eligible for the competition, and the prize was taken by Joseph Allen, one of the firemen.

MR. HERMAN FINCK, the musical director of the Theatre, arranged a special small orchestra, which performed a selection of music up to the usual standard of the Palace Theatre band. The dinner was followed by an excellent entertainment in the foyer, to which, among others, Miss Ruby Wilson, Mr. Leipzig, Mr. Wilson James, Miss Violet Loraine, Mr. Barclay Gammon, Mr. Percival Mackenzie, Mr. Arthur Playfair, Mr. Demanche, and Miss Kate Cutler contributed. During the entertainment the stage was cleared for dancing, which lasted well into Monday morning. The arrangements of the dinner were in the hands of Mr. Thomas Miller, the treasurer of the Theatre, and Mr. Frank Dämer, the stage manager, organised the concert, while Captain Arthur Hill, the ever-popular sportsman and ex-M.P. for County Down, did duty as bar attendant, with rolled shirt sleeves and apron complete.

THE Alhambra directors will present the following most satisfactory report, together with the balance-sheet and accounts for the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, at the annual meeting to be held on Thursday next. The gross receipts amounted to £96,999 6s. 3d. After providing for debenture interest, &c., £2560 8s. 10d., the net profit for the year 1905 amounts to £15,481 11s. 11d., and with £6576 11s. 3d., the amount brought forward, the net balance to the credit of revenue is £22,058 3s. 2d.

THE directors recommend that a sum of £4000 be applied in reduction of the freehold and buildings account, that a dividend of £10 per cent., together with a bonus of 2½ per cent. per share (both free of Income-tax), for the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, being £7500, be now paid, and that the balance, £10,558 3s. 2d., be carried forward to the next account. The dividend and bonus will be payable on Feb. 2 next. The director retiring by rotation is Mr. C. A. Osborne, who, being eligible, offers himself for re-election. The auditors, Messrs. Chatteris, Nichols, and Co., retire, and offer themselves for re-election.

Life for Life, the new dramatic episode written by Mr. Chas. Danvers, has beaten all records at Collins's, where it has been unanimously acclaimed as one of the best all-round productions at present on the variety stage. The scenery by Francis H. Bull, and the special costumes by Stagg and Mantle and Louis Benjamin, are excellent. In fact, the whole "dramatta" is up to the highest standard of excellence. Mr. Danvers is supported by an exceptionally strong cast, amongst them being Mr. William Glenney, Mr. Barrington Foote, Mr. Edmund Lester, Miss Daisy Murch, Miss Gertrude Williams, Mr. P. Kerstone, and over forty auxiliaries.

A PLEASING event in connection with the Humpty Dumpty pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, was a children's party, given on Sunday last by Miss Rachel Lowe—the principal boy—to the little ones engaged in the production. The scene of the festivities was the Victoria Station Hotel, where fourteen bright-faced children were received by their hostess in her suite of rooms. After a substantial tea, with cakes, sweets, and fruit galore, an impromptu entertainment took place, which revealed not a little unexpected talent. The principals in the pantomime were all "taken off" by their youthful admirers, and the laughter or applause of the little ones evinced the correctness of the imitations. Not the least enjoyable portion of the entertainment were the stories told by Miss Lowe of her early experiences as a "kiddie" in the pantomimes at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, and it is needless to say they were fully appreciated by the youngsters. On the conclusion of the pantomime Miss Lowe will spend a few weeks on the Continent before resuming her work in the halls.

MR. FRANK HARDIE on Monday next is producing at the Chelsea Palace The Great Green Diamond, an original Indian episode, in three tableaux, with special scenery and effects, and a comedy duologue entitled Domestic Pets at the Bedford.

MISS KATIE MARSH, whose entertainment we recently had the pleasure of noticing at the Alhambra, Leicester-square, has been highly successful on tour, and we note that she is being heavily booked by her agent, Will Oliver. She opens at the Empire, Birmingham, on Monday next.

MR. FRED ELTON, who has been scoring all round at the Moss Empires, has just signed, through his agent, Will Oliver, for another twenty-three weeks. He will shortly appear in the West-end of town.

THE letter which appeared at the foot of our report of the general meeting of the International Artists' Lodge on page 25 of our last issue, was from the pen of Mr. Charles Coborn. By an unfortunate printer's error his name was omitted.

MR. FRANK LYNNE has purchased a capital song in "The School Teacher," written and composed by Alf. Ellerton (author of "The Inquisitive Kiddie"). The song was immediately acquired for publication by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hnuter. Mr. Lynne, who is doing exceptionally well with these "talking" songs, is booked to open at the Palace Theatre on his return from America on April 30th next.

ON Monday Miss Victoria Monks will at the London Coliseum essay a new characteristic song, by John Francis Lambe and Tom Mellor, entitled "Can't you hear me calling, Mister Primrose Johnson?" Mr. David Day has the song in the press.

WHAT is known as piano acts are becoming quite a feature of modern music-hall entertainment; and Miss Adey Spencer, one of the latest of the artists to adopt this "line of business"—if we may use the term—has been following up her success at the Bedford at the Hippodrome, Hastings.

MR. HENRY CARLTON returns to London on Monday for five weeks, after which he goes to Manchester to commence his third engagement with Mr. Wm. B. Broadhead. This young comedian has a style entirely his own, and his well-known evening dress comedy One Night Only has met with great success throughout the country.

MISS RHODA BURNHILL (the well-known transformation dancer) and "The London Girls," who are scoring such a success at the Kennington Theatre pantomime for their dancing, leave England next month for a long tour of the principal Continental cities.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE PALACE.

The melodramatic absurdity by Mr. Herbert Swears, entitled Hero and Heroine, which was recently produced at a special performance given at the Scala Theatre, was on Monday evening introduced into the programme at the Palace; and the skit was well received by an audience which thoroughly appreciated the comical burlesque of conventional melodrama. As at the original production Mr. Arthur Playfair represented the Hero and Miss Kate Cutler the Heroine. All the traditional "business" of these leading characters was very cleverly burlesqued. The Hero wore the customary velvet coat, red shirt, and shiny top boots; while the Heroine's appearance was heralded by the usual snowstorm. Moreover, she was dressed in mournful black, and carried in her arms a large doll, representing "Little Willie," which, when addressed in endearing terms, emitted a squeak. But both Hero and Heroine have a secret desire to play the villain and the wicked adventuress, and after a while they assume these characters, the angelic Mary becoming Maud Montressor, "the worst woman in Clapham," and the Hero donning a cloak and a silk hat. Bent on crime, they resolve to put an end to Little Willie, and the villain endeavours to accomplish his fell purpose with a penny popgun, which misses fire every time. "The thing won't go off!" he cries, throwing the weapon into the wings, when a loud explosion is heard, causing him to stagger back in alarm. The skit begins and concludes with a few lines in rhyme, and finally Mr. Playfair reminds the lady that a motor is waiting outside to convey her back to the Gaiety Theatre. Both Mr. Playfair and Miss Cutler play their melodramatic parts with much spirit and a keen sense of humour. But for the fact that a mimic in the person of Mr. Arthur Bleackley appears earlier in the evening, they might well introduce their lifelike imitations of popular actors and actresses.

The other novelty in the bill was the first appearance of Mas-Andres, eccentric French duettists, in a burlesque of a revue. The gentleman is an expert quick-change artist, and represents in rapid succession a number of characters, including a bill-poster, a countryman, an amorous old gentleman, a masher, and the gendarme who is in active pursuit of him. Lastly, he appears in the guise of a long-haired conductor of an orchestra, and his extravagant actions are the cause of much merriment. The Frenchman is decidedly clever, and his partner gives admirable support as a vocalist and actress. They had a most cordial reception, having to respond to several recalls.

The last nights of the musical phantasy, Moonshine, are announced. Miss Ruth Lincoln is an attractive Phœbe, and sings in charming style; Mr. Harold Wardroper is well placed as the schoolmaster, Hugh Klydd; and Mr. W. J. Manning is a comical representative of Martha Matties, the proprietress of a ladies' school. Mr. Arthur Pearl as Tommy, the troublesome scholar, makes good use of his opportunities; and the pupils at the ladies' school are smartly embodied by the Palace Girls, whose dancing is greatly appreciated. Leipzig gives a remarkable conjuring performance with cards and coins. His card tricks are surprisingly clever, and he appears to possess extraordinary powers, not possessed by ordinary mortals. The Little Dartos are a boy and girl, who give illustrations of various kinds of dances, and the grace of their performance is only equalled by the agility and skill displayed by the young couple, who are rewarded by liberal applause. Mr. Wilson Hallett scores with his clever mimicry of children and his amusing stories, concluding with an imitation of a little girl singing "Daddy" to her father. The Flying Eugenes give an admirable performance on the horizontal bars, their feats eliciting deserved applause. Mr. Arthur Bleackley mimics Messrs. Lewis Waller, Charles Wyndham, George Alexander, and other well-known performers extremely well. Mdlle De Dio, with her spectacular dances, and Lennie and Hast, in The Sea Nymphs, conclude their successful engagements this week; and the new bioscope pictures include the election of the French President, M. Fallières, and the tour of the Prince and Princess of Wales in India.

THE EUSTON.

Looming large in the scheme of amusement that has been arranged by Managing-Director Payne at the Euston is the sensational comedy sketch, entitled The Bloomsbury Burglars, written by Harry Boden, and produced by Lew Lake and company. We have the semblance of a story in the piece, and learn that owing to the unscrupulous action of a certain Mr. Prescot, who holds a bundle of letters written to him by a lady, she engages a professional cracksman and his pal to break into Prescot's villa at night in order to steal the compromising documents. The reward is to be £5 each. But we need not say anything further about the plot, but endeavour to describe the doings of the comedians who play the parts of Jerry and Nobbler. These sportive, active, and hilarious gentlemen are seen to the greatest advantage, especially in the first scene, in which laughter holding both its sides is but faintly descriptive of the attitude of the audience during the progress of the reckless extravagance. We may regard both the characters as Bethnal Green editions of Robert Macaire and Jacques Strop. Nobbler suffers severely from fits of "abstraction," but he is afflicted with a kind of kleptomania that is very drolly carried through, and his education of his partner, Jerry, in the niceties of language is exceedingly quaint. Jerry himself pursues the industrial career of a window-cleaner; but his elevated calling does not take him above the amusing necessities of a low comedian, and his behaviour when seeking refreshment is laughable in the extreme. The second scene—a double-fronted villa—is the basis of a very remarkable struggle on the roof between the burglars and the police. The members of the force are hurled from the tiles with a vigour and realism that work up the audience into a fever of excitement. The "bobbies" return to the charge time after time to be defeated by the desperate Jerry and Nobbler, and one marvels how the clever crowd escape injury. For wild fun and excitement of an exhilarating character, commend us to The Bloomsbury Burglars, which has humorous qualities that recommend it to the million. The members of the troupe, without exception, work admirably together, and it is pleasant to note the extremely favourable reception accorded to the sketch.

In a sparkling little sketch Mr. Athas and Miss Collins burlesque transpontine melodrama in a very entertaining way. Mr. Athas, as an office-boy, who poses as a professor, has some whimsical ejaculations at the expense of the intense emotion of the lady who poses as an actress—a part that is exceedingly well played by Miss Collins, who infuses just the necessary exaggeration into her attitudes and speech. Later she sings a capital song, "I want to shine in society," and joins Mr. Athas—an eccentric acrobatic dancer of rare ability—in a pas de deux. Miss Amy Clevere, a lady of Anglo-Saxon beauty, and very prettily dressed, interests the audience in the fate of the coloured girl, who "tells them that she is going to wed a white man." The romantic storiette is wedded to a particularly catchy melody, that is well rendered by this winsome vocalist, who also dances in very pretty fashion. Miss Wynnie Darrell tells another interesting story in song of two black coons; and Miss Violet Carlyle, comedienne, is heard to advantage. Mr. George Newburn's mimicry is on a high plane of excellence. He counterfeits the voice and style of the popular comedian, Mr. Harry Randall, with astonishing truth; and as a contrast gives an impression of the quiet, unobtrusive style of the famous coster delineator, Mr. Alec Hurley. Other imitations in his répertoire include Mr. George Lashwood in his "Latchkey" song, and Mr. Harry Lauder ("She's ma daisy"), in both of which he is quite successful. Mr. Bert Clark and Miss Hamilton score their customary success as the "tramp millionaire" and the New York belle. As a comedian and as a pianist the former is an immense favourite, his amusing affectations and his playful pranks being heartily laughed at; while the latter vivaciously asserts her claims to popularity with complete success. Mr. Clark also sings effectively of "My Yokohama Queen," being joined in a delightful pas de deux by his fascinating partner. Mr. George Power's company presents the screaming comedy, Matrimonial Bliss, with complete success. The farcical situations remind one of the old Adelphi farces of Buckstone's day. The quartette of players include a husband henpecked by a virago, and a patient wife kept in a state of abject submission by her bullying lord and master. Towards the conclusion of the trifle the tables are turned. The lamblike gentleman gets the better of his funkiness, and while in a state of inebriation, breaks up the happy home; and the submissive wife also successfully rebels against marital authority so arbitrarily exercised. Matrimonial Bliss is well played, and is a series of laughs from beginning to end. Mr. Fred M'Avoy is the capable manager here, and Mr. Charles Welman the courteous acting-manager. Mr. Victor Opfermann directs a good band.

GRAND, CLAPHAM.

The charm of novelty is possessed by many of the items contained in the well-selected programme at Mr. Walter Gibbons's hall at Clapham Junction. First mention is due to the absurdity, A Trip to the Isle of Man, in which a veritable musical comedy in miniature is presented. The deck of a steamship furnishes the opening scene, wherein a gentleman of the tramp persuasion takes possession of a fellow-passenger's clothes, and passes himself off as a nobleman. He becomes the object of the designs of a retired bacon merchant with six marriageable daughters, and accompanies them on their excursions to the Isle of Man, and afterwards to the family mansion, where a banquet is begun in his honour but ends in his discomfiture. Fun is the chief consideration of the piece, and Mr. Arthur Breton, who appears as the sham Count, works hard to secure it. Mr. Arthur Gaston plays excellently as the retired merchant, who puts his daughters up at auction, a pleasing interlude in which the members of the chorus acquit themselves ably. A "swell" lunatic is comically enacted by Mr. James Mallam; and a "woman of importance" is drollery played by Miss Kitty Terris. Many lively episodes occur in the course of the performance, one scene of which is laid on the beach, where a troupe of pierrots go through their entertainment, and a musical sketch called "Capital and Labour," is given by Miss Nell Rene and Miss Laura Lorne, one of whom gives a clever low-comedy impersonation as a Lancashire mill-girl. A skilful acrobatic dance is done in the dining-room scene by the Sisters MacGovern, who are also associated in a bathing-costume dance.

Freshness is apparent in the entertainment of Silent Tait, whose expertness in the art of conjuring is intensified by the oddities which surround his performance. An elaborate setting is given to the new show, the many curious adornments including a miniature tree upon which billiard balls grow. Plucking one of these the silent one proceeds to gather others from nowhere until he holds half-a-dozen in his hand. He also does a clever trick with a rolled-up paper bag, at one end of which he inserts a handkerchief, and produces flags at the other. Playing-cards are also duplicated with marvellous dexterity by Mr. Tait, whose odd little dance at the conclusion of his tricks is one of the many devices by which he contributes to the merriment of the evening. Society entertainers are found in Grove and Chalmers, who provide a brief but pithy interlude, in which the substitution of one hat for another causes a stormy lovers' quarrel. "Snapshots from life's highway" are also given, highly-coloured pictures of coster life and an incident of society being so well rendered as to evoke great applause. An exhibition of muscular development is furnished by Mr. W. L. Murray, who afterwards assumes the uniform of a Roman officer and reviews a dumb-bell drill by a company of soldiers, who also give an exhilarating display with brass rods. Mr. Murray subsequently balances on his chin a heavy Roman chariot, the axle and wheels of which are removed, and sustained in the same precarious position on the end of a pole, which, on being knocked away, lets the wheels down upon the neck of the bearer. The performer exhibits great strength and skill, and the show, which is a picturesque one throughout, is well applauded.

The sister services are brought into comic relief by Mr. J. W. Rickaby, who sings a song with the refrain, "I'm a bobby," and also appears as a soldier. Both impersonations are embellished with any quantity of patter, and the drolleries of the comedian are appreciated to the full. Another favourite artist is welcomed in the person of Mr. Walter Stanley, who sings "Don't stand there" with all his well-known comic resource, and the eccentricities of the optimistic individual who trills "I'm glad I live in England," to which he adds a funny, but none the less clever, dance, are keenly relished. A clever trick pianist is found in Mr. A. B. Houghton; Los Rupertos are novel equilibrists; and Miss Millie Howell, comedienne, and the Imperial Bioscope pictures add interest to the bill. Mr. H. Ketteman discharges the duties of manager in a thoroughly capable manner, and the orchestra is kept well up to the mark by Mr. James Sale.

FORESTERS'.

From what unlikely objects music can be extracted is shown by the Four Maisanos. The gentlemen, in distinctive black costumes, with red linings, and a pierrot's close-fitting skull cap, contrive, seemingly by simply pulling their coat tails, to produce the melody of a well-known song. After that they proceed to show their skill in the use of the ocarina and the dulcimer, the results being most happy. Their concluding performance is the rendering of a medley of popular airs by means of bells fastened to their ankles and hidden inside boxing-gloves. Mr. Mark Leslie, the "Dusky Prince," is indeed comical with his "Hannah" song, in which he delights the audience with quaint gestures, quaint sayings, and quaint mannerisms. He is no less successful with his "Rufus Bartis." Miss Dora Lyric sings with expression and feeling, and her interpretation of "Put a little bit away for a rainy day" is a delightful item in the programme. Her second number is "My dad's as good as yours," and the verses are pleasantly given. Mr. Harry Lynx has a lot to say about the "Seaside Girl," and what he does say is most amusing. He offers something laughable, too, in the song, "Oh! don't it dazzle your eyes."

"Don't make those eyes at me!" sings Miss Winnie Derson, and the person in imagination she is addressing is seemingly a gentleman with an Erebus-like skin, for she goes on to exclaim, "Sooner than be a black man's queen, I'd die a white man's slave!" The lines are spiritedly rendered, and evoke a considerable quantity of applause. The same remarks may be said to apply to her performance of "I've got no one to love me," into which she imparts a good deal of character work. Exceedingly entertaining are the Lowenwirth Brothers, who are capitally made up to represent Jews, and whose duologue in the most approved Yiddish-English dialect is exquisitely absurd. Their "sheeny men" gesticulations and movements are diverting in the extreme, and the turn is one of a kind that can be better appreciated and understood in the East End than in the West. Mr. Harry Anderson is one of the veterans, and not the less liked for that. In fact, his appearance is the signal for an outburst of applause, and the good opinion that is formed of him even before he has uttered a word is fully justified by his contributions to the evening's "show." His opening ditty, as well as that which succeeds it, is of the sympathetic strain, in which this favourite comedian is, perhaps, heard to the best advantage. In the former he arouses in the hearts of his hearers a homely sentiment by telling them that "My best pal's my own wife"; while in the followng song he draws a pathetic picture of an old married couple who are clinging together like the ivy. There is a sincere and earnest note in Mr. Anderson's enunciation which gives to the vocalism a fitting finish.

Raymond's Bio-tableaux have some very exciting pictures to offer in the series dealing with a band of train-wreckers. Very vividly is the story of the attempt to dislodge a train and rob the passengers told by these exceptionally clear and well-arranged scenes. It would be impossible to explain the incidents better in writing. A signalman's daughter is leaving the signal box and on getting some little way down the line she is seized by four ruffians, who bind her to a tree and then place huge logs of wood across the rails. The signalman's dog discovers the plight of his young mistress, and with his teeth severs the rope with which she is tied to the tree-trunk. The girl rushes back to the railway line and attempts to pull the logs from the permanent way; but finds the task beyond her strength. There is a way out of the dilemma, however. Quickly divesting herself of her red petticoat, she flourishes it in front of the approaching train, with the result that a catastrophe is averted. The little drama is admirably depicted. Lithe and agile are the Ameen Abou and Hamad Troupe of Arabs, whose acrobatics, accompanied by wild and shrill war cries, are simply bewildering. That talented comedienne Childie Stuart, makes a decided hit with her songs, "Madame Butterfly" and "A pair of stockings." She has a dainty and engaging personality, and is an able character vocalist.

CAMBERWELL PALACE.

The maximum of mirth is attained at the Camberwell Palace this week, where Mr. Fred Karno's company of silent comedians are engaged in rendering the overflowing audiences similarly speechless with laughter. The scenes that are enacted in the street outside an hotel, in the small hours of the morning, are irresistibly comic, the pranks of a bootblack and a newspaper boy, who make a raid on a coffee-stall, and commit unprovoked assaults on the passers by, being the chief causes of the disturbance. Equally exciting is the interior of a lodging-house, wherein such strange scenes are enacted that roar after roar of laughter is provoked. Among the curious assortment of characters is a Jew pedlar, whose make-up is a curiosity. He is the object of the attentions of the bootblack and the newsboy, whose diversions after the rest of the motley crew have retired to rest causes riotous fun. The sketch Early Birds is a lengthy one, but not a dull moment is permitted.

The connection between the art of ventriloquism and that of walking the slack wire is not very apparent, but Mr. Rex Fox manages to combine them very agreeably. Few more unsuitable places could be chosen for practising the polyphonic art, but Mr. Fox manages while promenading on the metal cord to carry on a conversation with a lay figure, which he carries on his back, the duologue being really funny, and causing abundant laughter. Later, Mr. Fox is relieved of his companion, and settles down seriously to his work, playing a mandoline while walking the wire on stilts, and also balancing a lighted lamp on his foot, while the strains of a tuneful air are rendered on the mandoline.

A comedienne of talent is found in Miss Tiny Arnold, whose petite proportions make the excellence of her singing and dancing more intensified. She tells, in a sweet and penetrating voice, about "The girl at the B. T. T.," whose career at the counters is cut short in pleasingly romantic fashion. A tuneful coon song brings with it a neat and well-diversified dance, which is executed with such grace and precision that applause is enthusiastically bestowed. Allen and Hart win admiration at once by their smart dresses, the gentleman wearing a handsome Court suit of black. They give imitations of "People you meet in Society," their selections including the German and the Yankee. With a swift change of dress, the couple appear as jesters, in motley array, with cap and bells complete, and sing and dance blithely. Another quick change, and they are returned to give a statue dance, their hard work and undeniable talent securing a number of recalls.

Scotch humour of the pawkiest kind is provided by Mr. Jock Whiteford, who appears in gorgeous array to sing "Keep on doing it, Sandy, O," with many eccentricities of movement. His relation of an excitable Scotch lad's visit to a football match is certainly unsurpassed for drollery, and the applause at the close of his remarkably funny and well-sustained delivery is uproarious. Miss Elsie Earle, a comedienne who will be remembered under the name of Nell Gwynne, sings the praises of "The man in the corduroys," who is, after all, according to his fair champion, the main prop of the Empire. A ballad, in which a story of the "Battle of love against gold" is told, is also given by Miss Earle, whose refrain is echoed by a strong-voiced youngster in the gallery.

"One of the upper ten" is presented in the drollest fashion by Mr. Tom E. Hughes, whose appearance and "patter" as a "broken-down" swell, who poses as a millionaire, is very quaint. Mr. Hughes has a remarkably powerful voice, to which he gives full vent both in the song just referred to and in the plaint of a down-trodden husband, who is forced to fulfil the duties of housemaid. The ball-punching act of Meier and Mora is preceded by a coon song, vivaciously sung by the young lady and danced with equal energy. Her partner is particularly expert with the punching-ball, making it perform a well-regulated tattoo on the roof to which it is attached, using both head and elbow in addition to his fists. Mr. Billy Farrell keeps his audience loud in laughter during the delivery of his funny anecdotes. The bonhomie of the comedian is a sure recommendation to favour, and the heartiness of his recall is such that he has to add an encore, which takes the form of a song redolent of ragtime methods, and having the refrain, "You don't need nothing for yer nerves." Mr. Harry Ford, who deals with the woes of the hen-pecked husband, finds a further medium for fun in his "Porter" song. Goggin and Davis get on the best terms with the audience by means of their acrobatic comicalities; Miss Childie Stuart is a smart and dashing comedienne; and the programme, which also includes Miss Nellie Wilson, Forest and King, and the Brighton Boys, gipsy acrobats, is concluded by the animated pictures provided by Vernon's Bioscope. Mr. Jesse Sparrow is the assiduous manager at the Camberwell Palace, when the fine orchestra has a capital conductor in Mr. Leon A. Bassett.

THE HOLBORN EMPIRE.

The old Royal Music Hall has been closed since June, and, during that period, the whole of the building, with the exception of the frontage to Holborn, has been pulled down and rebuilt, from the designs of Messrs. Frank Matcham and Co., architects.

Mr. Gibbons, the proprietor, has shown great enterprise in such a venture, and he has given his architects instructions practically carte blanche to make the Royal the handsomest and most comfortable hall in London, and it will be seen from a visit how well his wishes have been carried out.

The old building was approached practically level from the street, and was a one-tier house, containing a balcony only over the ground-floor.

The architects were met with most unusual difficulties in the planning of the hall, as, among other troubles, rights of lights prevented the raising of the new building above the old level, and to obtain the usual number of tiers required it was necessary to lower the building to the basement, and to utilise the old cellars that existed, and were practically useless. This has enabled them to erect a much larger hall than could have been anticipated, considering the room that has to be given up for the number of exits and staircases required to carry on successfully two performances a night, as it is Mr. Gibbons's intention not only to do this, but to give matinées every day during the week.

The striking difference between the new and the old Royal will engage the attention of those who had a knowledge of the old building immediately they enter, for the stage, which was originally on the left-hand side, is now immediately facing the entrance.

The levels of the hall have been so altered that the visitor now enters direct from the street into the grand circle, and descends to the stalls on both sides; but owing to the level of Whetstone Park (at the rear) being considerably lower than Holborn, the occupants of the stalls can make their exit on the same level as their seats, in a similar manner to the patrons of the grand circle, who exit practically on a level with Holborn.

Although the frontages of the Empire remain the same as before, the alteration of the position of the stage and the absorption of the oyster-bar in Holborn into the music hall scheme has enabled the architects to more than double the number of exits, which of course was necessary in consequence of the increased accommodation.

The principal entrance is from Holborn through the existing outer vestibule, the walls of which remain in Faience, but with artistic Mosaic panels introduced, representing music, singing, &c. The floor is covered with cube Mosaic, and the ceiling is panelled out and decorated with an art panel in the centre.

Entering the inner vestibule through pairs of polished mahogany doors, we find the commencement of the new order of things, the walls being formed with white and green marble, in bands, with a deep panelled frieze over a beautifully-designed and decorated ceiling. The floors again are Mosaic. Six wide white marble steps divide this vestibule, and on the higher level is the pay and booking office, and from here pairs of polished doors open into the foyer. This is most ingeniously contrived in the construction of the grand circle. It is 40ft. in length, and is divided up with curved panelled beams and arches, the walls being panelled and filled with silk. Between the pilasters and columns are luxurious settees, upholstered in cloth, with embroidery border and the crown in the centre. The floor is laid with super Saxony carpet, and the electric light has been introduced with good effect. The decorations are simple but very effective, in green and white.

From this foyer a wide staircase leads direct to the stalls and corridors on each side, conducting the visitor to the grand circle seats, on the lower level. A separate staircase from the outer vestibule is provided to the upper seats of this circle, at the rear of which is a raised promenade, with balustrading dividing this from the seating, and from this promenade entrance is obtained to one of the finest lounge bars in London. This is obtained by utilising the old disused rooms over the entrances, the windows of which overlook Holborn. It is divided into two parts by a large opening, flanked by pedestals and columns, between which three wide steps conduct the visitor to the lower level of this saloon. This is fitted with a counter and fittings, and the room is furnished with lounge chairs, settees, and tables, the floor being covered with thick velvet pile carpet, and the windows draped with rich silk-brocaded curtains, the walls and ceilings being artistically decorated, and the whole lighted with five polished brass electroliers.

The pit entrance is from Holborn, through a tiled corridor to the lounge at the back of the pit, and from here the pit saloon is approached. This is situated under the entrance vestibule, and is well lighted and ventilated. The whole of the walls are in Faience work, and the floor is Mosaic. The fittings are of polished oak, and the whole room is tastefully decorated and brilliantly lighted.

The gallery, which is formed over the grand circle, is approached from Holborn by a wide staircase, carried up to the promenade, from which access to the gangways dividing the seats is obtained. A large saloon is at the rear of the gallery, well ventilated and decorated, the walls, as well as those of the gallery itself, being lined with Faience.

The auditorium is of fine proportions, and designed on somewhat novel lines, the circle having wide, sweeping curves, and good heights between them, giving fine sight-lines and free circulation of air.

The ground floor is divided up into stalls and pit, the former containing nine rows of polished wood armchairs, covered with Angora goat-hair satin, the floor being of wood-block, and covered with super Wilton carpet.

The pit is also furnished with sixteen rows of velvet-covered tip-up chairs, and the floor of wood-block flooring and cork carpet.

The walls of the stalls are formed of polished marble, in panels, and the walls of the pit are tiled, the ceilings being richly decorated. Staircases on each side of the stalls lead up to the grand circle, and to a very unique stalls saloon, designed in old English. The floor is of polished parquet, and the room is furnished with a counter and fittings, and with leather-covered settees and quaint tables and rugs. The room is decorated in subdued tints, the electric fittings corresponding in style, the whole being very effective.

The grand circle contains twelve rows of seats, and is furnished with chairs, and carpeted similar to the stalls. There are four boxes on the lower level of this circle, two on each side of the proscenium, and two boxes are provided in the top corners at the rear of the circle, and are particularly well placed for seeing the stage.

The gallery is furnished in a comfortable manner, the seats being covered with a leather material, and the whole of the floor covered with a thick, warm cork carpet.

The decorations are artistic in the extreme. They are designed in a free treatment of French renaissance, the colours chosen being white, cream, and gold, relieved by beautifully-painted panel subjects by Italian artists. The ceiling has an opened designed dome, with a sunlight arrangement in the centre, forming the ventilation scheme. The flat ceiling is set out with curved ribs, forming panels, and the sides are covered down to the walls with pilasters, and coffers, and caryatides The box façades are well conceived, and the single boxes over those on the dress-circle level take the form of balconies, with a panelled coved ceiling, and the walls are ornamented and treated with the general decorations, no draperies being used here. The gallery and grand circle fronts are of fibrous plaster, and contain shields, &c., with the electric lights designed to correspond.

The whole of the furnishing of the auditorium is in two shades of Rose du Barri, the carpets, seats, and draperies all being in the same colouring. The tableau curtains and box curtains, being of a watered silk material, are very handsome and effective, and when the whole is brilliantly illuminated with the electric light from the handsome brass fittings a very charming effect is obtained; in fact, it is no exaggeration to say that the new Royal will vie for elegance, comfort, and artistic design with any theatre or music hall in London.

The safety of the public has received every consideration, the usual fireproof curtain and iron doors separate the stage from the auditorium, hydrants fully equipped are provided at all important positions, and the exits are numerous.

The comfort provided for the audience cannot fail to be appreciated, as, apart from the handsome auditorium, with its uninterrupted sight-lines and its luxurious seating, there are foyers and lounges, and retiring rooms for all parts of the house. The lavatory and sanitary arrangements are built with the latest improvements. The whole of the building is heated by hot-water pipes and radiators, and everything that skill and experience can suggest has been provided to make the audience comfortable and happy in their surroundings.

The stage is of goodly proportions, and large enough to comfortably stage any music hall productions. It has a hardwood floor, and the upper part contains the usual flies, grids, bridges, &c., and an up-to-date system of electric lighting.

At the rear of the stage is the dressing-room block, containing the manager's offices, property and wardrobe rooms, ballet and supers' rooms, and sets of dressing-rooms, the whole well lighted and ventilated, and comfortably furnished with lavatories and dressing-tables, the floors carpeted, and every convenience and comfort is provided for the artist.

Mr. Gibbons will open the new Holborn Empire on Monday

HOLLOWAY EMPIRE.

Large audiences have been attracted to the Holloway Empire this week, one of the principal attractions being the appearance of the famous Chinese conjurer, Chung Ling Soo. Not only does this performer lay claim to the distinction of being the "One Button Royal Chinese Sorcerer," but he can boast of being the proud possessor of a gorgeous palanquin, which is valued at the sum of £1,000. It was presented to him by the late Dowager Empress of China, and is constructed of solid ebony inlaid with gold and precious stones. The panels have thousands of solid gold sequins, and the carved roof is lined with beaten copper polished to mirror brightness. The robes of Soo's ancestors, which he always carries with him, consist of forty or more separate objects, and also on view are fifteen cases of similar exhibits. Each robe cost not less than £40, and the whole collection of curiosities is insured for £4,000. Ching Ling Soo is a tall, powerfully-built man, with a colourless impassive face, and he performs all his tricks with an air of quiet assurance that never fails to impress an audience. We have only recently described the Chinese magician's performance in detail; so that there is no need of going over the same ground again. His most sensational feat is the catching of bullets marked by the audience and fired from a loaded gun. The Chinaman's achievements as a necromancer are greeted with hearty applause.

Miss Carrie Laurie's Kindergarten School continues to be attended by some apt scholars, who, however, seem to occupy themselves more with play than work. One of the girls contributes a skipping-rope song and dance, and the other members of the troupe contribute in various ways to the entertainment. In costumes typical of England, Scotland, and Wales, and other countries they sing appropriate songs. The boy comedian who appears in the school scene as a red-haired yokel, represents a corpulent John Bull. Miss Laurie has well coached her pupils, and the result is an attractive and well varied entertainment, which receives the emphatic approval of the audience; the young people and their "teacher" are invariably recalled several times.

The Edgar Forrest combination are here again in their amusing little sketch, the scene of which is laid at the house of Mr. Flipper, who suffers at the hands of a discontented wife and a tyrannical mother-in-law. A comical domestic crisis is reached when the elderly lady discovers concealed in a cupboard a young lady of attractive appearance, and the distracted Flipper is called upon for an explanation. The sketch is very smartly played. A return visit is also being paid by the comedy couple known as Terry and Lambert. They represent a shoemaker and his wife, whose tiffs and reconciliations are exceedingly amusing. They also introduce some acceptable duets, concluding with the old favourite "Annie Laurie," which is excellently rendered. The O'Learys, described as Oriental acrobats, bring on the stage with them a Sedan chair out of which steps a black-bearded Eastern potentate, who disappears, leaving his bearers to accomplish some remarkable acrobatic feats. Mr. Harry Brown, an American coloured comedian, sings "I'm satisfied" in quaint style, and his often repeated enquiry, "Is everybody happy? eh?" is effective in causing laughter. The Mariano Sisters give a clever exhibition on the break-away trapeze, and the Dumond Minstrels, Parisian street-singers and instrumentalists, meet with success. A series of humorous and exciting pictures called "Down on the Farm" are shown on the American Bioscope. In their respective departments, Mr. Henry W. May, the musical director, and Mr. C. W. Adams, the acting-manager, continue to perform their duties very ably.

CORAM, VENTRILOQUIST.

A young fellow of twenty-three stood on the stage of the Lyceum Theatre on Monday and made his début as a ventriloquist before a London audience. The newcomer goes by the short but distinctive name of "Coram," and his exhibition is voted one of the neatest and most original acts of its kind seen for a long time. He carries on to the stage with him a "dummy," with oscillating, semi-detached legs and a face that would bring a fortune to a low comedian. It is not long before conversation opens between Coram and his tiny companion. The latter is made to be a most voluble, impudent, and amusing character, and his lively movements and sudden jerks of the head are an entertainment in themselves. Coram is exceedingly skilful in the art or science of causing the voice to appear to emanate from some source other than the speaker. The manner in which some verses about "Oh, lucky Jim!" are apparently sung by the dummy is extremely laughable, and absurdly funny, too, is the little contretemps in which the ventriloquist and his figure engage. Coram's dummy is something more than a merely farcical creature, for its master has taught it a few of the vices of humankind. It can smoke cigarettes, and it can spit as copiously and vigorously as a tobacco-chewing cowboy. But it also has a very sympathetic nature, for at the conclusion of its dirge anent "Lucky Jim" its grief overcomes it, and it breaks into a volume of tears, amid the roars of the audience. Coram may be congratulated upon the possession of really wonderful gifts in the direction of ventriloquialism, and he should certainly not lack engagements.

THE GEORGE LE BRUNN MATINEE.

The appeal in our columns on behalf of the widow of the late George Le Brunn has met with a noble response from the profession and the public, and the hearts of the influential committee, headed by Mr. Albert Gilmer, Mr. David Day, and Mr. J. P. Harrington, must have been gladdened at the sight of the packed house that gathered at the grand matinée given on Monday in aid of the cause. Towards the close of the entertainment, Mr. Albert Gilmer appeared in front of the curtain, and announced that the matinée had realised the sum of £600. He expressed the thanks of the committee to the directors of the Oxford for the use of the hall, he warmly acknowledged the services of the artists, the orchestra, the staff, and expressed his gratitude for the loyal way in which the patrons of the Oxford had supported the appeal. In conclusion, he spoke with considerable feeling of the deceased composer, whom most of them had known. He was a "right good fellow, and the leader of our composers of comic songs." The audience cheered Mr. Gilmer's remarks very heartily, and they became positively enthusiastic when he supplemented his speech by the further statement that Miss Marie Lloyd had given 100 guineas to the fund. This generosity is characteristic of the popular queen of comedy, for whom the deceased composer had written so many successes, from "Wink the other eye" to "It's a thing of the past, old dear." It was in the latter song that Miss Lloyd scored her chief success on Monday, when she had a reception of which a Prime Minister might have been proud. The droll presentment of character is quite away from the successful smart set impersonations in which it is customary for her to delight audiences, and its success is due to a keenness of perception and a power of observation that are always to be found in our best comic actresses. The amusing dialogue is delivered with an irresistibly whimsical effect by the gifted artist.

A list of the deceased composer's chief songs was given on a fly-leaf of the programme, specially designed by Mr. Rossi Ashton, and among them was the famous military scena, "The Seventh Royal Fusiliers," which in its day has excited as much patriotic fervour in barracks as the ballads of Rudyard Kipling. It was originally sung by the lamented Charles Godfrey, whose success in it will be well remembered by older music hall frequenters. On Monday Mr. Louis Bradfield appeared as the old pensioner, who recalls his fighting days in the famous regiment, and realises, in spite of his seventy years, something of the martial ardour of his youth. Unfortunately, the band parts were not forthcoming, and Mr. Bradfield, who was splendidly made up, and who put much earnestness into his impersonation, had to sing to a pianoforte accompaniment. However, he did exceedingly well under the circumstances. Early in the afternoon the fine orchestra, under Mr. W. Burgess, played as an overture a selection of the most popular airs by George Le Brunn, and it was only in accordance with the fitness of things that Mr. Eugene Stratton should revive that famous song by the deceased musician, "The Idler," of which the popularity is far from outworn. Mr. Stratton as the born tired coon put in a wonderful lazy dance, and scored most unmistakably in an impersonation which is still called for in the provinces, and might meet with a renewed lease of favour if revived in town. The very last song of Le Brunn's, entitled "Remember me to mother, dear," was sung by Miss Lottie Collins, who came as an extra turn, being specially announced from the stage by Mr. Albert Gilmer. A specially-arranged chorus of male voices from the prompt side of the gallery sang the refrain, and the packed audience chortled in sympathetic unison, the number being a great success. Another extra turn was Miss Victoria Monks, who made her reappearance after her serious indisposition, and was also specially announced by Mr. Gilmer. She sang with her customary success, "If you want to have a row, wait till the sunshine." Early in the afternoon, Miss Katie Lawrence sang with much success a number that satirised in the severest terms the Free Trade tenets, which, according to the verses of the song, make England the dumping-ground of the foreigner. The house gave a rousing reception to the selection, and it was evident that the listeners were entirely in sympathy with the politics of Mr. Chamberlain. Miss Lawrence also added to her success by her second song, in a more sentimental vein. Miss Vesta Victoria repeated her popular "It's all right in the summertime," wherein she poses as a burlesque Sappho, and also amused the house in her latest success, "Waiting at the Church." Miss Marion Winchester came specially from the Gaiety, and was heard to advantage in a tuneful chansonette. She had diamonds on her fingers and diamonds on her hose. Mr. Arthur Roberts and Miss Ruby Celeste were seen in their expressive realisation of "Courtship" and "Marriage," the comedian playing the bashful lover and the awkward bridegroom with inimitable drollery; Mr. Gus Elen's comic serenade to "Meriah" was voted immensely funny; Mr. Alec Hurley's scena, Pickaninnies, has quaint ideas, which were heartily appreciated; Miss Alice Hollander gave delightful renderings of "The Lost Chord" and Theresa del Riego's "O dry those tears"; Miss Adrienne Augarde sang a Japanese song; Mr. Harry Ford repeated his "Railway Porter" sketch; and Mr. Jock Whiteford, the new Scotch comedian, had something specially Scotch to offer in the lyric "Keep on daeing it, Sandy," and in his amusing impersonation of a Glesca lad at a football match, which scored its usual success. Bernar's Fantoches, a pretty and interesting show of its kind; and Athas and Collins, in a successful bit of burlesque, were other attractions in the programme, which wound up with that amusing sporting sketch, Toffy's Trotter, in which Mr. Joe Elvin repeated his droll impersonation of the greengrocer. Rare life and bustle were put into the Wembley Park scene, and the triumph of the adventurous Toffy, who wins the Tradesmen's Handicap on his famous mare Kitty, was hailed with delight by a house in which the element of sport largely predominated. The company supporting the popular comedian, who had an excellent reception, loyally aided the success that was achieved.

The matinée drew a large and representative gathering of the professional world, and among the audience we noticed Mr. and Mrs. David Day, Messrs. W. Grimes, Leslie Stuart, Will Oliver, Hugh J. Didcott, Harry Blake, Edgar Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. Wood, Harry Lundy, Charles Beecham, H. Joyner, Jack Lotto, J. W. Edgar, George Fuller, Kandt, Lester Barrett, W. Francis, G. Adney Payne, Orlando Powell, Tom Mellor, E. V. Page, C. J. Taylor (Cee Tee), Walter Hast, Harry Bawn, Harry Masters, Charles Wilmott, F. W. Leigh, Henri Gros, and a host of others.

Miss Marie Lloyd, jun., was conspicuous among those who sold programmes, and in this connection excellent results were obtained by Miss Amy Clevere, Mrs. Harry Bawn (My Fancy), Miss Eileen Douglas, Miss Bella Lloyd, Miss Rosie Lloyd, Miss Morris, and Jennie Morris. The exertions of Mr. C. Blyth-Pratt, the acting-manager, must be highly praised, and the work of the orchestra under Mr. W. Burgess was, as usual, admirable.

MR. JAMES WILLARD and company, in the entirely original music-hall sketch, Did He Deserve It? including the specially trained champion mastiff dog Tiger, have made a great success at the Argyle Theatre, Birkenhead.

Mr. F. H. Pedgrift is the hon. treasurer, and he will be pleased to receive filled-up subscription cards addressed to him for publication at 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

The Miltons, trick knockabout skaters, have already been re-engaged for 1906 by Mr. Fred Mouillot, this making their fourth pantomime with that gentleman.—Mersano, the conjuror, late of the Winter Gardens and Alhambra, Blackpool, is now touring the provinces, and has been secured for the Macnaghten and Barrasford tours this year. The Delevines are making a big success on the Stoll tour with their new act, The Bell Inn, an original sketch that is quite different from anything they have hitherto done.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE THEOPHILUS READ.

The cortége, a long and impressive one, left the deceased's residence, 74, Palatine-road, Stoke Newington, on Monday, shortly after 1.30. The hearse was an open glass-panel one, the coffin being almost hidden with floral tributes, while a second similar one was requisitioned for a large number of wreaths, crosses, and various other floral emblems, each side of the road being lined with a large concourse of people, also up to and in the Cemetery. The Rev. T. Horne, Chaplain of the Showmen's and Van-dwellers' Protection Association, officiated at the burial service, in conjunction with the Rev. O. Palmer, B.A. There were a large number of other floral tokens brought to the cemetery, and placed in the vicinity of the grave. The funeral arrangements were carried out by Mr. F. J. Hancock, 115, Stoke Newington-road, and were of a highly satisfactory character.

The mourners and followers were:—Mrs. T. Read (widow), Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Read, jun., Winnie and Claud (children), Mr. and Mrs. Lal Read, Mr. and Mrs. Ebsworth, Mrs. H. Read, Mr. Creber and Mrs. Creber, sen., Mr. Hyaniaison, Mr. J. James, Mr. H. Currie, Mr. F. Turner, Mr. T. Holden, Mr. Robert Fossett, sen., Mr. W. Slatter, Mr. A. Reeves, Mr. R. BANDURRIAS IN NOTTINGHAM.

THE EMPIRE.

A genuine musical "turn" is always acceptable in a variety programme, and the Bandurrias are well-known to music hall patrons as in the front rank of mandolinists and guitarists. They played last night a string of popular melodies, quite idealising such hackneyed strains as "The Old Bull and Bush," "Stop your tickling, Jock," and imparting the sweetest significance to the plaintive air of "I'm a waitin' for you, Josie," and the reception which they were accorded was of the most cordial character.—Nottingham Guardian, Tuesday, Jan. 16, 1906.

The musical items of the Bandurrias compel vigorous applause.—The Era, Jan. 20, 1906.

THERE is not a dull minute in Messrs. Maskelyne and Devant's entertainment at St. George's Hall, and quite a surprising number of pretty dresses add to the delights of the programme of mysteries.

C. Tamamoto wears a simple and beautiful Japanese costume of vivid red and bright golden satin, embroidered with a design of many colours, and black boots. Miss Dora Devant has given up the witch-like black robe, encircled by a huge green snake, in which she used to assist her brother in "Mental Magnetism," in favour of an evening dress of rose-pink silk, covered with D'Alençon lace. The gipsy (Miss Helen McCulloch) in The Enchanted Hive wears a poppy-coloured short dress, with a black velvet Swiss belt, and strings of bright beads round her neck. Miss Cassie Bruce, the heroine of the perplexing playlet, looks very pretty in a spotted muslin frock with a big white hat, trimmed with full-blown pink roses. Mr. Nelson Hardy, whose ventriloquial sketch is always encored, appears à la Arthur Roberts, in scarlet coat and black satin knee breeches, and he works with a smart little figure dressed as a Pierrot.

PROPRIETORS of circuses, menageries, cinématograph exhibitions, portable theatres, marionettes, ghost illusions, &c., should take note of Astwood Bank, Studley, Feckenham, and other villages in the needle district.

SHOWMEN IN COUNCIL.

MEETING AT AGRICULTURAL HALL.

Lord George Sanger presided over a meeting of the Showmen's Guild held at the Agricultural Hall on Wednesday afternoon. Among the vice-presidents who attended were Messrs. E. T. Read, J. W. Bostock (U.S.A.), P. Collins (Walsall), F. Turner (London), T. Harniess (Rotherham), Tom Norman (London), Jacob Studt (Gloucester), John Studt (Wales), Wm. Toft, D. Turnbull (Belfast), and W. H. Marshall (Bradford). Others present were the Rev. T. Horne (chaplain), T. Hurst (honorary secretary), Wm. Bedford, J. B. Butlin, J. Chittock, W. Mitchell, Jem Mace, Harry Hughes, Sydney Braham, T. Smith (Great Central Railway), J. Hastings, Edmund Holland, Ed. Lawrence, G. Marshall, W. H. Marshall, J. Monte, H. R. Hibbert, Geo. Gray, T. Burgin, Wm. Le Neve, S. D. Mellor (Oldham), Frank Mellor, Marshall Hill (Dursley), W. Taylor (London), John Toft (Dublin), Chas. Whiting (Norwich), W. Storey (London), Alf. Smith (Peckham), and Harry Powell, jun. (London).

The CHAIRMAN, who, on rising, was received with enthusiastic cheers, made a touching reference to the death of Mr. Theophilus Read. He thought that those who were present at the reading of the service for the dead must have been very much impressed with the quality of the Rev. T. Horne's rendering of the sacred lines. No doubt Mr. Horne would be pleased to comment upon the loss the profession had sustained in the passing away of Mr. Read, and they would all extend their sympathy to the family.

The REV T. HORNE said: I move, sir, that this meeting of showmen and showwomen, representing the itinerant entertainers of the Empire, express their deepest sympathy with Mrs. Read and her family in the sad and sudden bereavement which has fallen upon them. I ask that you pass in solemn silence this vote of condolence. I have been asked by young Mr. Read to answer for him. He cannot trust himself to speak so near to the sad event this vote is referring to. He wishes me to express for him and his mother and his own wife and children their great gratitude to you, especially to those friends in all parts of the Empire who have written or wired their expressions of sympathy. I had the privilege, as chaplain of this organisation, to minister very closely to our dear brother Read within a very few days of his sudden decease. I am asked by Mr. Read, who now remains the last of the Reads, to assure his showmen friends and comrades that the World's Fair will be perpetuated as one of the great institutions of entertainment in London, and that he hopes to carry on with a similar measure of success the great enterprise initiated by his father and by the late Frank Bailey under the dome of this great hall. I am sure you will join with me in expressing our sympathy, and also accept from me Mr. Read's expression of thanks.

The CHAIRMAN: The Rev. Mr. Horne has just delivered a very brief but a very fine address. As you know, I have announced that I must reluctantly take my leave of you as far as the presidentship of this Association of Van-dwellers. In doing so, I cannot help contrasting the position of the showmen of to-day with the showmen of my early days, who the drink! Having made use of that awful expression, "Damn the drink!" there is another thing I would like to say. After the drink comes blasphemy. Loud and rebellious speaking mars a man. It isn't what you mean, it is what you say. You should avoid blasphemous expressions wherever you are, for you never know whether you are overheard by ladies and children. A man who was heard to swear a second time in my show was given his money, and told to go about his business. How much that inconvenienced me with my arrangements it mattered not. It was such a system that permitted me to keep my show on the road for fifty-two years. In concluding let me say that I thank you very heartily for the great honour you have done me for so many years.

The Rev. T. Horne said: I want to impress upon your minds, and upon the minds of those good people at this table, what our dear president has said. His remarks come to us with all the prophetical fervour that marks the man in the sunset of life. I feel that every word he has said is true of a certain section of our people. I thank God, however, that as a class you are not more tinged with the vices of our lop-sided social system than other classes. Now, sir, I am going to perform a duty which affords the greatest possible delight to me. This man of many surprises is going to receive a surprise himself. We have a surprise packet for Lord George Sanger, our honoured president. We dared not tell him this, because he would have forbidden the banns, as they say in holy church. He would not have allowed it. But you know that the strongest man in the world is at the mercy of his best friends, and the strongest man in the room to-day is at the mercy for a few minutes of the executive council and committee. The showmen of Great Britain and the Empire testify in these words their sense of the unique position in English life which George Sanger has achieved by the force and power of his own sterling qualities. These are the words which this illuminated address bears:—

UNITED KINGDOM SHOWMEN AND VAN-DWELLERS' PROTECTION ASSOCIATION.
The Showmen's Guild,
(Founded in 1890.)

Presented to Lord George Sanger, President of the Guild, the doyen of the Circus world, and Father of the Road:

We feel that your retirement into private life should be marked by some expression of the esteem and regard in which you are held by the whole showman world.

We, who have been privileged to work with you for many years past in the strenuous endeavours for the betterment and uplifting of the profession your arduous life and signal ability have adorned for a lifetime, blessed and prospered beyond the allotted span, desire to place on record our sincere heartfelt appreciation of your generous support, unsparing toil, and sacrifice for the poorer brethren of the road, and for the interests, socially and morally, of the men and women of the fair ground.

May God's bountiful blessings be showered upon you in the declining years of a well-spent life.

That is the wish of thousands of friends and admirers in whose name we, the signatories to this testimonial, speak.

T. HORNE (London), Hon. Chaplain.
M. MITCHELL (Heywood), Hon. Treasurer.
THOS. HURST (Manchester), Hon. Secretary.

Then follow the names of the whole of the working members of the Showman's Guild, its council and executive committee.

I will ask (continued Mr. Horne) the "Roosevelt of the road," Mr. Tom Hurst, to hand this very humble and simple tribute to the President.

After Mr. Hurst had performed this pleasing little ceremony, Mr. Horne stated that the address was the gift of the Guild, and that the people of the road had not been asked for one penny's subscription towards it, knowing as they all did Mr. Sanger would not accept presents.

Mr. Muskerry Tilson stated that he had had the honour and pleasure of serving under Lord George Sanger for many years, and Lord George was one of his earliest recollections as a child. He (the speaker) had been in many lands, and there was not one in which the name of Sanger was not respected. A better or a straighter man, or one who had done more good in the profession, never lived. They would never see his like again.

The Chairman: I have had to tackle a great many things in my time, and I thought myself capable of giving a fair encounter, but this last act of your favour has taken me quite a-back. I pledge you upon my word of honour that I knew nothing about it. I was written to in regard to a testimonial from the Guild, but I refused it. However, this testimonial will be more dear to me than most things I have received, because it comes from those men with whom I have mingled for some years now, and the expressions figured on the parchment will go with me to my grave. Of course, that time cannot be very long now. The number won't be long before it is up. George will go to his grave and some other bloke will take his place. I thank you all, and may the great God bless you.

The Rev. Howard Swinstead, one of the honorary chaplains, said that the meeting recalled a good deal of the early history of the Showman's Guild, which he considered a very great organisation. Although they had been out of his sight they had not been out of his mind. He thought showmen had had a lot to contend with in the prejudice of the general public, but the progress made by the Guild and the admirable work done by its excellent chaplain, the Rev. Thomas Horne, was gradually wearing down the unreasoning attitude of the lay mind. He had trained showmen's children as well as the sons of noblemen, and the Romany youngsters had turned out satisfactory students. The hope of their future was in the careful handling of their children, and the more the older members of the profession encouraged judicious training the better it would be for the profession, for their prospects in this life and their prospects in the life to come. He wished his hearers continued success and happiness.

Mr. Read, speaking for the Parliamentary agent, F. Millar, Esq., said: I will make a reference to the great success which was achieved with the Acton Bill in 1904. The victory that was then gained was, I may say, a very unusual one, and it has certainly been of great advantage to your Association. Up to that time it had been the practice of certain promoters of private Bills to put in a clause which would place the regulations of shows entirely in the hands of the local authorities, especially in respect of the closing hour, giving them power to fix such times and to make regulations for preserving order. These Bills were opposed regularly by your Association every year, and they were always defeated. It was a pure farce putting them in, and they were struck out as a matter of course. That has been going on for several years, and might have gone on I don't know how many more years. At last it was decided to make a bold move, which turned out successful. We asked for costs on the last occasion. That is a very unusual thing in Parliamentary proceedings. In fact, for centuries there was no power whatever to give costs for Parliamentary proceedings At last it was decided that costs could be given if it was found unanimously by the Committee that the proceedings were of a vexatious character. It was decided on the Acton Bill that costs should be asked for, and Counsel representing the Guild rose after the Committee had heard the case, and, to the infinite astonishment of the other side, asked for costs. The Committee did give costs, and the chairman, a man of great experience, said it was the only occasion he could remember in which costs had been allowed. The result was that nearly the whole of the costs were borne by the Acton Urban District Council, and I hope that the ratepayers liked it. The effect of that was that the case instantly dropped, and in 1905 the clause was entirely omitted. In the Bills for 1906 none of those old clauses have turned up, and I do not know that there is anything very serious beyond what is being put in the Bill of the Pontefract Corporation. It appears to me that some clauses in that particular Bill must be got rid of somehow. The main clause practically declares that if a man has a stretch of private property which he thinks is suitable for the setting up of roundabouts he is not to be allowed to let it be used in that way. If he hold, or permit to be held, on that ground any market or fair he is to be liable to a penalty, for every day, not exceeding £5. That is to say, the whole business of the place is to be thrown into the hands of the Corporation. That is the kind of thing you have to face in Pontefract, and in dealing with this clause there is no chance whatever of getting costs. The costs were given in the Acton case because of the persistency with which the unfair clause was forced in year after year when it ought to have been known that it could not be passed. This Pontefract clause is on quite a different footing. Clauses of this kind have been passed and some have been rejected, but whether passed or rejected it cannot be said that there has been any vexatious proceedings. I would point out that private Bills are not affected by the change of Government.

The Rev. T. Horne said: I want to impress upon you the importance of renewing your subscription, and in every possible case of increasing it. You are face to face with a very serious crisis in your history as tradespeople travelling from fair to fair. Your business is threatened from two serious quarters. You are threatened by by-laws, and you are threatened by private Bill legislation—threatened by by-laws which, as far as we can, we watch very carefully, and in every possible instance we oppose, in most cases with success. If you come across notices of by-laws or notices of private Bills in local papers, take the trouble of buying a copy of the paper and simply addressing it to me, care of The Era, London. You must take that trouble if you are to preserve your business and the interests of your fellow-travellers. Now, in regard to Parliamentary work, that means money, and you have got to find it. I find all the brains I have got, but I cannot find the money, so put your hands in your pockets and bring out the money. You have had a magnificent lead for years and years from the dear, good man in the chair, and you have got to follow that lead. It is your bounden duty. The Parliamentary agent has read to you from the Bill regarding Pontefract. It cost us between £300 and £400 to knock out the clause from the Halifax Bill. We have got to keep on with this work. At the end of this meeting, come forward to add to this list of donations—Lord George Sanger, £100; Chas. Birrell and Sons, £5; balance of Bolton Ball, £22 14s. 8d.; Mr. Tom Norman, £2 2s.; Mr. Tidman, £5 5s.. We want your intelligent minds as well as your money. Three petitions were got up against the London County Council for the purpose of enabling you to take your vans to Hampstead Heath. The Council were approached, and they expressed themselves willing to see a deputation of eight people. Now, London showmen, what happened? You ought to have been able to take eighty to show them what a determined and solid body of men you are. On the day of the deputation one showman appeared. The solicitor of the Guild was there to introduce the deputation, limited to eight persons, and one faithful soul turned up. It would have been far better not to have had those petitions and deputation, for our overtures were rejected. There ought to have been eight inside and eighty outside. Now I want to say a word about the work of the Guild. I have myself visited over one hundred fairs, feasts, and wakes in England during the past twelve months. I have attended to the business of this Guild and corresponded with over 1,000 people. I have conducted services on the fair-ground, in the show-booths; I have corresponded with the local clergy in regard to receiving your children in their Sunday schools and their day schools. I have corresponded with important Corporations who wanted to inflict upon you unjust by-laws and regulations, among them being the London County Council, and the Corporations of Wigan, Blackburn, Whitchurch, and Southend-on-Sea. We have endeavoured by every means in our power to further your interests. What we now want to do is to make this Guild so strong that when we petition Parliament, or when we write to a powerful Corporation, they will know that behind that petition or that letter stands an industry in which is invested millions of money, and in which directly there are interested seventy thousand people, and indirectly there are interested many important and thriving industries employing their thousands of daily workers. Such, then, briefly, is the report of the work.

Mr. Fred Bibby, of Manchester, stated that he had been a public entertainer from the age of four. They belonged to one of the most ancient callings there was in these isles. The itinerant showman dated back his history hundreds of years. The showman of to-day had strength, right, and justice at his back, and so long as he conducted his business in a legitimate manner there would be no lack of supporters. He begged to propose a vote of thanks to their worthy and esteemed old friend, Lord George Sanger, for presiding at that meeting, and he coupled with the vote the name of their dear friend, Mr. Read, who had kindly granted them the privilege of using the room for their meeting at the Agricultural Hall.

The Rev. T. Horne stated that he was requested to answer for Mr. Read, who would at all times be pleased to do what he could in the interests of the Showmen and Van-dwellers' Protection Association.

Lord George Sanger: On my part, I think I had better help myself, because I'm a dear lover of myself. Now I want to look after our worthy chaplain here, the Rev. Horne. He's a plucky 'un. If Mr. Horne would take off his coat and go to the end of the hall, where there are six robust bruisers, he could slog the lot of them. As far as I am concerned, I thank you for your many favours.

Mr. Horne remarked that he would like to inform their dear President, Lord George Sanger, of the unalterable determination of the Showmen's Guild that, as long as he lived, they would refuse to nominate or elect any other man to be President. They would not force it upon him as a duty that he must attend or do anything. His honest name, his magnificent reputation, and sterling character were the most valuable assets that the Guild possessed, and they would be very sorry as men of business if they parted with such valuable assets. Mr. Sanger would remain to the end of the chapter—and might it be a very long chapter—the one and only possible President of the Showmen's Guild.

The Chairman replied that it was very kind of Mr. Horne to shower upon him these compliments. Upon second thoughts he would give further attention to the subject of retaining his position as President, but his continuing in office would solely depend upon themselves. If he saw that there was, among seventy thousand toiling creatures, enough pluck, enough energy, and enough liberality to put their hands into their pockets, he might be inclined to reconsider the matter. Mr. Sanger then formally announced the meeting to be at an end.

When the hon. chaplain announced the determination of the executive council not to elect any other man as president during George Sanger's lifetime (and long may he live!), there was a burst of applause such as is seldom heard even at the most enthusiastic of public meetings. That applause was again and again renewed when the honoured president said that he would, under the extraordinary pressure placed upon him, reconsider his determination to resign, but—and here was the testing condition of their earnestness in the cause of showmen defence and progress—it would entirely depend upon his hearers—the men and women of the road. It would depend upon the hearty and generous support they gave to the funds of the society.

It will be seen from the above list of subscriptions that the general body of showmen do realise the duty impressed upon them at the meeting—the subscriptions taken and the new members enrolled far exceed any previous year of the guild's existence.

The call of the president and the executive council was most cordially responded to, and the greatest hopes are entertained that 1906 will mark the beginning of a still more successful and prosperous epoch in the world of shows than any that has gone before.

The committee of the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union was busily engaged in conference upon important matters after the Guild public meeting terminated. That gathering of the Union was immediately succeeded by an open committee meeting of the Showmen's Guild to discuss London and district questions only. Satisfactory arrangements were concluded, whereby the London show people may have greater business advantages, and, if necessary, legal advice under the direction of the Guild officials. The gratifying result of this open committee, and full and frank discussion, was that a large number of new members were enrolled, and a new impetus given to the work of the Guild in the Metropolitan district.

The following prominent London showmen were added to the committee: Mr. Alf. Ball, Mr. Fred Grey, Mr. C. Wilson, Mr. Swales Forrest, and Mr. Beach. These gentlemen, with Messrs. H. and C. Thurston, Frank Turner, Wm. Bedford, and the Rev. T. Horne, will constitute the London and District sub-committee for urgent business.

After the above meeting, yet another committee met, and with the expert advice of the Parliamentary solicitor, discussed the Parliamentary work in the forthcoming session of the new House of Commons.

The Private Bills of Pontefract, Todmorden, Newport (Mon.), Wallasey (Birkenhead), and the Middlesex County Council were examined, and action concerning Pontefract, Middlesex, and Wallasey determined upon.

The Sanger illuminated address may be seen at The Era offices during the coming week.

Reading is a great railway centre, and is accessible from all parts of the kingdom, the Great Western, South Western, and South Eastern each having a station in the town. A Charter of Incorporation was granted by Henry III. under its old place-name, "Redinge," and historically it teems with interest. The more modern development and trade enterprise make a good centre for private business at other than Fair times. The chief trades and industries give employment to 72,000 workers, and there is a big influx of country folk on market day from the agricultural belt around the borough. There are iron foundries, locomotive engine and electrical plant works, and the world-famed Huntley and Palmer's biscuit works. The fairs and markets are under Corporation control. The market days are Saturday and Monday. Mr. George Steed is a great friend of showmen, and always ready to further their interests in every possible way. Showmen wishing to take Reading should write to Mr. Steed, toll collector, Reading Market Offices.

P. Collins, Ltd., advertise in our columns their excellent spring round of fairs, beginning on Shrove Tuesday, Feb. 27, at Longton, with alternate fixtures for Shrovetide at Lichfield and Oswestry; continuous run thence in the Black Country right up to Easter, when the company provide fair-grounds at London, Coventry, Wolverhampton, and Birkenhead. The round with the company then give Bromsgrove, Worcester and Birmingham May Fair. We place this round before our showman readers with every confidence. See it as advertised.

Redditch is an important and busy town in Worcestershire. It is 120 miles from London, thirteen miles from Birmingham, six from Bromsgrove, and sixteen from Evesham. There are several industries in the town, viz., cycles, needles, pins, fishing tackle, &c. It has a station on the Midland Railway. Several large villages are in the neighbourhood, including Astwood Bank, Alvechurch, and Studley. Headless Cross is an important village one mile from Redditch, and is noted for its annual pleasure fair in July, called the Cherry Wakes. No portable theatre has visited Redditch for some time.

A grand Trades Exhibition is now paying a visit to the Town Hall, Evesham. The attractions are the Flying Lady, Madame Montague, the well-known palmist, and Mabel Lucie Strebelle's celebrated orchestra. Prof. G. Washington Kidd gave a grand variety entertainment in the town. It consisted of limelight views of Egypt and the Nile, some card tricks, thought reading, &c

At the Music Hall, Shrewsbury, Joshua Dyson's Gipsy Choir and Dioramas has been giving some first-class entertainments.

Mr. W. H. Fountain gave some lantern slides, consisting of South African views, at Astwood Bank.

Showmen and others should take note of Evesham on Easter Monday, April 16. Ground can be had at the Fleece Meadow, on the banks of the River Avon, opposite the Workman Pleasure Gardens. The fair is open to all comers. Excursion trains run from Birmingham and Redditch. Evesham is a municipal borough union and market town, on the navigable River Avon, ninety-eight miles from London, twenty-nine miles from Birmingham, fourteen from Worcester, and sixteen from Redditch. It has two railways—the Midland and Great Western. Market gardening and fruit growing is the principal industry.

Hancock's Winter Gardens, Plymouth, are being well patronised, and a good variety programme is supplied by Miss B. Stewart, Miss A. Wilson, Messrs. O'Riley, and G. Ogden. The living pictures portray the tour of the Prince and Princess of Wales in India. To the local Bench this week Messrs. Hancock applied for a singing, music, and dancing licence, and the Chief-Constable did not object, remarking that the order preserved in the gardens was everything that could be desired. The Bench granted a licence for singing and music, but not for dancing.

I print the undermentioned copy which was drawn by me on or about the 10th inst.,
and published at South Shields,
a day or two afterwards.
Vote for
EADE MONTEFIORE, who presents at the THEATRE ROYAL,
SOUTH SHIELDS,
the most Successful and Brilliant Pantomime of the year which was the talk of Newcastle last Christmas, and has broken all records at Glasgow this Season.
If you witness this Pantomime you will not be bothered by Chinese Labour or Education Acts or even Fiscal Policy,
you will merely laugh heartily at the excruciating funniosities of the talented Comedians, and be delighted by the perfection of the Pantomime.

THE HIPPODROME, BLACKPOOL.
TO BE DISPOSED OF,
By Private Treaty, with Early Possession,
the Building now used as a MUSIC HALL OR PALACE OF VARIETIES, known as
THE HIPPODROME,
situate at
CHURCH-STREET, BLACKPOOL.

The following Licences are held in connection with the property: (1) A Dramatic Licence; (2) a Magisterial Licence for the season for public dancing, singing, and music; and (3) a Licence for the sale of all intoxicating liquors, but limited to the periods when the premises are open for the purposes of entertainment.

The land is freehold, free from ground rent. The area is 20,095ft., or thereabouts. The buildings were specially erected as a place of public entertainment, are situate in the heart of Blackpool, about 5 minutes' walk of the two Railway Stations and the Promenade, and will accommodate from 4,000 to 5,000 persons.

Cards to view may be had, and plans showing the exterior as well as the internal arrangements of the Buildings may be seen upon application to Mr. Duignan, the Manager, Hippodrome, Blackpool, or at the Offices of Messrs. Procter and Son, Solicitors, Burnley, and Messrs. Rawlinson and Hargreaves, Chartered Accountants, 12, Exchange-street, Manchester, and 7, Grimshaw-street, Burnley. For further detailed particulars, and to treat, application must be made to Mr. F. A. Hargreaves, at either of the addresses of his firm of Rawlinson and Hargreaves, as given above.

TO SHOWMEN ENTREPRENEURS, AND CINEMATOGRAPH SHOW EXPLOITERS.

A CINEMATOGRAPH SHOW.

THE

ONE THOUSAND POUNDS FOR TWENTY-FIVE SHILLINGS.

TO THE PUBLISHER, "THE ERA."

Sir,—
It may possibly interest you to learn that a Quarter-Column Advertisement in "The Era" (One Insertion) resulted in over £1,000 Bookings for an Entertainment with which I was connected some little time ago. The Entertainment was entitled

"THE CRUISE OF THE OPHIR,"

Cinématograph Show, and the Bookings were effected within a week.

Yours faithfully,
H. GOLDSMITH-WHITTON,
Late Manager, West's "Our Navy," &c.
London, May 19, 1904.

IN case of the non delivery of "THE ERA" by the First Post, the Publisher will be greatly obliged if Advertisers will forward their Postal Wrappers, with the time of delivery marked upon them.

1778. LICENCE No. 13
Or the Hoodoo Automobile.

Copyright by THE VITAGRAPH COMPANY OF AMERICA.

As motor vehicles become more generally used, public interest in "red devils" and "buzz wagons" naturally grows stronger. Therefore a series of Vitagraph pictures, dealing with the troubles of an unfortunate automobolist whose car bears the much dreaded number "13," is bound to interest everyone. Many new and surprising situations are introduced; one of the most novel effects showing the auto running away, and being chased by a motley crowd. The runaway is caught only after a strenuous pursuit which causes shrieks of laughter.

Charlie drives up to his girl's house, but she almost refuses to accompany him when she spies No. 13 on the licence card. Finally she is persuaded into going, and then their troubles begin. Passing through the city they have many narrow escapes and nearly get arrested for knocking over a pedlar's pushcart.

Out in the country the auto balks and Charlie tries to fix it. A wayside tramp happens along and gets very much in the way. When Charlie emerges from underneath the motor, covered with grease and dirt, he finds the tramp has stolen his coat and hat and his girl has skipped with Johnny-on-the-spot who drives up in a swell rig. Number 13 is getting in its "good work."

Charlie starts in chase of the girl—auto breaks down again. He gets underneath once more, when suddenly it starts up of its own accord and runs away. Then Charlie forgets the girl and has to chase the auto. He catches it after a weary run and, going about 47 miles an hour, is almost up with the girl and fellow in the buggy when he is stopped by two rude constables who drag him off to jail. Poor Charlie! you'll feel awfully sorry for him.

On the way to the court room, Charlie has his ire further aroused by seeing his girl and Johnny-on-the-spot enjoying a refreshing meal at a road house. They give him the cold shoulder. Charlie seems to be "up against it." He protests angrily against his arrest, but the hayseed justice of the peace takes all his cash and intimates that he is lucky to have his clothes left.

Outside the court house Charlie regains his auto and finds Weary Willie sitting in state on the front seat. Having fired him he tries to start the motor and evidently "fires" that too, as dense volumes of smoke pour out from under the machine. Then it stops and refuses to budge. Just about this time Charlie determines to change his luck, so he tears off the licence No. 13 and puts on one reading 4 11 44. Then he hires a good, healthy mule, and hitching him to the auto he starts for home a sadder and wiser man.

No. 951. THE VILLAIN'S WOOING.
(A Melodrama in 12 Scenes).

SCENE 1.—Evil-looking but wealthy villain endeavours to persuade by force a young and pretty girl to marry him. Real lover appears to the rescue.

SCENE 2.—Father interviews his daughter's suitors, when the poor lover's offer is rejected, on hearing which the girl swoons.

SCENES 3, 4, and 5.—Rejected lover arranges secret appointment, giving the note he has written to a half-witted man to deliver to his sweetheart, and the messenger invests money given him in a monkey-on-a-stick.

SCENES 6, 7, and 8.—The half-witted Simon lays the note down to examine his toy, and the rich lover seizes the opportunity to read it. Simon eventually delivers the note to the girl, while the villain tells the father of the appointment he has discovered.

SCENE 9.—Shows the trysting place and the meeting. Appearance of angry parent, who is knocked down by lover, who realising what he has done rushes off for help. The villain comes up, and killing the unconscious old man accuses the poor lover of the deed, and the innocent man is locked up.

SCENES 10, 11, 12, and 13.—Girl abducted by villain; very exciting events. Guilt fixed on the villain through instrumentality of half-witted Simon. Chase of villain, who to escape capture takes mad leap over cliff.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS.
The Limes, Upper Mitcham, Surrey,
Jan. 27, 1906.

Dear Mr. Harris,—Many thanks for skirt just to hand. I am more than delighted with it. Your process has the happy knack of turning old things into new, as it looks just the same as it did when it came home from the dressmaker's.
Faithfully Yours,
Georgie Wright (Mrs. Leclerq).

Dear Mr. Harris,—I have much pleasure in stating that the work you did for me last autumn was satisfactory in every way, and I was more than pleased, as I did not anticipate the goods would look so nice. Anything that may require cleaning or dyeing this spring from either of the places under my control I should certainly entrust to you, as I am sure that the best possible results will be obtained.
Yours faithfully,

TO DRAMATIC ARTISTS.

Please keep your ADDRESS CARD permanently in THE ERA in the Alphabetical Arrangements of Dramatic Artists' Advertisements. Managers, Agents, and Friends are in need of this information. Engagements are frequently lost through failure to find your Address. For terms, address—

THE PUBLISHER, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, London, W.C.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.

"The Era" Almanack and Annual ("Era" Office, 1s.), a copy of which lies before me, is an invaluable publication for those who wish to have stage records by them. It contains a dramatic and musical calendar, lists of new plays and important revivals produced at the London and suburban theatres during 1905, and also of plays produced in the provinces. Further, we have lists of the new plays and revivals produced at the principal Paris and Berlin theatres "The Era" Almanack has been regularly issued since 1868, when is was compiled by Edward Laman Blanchard, a comedian whose fascinating life was recorded by Clement Scott. The Almanack closes with an illustrated list of those members of the profession who died during the course of last year, headed, naturally, by Henry Irving. Amongst the other names are those of William Rignold, Frank Celli, Ada Neilson, and Minnie Mario. There is an added pathos in the deaths of those who were so long bodily before the public, and the ringing down of the last curtain seems to have added significance.—T. P.'s Weekly, Jan. 26.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA.

Kind expressions from Authors and Managers.

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT.
"I congratulate you on your 'Fifty Years of the Drama': the list must prove both interesting and useful to lovers of and workers for the stage."

MR. GEORGE EDWARDES.
"I think the new feature of The Era is most interesting and useful. A list of plays produced from 1850 to 1900 will certainly be of great service to a very large number of your readers."

MR. EDWARD TERRY.
"An admirable idea, and will prove a most valuable record."

MR. FRANK CURZON.
"Your list, I think, will be most useful for reference."

MRS. W. K. CLIFFORD.
"I think the list will be immensely useful."

MR. SYDNEY GRUNDY.
"Your list will be exceedingly useful. But, of course, there is no reason why old titles should not be used again. Indeed, some day we shall have to go back to them. Some of our modern titles, when they are not mere proper names with an adjective attached, display the desperation of the dramatist in too ludicrous a light. Such a title as 'The Importance of Being Earnest' amounts to a misdemeanour."

MR. ARTHUR W. PINERO.
"The list of plays produced during the last half-century is a most valuable record. The thanks of those interested in the theatre are due to The Era for this and many other enterprises."

MR. ALFRED SUTRO.
"The list you are compiling will be of very great benefit, and I am looking forward to the time when it shall be complete, and obtainable in pamphlet form."

MR. JUSTIN HUNTLY McCARTHY.
"I have watched with the greatest interest the progress of your alphabetical list of the plays published during the last half of the nineteenth century. It is a most useful undertaking, and when it appears in volume form, it must prove of great value to all who are concerned with the drama."

MR. ISRAEL ZANGWILL.
"The list of plays will be very interesting and useful when published in complete form. The etiquette of the profession apparently still allows of novelists' titles being used by playwrights. Thus, The Master, which will appear in your list as a play by somebody else, is the name of a book of mine; while the new play, Noah's Ark, has the same title as a shorter story of mine."

MR. ARTHUR LAW.
"The publication in The Era of a list of plays produced during the fifty years, 1850-1900, is an excellent idea, and will be most useful to authors who may be in doubt as to their right to a certain title. When it is issued in book form I shall be very glad to possess a copy."

MR. ARTHUR BOURCHIER.
"Mr. Arthur Bourchier thinks the list very useful indeed."

MR. TOM GALLON.
"Your idea seems to me to be a most excellent one. Quite apart from the fact that there is always a difficulty in knowing what titles have been used, there very often arises the question of when and where a play was actually produced—a question difficult to be answered. Actors and authors should alike be grateful to The Era."

MR. HAROLD MONTAGUE.
"I think the idea of printing a list of plays produced during the last fifty years an excellent one. It should be of great value to authors."

MR. ARTHUR SHIRLEY.
"The list of produced plays was not merely a happy thought, for the same idea has probably occurred to many, though until The Era carried it out no one took the pains to collect and publish such a truly valuable record.
"Managers, dramatists, as well as would-be authors, will henceforward have a long list of titles to refer to, and there will be neither reason nor excuse for encroaching on pre-existing copyright in play titles. What a lot of trouble it should save us all!"

MR. WALTER MELVILLE.
"I think it shows great enterprise on the part of your journal, and likely to prove most useful and at the same time interesting to the general profession."

MR. ARTHUR MORRISON.
"The list you are publishing will be a most valuable work of reference to everybody taking an interest in the stage, and I have no doubt that when it is published as a book you will find its success warrant you in issuing fresh editions from time to time, with the information brought to date in each case."

MR. J. J. DILLEY.
"The idea is an excellent one, and there can be no question at all of the usefulness of such a summary. Cousin Grace has not been included. This is a little piece from the French, played at a matinée performance at the Gaiety Theatre, Dec. 4, 1884."

MR. COSMO HAMILTON.
"I think that your new feature is an excellent and most useful one. A list of plays produced during fifty years is interesting not only to the playgoer, but essentially so to the manager and the playwright. They will only have to consult it to be sure that a title has not been used before."

MR. CHARLES H. E. BROOKFIELD.
"My attention has been called to your list of plays produced between 1850-1900. I have no doubt it will prove interesting and useful to many."

MR. F. FRANKFORT MOORE.
"The list of plays produced during the past fifty years, now appearing in The Era, will, I am certain, prove, when completed, extremely valuable to everyone associated with the drama in England. I am convinced—and I have had a considerable amount of experience in this direction—that it will be especially valued by all writers upon stage matters. The advantage of being able to refer at a moment's notice to the criticisms upon the production of various plays in various newspapers must be apparent to everyone. If such a list had been in existence some years ago, I would have been saved a vast amount of worry and vexation of spirit. The Era has once again proved itself appreciative of the conditions under which the best interests of the drama in England are maintained."

MR. LOUIS N. PARKER.
"I think your list of plays, produced between 1850 and 1900, will, like the other contents of your paper, be invaluable."

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

A member of the electrician's staff, named Ingram, while at work during the performance at His Majesty's Theatre on Wednesday afternoon, fell on the stage, and was removed to Charing Cross Hospital in an unconscious state.

The recommendation of the Theatres Committee and the Fire Brigade Committee of the L.C.C. to make the Chief Officer of the Fire Brigade responsible for the inspection of the electric lighting and heating plants and other mechanical arrangements in theatres is regarded by some heads of departments as a step in the right direction, assuming that the intention is to centralise control of these matters, with a resultant uniformity in the regulations to be observed and enforced. It is proposed that the Chief Officer of the Fire Brigade shall have the assistance of an electrical and mechanical engineer at a salary of £400 per annum, and an electrical engineer at a salary of £200. It is doubtful whether the Council will be able to secure a thoroughly practical electrical engineer, conversant with theatrical work and appliances, at such a salary. During the past quarter the sum expended on inspection of theatres and music-halls was £2 9s. It may therefore be assumed that the Council propose a more elaborate and systematic method of inspection. Be this as it may, there will be a considerable change for the better, if the inspections are conducted by competent men and under one authority. The present method of passing complaints and protests from one to another of the several departments has exasperated both managers and the responsible heads of the stage departments in many theatres and halls.

Mr. Walter Morris and Mr. C. Squires have made the whole of the scenery for the new play at the St. James's Theatre.

At a meeting of the Carpenters' Society on Sunday evening, Mr. A. Palmer, secretary, was nominated for election as one of the National Trustees, and Messrs. A. Jones, A. Spaul, Wm. Skinner, and J. Wilson were nominated for election to the National Committee of the N.A.T.E.

At the Committee meeting of the General Staff Branch N.A.T.E., on Wednesday evening, twenty-six applications for membership were dealt with. An application for legal assistance was received, and the Committe decided that it concerned a matter which they could not undertake. The death of a member was reported, and the claim passed for payment. The final arrangements for the annual general meeting of members to-morrow evening, in the St. George Hall, Westminster Bridge-road, at 7.30, were approved. A full list of the members nominated for election to the various offices will be supplied, as a ballot paper, to members attending the meeting.

Inquiries are again being made with reference to the balance-sheet of the Dramatic and Musical Fund, which Mr. Terry announced, in a letter which appeared in the Era some months ago, would be published. No further information is as yet available with reference to the £500 which it was understood the Dramatic and Musical Fund was entitled to, prior to its dissolution.

The ninth annual stage staff supper of the Grand Theatre, Fulham, took place at the Helvetia Restaurant, Putney Bridge, on Thursday, Jan. 25, fifty-six sitting down to a capital spread. Mr. R. Kinney, the popular treasurer of the theatre, occupied the chair, and was supported by Mr. Harry Barford, stage-manager; Mr. E. Sykes, his assistant; Mr. Whittaker, the conductor; and also by Mr. Andie Caine, Mr. Pat Redmond, and Mr. Leonard Thiel. Many thanks are due to the committee—Messrs. George Caplin, J. Robinson, A. Rudham, P. Walsh, and Jack Callaghan—for the way in which they looked after their guests. The President said some nice things about the staff, and Mr. Barford thanked one and all for making the pantomime such a success, specially mentioning the heads of departments, Mr. Glendoni, the master carpenter, Mr. Rudham, the property master, and Mr. Walsh, the electrician. The harmony was set going by Mr. Ted Dare, who sang "Ring down the curtain, I can't sing to-night," Alf Cooper sang "Fidgety Fudge," J. Robinson obliged with "Old folks at home," and amongst others who gave songs were Messrs. Spooner, Lavender, Whittaker, Bert Cooper, and Neylor. Mr. Andie Caine fairly brought down the house with a sparrow song, and for an encore gave "Stockings." Mr. E. Sykes, the assistant stage-manager, who has a good baritone voice, sang "The Yeoman's Wedding" in fine style, and for an encore gave "I'm a roamer," which was much appreciated; Mr. Pat Redmond obliged with two songs and Mr. Leonard Thiel did ditto; and, after Mr. Alf Cooper had given "What do want to talk about it for?" "Auld Lang Syne" brought the proceedings to a close. Mr. Wally Lake was an efficient accompanist.

AN APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—I have been asked by a few friends of Mrs. J. H. Clinch to submit her case to your readers through your valuable columns, hoping the appeal will meet with the response which it undoubtedly deserves. Mrs. Clinch has had for a long time a serious internal trouble for which she has just undergone an operation in the Royal Infirmary, Dundee. The operation has only been partially successful, and she has been sent to the Convalescent Home, Barnhill, to recruit her strength previous to undergoing a second. She is in very poor circumstances, and her long illness, and consequent enforced idleness, makes her case one that would recommend itself to the profession which she has so long followed. Mrs. Clinch has been connected with the stage for well nigh forty years. She was seven years with Captain Morten Price, five years with Mr. John Coleman, two years with Mr. Chas. Rice, Bradford, and the Isle of Man, and in addition to many other engagements, travelled with her husband in Charles Read's Drink, and later in Mr. Wilson Barrett's company at The Grand, Leeds. Her last engagement was with Mr. Robert Arthur, Her Majesty's Theatre, Dundee, playing Biddy in the Shaughraun and Lady Betty Piper in Freedom. She has not been able to take any work since then, and is not likely, from her present condition, to do anything for some considerable time, and having exhausted her slender resources, has nothing to fall back upon in her need. Personally I have known Mrs. Clinch as a very industrious, brave, and patient lady, meeting her troubles unflinchingly, and only succumbing through sheer bodily weakness. Inquiries at Her Majesty's Theatre, Dundee, through Mr. J. M'Govern, property master, will bear out the case which I have, I am afraid, but imperfectly put, but which I hope will bring some substantial relief to a very deserving member of the profession. Mrs. Clinch's address is 10, St. George's-street, Dundee.—Yours faithfully,

DAVID ROLLO.

3, Derby-street, Dundee.
Jan. 22.

The Sarah Bernhardt Theatre announces for Saturday night the première of M. Paul Gavault's Le Frisson de l'Aigle, a play in six tableaux, several of which will be of a sensational nature. The excellent cast includes Mdlle. Cormon, Mdlle. Marguerite Brésil, Mdlle. Yvonne de Rycke, and MM. André Calmettes, Henry Krauss, Paul Plan, and Georges Maury.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The usual weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring Gardens.

CINEMATOGRAPH REGULATIONS.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee reported:—We have had under consideration an application for permission to use, in connection with cinématograph entertainments to be given in London music halls, a form of acetylene known as "Dissolved Acetylene." The use of acetylene gas for the purposes referred to is prohibited by the Council's regulations as to the use of acetylene gas and cinématograph lanterns in theatres and premises licensed by the Council; but we are advised that the use of "Dissolved Acetylene," which has become common in Paris, is not attended with any risk of a special or peculiar nature, provided it is contained in vessels which are satisfactory for the purpose.

On April 10, 1901, an order, made under the Explosives Act, 1875, was issued by the Secretary of State for the Home Department dealing with the use of this form of acetylene, and subject to the conditions prescribed by this order being complied with, and to precautions being taken to ensure that the gas does not come into contact with copper or copper alloys, we see no objection to its use in premises licensed for public entertainments. In order to sanction this it is necessary that certain alterations should be made in the Council's regulations with regard to the use of acetylene gas and cinématograph lanterns in licensed premises.

The Committee accordingly recommended that these alterations be made.

Replying to a question by Mr. Dolman as to whether the cinématograph apparatus which was in use in several music halls on Sundays was inspected on that day,

Mr. W. B. Yates, chairman of the Theatres Committee, said that the point had been before the Committee many times, and they had come to the conclusion that where there were fixed boxes in use, it was only necessary to have an occasional inspection. Where they were used on Sundays, they were inspected on Saturday nights. As the Council knew, the object of course was to avoid, as far as possible, Sunday labour.

The recommendation was adopted.

HOLBORN EMPIRE.

The Committee reported they had considered a drawing submitted by Messrs. F. Matcham and Co., showing the proposed spacing of the pit-seating at the Holborn Empire (late Royal Music Hall), and had no objection to the arrangements as shown on the plan.

Approved.

INSPECTION.

The Committee reported that the expenditure incurred with regard to the inspection of places of public entertainment respecting the character of the performances, &c., during the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1905, was £2 9s.

PAVILION THEATRE, MILE-END.

The Committee had considered plans submitted by Messrs. Runtz and Ford, showing a proposal to place four gas radiators in the stalls and balcony at the Pavilion Theatre, Mile-end, and recommended that these gentlemen be informed that the Council had no objection to the arrangements shown on the plans, provided that certain stated conditions are complied with.

Agreed to.

ROYALTY THEATRE.

The Committee had considered a plan submitted by Messrs. Smee and Cobay, and recommended that these gentlemen be informed that the Council had no objection to the proposed conversion into dressing-rooms of some store-rooms in the basement of the Royalty Theatre, Soho, provided that certain stated conditions are complied with.

Approved.

PRINCESS'S THEATRE.

The Committee had considered plans submitted by Mr. W. Hunt showing how it is proposed to give effect to the suggestions made by the Council for the structural improvement of the Princess's Theatre, Oxford-street, and recommended that Mr. Hunt be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the six plans submitted, provided the undermentioned conditions be complied with:—

(1) That the woodwork on and above the stage be rendered fire-resisting.
(2) That the upper flies be removed.
(3) That the front of the gallery be protected so as to prevent members of the audience falling over in case of panic or rush.
(4) That plans showing the construction of the fire-resisting curtain and sprinkler to the proscenium opening be submitted to and approved by the Council.

Adopted.

NEW SCHEME OF INSPECTION.

A long report was presented by the Theatres and Music Halls and Fire Brigade Committees, with reference to the inspection of theatres and other places of public entertainment. The report pointed out that at present there are four departments of the London County Council's service concerned in the inspection of places of public entertainment, viz., the architect's department, the chief engineer's department, the fire brigade, and the public control department. It is now thought that the division of the work of inspection between so many departments tends to an increase in the number of inspections necessary to secure efficient control, and renders it difficult to avoid occasionally making requirements which may to some extent overlap, or conflict with, each other. The Theatres Committee have, therefore, considered whether the number of departments concerned in the inspection of places of public entertainment could not be reduced.

They consider that the inspection of places of public entertainment as regards the use of explosives and dangerous substances should be done by the fire brigade inspection staff, but that any case of an infringement or probable infringement of the Explosives Acts coming to the notice of the chief officer of the fire brigade should be notified to the chief officer of the public control department. This change will not necessitate any additional inspections by the inspection staff of the fire brigade, and will consequently not necessitate any increase of that staff. As regards the inspection of the electric lighting and heating arrangements in places of public entertainment, for which at present the chief engineer is responsible, the Committee think that this also should be placed under the control of the chief officer of the fire brigade, so that the number of departments concerned in the systematic inspection of licensed places of public entertainment may be reduced to two, namely, the superintending architect's department and the fire brigade. "The Committee," it is stated, "believe that there will be great advantages in such an arrangement, as it will make it possible to so co-ordinate the inspection work that a licensee can be informed at one and the same time of all matters which should be attended to at his building. This will prevent any overlapping or conflicting requirements being made, and will effectually remove any grounds for complaint that the Council's action sometimes subjects the proprietors of places of public entertainment to unnecessary inconvenience and expense." The chief engineer has suggested that the following staff would be required by the chief officer of the fire brigade for the new duties:—

One electric lighting and mechanical engineer to take charge of the section under the chief officer of the fire brigade, at a salary of about £400 a year.

One electric lighting inspector (salary £245 a year), to be transferred from the engineer's department.

One electric lighting inspector (salary £200 a year), to be newly appointed.

One heating inspector (salary £230 a year), to be transferred from the engineer's department.

In recommending the formation of this staff the Committee point out that "during the past few years there has been a great increase in the use of electric lighting in places of public entertainment, both as a means of lighting the premises and of producing stage effects. The Committee feel strongly that the responsibility of the Council for taking every reasonable precaution to ensure the safety of the public makes it imperative that the electric lighting and heating installations at all places of public entertainment should be periodically and systematically inspected, and under the existing arrangements it has not been possible to do this as fully as it should be done."

The consideration of the report was deferred.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Miss Olga Nethersole appeared in five plays during her very successful engagement of six weeks at the Herald-square Theatre, which came to an end on the 6th inst. The first two weeks were devoted to The Labyrinth, after which Miss Nethersole gave a fortnight to Carmen. Then came a revival of Sapho, which held the boards until the 4th inst., when a single performance of The Second Mrs. Tanqueray wis given. Magda was presented on the following ing evening, and The Labyrinth was repeated on the last night of the engagement. Miss Nethersole will cross the continent to San Francisco, in which city she will remain for five weeks, and will appear in Camille and Adrienne Lecouvreur, besides the plays already mentioned.

Mr. Fred Walton, the English pantomimist, has made a big hit in The Babes and the Baron, a musical extravaganza recently produced by the Messrs. Shubert and Mr. John C. Fisher at the Lyric Theatre. The piece is an amusing jumble of the old familiar nursery stories, and Mr. Walton impersonates the Toy Soldier. His performance has been pronounced the cleverest thing of its kind that has been seen upon the New York stage for many a year. The dancing of La Petite Adelaide is another popular feature. This seasonable attraction is doing an excellent business.

"Madeline," a tragic little play from the pen of Mrs. William Kingdon Clifford, is now being presented as a curtain raiser to Mary, Mary, quite Contrary, in which Miss Henrietta Crosman is appearing at the Garrick Theatre. Madeline de Bray, a French actress, very much in love with Norman Luard, an English diplomat, is abandoned after an intimacy that has lasted for eight years. He is about to take the train for England to marry another girl, an alliance with whom will help him in his career. Madeline, when she finds him deaf to her entreaties, resolves to prevent him by force from carying out his intention. At their final meeting she locks the door, draws a pistol, and threatens to kill the young Englishman, who coolly tells her to have her own way, and asks permission to write a farewell letter. His sang-froid unnerves her, and she allows him to depart unharmed, the sound of a pistol shot just as the curtain falls indicating that she has committed suicide. The rôle of Madeline affords Miss Crosman an opportunity to depict the vagaries of feminine hysteria, and this she does very cleverly. Mr. Guy Standing acts the part of Norman Luard with commendable sincerity and repression. As Sir Charles Campbell, Mr. Percy Ames cleverly delineates certain ultra-English idiosyncrasies.

Mr. Louis Mann and Miss Clara Lipman are appearing at the Lew Fields Theatre in a four-act comedy called Julie Bon-Bon, of which Miss Lipman is the author. Julie Bon-Bon is a French milliner who becomes acquainted with John Van Brunt, a young man of good family, during a trip to America. He falls in love with her, believing her to be well connected. When he discovers his error he is still anxious to marry the milliner despite the strenuous opposition of his mother, a society leader, and the serious discouragement of finding Julie's father a drunken reprobate. The climax comes with a supper at a popular "east side" restaurant known as "Little Hungary." Julie dances on a table, and her lover leaves in disgust. On the following morning, however, they "make it up," and there is a happy ending. Miss Lipman is very successful as Julie, her vivacity and personal charm making her very popular. Mr. Mann gives a clever and amusing portrayal of the bibulous old Frenchman, Jean Poujol.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Mr. Henri De Vries has scored such an emphatic success in A Case of Arson at the Madison-square Theatre that his engagement there is sure to be a very prosperous one, the house being crowded at every performance. Of nine characters, seven are portrayed by Mr. De Vries, who changes his voice and appearance in a marvellous manner. So many members of the profession are curious to see Mr. De Vries that he has arranged to give a professional matinée tomorrow afternoon. A Case of Arson is preceded by The Braisley Diamond, a farcical comedy in three acts, by W. A. Tremayne and J. L. Hall. Mrs. Braisley pawns a diamond scarfpin belonging to her husband, and puts a paste one in its place. Immediately afterwards the husband loses the substituted article under embarrassing circumstances. Husband and wife then make strenuous efforts to recover the pin, engaging in an amusing game of cross purposes. Mr. Henry Vibart and Miss Dorothy Drake appear with success as Mr. and Mrs. Braisley. Mr. Ferdinand Gottschalk gives a clever impersonation of a "flash" confidence man, and Miss May Vokes is amusing as a maid-of-all-work.

"Cashel Byron's Profession," with Mr. James J. Corbett in the title-rôle, has been well received at Daly's Theatre. It is a little surprising to see the name of an ex-champion of the prize ring adorning the exterior of what was considered the most "select" theatre in New York in days gone by. This is upsetting the oft-mentioned "traditions" of Daly's Theatre with a vengeance! But traditions are upset quite frequently nowadays, and no great harm is done. The world goes on just the same. As the hero of Mr. Shaw's novel is a pugilist, it is not surprising that the dramatist, Mr. Stanisaus Stange, should have had Mr. Corbett in mind when he prepared the play, seeing that the ex-champion is no stranger to the footlights. And instead of being one of those happy ideas so promising in theory and so disappointing in practice, the plan worked out beautifully. As Cashel Byron, Mr. Corbett is not only sincere and natural; he plays the part with all the ease and authority of an experienced actor, and his success is unquestioned. In fact, it is doubtful if the play would create anything but a very mild interest without Mr. Corbett in the title-rôle, the story being undramatic. Lydia Carew, an heiress, encounters Cashel Byron at an English country-house, and falls into a misapprehension in regard to his "profession." He interests her greatly at their first meeting, and the interest grows into love. But when the truth is made known to the young lady under somewhat ludicrous circumstances, she repels him. The pugilist is persistent, however, and satisfies her that he is not the brute she supposes him to be, so their love affair ends happily. Miss Margaret Wycherly appears as Lydia Carew. There are three acts, the scenes representing a glen in Wilstoken Park, the conservatory of Mrs. Hoskyns's London house, and the kitchen of Warren Lodge.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERTILLERY. — Theatre Metropole. — Lessees, Messrs. Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident-Manager, George W. Venton, Esq.; Stage-Manager, Mr. Fred Thomas.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard presented his company on Monday in The Eternal City. Mr. E. Stanton Sharp as Baron Bonelli was powerful and dramatic; Mr. Henry Dea was responsible for an excellent conception of David Rossi; Mr. J. Fortescue as Pope Pius XI. did well; Miss Rona Merrick's Donna Roma was pathetic and interesting; and Miss Constance Stephens's rendering of the Princess Bellini deserves special mention. Mr. Geo. Cartwright made an excellent Bruno Rocco.

ACCRINGTON.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—On Monday Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Fred C. Somerfield's company opened here in Geoffrey Langdon's Wife. Mr. Fred C. Somerfield submits a powerful impersonation of Will Maynard; Mr. George Mitchell sustains with fine effect the dual rôle of Cyril and Geoffrey Langdon; James receives full justice in the hands of Mr. Charles Warne; Mr. Bradford Crosby plays the part of Petre Miles in a capable manner; Mr. T. G. Vane presents a very good performance as Leonard Vimbart; Harold Kingston is excellently acted by Mr. Charles Stirling; Mr. Tom Raymond is good as Charles; Miss Marie Dagmar is responsible for some sterling acting in the trying rôle of Elinor D'Arville; Miss Marie Barrett is to be complimented for her performance of Lily Lorrimer; Miss Marie Clavering gave a smart reading of Rosini Philippi; Mrs. A. Ross Ford reflects great credit on herself for her rendering of Janet Miles; Miss Maud Grayson is good as Phœbe; and Florette de Veri is a careful performance by Miss Amy Connaughton. The scenery in this production is simply superb, undoubtedly the finest we have seen here.

Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Vandy, Potter, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. Campkin.—A very smart bill is submitted this week, including Jake Friedman, the one-man opera; Rosa Cass, descriptive vocalist, who is well received; Zaid, the Arabian contortionist, is very good; Wal Robbins, the black and white musical coon; two very good comedians, Alsop and Beckwith; the Gladenbecks give a very smart performance; and Tony Iveson, the tramp pianist, receives due appreciation. Some interesting pictures are shown.

ALDERSHOT.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. George E. Williams.—The pantomime, The Forty Thieves, is still drawing good houses. There have been one or two local features introduced, besides topical sayings and special verses. The staging, too, is cleverly managed, and throughout the performances are successful.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—Mr. George Dance's premier company is here this week with the brilliant musical play, The Duchess of Dantzic. The reputation of the opera had, as it were, preceded it, and largely accounted for the big audience seen at the opening performance. Miss May Glenn delights her audience not only with her sweet singing, but with her comic acting. As the washerwoman, as well as the Duchess, she is a prime favourite with her auditory. Prominent among the other leading performers is the Napoleon of Mr. Gilbert Yorke, a remarkably powerful and picturesque embodiment of the great military figure. All the necessary finish is given to Sergt. François Lefebvre by Mr. Leonard F. Griffiths. Renée de Saint Mezard is prettily enacted by Miss Maggie White, and Miss Bunena Bent makes Lisette an interesting personage.

The Empire Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—Pantomime has given place at the Empire to a good all-round variety company. The Vyponds appear in their novel song scene, The Wedding Day, and are the recipients of hearty applause. Henry Herne and Ida Millais and Co. present a new dramatic sensation entitled Blackmail, which introduces a startling real water incident. The characters are very ably interpreted by Miss Ida Millais, Messrs. Henry Herne, Jno. Veston, Chas. Young, and other artists. The Avolos are remarkably clever acrobats. Eccentric songs and dances are contributed by Charles Ashdowne; new song scenes by Chris Masters; comic juggling is seen in the performances of A. J. Rebla; the Harlems are clever rifle manipulators, acrobats, and sand-dancers; and in the way of sweet-toned instrumentalism we have heard nothing comparable to the music produced by the Cavalottis.

ATTERCLIFFE. — Theatre Royal, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—Mr. and Mrs. John Walter's juvenile pantomime company opened here on Monday with Cinderella. The company includes Miss Marie Hardacre (Prince Charming), Miss May Bishop (Dandini), Miss Kitty Rafferty (Cinderella), Miss Kitty Chester (Dewdrop), Miss H. Deacon (Baroness); Messrs. Joe Brogan (Wizard), A. Benson (Baron), Paddy Mills (Buttons), Dan Dougherty and George Swinhoe (Clotilde and Angelina), and Joe Broom (sheriff's officer). Several specialities are introduced, and the whole show goes merrily from start to finish. Mr. W. A. Jackson is the business manager of the company.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Gibbons.—A varied and well-selected programme is submitted here this week, and includes Mr. Tom Lloyd, who, on his reappearance, received hearty recognition; Arthur and Ashby, variety entertainers; the Dunlops, comedy cyclists; Mr. Alfred Le Thomas, character comedian; Miss Lilian Rigby, described as "The Queen of Music and Dancing"; Mdlle Sivado, in a graceful and novel trapeze performance; Will Godwin and company in a sketch entitled Repentance; and an excellent selection of pictures by Mr. E. C. Clayton.

AYR.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—Mr. George Edward's company opened a three nights' engagement here on Monday with a crowded house. Previous visits of this company with the Toreador left pleasant memories with theatre-goers here. Mr. R. Telford is excruciatingly funny as Sammy; Mr. F. Sharp makes an admirable Archie. The Dora of Miss Ladie Neville is dashing and clever; and the Rinaldo of Mr. C. W. Anson exceptionally good. As Pettifer—the dealer in wild animals—Mr. Tom May is quite at home.

BARNSLEY.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—Mr. Gar Kiddie's Bo-Peep is here this week. Messrs. J. W. Groves, Dawson, Dewich, W. H. Gatty, Harry Wren, Stern and Stern, and the Misses Susie Beavan, Morah Beverly, and Lizzie Payne are the excellent principals.

Public Hall.—Manager, Mr. G. B. Hoey.—Mr. and Mrs. John Walters's pantomime, Cinderella, has proved successful here this week. The title-rôle is acted with rare skill by Miss Bessie Butt; Prince Charming is well played by Miss Kitty Phelps; the Baron is ably embodied by Mr. Will Sherlock; Miss Nancy Redshaw is smart as the Baroness; the Brothers Obo make capital sisters; and the Sisters McQueen and the four dancers take high honours.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.—Mr. Frank Denham-Wood's company is here this week in the pantomime Dick Whittington. The title-rôle is played by Miss Grace Henderson in quite an ideal manner, and she sings gracefully. Mr. Jack Simpson makes an eccentric Cat; Miss Millie Doris is a piquant and winning Alice Fitzwarren; and Alderman Fitzwarren has an amusing exponent in Mr. Ben Ford. Mr. Harry Albery as Martha Muggins and Mr. Will Dennis as Idle Jack are amusing characters, as is also the Captain Spanker of Mr. W. J. Rodie. Miss Winnie Anson is a nice Dolly Dimple, and specialities are given by the Yorkshire Singing Mill Girls (Miss Mona Lucy and Gladys Wells); the Verona Quartette of Dancers; the Estos, contortionists; Miss Renee Rogers, Mexican top-boot dancer; Leslie Murray, magician; Mdlle. Dora, oboe soloist; the Maros, contortionists; Miss Lucy Santley, soprano soloist; and Miss Marie Winsome, male impersonator, all of whom are pleasing.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—An English Belle occupies the boards here this week, and is being extremely well patronised. Miss Gertie Wasley is charming in the title-rôle; Miss Sanger is quite the typical English landlady; Miss Ada Dormies is capital as the lover, Jolly Jack; and Messrs. Fred Bendo and Albert Huntley are quaint in their respective parts.

Tivoli.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr. Tom Whitney.—Ted and May Hopkins, the Welsh humorists, in a comical sketch, entitled A Welsh Courtship, top the bill, and their show is undoubtedly of a most unique character. The Tan Kwai troupe of Manchurian Chinese do a wonderful turn on the horizontal bars, a hand-balancing act, and a clever conjuring entertainment; Harry Wenburn is a successful comedian; and Harry Taft a capital whistler and humorist. Helene and Omion give a charming and novel gymnastic show; the Ralston Brothers are very well received; and Miss Agnes Hanson is a capable dancer.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—Mr. Bannister Howard's pantomime of Aladdin commenced on Monday a successful run here. Mr. Daley Cooper as Abanazar works with apparently inexhaustible energy, and his success as the magician cannot be disputed. He receives much useful support from Mr. Edward Thirlby as Widow Twankey. The grotesque antics of Little Britton as Wishee Washee create endless hilarity. Two gentlemen who assist to sustain the humour are Story and Trigg, as impossible policemen, their introduced trapeze act and knockabout business being extremely smart; Mr. J. Devereux Cawdery is responsible for a difficult trap act as the Geni, for which he is justly applauded; Miss Leonora Grieve makes an ideal Aladdin, her fine stage presence and evident knowledge of what is expected of a principal boy, carrying her through with flying colours. Particular interest centres in the appearance of Miss Lily Gullick, a Bathonian, as the Princess, and the rapid strides this accomplished young actress has made in the profession of her choice proved extremely pleasing to her many local admirers. Miss Nellie Barnwell (Pekoe) and Miss Louie Sands (Petti Sing) make an attractive second boy and girl; the Gilbert Girls execute their acrobatic and speciality dances with marked agility; the glee singing of the London Quartette is always encored.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schubert.—The marvellous Frantz Family of lady and gentlemen acrobats are creating quite a furore here this week; Harry Tate's comedians are giving their screaming Motoring sketch with all their former success; the Seddons return to juggle cleverly, and provide plenty of humour; a young conjuror, Carl Rosine, is making a first visit, his hoop tricks being truly bewildering; the Sisters Wingrove, in their duets and dancing, gain much applause; Mark Morry, in "mirthful melancholy," is very popular; Rumbo Austin and his comical assistants secure a cordial reception; Bert Brantford, comedian, is also appearing. Raymond's Bio-tableaux unfold the doings of a "City Man's Busy Day," which is one of the best films that has been seen for some time.

BATLEY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty.—A return to pantomime is very acceptable. The Milton-Ray's merry production, Beauty and the Beast, is the attraction this week. The scenery is very good, and the dresses are attractive and picturesque. Mr. Arthur Milton plays with all his wonted quaint humour, and keeps the house in constant merriment. He is well supported by Messrs. Robert Anderson, Edwin Garth, Fred O'Malley (an active and capable comedian), Sidney Milton, and others. Miss Nellie Randall is a dashing and energetic Silver Button; Miss Edie Rivers as Beauty is lovable—a sweet singer and dainty dancer; Miss Florence Burns is accomplished and successful as the Prince; her singing is admirable. The smaller parts are carefully handled, and there is abundant evidence of good stage-management. The specialities are a feature of the pantomime, and enjoyable additions to the story are given by Wallace, a clever young juggler; Baroni and Kemp, quick-change artists; the Eldorados, an accomplished trio of dancers; and Burley and Burley, in a clever acrobatic and bending act.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—This week the boards are occupied by Mr. Charles E. Hamilton's company in the comic opera Peggy Machree. Miss Marion Cecil's pretty voice and charming manner well befits the difficult part of Peggy, and Miss Doris Kelvey makes an excellent Madame de la Cour. A sweet interpretation of the Hon. Emily Pryor is given by Miss Dorothy Garden; Miss Blanche Astley is a really captivating Molly; Mr. Ralph Lynn adds considerable good humour to the piece by his clever impersonation of Sir Lawrence Borthwick; Mr. Mac Macdermott possesses a powerful voice, which is well suited to his rôle of Captain de la Cour; Mr. Edgar Ashwin's dry humour as Michael the Scotchman contributes to the success of the play.

BELFAST. — Theatre Royal. — Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. M'Cann.—Mr. F. R. Benson commenced on Monday the second and last week of his successful engagement here, when the talented Shakesperean actor and his company produced Macbeth. Mr. Benson impersonated the title rôle in an able and clever manner, his finished acting throughout gaining him deserved recalls. Mrs. F. R. Benson's acting as Lady Macbeth was exceedingly skilful, and undoubtedly this charming actress appeared to the utmost advantage, her sleep-walking scene being a complete triumph. Mr. Cyril Keightley—capital in every rôle he undertakes—impersonated Macduff with fine dramatic fervour. Mr. B. A. Pittar's Bangno was in every sense excellent, as was Mr. P. D. Owen's impersonation of Duncan. Mr. George Buchanan's Malcolm was a sound and capable performance, and other rôles were capitally sustained. The Merry Wives of Windsor, The Merchant of Venice, Hamlet, Twelfth Night, and Richard III are also on the repertory.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident Manager, Mr. Edwin Leslie.—The chief attraction this week is the cowboy hypnotist, Ahrensmeyer, known as the "Wizard of the Plains," whose truly remarkable feats create a marked sensation. Another sensational act is that presented by Davis and Gledhill, in their unique bicycle performance, their feats being remarkably clever. The Boccacio Minstrels play a number of musical instruments to perfection, the mandoline performance of Signor Francia winning much admiration, and deservedly so. The Seven Wulfrunos appear to much advantage in their exhilarating sketch Fun in a Cafe; and Mr. Charles Dean's comic songs have been much enjoyed. Also appearing are the Lornson's Comedy Duo; and Mr. Frank Hartley, juggler. The Palace pictures are popular.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The Serenaders top the bill, and have appeared to advantage with their charming vocalism and smart dancing. The two St. Johns appear in their clever musical act, their selections being most capably rendered; and a tremendous hit has been recorded by Park's Eton Boys, whose vocal efforts are admirable. The comedy juggling act of Bonnette and Corrie is decidedly funny; and Miss Edie King is a delightful comedienne and dancer. A good act is furnished by the Tupps, eccentric acrobats; and also appearing are Miss Edie Verno, a dashing comedienne and good sand-dancer, Mr. Fred Trevor, comedian, and Mr. Chas. Adams, comedian.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—Able and Welsh, the clever eccentric duo, head the bill, and have been very successful. Roars of laughter greet the Du Gros trio in their screaming gymnastic act; and the juggling feats of Mr. George Essman are undoubtedly sensational. The sweet tenor vocalism of Mr. Jack Trueman has been heard with pleasure; and the Three Zaracs present their well-known triple horizontal-bar act, which is such an acquisition to the programme. The Ladderites present a remarkable performance; and also appearing are the Two Whites, comedy artistes; Mr. Chas Beanland, a smart comedian with good songs; and Stedder and Dunbar, speciality artistes, whose clever musical act is quite a feature of the bill, and they made a big hit on Monday.

BILSTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—Mr. Harry Foxwell has brought here a company to play An Abandoned Woman. Miss Bernice Fielding is a host in herself as Ninan; a gentle, lady-like Eleanor Dean is seen in Mrs. Harry Foxwell; Mr. W. J. Butler plays the French thief Phillipe with emphasis and vigour; Mr. Wolston Foster is effective as Captain Herbert Seaton, the hero; Sir Marmaduke Seaton is enacted in a very natural manner by Mr. G. Gormley; and a pair of good comedians are Michael Madden and Harry Harrop, who, together with Miss Ethel Vinroy, give important aid.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Haddon and Loader's pantomime, Jack and the Beanstalk, commenced a week's engagement here on Monday. The production is in every way an elaborate one, and well worthy of the great encore it achieves. Miss Nellie Burdette, who possesses a handsome stage presence, is an admirable Jack; Mr. Leon Simkin is a capital Dame Trotter; Mr. Jay Laurier infuses plenty of humour into the part of Silly Billy; Squire Musty is well impersonated by Mr. Dan Paulton; Miss Rosie Sylvester is a charming and vivacious Dora; Dip and Dap are amusingly portrayed by Messrs. Grant and Allen; Mr. H. A. Lonsdell is good as the Giant; the Sisters Poole as Nancy and Charley Bright are a decided acquisition; Miss Rene Rennie as the Wicked Fairy and Miss Jeannie Langlow as the Good Fairy are both unexceptionable; Mr. Dan Dunn as Betty and Mr. Archie Herbert as the Cook are most efficient; and other characters are well represented. The Alhambra Troupe of Dancers are well in evidence. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. George Jenkinson, is effective, and the whole entertainment goes with a swing from start to finish.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr. D. J. Clark.—Dr. Walford Bodie, in his mystifying electrical entertainment is a centre of attraction. Mr. Harry Freeman, the popular comedian, has made a hit, and Miss Amy Anderson and her company are well received in some comic coster sketches. Maxwell and Frances, entertaining vaudeville artists, are renewing previous successes, and Dwight and Son (mimics and dancers), Miss Gena Mannon (soprano vocalist), and the bioscope are also included in the programme.

BIRMINGHAM.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Cinderella is well repaying Mr. Graham for his labours, the public flocking to this bright and cheerful production. Miss Dixon, the clever little daughter of Mr. Josh Dixon, and the heroine of Mr. Lashwood's song, "My Best Girl," is a great pet with the public, and for her amusing and precocious "support" gains presents of flowers, fruit, &c., at every performance.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Aladdin is still attended by crowded houses, and Mr. Philip Rodway, who plays the rôle of acting manager with exemplary tact and urbanity, continues to exhibit the notice-board, "House Full," with gratifying regularity.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—The Sleeping Beauty closes to-night, and on Friday, the 26th ult., Mr. Lonnon Meadows, the clever impersonator of the Yellow Dwarf and the producer of the pantomime for Mr. Elliston, was accorded a benefit, which was well patronised. Miss Maude Mortimer will be favourably remembered for her bright and clever portrayal of the Prince, and Miss Lillian Digges as Beauty, with Messrs. Jas. Chippendale, Alf. Bishop, W. J. Churchill, the Morton Trio, Les Voce, the Boris Fridkin Troupe, Alma and Abdullah, Miss Amy Tilley, Miss Maudie Vere, La Superbe, the Sisters Cora, and the Four Merry Madcaps, have left nothing to be desired on their parts. A benefit to Miss Maude Mortimer took place on Friday night.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Blue Beard continues to show excellent bookings, and the house is invariably crowded by audiences delighted and astonished at the beauty and humour of this popular pantomime.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville.—Her Second Time on Earth is now portrayed here by Mr. Walter Melville's company with the most unequivocal success. Miss Hilda Beverley acts the character of Dora Grey with appropriate truculence and zest, which, with her disarming grace, amounts to a genuine artistic hit. Mr. W. H. Porter acts the despicable rôle of Guy Brand with the utmost realism; Mr. Harry Hiller evokes the heartiest admiration in the lover's rôle, Jack Carlton; Miss Dorothy Hilderbrand gives a winning portrayal of the heroine, Laura Norman; Mr. George Gaisford meets with much sympathy as Captain Jasper Norman; Mr. A. Fellows Bassett makes a prominent rôle of the Italian, Beppo; and Mr. Wm. C. Reid, Mr. Charles Langton, and the Misses Margory Millbank and Polly Marsh act exceedingly well.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—His Majesty's Guests, with Mr. Fred Karno's fine company, constitutes an irresistible attraction, to which the public here have responded in excellent numbers. Mr. Arthur Lenville endows the popular rôle of Sergeant Lightning with extremely funny features, which arouse uproarious laughter and applause; Miss L. Castelle fits the character of Lady Maude with a flashy style and a vivacity which tells admirably; Miss Dolly Royce sings and acts sweetly as Dolly; Miss Amy Rogerson gives many amusing points to the part of the New Woman; Mr. Frank Morton carries off the rôle of the swell mobsman, Lord Essam, with ease; Mr. Charles Usher portrays the dry and droll characteristics of Mr. Miffin in a most successful manner; and Mr. S. Bolton, Mr. F. Fredericks, Mr. Dick Kitchen, Mr. Tom Marnardo, and a numerous and clever company support.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—The Temptress is attracting large audiences here with its exciting and engrossing story of love and treachery. Mr. W. H. Hallat as Pedro Gonzoles leads a powerful company, which includes Miss Blanche Stella, who pictures the wicked Lady Fordyce with enthralling power. Mr. Fredk. Ross is well versed in the portrayal of the villain, Lucas Denbeigh; Mr. George D. Daiper displays a fine ability for the heroic rôle, Philip Welford; Miss Mabel Scudamore acts the heroine, Marion Fordyce, in a charming manner; Mr. Allan Carruthers as Francis Fitz Fluke dispenses humour of the highest standard; and Mr. Tom E. Sinclair as Bob Tanner, Mr. Oscar Power as the Butler, and Miss Lizzie Chambers as Rhoda Brown are superlatively good.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—The excellent programme this week is attracting packed houses. The bill is headed by The Courtiers, introduced by Paul Mill. Their entertainment received loud and well-deserved applause. Tom Edwards, a smart ventriloquist, pays another visit with his usual success; Dr. Carl Hermann causes plenty of laughter with the subjects who fall under his hypnotic power; Driscoll, Beattie, and company have a good comedy sketch; and Katie Marsh is seen to advantage in a potpourri act, entitled Grave and Gay; another good sketch, The 100 to 1 Chance, is well received. The Sisters Mullini render their cornet selections with effect; Herbert Lloyd, comedian, and the Three Bostonians, juvenile song and dance artists, are well applauded.

GAIETY THEATRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Spessardy's troupe of bears and ponies are the principal item here. Their performance is remarkably clever, and receives loud applause. The Six Æolians may be considered among the smartest coon dancers of the day, and their comedy and vocal act is highly appreciated; Dora Martini is an expert gymnast. The eccentricities of the Brothers Leotard are applauded; and Oakley and James also come in for a big share of favour; Gladys Mavius is well received for her songs and dances; T. C. Callaghan, comedian, made a hit.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Ada Colley, the Australian songstress, is drawing packed houses; the Six Brothers Luck remain another week with The Demon of the Cellar; Fred Dunstone's parodies keep the audience amused; Mack Ollive, assisted by Daisy Baldry, has a whistling scena; Muir and Bartlett have a smart sketch, entitled Wanted, a Wife; Joe Cheevers is an amusing comedian. Andrews and Thompson, in a humorous vocal act; the Two Rubies, comediennes; Edna Thelma, vocalist; and Carson Hicks, an expert buck-dancer, complete the bill.

BORDESLEY PALACE. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—Miss Lottie Lennox meets with an enthusiastic reception this week, her popular chorus songs winning repeated encores; and another well-known turn is Dan Conroy. The mimicry of Miss Ruth Molloy is clever and well varied; Burns and Burns add plenty of humour to their gymnastic act; Virto and Irene have a musical entertainment of a high order; Jimson's Pets at Home is an amusing sketch; and the Brontes add greatly to the success of the programme.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — EDEN THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Huntley.—Messrs. Granville and Thorne's company is here on a second visit with the historic and romantic drama Napoleon the Great. Mr. Hugh Montgomery gives a powerful impersonation of Napoleon. Mr. Phil Harper, in the part of Colonel Jules Meuron, plays with much effect; Colonel Lavarennes is well embodied by Mr. Henry Earlesmere; Mr. E. Bulwer Pitt, as Paul Laczinska, is a praiseworthy exponent; Miss Maud Russell gives an effective portrayal of Mademoiselle Léonie Marbœuf; as Marcel Choupin, Miss Marie Harcourt is very good; and a capable actress is found in Miss Leslie Warner as Marie Walewska. Miss Florence Thorn is quite successful as Mère Dumont. As Pierre Pomponnet, Mr. Frank M. Thorne causes much amusement

BLACKBURN. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Business-Manager, Mr. Reginald Yorke.—A repertoire company, under the direction of Mr. Russell Rosse, with Mr. David James as the star, is paying a visit to the Royal this week. On Monday night Sydney Grundy's comedy, A Pair of Spectacles, was performed. Mr. David James gave a finished and artistic performance as Benjamin Goldfinch, and Mr. Norman Clarke presented an effective contrast as his rough-spoken brother, Gra' Sheffield. Miss Marion Lind was a graceful and ladylike Mrs. Goldfinch, and Miss Tessa Myers proved an attractive Lucy Lorimer. Friday night was set apart for the benefit of the popular young manager, Mr. Reginald Yorke, when Sydney Grundy's play, A Fool's Paradise, was presented. Many favourite local artists also appeared.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—Lady Mansell and her juvenile troupe are paying a return visit; Geo. Tell gives some excellent imitations of animals and musical instruments; Mdlle. Haydee presents a capital marionette show; Sidney Dolf, the "vocal trickster," is entertaining; the Haverleys introduce songs illustrated by some admirable pictures; Paulinetti and Piguo are a pair of first-class comedy gymnasts; Mr. George D'Albert and Mr. Nat Watkins both contribute amusing songs; and Raymond's biograph exhibits some fresh pictures.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and L. Maitland present The Coal King here this week. The company is a very capable one, and several parts are in particularly good hands. Mr. Maitland as Tom Roberts scores a huge success, and fully merits the approbation he nightly receives. Mr. Robin Shiells plays the part of Sir Reginald Harford with care and discretion; Mr. Joseph Millane gives a satisfactory account of Walter Harford; Mr. Charles R. Stone is a great favourite as Jim Williams; and Mr. Wilfred Graham does exceedingly well as Dick Shirley. Miss Gertrude Valentine contributes a charming portrayal of Grace Shirley that wins all hearts, and Miss Hetta Cornwallis does good work as Araminta Green.

GRAND THEATRE. — Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—The Blackpool Lyric Operatic Society is in possession here this week with The Geisha, which is its initial effort. Chief honours in an exceptionally fine rendering of this popular work are due to Mr. Herbert Whittaker, the conductor, and the founder of the society, and Mr. Thornley Dodge, the well-known entertainer, who is the coach and stage manager. Special scenery has been lent by the Manchester Theatre Royal Co., and the dresses are supplied by Simmons, of Covent Garden. The O Mimosa San of Miss Decima Troughton and the Molly Seymour of Miss Doris Price stand out as being worthy of unmodified praise.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The Gordon Highlanders, under the command of Captain Bevan, top the bill here this week, and their feats of escalading bring down the house nightly. Lozelle is a capital gymnast; Kitts and Windrum appear in a clever sketch; Fred Casburn is a droll comedian; Minnie D'Aubyn is a pleasing burlesque artist; Doody and Wright are aptly described as Australian comiques; Beattie Kent is a dainty serio; and Tom Collins is a very diverting comedian. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope finds a permanent home here, and the pictures are always popular.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. George E. Good.—Mr. J. A. Campbell, supported by a good company, has presented, for the first time here, a touching drama, entitled The Little Bread-winner, which has met with a hearty reception. In the hands of the author, Mr. Campbell, the part of Lord William Dorrington stands out with prominence; of the part of the adopted son, Richard Lawrence, Mr. David Gordon makes a success; Mr. Scott-Leighton acts with consummate skill the heavy part of Joseph Prior; Mr. Allan Charles wins much favour by his humorous rendition of Charles Prior; and honours are bestowed on little Emmie Thomas, who gives a highly-finished portrayal of the title-rôle.

BOLTON. — THEATRE ROYAL (LIMITED).—Managing Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston.—This theatre was crowded on Monday, when Mr. Elliston staged his 26th annual pantomime, entitled Aladdin and His Lamp. Miss Vera Marshall is charming and successful in the part of Aladdin, Miss Ada Elliston is dainty as the Princess Badroulbadour, Miss Maggie Bowman sprightly as Chee-Kee, and Miss Gertrude Lytton good as Pe-Koe. The Genii of the Ring and the Genii of the Lamp are well placed with the Misses Aubrey Ashton and Dorothy Foster; Mr. George Brooks, as the Widow Twankey, is excellent; the Emperor of China is capitally impersonated by Mr. Tom J. Morton; Messrs. Cullen and Carthy and the little Cluley are funny as Chew-Chew, Chop-Chop, and Chow-Chow; and Mr. William Fulbrook is good as Abanazar. A smart speciality turn is introduced by Charlene and Charlene, musical marvels. Another pleasing item, and much appreciated, is Miss Lottie Stone's Palace Troupe of dancers.

GRAND THEATRE (LIMITED).—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—The first item on the bill here is De Gracia's troupe of comedy baby elephants; other turns are Patty Yole, comedienne and expert dancer; Johnny Walker, eccentric character comedian and patterer; Edie Gray and her white coons, vocalists; Dave Meier and Bella Mora, speciality artistes; Bosanquet, violinist, etc.; Martin and Quigg, eccentric comedians; Louis Murray, character vocalist; Richardson Taylor, whistling ventriloquist; J. H. Kavanagh, comic and descriptive vocalist; Clown Barker, assisted by Miss Rozsika, with their clever trained animals; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—The Walls of Jericho, as presented by Mr. Bourchier's company, under the direction of Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. M. V. Leveaux, opened to remarkably good business on Monday. Mr. Herbert Bunston plays Jack Frobisher in really admirable style, and is excellently supported by Miss Florence Jackson as Lady Alethea. A capital study of the Australian miner is provided by Mr. George A. Brandrum, who is also responsible for the stage-management of the piece; while Miss Norah Grenlaw cleverly sustains the character of Lady Westerby. Other good performances are given by Mr. Laurence Hanray, Mr. Sydney Hamilton, Mr. George Piercy, Miss Molly Carton, and Miss Edith Cuthbert, who was very good as Miss Mornington.

BRADFORD. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—The run of Mother Goose here continues with unabated success, and the principal members of the company are very popular.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Dick Whittington continues to delight large and appreciative audiences here, and there is not a dull moment from start to finish of the pantomime.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL. — Lessee, Mr. C. Carter.—Under Messrs. Lewis and Lynne's management we are having here this week a series of extracts, in the way of an entertainment, from the pantomime of The Babes in the Wood, which Mr. Peter Eland recently produced at the Grand Theatre, Hull. Some of the more diverting incidents are reproduced, and there are several good turns of the variety order, which include a burlesque sketch, The Doll's Awakening, cleverly played by the Sisters Sprightly. Mr. Lynne's efforts in the way of comedy, too, are excellent. Amongst other successful efforts are the songs by Mr. Walter Raynor, Mr. G. Royle, and Mr. Theo Jones, and dancing by the smart Lotus Troupe.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—There was an audience packed to excess on last Tuesday evening, the occasion being the anniversary performance in commemoration of the opening of the theatre, and the management presented a fine programme, a feature of which was the appearance of the accomplished soprano Mrs. Charles Law Atkinson, whose acting in a scene from Maritana, and whose delightful rendering of "Scenes that are brightest," secured enthusiastic applause. Selina Braatz, who gave a wonderfully clever performance as a lady juggler, was also the recipient of hearty plaudits. Mendel, the blind pianist, in his marvellous performance, won hearty marks of appreciation; the Five Bogannys, with a clever acrobatic performance, deputised for T. E. Dunville, the comedian; Bert Boothroyd's imitations of comedians were humorous; Seeley and West, the comedy musicians, reappeared with their customary success; Bicknelle did some clever modelling in clay; Mr. T. Wrathmall's orchestral selections, "Empire Echoes," were given with fine effect; Lora introduced a distinct and clever novelty in What is It? which puzzled the audience greatly; Ada Walker was smart and effective in a coon song; in a mix-up of singing and clever paper manipulating Tony and Flo Vernon were highly entertaining; some effective glee singing by the Airedale Musical Union won approbation; in their well-known amusing sketch The Little Charwoman Goldman Holles and company were as diverting as ever; Amber Austa, quaint as heretofore, delighted the audience with an excellent coon song and dance; Frank Harwood's recital and jokes were much enjoyed, and the American bioscope displayed some entertaining films.

PALACE THEATRE. — Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—The Four Jumels, excellent musicians, present a bright and novel feature in their act here this week, and Anna Kenwick gives very cleverly quaint illustrations of negro life. The Three Sisters May as Dutch girls are bright; Toch and Tard are most diverting and smart Continental eccentrics; as a facial expert Mr. Ed. E. Ford is a wonder, and his humour as the Australian Sundowner causes great laughter; Renson and Waite are excellent vaudeville entertainers; Harry Luck contributes a good eccentric character comedy turn; George Leyton, who is assisted by the veteran Crimean hero, Private John Fowler, and twenty-four well-drilled youths, gives a stirring military scena, Boys of the Chelsea School; and some entertaining films are seen in Raymond's biotableaux.

BRIDLINGTON.—PEOPLE'S PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Kitchingman.—Arnold's variety company is performing here this week, the artists including Miss Eva Frere, in some well-rendered songs; the Sisters Parton, expert mandolinists; Sidi Ali and Madame Rianto, in cabinet illusions; Sabik, Egyptian mystifier; Mexican Mac, a wonderfully clever rifle shot. Alex Bain, the Scottish wrestler, is competing each evening with Green, of Wigan, and their show goes very well.

BRIGHTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company opened here on Monday with The Walls of Jericho. Mr. Edward A. Warburton as Jack Frobisher submitted a masterly impersonation, and Miss Amy Ravenscroft gave a very fine portrayal of Lady Alethea Frobisher. Mr. Alfred S. Barber was well suited as Hankey Bannister; Mr. Cecil Brooking acquitted himself effectively as the Marquis of Steventon; and Mr. A. A. Tryer was a capital Harry Dallas. Miss Nona Wynne made a charming Lady Lucy Derenham; Miss Helen Haye was sympathetic as Lady Westerby; Miss Jean Harkness did well as Miss Mornington; and the remaining characters were ably sustained.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—The pantomime, Robinson Crusoe, continues its merry and prosperous career here. New songs, jokes, and humorous business add to the attractiveness of the performances. Miss May Mars as Robinson Crusoe is a prime favourite; Miss Rosalie Jacobi makes a dainty and bright Polly Perkins; Mr. Walter Kooney as Will Atkins and Mr. Harry Karr as Dick Deadeye are a very mirth-provoking pair, and afford much fun by their quaint patter and amusing jokes; Mr. Allan Wye (Mrs. Crusoe) gives great assistance to the comic element; and others who merit warm praise include Miss Vesta Pine (Jack Tarre), Miss Minnie Pine (Nancy Lee), Mr. Ernest Laws (Sultan), Miss Winifred Norman (Princess), Mr. Edgar Budden (Friday), and Miss Maud Percy (principal dancer). Mr. Ernest Carpenter's bright and wholesome pantomime thoroughly deserves the great success it achieves.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—A capital programme is sustained here this week. Charles Norton, mimic and impersonator, achieves complete success; Selbo, club juggler and plate thrower, wins hearty applause; the Boisset Troupe of Comic Pantomimists are highly amusing in The Wild West; the Great Haydas, sensational comedy acrobats and tumblers, are enthusiastically received; Arthur Boyne contributes some comic songs; Alma Gray, the little Australian dancing girl, is cordially applauded; the Cribb Comedy Trio are entertaining in Idle Fellows with Idle Thoughts; Alexandra Edwin is a charming soprano vocalist; and the Alhambrascope Pictures are excellent.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—There is an excellent company here this week. John L. Shine and company are highly successful in the sketch, Hogmany; Edwin Barwick, comedian and mimic, submits an entertaining turn; the Kentucky Trio of American Jugglers are very smart; the Brothers Ashley are effective in their comedy boxing sketch, Next, Please; Bert Weston is a capital comedian and raconteur; Dora Barrington, a pleasing comedian, merits commendation; Sherlock and Van Dalle are well received in The Mummy and the Undergrad; Gus Hindell is a diverting comedian; Frances Drew is a bright burlesque actress; and the Barrascope Pictures are interesting.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—The Cherry Girl closed its five weeks' run here last Saturday evening, when the leading artists were the recipients of handsome presents. On the termination of the performance Mr. Trevor Lowe, under whose direction the play had been produced, warmly thanked the company and the patrons of the theatre, and handed a well-deserved present to Mr. I. S. Dunlop, the musical director. A few words from Mr. A. D. Norman, secretary and entertainment manager, closed the proceedings. This week Mr. Arthur St. John and company are here with Oliver Twist, which is admirably staged. Mr. Arthur St. John gives a realistic impersonation of Fagin; Miss C. Rivers submits an excellent portrayal of Oliver Twist; Mr. Archie Grant is forcible and convincing as Bill Sikes; and Miss Ida St. John's Nancy is a clever character study.

AQUARIUM. — Lessee and Manager, Mr J. J. Sallmayer; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. John Henderson.—The pantomime, Robin Hood, continues its prosperous run here. Miss Millie Henderson is an attractive Robin Hood; Miss Susie Rusholme makes a charming Maid Marion; and much amusement is afforded by Newham and Latimer (Baron and Baroness), Mr. Gerald Maitland (Little John), and Mr. Coningsby Brierley (Friar Tuck).

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—The pantomime Mother Goose shows no sign of diminishing in favour, and packed houses at each performance is the rule. The general opinion is that no previous pantomime has caught on better. The scenery throughout is artistic, the dresses are very beautiful, the staging generally comparing favourably with former productions. The artists all work well together. Mr. Wilkie Bard is full of resource in the title-rôle, well maintaining his popularity; Miss Lily Morris makes a charming principal boy; Miss Nina Wood is bright and dainty as Jill; Miss Nellie Stratton is a petite and pretty Lady Betty; the vocal abilities of Miss Kathryn Comber as the Fairy Heartsease contribute much to the success of the pantomime; and Happy Fanny Fields continues to delight, and works hard. The comedians are all energetic and successful in their efforts to amuse. Mr. G. R. Chapman, who is responsible for the music, has been this year most successful; and the excellent stage-management reflects much credit upon Mr. Henry Turner.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—The pantomime Goody Two Shoes has proved a big draw. Mr. Dave O'Toole is a clever comedian, his droll style as the Dame is most amusing; Miss Harriet Fawn appears with great success as Boy Blue; Miss May Fallowfield is bright and pleasing in the title-rôle; the Sisters Lunelle score as Jack and Jill, their song and dance specialities being strong features in the pantomime; and Miss Minnie Love has a pretty song and dance with electric effects. The comedians are energetic, all working well together with hearty goodwill, thus making the production go with a lively swing.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Austin Rudd, comedian, heads the programme, and obtains applause; the electrical scena, La Prière d'une Jeune Fille, is staged in a realistic manner, and the lady vocalist is appreciated; Roma and Romani present a high-class musical speciality, both the lady and gentleman being expert performers on various instruments; Tom Stuart, character actor, is successful in dramatic impersonations; the Brothers Redmond amuse as acrobatic comedians; the Brothers Zampah, one-legged equilibrists, perform very difficult feats with neatness and dispatch; Violet Stockelle is a pleasing comedienne; Marion Scott, comedienne, does an acceptable turn; and Frances Letty is a vivacious comedienne and dancer. The performance (two shows a night) concludes with "The Opium Smoker's Dream," projected by the Barrascope.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—The Five Osranis head the bill and amuse with their pantomime absurdity, Yvette; Miss Amy Tilley and her minstrels, eight in number, contribute an acceptable turn; Rosa Rossetti presents a refined and pleasing musical act, her tone is very pure, and she displays great skill with both violin and 'cello; Horace White, ventriloquist, does an excellent turn; Etelka Nicklas is a successful Continental singer and dancer; Laurie Wylie amuses with his mannikin impersonations of well-known music-hall artists; Alf. Davis, actor-vocalist, obtains applause; Hall and Earle, acrobatic eccentrics, are very smart in their line; Linton is exceptionally expert as a wire performer; and Vernon's animated pictures, "Father's Picnic on the Sands," "Message from the Sea," and "Tramp's Revenge," conclude the entertainment.

COLSTON HALL.—The last two weeks are announced of Mr. Joseph Poole's Myriorama. The season has been a very successful one.

BROMLEY.—LYRIC THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. A. Carlton; Manager, Mr. H. Strong.—A very successful visit is being paid this week by Mr. Fred Jarman's company in Under the Czar. Mr. B. H. Ross makes a good Nicholas Yeroslaft; Mr. H. Riley gives a powerful impersonation of the tyrannical Zakhor Kovesky; Mr. Louis Weston causes much amusement as Paul Ignat, being ably assisted by Mr. Edward Millins as Alexis Petroff and Miss Linda Riley as Siomka. The character of Sonia Gregorovitch is sympathetically undertaken by Miss Kathleen Cavanagh. The minor characters, of which there are a large number, are in capable hands, and lend adequate assistance in making the performance a complete success.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr. James W. Haworth; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Mr. Peter Thompson's comical panto., the Babes in the Wood, drew a very full house on Monday. The scenery by Messrs. J. R. Horrocks, Bert Venimore, and assistants is very pretty, and the colours and style of the various dresses add much to the pleasure of the performance. Miss Maud Beaumont is a dashing Robin Hood, and has some up-to-date songs, for which she is much applauded. Miss Molly Hackett sings well, and is a sprightly Maid Marion. Mr. Fred Danvers as Evalean, the nurse, keeps the house in roars with his quaint business. The Danbys are excellent as the villains. The Babes are cleverly presented by Miss Renee Grahame and little Daisy Noel. The Baron is amusing in the hands of Mr. J. Templar Ellis. The assistance given by Miss Mimie Moran (Will Scarlet), Miss Nellie Hilton (Little John), Miss Nellie Grahame (Dorothy Dimple), Miss Rosa Walmsley (Polly Primrose), Mr. Willie Barrett (Pimple), and Mr. Fred Paget (Friar Tuck) is also much appreciated. Specialities include Hector, who performs on the wire, and also cleverly manipulates some hoops; the Yankee Quartette are well-trained and expert dancers; Miss Rosa Walmsley is an exceedingly smart acrobatic dancer; Little Renee Grahame, male impersonator; the Danbys, Hungarian dancers; and Miss Nellie Grahame, a graceful dancer.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company, in Aladdin, is running on merrily here for the second week. Miss Maidie Scott is becoming a favourite by her captivating performance as Aladdin; Mr. Ernie Myers as Abanazar has a few extra jokes which cause much laughter; and Miss Lily Lonsdale is still the charming Princess. Miss Madge Northcote sings beautifully as Rhadiant; Williams and Brown, as Hu-go and Hi-li, cause plenty of fun; and Mr. George Cooper is an excellent Emperor. Mr. Julian Mack as Widow Twankey has several titbits of a very funny nature; and Miss Flo Collier has many admirers as Prince Hi-To-Tee. Akimoto's Royal Yedo Japanese Troupe give a splendid equilibristic and juggling act.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. T. Culeen; General-Manager, Mr. James E. Culeen.—Mr. T. Morton Powell's company, in a very good drama, Honour Thy Father, supply the attraction here this week. Mr. J. W. Eelyn performs with much power and earnestness as Gabriel Garth; Mr. Clavering Craig, a clever actor, is quite suited to the part of Duncan Bly; Mr. W. H. Melrose as Ned creates much amusement; Mr. Walter M. Cameron as Mike Copplestone is also an excellent comedian; Miss Maud Scott and Miss Mabel Coleman share equally the honours of the evening as Mercy Merry and Lilian Garth respectively; Mrs. Clavering Craig ably portrays Gertrude Garth; and Miss Lizzie Morley is very good as Poppy Cornleigh.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—A programme of general excellence is given here this week. Narrow Brothers, in their eccentric comedy cycling, provoke uproarious laughter; Bromley and Fontein cleverly present a smart sketch, The Mad Conductor; Musical Silvo is an expert manipulator of musical glasses; a charming turn is that of Marie Santol and her little Japs, in A Japanese Tea-Garden by Night, in which several pretty melodies are well rendered; T. C. Jaques is a good actor-vocalist; Welda and Wynne are a pair of smart jugglers; Minnie Mace is a very acceptable comedienne; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux complete an enjoyable evening.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—Mr. John F. Preston and Miss Madge Nelson's company, with Rogues of the Turf, occupies the boards here this week. A realistic and vigorous portrayal is given by Mr. J. F. Preston; Mr. Ernest R. Allen is an unqualified success as the hero; rogues of the vilest type are Gerald Heathcote and Moses Salomons, cleverly impersonated by Mr. Hamilton Deane and Mr. H. Maero respectively. A natural and pleasing manner, added to capable acting, assure a cordial reception for Miss Madge Nelson (Nellie Flaxman); the unscrupulous adventuress is depicted with much intensity by Miss Mabelle F. Barlow; Mr. Harry Benson (Sam Flaxman) and Miss Lallah Stanhope (Phillis) are responsible for the humorous element. Three fine racehorses are introduced, and the play is admirably mounted.

BURY (LANCS.). — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Chas. Chard and company are here playing the comic pantomime Goody Two Shoes. Miss Chummie La Mara makes a dashing Roland, the hero, and is well supported by Miss Annie Casey as Goody Two Shoes. The comedians include Mr. Sidney Dean (Dame), Mr. Charles Chard (Sammy), and Wee Langton (Simple Simon). Specialities by Messrs. Keith and Merson, Mikado Troupe of dancers, Messrs. Selby and Myers, and the Sisters St. Julian (charming singers and dancers) are much appreciated.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—A good bill here is headed by the Barra Troupe of Continental musicians; Margnerite Ismay's troupe of piccaninnies are good; Wild, Willie, and West, the bounding navvies; Hector and Paulus, equilibrists; Stylo, hoop artist; Ella Dean, vocalist; Billy Burns, vocalist; and Arthur Gill, comedian, make up a very good show.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead; General-Manager, Mr. Broadhead, jun.—Round the Clock is being played here by a troupe of comedians, including Charles Majilton, Herbert Ashmore, Jim Bond, Fred Wilson, Miss Jenny Hughes, Ben Story, Miss Moddie and Miss Amy Majilton. Other turns include Blind Henderson, musician; Bros. Sheppard, humorists; and Little Nellie Voltair, comedienne.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. REDFERN, J.P., D.L.—A most enjoyable performance was witnessed here on Monday night, when George Dance's company gave Lady Madcap. Miss Vera Vere in the title-rôle was full of "go." Mr. Alex. Chentrens has a pleasing voice, and was most acceptable as Comte de St. Hubert. Mr. H. V. Surrey's Oroya Brown was very funny. Mr. Bay Russell as Bill Stratford, was excellent his dancing being a special feature, and he was well supported by Mr. Fred Payne as Posh Jenkins. Miss Peggy Primrose is a graceful dancer, and Mr. Vincent Erne worked hard and successfully as Corporal Hand.

CARDIFF.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robt. Redford.—Enthusiastic audiences have crowded to see The Cingalee at the Royal this week. The play is presented by one of Mr. George Dance's excellent companies. The greater share of the work falls on Mr. Johnny Osborne, who, as Chambhuddy Ram, is successful in amusing the house. Mr. Kenneth Wynne, with a capital voice, makes an excellent Harry Vereker; Mr. Helier Le Maistre does exceptionally well as Boobhamba; Mr. J. E. Williams gives an amusing delineation of Sir Peter Loftus; and as Bobby Warren Mr. Roy Sydney scores a great success. Miss Zoe Gilfillan, who has a good voice and captivating manner, submits a pleasing impersonation of Nanoya; Miss Emilie Mayhew is a particularly charming and lively Lady Patricia; and Peggy Sabine could scarcely be more ably represented than by Miss Cissie Sephton.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Bateman; Business-Manager, Mr. Reg. Grant.—The Power of the Cross is being capably presented here by Mr. Lingford Carson's company. Rita Lascelles is impersonated with ability by the handsome and talented Miss Cissie St. Elmo; Miss Stanley Burt is another artist who displays considerable skill in her rendition of Margaret Seaton; Mr. Fred W. Goddard as Gerald Fairfax achieves success; Mr. Horace Denton is responsible for a creditable interpretation of Dr. Fairfax; and Mr. Hartwell J. Kirby imparts quite a weird and mystic air to the character of Baron Curzola.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—Ella's Lions cause great excitement and much sensation here by their exceptionally thrilling performance. The quaint comedian, Alf Gibson, goes down very well with Cardiff audiences, gaining great applause; Harding and Ah-Sid, the eccentric Americans, prove to be diverting comedians; the Selbinis give a varied and smart acrobatic and cycling turn; Lillian Lowe possesses and knows how to use a charming voice; and the Five Julians give an attractive turn. Johnny Alexander and company, in their latest comedy sketch; Dion Wade, the quaint comedian; Mdlle. Olive, the skilful lady juggler; and the bioscope, with amusing and interesting pictures, complete the list of attractions.

CARLISLE.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Trustees of R. S. McKim; Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers.—A large audience assembled here on Monday to witness the opening performance of Mr. Fredk. Melville's clever play Between Two Women. Mr. C. W. Standing submits a forcible and taking impersonation of Harry Millard; Mr. Jerrold Heather acts with his usual dramatic earnestness as the Rev. Philip Carton; in the heavy lead Mr. Louis Hector plays with convincing intensity and power, and thrills his audience in his many sensational scenes; Mr. George R. Montford also contributes a telling performance, and makes the most of a capital part. The heroine is cleverly and naturally portrayed by Miss Marjorie Murray, whose sympathetic rendering of the rôle is much admired. Miss Winifred Pearson as Carmen de Savereux gives frequent proof of her sterling ability as a melodramatic actress. The comedy relief is in the safe hands of Mr. Dickie Clare, who makes quite a hit by his clever fooling in the third act. He is well supported by Miss Lilian Earle, and the minor parts are adequately represented.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Veitch; General-Manager, Mr. C. Algie.—The Zaro Troupe of lady and gentlemen acrobats top the bill here this week, and meet with a good reception; Spry and Monti contribute an excellent turn; Chas. Woodward scores a success as a vocal comedian; J. C. Morris is very funny; Burnetti, character musician, is undoubtedly one of the best turns on the programme; Millie Denham sings some smart songs; the Reays give a clever gymnastic display, and the Hippodrome pictures are excellent.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—Here we have the first pantomime of the season, being a version of Beauty and the Beast. The production hails from the New Prince's Theatre, Poplar. In the title-rôle Miss May Foster plays in pleasing and unaffected manner; Miss Kitty Malone is a Prince of fetching appearance; Miss Evelyn Harding is the Fairy Prosperita, and her rendering of "Rainbow" is one of the most enjoyable of the vocal items. Miss Lottie Collins infuses plenty of "go" into the part of Smart, the Prince's valet, and succeeds in getting on excellent terms with the audience. Her efforts are creditably seconded by Miss Mavis Hope as Trixie. The comic business is chiefly in the hands of the following artists, who work untiringly, and are applauded throughout: Mr. Victor Travers (Johnny), Mr. Edward Colman (Martha), Mr. Duncan Tovey (Sandy McSteel), and the Brothers Harrison (Wiggle and Waggle). The Sisters Edwardes are a sprightly couple, who gain plenty of applause for songs, dances, and drum solos. Mr. R. Lomas's Beast is a good bit of work; the Stella Troupe are responsible for most of the dances, and score particularly well with their novel swing song; while Mdlle. Bartenelli astonishes the house with her unique contortionist display.

CHORLEY (LANCS.).—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. G. T. Santé; Manager, Mr. J. Clay.—Mr. A. E. Smith's pantomime, Little Bo-Peep, commenced a week's engagement here on Monday night. The pantomime is admirably staged and the various characters prettily costumed. Miss Elsie Douglas takes the part of Little Bo-Peep admirably, her songs and dances being bright and smart. As Boy Blue Miss Kathleen Garnon is excellent. Mr. Frank Wheatcroft makes a typical Baron Hardupp, and as Granny Peep Mr. H. J. Kemble excels. Messrs. Reed and Lerne, who appear as Percy and Patsy, are shining lights, their antics and jokes being most amusing. A number of entertaining "turns" are provided by the artists, including the Doreen Troupe of lady dancers; Mr. William Greene, baritone; Bendene, contortionist; Oliver Chew, sifleur; and Miss Issa Steel, vocalist. The pantomime is under the personal supervision of Mr. A. E. Smith, to whom much credit is due.

COATBRIDGE. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Coatbridge Theatre Company; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Commins.—Mr. Milton Bode's company with the pantomime Puss in Boots has had an enthusiastic reception here this week. Mr. Tatten Hall is admirably cast as King Crabbus, and his clever business keeps the house in roars of laughter; Mr. Leo Sterling does justice to the part of the Baron; Mr. Tommy Nelldon's humour as Muggles is quite irresistible, and for his quaint sayings he receives much applause. Miss Gladys Warren fills the rôle of Colio with distinguished success; Miss Marie Reeve gains much favour as Prince Rudolph; Miss Grace Langley is a pleasing Phyllis; and Miss Janet H. Reynolds a graceful Princess Ivy. Specialists are numerous, and the Carlos Trio of lady dancers are responsible for a brilliant performance. Others who contribute are Leo. Sterling, in a musical speciality; Miss Gladys Warren, Miss Marie Reeve, and the Royal Welsh Glee Singers.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, MR. F. C. UPTON.—A very good house assembled on the opening night of the week to witness the sensational Muscovite drama, The Price of Her Soul. Mr. John B. Shinton himself assumed the rôle of the hero, Lord Rolf Mandeville, V.C., and acted with consummate skill; being ably seconded by that charming actress Miss Ada M. Ryder, who, as Countess Inez Steinmetz, proved herself a noteworthy heroine. Mr. Annesley Hely deserves special notice for his intensely dramatic study of the villainous Major Skoboloff; whilst a very effective character-study was that of Capt. Sergius Petruski, as depicted by Mr. Murray Yorke. Miss Mona Grey gave a powerful delineation of the scheming Olga Lanovitz, and Miss Ina Mervale capably represented Nadine Marcovitz. Miss Ida Thompson displayed ability as the child Vera, and Miss Tina Frank was decidedly sprightly as Polly, the maid. Mr. Will Percy infused a great amount of humour into the Irish character of Pat Murphy, and Mr. Langdon Goulding was a capital General Lanovitz.

CORK. — OPERA HOUSE. — Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—The Moody-Manners company entered on their second week's engagement here on Monday night in Donizetti's famous opera Lucia di Lammermoor. The performance was excellent, the cast being well selected. Mme. de Vere as Lucy Ashton excelled herself, and gave a splendid rendering of the part; her acting was dramatic and finished, and she sang with remarkably fine effect. Miss J. McCarthy was capable as Alice; Mr. Wilson Pembroke was a capital Lord Edgar, and was loudly applauded for his singing. As Bide-the-Bent Mr. Charles McGrath was excellent, using his cultured voice with telling effect; Mr. Wm. Dever as Sir Henry Ashton was most successful, his fine baritone voice being heard to great advantage in the music allotted to him. The choruses were well sung, and the orchestra, under Signor Bellucci, was good. Il Trovatore, The Marriage of Figaro, The Huguenots, The Puritan's Daughter, Lucia di Lammermoor, and Carmen are billed for the week.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD. — Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—The star turn here is Capt. Woodward's educated seals and sea-lions, the animals playing instruments and juggling with balls in a marvellous manner. Master Bryan O'Sullivan, boy baritone, contributes some ballads in a pleasing style; Edna, the whistling girl, wins warm applause; King and Mackay, in a one-act farce, prove very amusing; Edith Courtney, vocalist, sings some excellent songs; the Ronalds, a trio of strong men, give an exhibition of physical culture and strength; Leonard Santley gives clever dramatic impersonations; and Kurtz proves himself a skilful juggler.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Mr. Geo. Dance's company opened on Monday in The Girl from Kay's. Mr. George Blount as Max Hoggenheimer is as funny as ever, and is loudly applauded; Mr. Reginald Grey is highly amusing in the eccentric part of the Hon. Percy Fitzthistle; Mr. J. S. Durant is very successful as Harry Gordon; Mr. Tom Seymour is responsible for a finished rendering of the Hall Porter; Mr. H. Val Morgan does well as Pepper, a page boy; Miss Emily Taylor gives a capital impersonation of Norah Chalmers; Miss Mabel Dent soon becomes a favourite as Ellen; Miss Beatrice Poole as the Girl from Kay's acquits herself creditably; Mr. Robert Rivers is seen in the amusing part of Theodore Quench, K.C.; and Mr. Thomas Pauncefort is good as father to Norah, also acting as stage-manager.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—This week's programme includes the Dunedin troupe of acrobatic cyclists, who give some clever and sensational tricks. Another well-given turn is by Professor Wishart, an illusionist of great ability. Ernest Leicester and company present Sutton Vane's sketch, entitled The V.C.; Mr. Chas. Williams is a comedian and dancer of ability; Miss Elsie Roby gives a musical monologue, entitled The Slavey's At Home; Miss Evelyn Taylor is successful as a comedienne; the usual Hippodrome pictures concluding the programme.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Mr. W. I. Miller and company are here with The Throne of Terror. Mr. William I. Miller himself takes the rôle of Robespierre, and gives an interesting and powerful representation. He is ably assisted by Miss Augusta Tullock as Victorine D'Almonte and Miss Katherine Maude Davies as Marguerite de Roquefort. The part of Captain Eugene de Lisle is in the capable hands of Mr. Roy Milton, whilst, as Comte de Roquefort, Mr. A. W. Thompson deserves special mention. Mr. Bert Ellis as Jou-Jou and Miss Russell as Peppietta look after the lighter side of the play, and very successful they are, Miss Russell giving a dainty little song. Miss Sylvia Agnew is well placed as Sister Lucette, and Mr. Renton Sax makes a good Mother Brigand. Mr. Ralph Bowman is successful as the executioner, Billot, as also is Mr. Henfield as the Accusateur Generale. We must not omit to mention Mr. Chas. Fernleigh as Fournier, Mr. Palliser Acock as Sergeant Vanton, and Mr. William Russell as the Gaoler, who all justify their selection for the parts.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor.—The Moore-Kennedy Pantomime Company opened here on Monday evening with Dick Whittington. Mdlle. Lucretia makes a handsome and dashing Dick, her singing and dancing being very effective, and Miss Vera Snowdon is captivating as Alice Fitzwarren. Miss Lily Townshend is a capital Prince Charming, and Miss M. Leonard a winsome Maid Marian. The Sisters Behan as Algy and Polly are seen to advantage, and Miss Mollie Revell and the Sisters Dudley are delightful as the fairies, their vocal efforts being received with great applause. Mr. Hyam Long as Alderman Fitzwarren is decidedly amusing, and Mr. Arthur Behan is comical as the Cook. Mr. Dan Agar as Idle Jack, Mr. Clarence Turner as Captain Bunting, and the Canadian Boys as Shuffle and Shirk keep the house thoroughly amused with their quaint antics, and Mr. Cecil Terry is imposing as the Emperor of Morocco. Mons. Pauletti is clever as the Cat. Specialities are introduced by Mr. Hyam Long, Mdlle. Lucretia, the Palais Royal Quartette, the Three Behans, Mons. Pauletti, and the Canadian Boys (Doyle and Massey).

CROOK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Wallace Davidson, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Wallace Davidson; Resident-Manageress, Mrs. Davidson.—On Monday Mr. James Hare's company opened with the sensational drama, The Golden Chance. Mr. Charles O'Connor as Hubert Zac is all that can be desired; Mr. J. R. Lowe is a capable Stephen Clinton; Miss Irene Clifford, in the dual rôle of Mother Hawk and Viva Zac, portays two extremes very cleverly; as Shelbery Mr. E. O'Grady would be hard to beat; and Miss Violet Hammersley scores heavily as Lydia Hastings. Mr. J. A. Stimson (Sam) and Miss Alice Buckland (Susan) do exceedingly well in the comedy parts, and other characters are suitably filled. On Thursday and Friday nights the company appeared in The Guilty Man.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—Mr. Frank Curzon's company is causing a sensation here in Sergeant Brue (of the "C" Division). Mr. George Barrett enacts the rôle of Crookie Scrubbs with an unctuous humour that is most acceptable; Mr. Charles Hanbury is quite in his element as Michael Brue; Mr. Harry Soutar deserves a word of praise as Matthew Habisham; Mr. Harold Montague just touches the right note as Inspector Gorringe; Messrs. J. J. Jordan and Ivor Harvey make the most of limited material as Mr. Lambe and Erskine Murray; Mr. Hugh Oliver is efficient as Captain Bay; Mr. A. E. E. Edwards gives a capital sketch of Mr. Crank; and Mr. Percy Clifton submits an animated and amusing rendering of the title-rôle. Miss Constance Lait, who sings sweetly, is a charming Aurora Brue; Miss Constance Berkeley is a lively Daisy; and Miss Violet Dene makes an enchanting and graceful Lady Bickenhall. A pas de deux by Miss Mabel Weir and Mr. Ivor Harvey is encored.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—At Break of Day is being staged here this week by Mr. Samuel James's stock company. Mr. Henry St. Leger is excellent in the part of Richard Thornycroft; Mr. J. J. Bartlett acts with power as Arnold Fletcher; Mr. Bert Morley renders useful service as the Rev. Ernest Brand; Mr. A. Fitzmaurice is creditable as Marmaduke Manners; Mr. A. P. Kaye is very funny as Jeremiah Stubbs; Miss May Seton is praiseworthy in the rôle of Henrietta Stubbs; Miss Lily Hammersley is all that can be wished as Violet Brand; Miss Bertha Baker is commendable as Phillis Thornycroft; and Miss Katherine Clarke is well placed as Dora Thornycroft.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—Mr. Charles Harrington's company is here in the naval drama The Sailors of the King. Mr. C. Harrington plays effectively as Admiral Drake; Mr. Harry Douglas's portrayal of Lieutenant Dick Drake is worthy of great praise; Miss Sylvia Stella is successful as Felicia Phrynne; and Miss Maud Tremayne plays with good effect as Daisy Dent; Mr. Richard Cowell gives a powerful impersonation; the Rev. Orrel Drake is cleverly portrayed by Mr. F. Vernon Travers; Miss Maud Digby as housekeeper to Admiral Drake is successful; Mr. Fred Owen as a moneylender, Mr. Kenneth Black as Barnet Fair, and Miss Hero Kathaway cause considerable amusement.

DARWEN. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. A. M. Loader; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—Messrs. Griffin and Drake's pantomime Cinderella is attracting large attendances here this week. The scenery is excellent, and the songs are catchy. Miss Ivy Dawn makes a dainty Cinderella, her songs being rendered most effectively; Mdlle. Du Roche fills the rôle of Prince Perfect in dashing style; Miss M. Le Graham is pleasing as Dandini; as the two ugly sisters Mr. W. Griffin and Mr. F. Elliott cause much laughter by their ridiculous make-ups. The Brothers Lang, who are mainly responsible for the funny elements, are warmly applauded; Miss Sadie Bush as the Godmother and Mr. Clifton Hall as Demon King are both good in their respective parts. Specialities are introduced in the Palace scene by the Three Sisters Grosvenor, operatic vocalists; Marlo, a clever young juggler; Harland and Rollinson, comedy musical artists; and Leona, Dora, and Maud, trapeze performers.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, M. T. A. Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—The Carl Rosa Opera company is paying a return visit here this week, much to the delight of local lovers of the lyric drama. On Monday Faust was the attraction. The Marguerite of Miss Elizabeth Burgess was an exceedingly graceful and tender assumption. In the name-part Mr. Edward Davies was in every way successful. As Mephistopheles Mr. Arthur Winckworth acquitted himself excellently all through. Valentine had a capable exponent in Mr. Charles Moorhouse; and very charming was the Siebel of Miss Anna Hope. The Martha of Miss Douglas Wilson was faultless, and Mr. Fredk. Clendon was efficient as Wagner. Mr. Eugene Goossens conducted with characteristic ability. On Tuesday Fidelio was performed, and its representation left nothing to be desired. Particularly effective was Miss Hanna Mara's beautiful depiction of Leonora, and admirable, both vocally and histrionically, was Herr Julius Walther as Florestan. As good as anything, too, was the intelligent interpretation of Rocco by Mr. Arthur Winckworth, and Mr. Charles Victor as Pizarro and Mr. F. Clendon as Fernando respectively did exceedingly well. Miss Ina Hill made an attractive Marcellina, and Mr. Arthur Hyde was entirely adequate as Jacquino. Mr. Walter van Noorden conducted with marked ability. The Marriage of Figaro, Il Trovatore, Tannhäuser, Carmen, and Maritana were billed for the remaining part of the week.

PALACE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr Herbert Taylor.—The star turn is provided by the Hodgson-Lowther company in their amusing and successful absurdity entitled Barmaids. Walter Stanley, a clever comedian, sings his songs in a highly acceptable manner; Clarice Netta, soprano vocalist, a prime local favourite, is as successful as ever; Ulrick, the barrel king, is a man of parts whose merits are heartily recognised and appreciated; Gold and Stirling, described as "the Welsh girl and the artist," are possessed of tuneful voices which they use to advantage; Arthur Croxon, the "one-man village concert," is as diverting as he is clever, and causes much hearty laughter; J. P. Carroll, military tambourine player, is decidedly novel, and his efforts receive every encouragement. The Palace Bioscope contributes some interesting films.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr. H. A. Jordison's attractive pantomime, Babes in the Wood, is playing to capital business here this week. Miss Madge Daly is a stylish Robin Hood, singing her songs with plenty of dash; Miss Nancy Thornton is the Maid Marion, and is equally popular; Mr. A. Stratton, in addition to being stage-manager, plays the bold Baron with success; and Messrs. Bennett and Martell as Bill and Dick, the robbers, evoke hearty laughter. The specialities include David Poole, an original ventriloquist; Gus Balsiger, a novelty banjoist; and the Ariston Dancers, a smart quartette. Misses Jordison and Cullen are happily placed as the Babes.

HIPPODROME AND VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. G. Weldon.—Hinton and Wooton, football cyclists, and Mill, May, and Therese, protean artists, are repeatedly recalled. Marti and Julietta, pyramidical wonders, have a difficult act; and Dan Noble is a comedian of note. Frank Stephens, actor-vocalist, achieves much success; and Ada Marjutta, the flexible wonder, is very clever. Smith and Johnson, society coons, are of good quality; and the Harriscope, worked by Mr. Harris, has a strong show of pictures.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The Cingalee was produced by Mr. Geo. Dance's No. 1 company on Monday. Mr. Frank Crimp ably accounted for the Hon. Harry Vereker, and Mr. Bertram Gates afforded him loyal support in the part of Boobhamba. Mr. Coop Edmunds's assumption of Sir Peter Loftus, commissioner, was well rendered; as Myamagh, an Indian servant, Mr. A. Wilmer was effective; the Bobby Warren of Mr. Ethelbert Edwards was capital; as were also Messrs. Edward Ramsay, C. Richards, and John Ossie, who embodied the pupils at Vereker's plantation. Mr. Lauri de Reece supplied a distinctly pleasant variety as Chambuddy Kain, a Baboo lawyer; Miss Margaret Clarke won golden opinions in the rôle of Lady Patricia Vane; and Miss Gladys Guy was winsome as Peggie Sabine. The title-rôle was embodied by Miss Winnie O'Connor, whose fleetness of foot and sweetness of voice amply justified her in undertaking a part of such prominence. Messrs. P. Herbert as Natooma, and May Owen and Nellie Gladwell, ten girls on the plantation, were smart and prim; and Miss Maggie Hagan was excellent as Miss Pinkerton. A trio of interesting young ladies represented Amy's governesses, viz., Misses Mamie Patterson, Helen O'Brien, and Bertha Frey, the cast being completed by Miss Essie Perrin, who made a most successful Angy.

DOVER.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—The visit of Miss Maud Hildyard and her London company in The Great Awakening has been looked forward to by Dover playgoers with a good deal of pleasant anticipation. Expectations were not disappointed on Monday, for the drama is excellently staged. Miss Hildyard gives a wonderful performance as Lola Selby, the grim touch of humour in her portrayal making it the more effective. Her graceful figure and lovely gowns are the talk of the town. Miss Isa Bellington is a bright and amusing Selina Worts; Molly Merton is sympathetically played by Miss Jessie Burgwitz; a powerful impersonation of Jack Merton is contributed by Mr. Bernard Copping, his acting in the mad scene being particularly realistic. Mr. Copping also enacts the part of Sir Henry Merton with considerable ability. One of the cleverest and most effective portrayals is that of James Selby by Mr. Charles Vivian; and Mr. Charles Fancourt, as Captain Harry Lambert, gives a capable rendition. The rôle of the adventurer Guy Rogan is played on decidedly original lines by Mr. Julian Hartleigh; Mr. James E. Page imparts a touch of individuality to the part of Richard Wilson; Mr. Tracey Barrow is an animated and vivacious Antoine; and Mr. Godfrey Sheldon a capital Dr. Lang. A clever character-sketch of the kindly newsboy is the work of Mr. Edwin Gordon, and Mr. Willie Scott is in excellent form, and plays with immense comic force as Billy Brass.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Manager, P. G. Wraith.—Tom Bass heads the bill this week, and causes lots of fun with his advice to married ladies; Harry Bentley contributes several quaint numbers; Bertha Norwood and Cissie Gazelli are both delightful to look upon and charming to listen to. Kavados, the cannon-ball juggler, shows wonderful neatness and skill. Owing to an accident, Clara Sefton and the Lessors were unable to appear on Monday, but competent deputies were forthcoming.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—The successful pantomime Cinderella, which entered on its last week here on Monday night, has lost none of its popularity, large and enthusiastic audiences being delighted nightly.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The pantomime Royal Cinderella is now in full swing here, and drawing full houses.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Whitbread; General-Manager, Mr. Kennedy Miller.—Mr. E. H. Knight and George Denham's Grip of Iron company is paying a return visit here this week, and doing excellent business. Mr. Fred Powell again assumes the rôle of Jagon, alias Simmonet, with his accustomed ability, and Miss Mildred Cottell gives a capital rendition of his daughter Cora. Praise is due to Mr. Harry Agar Lyons for his impersonation of Alphonse de Concour, and Miss Nellie Fletcher plays with effect the part of Sophie Blanchard. Mr. Geo. Denham is capital in the rôle as Loustalot, the Smiler, and Miss Pope Royal is seen to advantage as Mdlle. Delaney. Mr. Harry Scott is well suited as Paul Blanchard, and Mr. Richard Ferris is exceedingly good as Lorentz de Ribas.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Musical-Director, Mr. H. J. Baynton.—Mr. Fred Karno's company tops the bill here this week with the laughter-provoking sketch Jail Birds, and causes a furore nightly. Morris and Morris's acrobatic feats on a broom-handle are well received; and Ethel Ra Leslie's character songs are a pronounced success. Mueller and Coyne, comedy artists, are a highly diverting pair, and Helen Martin is an accomplished ballad vocalist. The Three Sisters Chester are charming vocalists and dancers; the selections played by Baker and Balfe on the xylophone are warmly applauded, and the Empire pictures include some up-to-date events.

TIVOLI.—General Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—An old favourite is here in the person of Joe O'Gorman, who receives a flattering reception. A novel and amusing trapeze act is supplied by the Clement Trio, and Minnie Dare is a chic comedienne and dancer. Helm and Cozen's comedy trifle The Doctor and the Patient causes no end of laughter, and the clever gymnastic act of Craig, Roze, and Craig is deservedly applauded. Gillin is an entertaining ventriloquist, and Aida Martine an attractive comedienne. Monty Walker is a humorous vocal comedian, Ray and Miles are capital comedy jugglers, and the bioscope is interesting.

ROUND ROOM ROTUNDA.—The Irish Animated Photo Company close here to-night, after a most successful season.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr C. A. James.—Pettigrove and Sons' Marionette pantomime, Babes in the Wood, is being presented.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. S. Samuels.—Irish spectacle, Donnybrook Fair, is the attraction here.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. Smith, presented by a first-class London company, is paying a first visit here. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart as Mr. Smith gives a distinctly clever and artistic rendering; Mr. Edwin Holloway is responsible for a polished performance as Lord Angleland, being ably assisted in all his doings by Mr. Chas. Pilling Bird as the Hon. Dudley Dysart; Mr. Russell Norrie assiduously plays the elderly part of Earl of Oxted; Mr. H. Carter Bligh deserves praise for his energetic rendering of Jack Berkeley; and Mr. Fred Darrell causes much fun as the Milwaukee brewer, Herr Diedrich Anheuser. Miss Mary Bates plays the arduous part of the Duchess of Angleland to perfection; Miss Louis Lestrange as the garrulous but loving old mother, Mrs. Smith, creates much laughter; Miss Fife Alexander is charmingly graceful as Ruth Anheuser; and Miss Rosamund Berkeley submits a delightfully refreshing rendering of Lady Mary.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Deputy Acting-Manager, Mr. Rhodes Wells.—The Three Pirmans, in a pantomime act entitled Dans le Jardin, are proving a great attraction this week. They are very amusing, and their performance on the triple bars is the best witnessed here for some considerable time. Ned Kennedy and company are also to the front in a sketch, Life in a Tenement House. Prince Kuroki, Japanese legerdemain, completely mystifies everyone with some wonderful tricks; Marguerita Chappelle ably renders a good turn described as The Two Extremes; Mabelle May is a capital vocalist and dancer; Harry Nation, the laughing comedian, has some new original songs that please his audience; Cyril Demane, illusionist, is good; as also is Tom Vine, vocal comedian The programme is completed by James Shingleton, the Singing Collier.

DUMFRIES. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—Miss Lillie Mowbray's pantomime company appeared here in Cinderella on Monday and two following nights. Miss May Garnet Vayne as Cinderella is charming; Miss Vesta Brownie as Dandini capably fills the part; Miss Ethel Burns as Prince Peerless plays in a creditable manner; Miss Madge Brownie and Mr. Tom Read as the Ugly Sisters are clever; and Mr. Will Wilson is droll as Peter, the Page. The Boston Twins Knipp and Knapp are exceedingly funny. Ivy Valescoe's trope of trained ponies deserve great credit, as also do Hampson's performing dogs.

DUNDALK.—TOWN HALL THEATRE.—Proprietors, Urban Council; under the direction of Mr. Payne Seddon.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company is here this week, and opened on Monday to a crowded house with Hamlet. Mr. Henry Herbert in the title-rôle called forth loud applause for his fine impersonation. Ophelia in the hands of Miss Dorothy Green was a finished performance; Mr. Arthur Fayne as Polonius was most successful; Mr. Alfred Howis as the King acted his part with dignity; and a special word is due to Mr. Lionel Bevans for his fine Horatio. The remaining parts are filled by a capable company. The Merchant of Venice, The Taming of the Shrew, and The School for Scandal are also in the bill.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Perkins. — Mr. Wentworth Croke's company is presenting The Christian here this week. Miss Grace Chalmers gives a most convincing portrayal as Glory Quayle; Mr. Frank Tennant as John Storm is a manly figure, and his embodiment is clear-cut and most powerful. Miss Molly Hayden as Mrs. Callander gives a clever study; as Lord Robert Ure Mr. T. Renaud Lockwood is most effective; Mr. Jackson Wilcox accepts the opportunities offered in the part of Horatio Drake, and his rendering leaves nothing to be desired.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—W. J. Ashcroft, Irish comedian, meets with a most hearty reception in his farcical interlude Jane Ann O'Hoolahan, in which he is assisted by John M. Morton, a clever American comedian. Palleo and Cusick are well known here, and their turn is one of the most popular on the bill; Carr and Rose are a pair of vocalists of more than average ability; Sharr and Frank cause much laughter with their clever comedy work, and their juggling is of the most meritorious description; Fred Lloyd and company produce with much success a sketch entitled The Blind Spinster. Others who contribute to the programme include George Bernard, descriptive vocalist; Horton and Linder, on the horizontal bars; and Mona McDonald, comedienne.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—The comedy drama A Plucky Nipper is here this week. Miss Bonwin Carlton gives a clever rendering of the part of Polly Hithard; Mr. Edward Surrey is excellent in the rôle of Bill Burgess; and a fine impersonation is given by Mr. William Heilbronn in the character of Richard Vanbrugh. Miss E. Lamonte scores in the part of Daisy Paget, the blind girl.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Kardoc, the handcuff king, is well received here; the Garden troupe of dancers meet with their customary success; Clark and Clark score as duettists; Harry Daubrey, ventriloquist, keeps the house in the best of humour; and the Canadian Animated Photo. Co. give a capital exhibition of pictures.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. Standen Triggs.—Mr. Weedon Grossmith and a strong company appeared here the latter part of the week in a new farce, My Cousin Marco, which was produced last week at Canterbury. Mr. Grossmith's company includes Miss Dido Drake, Miss Gladys Homfrey, and Mr. T. W. Lovell.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—For the first time locally, "looping the loop" is being accomplished here twice nightly, and a gentleman on a motor-cycle supplies this thrilling sensation; Miss Doris Lillian is a pleasing comedienne, and she is a clever and graceful dancer; Illumino Statuo, in a pretty stage setting, is a novel statesque song tableau; Mr. Harry Henrick works well as a comedian; Dante, Bentley, and Elton have an amusing sketch, and they dance well; Mr. J. D. Toner is a successful mimic of Harry Lauder; and Cavern and Cave, together with the pictures, complete the bill.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. J. D. Hunter and his company are again supplying the annual pantomime here, and Miss Blanche Bayley returns to again triumph as principal boy, and she is a refined and pleasing Prince. Miss Doris Dew is a pretty and captivating Cinderella; Miss Nell Raymond, as Sprightly, has a pretty figure and voice; and Miss Mabel Mavis is an acceptable Cherry. Miss Rene Ashley has plenty of gaiety and brightness as Prime Minister; Miss Cherry Wardroper is a capital Ugly Sister, and the Misses Florrie and Lily Zetina are pretty and graceful dancers. Mr. J. D. Hunter, as the other Ugly Sister, is the cause of many laughs; Mr. Dick Tubb is a funny Baron, and he possesses unlimited facial expression; and Messrs. Dale and O'Malley are a couple of sterling comedians whose work is prominent all through. The Cleveland Troupe of acrobats are smart and clever; while Little Rosie's miniature circus, and Marion Silbon as Auguste, with his trained cats, take the place of the ordinary harlequinade.

EBBW VALE. — KING'S. — Lessees, Messrs Carlton and Duckworth; Responsible Managers, Messrs. W. Devereux and E. T. Wood.—Mr. Lawrence Brough and company presented The Lady of Ostend on the first three nights of the week. Mr. Henry Hampson as Dick Whortles gave a capital impersonation, and Joseph Carbury was well played by Mr. Rorey Marshall. Mr. Lawrence Brough as Le Baron de Longueville was excellent, and Dorothy Whortles was admirably portrayed by Miss Noyra Creegan. The Cruise of the Saucy Sally was played on Thursday and Friday.

EDINBURGH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. William Whitehead.—The pantomime of The Forty Thieves is running with unabated vigour and most gratifying success. There is no falling-off in the crowded attendance, nor in the favour accorded to the principals engaged in the production. Miss Ruth Lytton and Miss Rhoda Gordon are deservedly popular as Ganem and Morgiana; and Mr. Tom E. Murray as Ali Ba Montefiore possesses, if not the veritable wand of the wizard in the fairy-tale, the power of producing an excellent spectacle, satisfying alike from a dramatic and a picturesque point of view.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. J. Cawood.—This week's bill is notable for at least two novel and ingenious turns of more than ordinary interest. The Riogoku Family of Japanese jugglers and contortionists give their remarkable display of feats in balancing which are virtually unrivalled. The Seven Grigolatis in the guise of butterflies take aerial flights very gracefully, not only hovering hither and thither above the stage, but also taking flights into the auditorium, coloured lights and fanciful costumes adding to the effect of a very pretty scene. Miss Mary Glenn, an artistic soprano vocalist, sings a number of favourite songs in a cultured and charming style. Other pleasing singers are found in Miss Ruth Dorris and Miss Mabel Hind. A clever trapeze performance is given by the Rhoda Brothers; Mr. Conway (unaided by his associate, Mr. Leland, who is temporarily laid aside with an injury to his foot) provides an amusing turn; and entertaining sketches are supplied by Geoffreys and Benson and Mr. Cecil Linden and Miss Elsie Hayward, who appear respectively in Spoofed and The Midnight Express. The Urban Bioscope Company conclude the programme with some new and interesting films.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. John Henry Cooke.—The energetic proprietor of this house has produced a new spectacle entitled The Scalp Hunters this week. The piece is adapted from some of the stirring incidents in the novel by the late Captain Mayne Reid, and it gives an opportunity for excellent work by the members of Mr. Cooke's staff. There are much excitement and interest in the three tableaux into which the piece is divided, and a dashing dénouement is reached by the introduction of the diving horses, which show the perfection of animal training. Mdlle. Yvette's miniature hippodrome is a pleasing feature and the Cedrics evoke plenty of laughter and applause in their admirable act. The remaining turns are of the meritorious nature associated with Mr. Cooke's establishment

EDMONTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Joseph L. S. Moss; Manageress, Mrs. Amelia H. B. Moss.—On Monday night Miss Winifred Maude's company, under the direction of Mr. Victor Du Cane, started its second week with Tom Craven's piece, The Stowaway. Miss Winifred Maude gave a charming impersonation of Althea Dale and Mr. Victor Du Cane was successful as Dicky Dials. Chucky, a London newsboy, was cleverly played by Miss Amy Corallie. Other parts were played with ease and finish by Mr. Royce Carleton (Tom Inglis), Mr. Arthur E. Pringle (Charles Etherington), Mr. James Langtrey (Paul Inglis), Mr. Norton Shields (Percy Ewart), Mr. Edward Finlay (Job Hickey), Mr. W. E. Simpson (Sandy Prowse), Mr. Felix Harris (Inspector Johnson), Mr. Ploens Cain (Detective Lynch), and Miss Marie Lyons (Florence Etherington).

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville; Acting Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott and company are visiting Exeter this week, and on Monday Sapho was presented. The title-rôle was successfully filled by Miss Ada Abbott, and Mr. E. R. Abbott gave an excellent portrayal of Jean Gaussin. Miss Sybil Leslie and Miss Marjorie Tennant did well as Lucy and Madame Hettema respectively, and Uncle Ceasire was humorously depicted by Mr. Douglas C. Phelps. Some smart musical specialities were introduced by Mr. Edward Keene. On Tuesday Trilby was staged with much success, Mr. E. R. Abbott as Svengali and Miss Ada Abbott in the name-part playing with skill and taste.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—A return to pantomime has been made this week, and Sinbad the Sailor is being presented by Mr. Fred. J. Little and Mr. Fred Darcy's company. The principals are Miss Marion May (Sinbad), Miss Amy Calcott (Zorilda), Miss Flora Buxton (Princess Zaidie), Miss Ada Mand (Selim), Mr. John E. West (Mrs. Sinbad), Mr. Albert E. Mann (Captain Cook), Mr. Walter Adams (Tinbad), and Mr. Fred Dobito (Ali Loofan). The "panto." is rich in fun and frolic, the chief contributors to which are Messrs. Newcombe and Sullivan. There were many catchy songs rendered during the evening, and variety was supplied by the marvellous Westwoods, comedy cyclists; the Calcotts, dancers and banjoists; Little Tim, big boot dancer; Miss May Wyatt, solo 'cellist; and Dobito and Buxton, operatic vocalists.

FARNWORTH.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, and Manager, T. Morton Powell.—Emma Litchfield and company are here this week in A London Actress. The characters are all in capable hands. Mr. J. C. Carlyle, as Sergt.-Major Crawford, gives an excellent performance; the Lieut. Kingstone of Mr. A. F. Dudley is also a capital representation; Mr. G. H. Doyle, as Capt. Mannering, is all that could be desired in the part; Mr. J. Hitchins is a comical Pat Maloney, and he is ably assisted by Miss Nellie Fern as Biddy Maloney. Miss E. Litchfield, as Hilda Mannering, plays the part in a natural manner, and her performance meets with well-merited applause. Miss Millie Mayward capably undertakes the part of Rosie Blythe.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Messrs. Murray King and Clark's company, in Bluebell in Fairyland, is here this week. Miss Gladys Cooper, in the title-rôle is very attractive, and renders her songs in a pleasing manner; Mr. Lawrence Emery as Dicky is bright and alert; Messrs. H. C. Morton and E. Cossart as Will and Wont, and later on as Blib and Blob, cause endless amusement; Mr. David Cruickshank makes a good Mr. Joplin; Mr. Percy Farrimond as the singing collier uses his fine voice advantageously; Mr. Stanley Crisp is an excellent Cat; Miss Connie Emerald as Mab, and Miss Marie Edmonds as Winnie, play in a praiseworthy manner; Miss Muriel Juin renders "The glow-worm" with excellent effect; Miss Minnie Blanchard scores a success with her clever dancing; and Miss Ruby Carter is an ideal Will o' the Wisp.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. A. Setter.—Cardow's Cadets opened here on Monday, and received their fair share of patronage, their songs, duets, and concerted numbers all being rendered in good style.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Arthur Carlton Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Kirk.—Mr. Geo. Dance's company appeared here for three nights last week in The Cingalee. Mr. Tom Payne is an excellent comedian, and as Chambhuddy Ram gained great applause; Mr. A. Wortley Drewitt sang well as Harry Vereker; Mr. F. Sutton gave a good rendering of Boobhamba; and Mr. Edwards was a pleasing Bobby Warren. Mr. Eric Fenton gave a clever performance of Sir Peter Loftus; Miss Edith Harmer was a charming Nanoya; Miss E. Hughes was amusing as Peggy Sabine; and Miss Millie Field was a good Lady Patricia.

GATESHEAD.—KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—Messrs. Robert MacDonald and Fuller Allen (by arrangement with Mr. George Edwardes) are presenting San Toy here. Mr. Howard V. Crofton is a handsome Captain Bobby, his singing being much appreciated; Yen How, portrayed by Mr. Alfred Clark, is the cause of much merriment; another great laughter-creator is Mr. Alfred Beers, who plays Li, and also stage manages the production; Mr. Harry Turner is a very voluble Sir Bingo; Mr. Alf. H. Majilton is successful as Lieutenant Harvey Tucker; Mr. Scott Rae is a capable exponent of Fo Hop; and the Emperor receives full justice at the hands of Mr. G. Webster Partie. Miss Nina Osborne in the title part contributes an excellent performance, her singing being delightful; Miss Maud Lucy is a vivacious Dudley; and Miss Doris Langdon plays Poppy, and is heard to great advantage in her songs. The chorus is a capable one.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Newcastle and Gateshead Theatres, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Mr. Arnold Bell and company are appearing here in Hoodman Blind. As Jack Yeulett, Mr. Bell, who is always a favourite with Gateshead audiences, receives an enthusiastic reception, and gives a powerful impersonation; Mr. Cuthbert Imrie is very effective as Mark Lezzard; Mr. Dan Farrough makes the most of his opportunities as Kridge; an amusing interpretation of Ben Chibbles is given by Mr. Wm. C. Reid; Mr. Bernard Mervyn makes a very powerful Tom Lattiker; and Mr. Joe Bardsley as Joe Swirrup and Mr. Frank Carlyle as Noah Quodling are both successful. Miss Frances Campbell is a great success in the dual rôle of Nance and Jess Lendon; Miss Violet Campbell looks charming in the part of Polly Chibbles; and Miss Cissie Walmer as Kit and Miss L. Vyner as Tom Tit give praiseworthy portrayals.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Smith.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company is doing good business here in The Love that Women Desire. The part of Squire Abingdon affords Mr. J. C. Stewart an opportunity of showing his undoubted ability; Mr. C. Quinton Fulford gives a powerful impersonation of Richard Abingdon; Mr. G. C. Wallace's embodiment of Frank Hardy is one of all-round excellence; and Mr. David G. Noble capably fills the rôle of Philip Carnaby. The comic element is excellently sustained by Mr. John Hignett as Dennis O'Rourke, Mr. Arthur Rich as P.C. Sowerberry, and Miss Maud Stuart as Pattie Swift. Miss Lydia Donovan gives a satisfactory rendering of Sybil Thorburn, and Miss Alice N. Livesey cleverly portrays Madge Abingdon.

GLASGOW.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Humphreys.—Aladdin continues to crowd this theatre to its utmost capacity, both at matinées and evening performances, and the humorous eccentricities of Mr. Harry Lauder and his able coadjutors look like creating a record here. As Roderick McTwankey, the Scotch traveller in the Far East, Mr. Lauder has a part that suits him to a nicety, and there is not a dull moment from beginning to end of the performance. His songs, "My Scotch Bluebell," "Sound Advice," "The reason why I wear a kilt," &c., have all caught on immensely, and are sung and whistled everywhere. Mr. Dan Crawley as the Widow is another rich humorist, and in song, dance, and funny business he is responsible for many of the heartiest laughs of the night. Miss Bessie Featherstone's Aladdin is a bright and clever performance, full of animation and go, while her songs have also caught the public fancy. Miss Alice Russon is a dainty Princess, with a pretty face asd an engaging manner that have proved quick passports to favour. Miss Birdie Sutherland as the stately So-Hi, Miss Jose Collins as Saucee, Mr. Arthur Dandoe as the Vizier, and Mr. Imro Fox as the wily Magician Abanazar all ably contribute to the general success, and the scenery and dresses, as is usual at the Royal, are the theme of admiration.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Howard and Wyndham's pantomime Little Red Riding Hood continues to draw large audiences. Mr. Malcolm Scott as Dame Trot heads the list of comedians, and shows his absolute originality. His business is all new, and intensely funny. George Le Clerq as Johnny Stout helps greatly towards the general success of the show. Much assistance is given by Messrs. Arthur Rickett as the Squire, Ben Brown as Johnny Green, and Fred Grey as Simple Simon. Miss Margaret Ruby as Boy Blue and Miss Dorothy Monkman as Bo-Peep continue to charm with their graceful acting and pleasant voices. The Red Riding-Hood of little Miss Dorothy Monkman is a very pretty performance. The Eight Snowdrops sing and dance in an artistic manner.

ROYAL PRINCESS.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—The laughable pantomime Simple Simon continues to delight the patrons of this popular house. All the principals are on excellent terms with the audience, but none more so than Miss Lillie Lingard (Robin Adair) and Miss Esta Stella (Phyllis Flounce). The parts of second boy and girl are nicely filled by the Misses Lily and Ethel Hall; the Fairies Love and Hate are gracefully represented by Miss Maud Bettison and Miss Eleanor L'Estrelle respectively; while a clever bit of character acting is seen in the Sally Ann of Miss Annie Thomas. The comic business is never allowed to flag, thanks to Mr. Lawrence Barclay as Simple Simon, Mr. Jack Lorimer as Saunders McRory, Mr. Larry Lewis, as the Mysterious Stranger, Mr. Will Poluski, jun., as Gingernut, and Mr. E. W. Avery as Amenda Evergreen.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Mr. Frederick Melville's company is here with The Ugliest Woman on Earth. Miss Beatrice Homer in the part of the "ugliest woman" again proves herself a capable actress, and commands much attention. Mr. Philip Darien sustains the character of Jack Merriman in a most effective manner; Mr. Leyton Cancellor does well as Hubert Gold, and is ably assisted by Miss Rita Milman as Rose Courteney; Mr. Tubby Edlin makes a highly amusing Tubby Herrick; and Miss Nellie Jackson is well suited as Aggie Brown. Mr. Frank Denis, Miss Margaret Watson, and Mr. Charles Barrett all give good representations of their respective parts.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Mr. Edward Marris's company in The Dandy Doctor provides Govan playgoers with a bright and enjoyable entertainment this week. Mr. Edward Russell appears as Melchizadeck Brown, the "tinned meat" millionaire, and Jane is ably acted by Miss Norah Melton.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. Mussett.—The company here this week includes a novel plastic figure performance, submitted by Terley. A more popular "turn" than that given by Barton and Ashley in Canal Boat Sal one could not wish to see, while the efforts of Florie Gallimore in up-to-date songs are well received. The Finneys give a smart aquatic entertainment, and Barney Vox, ventriloquist, is as good as ever. Chas. Stuart's company appears in an amusing sketch, and the Hans Hansen Trio are clever acrobatic artists. The other members of the company include Greta Malcolm, vocalist, and Princess Pauline, comedienne.

ZOO HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Crowded houses assemble nightly to witness the wrestling feats of Georges Hackenschmidt; Lydia and Albino give a graceful gymnastic performance illuminated with electric light; the Sisters Neilson are lively duettists and dancers; the Coloured Meisters have well-blended voices, and sing a selection of comically harmonised compositions; the Arthur Lloyd Trio give an amusing sketch called Twin Sisters; the Three Amanths are acrobatic dancers who show astonishing flexibility of limb; Fraser and Mac excite hearty laughter; and Kelly and Ashby perform various amusing feats on an elastic billiard table. A good evening's entertainment opens with an overture finely rendered by the orchestra, and closes with the bioscope.

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Getting; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—Richard Sawade's Troupe of Lions, Bears, and Tigers is the outstanding item here, a performance that thrills the audience. Other turns of note include Bros. Leslie, instrumentalists; Payne's Little Vagabonds, comedy sketch; Lecomte and Pender-Cudlip, vocalists; Harry Grey, comedian; Ada Alexandra and company in The Mason; Doran Bros., gymnasts; Viola May, soprano; and the American Bioscope.

PALACE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. R. Waldon and T. Barrasford; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. M'Kelvie.—The Cratons occupy the premier position here with a humorous sketch, Front and Behind, which is responsible for much hearty laughter. The remainder of the programme is capably filled in by Wake and Dean, comedians; Henry Antony, conjurer; Herbert Maden, vocal comedian; Ford and Barris, comedians and dancers; Zeta, Grey, and company, sketch artists; Harry Reynolds's Minstrel Quintette; the Louberts, comedy acrobats; and the animatograph.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Paul Martinetti and company are this week appearing in the lively pantomime sketch entitled The Keyhole. The Musical Johnstons give an enjoyable selection of popular and classical music on the xylophone; Ida Gladstone, after her recent pantomime hit, receives a specially hearty welcome; Bros. Volden give an amusing acrobatic turn; a particularly clever gymnastic display is that of the Jansons; Les Rubens contribute some well-rendered operatic duets; and Bert Lytton and Ernie Williams shine as comedians. The orchestra, under the new conductor, Mr. Howard W. Galpin, shows marked improvement.

QUEEN'S.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. T. J. Colquhoun and B. M. Armstrong.—Crowded houses twice nightly are rallying round Mr. John Tiller's pantomime, Red Riding Hood. Miss May Merry, who proved so popular at the Royalty a year ago, makes a charming Red Riding Hood, and sings and dances with considerable charm. Miss Bessie Cohen is a brisk and breezy Prince Charming. The comedians, Messrs. Harry Morgan, Howard Ward, Harry Elliston, and Teddy Gibbs, keep the fun going admirably, and, as in all Tiller productions, the dancing of the girls is a noteworthy feature.

GLOSSOP.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Mr. J. W. Turner's English Opera Company is here this week. On Monday evening The Daughter of the Regiment attracted an excellent audience. Great interest was centred in Mr. Sidney Clifford (a native of Glossop) as Sergeant Sulpice, his acting and singing being excellent. Mr. Charles Le Seur as Toni was heard to advantage, Mr. Richard Cummings as Hortensia made the most of the character, and Mr. George Ridding as Corporal was praiseworthy. Miss Winifred Knightley shone conspicuously as the Countess; and Miss Maud Esdale did excellent service as Suzette. Miss Kitty Brownless's impersonation of Marie was convincing, her acting and singing being of a high order. The band and chorus were satisfactory under the bâton of Mr. T. Lawton. Martana, The Bohemian Girl, Lily of Killarney, and Faust have also been successfully presented.

GLOUCESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Miss Hettie Jeffries and company are here this week in the favourite military comedy drama, The Curate. In the rôle of Dick, the trumpeter, Miss Hettie Jeffries at once gains favour; Miss Isabel Norman is sympathetic as the much-wronged Mabel Verner; Miss Winifred Stuart as the Russian adventuress, Katinka Vodsky, is convincing; and Miss Agnese D'Aragon is very good as Mrs. Muggs. Mr. Arthur Mervyn as the Rev. John Audley (the Curate) is responsible for a quiet, yet forcible, rendering of his part; Gilbert Westwood has a powerful exponent in Mr. Whitmore Ledger; Mr. Frank Stuart looks and acts the blustering Sergeant Snipe; and Mr. Clifford Spencer fills the house with merriment in the part of Simon Peter Muggs.

GOOLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. John E. Tomlinson.—A large and appreciative audience gave a cordial welcome on Monday to Mr. Walter Thurleston and company in the drama The Ring that Binds. Gerald Hazelton finds an able exponent in Mr. W. Roberts; Mr. H. N. Grimson, as the villainous Mortimer Despard, is powerful in his assumption; Mr. T. A. Ellis gives a forcible reading of Tom Rogers; Mr. R. C. Carsdale as Colonel Beverley, and Mr. W. Thurlestone as David Rogers, submit excellent representations. Mr. A. Beaufort delights the audience with his extremely humorous portrayal of Balshazzar Pitt; Miss Florrie Hayes is a pretty and captivating Nellie Summers; Miss Ivy Alberto is to be complimented on her powerful portrayal of Mona Beverley; Miss M. Leslie Cudd plays the trying rôle of Surana with excellent effect; and Little H. Hood is highly successful as Jack Beverley.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—An excellent represenation of The Golden Ladder is being given here this week by Miss Mary Austin and E. Vivian Edmond's company. Mr. Harry Cullenford is natural and effective as the Rev. Frank Thornhill; Mr. J. Milne Taylor depicts with distinct success the villainous Michael Severn; Samuel Peckaby is humorously represented by Mr. Joseph Rowlands; Mr. Graham Winsford is admirable as M. Peranza; and Mr. Henry Belford is capital as Jim Dixon. Lilian Grant is sympathetically played by Miss Eva Moss; Miss Nellie Graham is very successful as Mrs. Peckaby; and Lily is prettily enacted by Miss Holly Haslewood. Other members of a long cast render adequate support.

GREENOCK.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Mr. E. Lockwood's company is delighting large audiences here this week with Sergeant Brue. Mr. Charles McLagan as the irrepressible Crookie Scrubbs is responsible for much laughter, his performance teeming with refreshing and original drolleries. Mr. Paddy Dupres in the name-part scores a big success, his versatile and humorous acting winning enthusiastic applause. The part of Michael Brue is admirably filled by Mr. E. Percy Rodgers; and Mr. Crank is smartly played by Mr. Henry Chichester. Miss Lilian Middleton is attractive in her embodiment of Aurora Brue; and Miss Eliza Earle makes a clever Daisy. Miss Midge Clark, an actress well known to local audiences, takes the part of Lady Bickenhall, and scores a complete success by her fine acting and singing. A small part, well played, is that of Inspector Gorringe by Mr. C. Griffin. The work of the chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Norman Latham, is particularly good.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Nellie Coleman, lady comedian, heads the bill here, and her performance is very good. Other members of a talented company are Keen and Waller, acrobatic comedians; Santeron, jumping expert; T. W. Royal, comedian and clog dancer; Stentora, lady baritone; Dome, clay modeller; Lade Henderson, vocalist; and the Lulaine Darrell Trio of Roman ring artists. An interesting exhibition of pictures is given by the cinematograph.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, The Palace Theatre (Greenock) Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr Alfred Selwyn; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Slingsby.—An excellent turn is provided here by Miss Diana Hope, Monte Bayley, and company, in a drama entitled Her Good Name. Other good items are Charles Morritt, a clever magician; Collins and Rice, speciality artists; Zasma, society gymnast; Squire Brown, vocalist; Kate Lynd, vocalist and dancer; Charley Dixon, comedian and dancer; and Eric Graham, character comedian.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Large crowds have again attended the theatre during the second week of the run of the pantomime Dick Whittington. The main feature of the show is the comedy, many capital burlesques of topical subjects being introduced. The prime mover in the fun is Mr. Tom Foy as Idle Jack, and he is well supported by Mr. Bert Byrne as the Dame, Mr. Jack Foy as the Skipper, and Mr. Will Musgrave as the Mate. Miss Nellie Sheffield has also contributed some very amusing business in the character of the dusky Empress. The principal boy and girl are charmingly represented by Miss Hetty Zillwood and Miss Clara Reid. Many pretty spectacles are staged, the final scene being especially worthy of note. One of the most popular items is the acrobatic performance of the Matweef Hugoston Troupe, whose feats are of a distinctly novel type.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—J. W. Hall has fairly won the approval of the Tivoli audiences this week. His songs are good, but it is his patter which has particularly pleased his hearers. The Cumberlands, whilst mounted on bicycles, accomplish most of the feats of tumbling which many performers do on the stage. One member of the troupe rides round the stage whilst supporting a comrade on his shoulders, and holding another, seated on a cycle, at arm's length. The Bouncing Dillons give an exhibition of somersaulting on a spring table, and the efforts of novices to imitate them have caused much laughter. Mike Cray, a comedy juggler, and his intelligent dog, have also been responsible for much merriment. The Sisters Kaufman's scena, Fun in Holland, is very popular, the dancing being greatly admired. Others appearing are the Two Romers, vocalists; Winnie Scott, vocalist and dancer; and Charlie Jerome, vocalist.

THE PALACE.—Managing Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—A very interesting miniature drama is When Rogues Fall Out, which has headed the programme here this week. Daring feats have been accomplished by the Belmont Troupe, who ride bicycles and motor-cycles on a miniature track. Another interesting cycle turn is given by the Electrones, who introduce a good deal of comedy. The Brothers Franch have proved smart acrobats, their feat in sliding along a narrow table being especially remarkable. Another sketch, The Missing Will, given by Golden and Grey, is an interesting item. Fred Erick, comedian; Lillie Currie, vocalist; and Arthur Holland, vocal comedian, are also in the bill.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Managers, Messrs. Barnard; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Pease; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Baker.—The programme this week is largely of a comedy character. Walter King causes much amusement with his quaint style and sayings; and others giving laughable turns are Hans and Lux, knockabout comedians; Vere and Royal, comedy artists; Flo St. Roy, comedienne; Amy Elcock, comedienne; Ward and Wylie, who appear in a burlesque; and the Delmars, who contribute a good laughing song. The Davenports perform several puzzling illusions, and animated pictures complete the programme.

GUERNSEY.—ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robt. Perkins.—On Jan. 26 the favourite society play The Walls of Jericho was presented by Messrs. Dauncey and Leveaux's company. The piece fairly "caught on," and it was acknowledged to be the finest play that has been seen here this season. Mr. Herbert Bunston held the audience intensely interested by his excellent conception of Jack; Mr. L. Hanray submitted a clever sketch of the Marquis; Mr. George A. Brandram gave an impressive and effective delineation of Hankey; Miss Florence Jackson won the admiration of all by her fine rendering of Lady Alethea; Miss Molly Carton was engaging as Lucy; Miss Nora Greenlaw played with earnestness as Lady Westerly; and Miss Edith Cuthbert displayed artistic spirit as Miss Mornington.

GUILDFORD.—BOROUGH HALL.—Mr. John A. Thomson paid a welcome visit here on Monday and Tuesday with Dick Whittington, under the local direction of Mr. G. W. Bowes. Miss Ida Kessanly was a sprightly Dick; Miss E. Willmer was vivacious and dainty as Alice Fitzwarren; Mr. Ross Warren was highly successful as Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr. Edwin Doods made a humorous Idle Jack; Mr. Harry Harcourt caused much laughter as the Cook, as did Mr. F. Anderson as Pimple. The pantomime was well mounted and dressed, and some clever specialities were introduced by Mdlle. Florence, the Morrellis, Miss Ella Rose, and the Vanetta troupe of dancers. On Wednesday Miss Inez Howard's company, under the direction of Mr. Henry Chattell, gave a performance of Revenge.

HALIFAX.—PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—A delightful turn is provided here this week by Miss Marie Kendall, who requires no introduction to a Halifax audience. Her songs are as pleasing and as well rendered as of old. The Andos, in their marvellous feats, evoke astonishment; Casselli and James are banjo artists of undoubted merit; Albert Whelan is a popular Australian comedian; Marie Gibson is a pleasing soprano; and Eileen Gomez, and Steve McCarthy, a typical vocalist and dancer, also appear.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Another most enjoyable vaudevillo entertainment is submitted here this week. It includes Chanti, whose remarkable conception of the dances and sports of various nationalities are artistic and unexaggerated; Zarmah, with his grotesque statuary; Arthur Kenny, in daring trick cycling feats; F. S. Hulme, refined character vocalist; Mozetto, the youthful juggler; the Vekeys, marvellous banjoists; the Lovelaces, song illustrators; Conway and Garland, premier comedy artists; and the Doran Bros., acrobatic eccentrics, are also in the bill.

THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—This week, Mr. Chas. Frohman is presenting here for the first time Leah Kleschna. The character of Leah is firmly drawn by Miss Pilas Morin, whose portrayal of the rôle is passionate and striking; Mr. Langhorne Burton is well placed as Paul Sylvanie; and Mr. Thomas Sydney is interesting as Kleschna.

HANLEY.—ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Chas. Howard.—A capital house welcomed the return visit of Mr. H. Armitage and Mr. Arthur Leigh's company, in the late Wilson Barrett's clever play, Lucky Durham. Mr. Edmund Kennedy is seen as John Durham, and his impersonation of the character is vividly effective and truly artistic. Mr. Arthur Leigh's Hon. Reginald is a fine performance; Miss Gertrude Robins as Helen Vallerton acts with much skill and womanly feeling; Miss Louise Gourlay, as the mother of John Durham, contributes a touching and artistic rendering; Lady Mountfallon is admirably depicted by Miss Frances Wolviston; Miss Florence Dulhunty is a charming and vivacious Hon. Margaret; Mr. Benson North is well placed as Lord Mountfallon; Mr. Vallerton is capably portrayed by Mr. A. E. Walker; Mr. Arthur Walcombe does well as Campbell Goldsmid; Ben Vernstein is cleverly enacted by Mr. W. F. Clitheron; and Mr. John Hart, Mr. Sydney Bancroft, Mr. Chas. Phipps, Mr. Geo. Lake, Mr. Eric Wynne, Mr. Bert Gunter, Miss Violet Thorold, and Miss Kate Evelyn, are all seen to advantage.

GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—The Three Merrills, in a comedy cycle act, are both amusing and clever; Marzella's birds have been admirably trained, and contribute an interesting and intelligent performance; Boswell's stage circus is very diverting; the Cadwaladr Operatic Company present a pretty sketch, in which their vocal efforts are much applauded; Raie Walters is a vivacious comedienne, who proves successful; Gallagher and Hild are seen in a capital turn; the Sisters Clive dance and sing in a capable manner; and the pictures are, as usual, excellent.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock.—Mr. Leslie Norman's company, in A Trip to Chinatown, opened here on Monday for a three nights' engagement. Miss Hettie Gale was fascinating and graceful as Mrs. Guyer. On Thursday, Mr. John Gerant paid a return visit with At Duty's Call.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—The Savonas are retained at the head of the bill for a second week, and, with a change of programme, are delighting crowded audiences. Their coon melody, "Down South," is received nightly with a perfect furore of applause. Another strong attraction on the programme is the Original Street Singer, a young woman whose voice for some days past has been heard in the Hartlepool streets, and whose contralto voice, of exceptional range and purity, is gaining for her eulogium from all. Mr. Burns intends to give her a good start, and has even gone so far as to offer a prize to the member of the audience who suggests the best stage name for her adoption. A turn that is as original as it is clever is The Demon Chef; or, The Cook's Dream of Christmas, presented by Picette and Lizette. The Bollingers, with their rag pictures, are unique; the suppleness and dexterity of Senorita Eloina, a graceful Spanish gymnast, calls for much praise; an amusing ventriloquial turn is provided by Bert Williams; Nellie Williams excels in dancing; and an interesting series of pictures is shown on the bioscope. The Savonas are also on the programme as the Six Cycling Elliotts for two nights during the week.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—Mr. Brandon Thomas, supported by an excellent company, is appearing in his famous comedy, Charley's Aunt. The author gave a very fine performance as Colonel Sir Francis Chesney; and the idiosyncracies of the respective characters in the play were admirably presented, notably the cunningly avaricious old solicitor, Spettigue, by Mr. Walter Beaumont; the complacent Lord Fancourt Babberley, by Mr. Stanley Cooke; and the well-bred daring of the other undergrads. Jack and Charley, by Mr. Hastings Lynn and Mr. Richard B. Mason; and the refined nonchalance of Donna Lucia, by Miss Lena MacNaughton, all combined to make a performance that was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. The amusing one-act play of Fourchette and Co. preceded, and was very well acted by Mr. Arthur Chesney as Count Monte, otherwise the Prince del Crillo, supported by Mr. C. B. Keston as Sergeant-Major Fletcher, Miss Ruth Suffield as Isabel, and Mr. George Ellis as Doorsman.

PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter. — Mr. Charles W. Poole's Royal Myriorama is delighting good audiences this week. The scenes exhibited are very effective, including Jerusalem with the Holy Sepulchre, Egypt and the Pyramids, India, and Australia. Miss Daisy Graham and Miss Kitty Woodford, with their trained dogs and pigeons, and the Avondale Quartette, whose vocal melody is very pleasing, make an agreeable addition to the pictorial part of the entertainment.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred C. Ewing.—A good company is here this week, including Mr. Sam Lee, a capital comedian; Natalie and Dianna are clever young girls on the trapeze; as a male impersonator Miss Edna Payne excels; a laughable sketch, entitled The Ladies' School, is introduced by the Cullane Trio; Mr. George Edney, character vocalist, is cordially received; Grey and Welford are excellent speciality dancers; an attractive comedienne is found in Miss Nell Richardson; Dick Kendal, comedian, is well appreciated; the acrobatic feats of the Pasqualia Brothers are smart and clever; and the pictures are quite new and interesting.

ST. LEONARDS KURSAAL.—Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Val Marriott's orchestral concerts are augmented this week by the tenor vocalist, Mr. Arthur L. Edwards, and a special concert on Wednesday, in which Madame Blanche Marchesi is associated in the programme. The sacred concerts on Sunday prove an attractive feature.

HAWICK.—NEW THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Payne Seddon; Lessees, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and Gordon Starkey.—After an absence of about two years the Mowbray company again occupies this theatre, in the highly entertaining pantomime entitled Dick Whittington. Miss Kathleen Emmett makes a smart and handsome Dick, and the part of Alice is delightfully played by Miss Violet Motley. Mr. Fred Ward as Idle Jack is all that could be desired, and with the help of Mr. Fred Collins as Mary Ellen keeps the audience in roars of laughter. Mr. Claude Morton as the Alderman and Mr. J. Randle Wilson as Sultan Boosican are well placed. Mr. Harry Cardoc is an agile Cat. A feature of the entertainment is a coon song and dance given by the Two Flowers. The Gaiety Troupe are also loudly applauded for their dancing.

HEBBURN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. G. H. Austin; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Graham.—Mr. John F. Preston's company, under the direction of Mr. Sidney Dench, is here with The Rich and the Poor of London. May Braithwaite is successfully undertaken by Miss Dora Dench; Polly Philpot is cleverly embodied by Miss Lillian Burns; and Miss Ethel Denville makes the most of Seadrift. Spider Jack is excellently rendered by Mr. Sidney Dench; Mr. Robert Hall gives a manly performance as Dr. Leonard Morton; Mr. F. Danner capably portrays the part of Earl Ravenswood; and Mr. Walter Foster is well placed as Mark Stanley. Matthew Grabbam is effectively acted by Mr. Malcolm Gascoign; while Master Bert Dench scores as Dixie, his singing being much appreciated

HORWICH. — NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. C. M. Neville; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben Hawke; Secretary, Mr. Chas. E. Bradley.—Cinderella gives place this week to Mr. Lingford Carson's company in A Modern Adventuress, which is thoroughly to the taste of the audience. Miss Kate Froude's Violet Meredith (the adventuress) is an artistic rendering; Miss Alice Defoe gives a sympathetic portrayal of Vivette Delby; Miss Ivy Chandos as Sally Hodges creates roars of laughter; Leonard Aardale as Pietro Donelli, sculptor, plays the part in a masterly fashion; Frank Orchard as Steve Meredith gives a very fine impersonation; Leonard Montgomery presents Mr. Jno. Crompton in a manner thoroughly typical of a Yorkshireman, and creates great amusement; Mr. Frank Wilton plays Wm. Delby, banker, in a business-like fashion; Mr. Louis Edmonds as Harry Delby, the dupe of the adventuress, makes the most of a very intricate part; Mr. Sydney Grant as Wallace Dalton and Stanley F. Champion as Walter Beal, detective, have plenty to do, and do it well; and Messrs. Tom Avery, H. M. Victor, G. Hampton, and F. C. Sutcliffe complete a good cast.

HOYLAND. — METROPOLE THEATRE. — Owners, Carlton Theatres, Ltd.; Lessee and Manager, Mr. Geo. S. King.—Miss Ethel Clayton's pantomime company opened on Monday night in Babes in the Wood. Miss Le Roy as Robin Hood and Miss Ethel Clayton as Maid Marion are excellent. Miss Lily Belle and Master Austyn as the Babes are good, and sing very nicely. The Misses Ruby Dale, Gertrude Bingham, Edith Horsley, and Jessie Lindsey, as Allan-a-Dale, Little John, Will Scarlet, and Helen respectively, with Miss Kate Travis as the Fairy Fancy and Mr. Percy Victor as the Demon Darkness are well received. The humorous element is well represented by Messrs. Carl Bernardo and Fred Fosco as Weary Willie and Tired Tim. Messrs. Will Thorne and Alf Dellas as Flip and Flop (the Baron's servants), Mr. Harry Sully as the Baron, Mr. Bert Rizoni as Berlinda, and Mr. Charles Clayton as Chirrup (the Page). The speciality acts of Mons. Vulo, chapeaugraphist; the Valmores, mace spinners and sand dancers; the Ruby Quartette of lady dancers; Bernardo and Travelli, and Percy Victor's dog orchestra all help to make an excellent show.

HUDDERSFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy G. Arthur.—Mr. Milton Bode's pantomime of Robinson Crusoe, which is here for the week, is a distinctly merry, wholesome, and pretty production. Miss Maisie Ellinger looks well as Robinson; Miss Veronica Brady's dancing is a real treat to witness, and her singing matches. Miss Cassie Walmer has a fine voice, most effectively used, and her sand dance is a masterpiece of skill. The comedians are a thoroughly capable band, and while keeping the fun going, never get out of the picture. Mr. Tom Owen is to be congratulated on his Mrs. Crusoe. He has realised that well-used brains yield better results than stocking shows. Messrs. Downes and Langford as Salt and Pepper make every point tell, and their smart patter is distinctly original. Larola, who plays Friday, has a tremendous lot of work, which he goes through with a joyous energy quite refreshing; his agility is wonderful. All the latest songs are included, and with a smart chorus, gorgeous dresses, and attractive scenery complete a pantomime reflecting credit on all concerned.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson. —The chief place in the bill is filled by a selection from Act I. of Gounod's Faust, rendered with telling effect by Mr. Lempriere Pringle as Mephistopheles and Mr. Scott Russell as Faust. Other turns are given by Fred Wilkinson, illusionist; the Albano Troupe, a quartette of exceptionally clever musicians; the Pollos, in their grotesque and clever acrobatic show; Jimmy Shields, comedian and dancer; Miss Eily Adair, comedienne; the McConnel Trio of vocalists and comedians, in A Musical Mistake; Slingsby, ventriloquist, and pictures on the biograph.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Norman Macowan's company opened here on Monday with the interesting play, Monsieur Beaucaire. Mr. Macowan sustains with fine effect the title-rôle, in which he scores an unqualified success, his acting, which reaches a very high degree of excellence being the principal feature of the play. Miss Violet Sterne's graceful and charming rendering of Lady Mary Carlisle is also a performance which merits great praise. Mr. Murray Hathorn ably impersonates the Duke of Winterset, and Mr. Arthur Somers as Major Molyneaux gives a very creditable representation. Mr. Leonard Laurence as the leader of fashion, Beau Nash, fills the part with considerable dignity, and Mr. G. Ramsey Forman as Captain Badger is also well cast. The dainty costumes and charming scenery are much admired. On Tuesday and Thursday evenings A Soldier of Fortune was given.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Messrs. C. and F. Renad's company is presenting here the still popular pantomimical comedy, The Swiss Express. The Brothers Renad, who figure as Dr. Gull's eccentric servants, display considerable ability, being exceptionally smart and funny, and provide a fund of amusement which evokes much applause. Mr. Herbert Lewis is excellent as Dr. Gull, and Miss Jessica Ford is pleasing as the bride. Mr. George Martin as Rob Rollingstone and Mr. Alec Finlayson as Dudley Green are successful, and create much merriment. The Edene Quartette of Vocalists and Dancers are clever, and add to the success of the entertainment.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietors, Morton's, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. George Morton.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company is here this week in the thrilling drama, In Holy (?) Russia. Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy gives a talented portrayal of Renee Rubinoff, the heroine. Mr. Cassidy does good work as Colonel Richard Forrest. In the rôle of Laurice Steragoff Mr. Carl Rovinelli acts with force and energy. Miss Ada Roscoe presents in a powerful manner the part of Catska Lavotski. Mr. Stephen Crossley ably depicts the Russian Chief of Police. Mr. T. C. Warry as Count Petrolski is also well suited, and Mr. Frank Copeland sustains the part of the British Ambassador in a sufficiently dignified manner. Mr. Joe Cuthbertson gives an amusing performance as Micky Nolan, the Irish servant.

THE PALACE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. John S. Barnett.—Staley's Novelty Transformation is an attractive turn here. Sam Redfern's funniosities create much mirth; W. H. Clemart upholds his position as one of our cleverest ventriloquists; and other turns include A-Bo-Kou (a capital juggler), Fred Elton, the Royal Six, and the Empire Comedy Four.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham. —The principal turn is Bonnie Goodwin and her Clever Piccaninnies. An admirable sketch is presented by Fred Sinclair and Grace Whiteford. Other turns include Friscari, Kempton and Murdoch, Geo. Penn, Fred Land, and Mons. Slippere.

THE BIJOU.—Lessee, Mr. T. N. Turner; Manager, Mr. Fred Thorne.—Pedlar Palmer is displaying his great boxing abilities, his opponent being Harry Cohen, the 7st. champion of Yorkshire. Baroux and Bion, Haig and Novel, Little Don, J. H. Crew, Maud Marlowe, Tom Gilbert, and Ned Graydon complete the bill.

HYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder.—Messrs. C. M. Polini and Austin Melford's Silver King company is once more entertaining large and appreciative audiences here. Mr. Herbert Bord's telling and convincing portrayal of the rôle of Wilfred Denver makes him a warm favourite, and Mr. Edward J. George as the faithful retainer, Daniel Jaikes, submits an intelligent study. As the Spider Mr. Algernon J. Hicks earns the execrations of the "gods," and his companions in villainy, Elijah Coombe and Cripps, are skilfully portrayed by Messrs. Arthur Wright and W. Thompson. Mr. James L. Power is an amusing Henry Corket. Miss Daisy Scudamore wins all hearts by her highly finished impersonation of Nellie Denver, and Miss Georgiana Wynter as Olive Skinner acts most praiseworthily.

ILKESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Mr. Charles March and his company are playing The Gamester of Metz. Most of the work falls to Mr. March himself as Paul Baldot, and he does it in good style, his quick changes being very good. Miss Una Lane plays suitably as Lucia Baldot; and Miss Eva Lyndhurst deserves creditable mention as Countess Baldot. The rôles of General de Monparasse and Louis Badaire are well filled by Messrs. Fred Aldworth and W. G. Dudeney. Mr. Wilfred Prothero (Ferdinand du Basson). and Mr. Victor Knight (Goliath Grou) are an amusing pair. The evil genius, Captain Badaire, is represented by Mr. Edward Avinal.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Knightall.—Dickinson and Johnson, ornamental swimmers, and Fred Evered, lady impersonator, are retained from last week. Deller and Oxford impart pleasure as duettists and patterers; the Bransbys, comedy artists, give a praiseworthy entertainment; Alice Oxford, comedienne and dancer; Harry Conroy, descriptive vocalist; Leslie Digby, comedian; and Jim Deller, comedian and dancer, provide the remaining amusement.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Jennings.—What the Butler Saw was played here for the first three nights of the week by Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche's company. Mr. Rignold, an old Ipswich favourite, was well suited in the part of Pink, the inquisitive butler; Miss Blanche was also seen to great advantage as Mrs. Barrington; Jack Barrington found a capital representative in Mr. Charles Fawcett, whose breezy style was suited to the character; Mr. Reddick Anderson scored as proprietor of the Hydro; and Mr. George Ascot as the fiery General, and Mr. H. H. Rignold lent effective assistance. Miss Marie D'Altra was an admirable Grace Richardson; while other ladies deserving mention were Mesdames May Hart and Maud Evelyn.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Among the chief turns here is Les Frasettis, a pair of accomplished musicians, whose playing on various instruments evokes much applause. Nat Clifford has met with a good reception for his amusing songs; while another vocalist, Mr. Will McIvor, also scores. A pair of acrobats named Adams and Ward accomplish some clever feats; and the Three Sisters Anderson are neat and skilful equilibrists. The Paolis submit some classical poses, illustrative of physical culture; and Alice Rose, as a comedienne and dancer, gains considerable applause. A novel turn is that of Mr. de Voyse's horse "Billy," a docile and clever animal.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. G. Jefferson.—This week Mr. Edward Marris and company is here with Dick Whittington. Unfortunately, most of their scenery and dresses were destroyed by fire on the journey between Manchester and Jarrow; but, owing to the kindness of the managers of the North and South Shields theatres, and also Newcastle, they opened. Miss Madge Merry, in the title-rôle, is excellent, her singing being highly appreciated; Miss Winifred Preece as Alice is quite a favourite; and Mr. Walter Wade as Idle Jack causes no end of amusement. Mr. Wm. Kashma is very good as the Cat; Mr. W. H. Ball makes the most of the part of Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr. Walter Nugent as Julia causes much merriment; Mr. C. Kashma does full justice to the part of Captain Kettle; and Mr. George Harris is quite at home as the Emperor. Some excellent specialities are introduced by Les Sprays, Continental dancers; the Kashmas; the Thalian Glee Singers; the Sisters Vincent, coon singers and dancers; and Miss Effie White, in her fire, rainbow, and other dances.

KEIGHLEY.—QUEEN'S THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall. —Mr. W. W. Kelly's company, in The Royal Divorce, is on a return visit here. The play continues to attract large audiences. Miss Lillian Dundas is an excellent exponent of Josephine; and Mr. Frederick Moyes acts in his well-known and highly-appreciated manner as Napoleon.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessees, J. Bannister Howard's Co., Ltd.; Business-Manager, Herr B. Pareezer.—The sensational drama, The 10.30. Down Express, has been played here this week by Mr. Horace Stanley and company. Mr. George Arthur makes a sinister villain as James Inderwick; and Mr. Horace Stanley as the blithe "A. B.," Sam Wagstaffe, is very funny. Mr. Chas. Burdon is a manly Jack O'Malley; and Mr. Claud Haviland is smart as the detective, Huntley Mason. Miss Elsie Capell is very good as Bessie Leigh; and the Letitia Leigh of Miss Evelyn M. Walton is amusing.

KIRKCALDY.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Rex Sugden.—Messrs. Little and Darcy's company is here in Robinson Crusoe. A more dashing principal boy than Miss Marion Armitage could scarcely be wished for; Miss Nellie Moore as Polly gives good support and sings sweetly; Mr. Allan Hanbury is an excellent Dame Crusoe, and as Will Atkins Mr. Willie Black is a decided success. Messrs. Bass and Guinness are amusing as Billie and Jimmy; Miss Cissie Conyers is an acceptable Captain Taylor, and the duets with Miss Bertha St. Ruth as the Princess are worthy of special mention; Mr. Sidney T. Russell is good as Friday. Successful specialities are by the Snow Family, expert skaters; Messrs. Johnston and Russell, sand dancers; Geo. French's Troupe, comedy cyclists; and the Sidney Quartette, dancers.

LANCASTER. — ATHENÆUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hy. Wilkinson.—Mr. E. Lockwood's Sergeant Brue company, under the direction of Mr. Thomas McKenzie, is the attraction this week. The scenery and dresses, together with a strong all-round company, leave nothing to be desired. In the title-rôle, Mr. J. Harold Carson is very droll; Mr. Frank Wilson sings well as Michael Brue; Miss Gertie Fawcett is successful as Aurora Brue; and as Daisy Miss Amy Vivash, who is no stranger to Lancastrians, gives a clever and amusing portrayal. Miss Reydon Dallas as Lady Bickenhall appears with success, her singing being a special feature; and the part of Crookie Scrubbs is cleverly depicted by Mr. Albert James.

PALACE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. Porter and W. J. Fergusson.—At the head of the programme arranged this week are Elton and Edwin, banjoists, a smart turn; Carl Lynn is justly described as king of animal mimics; the Sisters Marion, juvenile duettists, win applause; and the Mozondos, in a jumping and tumbling act, have a great reception. Messrs. Hilton and Hilton, bar performers; T. E. Johnstone, actor vocalist; Miss Helen Charles, drawing-room entertainer; and Horace Monto, speciality artist, all have a capital reception.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The attraction this week is a return visit of the successful melodrama The Manxman, which is played with ability by a strong company, at whose head is that sterling interpreter of the part of Pete, Mr. Alfred B. Cross. His efforts are well seconded by Miss Minnie Watersford, who gives a powerful study of Kate Creegen. Mr. A. D. Leyland as the arch-hypocrite, Cæsar; Mr. Sydney C. Kearns, a manly Phillip Christian; and Miss Nancy Mitchell as the faithful servant all do well.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—Another week of success is to be recorded for Babes in the Wood. New numbers and novelties are continually added, and the show goes on increasing in popularity.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston. —Jack and Jill is amply fulfilling the early promise of a prosperous career. Miss Marguerite Broadfoote and Miss Lily Black continue to delight their admirers in numerous vocal successes; whilst the comedians, notably Mr. Bob Selvidge and Mr. Harry Conlin, are full of resource, and the whole show goes with that rhythm and spontaneity which is the hall-mark of all Mr. John Tiller's productions.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—Mr. Peter Eland's pantomime Cinderella is finishing a prosperous three weeks' run here, and the popularity of the piece is in no way diminished. Miss Hilda Guiver, Miss Nora Emerald, and Miss Aimée Roberts have all endeared themselves favourites with bright and fascinating portrayals of their respective rôles; and the fun-providers, ably led by Mr. Morny Cash, the New Macs, Mr. T. Hybert, and Mr. F. Beck, have allowed no dull moments to occur.

EMPIRE.—Moss's Empires, Ltd.—District-Manager, Mr. T. G. Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—Miss Florence St. John is perhaps first favourite in a strong Empire bill, the presentation of her delightful sketch My Milliner's Bill being thoroughly enjoyed. Another popular line is the very novel musical act submitted by Vasco; and Seeley and West also shine with a clever musical comedy turn. The Three Missouris are doing their well-known acrobatic show with the usual success; Mazzetti and Mora and Alexandre and Birtie are also to the fore with much expert gymnastic business. Bert Woodward finds favour with a novel trick-cycling act; Brooks, Dale, and Blitz introduce their performing mule in an amusing speciality; and Amber Austa, with pleasing song and dance; Will Haines, comedian; and the Three Victorias find favourable acceptance.

TIVOLI. — Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; General-Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—The Orange Girl, an enjoyable three-act sketch depicting an episode of the time of the famous Nell Gwynne, is cleverly played by Miss Dolly Elsworthy and company. An entertaining turn is that submitted by Walton and Miss Ella, who have a troupe of intelligent and well-trained performing dogs; Bliss and Bliss, comedians, are very smart with new songs and patter; and Tom Yorke, comedian, also scores a big hit. The Juggling Geraldos are warmly applauded for their expert feats; and Mabel La Blanche, a pleasing comedienne, also secures favour.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—That bright and attractive vocalist Ella Shields is the star here, and her success is unprecedented, numerous recalls following every appearance. A fine gymnastic performence by the Wilfords arouses much enthusiasm; speciality dancing by the Lannons is again an enjoyable feature; Prof. Hulbert provides a novel ventriloquial entertainment; and Bob Hamilton, comedian; Mons. de Lil, illusionist; Jack Crawley, mimic; and Cora Grey, burlesque actress, are leading features of a good programme.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. M. Slater.—Mr. Walter Reynolds's new and delightful play, Mr. Smith, is the attraction here this week. In the title-rôle Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart is to be complimented on a portrayal of exceptional merit; Miss Ethel Milton is attractive and clever as Lady Mary Hildergate; Mrs. Alfred Davis is very good as Mrs. Smith; Miss Mary Relph shines as the Duchess of Angleland; and others who also give excellent portrayals are Mr. Sydney Price as the Earl of Oxted, Mr. William Dunlop as the Duke of Angleland, Miss Phyllis Relph as Ruth Anheuser, Mr. Austin Spencer as Jack Berkeley, and Mr. Herbert Graham as Herr Diedrich Anheuser.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General-Manager, Mr. George M. Slater; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. C. Candler.—Mr. James Kiddie's pantomime, Dick Whittington, opened a fortnight's engagement here on Monday evening. Miss Bessie Willow, who has a good stage appearance, plays Dick to perfection, and sings her songs in dashing style. Miss Maggie Summerson is a dainty and charming Alice; Miss Florence Hilton, a male impersonator far above the average, is a vivacious Sir Algernon de Mash; Mr. Will Summerson does well as Idle Jack; Mr. Cyril Dundas is effective as Alderman Apoplectic Fitzwarren; Messrs. Clifton and Gibson as Silly Peter and Lazy Larry, and Mr. Charles Dillon as Amelia Florence, succeed in keeping the audience in the merriest of moods. Mr. W. V. Vido gives a clever impersonation of the Cat; and Mr. Archie J. Milne as the Emperor is good. Miss Isabel Taylor looks well as Captain Navycutte; Miss Florrie Crompton is capital as the Princess Mhordee Gzah. Numerous specialities are introduced, Curtis and Vanity scoring a big and well-deserved success in their cake-walk and other items; and the Saxon Trio of dancers are cordially received for their pretty fairy ballet. The Sisters Kilner give some charming dances; and Vido, the cat, also goes through some clever work. The company is under the directorship of Mr. Herbert Newton; and Mr. Forshaw Kershaw is the musical director.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leonard Vidal.—At the head of an enjoyable programme here this week is Tom Costello, a big favourite with Leicester audiences, who is meeting with his usual well-deserved success. At the other end are Morton and Elliott, harmonica players, vocalists, and remarkably clever paper manipulators, whose enjoyable turn is heartily appreciated. The Sisters Geretti are seen to great advantage in a smart and graceful trapeze performance; Paul Powell's electrical marionettes, in elaborate acts, are well worked, and delight the house hugely; the Two Bostons, the novelty showmen, score their usual success; Mdlle. Chalon gives a remarkably clever and graceful equilibristic act; Mattie Wilks, a Creole vocalist, renders her songs in good style; Phil Herman is a capital descriptive vocalist; Derenda and Green, comedy jugglers, are good. Owing to indisposition, F. V. St. Clair is unfortunately unable to appear; but the management have secured two capital deputies in Frank Darwin, characteristic vocalist; and Gertrude Bradshaw, ballad vocalist.

PAVILION THEATRE. — Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—Fred Southern and company entered on the second week of a record engagement here on Monday, and are making their usual big success with the sketches, A Waif of the Sea and The Private Hotel. Ainslie Burton, fresh from his triumphs as Dame Crusoe in the pantomime, is fulfilling a special engagement; Walter H. Pallister's American Bioscope continues to delight all with the usual well-selected series of pictures. Others contributing to the programme are the Sisters Desmond, duettists; Percy Hannan, the young American baritone; and Queenie May, the juvenile wonder.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Dewhurst.—Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's Co. is paying a welcome return visit with The Village Blacksmith. Mr. Sam Livesey's fine physique and bearing suit the title-rôle admirably; Mr. Joseph Carter acts with considerable skill as the unscrupulous Captain Leo; Jeremiah Parkins is well sustained by Mr. T. E. Marshall; Mr. George V. Campbell makes a good impression by his representation of Billy Twigg, the village lout; Sal Parkins finds a good exponent in Mrs. T. C. Livesey; Miss Laura Hansen submits a fine and sympathetic exposition of the blacksmith's wife; Miss Cassie Edwards is decidedly interesting as Ruth Parkins; and Miss Bertha Hanbury comes in for a large share of appreciation as Harry Strong. The whistling scene in the last act keeps the excitement up to a high pitch.

OHMY'S CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr. King Ohmy; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Prince.—Celest heads the bill here this week, and gives a wonderful performance on the slack wire. Miss Mamie Cannon plays some nice selections on the piano; Misses Ada and Lilly, in a double riding act, are most successful; Zilvo, on the trapeze, and Rabbit, in a riding act, are well received; the comic entrées by the clowns are very good. Wednesday night was set apart for the benefit of Mr. King Ohmy.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Bucharan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Following the successful run of the pantomime comes an interesting revival of Proof. This thrilling play is very ably presented by one of Mr. and Mrs. Maclaren's touring companies. The leading rôles are in the hands of Mr. F. H. de Quincey, Mr. William Dexter, and Mr. Wilford Bailey, who appear to advantage as Pierre Lorance, Lazare, and Chamboran respectively, with Miss Lucie Prittie-Tydd as Adrienne and Miss May Grimshaw as Valentine, two very successful impersonations. The piece is admirably staged, and in the essential matter of costume and scenic effect lacks nothing that can be desired.

LEVEN.—TOWN HALL.—On Monday Miss Inez Howard's company appeared in The Girl Who Lost Her Character. The part of Molly Vernon, the central figure in the drama, was played with considerable power and expression by Miss Gertrude Evans. Molly's callous and cynical betrayer, Captain Caversham, had a good exponent in Mr. Herbert Pearson; Mr. Richard Fulton tendered a careful study of James Sutton, the repentant forger; Mr. Frank Etheridge as Jack England was manly, if at times a trifle stilted; Mr. Charles Coleman was a dignified and sympathetic Rev. Robert Everton; Miss Nellie Freeland as Isabella Jones, a sprightly dressmaker, and Mr. Hugh Brady as Private Dick Punch supplied excellent comedy relief. Miss Kathryn Eckart acted well as Marion Franklyn, and Miss Phyllis Vaughan made a dainty Rose Seymour.

LIVERPOOL. — ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—Mr. J. Gar Kiddie's pantomime, Babes in the Wood, concludes this week its month's stay at the popular north end house. The production, which is an all-round good one, has been accorded much public support.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—A return to pantomime is the order of things here this week. Mr. William Holland's company is here in the pantomime Aladdin. Jack and Evelyn O'Connor are answerable for most of the laughter in the show, the former's mimicry and eccentricities creating roars of laughter. The latter is a very pleasing and vivacious Cheeki, and both are excellent sand dancers. Sandy and Carl as Bo-bi and Bo-ko are laughable. Other artists worthy of mention are Fred Russell as Abanazar, Frances Haskoll as Aladdin, Geo. Reeves as Widow Twankey, R. M. Woodville as the Emperor, and Miss Florence Wood as Princess.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Mr. Herbert Hollister has opened his tour here with The Lights o' London, and has surrounded himself with a very efficient company. According to the support the habitués of the Star have given him during the week, the house being packed on Monday night especially, interest in this old-time drama seems almost as keen as ever. Mr. Arthur Cornell played with effect as Harold Armitage; a sleek and scheming Seth Preene was capitally given by Mr. Hollister; Miss Jeanie Burgoyne made a tender and sympathetic Bess; Mr. W. E. Passmore's Jarvis was a well-finished character study; and Miss Emilie Dawson as Mrs. Jarvis and Miss Gladys Murray in the rôle of the younger Jarvis were excellent; and Mr. Riddell Robinson held the part of Clifford Armytage with entire satisfaction.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. F. L. Arthur.—A return visit of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey's Wearin' o' the Green has met with as much success as formerly. As Barney O'Hea, a finer picture of a rollicking Irishman could not be desired than that presented by Mr. Mackey; his accomplished wife made an excellent Norah McGrath; Mr. Charles Homer played and sang well as Shamus McDermott; the Conner Martin of Mr. David McFarlane proved a well finished character; the dancing and singing of Miss Nana Flensberg as Biddy McGinn were very pleasing; and other strong supporters were Mr. H. Sainsbury, Mr. Joseph McGrath, and Mr. St. John Stuart.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Cole.—Fred Karno's Moses and Son has again held a place in the programme here; Arthur Lennard had a cordial reception for his latest songs; the humour of G. W. Hunter caused great laughter; Bijou Russell was loudly cheered for her sand dancing; Mdlle. Sylvia's vocal tableaux proved an exceedingly pleasing turn; the Corty Brothers had an amusing aerial gymnastic display; as musical grotesques the New Hulines were very amusing; a hearty greeting was accorded to Josephine Sabel for her American songs; and Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne, sang with taste.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The public never seem to tire of Ethel Arden and George Abel's Three of a Kind, which has headed the bill here this week. Charles Coborn has pleased everybody with his latest songs; the Waldrons, with their comedy act, The Silly Burglar, provoked endless merriment; the popular Martin Conway showed that he was still a favourite; some clever clog-dancing was executed by the Delomes; Miniature Marie afforded much delight as an American and French danseuse; the Brothers Hartbert-O'Relly had an elastic equilibristic novelty; and others in a long list were E. J. Wilkes and his trained dog; Kit Keen, coloured comedian; and Lowenwirth Brothers, Hebrew comedians.

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—A welcome return visit is made by the Hayes Brothers, who are exceedingly funny with their patter and smart in their dancing; some pleasing illustrated songs are provided by the Bird Arnold; Fred Douglas is a comedian and mimic, with many good points; the singing and dancing of Frances Linton are much appreciated; some unusual and picturesque illusions are provided by Marco; and W. G. Sutton sings popular songs. The Tuesday matinées here are proving exceedingly successful.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—A Lancashire Millionaire, by Lewis Gilbert, is the dramatic attraction here this week. Mr. Percy Boucher and company presenting it. Included in the cast are Messrs. E. D. Allen, Harry Tresham, Herbert Cecil, Kyburn Dellar, Cecil Ravenswood, A. Jones, A. Rogers, and Henry Lloyd; and Misses Lena Nazeby, Beryl Ravenswood, and Isabel Marte.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Heading the bill here this week is C. Wordley Hulse's company, with the dramatic sketch, The Fight in the Forge; the Bernanzas have a smart acrobatic and staircase act; some clever work is done on the triple bar by the Zano Brothers; as musical speciality artists the Tysons are a good turn; Ben Jackson gives a pleasing show as prestidigitateur and banjoist; and Queenie Barnes affords much satisfaction with her American march and rag-time songs.

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Mr. Percy Boucher's dramatic company is here this week with A Wife's Dishonour; Wyndham and Waters have a smart comedy act, entitled The Professor and His Pupil; an exceedingly satisfactory turn is given by Miss Beatrice and Mr. Charles Diamond, their playing of the saxophone and the harp being very pleasing; and the Alskarno trio of risley acrobats also appear.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—At the head of the bill here this week is Gus Harris, the Hebrew actor-vocalist, with his recitation, "The Massacre of the Jews in Russia"; Henry L. Osmond's company produces a tableau sketch, Dishonoured; or a Brother's Sacrifice; the Arizona troupe of hand and foot equilibrists are interesting; Miss Oliphant sings with taste; some good comedy work is done by Drum and Major; and Will Percival is an eccentric comedian.

WESTMINSTER.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Sidney Bacon and company are here this week with the sketch, The Maniac, the artists including Mr. Melville Bickford. The Carcassi Duo are capable musical speciality artists; Les Allesors have a neat gymnastic pot-pourri; Miss Maude Clifton is a refined vocalist and comedienne; and others who appear include Charles Milner, eccentric comedian; Sadie Earley, vocalist; and Will Bell, comedian and dancer.

OLYMPIA.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—The Harmony Four are here this week with their exceedingly funny entertainment; the Uessems, two little artists who perform some astonishing equilibristic feats, were loudly applauded; Ivan Tschernoff's dogs, ponies, and pigeons show a remarkable degree of training; Elsie Claire, with a sweet voice, was heard to advantage in several numbers; the coster romance, Me and 'Er, given by Minnie Duncan and Arthur Godfrey, proved very diverting; some smart songs came from Frank Seeley; the dancing and Tyrolean singing of the Sarnthaler Troupe were thoroughly enjoyed; and two other good items on the programme were supplied by Katie Butler, comedienne, and Daisy Ray, coon impersonator.

LLANELLY. — ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietor, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manageress, Miss Alice Rocheforte.—Mr. Allan Wilkie and his No. 1 company are here this week in a large répertoire of plays. On Monday evening Othello was given with great success, Mr. Allan Wilkie appearing in the title-rôle, Miss Ine Cameron as Desdemona is exceptionally good. Other plays billed are The Corsican Brothers, Belphegor, The Bells, &c.

LONDONDERRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Sole

Hood, Miss Sophie Harris is all that could be desired. Maid Marion is in the capable hands of Miss Lulu Evans, who portrays the part with a grace and charm of manner which at once appeal to the audience. Mr. Macmillan, as the Dame, is refined, but exceedingly funny. The Brothers Lorenzi are responsible for most of the humour as the Bold Ruffians. A great novelty is introduced in the garden scene in the shape of a clever transformation worked by the lighting effects, for which Mr. Collingwood Hope is responsible.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—Mr. Arthur Gibbon's company, with the pantomime, Little Red Riding Hood, occupies the boards here this week. Miss Janet Lawton makes an ideal principal boy, acting throughout with remarkable dash and vivacity, and obtaining well-deserved encores for excellent renderings of her various numbers; Miss Ruby Lester is charming and winsome in the name part; and Miss Nina Terri makes a successful Maid Marion, her dancing being most graceful. Mr. D'Arcy Kelway is a comical Dame Marjory; and Mr. Charles Honey makes a good Baron. Mr. F. G. Banks causes great hilarity as Johnny Stout; and as the Fairy Queen Miss Agnes Clarge's voice is heard to advantage. The Three French Idols, Miss Nina Terri, and the Swift Trio, are the specialities.

LOWESTOFT. — MARINA.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Mr. Ernest E. Morris's company is here with the second pantomime of the season, Puss in Boots, which is prettily staged and dressed. The chorus is tuneful and effective, and a capital entertainment is provided throughout. Messrs. Lauri and Ellis are quaint and amusing, and Mr. Geo. de Lara does well as Blinky Bill. Messrs. Fred Tenaur and Wm. Stevens are suitably placed, and Mr. Reuben Kitchen performs creditably as the Cat. As the demon lawyer, Mr. Dudley Hayes does full justice to the part. The Misses Kitty Courtney (Princess Pansy) and Mabel Murray (Gilbert) are happily placed; and Miss Frances Clare (the Lord Chamberlain) ably fills the rôle allotted to her. Miss Lillie Vine does well as Cupid. The Rosie-Rice quartette deserve warm praise for their admirable dancing. Several smart variety turns are introduced in the Palace scene by Messrs Lauri and Ellis, Dudley Hayes, Miss Jessie Eplett, etc.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Business-Manager, Mr. Louis J. Beard.—Mr. James Kiddie is presenting his elaborate and successful pantomime, Cinderella, here for six nights. As the Baron, Mr. Dick Thomas is all that can be desired; and as the two ugly sisters, Ethel and Maud, Messrs. Sidney Benson and Steve Cooke contribute largely to the success. Pimples is cleverly represented by Mr. Frank Dunlop. Cinderella is well represented by Miss Adele Roze, who, with her charming manner, wins deserved applause. The part of Prince Perfect is given to Mdlle. de Rose, who sustains it well.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. H. Galtey.—The attraction for this week is A Woman's Past, presented by Mr. A. Hamilton Warden. Mr. Robert Castleton as David Heath is quite successful; Mr. Oswald Gray as the villain, Uriah Craven, shows dramatic power; Mr. A. Hamilton Warden's impersonation of Clement Harper is decidedly clever; Mr. Charles V. Sandford gives a thoroughly capable portrayal of Frank Dellancy; Miss Mabel Durrant sustains the rôle of Clara Darrell with realistic intensity; Miss May Dallas submits a remarkable study of Dorothy Heath, and Miss Maisie Hanbury is a favourite as Bessie.

MAIDENHEAD.—TOWN HALL.—Secretary, The Town Clerk.—Fair business was done on Saturday last by Miss Jessie D'Alton's company with Beauty and the Beast. Miss D'Alton is bright as Beauty, and the strikingly contrasted parts of the two sisters are well played by Mr. Fred Park and Mr. J. V. Noble. Miss Lily Rhodes as Silver Star has a pleasing part, which she fills well; she should be congratulated on her singing, which is loudly applauded. Mr. Percy Galino is amusing as Marmaduke, and Mr. Bert Serony works well as the Alderman, both presenting interesting turns in the specialities, in which they are joined by Mons. Pizet, who is aptly described as a "twisto-logical puzzle." The two black clowns, the two Daniels, keep the house in roars of laughter.

THE PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. G. Gude.—Mr. George Baker's American photo company have a week's engagement here. A good selection of pictures is shown, Miss Queenie Brooks sings coon songs, and Bob Lord (comedian) delights everyone. Facio contributes an excellent turn in chapeaugraphy, Major Clark causes some amount of amusement as ventriloquist, and an excellent marionette show is given by Mr. Willard.

MAIDSTONE. — HIPPODROME. — Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester.—Miss May Lilian Levey is the chief turn here this week, and is very popular. Mr. Alf Chester, comedian, is well received, and is genuinely funny; Miss Gertie Gitana presents a clever song scena, The School Girl's Holiday; Will Vays' juveniles appear in a clever act, their singing being good; Mr. J. C. Johnson is a clever rag-time dancer and coloured comedian; Clyo and Rochelle, speciality artists, are popular; Dare and Maver, duologue artists, and the biograph complete the programme.

MANCHESTER.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—A second week of The Spring Chicken is to be recorded here, the piece proving a very popular attraction.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Messrs. Glenville and Osmond's company are seen here this week in The Still Alarm, after a successful week at the Grand Junction Theatre. It is a capital show.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Mr. H. A. Jordison's pantomime of Cinderella, recently seen in Manchester for two weeks, is the current attraction at this house. Good as it was in the opening week, it has been improved in various small ways, and may now fairly lay claim to an honourable place among the best of its kind on the road. Miss Daisy Morrell and Miss Mabel Higson are principal boy and girl, and Miss Mamie Iris is Cinderella. These play admirably, and are supplemented by a bevy of smart girls in minor rôles. The comedians are in great form, perhaps the most successful being Mr. Will Letters as the Page, though Mr. Charles Russell as the Baron and Messrs. Johnny Worman and Billy Keene as the Ugly Sisters are certainly very smart and amusing. Messrs. Harris and Worth as the broker's men are comic in a line of their own. Altogether, this is a very pretty and effective pantomime.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Mr. F. Marriott-Watson's company can be seen here this week in an attractive drama entitled A False Wife. The principal part is that of Lady Mansfield, a sinister character, extremely well depicted by Miss Florence E. Florence, who is especially good in a sensational sleep-walking scene. Mr. W. Howard Barlow is also excellent as the heroic George Mansfield, who figures in the weird introduction of a coffin mystery, in which his living body apparently changes to a skeleton and back again to life. Other remarkably good parts are well played by Mr. George Langham, Mr. Elton Morgan, Mr. Owen Edwin, Mr. Frank Strickland, Mr. John Cecil, Miss Ellen Armor, Miss Nita Imeson, and Miss Judith Ansell. The play is throughout very interesting, well played, and cleverly staged.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. A. Jordison; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. S. Nicholas.—This week we have here a return visit of The Anarchist Terror and The Sorrows of Satan, with Mr. George Langdon and Miss Loie Esmond prominent in the cast. The plays are well staged and cleverly rendered by Messrs. Neville and Esmond's company.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Freece; Secretary, Mr. P. Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—The Little Stowaway, excellently presented by Mr. George Abel and company, is the attraction here this week. Eva Lumley as the Stowaway is particularly good, and Leonard Russell as the Boatswain renders three songs in fine style. Walter George's Light Opera Singers are undoubtedly "Smart Set Entertainers," and their vocal pot-pourri is most enjoyable; Lux's dogs are trained to perfection, and the Tokio Troupe are wonderfully clever Japanese artists; Flo Deighton is a charming vocalist; Fred Hallam is a capital comedian and dancer; Harry Vardon does well as a ventriloquist; L. B. Athol is a good character vocalist; and, as usual, the Palace pictures are excellent.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Will Collins.—Morris Cronin and troupe of jugglers head the bill here this week, and do some astonishing tricks. The beautiful Diane de Fontenoy poses artistically in a series of historical characters; Francis Wylie introduces some wonderfully clever dogs; O'Gust, an excellent mimic, imitates everything, "from a chicken to a lion"; and Cook and Clinton are expert sharpshooters. Excellent turns are also those of the Huxter Brothers, acrobats and vaulters; Grace Merton, the original street singer; the Olracs, rag-time acrobats; and Baker and Lynn in a funny sketch. A sensational episode entitled "The Train Wreckers" is shown on the Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—The Redskins, which is the big attraction here this week, proves a highly exciting and interesting turn. The principal characters are in the hands of Messrs. Arthur Leigh, Herbert Vyvyan, Cecil Morton York, Cecil Compton, and Hugh Seaton, and the Misses Audrey Stafford, Maudie Ray, and Mary Allestree. The scenery is excellent, and the whole episode concludes with a sensational dive from roof to lake by Mr. G. W. Houghton, the "Human Torpedo." A most refined item is that given by the Gems, the new society entertainers, including the Misses Elsie Jones and Olive Mortimer, and Messrs. Kenna Lawson, Wallace Kennedy, Edgar Stephens, and Harold Scott. A novel turn is Solbrig's Automatus, which causes much amusement. Bell and Henry are eccentric acrobats of ability; Newhouse and Ward are capital comedy cyclists; the Ados in Olympian play show their strength to advantage; Bertha Vere is a pleasing vocalist; and the Bandurrias play some popular airs on stringed instruments. "Good-bye, sweet Marie" is sung by Mr. Tom Ince, assisted by the choir; and the Bioscope pictures are interesting.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Prominent turns here this week are Lily Burnand, the popular burlesque artist, who is as lively as ever; the Metropolitan Operatic Quartette, under the direction of Mr. S. E. Arnuni, who render excerpts from grand opera in fine style; and Lily Lena, a dainty comedienne. Other very good turns are those of Verne and Verne, in a roller-skating act; Billie Burford, comedienne; Allsopp and Beckwith, comedy artists; Burke and McVoy in a sensational comedy act; Dan Kirton, character comedian and dancer; Nellie Chandos, comedienne and dancer; and Raymond's Vivagraph.

KING'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead; Resident-Manager, Mr. P. Baynham.—Haley's Prize Juveniles head the bill here this week, including those remarkably clever duettists, Dot and Spot, and the singing and dancing are most enjoyable, the whole turn being received with deafening applause. The Five Grovinis, clever acrobats, go through a wonderful performance; Oakdene is a novel ventriloquist; Will Souls sings laughing songs in a very successful manner; the Ringting Trio, American eccentrics, are smart tumblers and stilt cake-walkers; and the Sultan Brothers are amusing acrobats and equilibrists. Other items of interest are given by Harry Morris, an amusing comedian; the Paytes, duologue artists; and the Bioscope pictures.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—An excellent turn here this week is that of Percy Honri and company in an enjoyable mélange of music and mirth, entitled Concordia. The Celtic Comedy Trio give humorous concerted musical selections; Lily Gaston is a clever top-boot dancer; Clara Walters is smart at the piano; and James is a dexterous manipulator of the "bones." Other good turns are given by the Danvels, song illustrators; Hallam and Stanton, in their sketch A Broken Journey; George Russell, comedian; and the Bioscope.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The Famous Alexandroffs (nine in number) contribute some excellent dancing and singing here this week, and are well received. Harris L. Bell and Lily Pearl and company appear in their popular success, A Bit of String; and Winona, assisted by Colonel King, is an expert shot. Lottie De Abbey is a good singer; the Babusians are clever head and hand balancers; the Royal Temple Trio, operatic vocalists, including Louie Gilbert, sing well, and are loudly applauded; Marie Blythe, comedienne, makes a big hit; and other good items are those of Smiler Lee, comedian; the Two Neros, acrobats and contortionists; and "Jail Birds" depicted on the Bioscope.

MANSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Morella and Jennings.—The principal item on the bill here are Ariel and Astarte, lady and gentleman gymnasts, who give a fine exhibition on the triple-bars and trapeze. Salmon, trick cyclist, is much appreciated; Maud Garland creates a good impression with her songs; and Fred Wright, with songs and dances, is also good. Juan and M'Que submit an amusing turn as comic knockabouts; F. C. Brooks, vocal comedian, receives applause; the Musical Japs give an entertaining turn, introducing some novel musical instruments; Mr. Scott's trick horses, Miss Scott (bareback rider), and the clowns also contribute to the programme, which concludes with the biophotoscope pictures.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Geo. Fox.—Last week-end Mr. E. Lockwood's company presented Sergeant Brue. Mr. J. Harold Carson, in the title-rôle, was very amusing, and he was supported by an efficient company, including Miss Gertie Fawcett, Miss Amy Vivash, Miss Kathleen V. Grey, Mr. Harold Godwin, Mr. Fred Laceby, and others. This week Poole's Myriorama occupies the stage. In addition to the pictures there is a capable company of variety artists. Mr. Felix de Marce's performing ponies and dogs and baboons provide a good turn; Miss May Finch sang capital songs; and the Veronas as dancers are much applauded. Nash and Nash provide much amusement with their patter; and Mr. Felix Somers (facial expert) gives some striking impersonations. The Three Phydoras, in their knockabout musical novelty act, evoke much laughter.

MARGATE.—THE HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. F. Howell.—A first-class entertainment is provided here this week. Heading the programme are two excellent turns. First are Carlo and Maie, in their clever rope and wire act. Maie is certainly one of the cleverest wire-walkers seen here, whilst Carlo is a smart acrobat. The other leading turn is the Herald Comedy Four, humorous vocalists and dancers, who, in their new and original Indian scena, The Shipwrecked Sailor, create roars of laughter. Tiny Arnold is a good comedienne and dancer, her diminuitive stature helping to make her quaintness the more pronounced. Mayon and Marle, a comedy duo, are very good, and Ada Parker, coon comedienne, is a capital dancer. A. E. Clifford, versatile vocalist, sings some capital songs, and considerable interest again centres in the amusing series of pictures depicted by Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

MATLOCK. — VICTORIA HALL. — Proprietor, Mr. W. C. Webb.—The attraction here this week was Mr. Cecil Clayton's Dick Whittington pantomime company. The artists gave a pleasing and successful performance, and the variety turns by Miss Annie Rose, Clyto, the Sisters Clancy, and Albert Evremond added materially to the bill of fare. The transformation scene, Bluebell in Fairyland, drew forth hearty applause.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson.—Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company is this week presenting the sensational drama The Face at the Window to good houses. Mr. E. Hoggan Armadale is powerfully effective as the Chevalier Lucio Delgado, and as the detective Gouffet Mr. T. W. Dunscombe is admirable. Mr. Gilbert Hall is good as Lucien Corlier, and the character of Le Blanc is capitally acted by Mr. George Phythian. Comedy is well represented by Mr. C. Alan Hineson as Heler and Miss Gwynne Warren as Babette, and the part of Marie de Busson has an able exponent in Miss V. Thorn Hallam.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. —Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. Bulmer is this week presenting the drama Sentenced for Life. Mr. Arthur Keand gives a manly interpretation of Lieut. Roy Stillwell; the Capt. Derrick of Mr. Ernest Vaughan is a very capable rendering; Mr. R. Brancepeth-Neville gives a thoughtful conception of Sir Wallace Stillwell; while the Rev. Martin Orris is cleverly portrayed by Mr. T. C. Glenville. Mr. A. Horton and Mr. Reginald Oldroyd, in the respective rôles of Bill Sharkey and Toby, are most entertaining. Miss Madge Dauglas is graceful and pleasing as Adela Gray; Miss Gladys Hawthorne cleverly impersonates Lady Stillwell, while Miss Mary Dalby displays marked ability as Kate Reand.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles Imeson.—The successful pantomime, The Forty Thieves, has entered on its last week at this place of amusement. A good deal of new business is introduced, including songs, dances, and speciality acts. The imitation of the violin given by Carlos is much enjoyed; the statuary tableaux presented by Mdlle. Sara's Marblesque Trio are a distinct success; the two Eltons are warmly applauded for their clever and funny horizontal bar performance, and the pantomime act, "Mischief," as given by the Revell Troupe, gives great satisfaction.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing Director, Mr. Arthur Roberts; Manager, Mr. W. Chatto.—The Girl from Japan is proving a popular attraction here. Sweet singing, pretty dancing, and magnificent scenery being a great feature of the production.

EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr. Alf. Mattison; Manager, Mr. Charles Rembges.—The Caledonian Boy's orchestra make a welcome return visit, and provide a musical treat. The antics of Cooke and Rothert create roars of laughter, as also does the drollery of Tom Dunmore. Miss Fanny Wentworth, in her smart songs, is very popular; Harry Thurston impersonates well-known artists; the Two Jagos, vocalists and dancers, find favour; and Dot Hardy, comedienne and dancer, figures in the programme.

OXFORD.—Managing Director, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. R. Griffiths.—Mr. Frank Elliston and company, in the sketch Aunt Matilda, create rounds of laughter, as do The Toreadors in their comedy act. Austin and Cowan are well applauded for their singing; and Flo Cecil and others provide an excellent programme.

MOTHERWELL. — NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. W. Davies.—Mr. William Greet's company is this week appearing in The Earl and the Girl. As Jim Cheese Mr. Alfred Donohoe is irresistibly funny; Mr. Leslie Gaze is happily placed as Dick Wargrave, his fine voice and presence being of great advantage to him in the part. The Hon. Crewe Boodle is well sustained by Mr. Thomas Kennard; Mr. A. E. Wilson as Bunker Bliss plays with a grim and diverting humour; Mr. Tom J. Edwards as Downham, Mr. Sam Lysons as Mr. Talk, and Mr. Glenville Hayes as Mr. Hazell also contribute important aid. A dainty and demure Elphin Haye is found in Miss Hylda Dugdale, her singing being frequently encored. Miss Ida Statham is a charming Daisy Fallowfield, Miss Lena Hicks an efficient Liza Shoddam, Miss Beatrice Anderson is well suited as Mrs. Shimmering Black, and Miss Winnie Plumpton is unexceptionable as Virginia Bliss. A pretty and tuneful chorus under the baton of Mr. W. Stephenson adds greatly to the charm of an altogether pleasing production.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Sutcliffe. — Messrs. Howard and Wyndham's pantomime, Mother Goose, goes with a refreshing swing from start to finish. The Mayor of Tapham, as played by Mr. George Formby, is as quaint a character as can be found. Another prime favourite is Mr. Ernie Mayne, to whom is entrusted the part of Jack, and he never fails to grasp a single opportunity to create laughter. An unmistakable success has been scored by Mr. Ambrose Manning as Mother Goose; and Messrs. Drew and Alders create much diversion with their funny speciality business. Miss Daisy Dormer makes a most charming and fascinating Jill. Her first number is the "Sun am shining," concluding with a neat step-dance; but the pièce de résistance is undoubtedly "My little wooden hut," of which it may be said Miss Dormer is the original singer. Miss Lena Verdi does remarkably well with somewhat scanty material as Gretchen; but her singing of "Louisa," with dance in sabots, is sufficient to prove the abilities of this delightful young lady; and Miss Cecilia Wilman as the Fairy Queen sings "Rainbow" with rare charm. Miss Lily Harold has frequently been out of the cast through indisposition, but an admirable substitute has been forthcoming in Miss Amy Lorrison, who does all that is required as Colin. The Tiller Troupe are repeatedly encored for their display of the terpsichorean art; and the stilt-walking of the Pender Troupe amuses the younger section of the audience.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—Cinderella bids fair to establish a record run at the Royal, as packed houses continue to be the rule at each performance. Mr. Dan Rolyat, who has made such a success as the Baron, was an absentee during the major portion of last week, but his place was creditably filled by Mr. A. Wykes Ashdowne, the stage-manager, whom we heartily congratulate. Mr. Rolyat, however, has again resumed his part, and is the life and soul of the pantomime. He and Mr. John Humphries (Daisy) work exceedingly well together. Mr. Stephen Adeson has developed the part of Choddles with conspicuous success; and Mr. W. H. Powell as Dandini is as bright and as entertaining as ever. The ladies are all charming, including Miss Phyllis Dare (Cinderella), Miss Hettie Chattel (the Prince), Miss Gwennie Hasto (Princess Roxana), and Miss Luna Love and Miss Winnie Browne (the Baron's daughters). Favourable mention may also be made of Miss Dora Poole, Miss Mildred Claire, Miss Louie Lochner, and Miss Maud Mandrell, all of whom fill minor parts with success.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—Little Red Riding Hood opened here on Monday night for a short season before a large audience. Mr. Geo. Brydon-Phillips's company is responsible for the production, and is the same that appeared at the West London Theatre. Miss Louie Hurman quickly established herself a firm favourite as Prince Amoroso. In the title-rôle, Miss Lily Stewart makes a good impression, and is heartily encored for her song "Rainbow"; Miss Marie Beaufort is a pleasing fairy; and little Vera Saunders does exceedingly well as Cupid. The Jack and Jill of Miss Ethel Morden and Miss Amy Maple respectively are both meritorious efforts; Mr. Fred Maple is quietly humorous as the Squire; and Mr. Charles Lilburn provokes plenty of merriment as Simple Simon. Mr. Charles Gardiner is exceedingly happy in his impersonation of the dame; Mr. Henry de Solla plays the part of Lawyer Slyfox on quite original lines; and Mr. Phillip Sefton declaims in dramatic fashion as the Wolf. Specialities are introduced by the Six American Belles and the Maples, and the performance concludes with a harlequinade, entitled In Shadowland.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—A crowded house greeted the advent of Messrs. Buchanan and Stevens's company on Monday night, in the pantomime Jack the Giant Killer. It has been transferred here in its entirety from the Gaiety Theatre, Leith, and, judging by the hearty reception it received here at the opening performance, it should experience a successful season at the Byker Theatre. A bright and dashing principal boy has been found in Miss Mimi Fisher, who imparts much spirit and "go" into the rôle of Jack; Miss Bijou Dreus makes a most acceptable Margery Daw; and Miss Evelyn Robson is throughout conspicuous as Mephisto. The comedians work with a will, and their efforts to amuse are highly appreciated. They include Mr. W. S. Stevenson, Mr. Charles Grantley, Mr. Fred C. Imbert, Mr. Gilbert Payne, Mr. Jack Henri, and those big pantomime favourites hereabouts, Messrs. Denby and Dent, who create much laughter as the cooks. The Continental Girls and the Two Sparks are responsible for the specialities.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy.—A packed house assembled on Monday to witness Ahmed Madrali, the Terrible Turk, and a troupe of International wrestlers; Marie Duma, the famous soprano vocalist, sings several popular ballads; and Sinclair and Parr combine excellent vocalism with some amusing patter. The Three Sisters Hayden sing melodiously; the Fitzroys are particularly smart as society gymnasts; and Billy Hobbs is a complete success as a coon comedian and dancer. Stephens and Rennior, comedians and sand-dancers; Irving Jones, "the little black man"; and McPhee and Hill, horizontal bar performers, add to the success of the programme.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—A strong variety programme here this week includes the Martine Brothers, original acrobats and tumblers; the King's College Boys, a choir of clever youngsters who sing harmoniously together; Mr. and Mrs. Blake Adams, in a comedy duologue; Miss Flo Smithers's company in an amusing sketch, entitled Hard Lines; Miss Grace Taylor, comedienne; Ida Ross, Hughes and Elliott, Starr and Jerome, the Henres, and an interesting picture, entitled "A Day at the Zoo," by the Barrascope.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Sunday is being played here this week by Mr. Louis Calvert's company. Miss Jean Sterling Mackinlay acts the part of Sunday delightfully, being equal to all the demands of the character. The Towzer of Mr. Wm. Lockhart is a good character study, and the Davy of Mr. Sidney Renney, the Lively of Mr. T. Norman Walter, and the Jacky of Mr. Arthur Vezin are really excellent. Mr. Ernest A. Douglas, as Tom Oxley, is sympathetic, and Miss Juliet Hardinge and Miss Rosalind Ross leave nothing to be desired as a Nun and Mrs. Naresby respectively; while Mr. Cecil Duncan, as Arthur Brinthorpe, and Mr. Leonard Pagden, as Colonel Brinthorpe, are successful.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Ltd.; Managing Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—Alexandra Dagmar heads the bill here with songs that go with a swing. Wood and Bates (comedy musicians), with good instrumental playing and funny patter, keep the house in roars. The Wagsnell family of acrobats supply a turn that is clever, and Ike Scott and son are as popular as ever. Viviana is a clever dancer, as is also Herbert La Martine, who go in for the eccentric side of the art; and the Howards provide a turn of the musical variety type that is applauded. Hays and Luits, duettists and dancers, give three commendable selections; and the bioscope shows a series of interesting films.

NEWRY.—TOWN HALL.—Owners, Newry Urban Council.—The Elster Grime company presented Maritana on Tuesday night before a crowded and appreciative house. Miss E. Lynham took the title-rôle, and charmed the audience with her singing and dramatic ability. Mr. Payne Clarke was successful as Don Cæsar de Bazan; Mr. Michael Kemble as Done José was excellent, his singing being quite as good as his acting. Mr. Gilbert King scored in the part of the King; and Miss Esmee de Dreux, as Lazarillo, showed marked ability as a singer. The week's programme includes Carmen, La fille de Madame Angot, Les Cloches de Corneville, etc.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mr. Milton Bode's fairy pantomime, Dick Whittington, is playing here to good houses. Mr. Bob Hutt, as Alderman Fitzwarren, is highly successful in providing plenty of genuine fun, in which he is well supported by Mr. Rolando Martin. Mr. Fred Dark is plain, but interesting, as Matilda, the cook. Lanton and Lane, as the captain and his mate, play well together; and Tom Gilmore makes a clever little Cat. Miss Elsie Morgan, as Dick Whittington, is a charming embodiment of the hero, and Miss Annie Morgan, as Alice Fitzwarren, presenting a typical pair of lovers; their duet, "Teasing," is charmingly rendered. Tommy Trot, played by Miss Blanch Marion, and his sweetheart May, acted by Miss Annie Laurie, are another loving couple. Miss Nellie Lauraine is an imposing Fatima, Empress of Morocco. Miss Evelyn Geldard, the good Fairy, renders her "Rainbow" song with excellent effect. The specialities are Elverton, the spinning marvel, and the Regent Comedy Four.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—Crowded houses have been attracted by Leoni Clarke, with his novel performance with cats, &c. The parachute descent of a sandy cat and the train cat-astrophe at the finale are the special features of a clever and highly attractive show. Les Kyasyas are good; the Australian lady athlete, Casa, is well received; Mdlle. Eldee gives a series of poses plastique in a novel and pleasing form. George Le Wist is an amusing ventriloquist; Tom Brantford, the one-man band, is applauded; the Two Zampas, vocalists and speciality dancers, are applauded; Geo. Bendon scores as a White Coon; Lillian is a lady cyclist who executes some difficult feats with grace and charm. The Palace pictures still form a great source of delight to all.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Mr. George Dance's company with The Orchid is proving a great attraction here this week. Mr. Harry Walsh gives a capital impersonation of Meakin, and keeps the house in a merry mood; and Mr. Sinclair Holden, as the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour, is clever. Mr. Vyvyan Wakeman makes quite a hit as Doctor Ronald Faussett; Mr. Charles Seymour scores heavily as Aubrey Chesterton; Mr. Albert Seaby satisfactorily sustains the rôle of Zaccary; and Mr. George Asaf is good as Comte Raoul de Cassignat. As Lady Violet Anstruther, Miss Margary Moore is admirable; Miss Phil Gumpel gives an excellent representation of Caroline Vokins; Miss Sissie Brand is smart as Zelie Humbert; Miss Maud Davies, as Countess Anstruther, wins favour; Miss Trilby Colliers is an effective Josephine Zaccary; and Miss D. West-Collins is good as Thisbe.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—Another good bill of fare is submitted here, and includes Herr Armins, in his gladiatorial display, which is loudly applauded. Swan and Vesta, with The Captain of the Ship, achieve distinct success; and Primavesi, in his juggling act, displays great skill. Mr. D. W. Watson, vocalist, cornet, and post-horn soloist, is cordially appreciated; and The Volbecques (character duettists), Miss Winnie Wentworth (comedienne), Messrs Stanley and Dowton (in their comedy act), and the Bio-Photoscope all meet with success.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. S. Golden; Manager, Mr. Lester Wright.—After an absence of many years, Mr. Charles Harrington's company, in Uncle Tom's Cabin, is paying a welcome return visit. In a company of all-round excellence special mention must be made of Mr. Leslie Beaufort as George Harris, Mr. Stanley Howard as St. Clair, Mr. J. Henry Rogers as Simon Legree, Miss Hettie Johnson as Eliza Harris, Miss Annie Watson as Topsy, and Miss Zerlina Zerbini as Cassy. The variety turns in the fourth act are exceedingly good, and the plantation hymns and melodies receive well-merited applause. The theatre was occupied on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights by Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmond's company in The Cotton Spinner.

NORWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. Mouillot's company, in the successful play A Message from Mars, always finds a welcome here. Mr. Cyril Austin Lee as Horace Parker meets with unstinted applause for his clever acting, and Mr. William H. Brougham is heartily appreciated as the Messenger from Mars. Mr. Bruce Lindley deserves special mention as the Tramp, and Mr. Leslie Taylor is also good as Mr. Fergusson, the solicitor. Miss May Saker as Minnie Temple, Mrs. Edward Saker as Miss Parker, and Miss Peggy E. Yeoman as Bella, are charming in their respective parts.—Mr. J. Edgar Stevenson as Arthur Dicey, and Mr. Lionel Gadsden, as the Policeman, render excellent service. The scenery and effects are well managed.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—A varied programme is presented this week, and proves attractive. Vermette and Dionne are expert gymnasts, and exhibit an astonishing performance. The Schiavonys' company of comedy acrobats are as skilful as amusing. Madame Collard's dogs show marvellous training, and are highly successful. Tom White's Arabs, including the famous Pimple, are amusing in their tricks and vocal mélange. Tom Craven and his company in their sketch The Woman in Red are much appreciated, and Jack Pleasants as a comedian causes endless laughter, and Wilson Blackledge proves very humorous as a Society entertainer. The Hippo Bioscope contributes much to the amusement of all. As a result of the matinée held for the benefit of the local branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the proprietors have forwarded to the secretary a cheque for £31 10s.

Agricultural Hall.—Mr. Hardy, the King of the High Rope, continues here with much success, and Messrs. Barker and Thurston's Carnival is well patronised.

NOTTINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The last week of Humpty Dumpty has been reached, to the regret of all. Miss Rachel Lowe puts any amount of energy into her rôle as principal boy, and Miss Georgina Middleton makes the principal girl a dainty and charming part. The dancing of the Crystals always evokes vociferous applause, and Misses Dolly Murray (Polly) and Edith Wilson (Twinkle Star) display a versatility that merits praise. Miss Nellie Lomas sings and acts in a manner which gives delight, and Miss Elsie Evelyn Hill admirably fills the part of Mrs. Tremaine. Mr. R. H. Douglas and Mr. Bob Baxter are droll, laughter coming from all parts of the house while they occupy the stage. Mr. Algernon Newark acquits himself well in his three rôles, and Bishop and Hanlin achieve success in their knockabout business. A quaint couple of Gollywogs are seen in Messrs. Wally Scott and Seth White, who also help along the fun, and the ballets owe much to Miss Rose Lupino. The stage management of Mr. Douglas has proved excellent throughout.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Chas. P. Cooke.—In the interval between two pantomimes, that powerful drama When Woman Hates occupies the stage here. The company is Messrs. Ware and Anderson's, and the play is produced by Mr. Chas. East, who is to be congratulated upon an undoubted success. Miss East-Robertson is fully equal to the task of thoroughly realising the beautiful fiend. Mr. Jerrold Heather as Lieut. Rokeby makes a highly satisfactory hero, and the villain finds a competent exponent in Mr. Percy Ballard. The comedy parts are well looked after by Mr. Frank Litchfield as the Constable and Miss Emily Custance as Mrs. Sally Potts. As Sir Henry Rokeby Mr. Charles Herberte looks and acts the part of an old Colonel exceedingly well, and Mr. Frank Watson's assumption of the American millionaire is very thorough. Miss Gladys is charming in the character of Edith Rokeby, and Miss Dorothy Lupone makes an excellent child.

King's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. A. W. Bull.—A Fight for Millions has proved very attractive here, the unfolding of this sensational drama by Mr. Robert Pinder's company being watched with interest. Mr. W. H. Hargreaves brings out the strongest characteristic of Tom Manley; Mr. J. N. Cowling leaves nothing to be desired as Hudson Rivers; in portraying the rascality of Richard Dudley Mr. Archie Helsby shows himself a clever and astute actor; Mr. Robert Perris becomes a favourite as Willie Neverwork; and Mr. Karl H. Edwards aptly delineates the wily nature of Solomon Moses. Miss Elma C. Turner plays with naturalness as the deserted wife, Helen Dudley; Miss Eva Purcell creates much enthusiasm as Pearl Rivers; and capital work is also done by Miss Audrey Canning, Miss Lottie Pearce, and Messrs. R. H. Wilson and George Hodges.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—Mr. George Gray, with a specially selected company, presents his justly celebrated sketch The Fighting Parson, and crowded houses testify nightly to its popularity. The artistic Jap juggler, Kokin, is wonderfully smart, and his dexterity is thoroughly appreciated; Mr. Fred Poplar sings some delightfully irresponsible songs in a very quaint fashion; Miss Sadie Simpson is a comedienne of no mean ability; Kahn and Kahn are always well received, and their sleight of hand is well worth watching; as a ventriloquist Professor Dunning has few rivals; Harry Drew has a very pleasing bass voice; and Kitty Wager sings with force and precision. The programme is completed by the Sisters Moulier, a pair of graceful acrobats whose efforts are applauded.

NUNEATON.—Prince of Wales Theatre, Ltd.—Managing Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—This week Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson's company are paying a visit with Her One Great Sin. The drama, with its interesting and pathetic scenes, is received with enthusiasm. Miss St. Albans presents a telling portrayal of Grace Warhurst (the erring wife). Mr. Sam Arthur, as Reuben Warhurst, gives an excellent impersonation, the part of Arnold Thornhill, the unscrupulous spendthrift, being capably filled by Mr. J. Leicester-Jackson. Miss Maudie Lambert wins the highest praise in the part of Little Gracie. Some genuine fun is supplied by Mr. Fred Hodson as Jerry Jumble. Miss Phillis Damien is good as Charlie, and Miss Nellie Lambert as Nancy. On Friday evening East Lynne formed the programme, Mr. J. Leicester-Jackson appearing as Francis Levison and Miss St. Albans as Lady Isobel.

OLDBURY.—Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Prichard; Manager, Mr. R. A. Brown.—The programme provided here this week includes the Three Sisters Geronde, in a refined turn; Bandoni, the one-man band; T. W. Barrett, "the nobleman's son," a great favourite; Amy Bellwood, who goes well with her songs and dancing; James Day, the handcuff expert; Rayson, conjurer; and Frank Newberry, whistler. The Palace pictures complete a good bill.

OLDHAM.—Empire, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Ernest Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hulme.—Mr. William Greet's company in The Earl and the Girl has received a most favourable reception. Mr. Wm. Stevens and Miss Dot Carey as the Earl and the Girl respectively are a great success. Mr. Percy Carr as Dick Wargrave, the real Earl; Mr. Vernon Davidson as the Hon. Crewe Beodle; Mr. Ernest Dorrence as the vengeful Uncle; Mr. Will Hindson and Mr. J. C. Graves as American and English solicitors; Mr. Fred W. Pattrick as the Host; Miss Aimée Grey as the runaway heiress; Miss Florence Imeson as Daisy Fallowfield; Miss Gladys Fontaine as Mrs. Shimmering Black; and a chorus of fifty hunters, lackeys, &c., divulge the excellence and ability in their respective parts. An "Entente Cordiale" dance is given by the Misses Hylda Davis, Enid Evesly, Beatrice Ford, Edyth Martin, Nora Manette, and Geraldine Scott.

Gaiety, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. E. Dottridge.—Tennyson and Wallis, refined comedians, keep the audience in roars of laughter; Daisy De Roy, comedienne, is an old favourite here, and her catchy songs and captivating manner are heartily appreciated; Will Dalton, comedian, is a great success; a capable musical performance is rendered by the Dunvilles; Alice Maude is a smart male impersonator; the Spanish Goldini Trio are successful in a novel entertainment; and other good turns are submitted by A. Sterling and the bioscope.

Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howgate.—Mr. James Willard and company in their sketch Did He Deserve It? which abounds with dramatic interest and attractiveness, are heartily appreciated by very large audiences. A unique and novel juggling performance is submitted by the Max Wessely's Troupe; Conn and Conrad keep the house in roars of laughter; Rastus and Banks, coloured entertainers, are successful in their sketch The Major and the Maid; The Society Quartette of Refined Vocalists and Dancers are well received for a clever performance; Winnifrede Warde, male impersonater, is a great success in her character of the West End "Johnny"; and the Llewellyns (Australian Operatic Vocalists), Arthur Stacey (comedian and top-boot dancer), and Harry Tomlinson (descriptive vocalist) are well received.

OXFORD.—New Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—This week we are having a delightful return visit of Mr. William Greet's company in that attractive play The Earl and the Girl. Mr. Reginald Switz is funny as Jim Cheese, and works hard and with real success all through the play. Mr. Alec Fraser sings sweetly and acts with natural ease as Dick Wargrave; Mr. Starley Harrison is well suited as Crew Boodle; and Bunker Bliss, Downham, Mr. Talk, and Mr. Hazell all find excellent exponents in Messrs. H. B. Brandreth, Frank Cane, R. Rous, and Tom Redmond. Miss Mary Fraser as Elphin Haye acts and sings with a charm that quite holds the house; Miss Maude Aston plays Daisy Fallowfield with plenty of "go"; and the parts of Liza Shoddam, Mrs. Shimmering Black, and Miss Bliss are all capably played by Misses Florence Wix, Maud Adams, and Mary Morison.

Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. G. P. Wells.—Messrs. Hardie and Von Leer's company is here on a return visit with the ever-popular Two Little Vagabonds.—Excellent portrayals of George Thornton and Capt. Darville are presented by Messrs. Henry Hare and Douglas Cecil respectively; Mr. John F. Traynor is decidedly good as Bill Mullins; Dido Bunce and the Cough Drop find capable exponents in Mr. Ernest K. Nelson and Mr. Fred Archer; and Mr. Hugh Halliman is a success as Joe Gargoyle. Miss Grace Heywood embodies Marion Thornton with dignity and charm; Miss F. Russell Spiers makes an attractive Barbara Scarth; and Miss Marie Pritchard is all that can be desired as Biddy Mullins. Dick and Wally are admirably represented by Miss Freda Ettrick and Miss Helen Grenville respectively.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—The Way of the World is here this week. The company responsible for its representation is Mr. Montague Beaudyn and Miss Sydney Crowe's. As Adela de la Roche Miss Crowe displays exceptional ability; Miss Cissie Bellamy is a pleasing and sympathetic Kate Montague; Marian Fanshaw is excellently acted by Miss Grace Ryland; and Miss Violet Vivienne as Polly Bell contributes an extremely diverting performance. As Matthew Malyon Mr. Clarence Temple submits a capital study; Mr. Herbert Skardon gives a bright and vigorous portrayal of Cecil Montague; the villainous Captain Fred Slade is well played by Mr. Victor Gordon; Mr. Frank Stanley acts the part of Ned Montague in an effective manner; Mr. Louis Scott's impersonation of Horatio Bluff is decidedly good; Sir John Slade is given a clever interpretation by Mr. Fred Mace; Mr. Pat Quinn is praiseworthy as Silas Montague; and Mr. Dick Seddon is capital as Joe Sparrow.

Empire.—Lessee, Mr. J. H. Savile Manager, Mr. Delno Fritz.—The company this week includes James Brady, eccentric joker; Gracie Logan, soubrette and dancer; J. H. White, tenor vocalist; Kloof and Ramsey, musical novelty burlesquers; Peggy Alsond, vocalist; the Cosmans, in their refined comedy act; and Cinizelli, the silent jester.

PERTH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H. Saville; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The pantomime of The Sleeping Beauty is here for another week. Several items of local interest which have been introduced are much appreciated, and the "Rugby Night," so much looked forward to, is likely to prove a record one. The principal parts are sustained throughout with unabated success.

PETERBOROUGH.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. A. Darville Brown.—Messrs. Charles Carey and Alexander Loftus's pantomime company is here this week. Miss Freda Godfrey gives a charming impersonation of Cinderella, and her songs are sung in cultured style. Miss Ernestine Walters is a popular principal boy; Miss Maud Terry's Dandini is all that can be desired; the Fairy Godmother has a charming representative in Miss Hilda Blanche. As the Baron, Mr. James Grant displays a fund of dry humour; Nash and Noel keep the audience in the best of humours as McStrong and McGinger; and Mr. Norman Bowyer and Mr. W. E. Chewd are responsible for funny representations of the Ugly Sisters. Mr. Joseph B. Montague fills the rôle of Peter with a wonderful command of comedy.

PLYMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The Manœuvres of Jane is being staged here this week by the local Dramatic Association.

Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. Ernest Grant.—An attractive and interesting drama is The Life of a Showman, which is being produced here by an efficient company. Mr. Charles Osborne impersonates Sir Noel Hartland intelligently and well; Mr. Logan Darra's Hendrick Marais is very natural and powerful; Mr. Sante performs marvellous feats of strength; Miss Enid Trench and Miss Amy McNeil appear in the cast with great success, their efforts reaching a high standard of excellence.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. A. Carlton; Manager, Mr. W. H. Michell.—After a record run for a local pantomime, Cinderella has entered on its last week. On Monday Miss Edna Cragge, who has made such a successful Prince Charming, was, on the occasion of her benefit, presented with a dressing-case from a number of friends, and a writing-case, the gift of Mr. Arthur Carlton. The Manager (Mr. W. H. Michell) made a felicitous speech in handing the presents to Miss Cragge. Later in the week Mr. Jack Cromo (the author of the pantomime and one of the principal comedians), and Miss Amy Randolph were given a joint benefit, the patronage being very liberal.

Palace of Varieties.—Managing-Directors, Messrs Livermore Bros.; Manager, Mr. J. Field.—An admirably selected and very entertaining programme is provided here this week. The Lyons Trio appear in a very funny and popular pantomimical act; Margaret Ashton, who tops the bill, makes a welcome reappearance, and her songs are received with hearty applause; Hanvarr and Lee are clever artists, whose comedy juggling act, The Golfer and the Maid, proves a most acceptable item; Miss Maggie Rimmer's smart dancing and singing are nightly encored; George Adams sings well; Charles Craston is a born comic, with a good style of his own; the American picture songs, contributed by the Lynchs, are pretty and pleasing; Geo. Davis and Co. give an amusing sketch; and Vernon's animated pictures are a treat.

PONTYPRIDD.—Royal Clarence Theatre.—Proprietors, Mrs. Trenchard and Miss L. Jones; Manager, Mr. C. Trenchard.—A very strong attraction this week is Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company in The Christian. Mr. Alfred Goddard's exceptionally fine rendering of the Hon. John Storm is greatly admired; Miss Laura Walker's Glory Quayle is something to be remembered; Mr. E. Stanton Sharp acts admirably as Lord Robert Ure; Mr. Duncan Jarrow capably impersonates Horatio Drake; the "Faro" King could scarcely find a better exponent than Mr. Anthony Rawles; Mr. Jack Hames is to be congratulated for his Mr. Lorimer; Mr. Colin Johnston earns credit in the character of Archdeacon Wealthy; Miss Violet Vivian scores a distinct success as Mrs. Callander; Miss Florence Radcliffe is admirable as Polly Love; and Miss C. Oates is refreshingly lively as Liza.

PORTH.—Poole's Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. Bynorth.—The great attraction here is the successful pantomime, Red Riding Hood, presented by Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth. The Red Riding Hood of Miss Maud Douglass is worthy of commendation; as Simple Simon Mr. Bert Harrow is responsible for some excellent fun. Mr. Percy Shaw gives a creditable performance of the Wolf; Miss Marie Liston meets with decided approval as Boy Blue; David Phillips makes a capital dame; the Brothers Ellis, as Billy Green and Johnny Stout respectively, are an excellent pair; Mr. Frank Zara is most amusing as Sir Rotter de Rot; and Miss Edith Knight is good as Fairy Sunbeam. The specialities include the Sisters Deare, military drill experts; the Daisy Verona Quartette of Dancers; Percy Shaw, the whistler; and the Brothers Ellis, comedians and dancers.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr Armstrong Bell.—Mr. William Greet's capable company is finishing a fortnight's engagement here with The Talk of the Town, and large and demonstrative audiences have been delighted with the piece. Mr. William Cromwell plays Jerry Tripe, his droll humour and realistic rendering of his songs being excellent. He has been well backed by Miss Louie Tinsley as Geraldine Tripe. Mr. Arthur Harrold as Reggie Drummond was quietly effective; the two Dutch moneylenders, Frank and Ernest English, were capitally taken by Messrs. Graves and Gambier-Melford; Miss Gertrude Melville did well as Madame Modiste; Miss Joan Keddie was charming and natural as Elialine Sewin; and Miss Evelyn D'Alroy was excellent as the gipsy girl, June.

Prince's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company is appearing here with the stirring drama The Worst Woman in London. The cast is a strong one, including Miss Florence Dalton, who gives a powerful impersonation of Frances Vere. Ruth Milford is sustained by Miss Effie Bartlett with quiet impressiveness; Miss Florence Lovall is effective as Matilda Parker; Jack Felton is an exceedingly well-balanced performance by Mr. Wallace Campbell; Mr. Paul Barry-Sewers excellently impersonates the rascally Vincent Lyle; Mr. H. H. Barrington does good work as James Milford; Mr. H. W. Monte gives a capital study as Hugh Drayton; and Bob Goldfinch is characteristically played by Mr. Alwin Sawyer.

Empire Palace.—Secretary Mr. W. Pratt.—The Ten Loonies in an absurdity entitled Dotty prove themselves to be first-rate musicians, and their knockabout antics create great merriment. The Sisters Valli, dancers and banjoists, are talented, and have a warm greeting; Alix Lukos, actor-vocalist, is good, his song "Pictures in the Fire" being cleverly rendered; Wright and Elton, speciality artists, are a capable pair, and have a cordial recall; Ethel Loftus, the comedy girl, is highly diverting; Joe Humphreys sings with great point; Trevally-Harley Troupe, comedy-trampolin acrobats, are very smart, and do excellent work; and also contributing successfully to the programme are Nancy St. John (soubretto and dansuese), Blake and Granby (comedy duologue artists), and Reen and Relbert (vaudeville entertainers).

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company is here this week in The Gay Parisienne. Mr. Edward Kipling keeps the audience in a state of continuous laughter by his droll impersonation of Ebenezer Honeycomb; Miss Gwennie Harcourt is genuinely amusing in the rôle of Ruth; Mrs. Honeycomb has a pleasing representative in Madame Ilma Norina; Mr. Rudolph Kloss acquits himself well as Major Fossdyke; Miss Lucia Collins is seen to advantage as Nora, and her delightful singing merits special praise; Mr. Lester Carey in the part of Tom Everleigh also displays excellent vocal ability; Mr. Charles Seguin is a clever and mirth-provoking M. Pompier; and Miss Alice Nixon makes a fascinating Julie Bon Bon.

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—Messrs. Jazon and Warner's company is presenting Aladdin here this week to large audiences. Miss Marie Braham as Aladdin makes a dashing principal boy; Miss Daisy Lane is a charming Princess Badroulbadour; Mr. Harry Carmen keeps the house convulsed with laughter as Widow Twankey; Abanazar has an excellent representative in Mr. Edwin C. Jazon; Mr. Alf Brooks creates much merriment as Gin Sling; Mr. Cyril Carle acquits himself creditably as the Emperor of China; the Three Delaries give a clever gymnastic display; and Mantell and Oral appear in a smart knockabout cycling act. Much praise is due to Salidi and Vone for their songs and dances, and the Sisters Varley also deserve great credit for their songs, which are well received.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—The chief attraction in this week's excellent programme is Maggie Walsh, the Lancashire singing mill girl, whose songs evoke vociferous applause. Billy Richardson is a first-class stump orator; Arthur Hartley performs some wonderful jumping feats; Carl and Carmanelli with their dog provide a novel musical act; the Four Aces give a brilliant and amusing acrobatic display; the Paul Hesse Trio appear in a skilful wire pot-pourri act; and other successful turns are Fred Fred Villiers (swell comedian), Chas. Melton (character vocalist, in a military song scena), and Fred Horsfall (a smart mimic). Bioscope pictures complete the entertainment.

RADCLIFFE.—Grand Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—The audiences this week are being entertained by Mr. H. G. Place's Alexandra Grand Opera Company. On Monday, Il Trovatore was successfully rendered. Miss Constance St. Bride as Leonora won applause by her fine singing; Mr. Frank Laud as Count de Luna was in excellent voice; and Mr. William Hillier as Manrico possesses a tenor voice of much richness. During the week, Faust, The Bohemian Girl, The Lily of Killarney, and Maritana have been given.

RAMSGATE.—Amphitheatre.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clifford and company have this week been appearing in the stirring drama, On Circumstantial Evidence. Mr. Clifford, the author, appears with fine effect in the rôle of Captain Hamilton; and Mrs. Clifford (Miss Maud Camfield) is a graceful and charming Violet Ogilvy. Mr. A. M. James does admirably as Sir James Kinloch, M.P.; and Mr. M. Curtis as Jack Ogilvy, and Mr. S. Long as the Italian liberator, General Garibaldi, are excellent. Miss Rose Faith fulfils the dual part of Olga Brandoni and Mary Brandoni in capital style; and a similar compliment must be paid to Miss Ruby Dennell as Polly Smithers, and Miss Dot Beresford as Tim. On Friday night, it was announced the receipts, after payment of expenses, would be devoted to the Ramsgate General Hospital.

RAWTENSTALL.—Grand Theatre.—Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller.—Chevalier Cliquot's Star Variety company opened here on Monday with a fine programme. Chevalier Cliquot describes himself as "the World's Greatest Sword Swallower," and his wonderful exhibition certainly substantiates his claim to this title—swords, sabres, bayonets, and even a watch and an electric arc lamp all disappearing down his throat in a most uncanny fashion. His display is certainly most wonderful and exceedingly interesting. Mr. Jack Royston is responsible for a capital turn, with his coon songs and dance; Miss Vinnie Loftus quickly finds favour with her graceful dancing; Alex and Jolly give a clever parallel-bar display; and the Sisters Ford are distinct successes as duettists; Mr. Bob Pearson has some humorous "gag" in his turn, in which he introduces several popular subjects; Neil and Stand are exceedingly clever in their burlesque comedy turn, keeping the house convulsed with laughter; and Miss Lily Pender, an Irish-American comedienne, submits an enjoyable interlude which includes sketches of different nationalities. The Two Shamrocks prove very popular in their delightful singing and dancing; Mr. A. Ventor is funny as a comedian; and Les Valadons are droll in their display as equilibrists and jugglers.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr. Reginald Taylor.—Mr. Milton Bode's own company is here this week with the grand fairy pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, which is staged in a very complete and satisfactory style. The Babes are very charmingly impersonated by Miss Renee Reel and Miss Daisy Connell; Prince Rupert has an attractive representative in Miss Ernestine Desborough; Miss Florence Arnold is effective as Rose, the village beauty; the Brothers Brooks as the two villains are clever comedians; Mr. Will Harman, who is an old Reading favourite, is highly amusing as Buttons; Mr. Happy Attwood as the Beadle, Mr. Ernest Sefton as Baron Blarer, Mr. Percy Dawsone as Mrs. Maria Slapp, Miss Alice Wade as Daisy, and Miss Kitty Tims as Tommy, all work hard; Miss Edith Benson is a graceful Good Fairy; and Miss Muriel Brendon is excellent as the Bad Fairy. Some first-rate specialities are introduced by the Bellong Brothers, in a very expert acrobatic and bicycle balancing act; the Cameron Glee Quartette; Cyclo, trick cyclist; and the Brothers Brooks.

Town Hall.—West's naval and military entertainment, Our Navy and Our Army, is being exhibited here with great success. A fine series of animated scenes are displayed, including one just arrived of the Prince of Wales's Indian Tour.

REDHILL.—Market Hall.—Proprietors, Market Hall Company; Secretary and Manager, Mr. A. Smith.—Quite a treat is offered the patrons of this house during the current week by Mr. G. W. Bowes, the local amusement caterer, in presenting Mr. John A. Thomson's charming pantomime Dick Whittington. The cast is a strong one throughout, the supporting chorus being exceptionally good. Miss Ida Kessanly is an ideal Dick; whilst the Alice Fitzwarren of Miss Ella Willmer is most delightful, her graceful dancing captivating everyone. Miss Annie Swires is a pleasing Fairy Goodwill, her finely-cultivated voice being heard to good effect in "Killarney" and other selections. Miss Ella Rose as Princess Charming sings and acts the part admirably. Mr. Ross Warren makes a capital Alderman and Mr. Edwin Dodds creates much amusement as Idle Jack. Mr. Hubert Davis proves a nimble Cat. Mr. Syd Morrelli is a typical Captain, whilst his First Mate, Pimple (Mr. Fred Anderson), causes roars of laughter by his really funny business. Mr. Harry Harcourt, as Fitzwarren's Cook, is also responsible for much of the amusement of the evening. In the gorgeous Palace scene the clever acrobatic dancing of the Sisters English receives deserved applause; a musical turn by Mr. Syd Morrelli is also well received; but the pièce de résistance of the evening is the truly marvellous work on the rolling globe by Mdlle. Florence (the heroine of the London to Brighton walk, some two years ago). Her act creates quite a furore. Mr. Arthur Sheldrake is the able musical director, and Mr. Frank Medhurst the manager of this company.

ROCHDALE.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Company, Ltd.; Managing Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—Revenge, a stirring play, full of incident, is presented here this week by Mr. E. Hill Mitchelson and company. Mr. E. Hill Mitchelson powerfully sustains the part of the villain, Prince Orloff; Mr. Wellesley Draper acts with telling effect as Captain Loris Vanessa; Mr. Theo Balfour is well placed as the King; and Miss Grace Aimers cleverly enacts Lieutenant Maurice. Miss Violet Carlyle acts the part of the Queen with power and effect. For Friday, Death or Glory Boys was billed by special desire.

Circus and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Lee; Business-Manager, Mr. S. L. Lee.—The patrons here are exceptionally well catered for this week. Soros and Miss Edna Reeve perform the well-known "vanishing lady" trick, which mystifies the audience compietely; the Brothers Romani, as strong men athletes, submit a capital display of strength combined with agility. Other good turns are contributed by Anneta, the eccentric one; Miss Violet Robson, comedienne; Handel and Lee, electric musical speciality; Imperial Song Illustrators; George Scott, vocalist; American Bio-motograph, in exclusive pictures; and Rex and Ford, comedians.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Manning's entertainers, in a comedy sketch, are creating a favourable impression here; Prince Ishmael and Mdlle. Valerie, Burmese comedy magicians and illusionists, submit a clever and amusing series of conjuring tricks. Charles Stevens, character vocalist; Frank Cumminger, sand dancer; Fred Curran, comedian; Milner Verren, vocalist; and "The Wolf-trap," by the Empire Bioscope, complete a really enjoyable programme.

ROTHERHAM.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—The management have been fortunate in booking Mr. George Dance's company for this week with The Cingalee. Mr. A. Wortley Drewitt is a smart Hon. Harry Vereker; and Mr. H. Webb gives an effective rendition of the part of Boobhamba. Mr. Eric Fenton is a peppery Sir Peter Loftus; and Mr. E. Edwards is seen to advantage as Bobby Warren. Mr. Tom Payne as Chambuddy is the life and soul of the comedy, and is ably supported by Miss E. Hughes as Peggy Sabine. Miss Millie Field is pleasing as Lady Patricia Vereker; and Miss Maud Guy scores as Angy Loftus. Miss Edith Harmer as Nanoya is deservedly applauded. The enlarged orchestra give an excellent rendition of the music.

RUGBY.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company is here this week with The Days of Cromwell. As Ironhand, the avenger, Mr. Montague Beaudyn has a part that suits him, and one to which he does ample justice by his clever and powerful acting. Mr. Robertson Foulis as Sir Marsden Mardyke is well placed and very effective; while as Matthew Mardyke Mr. Henry Lloyd is equally good. Mr. Edward Carter as Sir Wilfred Avondale and Mr. Howard Hardy as Walter Clifford are both excellent; Mr. T. R. White is amusing as Shadrack Shadwell, and is well seconded by Mr. Henry B. Momber as Toby, Mr. Jack Walker as Chaunt and Play, Mr. Arthur Mewburn as Smith and Ray, and Miss Jane Massey as Mrs. Shadwell. Miss Rene Munroe as Ruby Avondale is a charming and clever actress, and Miss Gloria Hill as Judith is very good. Miss Annie Glunn as Betsy, Maid of the Inn, causes a great deal of amusement by her vivacious rendering. Mr. Tom Robertson as Cromwell, Mr. Sidney Elsey as the Chaplain, Mr. George Ancoates and Mr. John Forsyth as the Torturers, and Mr. W. G. Shard as Martin, an Officer, all do well in their respective rôles.

RYDE.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees and Managers, J. Bannister Howard, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. Wm. Martin.—Mr. John A. Thomson's pantomime Babes in the Wood was here the first three nights of the week. Miss Beatrice Wadham as Robin Hood was responsible for some good songs, all well received; Miss Edith Madelle as Little John was on very good terms with her audience; Miss Trixie Toole as Maid Marion and Miss Daisy Stone as Mavis danced effectively; and Miss Minnie Litchfield, and Miss Kathleen Cogan sustained the parts of the luckless Babes with distinct merit. Mr. James Dowers, Mr. Henry Young, and Mr. Ted Mack, with Mr. Fred Taylor, worked hard in the parts of Araminta Koffkake, the Ruffians, and Friar Tuck respectively; and were well supported by Mr. Newton Pearce as the villainous Uncle, and Mr. Carl Moneta, whose sand dancing was popular. Miss Clair Wadham displayed a pleasing voice as the Fairy Sylvania, and the chorus was an effective one.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales's.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—A Royal Revenge; or, the Gipsy Dancing Girl, is a romantic play, which on Monday attracted a full house. Mr. J. H. Clyndes presents Estevan Alvarez and Pedro de Castro in his usual masterly manner; Inez Alvarez excites much sympathy as played by Miss Enid Edoni; Miss Aimee Grattan is charming as Cora Casilda; Mr. Reginald Foxhill as Nicholas Vargas presents a good study; Manuel Mondega, as presented by Mr. Arthur Chisholm, is a manly soldier. First as a Moor and then as Count Ulric Uzeda, Mr. Fred Rivers gives an excellent performance; the amorous King of Spain is well played by Mr. Herbert M. King; Mr. J. E. Worth as Michael Sancha and Miss Nellie Stuart as Paquita cleverly co-operate in the principal comedy business; Mr. Leslie Parker is a careful Friar Dominic; and Miss May Wyniard is very successful in her work as the Mother Superior.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—The chief attraction this week is Aladdin, presented by Dan Thomas and company. Mr. Thomas revels in the fun he introduces as Widow Twankey, keeping the house in roars. A fine, handsome Aladdin, with a good voice, is presented by Miss Nelly Lewis; Mr. Ernest Cass as the Emperor pleases with his bass voice; Miss Sadie Seymour is a charming Princess; Mr. Bert Wallace (though handicapped with hoarseness) does well as the Vizier; Abanazar has a good representative in Mr. Fred Lake; the Brothers Daniels as Slip and Slop, Miss Daisy Yates as Pekoe, Miss Rose Conroy as Catcher, and the other members work well together. The dresses and scenery are very pretty. Several variety turns precede the pantomime. Belle Davis and her piccaninnies give an exceedingly smart exhibition of dancing, &c.; Wallace Whitney's eccentric songs go well; Bensley Evans's London sketch company in Sally's Dilemma, with Miss Olive Lanty as Sally, are very amusing; the Elgars are much applauded; Les Henris are a strong couple, who do some clever equilibristic work; Berthe Foster, comedienne and descriptive vocalist; and Arthur Bearle, society jester, also please.

Royal Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—The entertainment provided this week is up to the usual standard. Jack Hylton is the essence of quaintness; the Four Hearns give a very good acrobatic exhibition; the Musical Palmers' Officers at Play is an extra good turn; a noveity is provided by Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the factory nightingales; and the other turns include the Gregson Trio, in novel sketch; Olive Veno, clog dancer; Bernard Noble, character comedian; Daisy Alma, serio and dancer; Sisters Dixon, banjo, song, and dance artists; and Bertha Stuart, with her Scotch songs.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. C. Harrison.—The pantomime of Robinson Crusoe is here this week. Miss Lena Stanton appears as Robinson Crusoe, a rôle which she fills most capably, having a dashing style and a capital voice. A dainty and vivacious Polly Perkins is found in Miss Minnie Melbah; Miss Minnie Maxwell is a charming Captain Taylor. Prominent amongst a strong band of comedians is Little Keeno, a gifted juvenile. Dame Crusoe is excellently played by Mr. Bruce Green; Mr. Will Terry gives a laughable study of Will Atkins; Mr. George Melbah is an amusing Friday. Amongst the specialities some original feats are introduced. Little Keeno is very clever in character songs; the musical Melbah's are skilful players of quaint instruments; the Orient Troupe, four lady acrobats and dancers, are smart. Others include La Belle Esma on the silver thread; the Droflas in a clever juggling act; and Miss Nina, a speciality gymnast.

SHEERNESS.—The Hippodrome.—General Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton.—Lovers of variety are well catered for here this week. Amongst the principal items are Ford and Hanson, an excellent musical turn; Ellis and Watts, comedians and dancers, are well received; a piano act by Miss Adey Spencer, in which song and dance are combined, meets with hearty approval; Kisbey, the Call-boy, submits an amusing comtribution of coon song and dance; Mr. Andy Higginson is popular with up-to-date songs; Miss Amy Allnutt, comedienne, and Mr. Fred Dice, eccentric comedian, also successfully contribute. The bioscope pictures are also in the bill.

Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. P. Reymond.—The company engaged here for this week includes the Arundel Sketch Combination, in the amusing farce, More Trouble

BERLIN, THURSDAY, Jan. 25.—Herr Hauptmann's latest dramatic work was the signal for the usual demonstrations: a house crowded in every part—many of the seats at fancy prices—enthusiastic applause, and some expressions of discontent, which were speedily extinguished by the efforts of the majority. Our critics are, with few exceptions, "down" on Herr Hauptmann's play, many of them agreeing in calling it a conundrum in four acts, although acknowledging—as they could not well otherwise do—the beauties of its phantasy and language. The following is briefly the plot. The action passes in the Silesian mountains, not among weavers this time, but glass-workers. In the first act we see them assembled in the village tap-room. Some of them are playing at cards, and among them is the Venetian glass-blower, Tagliazoni, a thorough-paced scoundrel and a cheat. The room is full; glass-workers, manager, and woodmen are there, and Pippa—Tagliazoni's child—comes and dances to them. Every one among them is in love, more or less, with Pippa, who is the personification of youth and grace and fragile beauty, but Huhn—a veteran glass-worker—is the most amorous of all. He is a repulsive figure in his ragged dress, a giant in stature, and uncanny in his ways, reminding us unconsciously of Nickelmann with his yearning for Rautendelein. There is a sudden break in the dance. Tagliazoni has been caught at card-sharping; he is chased by his furious companions into the street, and stabbed. Pippa—who has no reason to love her father—is left alone with Huhn, who makes use of the opportunity to carry the half-fainting girl away in the darkness of the winter's night, and keep her a prisoner in his hut. Michel Hellriegel—a young artisan on the "Wanderschaft"—comes along, and finds Pippa. Youth is drawn to youth, and Michel sees the realisation of his boyish dreams in the fragile girl. It would be strange, too, were Pippa not attracted to him, for he is brightness, hope, and credulity combined; his illusions are reality to him, and he forgets all material troubles in pursuit of them. The lovers escape, and presently come to one Wanu, who is designated by the author as a "mythical person." He lives alone in the hills, a hermit devoted to occult sciences—a veritable spirit of the mountains. Even he, old as he is, falls a victim to Pippa's charm, and gives the children—for they are little more—shelter. Huhn, however, follows them, but soon—apparently by the power of the sorcerer—falls dead. He does not die alone, for the spark of his life—as he once termed Pippa—is killed too, and in a mysterious manner. Huhn holds her little hand while he casts a Venetian glass to the ground, and Pippa's soul in that same moment goes forth into the unseen world. Golden-haired Pippa is dead, and Michel becomes blind; but he takes his harmonica and wanders onwards, still believing she is dancing at his side, leading him to the "water palace" which awaits him in the south, and of which he carries the golden key. There is no other German writer alive who could give us a play of such poetic beauty as this; while as to the cavilling of the critics, he who runs may read, and the solution is not so far to seek as they would have us believe. Pippa is the embodiment of the ideals that fill the human heart, the mirage of the soul, the essence of grace and beauty, that falls a victim to gross and brutal strength, to corybantic desire. Wanu is the philosopher who has done with life, who lives alone in his mystic sciences, but even in old age finds pleasure in youthful beauty, and would save it from its fate if he could. And Michel is—to use Herr Hauptmann's own words—the symbol of that which lives on in the soul of the German people, and this multum in parvo surely expresses all. The author says he wished to combine the spirit of Venetian lightness and incomparable art with the sterner qualities of his own native hills; the thought took such firm hold of him that he relinquished a well-nigh completed work to write—during the months of October and November—the present play. Dr. Brahm had, as usual, arranged for a magnificent cast and admirable mounting. The snowstorms, and moonlight and sunlight effects were as real as they could well be. Fräulein Orloff—Berlin's youngest actress—gave a most sympathetic and graceful rendering of the part of Pippa; it is a rôle that suits her down to the ground. Herr Grunwald was faultless in the part of the lad Michel; and an unstinted measure of praise is due to Herr Rittner's impersonation of the uncanny Huhn. That Herr Hauptmann was "called" innumerable times it is hardly necessary to record. Altogether, the production of Und Pippa Tanzt was an event in our theatrical annals.

A REMARKABLY handsome theatre—judging from the plans I have been privileged to see—will be the New Schauspielhaus in Nollendorf Platz, W. The name was intended at first to be Kronprinzen Theatre; but far more significant is the one now decided upon. The building—which it is hoped will be opened in October—is to seat 1200 persons, and a concert-room will be erected on the same piece of ground close by to seat 1500. In addition to this there is to be a first-class theatre restaurant, a manager's house, and a large beer restaurant, with a garden. Altogether, the enterprise is a big one, and there could not well be a better situation. Das Neue Schauspielhaus will have a manager of judgment, taste, and experience in the person of Herr Alfred Hahn, late lessee of the Berliner, and some years back one of the most capable members of the Deutsches Theatre under Dr. Brahm.

"SCHUTZENLIESL" has reached its twenty-fifth performance at the Theatre des Westens, and is still running merrily both here and at the Berliner. Notwithstanding its popularity, Director Prasch has decided to produce the new operetta, Der Herr der Hann, without more delay, and this will be given to-morrow evening.

BERNARD SHAW'S five-act drama, Cæsar und Cleopatra, will be produced very shortly at the Neues. Herr Steinrück and Frau Eysoldt are cast for the name-parts. Ein Sommernachtstraum is otherwise filling the bill at the Neues to the exclusion of well-nigh all other plays.

THE second opera of the Mozart Cycle, now being given at the Royal Opera, was Figaro's Hochzeit. This took place on Saturday before a crowded audience, and in the presence of the Emperor, Empress, and Prince August. Dr. Richard Strauss conducted, and the performance was, for the most part, excellent. On His Majesty's birthday an opera, entitled Der Lange Kerl, specially written and composed by Victor Boikowsky Biedan, will be given at the gala performance in the Opera House.

SARDOU'S ever-popular comedy, Cyprienne (Divorçons) was revived at the Schiller N. last week, and met with so much success that it is being given several times this week and next. The acting was better than it has been for some time, the cast being an unusually well-rounded one. Fräulein Brock was charming in the title-rôle—I have seen more famous actresses in the part with no more success—and she was rewarded in a worthy manner. The other chief parts were given by Herren Otto, Koestlin, and Rosan.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, Feb. 1.—It may at once be stated that Gorki's new drama was disappointing. The interest here, however, in the Russian author is so great—owing to the unparalleled success of his Nachtasyl—that Kinder der Sonne will certainly prove a draw, for a while at any rate. The reception accorded was cordial, but without any enthusiasm, and many of the audience were openly bored at the over-long dissertations. Gorki was not present, as the public had been led to believe, and that was to many another source of disappointment. The play is hardly worthy of the name; it is a series of disconnected scenes that would be better placed in a novel. The chief interest lies in the absolutely Russian character of the details, the language, and the persons of the play. Gorki has retained his strong individuality in the drawing of the lower types of the Russian people—the brute beast in man; but in his portrayal of the "children of the sun"—the better classes—he is less happy, and far more stereotyped than we have yet known him. Paul Feodorovitch Protassoff is a scientific chemist, who lives in his experiments and his dreams, and neglects his pretty wife, Helena Nicolajevna. She—otherwise the best of women—feels the slight, and thus falls a prey to the attentions of Dimitri Wagin, a painter and a friend of her husband's. Protassoff's sister Liesa now claims our attention. This is one of the most remarkable characters of the play. Deeply imbued with the terror of the times and of her unhappy country, Liesa is a pessimist; she inclines to melancholy more and more as the piece proceeds, until one is not surprised when at the end her brain gives way under the pressure of circumstances. The girl is loved by Tschepurnoi, a veterinary surgeon, and though she returns his affection, she will not marry him, having lost all faith in happiness. Her lover commits suicide, which unnecessary step causes Liesa to lose her reason, and she is with difficulty deterred from taking her own life. At the end of the piece there is a powerful scene; the peasants rise in a body against the doctors and students, who they—in the senseless and brutal fury which we are told is so typically Russian—declare have brought the cholera into the country. Protassoff is wounded in the fray, but recovers. There are a number of incidental episodes, one being the amorous advances of Melanie, a widow, who tries in vain to gain the interest of Protassoff; and another is the bestial conduct of Jegor, a man of lowest type and a wife-beater. The piece has a good deal in common with Tolstoi's Powers of Darkness, the same lofty ideals, the same drastic contrasts, while the profound melancholy characteristic of Gorki is apparent in most of the scenes. Herr von Huhn has translated the interesting work in a masterly manner, and the cast did its utmost to convey the author's intention. Particularly good were Fräuleins Neustädter and Waldegg, and Herren Licho, Abel, and Klein-Rhoden.

THE successful farce-burlesque Bis früh um Fünfe has passed its 150th consecutive performance at the Thalia, and there is no sign at present of any falling off in popularity. Author, artists, and managers were subjected to ovations on the occasion of the jubilee.

THE Schiller Theatre had a genuine première on Wednesday last, an event to be recorded. It was the work of a new author, too, which was performed, the four-act Biblical play, Königsglaube, by Hermann Stodte, a resident, I believe, of Lübeck. Out of the life of King David, his heroisms and his frailties, the author has drawn a number of highly dramatic scenes. We see the King in middle and old age, the struggle of his son Adonias to obtain the crown, and David's curses upon the would-be usurper ring in our ears. We are shown many scenes that have their origin less in the Old Testament than in the author's imagination, but on the whole, though crude and faulty in parts, it is an interesting work with traces of distinctive talent. Herr Stodte was called before the curtain several times in response to cordial applause, and his play will no doubt hold its place in the bill for some time to come. The interpretation was very satisfactory, as was also the mounting.

MISS ISADORA DUNCAN, the charming American dancer who illustrates Chopin, Gluck, and others of the old masters, gave her first evening of the season on Tuesday at the Theatre des Westens. The programme was a very varied one, including selections from many composers, the numbers which pleased the audience most being "Orpheus" and "Bacchus und Ariadne." Miss Duncan danced entirely unaided for nearly two hours, and with but brief intervals. She was rewarded with storms of applause from a crowded audience. In one of the large boxes the children—some twenty in number—of the Duncan School sat and applauded their leader, and made a delightful picture in their white Greek costumes.

HERR FRANK WEDEKIND'S play Hidalla has reached, by hook or by crook, its 50th performance at the Kleines. This enigmatical piece was fully detailed in your columns on its production; it is one of the poorest works we have ever been called upon to witness, and one of our critics terms it an outrage upon morals and good taste. It is a matter of astonishment that any manager could keep it in the bill so long. The author again gave the chief rôle, but that fact did not contribute to the entertainment of the audience in the least. Herr Wedekind, by the way, has been engaged for several years by Herr Reinhardt, manager of the Deutsches Theatre.

AN enterprising journalist has been interviewing our principal authors with a view to learning how they do their work, and we have heard some interesting items. Herr Hauptmann is the quickest of workers, for he tells us that he usually dictates his plays to his secretary. Thus Elga was begun and finished in two and a half days, College Crampton in ten, and Der Biberpelz in twelve days. Und Pippa Tanzt took two months to write. Herr Hauptmann does not write—or dictate—every day; if he did so some fifty plays would emanate from him in a year, "and," asks the famous dramatist modestly, "who would read them all?" Herr von Wildenbruch and Herr Sudermann never dictate their works, fearing thus to mar the beauty of the German tongue. All three authors write in the morning only, and consider night work of little value.

THE LATE MISS ELIZABETH BESSLE.

Miss Elizabeth Bessle, whose death on Jan. 24 we announced last week, made her last appearance on the stage supporting her friend, Miss Constance Crawley, in a play written by the latter, and given experimentally in the suburbs. Before that her last part was Lady Harborough in The Second in Command, which she played for four tours, under the management of Messrs. Ben Greet and Bannister Howard, but always under the personal direction of Miss Bessle's kind friend, Miss Harriet Greet.

The portrait is from a photograph taken by Lafayette at Dublin, when she was there with the Pinero Comedy Company, and is as Ruth Rolt in Sweet Lavender, a favourite part, which she preferred to almost any other, except the rôles she played in Shakespeare.

Miss Bessle was buried on the 26th ult., at St. Gregory's Catholic Church, at Stratford-on-Avon. The funeral was, by her own desire, very quiet and private, only a few near personal friends accompanying Miss Bessle's sisters to Stratford on the evening of the 25th ult., where, after a short service, the coffin remained for the night, covered by a quantity of brilliantly-coloured flowers, sent by friends who knew her dislike of the melancholy effect of white blossoms on such occasions. At half-past eight on Friday morning a Requiem

THE LATE MISS ELIZABETH BESSLE.

Mass was said by her friend and director, the Rev. J. Cooney, Vicar of St. Thomas's, Wandsworth, and afterwards the Funeral Service was read by Father Cooney, assisted by the Rev. J. G. Atheron, Vicar of St. Gregory's.

MR. SUGDEN AND MRS. LANGTRY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—The following letters, which have appeared in several Johannesburg papers, will explain the position. I am coming home at once, and shall bring an action against Mrs. Langtry when she returns in March. I should feel obliged if you would kindly publish my letter in your paper.—Yours faithfully,

CHARLES SUGDEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE STAR."

Sir,—I shall consider it a favour if you would allow me through the columns of your paper to protest against the use of my name appearing in the cast of The Walls of Jericho in the programmes of His Majesty's Theatre, as I have ceased to be a member of Mrs. Langtry's company. The reason of my withdrawal is fully explained in the accompanying letter, which I received from Mrs. Langtry's representative on Tuesday morning last, and which I shall be obliged if you will kindly publish.—I am, &c.,

CHARLES SUGDEN.

To Charles Sugden, Esq., Langham Hotel, Johannesburg.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of Mrs. Langtry, I beg to give you notice that you have broken your contract by going in front of the house to-night without permission, and refusing to leave when asked to do so by Mr. Young, Messrs. Wheeler's manager.

I have to inform you that your services will no longer be required, and shall be obliged if you will return your part to the stage manager to-morrow morning.—Yours truly,

WM. ALBERT.
(Manager for Mrs. Langtry).

MISS KITTIE CORRIE, second girl at the Grand Theatre, Islington, was presented with a very handsome gold-mounted hand bag by Miss Kitty Beresford (first girl), for taking her part at short notice.

SHAKESPEARE'S Taming of the Shrew was given a few evenings ago at the Berliner with scant success. The burlesque tone was the prevailing one, as is too often here the case in Shakespeare's lighter plays, and was carried to such an unwarrantable extent that caricature was bordered upon and the fine points of the work were lost. Herr Bonn—the new manager and lessee of the Berliner—gave the part of Petruchio, and his wife, Frau Maria Bonn, that of Kate, neither rendering being good, and the latter distinctly faulty in tone and conception. Some of the other rôles were satisfactorily sustained, and the audience expressed appreciation in warm applause.

M. de Féraudy's pet pupil, M. Gaston Brou, who created such an excellent Impression at last year's Conservatoire competition, will make a very interesting début at the Odeon in Louis XI., one of the most difficult rôles in the repertoire. It is a risky venture for a young beginner.

Another lady is leaving the halls for the legitimate stage. It is Mdlle. Valentine Petit, whom we applauded in her charming dances at the Folies Bergère and the Olympia, and who will soon make her appearance on one of our large theatres in a small rôle. I also hear of another choregraphic star of the opera ballet now working hard trying to correct her somewhat faulty enunciation.

The première of this new three-act farce, written by Mr Arthur Law for Mr. Weedon Grossmith, was given at the Canterbury Theatre Royal, originally built by Mr. Sidney Cooper, R.A., for the Canterbury Cricket Week "Old Stagers." The lesseeship of the theatre has recently passed into the hands of the Répertoire Theatre Association, with Mr. Edward Michael as director. Needless to state, the clever writer of The New Boy and A Country Mouse has put into the new production some capital work, and it was played, with the exception of Mr. Geoffrey Guise and Miss Gladys Homfrey, by the same company which supported Mr. Grossmith at Terry's, at the Comedy Theatre, and on his recent tour. There was a large audience to witness the first production of My Cousin Marco, and its reception was distinctly flattering. The piece has a better defined plot than many of the lighter style of plays which in recent years have been so much in vogue, it is bright and amusing, the dialogue contains many witty gems, and as the characters shake down to their respective parts they may be relied upon to enhance the fun of the piece.

In Act I., which is laid in the library of Lord Pulborough's London house, we are introduced to the newly-wedded Earl and Countess of Pulborough, and the lovers, the Hon. John Fanshawe and Lady Geraldine Esdale, all of whom are anxiously awaiting news of the arrival of a very wealthy aunt from Chicago, Miss Pansy Van Brunt. To the liberality of this lady the Earl has hitherto been greatly indebted, and all the young people are anxious to shine in her good graces. Meantime there arrives on the scene Marco Pescara, an Italian waiter at the Carlton Hotel, who has been fortunate enough to find a diamond bracelet which was lost overnight at a dinner-party by Lady Geraldine, and who has great ideas as to the amount of remuneration to which he is entitled as a reward. While the Earl and Marco are arranging this little matter in the study Aunt Pansy arrives. She is a lady of imposing presence, forceful methods, and strong American accent, with hat of sage green and pink and a plaid dress. Having been cordially received by the Earl and his prospective brother-in-law, she intimates without unnecessary circumlocution her desire to discuss with the former a matter of business, reminds him that his marriage was hastily accomplished despite her request for a short delay, and reveals the fact that she has ascertained on good authority that the grandmother of his wife was a woman of colour. This in America, she explains, is looked upon as a terrible disgrace, and if it proves to be true she will find it necessary to reduce the allowance of £2,000 a year which she has hitherto made to the Earl by one-half and the promised marriage gift of £100,000 will go instead to Geraldine. The unhappy Earl is, of course, terrified by the prospect; he is full of assurances that his worthy relative is misinformed, and eventually hits upon the device of introducing Marco, who is still waiting in another apartment, as Count di Pescara, to pose as the cousin of his wife and to prove that his wife is of Italian, and not Mulatto extraction The trick succeeds, and Miss Pansy, who is really a good sort at bottom, is greatly relieved to find her terrible suspicions unfounded.

In the first scene of Act. II. the party are, four days later, assembled in a private sitting-room at the Palace Hotel, Brighton, when the reappearance of Marco strikes terror to the hearts of the Earl and his fellow conspirator, Fanshawe. The quick-witted Italian, having realised the power of his position, had ascertained their whereabouts, and determined to maintain the deception. Upon the unsuspecting ladies he has made a very good impression, and it is not long before, having discovered the wealth of Miss Pansy, he proceeds to make ardent professions of love to her, eventually extracting a promise that she will give him her answer a week hence. Subsequently the Duke of Barncastle (father of Fanshawe) arrives with the Duchess, and is struck with the similitude of Marco to a Carlton Hotel waiter, who was insolent as to the amount of his "tip" on a recent occasion. Subsequently Marco and his inamorata go for a motor drive, and the curtain falls upon the sensation caused by the intelligence that in the temporary absence of the chauffeur the motor was in some way started, and that a terrible catastrophe must have occurred. It would appear to be questionable, however, whether the unaccompanied trip was not due to the duplicity of the soi-disant Count, for in the second scene they prove to have arrived at a wood several miles distant from Brighton. Here, however, a mishap does occur; both are thrown out, and the Count somewhat considerably damaged. They are befriended by a burly tramp and his wife, and subsequently Marco takes advantage of the shattered nerves of his companion to induce her to marry him on the following day at the neighbouring township of Hockley.

Act III. finds the agitated party still sojourning at the Brighton hotel a couple of days later. Failing any news of a tragedy, they begin to fear an elopement, and their apprehensions are in no sense dispelled by the receipt of a telegram: "Quite safe, gone to London. Will write.—Pansy." Later comes a notification of her intended arrival, and shortly after Aunt Pansy, clad in festal white, introduces "the Count," to whom, it appears, she had been married that morning. They propose to have the wedding breakfast with their friends at Brighton, and then to proceed on to Paris for the honeymoon. The Duke is by this time so sure of the identity of Marco that he charges him with the imposition, but on being promised £1000 consents to remain silent. Worse trouble is, however, in store, for during the wedding breakfast the strains of an organ playing the "Wedding March" are heard from outside, and when Marco, in an unlucky moment, consents to throw some money to the woman, she recognises him as her husband. The Earl and Fanshawe are, of course, not slow to profit by the discovery, and under threats of a prosecution for bigamy Marco makes his exit, leaving the unhappy Aunt Pansy in hysterics.

The farce was remarkably well put on for a first night, and, as we have said, its reception was most gratifying. Mr. Weedon Grossmith gave a very clever imitation of the broken English and foreign accent of the Italian waiter, and his occasional lapses when figuring as the Count were extremely amusing. The melodramatic love scene in the wood, played at a time when the lover is very inelegant both in appearance and gait from the results of the motor accident, should afford scope for even additional point and development, and the wedding breakfast and final proceedings went extremely well. Miss Gladys Homfrey, who played the leading part with Mr. Grossmith in The New Boy, is well suited to the character of the Chicago lady, and played the part admirably. The conversion of the shrewd, matter-of-fact business woman by the glamour of the love-making of the supposed Italian nobleman was remarkably well suggested. Messrs. Lovell and Guise did excellently well as the worried conspirators, and Miss Gladys Mason and Miss Dido Drake as the Countess and Lady Geradine were deserving of all praise. The aristocratic Duke and Duchess were impersonated with becoming hauteur and distinction, and the other minor parts were in good hands. The play was produced by Mr. Percy Foster and the author, with Mr. Richard Maynard as business manager for Mr. Weedon Grossmith.

PIT AND GALLERY QUEUE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I have a suggestion, which I will put into a nutshell.

5.0 p.m.—The "pay-box" opens. From this time to the hour of opening playgoers arrive, buy their tickets—issued, of course, in the order of number—and go off on their individual pursuits.

7.45 p.m.—Playgoers are expected to be back at the theatre by this time (a note to that effect appearing on the tickets), and take their places in a queue, the order being indicated—as in a scheme recently put forward—by either portable stands or tablets on the wall, bearing the numbers 20, 30, 40, and so on. A commissionaire now goes along examining the tickets, to see that each person is in his or her proper place.

8.0 p.m.—The door opens, the check-taker allowing persons to pass in one by one to prevent any "rushing" of the seats: since under this scheme the latter would not be numbered. Those ticket-holders (very few, if any) who are not back at the theatre in time to take their places in the queue before opening-time, of course, have to take their chance (a note to that effect appearing on the tickets).

The above would not constitute "advance booking" of the pit and gallery (which, as a body, I think, the habitués of those parts of the house do not want, inasmuch as the pay-box would not open before the time at which, under the existing régime, the queue begins to form; it would simply secure for the playgoer a definite place in a fifteen-minute queue to retain which, at present, necessitates a wait of two or three hours.

As a modification the seats might of course be numbered, necessitating no queue at all.—Yours faithfully,

F. E. POTTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In reference to Mr. Poole's wise and timely remarks re the jokes of a partisan nature to which we are often treated at theatres and music halls, it appears such a short-sighted policy to make them that one wonders at the offenders. It requires real genius to invent a political jest which shall amuse all and offend few. What would these gentlemen say if their tobacconist started selling his cigars and tobacco wrapped up in tractlets denouncing "theatres and play-actors"? They are, perhaps, misled by the applause such efforts sometimes obtain, forgetting that to "boo" as emphatically as you may applaud would ensure the prompt attention of the attendant. The attendant may stop the "boo," but he cannot make anybody come and pay twice.—Yours faithfully,

CHARLES CROZIER.

Bath, Jan. 30, 1906.

A NEW version of Oliver Twist, by Grahame Watson, will shortly be produced at the Grand Theatre, Forest Gate.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, January 29,
The Musical Comedy in two Acts, by Seymour Hicks and Cosmo Hamilton, entitled
"THE CATCH OF THE SEASON."

After enjoying a successful run of five weeks the pantomime here came to a conclusion on Saturday last, and was followed on Monday by The Catch of the Season, which might very well be described as "Cinderella Up-to-Date." It abounds in witty lines and tuneful music, which, together with a capital company, fine scenery, and magnificent costumes, make the performance as bright and attractive as could be desired. The acting all round is excellent. Miss Maie Ash scores a decided hit as Angela, playing her part with such charm and intelligence. Her songs, too, are rendered with excellent effect, especially "Teasing." Another good performance is given by Mr. Frank Lincoln as the Duke of St. Jermyns, his clever and spirited acting greatly adding to the success. Miss Hettie Muret, as the Hon. Honoria Bedford, is seen to advantage, her fine singing being greatly appreciated. As the Hon. Sophia Belford Miss Alice Lethbridge's clever and graceful dancing is deservedly encored. The haughty Lady Crystal is successfully portrayed by Miss Belle Napier, and Mrs. A. B. Tapping gives an excellent presentation of the good-natured Lady Caterham. Mr. Laurence Caird is responsible for an excellent picture of the stuttering Lord Dundreary; Mr. Julian Cross is a capable exponent of the part of Sir John Crystal; and Miss Hilda Stewart as the Duchess of St. Jermyns and Miss Ernestine Gauthier as Miss Caw both created a favourable impression, the last-named's rendering of the song "Singing Bird" being accorded much applause. Master Grata played the part of Bucket with pronounced success, and amongst others giving good support mention may be made of Mr. Alfred Lloyd, as Higham Montague; Mr. Evelyn Wickens, as Lord Yatton; Mr. E. W. Royce—who contributes a good song—as Mr. William Gibson; Mr. Robert McGrath, as Captain Bushpool; and Mr. Cecil P. Pearce, as Almeric Montpelier.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, Jan. 29,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Frederick Melville, entitled
"THE BEAST AND THE BEAUTY."

Full of stirring situations, and bristling with cleverly-contrived incidents, this original play of Mr. Frederick Melville's has quickly found favour in Marylebone. Foremost amongst the strong dramatic company engaged is Mr. Fred D. Daviss, whose Jack Barrymore ("The Beast") stands out clear as an impersonation of singular merit. With a fine enunciation and a well defined method, Mr. Daviss quickly secures a hold on the house. As Henry Denver, otherwise known as Lord, Mr. Bernard Mervyn portrays villainy in clever fashion; Mr. Ronald Adair is grim and earnest as Ned Sampson; Mr. James Neal is resourceful as Joe Pugsley; Mr. Bernard J. Liell scores as the Earl of Loman; and Mr. Will Corrie enacts the part of Tom Chicken with plenty of life and go, causing much laughter, his efforts in this direction being ably backed up by Miss Jennie Danvers as Mimi. Miss Alice Bowes is pretty and engaging as Violet ("Beauty"), making many friends; and Miss Georgette Thierry sustains the important rôle of Delilah Vane, with a full appreciation of its possibilities. Mr. William Fraser-Brunner is the general manager for Mr. Frederick Melville, and Mr. James Sinclair looks after Mr. William Bailey's interests in front in his customary efficient and courteous way.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, Jan. 29,
the Play, dramatised from Charles Dickens's novel, entitled
"OLIVER TWIST."

After a prosperous run of pantomime, the cosy little Kingston playhouse returned to serious drama on Monday night, when Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company opened a week's engagement in Oliver Twist. The dramatised version of a story familiar to all aroused a keen interest amongst those who witnessed its production, and its reception, which was most cordial, was as much a tribute to the skill of the artists taking part in the play as to the genius of the great novelist. Mr. Howard himself played the part of Fagin, and with a marvellous make-up invested the part with a realism that impressed all parts of the house. Mr. William H. Kemble appeared as the burly Bill Sikes, and gave a fine impersonation of the part; Mr. Charlie Clark as the Artful Dodger and Miss Dorothy Marsdin in the title-rôle were each well selected for the parts. Miss Marie Bollini made a favourable impression as Nancy, and Miss Alice Maud as Mrs. Maylie and Miss Helen Clement as Rose Maylie acquitted themselves creditably in their respective parts. The part of Harry Maylie was ably portrayed by Mr. Cyril Cattley, and others in a strong cast deserving of particular mention were Mr. Reginald C. Hunter (Charlie Bates), Mr. Arthur Brown (Mr. Brownlow), Mr. Edward Walsh (Mr. Bumble), and Mr. W. H. Rotherham (Mr. Grimwig and Monks). The play was admirably staged, both as to scenery and costumes.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Jan. 29,
the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

The dramatic season at this handsome new theatre was begun on Monday with the evergreen Uncle Tom's Cabin, which, to judge from the reception accorded here this week to Mr. John Tully's company, is still as great a favourite as ever. Mr. William Taylor is well suited as Uncle Tom, and plays the part of the faithful old retainer with a pathetic realism which was most affecting. Miss Florence Venimore skilfully doubles the rôles of Eliza Harris and the slave Cassey, and is especially successful in some of the latter character's strong scenes with Simon Legree, notably the one ending in the slave-owner's death at Cassy's hands. Legree is played with just the right touch of vengeful ferocity by Mr. Fred G. Kay, who soon earns the hearty execrations of the house. As Aunt Ophelia Miss Marie Lyndon is a veritable "model of order," and gives satisfactory expression to the good lady's horror and indignation at the various "goings on" of Topsy. The last-named character finds a vigorous representative in Miss Kitty Wood, whose good spirits and lively acting soon make her a favourite. The child Eva is cleverly impersonated by Little Marie; Mr. Charles Colwyn plays St. Clair in good style; Mr. John Tully is amusing as Fletcher, a Kentuckian pedlar; Mr. J. D. Geddes is a manly George Harris; Miss Rebecca White acts well as Aunt Chloe; and the minor parts are all well-handled. In the last act is introduced a "grand plantation festival," in which much appreciated special turns are contributed by Misses Kitty Wood, Florrie Mack, and Lilian Francis, and by Messrs. Billy Taylor, King Roy, and H. Danby.

GRAND THEATRE, FOREST GATE.

On Monday, Jan. 29,
the Drama, by Mark Melford, entitled
"FLYING FROM JUSTICE."

After the run of the successful pantomime, the stock company presented on Monday Mark Melford's exciting drama, Flying from Justice. Mr. George Harvey gave a convincing and manly rendering of the clergyman, John Lacarsy; Mr. T. W. Broadley as J. Haldane, a notorious criminal, played in a clever manner; Mr. Herbert Sibley, a great favourite, was most successful as Major Parkes; Miss Nellie Lucas filled the rôle of Mildred Parkes most artistically; Miss Eleanor Glover gave a powerful rendering of the adventuress; Mrs. Baring had a clever exponent in Miss Beatrice Wilson; Mr. Arthur Snow looked and played the part of Charles Bearing with his usual success; and Mr. John Hill and Mr. Oliver Martyn respectively as Pearley Tanner and Woodruff, completed an exceptionally strong cast. Mr. Jack White has worked hard to make this little house a popular resort.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

A second edition of Cinderella, which gave a new lease of life to this popular pantomime, was produced on Monday. The comedians have introduced new patter and business, which makes the performance more successful than ever. Among the new additions are "Hear the pipers calling, Jenny mine," capitally sung by Miss Lily Iris, who also gives "The Stowaway," which was redemanded. Miss Mollie McIntyre, with Miss Iris, sings a very pretty swing duet entitled "She's the daisiest daisy," in which the ladies of the chorus, garbed like that pretty flower, assist, making a very effective picture. Miss Madge Yates's reply song, "Yes, you are," is greatly popular. Mr. G. French and Mr. T. Conway are the life and soul of the pantomime, and the audience never seem to have enough of these two artists, who cause roars of laughter whenever they occupy the stage. Mr. French still gives "She's ma daisie," which is encored again and again. The pantomime, which will run for another week, is undoubtedly the most successful, both financially and artistically, ever seen at Brixton. The students from Guy's Hospital paid a visit this week and presented the principal artists with handsome bouquets and other floral tributes.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE, POPLAR.

Now that his first pantomime at the new Poplar Theatre has come to a successful termination, Mr. Clarence Sounes is endeavouring to find out in what channels the tastes of his patrons run. He has therefore prepared for them a protean list of entertainments, his season of which opened on Monday with Mr. Charles Frohman's company in Leah Kleschna. The attendance on the evening of our visit was most encouraging, and the audience followed the story that was being unfolded before them with keen interest. This piece will certainly serve as one indication of local likings, and high-class drama will find ready support from Poplar theatre-goers. Next week Uncle Tom's Cabin is to be presented, while during the following week The Eternal City will be staged, and the week after that the attraction will be The Catch of the Season, to be succeeded by The Prodigal Son. The company performing in Leah Kleschna this week is a most capable one. There is Mr. H. Cooper-Cliffe, whose acting in the rôle of Kleschna is both vigorous and subtle—vigorous and threatening when he is instructing his daughter to commit crime, and to do other things she really doesn't want to do, and subtle in the scene where he is face to face with Paul Sylvaine, and where his efforts to control his feelings meet with such little success. Mr. J. Graeme Campbell presents a fine-drawn study of Paul Sylvaine, and his encounter with Leah immediately after he has disturbed her in her burglarious act is admirably well played. Miss Haidee Wright, in the rôle of Leah Kleschna, displays pronounced ability for tragedy, and it is not too much to say that her performance of a difficult part is a highly finished piece of work. An interesting portraiture, too, is that of Mr. Cyril Harcourt, as Raoul Berton, the characterisation being just what it should be. Mr. Kenneth Rivington acts with dignity and soldierly straightforwardness as General Berton; and Mr. E. H. Brooke is praiseworthy as Schram.

CARLTON THEATRE, GREENWICH.

On Monday, Jan. 29, was presented the Drama, in Three Acts, by C. Watson Mill, entitled
"A WRECKER OF MEN."

A large and appreciative audience assembled to witness the representation of the above drama, which made a success on its last visit here some few months ago. The part of Jim Murley was admirably acted by the author-manager, Mr. C. Watson Mill; Mr. Gilson Brooke was excellent as Railton; Mr. Milner Noble gave a picturesque impersonation of Pharosaphus; Mr. Percy Horton was very good as Guise Strange; Mr. N. Carter Slaghter gave a good account of the Hon. Reggie Verincourt; Mr. Henry Rutland must be congratulated on his excellent acting of the parts of Karnaphus and Ezekiel Isaacs; Mr. Alfred Maurice was very good as Eric Melville; and the remaining male parts were all capitally acted. Miss Rosalind Tate submitted a powerful performance of the character of Risca Mallinson; Miss Cissie Podmore made a charming Dorris Melville; and Miss Kittie Melville was very amusing as Vivasole Slopper.

GRAND THEATRE, ISLINGTON.

On Monday, Jan. 29,
the Pantomime, written by Newman Maurice, with Music by Frank Bradsell, entitled
"LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD."

The pantomime Sinbad, after a phenomenally successful run, terminated on Saturday night, and on Monday Mr. James's production from Croydon became the reigning attraction, an excellent audience witnessing the initial performance. Little Red Riding Hood, like its predecessor, is from the versatile pen of Mr. Maurice, the acting-manager here, and a very attractive version of the story is the result. Mr. Bradsell, who is responsible for the music, has utilised a large number of the usual hits of the season, together with a good deal of original music, and the score is skilfully arranged and effective. The mounting is on a very complete scale, and Mr. James deserves congratulations on the many picturesque sets that adorn the production. Miss Rita Rhylle, who plays the title-rôle, is a very young lady, albeit a very clever and dainty artist. In her hands the character is very attractive, and her singing is a feature of her performance. Miss Ethel Dove as Robin Hood is an excellent principal boy, singing and dancing with great success, and enlivening the stage whenever she is on. The Sisters Brand, as Jack and Jill, are well placed as second boy and girl, and introduce a clever series of national dances in the Palace scene. Miss Kitty Reveni as the Fairy is effective, and uses a well-trained voice with effect. Mr. Herbert Williams, an old favourite here, scores an emphatic success as Granny, his quips and gags appealing strongly to the humorous perceptions of the audience. Mr. Charles Marston as the Wolf plays the part in a requisite melodramatic vein, and displays a good voice in his song, "Blow, blow, thou winter wind." Mr. Alf. Aubyn as Lawyer Fox is quaint and amusing, and sings and dances to the evident enjoyment of the audience. A feature of this pantomime is the introduction of that old trap-door work that used to thrill the youngsters. Mr. Fred Regina, who controls this portion of the performance, gives an exhibition that is remarkably smart and clever, and well deserves the call he gains at its termination. Messrs. Condon and Preston as Pen and Ink exhibit much humour as cross-talk comedians and are of value to the production. In the Palace scene Mons. Levano, a clever acrobat, and Knoto, a contortionist, appear, and give in each case a good show, which gained deserved applause. There is a well-trained ballet, with Miss Idalia May as the principal dancer, and the first part closes with a novel and pretty Snow Ballet. The harlequinade which closes is on the old familiar lines, with Messrs. Condon and Preston as clown and pantaloon, Mr. Syd Morton as harlequin, Miss Hardingham as columbine, and Mr. E. Lidden as the policeman. Mr. Syd Morton, who has produced the pantomime, under the supervision of Mr. James, deserves a word for the smooth performance he secured on Monday, and Mr. Bradsell conducted the augmented orchestra and chorus.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, Jan. 29, 1906,
the Musical Play, entitled
"A CHINESE HONEYMOON."

Mr. George Dance's company is at the Pavilion this week with A Chinese Honeymoon, which secured a most enthusiastic reception on Monday night from a demonstrative audience, who called for all the favourite numbers again and again. The songs and dances are exceptionally good, while every praise must be given to the very fine and energetic chorus, which, together with the capital augmented orchestra under the efficient direction of Mr. H. R. Mathews, worked with conspicuous ability throughout the performance, and gave unabated enjoyment. A graceful and fascinating Soo-Soo is presented by Miss Ada Watson, who possesses a remarkably sweet voice, and who was heard to advantage in her exquisite rendering of "Egypt"; while a winsome and captivating Mrs. Pineapple was found in Miss Poppy Wilkinson, who proved herself an accomplished singer and dancer, her coon song "Maudie from Ohio" being vociferously re-demanded. Miss Edie Ross depicts the severe and masterful manner of Mrs. Brown with good effect, and Miss Dolly Bell and Miss Florence Linton are charming representatives of Sing-Sing and Yen-Yen. Mr. Foster Courtenay is highly amusing as Mr. Pineapple, and keeps the audience supplied with genuine humour, scoring a distinct success with his song "Home from home." A droll and clever performance of Hang Chow is given by Mr. St. John Hamund, who must be complimented on his admirable make-up, while his topical melody "The Ladies" was the subject of frequent encores. Mr. L. Bullock-Webster is seen as Tom Hatherton, and makes the most of his limited opportunities, and Mr. Jack Lisle deserves approbation as Hi Lung. Mr. Percy Russell is perfectly satisfactory as Chippi-Chop, and the bridesmaids are vivaciously impersonated by Miss Lillie Hildroe, Miss Mabel Thornton, Miss Madge Shaw, and Miss Isobel Vivian. Miss Minnie Leslie must be warmly congratulated on her extremely funny presentment of Fi-Fi; her facial expression, make-up, and grotesque eccentricities are irresistible in their comicality, and provide a large share of the evening's mirth, while her representations of popular personages in the second act fairly bring down the house. Miss Harriette Greene is piquant as Mi-Mi, and the scenery, dresses, and mounting are excellent. Mr. Colin Bryce is the courteous business manager for Mr. George Dance.

THE TERRISS.

On Monday, Jan. 29.
the Drama, in Five Acts,
by Henry Pettitt and Augustus Harris, entitled,
"HUMAN NATURE,"

The above popular military drama is attracting large audiences at Rotherhithe this week. The play is full of exciting incidents, and the scene in Act 4—Trafalgar Square, the return of the troops from the Zulu War—makes a fine picture, and is loudly applauded. Mr. Ashley Page scores a great success in the part of Captain Temple, and his manly and intelligent rendering of the character causes him to become a prime favourite with the audience. Mr. H. C. Cooper gives a fine delineation of the rascally solicitor, Matthew Hawker. Mr. Edward Lorley presents a finished rendering of the rôle of Paul de Vigne. Mr. Cyril Vernon does all that is possible with the part of the adventurer, Stephen Mardyke. Mr. H. J. Barrett is excellent as the worthy vicar, the Rev. Arthur Lulworth. Mr. Johnny Chippendale creates a good deal of fun out of the character of Horatio Sperkins. Mr. John Sargent presents a clever character sketch as Joe Lambkin. Little Minnie wins the sympathy of the house as the boy Frank. Dick's death scene is pathetically rendered by Miss Winifred Williamson. That popular leading lady, Miss Marion Denvil, is very sympathetic in the arduous rôle of the heroine, Nellie Temple. The treacherous Cora Grey is played to the life by Miss Doris Gilham. Miss Mattie Everett is humorous as Maggie Wilkins, and Miss Maggie Lindsay gives a clever sketch of the repulsive Mrs. Lambkin.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Jan. 29,
the Play, by William Gillette and A. Conan Doyle, entitled
"SHERLOCK HOLMES."

The return of Sherlock Holmes to the Dalston Theatre is evidently a popular event, judging by the applause which greets the representation. The part of the great detective is effectively played by Mr. H. Lawrence Leyton, who fully realises the importance of surrounding the character with a due amount of mystery combined with enviable coolness. Sherlock Holmes's interview in his Baker-street apartments with Professor Moriarty is an exemplification of this. The Professor Moriarty of Mr. W. F. Stirling is a fine portrayal of cool villainy, varied by occasional outbursts of passion. James Larrabee is another "villain of the piece," but of a more gentlemanly type, and the part is well played by Mr. Earnest Gray. Mr. Philip Renouf makes an interesting Sidney Prince; Mr. J. Poole Kirkwood is John Forman; and Mr. Edward Heanley as Dr. Watson, impresses one as being a very genial practitioner. Aristocratic colouring is imparted to the play by Mr. Henry Littlejohn as Sir Edward Leighton and Mr. Sidney Chaplin as Count Von Stahlburg. Miss Gertrude Harrison as Madge Larrabee proves an ardent assistant in her husband's villainous designs; but of course the chief interest centres in Miss Beatrice Marsdene as Alice Faulkner, whose eventful career forms the main theme of the story. Miss Armine Grace appears as Mrs. Faulkner, Miss Constance Howard is Mrs. Smeedley, and Miss Doris Digby the maid, Terese.. The cast also includes Mr. W. Maynard, Mr. W. Mansfield, Mr. E. H. Fairburn, Mr. H. Broughton, Mr. W. Wilson, Mr. S. Richardson, and Master Charles Chaplin.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Jan. 29,
the Play, in Four Acts, entitled
"THE ONLY WAY."

The pantomime at the Grand has run its allotted course, and the legitimate drama reigns in its stead. The season opens worthily with a visit from Mr. Martin Harvey and his company in The Only Way. This excellent version of Dickens' famous novel, "A Tale of Two Cities," has lost none of its attractiveness, nor has Mr. Martin Harvey's wonderful impersonation of Sydney Carton lost a jot of its power and intensity. His study of the gifted but besotted advocate in the first act is still a veritable triumph of the actor's art. The Trial Scene affords another opportunity for a display of power in a more vigorous rôle, and this is followed in its turn by the tragic intensity of Carton's farewell to his friends in Paris, and the pathos of the final scene with Mimi in the Conciergerie. Mr. Percy Anstey gave good support as Charles Darnay, and makes an excellent lover, bearing himself with the courage of the old noblesse in the hour of trial. As Dr. Manette, both in the prologue and the play proper, Mr. Fred Wright, sen., acts very finely; while Mr. Percy Alexander adds a touch of humour and of manly sincerity as the faithful friend Lorry. Mr. Charles Glenney is a grim and sinister figure as Ernest Defarge, and makes full use of his opportunities; and Mr. Reeve Denbigh is a good representative of the respectable fraud Stryver, the successful barrister for whom Sydney Carton "devilled." Miss Coleridge acts throughout with much tenderness and feeling as Lucie Manette; Miss N. de Silva repeats her former success as the charming Mimi of the earlier scenes, rising to greater heights in the moving final scene. The other members of the company, who fill the minor parts in the Court Scene, and make up the realistically ferocious crowd, all do their work well, and add to the artistic finish of the performance. Mr. Martin Harvey is appearing also in two more of his favourite parts in The Breed of the Treshams and The Cigarette-Maker's Romance.

CORONET THEATRE.

Cinderella, in its second edition, is "going strong" at the Coronet Theatre. On Monday all Notting Hill-gate turned out agog with excitement to see the 700 boys from the Duke of York's School, whom Mr. Robert Arthur had kindly invited to see the delightful performance. Several new features are introduced in the second edition: notably a pretty duet between Prince Peerless (Miss Katie Vesey) and Cinderella (Miss Ruby Forbes), "My Lulu," and a very pretty ballad, "Two brown eyes," sung by Miss Katie Vesey with singular charm and expression. Mr. T. H. Wood, as Aconite, too, has introduced "Will o' the wisp." The two ugly sisters have improved their parts out of all knowledge; and Messrs. Jno. Brabourne and H. Herbert hold the attention of the audience throughout. The same remark applies to Mr. Ernest Shand as the page Pickles, whose drollery is more pronounced and spontaneous than ever. As Fitter and Fatter, Messrs. Alexandre and Hughes are quaintness and comicality personified, and their duet "Bom-Bombay" goes with a rare rattle. "They're not downhearted—no!" Miss Meg Hamylton, as Dandini, retains all her pristine charm, and Bert Coote's Irish-Indian maids receive a warm welcome whenever they appear, their singing and dancing being especially good. Miss Enid Errol trips on the light fantastic with her customary ability, and all is sweetness and light and genuine fun. The scenes of the Fairy's Boudoir and the Rose Fête are things of beauty and delight.

"KING WOW WOW" AT THE BRITANNIA.

(Second Notice).

This successful pantomime is still in great demand by Hoxtonians. Since its production it has been carefully revised, and new songs, "gags," and dances have been freely introduced. Miss Jessie Preston, the dashing principal boy, who has unfortunately been suffering from a severe cold, has got to work again. She is an ideal Prince, and a prime favourite. During her absence she had an able understudy in Miss Belle Spencer. Miss Lillie Lassah retains the part of Sir Bertie Boulevard. "I'm in love" and "I know it," and "The boys go marching by," are the new numbers allotted to her. This young lady's ability has already been sufficiently borne testimony to, and she has now taken her place in the list of "Brit." pantomime favourites. Miss Joan Preston (Princess Dainty) scores immensely with "Old Japan"; Mr. Jock Preston causes roars of laughter. He is now singing Wilkie Bard's successful song, "The Cowslip and the Cow." Mr. Fred Lawrence (Tommy) and Miss Marie Brian (Sallie Simple) make a decided hit with an amusing duet, "Pictures in the Frame"; Mr. James Albert (Horatio Hardface) and Mr. Edmund Edmunds (Sammy Softun) are great favourites. "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you" is well given by the Misses Blanch Albert and Winnie Evans (Reggie and Elsie); Mr. Willie Albert (Tabby) is assisted by four young ladies in an effective bell dance; new specialities are supplied by the Ten Dixie Girls, Miss Teresa Banteni showing great vocal ability with "There's nobody just like you"; the Misses May Carter, Queenie Hawke, Flo Fryer, and Maggie Taylor excel with a pretty pas de quatre. The Britannia pantomime would not be complete without a harlequinade. The scene is described as "a funny street in a funny place, where the fun is fast and furious," and it does not belie its description. Mr. Leo Main and Mr. Willie Albert are the clown and pantaloon, Mr. Harry Milbert (policeman), and the Misses Lizzie and Queenie May as harlequin and columbine, all working well together. All the incidental music and concerted pieces, including a pretty lantern chorus, are composed by Mr. Carl Hamlin, the resident musical-director. Mr. James McCarthy, with the able assistance of Mr. H. Sampson, looks well after the comfort of the audience. Great credit is due to Mr. W. Wauer (stage-manager), for the excellent way in which he has carried out his arduous duties. Mr. Chas. Ross works hard as assistant stage-manager.

OPERA HOUSE, CROUCH END.

On Monday, Jan. 29, 1905,
the Comedy, in Three Acts, by T. W. Robertson, entitled
"CASTE."

This old but evergreen comedy is delighting large audiences at the Crouch End Opera House this week. The company is a clever and painstaking combination, and every effort is brought to bear to give a successful rendering of the famous play. Mr. A. P. Kaye, who acts the rôle of the Hon. George D'Alroy, must be congratulated on a polished and highly-finished performance of the part. He must also be credited with a natural manner and good appearance, both of which assist him in giving an admirable rendering of the aristocrat, who marries the girl of his choice in the teeth of all opposition. As Captain Hawtree, Mr. Percy Maitland is well placed. His coolness and sangfroid are an excellent contrast to the go-ahead policy of George D'Alroy. Mr. T. Thorpe Tracey gives a lifelike representation of the despicable old drunkard Eccles. His audacious methods of obtaining money for the purpose of slaking his ever-present thirst, cause much merriment. Mr. E. Harvey White gives a carefully-studied performance of Sam Gerridge, whose methods of wooing are highly appreciated. As Ester Eccles, Miss Minnie Grey is charming. She possesses an attractive appearance, combined with delicacy and grace. Miss Lucy Beaumont as the volatile Polly admirably portrays the characteristics of that vivacious young lady. Miss Nell Gilmore makes a stately and imposing Marquise, and plays the courtly old dame admirably. The comedy is preceded by a comedietta, entitled A Glass of Port, by Lewis Coen, which is bright and amusing, and makes a very effective curtain-raiser.

Owing to sudden bereavement in the family of the Sisters Morgan, the parts of principal boy and girl were played at the matinée at the Dalston Theatre on Saturday by Miss Blanche Marion and Miss Annie Laurie. They had to play the parts at a minute's notice, and were warmly thanked by the management.

The in-patients of the Cancer Hospital, Fulham-road, were entertained on Monday evening by a company of ladies and gentlemen under the direction of Miss Cara Bennett. The programme comprised the dramatic sketches, The Other Woman and Cheerful and Musical, by Ellis Kingsley and Ina Leon Cassilis respectively, and a musical sketch entitled Echoes of London Life, given by Mr. Charles Turner, who won repeated encores.

PROVINCIAL PANTOMIMES.

"THE SLEEPING BEAUTY" at MANCHESTER.

(Second Notice).

Now that Mr. John Hart's pantomime of The Sleeping Beauty at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester, has had the advantage of a few weeks' run, the clarified result (though few changes appear to have been made) approaches in quality of entertainment the smoothness and coherence of a delightful musical comedy. The more boisterous fun of pantomime is, of course, in some degree prominent at times; but it does not seriously interfere with the total effect of a refined and successful show. Every member of the cast has settled down into a state of perfect ease, and seems to be enjoying the business quite as much as the audience does, which tends to increase the effect of brightness produced by the pleasing (and sometimes truly gorgeous) scenery, the brilliant dresses, and the unflagging entertainment of the book. Miss Lil Hawthorne has made herself a big favourite as the Prince. Her appearance and her singing voice are excellent, and so are her songs, the principal of which are "Buy a little dolly for the baby," "Tessie," and "Whose little girl are you?" She has also a duet, "That's why I love you," with Miss Mabel Sealby, who is a very charming Princess Beauty, and who, in addition to her acting and clever dancing, makes a hit with her singing of "My Irish Molly, O." Of other ladies in the cast, Miss Erroll Stanhope is vivacious and pleasing, especially in her whistling song; Miss Nora Brocklebank makes an attractive Fairy; and Miss Connie Glenabyn is pleasing as Rudolph. Really excellent fun is contributed by a band of comedians, headed by Mr. Neil Kenyon, a distinct acquisition to the ranks of Scottish laughter-makers. Mr. Kenyon has an irresistible style of his own, and has made a large number of friends by his quaint impersonation of the King, who is tyrannised by a robust and very masculine Queen in the person of Mr. W. H. Rawlins. These two have an amusing burlesque melodramatic episode, assisted by others, in one of the scenes, and are otherwise in perfect business accord. Separately, Mr. Neil Kenyon, in addition to some really clever opening patter, makes a hit with a song called "Tra-la-la," and gives a stump oration, from the top of a barrel, on the "Piscal Fallacy" and other matters, to a group of labour men. Mr. W. H. Rawlins sings "Riding on top of the car" with great success. Mr. George Miller plays the Nurse in a quiet and demure style, and is very amusing in a burlesque game of cards, in which he is the troublesome person who asks questions, and requires to be told every movement of the game. His song, "Beautiful bed," goes well. Mr. Albert Le Fre, page to the Prince, is invariably distinguished by his neat and clever methods, his practised elocution, his resourceful comedy, and his excellent dancing. Plenty of opportunities fall to his share, and among his particular successes are a song called "Now that the Liberals have won," some comic business with an Aladdin's lamp preceding a song and dance, and a speciality with Miss Lil Hawthorn, entitled "On the beach." In addition to these are Messrs. Sandford and Lyons, as Ping and Pong, who provide a considerable amount of comic business, and are exceptionally clever in their simultaneous dancing. A good word should be added for the Kichi-Kichi troupe of dancers, and for the very smooth conduct of the show under Mr. E. T. Steyne.

"CRUSOE'S ADVENTURES" AT MANCHESTER.

(Second Notice).

Few pantomimes could exceed the brilliance and humour exhibited in Mr. John Hart's version of Crusoe's Adventures, now swinging merrily along at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, apparently destined to a long and successful run. Siftings here and there have taken place, and opportunities have been cleverly elaborated; while a certain lack of comic business in the second half originally has been remedied by the introduction of the necessary balance between the two parts. From beginning to end there is a vivacity, a constant flow of fun, and an elaborate splendour of dress and scenery which have probably been seldom equalled, and could hardly be surpassed; and great credit is due to Mr. Victor Stevens, the stage manager for the pantomime, for his skilled handling of some of the more difficult scenes—the shipwreck, for example. Miss Georgina Delmar is Robinson Crusoe, and she carries the part through in dashing style. Her vocalism is good, especially in such songs as "My Japanesy Girl" and "Rainbow," the latter being very prettily presented by a rainbow chorus, and a screen in imitation of a fall of rain. As Polly Perkins, Miss Lulu Valli acts pleasingly, and has one good vocal opportunity, of which she takes full advantage, in the singing of "Molly, I love you," aided by a chorus of little middies. Moving through the nautical scenes is Miss Beryl Somerset as Captain Yarns, while dominating them supernaturally are Miss Louie Collier and Mr. Frederick Hobbs, as the Fairy and Davy Jones, both of whom contribute some excellent singing. Excellent fun is forthcoming from the comedians. Mr. Horace Mills, as Billy Crusoe, is productive of immense amusement, full of quaint antics and varied resource; his patter is always funny, and his songs go well. One of them is called "Don't you think he's mad?" another, "If I were a millionaire"; and in the case of a duet on the "Good-bye" theme, with Mr. J. F. McArdle (Will Atkins), a huge success is made. This is, in fact, an exceedingly clever and amusing burlesque of the many "Good-bye" songs in vogue. Mr. J. F. McArdle strikes a note or originality in his depiction of Will Atkins, and he may fairly be marked as one of the successes of the pantomime. Another notable comedian is Mr. Frank Danby as Mrs. Crusoe. Mr. Danby's popularity is indisputable, his patter is excellent, and among his vocal efforts "Barcelona" may be singled out as perhaps the most successful. The remainder of the cast are associated with the adventures on the island. Mr. Colin Coop is the Cannibal King. He is a very suave personage, who would seem to have been on the spot when a certain black girl sang "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you" to an enterprising stranger. Miss May Henderson also figures here as the Black Princess, but not enough opportunities are open to this clever artist. The Haytors do exceedingly well—one of them as Friday, and one as Saturday—both in relation to the book and in their usual acrobatic specialities. The Rosaire Troupe of Animals, etc., complete the cast. Of the scenery, three sets will be long remembered for their extraordinary beauty, the Realms of Coral, the Land of Orchids, and the King's Palace, in which an Eastern pageant closes the pantomime in appropriate splendour.

Presentation.—Mr. Newman Maurice, the popular acting-manager of the Grand Theatre, Islington, was on Saturday the recipient of a gold Albert and pendant from Mr. Samuel James and the other directors as a token of their appreciation of his valuable services.

Makes the Skin as Soft as Velvet.—Beetham's "Larola" preserves the Skin from the effects of frost, cold winds, and hard water. Entirely removes and prevents all roughness, redness, irritation, chaps, &c., and Keeps the Skin Soft, Smooth, and White at all Seasons. Invaluable for the Complexion, Delightfully Soothing and Refreshing after walking, cycling, motoring, dancing, &c. Gentlemen will find it wonderfully soothing if applied after shaving. Bottles 1s., 1s. 9d., and 2s. 6d. each, of all Chemists and Stores. M. Beetham and Son, Cheltenham.—[Advt.]

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA. 1850—1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

A REMARKABLE ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. Edward Compton, to whom a public presentation will be made on the stage of Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, on Wednesday evening next, to celebrate the 25th anniversary of his first performance with his own company, gave the Compton Comedy Company to the theatrical world on Feb. 7, 1881, at the Pavilion of the Winter Gardens, Southport. The quarter of a century which has elapsed since that date has seen years full of hard work, the most strenuous endeavour to maintain the highest standard of theatrical tradition and to place the plays of our older dramatists upon the stage in the most complete and perfect manner. That no small measure of success has been achieved speaks volumes for the man who has steered the dramatic ship through the changes and vicissitudes of so long a period as that with which the name of Edward Compton is so closely and honourably associated.

The names of the plays which have been placed by him on the stage form a long list, and must necessarily be headed by Davy Garrick, in which Mr. Compton has appeared over 1,300 times. The School for Scandal is another noteworthy production, Mr. Compton having recently given his 900th performance of Charles Surface. She Stoops to Conquer, The Rivals, The Road to Ruin, New Men and Old Acres, The Heir-at-Law, Wild Oats, and Belphegor also figure prominently in the record of old English plays. Shakespeare is represented among other works by Twelfth Night, The Comedy of Errors, Romeo and Juliet, and Much Ado About Nothing.

Mr. Compton has not confined himself entirely to old plays, but has encouraged modern authors as far as he has been able. In this connection we must particularly mention his production of The American, by Henry James; Sidney Carton, Edmund Kean, and Henry Esmond, by the late T. E. Pemberton; The Scarlet Coat and A Reformed Rake, by Walter E. Grogan; To-Morrow, the very successful fantastic play by two anonymous authors; An Emperor's Romance, by Robert Barr and Cosmo Hamilton; The Desperate Lover, by Henry Alexander; True Love, by Arthur Goodrich; and Oliver Goldsmith, The Mayflower, and The Queen's Room, all by F. Frankfort Moore.

Mr. Compton made his first appearance in London in March, 1877, as Alfred Evelyn, in the first act of Money, on the occasion of his famous father's "Great Compton Benefit" at Drury Lane Theatre. The cast, as will readily be seen, was one of the most remarkable in the history of the theatre:—

Alfred Evelyn	MR. EDWARD COMPTON
Sir John Vesey	MR. JOHN HARE
Mr. Graves	MR. BENJAMIN WEBSTER
Mr. Stout	MR. DAVID JAMES
Sir Frederick Blount	MR. W. H. KENDAL
Lord Glossmore	MR. HENRY NEVILLE
Mr. Sharp	MR. WILLIAM FARREN
Two Footmen	MR. (now Sir) SQUIRE BANCROFT MR. CHARLES COLLETTE
Clara Douglas	MRS. KENDAL
Georgiana Vesey	MISS ELLEN TERRY
Lady Franklin	MRS. (now Lady) BANCROFT

Mr. Compton smilingly says he was "very well supported on this occasion."

As a school of acting it would be hard to beat the long and creditable record of the Compton Comedy Company, from which have graduated some of the best known artists in the profession in London, the provinces, and in English-speaking countries across the seas. The late Lewis Ball, whose recent death caused so much and so genuine a sense of loss to all who knew him either as an actor or a friend, was associated with the company for many years. The Compton company, like Tennyson's brook, seems likely to flow on unceasingly upon the sure current of success, giving pleasure to thousands of theatre-goers, and being welcomed by them everywhere as old, tried, and valued friends.

MR. FRANK ROTHSAY'S BENEFIT.

A pleasing feature of the annual pantomime at the Stratford Borough Theatre is the benefit performance accorded to Mr. Frank Rothsay, who has been the acting-manager of this handsome suburban playhouse since its opening ten years ago. The very large audience present at the matinée on Thursday therefore bore eloquent testimony to the popularity which the bénéficiaire enjoys in Stratford. Chief amongst the interpolated attractions was Miss Marie Lloyd, whose appearance was the signal for vociferous applause. The charming comedienne first delighted her hearers with "In Town," wherein was pointedly told the doings of a certain coquettish damsel, and afterwards, in response to most imperative demands, gave one of those exquisite character songs which "our Marie" has made so essentially her own, "A Thing of the Past." This will probably rival anything the singer has before attempted, and it is safe to predict that Miss Lloyd will not need its successor for many a day. Another received in high favour was Mr. George Mozart, who scored very heavily with a soliloquy on "Hats" and the different moods of the wearers under varying circumstances. Mr. Austin Melford recited most tellingly "Uncle Ned's Funeral," and as an encore told a story of the turf with much dramatic power. Miss Sable Fern, who came by permission of Mr. Oswald Stoll, was in high esteem with "Can't you see I want you to be my girl?"; and Mr. Harry Paulton employed his droll methods of extracting mirth in witty anecdotes which won much appreciation. A clever young couple in Maud and Sidney Wood added to the enjoyment in song and dance; Alice Cecilia Locke's expressive violin solo was listened to with keen pleasure; and others who lent valuable aid were Horace Wager, Dick Lewis, and Kelson Trueman. In the pantomime proper, the Two McNaughtons as Bobby and Billy added to their laurels by their versatile humour, Tom creating roars of laughter by appearing in the Palace scene in excruciatingly funny burlesque of Cinderella. Mr. Kennedy Allen, in addition to his very successful work as the Baron, introduced a new scena, An Actor at Breakfast, which affords this resourceful comedian abundant scope, and should stand him in excellent stead; and Messrs. Alf Passmore and Gus Walker repeated their diverting performance as the Ugly Sisters with the happiest results. Miss Alice Lloyd, the daintiest of Cinderellas, was as usual a favourite with one and all; and the delightful vocalism of Miss Beatrice Edwards, the dashing Prince Charming, met with due recognition. Pretty and pert Dandini, in the person of Miss Maud Prenton, won favour on every hand; and Mrs. Emily Bennett as the Baroness and Miss Georgie de Lara as the Fairy Godmother met with every success in their respective parts. During the performance Mr. Rothsay appeared upon the stage and in a neat speech thanked Mrs. Ellis Fredericks for the use of the theatre, the members of the pantomime company, the artists who had assisted him additionally, specially mentioning Miss Marie Lloyd, and the staff at the back and front of the theatre and the orchestra, all of whom had, as on previous occasions, volunteered their services. Mr. A. D. Anderson stage-managed, and the acting-managers for the occasion were Mr. Bert Ashton, Mr. Sam Fredericks, Mr. A. E. Abrahams, Mr. A. E. Barnes, and Mr. John Locke.

"EAST LYNNE" IN COURT.

At the Nuneaton County Court, on Saturday, before his Honour Judge Wightman Wood, the Nuneaton Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd., brought an action against Herbert Barrs, theatrical manager of the Grand Theatre, Halifax, claiming £16 11s. damages for breach of contract, dated August 20, 1904, under which the defendant produced a play entitled East Lynne at the Prince of Wales Theatre, Nuneaton, belonging to plaintiffs. Defendant agreed to obtain all necessary licences in respect of copyright, and right of representation and performance, which he failed to do, whereby the plaintiffs had suffered damages as follows:—To amount paid to John Pitt Hardacre and Frances May Gunley, the proprietors of the copyright of East Lynne, including costs of civil court proceedings, £15 5s.; costs of defending proceedings, £1 6s.

Counsel for the plaintiffs, in opening the case, said defendant toured the play East Lynne, and after a visit to Nuneaton it was discovered that defendant had infringed the copyright, which belonged to Mr. John Pitt Hardacre. A writ was issued in the High Court by Mr. Hardacre against the Nuneaton Theatre Company, but the action was settled out of court at a cost of £16 11s. He submitted that under the agreement between plaintiffs and defendant, the latter was liable for all damages through infringement of copyright, and therefore he ought to repay the Theatre Company the amount they had to pay for such infringement.

Counsel for defendant said Mr. Pitt Hardacre performed a play called East Lynne in Birmingham in June of last year. Up to that point a great difficulty had existed as to how far a theatrical manager might go in producing a version of East Lynne, without infringing someone's copyright. There were six different dramatised versions founded on the novel. The copyright of one version had run out, but in another the copyright had not yet expired. Several companies all over the country had been playing the free-acting edition, but Mr. Pitt Hardacre claimed that when that edition had a comic policeman in it the copyright belonged to him. It appeared that Mr. Hardacre had introduced the comic policeman part in order to relieve the heavy scenes of the play, and now anybody who produced the play with a comic policeman in it was infringing his rights. The words of this comic policeman were made up of "gag," and when Mr. Barrs, after playing East Lynne in Nuneaton, played it again in Birmingham, Mr. Pitt Hardacre engaged shorthand writers to take a full note of it. From this "note" it was proved before Mr. Justice Riley that there had been an infringement at Birmingham, and in an action Mr. Hardacre recovered damages £14, and also obtained an injunction. This proof of infringement only referred to the dates when the play was produced in Birmingham, and not previous thereto. Mr. Hardacre, however, was not able to prove that a single line of his dialogue had been copied prior to the date East Lynne was played in Birmingham, and he had no proof that there had been any infringement at Nuneaton, and in other towns. Mr. Justice Riley had ruled that in such cases there must be no surmising that there had been an infringement; there must be absolute proof.

Correspondence that had taken place between plaintiffs and defendant, which was submitted to the Judge, showed that defendant had invited the Theatre Company to make the best possible terms they could with Mr. Pitt Hardacre as to damages for infringement.

His Honour, in giving a verdict for plaintiffs, said defendant had allowed them to pay the claims of Mr. Pitt Hardacre, and now he tried to turn round and say that the Nuneaton Theatre had a good defence. He (the Judge) quite agreed that if defendant had put the same argument before the Theatre Company before they paid he would have had a complete defence against the present action. As it was, he had invited the Theatre Company to make the best terms they could.

A NEW theatre for Scarborough is in contemplation, plans having been already passed by the Corporation. The building will shortly be commenced on a site in Queen-street.

Cora Gouldhart	MRS. MORTON POWELL
Countess Natalie Steinback	MISS LOUISA PEACH

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. Morton Powell can be congratulated on having produced a sound, interesting, and thoroughly human play. The dialogue is terse, effective, and often rising to heights of exceptional merit. The characters are firmly yet naturally drawn; they are beings of real flesh and blood, who are able to move us to tears and to laughter. The plot is cleverly constructed, and the situations are impressive. Mr. S. Buchanan Rogerson has indeed written a strong and effective play.

The scene of the story is laid in Balaka, the chief city of a state on the Adriatic Sea. In the gardens of the Eden Kiosk, a gambling resort, we meet the Countess Natalie Steinback, who, in the absence of her husband (Count Otto Steinback), is a constant visitor at the tables. Her passion for gambling is played upon and encouraged by Baron Cratzlaw, who, by the aid of his accomplice, Stella Malakorff, hopes to encompass the financial ruin of the Countess, so that he may pay her debts and thus win his way to the lady's affections. A despatch arrives notifying the Baron that a society of Anarchists called the Friends of Freedom are about to set a revolution on foot. Cora Gouldhart is the bearer of the plan of campaign. This document she hands to Karl Ctzarteryski, a member of the secret society, with instructions that he is to deliver it to the central committee. On Karl asking for the address of the meeting-place, he is informed that a lady will that evening hand him a slip of paper, on which will be written the place and hour of meeting. Baron Cratzlaw, overhearing this conversation, confronts Karl, accuses him of being a revolutionist and of bearing upon his person the plan of operations. He, however, offers to save Karl and also Cora, with whom Karl is in love, provided he (Karl) will induce Otto Steinback to carry the documents to the revolutionary meeting, the Baron's plan being to have Otto arrested in the midst of the Friends of Freedom with the incriminating papers upon him, thus leaving the Countess free to accept his (the Baron's) love. The Baron plays upon Karl's jealousy of Otto and Cora, who have been old sweethearts prior to Otto's marriage with Natalie, and at length Karl consents. He gives the papers to Otto, who, believing he is saving Cora, promises to deliver them, and accordingly he meets the unknown lady in the gardens, from her receives a piece of paper bearing the address and time of meeting, and which, after reading, he throws on one side. It is, however, picked up by the Countess, who is led by the Baron to believe that it is an appointment between her husband and Cora. Roused to a fury of jealousy she gambles wildly at the tables, and incurs debts she is unable to pay. The Baron comes forward and offers to cancel her notes, when Otto, entering, announces his intention of selling his estates to preserve his wife's good name.

The scene of Act II. is the Palace of the Countess Natalie, her husband being absent endeavouring to raise the money to satisfy his wife's creditors. She, still tortured by jealousy, goes to his private desk in search of letters from Cora, in place of which she discovers the revolutionary documents entrusted to Otto. The Baron tells her that her husband is to deliver these papers to Cora that evening, and that she is to convey them to the revolutionary committee, whose place of meeting he does not know. Mad with jealousy, Natalie hands the address to the Chief of Police, making a stipulation that the person arrested with the papers found on him or her is to die, believing Cora will be the one taken with the plans in her possession. She leads the police to the meeting-place, only to find she has betrayed her own husband into the hands of justice.

Otto is condemned to be shot as a rebel. Natalie pleads with the Baron for her husband's life. He offers to spare Otto if she will sacrifice her honour, and gives her one chance of winning by staking his love against her husband's life. She consents to hazard the decision on the dice-box. The Baron wins, and gains his end. This is the great scene of the drama, full of intense and enthralling interest, and it holds the audience spellbound.

In Act IV. Lieut. Karl, repenting of his share in Otto's betrayal, comes disguised as a monk to the condemned cell. He chloroforms Otto, wraps him in the monk's cloak, and has him taken out of the prison, while he (Karl), assuming the traitor's hood, which conceals his features, is led to execution.

The last scene is Natalie's boudoir. Learning that her husband has been saved, she takes poison to end her miserable existence. The Baron, entering from the bedroom, attempts to take her away with him. When Otto arrives the Baron is shot by one of the revolutionists, and Cora arrives with the Prince's pardon for Otto. Natalie, after joining their hands, dies in their arms.

The reception accorded the new play on Monday from a fully representative audience has stamped it with the success it fully deserves. The play has some effective comedy relief that was highly relished.

The Countess Natalie was ably personated by Miss Louisa Peach. In her hands every phase of the character was clearly defined, and the result was an artistic triumph. Mr. E. E. Ashby, as the hero, Count Otto Steinback, brought his ripe experience to bear upon the part, and his easy diction, fine stage presence, and thorough grasp of the character made him exceedingly popular. Mr. Horace Sinclair, as the Baron Cratzlaw, gave as fine an exposition of polished villainy as one could wish for, acting with force and intensity, yet always with artistic ease and discretion. Mr. Ernest J. Fare presented a striking impersonation of Lieut. Karl Ctzarteryski; Mr. E. J. Clarke as M. Stambuloff acted with marked dramatic ability. The humour of the play was ably sustained by Mr. T. Byron as the British Ambassador. Mr. Fred Prior as Peter Petroff also did well, and Mrs. Morton Powell as Cora Gouldhart rendered excellent service. The mounting was excellent.

ARTISTS IN INDIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—It has been my painful task on several occasions to help distressed theatrical artists brought to this country by managers who have not hesitated to leave their companies stranded if success has not attended their efforts.

I have just succeeded in sending back to London twelve of a company of variety artists engaged to form part of an entertainment called "Olympia in India." From the first night it was a fiasco, and all expected the crash that soon came, and I was called upon to help the artists out of their difficulties.

I am thankful to say that my appeal to the public met with sympathy and support, the result being they were sent back to England and given £10 each on arriving home. My reason for writing this letter, hoping you will publish it in the columns of your valuable journal, is to try, if possible, to impress upon all who have a wish to come to India as a means of living to first make every inquiry, and leave no stone unturned to find out the position of their would-be manager before leaving England, and under no circumstances whatever to engage themselves to any but of recognised stability in the theatrical world. Thanking you in anticipation of your publishing this, and hoping that it may serve as a warning to your many readers.—Yours faithfully,

LUCIA KING,
3, Outram-street, Calcutta.

MR. F. EVANS FLORADOR, who has retired from the profession, after twenty-five years' good service, has gone into partnership with Mr. Frank W. Matthews, and started business as theatrical apparatus makers at 58, Oakley-street, Lambeth, under the name of Florador and Matthews. The locality chosen for the new enterprise is a very central one, and the long experience possessed by the principals in the firm in the making of everything appertaining to stage properties should ensure success.

THE seventeenth annual dinner of the Yorick Club will take place at the New Gaiety Restaurant, Strand, on Sunday, Feb. 11. Mr. L. Cairns James will preside.

"A MAIDEN WIDOW," a farcical comedy in one act, by Frank M. Reece, was produced for copyright purposes at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Salford, on the 25th inst.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Sir Charles Wyndham's election to the office of president of the Actors' Benevolent Fund will be received by the profession with general acclamation. The eminent actor has throughout been an ardent supporter of the Fund, which owes its present prosperity largely to his exertions. Sir Charles is succeeded in the position of vice-president by Mr. George Alexander; and with Mr. Beerbohm Tree as trustee, and Mr. Harry Nicholls as treasurer, the Fund has as powerful a combination at its head as could well be desired.

The Actors' Benevolent Fund is daily being enriched by postal orders for 2s. 6d. each sent by our leading actors and actresses as autograph receipts. Mr. Lewis Waller has forwarded £2 5s. from the same source, while Mr. W. R. King has sent the sum of £2 1s. 9d., which he has collected at the Dalston Theatre by means of a small tax on free professional admission.

Mr. Arthur Collins left town for St. Moritz on Tuesday in order to rejoin his wife, who has been ordered by her doctor to that famous health resort for the winter months. Mr. Hall Caine has also temporarily taken up his residence there, and it may not be unreasonable to hope that the result of the short stay in such close proximity of the famous manager and the equally celebrated author may result in another drama from the gifted pen of the latter gentleman which may furnish the autumn attraction at Drury-lane.

Mr. George Alexander was faced by an audience more than usually distinguished at the dress rehearsal of His House in Order, at the St. James's on Wednesday, the occasion being quite in the nature of an evening party. The crowd of interesting literary and theatrical folk included Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft, Mrs. Kendal, Mr. and Mrs. John Hare, Mr. Max Beerbohm, Miss Eva Moore, Mr. Hermann Vezin, Miss Lillian Braithwaite, Sir Alexander Mackenzie, Mr. Wilhelm Ganz, and Miss Lena Ashwell; and other notable people present were Lord Granby, Lady Troubridge, Baron de Meyer, General Strachey, and the Duchess of Sutherland.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree, in his official capacity as president of the Theatrical Managers' Association, has addressed a letter to Mr. Haldane, the Secretary for War, protesting against the Royal Artillery Theatre, Woolwich, which was recently opened by Lord Roberts, being carried on for the accommodation of the general public as if it were a regularly licensed theatre. The theatre was built at a cost of some £8,000, and that was defrayed partly by War Office Vote, and partly by a grant from the funds of the regiment.

Mr. Tree in his letter points out that "for some years there was carried on by the officers an entertainment hall, where concerts and other entertainments were given to the soldiers and their friends of a more or less private character. The building having been recently burnt down, a complete theatre has been erected, which was opened at Christmas last with a pantomime, now being fully advertised in the town, and the manager is, I am informed, booking touring companies. It is clear that the theatre is intended to be carried on for the accommodation of the general public, as if it were a regularly licensed theatre. On one of the handbills freely circulated in the town are particulars of what appears to be a lottery for a gold watch.

"I have been advised," proceeds Mr. Tree, "of the provision in the Army Act enabling a recreation room managed or conducted under the authority of a Secretary of State to be used for public music, dancing, or entertainment, and for the public performance of stage plays without a licence, and I respectfully beg to inquire whether it is with your authority that this establishment is being managed and conducted as a general public theatre, and in the manner above referred to. And in this connection I would point out that the building, although capable of holding a very large number of people, does not comply, and is not constructed to comply, with the provisions which are laid down by the London County Council for the construction of theatres to which the general public are admitted, nor is any attempt made to comply with their regulations. The members of the association respectfully suggest that the entertainments in this building should be confined to those provided by the soldiers themselves or be of a private charcter, and that if the custom of the general public is sought, then a theatrical licence should be obtained, and compliance made with the regulations which are imposed upon every other theatre proprietor in the United Kingdom."

Mr. Arthur Bourchier has contributed the generous sum of £102 7s. 6d. to the Queen's Fund for the Unemployed. The amount represents the proceeds of the first performance at the Garrick Theatre of Brother Officers, which took place on the 22nd ult.

Sir Squire Bancroft proposed the health of the Bishop of London, who presided at the annual treat to London cabmen, pensioners, and shelter-men given by Miss M. Stormont-Murphy, at the Holborn Restaurant on Monday afternoon. In the course of his speech, Sir Squire told a story of a charming young damsel who came to London to visit an aunt. When the young lady was leaving in a cab for an evening party, the thrifty aunt said: "Now, mind, don't you pay him more than one shilling; it's his legal fare." Arrived at her destination, the young lady sprang out, handed cabby one shilling, and bounded up the steps of the house. "'Ere, I say, miss," called cabby, "kin I ask you a question?" "Yes, you may." "Well, are you married?" "No," she cried, indignantly, "I'm not." "Well, well, somebody's agoin' to get a treasure; for I never seen a gal as could make a bob go further or do more 'ard work nor you, miss!"

"The Beauty of Bath," the new piece by Mr. Seymour Hicks and Mr. Cosmo Hamilton, with music by Mr. H. E. Haines, and lyrics by Mr. Charles H. Taylor, will be produced at the Aldwych early in March. It is a mistake to suppose, because the story is founded upon Robertson's David Garrick, that the piece will have an old-fashioned flavour. On the contrary, it is entirely modern and up-to-date, the scene of the first act being laid in the Foyer of the Aldwych Theatre, and of the second in a ball-room, a feature of which is a gorgeous spectacle representing a picture ball, the portraits on the walls emerging from their frames and joining in the dance.

Mr. A. E. W. Mason, who has added to the long total of Liberal gains at this General Election by being returned for Coventry, is probably the first actor to become a Member of Parliament. He was for some years with Mr. Ben Greet's company, and his career on the stage has been an extensive one, including a part in Arms and the Man, Mr. Bernard Shaw's play, produced some years ago at the Avenue. Mr. Mason is also a dramatic author, having adapted his two novels, "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler" and "Miranda of the Balcony," for the stage. His latest work is Majory Strode, a comedy-drama intended for production both in England and America. Mr. Mason's sympathies are still with his old calling, and the theatrical profession will certainly not suffer by his presence in the House.

Mr. George Alexander will be the guest of the New Vagabond Club at the Hotel Cecil on Feb. 18, when a dinner will be given to welcome him as Vice-President in place of Sir Henry Irving. Mrs. George Alexander will also grace the festive board, at which Mr. Bram Stoker will preside, Mrs. Bram Stoker officiating as hostess. Mr. G. B. Burgin and Mr. Arthur Diosy will be the deputy-chairmen.

Mr. Edward Compton, who celebrates the silver jubilee of the Compton Comedy Company at Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, on Wednesday, with a performance of Money, in which he made his first appearance in London in March, 1877, will be the recipient of a public testimonial. There is a general feeling in favour of the presentation taking the form of an oil-painting of himself in his favourite character of David Garrick, a part he has played more than any other, and no more fitting or appropriate tribute could be devised. The subscriptions are limited to one guinea, but smaller sums will be welcome, and we hope those who have not already had an intimation of this interesting event will take advantage of this one, and send their subscriptions, which should arrive, if possible, by Wednesday next, to the Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. H. B. Fitzgibbon, Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen.

Mr. Cyril Maude's interesting revival of The Heir at Law, which will be given at matinées at the Waldorf Theatre, beginning about the middle of the present month, will be powerfully cast. Dr. Pangloss will be played by Mr. Maude, Miss Jessie Bateman will be the Cicely Homespun, and Mr. Lionel Rignold, Mr. G. M. Graham, Mr. Charles Maude, Mr. Percival Stevens, Mr. Sydney Brough, Mr. E. C. Matthews, Mrs. Charles Calvert, and Miss Janet Alexander will undertake the rest of the characters.

Mr. Charles Manners, whose efforts towards the establishment of opera in English have been nothing less than heroic, has again offered to give a week of grand opera in Sheffield for the benefit of the Sheffield University Fund, beginning on Monday, Feb. 26. In November, 1904, £457 was added to the fund in this way. The programme for the week at Sheffield will consist of Siegfried on Feb. 26, Carmen on Feb. 27 (students' night), Eugen Onegin (Tchaikovsky) on Feb. 28; a new opera written expressly for the occasion by Nicholas Gatty, entitled Greysteel, and Philemon and Baucis at the matinée on March 1, with The Flying Dutchman in the evening; and Tristan and Isolde on March 2, the week being completed on Saturday, the 3rd, by Figaro in the morning and Lohengrin in the evening. Among those who are to take part in the performances are Mdmes. Kate Anderson, Clementine de Vere, Fanny Moody, Zelie de Lussan, Messrs. John Child, Joseph O'Mara, William Dever, W. Ludwig, Charles Magrath, and Charles Manners. Two of the Moody-Manners opera companies will be amalgamated for the week, comprising a chorus of eighty-five, twelve principal dancers, and an orchestra of sixty performers.

A handsome souvenir marked the performance on Monday of Captain Drew on Leave, which was originally announced for a short season, but has now reached its hundredth night. How many more centuries will be achieved by Mr. Hubert Henry Davies's clever comedy it is not easy to foretell, as Sir Charles Wyndham's performance in the title-rôle, together with those of Miss Marion Terry and Miss Mary Moore, and the clever company are attracting full houses to Wyndham's Theatre every night.

Mr. Forbes-Robertson, who has returned greatly invigorated from his trip to Switzerland, will begin a spring tour on Monday, Feb. 12, at the Coronet. The Light That Failed will form the attraction for the first three nights, Mice and Men being put on for the rest of the week. Miss Gertrude Elliott will appear in both pieces.

"The Little Stranger," Mr. Michael Morton's new farce, will be produced by Mr. Frank Curzon at the Criterion on Wednesday, Feb. 14. The action of the piece is comprised within three hours, the first act being supposed to begin at three o'clock and the third at five. The full cast will consist of Messrs. John Beauchamp, Athol Stewart, Charles Allan, James Carew, Edward Garratt, Graham Browne, and Fred Volpé; and Mrs. Kemmis, Miss Audrey Ford, Miss Aldridge, Miss Betty Callish, and Miss Sydney Fairbrother.

The advance booking for Nero at His Majesty's is so great that Mr. Tree finds it impossible to give members of the profession an opportunity of seeing the fine production at the ordinary performances. He has, therefore, decided to give a professional matinée on Tuesday, Feb. 13, for which date seats may be obtained on application to Mr. Henry Dana.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, and the Garrick Theatre Company gave a special matinée of Brother Officers at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, on Thursday, returning to London in time for the evening performance. A similar flying visit will be made on Monday, when the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, will be favoured.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal will begin their spring tour on Monday at Brighton, the most important theatres in the suburbs and the provinces being included in the itinerary. The répertoire includes Dick Hope, The Housekeeper, The Elder Miss Blossom, Still Waters Run Deep, A Scrap of Paper, and a revival of The Ironmaster.

Mr. Gilbert Farquhar, who on Thursday celebrated his fifty-sixth birthday, has announced his determination of retiring from the profession. He made his first appearance on the London stage twenty-three years ago, and his long career includes engagements with most of the leading managers of his time, notably with Sir Henry Irving, Sir Charles Wyndham, and Mr. John Hare.

In consequence of the artistic success of the German season at the Great Queen-street Theatre, Director Hans Andresen has much pleasure in announcing that this will be followed by an after-season after the company's return from Manchester. Contrary to the usual custom, the company will only play on Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinée. We are informed by Mr. Andresen that his répertoire will include every class of dramatic literature—farce, comedy, tragedy, and drama—modern and classical. The after-season will commence on Friday evening, Feb. 16, with Nachtasyl, by Gorki, the famous Russian writer, who has played so big a part in the Russian Revolution. This play is already known to the English public under the title of The Lower Depths, and was performed under the auspices of the Stage Society. Nachtasyl will be followed by Das Erbe, by Philippi, a play that finds a place in the répertoire of every German stage. The next play to be given is Kinder der Excellens, by Ernst von Wolzogen, one of the cleverest and wittiest of Germany's modern writers. For the fourth week we are promised Schiller's Maria Stuart.

Mr. J. Bannister Howard's lease of the Crystal Palace Theatre commences on Monday, and, after several alterations have been made, the theatre will be opened at the end of this month. Mr. Howard has already arranged a splendid list of No. 1 bookings for this spring.

The jury were again unable to come to an agreement over the action brought for the second time by a lady professionally known as Miss Ethel Karri, in the Court of King's Bench on Wednesday, when she sued Messrs. A. and S. Gatti, Ltd., and Mr. Charles Frohman, the lessees of the Vaudeville Theatre, to recover damages for wrongful dismissal and breach of contract. The plaintiff was engaged to take a part as a Gibson Girl in The Catch of the Season, and claimed that as an actress she was employed according to the custom of the profession for the run of the piece. On the other hand, defendants said that there was both an express and implied agreement that plaintiff was subject to two weeks' notice. Miss Karri had a small part in the piece, and the action turned on the question as to whether the few lines she had to speak constituted her an actress, or left her simply in the position of a member of the chorus.

Evidence on behalf of the plaintiff's contention was given by Mr. Charles Cruickshanks, Mr. Herbert Brabourne, and Mr. J. L. Shine, and such experts as Mr. Seymour Hicks and Mr. J. M. Glover maintained the contrary. After deliberating for a little over an hour, the jury declared that nothing was said about a fortnight's notice when plaintiff was engaged, that she was engaged as a Gibson Girl, but they could not agree whether a Gibson Girl was an actress or not. They assessed the damages at £50. There was no prospect of an agreement, and the parties would not take the verdict of the majority. Mr. Justice Ridley said that in his judgment there was no verdict, and the jury, as it could not agree, would be discharged.

Mr. Seymour Hicks's museum at his new theatre may lead to a pleasant fashion, though it is admitted that the most ornate theatrical rooms and vestibules in any provincial playhouse are those over which Mr. Eade Montefiore presides at the Grand Theatre, Edinburgh, where the interesting trophies include many hundreds of mezzotints and engravings of the old-time actor and actress. Mr. Montefiore's artistic tastes have won warm recognition in the Scottish capital, and his charming room at the Grand is quite a fashionable centre. After the performance of his excellent pantomime Aladdin on the 26th ult., Mr. Montefiore entertained the Dowager Countess de la Warr and Lady Margaret Sackville, who brought a party, while Lady Dunedin, the wife of the Lord High Justice-General of Scotland, and a leader of Edinburgh society, with her friends, visited Mr. Montefiore the same evening. Sir Edward and Lady Moss, a little while ago, were also amongst those who admired the cultured taste of Mr. Montefiore.

Mr. Percy Hutchison is adding Mr. R. C. Carton's play Public Opinion to his already extensive répertoire, and will produce it at the Grand Theatre, Croydon, on Feb. 12. Mr. George Giddens will play his original part of the young solicitor Horace Wibsey.

Mr. William Mollison's production of As You Like It was given for the last time at St. James's Theatre on Saturday evening, when the whole of the company met with an ovation. After the curtain had been raised half-a-dozen times on the final scene, there were loud calls for "Mollison" and "Speech," in response to which the popular actor came forward and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, from the bottom of my heart I thank you for your generous support, and more than kindly reception. It has been a great pleasure to me to have been able to present Miss Braithwaite to you as Rosalind. I hope she and all my colleagues have given you satisfaction. On the close of a brief provincial tour, which I could not easily cancel, I hope to return to London, and reproduce As You Like It and other Shakespearean plays, in which Miss Braithwaite, myself, and my company will once more court your generous support and approval. Again I thank you." Mr. Mollison's season at the St. James's has realised his highest hopes, so pronounced being the success that money was turned away even on Saturday afternoon.

Under the auspices of the Actors' Church Union, an address will be delivered by the Bishop of London at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, on Sunday, Feb. 11.

Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton will take over the Opera House and Theatre Royal, Leicester, on Feb. 19, having purchased the freehold of the Opera House and the lease of the Theatre Royal from Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Winstanley.

Mr. G. P. Huntley is one of the latest additions to the ranks of racehorse owners. The colours of the popular comedian, who ran Thurifer in the Surrey Steeplechase at Gatwick on Monday, but did not secure a place, are claret, apple-green sleeves, and claret cap.

Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche's company will be at the Camden Theatre next week with What the Butler Saw, which enjoyed such a successful run at Wyndham's and the Savoy Theatres. Miss Blanche, who won the highest eulogy in the part of Mrs. Barrington in the first production in the provinces this week, will repeat her finished performance, and Mr. Rignold, who has taken similar honours, will again appear in the rôle of Pink the butler.

Messrs. Samuel James and Newman Maurice are sending out in the early autumn a first-class company in Why Woman Sins. The production will be on a very complete scale, only a clear stage being required for its adequate presentation.

Mr. George Grossmith, jun., will address the O.P. Club on the interesting subject of "Musical Plays" at the Criterion Hotel on Sunday. Mr. Frank Richardson will occupy the chair. The anniversary night will be held in the club rooms on the following Friday, Mr. Alfred F. Robbins presiding. The club's annual dinner is fixed for Feb. 18, when Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree, Miss Eva Moore, and Mr. W. Pett Ridge will respond to various toasts. Later events include a lecture by Miss E. Wynne Matthison on March 4, and one by Mr. Hayden Coffin on April 1.

Mr. Arthur Bertram, who has relinquished his engagement with Miss Nethersole, was presented by the members of the company with a solid gold watch, and with a pearl and diamond pin by Miss Nethersole. Mr. Bertram left New York on the 27th, per the Minnetonka, and will arrive in London about Feb. 5.

Mr. Harding Thomas is meeting with remarkable success in Wales with Saints and Sinners. Last Saturday night the Opera House, Treherbert, was packed from floor to ceiling, and the enthusiasm of the audience was so great after the famous vestry scene that they again burst into their favourite hymn, "Beth sydd i mi yn y byd?" ("What is there left in this world for me?"), to the tune of "Aberystwyth." The excitement and fervour were even greater than were witnessed on Boxing Night at the Aberdare Theatre.

"The Dean's Dilemma," the comedietta which is now played in front of Brother Officers at the Garrick Theatre, has won such a cordial welcome that Mr. Arthur Bourchier has placed it also in the bill at the matinées as well as the evening performances.

Miss Marie Brunton, who made her last appearance as Snowball in The Cherry Girl, at the West Pier, Brighton, on Saturday last, received many floral tributes at the fall of the curtain, one of the most valued being from Mr. J. L. Toole.

"The Mart," a play by Mr. Winston Churchill, was produced at the Providence Opera House, New York, on Tuesday. The piece is a satire on the hunt for English titles by American heiresses. Mr. Arthur Hare plays the principal part.

"The Younger Generation," a new one-act play by Miss Netta Syrett, will be put on this evening in front of The Heroic Stubbs at Terry's Theatre.

The scenery and dresses belonging to Mr. Edward Marris's pantomime Dick Whittington were most unfortunately destroyed by fire during the journey on Sunday between Manchester and Jarrow. By the kindness of the managers of the North and South Shields theatres, and with some assistance also from Newcastle, the company was able to open at Jarrow on Monday.

The last performances of A Royal Divorce at the Scala are announced, the season terminating on Saturday next. This regrettable step is necessitated by the series of contracts entered into some time ago for the appearance of Miss Edith Cole and company at the suburban theatres.

Mr. Julian Cross on Monday took up the part of Sir John Crystal in The Catch of the Season, which is this week being played at the Shakespeare Theatre.—Mr. Alfred Martin will this week terminate his sixth pantomime engagement with Mr. Milton Bode, and will resume his duties on Tuesday next as advance manager for Mr. Cyril Maude's Beauty and the Barge company.

Mr. E. S. Willard is having unusually great success on his tour of New England cities, full houses amply attesting his attractive powers. David Garrick is more than ever popular this season, the Saturday matinée receipts in Springfield last week being over £375.

Mr. Stewart D. Wright, the successful young manager for Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Maclaren, Henry Furnival, J. Alexander, &c., conclude to-day a most comfortable pantomime engagement with Messrs. Little and D'Arcy's Sinbad the Sailor. He opens in the autumn as advance-manager with a big London success.

After a most successful run, the pantomime Sinbad the Sailor was withdrawn from the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on Saturday last, when a number of interesting presentations were made. During the interval the curtain was rung up, disclosing the full company on the stage. Mr. Peter Davey, the managing-director, and Mrs. Davey having been called for, Mr. W. R. Robertson, the stage-manager, presented to them, on behalf of the company, a handsome silver rose-bowl, filled with roses. The bowl bore the following inscription:—"Presented to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Davey by the members of Sinbad the Sailor pantomime company.—W. R. Robertson, stage-manager."

Mr. Davey, who was loudly cheered by the audience and the company, having suitably acknowledged the gift, then asked Mr. Robertson and Mr. J. H. Russell, chef d'orchestre, to accept a silver card-case and pocket-book combined, as souvenirs of the pantomime. Both gentlemen were also the recipients of a smoker's accessory, subscribed for by the company, the presentations being made by the principal boy (Miss Ethel Beech) and the principal girl (Miss Eva Bevington) respectively.

The Annals of Covent Garden Theatre from 1732 to 1897 have been put into book form by Mr. Henry Saxe Wyndham, secretary of the Guildhall School of Music, and will shortly be published. The history of a house which holds such interesting and romantic memories will be welcome, a comprehensive survey of the fortunes of the great theatre being given. The author has compiled his work with great care, brief memoirs of the celebrities connected with the theatre, including Rich, the founder, John Beard, the singer, George Colman, the dramatist, the Kembles, Macready, Charles Mathews, and Madame Vestris being given, while particulars of notable events such as the two great fires, the O.P. Riots, and the first nights of famous productions are also furnished. The book, which is in two volumes, contains thirty-two illustrations.

A hundred yards sprint race was run this week by Mr. John Green and Mr. Percy Curry, who are playing in the pantomime at the Prince's Theatre, Bradford. The competition was decided at the Greenfield Grounds, Dudley Hill, Mr. Green winning by two yards, in 11 2-5 sec. Mr. Francis Laidler, the proprietor of the Prince's, also offered prizes for a ladies' race and a walking match for gentlemen, in which the results were as follow:—Ladies' 60 Yards Race (scratch).—1, F. Burns; 2, M. Palmer; 3, E. Stanton. Won by inches; close up. One-Lap Walk.—1, F. Robinson; 2, A. Clegg; 3, C. W. Walton.

Mr. H. Reeves-Smith has recently written a small volume entitled "Critics Who Have Met Me—At Home and Abroad," a collection of essays, anecdotes, and short stories dealing with theatrical affairs of London, Australia, South Africa, and America. Six chapters are devoted to dramatic criticism "as it is and as it might be." Mr. Reeves-Smith deals leniently with the fraternity as a whole, but describes one, possibly with good reason, as "unfair, incompetent, peevish, and murderous." An illustration accompanying this description shows a fencing bout between critic and actor wherein the actor is pictured as cut through the heart by his antagonist. Of the American critic, Mr. Reeves-Smith writes that he is thoroughly honest. "These critics," continues the author, "are always bright, prolific in telling phrases, and, considering the conditions under which they labour, rapid-fire writers of astonishing skill. Your Englishman writes more profoundly of the drama, but his review is not as entertaining nor is his judgment more accurate. Furthermore, he consumes hours to the American's minutes." A fine half-tone picture of the late Clement Scott adorns one of the pages of the edition de luxe.

In the Court of King's Bench, on the 26th ult., Mr. William Macalister, an accountant in the City, brought an action against Mr. Blaiberg, proprietor of the Grand Theatre, Croydon, to recover £1,000 commission for obtaining a purchaser of the theatre. Mr. Salter, K.C., who appeared for the plaintiff, said that early in 1904 the plaintaff heard that the defendant was desirous of selling the theatre, and he went to see the defendant with the view of finding a purchaser. In June, 1904, the defendant stated that he was willing to sell the theatre for £46,000, £4,000 to be paid on deposit, £30,000 to remain on mortgage, and the remaining £12,000 to be paid on the completion of the purchase, and that if the plaintiff succeeded in obtaining a purchaser within the year the defendant would pay him £1,000 as commission. The plaintiff brought the matter to the notice of the Empire Contract Company, which ultimately agreed to purchase the property on the terms stated, with a view of forming a company to carry on the theatre as a variety theatre to be called the Croydon Pavilion. Eventually, however, the defendant said he was unwilling to sell the theatre at the price mentioned, and wanted £50,000, as he had spent some £1,500 on alterations, and the theatre was going well. The result was that the negotiations with the Empire Company fell through; hence the present action. The defence substantially was that there was no such agreement as alleged by the plaintiff. His lordship came to the conclusion that the plaintiff had failed to make out his case, and he dismissed the action with costs.

Not the least interesting and amusing item at the matinée on Saturday last at the Marborough Theatre was the singing of the popular tunes in the pantomime of The Forty Thieves by the nine hundred invited poor little guests of the Playgoers' Club. "My Irish Molly O" was the favourite, the chef d'orchestre having at last to face the delighted youngsters and beat the time for them when it was repeated for their especial delectation.

Under the auspices of the Belfast branch of the British Empire Shakespearean Society, a reading of the Merchant of Venice was given on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 30, in the Medical Institute, College-square North, Belfast. The success of the performance was greatly aided by some of the members of Mr. F. R. Benson's company, at present appearing at the Theatre Royal, Belfast. Miss Tita Brand's reading of the part of Portia was a finished assumption; and Mr. Clarence Derwent was a realistic Shylock, his fine voice being heard to the utmost advantage. Mr. Sinclair Neill's rendering of the part of Lorenzi was clever, and the fine actor must be warmly congratulated on his conception. Mr. Cyril Keightley's Bassanio was also an admirable interpretation. During an interval, Master A. Henderson presented a handsome bouquet of flowers to Miss Tita Brand, and, on the motion of Rev. Dr. Murphy, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. and Mrs. Benson and the members of their company for assisting at the reading.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van Biene (Miss Kate Hallam) have been engaged by Mr. Carson for the business-management and lead in his Drama of Life company's spring tour, and re-engaged by Mr. Vivian Grantham for his autumn tour of Held in Bondage. Mr. Van Biene is also hard at work booking and arranging the autumn tour of The Broken Melody, being again commissioned for this work by his father, the celebrated actor-'cellist.

Messrs. Charles Carey and Alexander Loftus's Cinderella company concludes a successful six weeks' run to-night. The pantomime has met with a most cordial reception at every town it has visited. The New Barmaid, another of Mr. Loftus's enterprises, starts out again on Feb. 12, opening at Coatbridge. Mr. Montague will play his original part; and Miss Violet Osmund, who is away at Monte Carlo, will return to play the Lady Journalist, the rôle she enacted all last year. A forty weeks' tour has been booked for this phenomenally successful play.

Miss Sophie Harriss, principal boy in the pantomime at the Nottingham Grand Theatre, took her benefit on Friday, the 26th ult., when pleasant evidences of her popularity were forthcoming in numerous bouquets and baskets of flowers, more lasting mementos being supplied in the shape of silver trinkets, &c. Miss Harriss gave a special rendering of Cowen's "It was a dream," singing with delightful freshness and effectiveness, which quite captivated her audience. Besides having a record house, she was further honoured by the presence of the Mayor and Mayoress, the Sheriff, and a number of Councillors.

At the Fancy Dress Ball at Covent Garden on Saturday morning Mr. W. Clarkson was successful in gaining second prize for "Lucky Tips," fourth for "Back at Last," and sixth for "Ideas of March." Several other awards were also secured by the eminent perruquier for "Three Jolly Sweeps," "Gold and Silver," "The Dawn of Spring," &c.

Miss Florence Walton, the very popular Cinderella at the Metropole, Devonport, was on Wednesday evening accorded a benefit, when she was the recipient of many presents (including a suitably inscribed umbrella from Mr. Arthur Carlton) and various floral tributes.

Mr. Auguste Van Biene arrived at a New York hotel the other day, and on retiring to rest was about to give the waiter his requirements for the next morning when he was politely interrupted by him with a detailed list of the same. In response to Mr. Van Biene's inquiry as to where he derived his information, he was met with the smiling reply, "From you yourself, sir, three years ago, at the hotel in Kimberley; and, sir, you gave me a seat to see the play." Mr. Van Biene took the hint, and the waiter his leave.

A pleasant surprise awaited the children who are performing in Mr. John Hart's pantomime of Mother Goose at the Theatre Royal, Bradford, last Tuesday night, when a large case of expensive toys, valued at £70, was distributed amongst the little ones after the fall of the curtain. Needless to say, the children were delighted with their gifts, which are generously contributed by a large Bavarian toy merchant as a mark of appreciation of the children's efforts.

The adjourned hearing of the application by Mrs. Brown Potter for discharge from her bankruptcy came before Mr. Registrar Brougham in the Court of Bankruptcy on the 26th ult. Mrs. Brown Potter had a receiving order made against her in July last. Her liabilities, she said, amounted to £4,258, arising from her unsuccessful season at the Savoy Theatre. Proofs, however, were put in for £11,587, the balance between that sum and the amount admitted by the debtor being debts incurred by one Fossick, who was said to be managing the theatre on her behalf. The debtor, however, denied this, and alleged that Fossick was managing for a syndicate after she had lost the amount she was prepared to venture, namely, £5,000, she then being employed as an actress at the theatre on a salary The question as to whether Mrs. Brown Potter or Fossick was responsible for the rejected claims came before Mr. Justice Bigham, who on Jan. 15 reversed the decision of the trustee, and admitted the proof of Messrs. Partington against the debtor's estate for advertising, that being taken as a test case, the effect of the decision being that the amount of the liabilities had been increased to £12,000. The trustee now reported these facts to the Court, together with the fact that the assets had realised £1,513 18s. 6d., and that it did not appear probable that any further amount would come into the estate. The Official Receiver, therefore, reported the offence of insufficiency of assets.

Counsel for Mrs. Brown Potter said his client had been absolutely ruined by trusting too implicitly in her late solicitor Fossick, whose conduct was a matter of common knowledge. As far as her means were concerned she started her season at the theatre with £5,000 raised upon her own property, and it was clear that when that money was gone she gave up the theatre as a tenant, and was merely paid a salary as an actress. She had realised her jewellery and furniture to do what a lady would do, namely, to pay all the salaries and wages of the people she employed. Fossick had, without her knowledge, pledged her estate to the extent of £12,000 or £13,000, and he submitted that the deficiency of assets as reported by the Official Receiver arose from circumstances for which she could not be held responsible. The Registrar said that he regarded the case as a very hard one for Mrs. Brown Potter, she having been practically ruined by the solicitor she had trusted, and who had treated her very badly. Inasmuch, however, as the offence of insufficiency of assets was clearly established, he was bound to suspend the discharge, which he proposed to do for the minimum period of two years. Counsel thereupon suggested that, instead of the course being taken, the discharge should be granted subject to the debtor signing judgment for £100. This suggestion the Registrar acquiesced in, and made the order accordingly.

Mr. Pinero has written another fine play, and one that completely sustains his reputation as the most gifted English dramatist of his time. For the most part he pursues in His House in Order the pleasant path of comedy, and treats the theme of incompatibility of temperament with a light, facile, but firm touch and a wealth of clever detail that betray the hand of genius. We are not staggered by any terrible revelations as in The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, nor are our insular notions of propriety shocked by a scene resembling the one that excited so much controversy on the production of The Gay Lord Quex. Yet the third act of the new piece contains a situation of such poignancy that on the first night the crowded house was hushed in painful silence which was not broken until the fall of the act-drop, when the enthusiastic attitude of the house showed that the dramatic significance of Mr. Pinero's scène à faire had sunk deeply into the hearts of the enthusiastic first-nighters, and that the triumph of the play was assured.

Twelve years before the opening of the play the master of Overbury Towers, Mr. Filmer Jesson, M.P., had been affected by a terrible bereavement, his wife having been thrown out of her carriage and killed immediately. He was deeply attached to her, and at the opening of the play we learn that in order to perpetuate her memory he is about to dedicate a park to the public for ever. He has married a second time; but "Annabel Mary's" place has not been filled by Nina, a giddy, heedless, wayward girl, who had been governess to his boy, and whose want of method and order, in the cold, correct, and conventional husband's idea, entirely unfits her for the position of hostess. Nina's duties, therefore, are relegated to Geraldine Ridgeley, the deceased wife's sister, who takes advantage of her position and does all that is possible to irritate the impulsive, unaffected creature, whose affection she might easily have won. Nina makes a confidant of Hilary Jesson, her brother-in-law, who has left his post as British Minister to the Republic of Santa Guarda, and come to England for a six weeks' holiday. She confesses to him that she is an "out-and-out failure": but "I could have learnt," she plaintively adds, "if there had been no one before: it is the perfect first wife. I did not take her into consideration." Nina has not only to suffer humiliation from Geraldine Ridgeley, but is also deeply mortified by the plainly indicated dislike of Geraldine's father and mother, Sir Daniel and Lady Ridgeley, and her brother, Pryce Ridgeley, an insufferable cad. "Isn't it worth while to make some sacrifice to conciliate these people?" asks Hilary—himself a genial, kindly, and broad-minded citizen of the world—who constitutes himself Nina's mentor. But the breach becomes wider in the second act during the family discussion concerning the uses to which Mr. Filmer Jesson's splendid gift of a public park in memory of "Annabel Mary" should be put. The fussy Mayor representing the inhabitants of the town to whom the park is dedicated has called to suggest that a band-stand should be provided at the Town Council's expense. This is much too frivolous a notion for Lady Ridgeley, who considers that a drinking-fountain would be much more appropriate—a plain, round structure with prosaic pewter cups chained up to it. Nina, in order to be conciliatory, offers to give the drinking-fountain herself, and to make it an artistic thing she proposes to have it designed by a first-rate London sculptor. In this proposition Sir Daniel Ridgeley scents impropriety, and the idea is quashed. Nina at length is so irritated by the conduct of the "irreconcilables" that her indignation gets the better of her temper, and in an outburst of uncontrollable rage she declares her intention of not being present at the opening of the park on the morrow.

At the commencement of the third act, when the whole household at Overbury Towers is preparing to attend the inaugural ceremony, we learn that Nina is still obdurate, and when she appears in a bright pink gown we know that the defiant attitude of the previous night is maintained. "I will not observe this anniversary," she says. She objects to being trotted out and exhibited as Mr. Filmer Jesson's "matrimonial blunder," who is not fit "to tie the shoe-string of Annabel Mary." Left alone, the child Derek comes to her with a small leather bag, mildewed, that he had found under a loose plank in the floor of his mother's boudoir—now his schoolroom. Nina succeeds in opening it, and discovers letters, which she immediately commences to read. She makes the startling discovery that they are from Major Maurewarde, an old friend of Filmer Jesson's, to the dead wife, and that their contents leave no doubt of the guilty intimacy that had existed between them. She acquaints Hilary of her discovery. "That stained-glass saint, Annabel Mary, was nothing more than Major Maurewarde's woman, and Derek is his son!" There is a gleam in the eye and a triumphant tone in the voice of Nina that betoken mischief. She is determined on making use of her knowledge. She is "upper dog" now, and will have her full measure of revenge. It is Hilary's duty to prevent such a catastrophe, and the interview between the two is one of the finest pieces of dramatic writing Mr. Pinero has given us. He points out to her the better way, and pictures to her the happiness that she may attain by renunciation. Nina not only relents, but apologises to the Ridgeleys for her unseemly outburst of the previous night, and changing her dress, accompanies her husband to the park. Hilary, to whom she has handed the letters, deals with Maurewarde, who packs up and departs. In the last act Hilary, after giving Pryce Ridgeley a piece of his mind and calling him a cad and a cur, takes his brother Filmer to task for his behaviour to Nina, who has never been treated with forbearance or approached in the proper way. He complains also of the attitude of the Ridgeleys, who use their power malevolently and uncharitably. Filmer opposes the heated invective of his brother by specious arguments, and justifies his conduct and that of his first wife's relatives. Hilary, as a last resource, hands him the incriminating letters, explaining to him at the same time the noble generosity of Nina. The rest may be easily guessed. The Ridgeleys receive their congé; and as the curtain falls Nina sits alone with her husband, and the two will commence life anew.

Mr. George Alexander has never been better fitted with a part than with that of Hilary Jesson. During the first two acts his scenes are in the lighter vein. He has a delightful dissertation on women—"God bless 'em"—in the first act, and plays the rôle of the discreet tactician and genial man of the world to perfection in the second, wherein Hilary's diplomacy—displayed in his parable of the two chefs, entirely fails to allay the rising storm. In the third act the actor powerfully emphasies the passion of the scene, and grips his audience by his intense earnestness and conviction. Miss Irene Vanbrugh has never played better than as Nina. In the first act she explains very prettily, and with considerable piquancy, Nina's inadequacy for the position she has been called upon to fill, and realises with many natural touches the author's conception of the impulsive, breezy girl. Nina's first scene with her chum and brother-in-law is most delicately handled by the clever actress. Nina's blazing indignation in the second act is very real; but her great triumph comes in the third act. "From a brow-beaten, submissive girl, I have changed into a woman," says Nina. A woman, too, who is determined on revenge, and there is a world of meaning in the tones of the actress's voice when Nina, with scorn, at first rejects the counsel of Hilary. Her enemies would make her "eat humble pie—top crust and all." Now her chance has come, and Miss Vanbrugh allows us for a moment to see the lower animal nature of the woman possessed with a spirit of revenge. The spirit of gentleness and forgiveness is sweetly displayed in the last act, in which the triumph of the actress is complete. Mr. Herbert Waring, as the cold, impassive Filmer Jesson, who makes his wife "mistress of the ice-house he calls home," plays with admirable restraint, and wins sympathy in the last act in the distracted husband's bitter sorrow. Mr. E. Lyall Swete makes a hit by his clever treatment of the part of the dour, hypocritical old humbug, Sir Daniel Ridgeley, who believes that where there are two constructions to be put upon a person's actions, it is generally safe to put the worst. Mr. C. M. Lowne's Pryce Ridgeley is another capital character sketch. Pryce is in the habit of saying nasty things; but they are generally amusing, and the actor never fails to make them tell. Specially good is Mr. Lowne in Pryce's interview with Hilary, who soundly abuses him. The part of Major Maurewarde gives little chance to the actor; but Mr. Dawson Milward acts with considerable force and intensity in the major's one important scene with Hilary Jesson. Miss Beryl Faber as Geraldine is frigid, implacable, perfectly well-bred, and logical. The actress, indeed, makes one understand how such a chilly, undemonstrative woman as Geraldine would freeze up the impulsive and affectionate nature of such a warm-hearted girl as Nina. Miss Bella Pateman is most amusing as the rigidly proper Lady Ridgeley, who thinks that much of the world's wickedness is attributable to genius. The part is played to perfection. Mdlle. Marcelle Chevalier gives a most interesting exposition of the part of the governess, Mdlle. Thomé, the mixture of broken English and French in her lines being perfectly spoken. Mr. Nigel Playfair is seen to advantage as Dr. Dilnott in the second act, being a very good specimen of the country practitioner, who interests himself in local affairs. Little Iris Hawkins plays prettily and intelligently as Derek Jesson, and in the letter-writing scene in the third act displays much cleverness. Mr. Robert Horton as Harding, and Mr. E. Vivian Reynolds as Forshaw, a representative of a provincial newspaper, complete the cast quite satisfactorily. The scenery has been painted by Mr. Joseph Harker, from decorations designed by Percy Macquoid, R.I., and the interiors show all the richness and taste that one would expect to find in the country seat of a member of Parliament.

ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING.

The annual general meeting of the Actors' Benevolent Fund was held on Monday afternoon on the stage of His Majesty's Theatre, under the chairmanship of Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree. There were also present Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. H. B. Irving, Mrs. Beerbohm Tree, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Mr. Akerman May, Mr. C. Aubrey Smith, Mrs. Herbert Brookes, Mrs. C. Elliot, Miss Louise Stopford, Miss Edith Blande, Miss Vane Featherston, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Miss Agnes Imlay, Miss Clara Jecks, Miss Carlotta Addison, Mrs. Charles Gay, Miss Garton, Mrs. Ernest Collins, Mrs. H. Beerbohm Tree, Messrs. Henry Dana, Comyns Carr, Lionel Belmore, J. H. Mole, P. de Pinto, A. S. Homewood, Henry Evill, S. Major Jones, C. M. Lowne, Aubray Smith, H. A. H. Cole, H. B. Irving, George Shelton, T. P. Haynes, Harry Paulton, and the Rev. C. E. L. Wright.

The SECRETARY (Mr. C. I. Coltson) read the notice convening the meeting, as well as the Committee's report and the auditor's report, which were as follows:—

The Committee deplore the heavy loss the Fund has sustained by the death of its loved President, Sir Henry Irving. From the year 1882, when the Fund was founded, Sir Henry Irving has been its annually elected President, and during the whole of the time he evinced in every possible manner the greatest interest in its well-doing, and was always ready to assist it by every means within his power. The Committee have difficulty in finding words which can adequately express their sorrow at the loss of so dear and valued a friend.

In submitting to the subscribers of the Fund the accounts for the past year, the Committee are glad to be able to report an improvement in the amount of the subscriptions, the total being £1136 18s. 2d., and the number of subscribers 708. The income from all sources has been £4787 7s. 3d., and the number of assisted cases 1474.

An analysis of the year's work will be found in the annexed abstract of report and statement of accounts.

The Committee very gratefully record their thanks to Mr. Edward Terry for presiding at the Fund's fifteenth annual dinner.

The Committee's thanks are cordially given to the many actors and actresses who kindly devoted to the Fund the moneys received by them in exchange for their autograph. This source of income has considerably increased during the past year.

The continued support accorded to the Fund by the Committees of the Liverpool Theatrical Gala, the Birmingham Charity Sports, the Sunderland Charity Carnival, is most cordially appreciated by the Committee, who also gratefully acknowledge the substantial help given to the Fund by the organisers of the Shakespeare Ball, and by the cricket matches at Lord's and the Surrey Oval.

London, January 10th, 1906.

The CHAIRMAN, in proposing the adoption of the reports and accounts, said: Ladies and Gentlemen, I will endeavour to make my remarks mercifully brief, for it is on business that we are mainly bent to-day. But I am sure I should fail to appreciate the sentiments of my brothers and sisters present did I not on this occasion give expression to our sense of the deep loss we have sustained in the death of our President, Sir Henry Irving, whose devotion to the cause of this Fund will be ever memorable. His loss necessarily entails the filling of the post he so long and so honourably held, and I am sure that all present will agree with me that the name submitted to you to-day is one which should meet with the unanimous approval of our profession. I shall presently call upon Mr. Edward Terry to propose, and on Mr. George Alexander to second, the nomination of our president. I am very glad to be able to say that the last year has shown a considerable strengthening of the support given to this Fund by the actors themselves, for the subscriptions show an appreciable advance over the amount received last year. There can be no doubt that the Actors' Benevolent Fund is splendidly administered, and actors can have no valid excuse from holding aloof from its support; and remember that it is a citizen's first duty, after conforming to the law of self-preservation, to turn his attention to the preservation of his fellows. And I hope that last Saturday, which was Actors' Saturday, may show that every actor has done his duty by his fellows. I am delighted to see that the Covent Garden Fund, which Sir Charles Wyndham was largely instrumental in rescuing for the purposes of this charity, has yielded to us this year the increased sum of £1,169 10s. And here I may touch upon another fund by which we are shortly likely to benefit. I mean the fund which that great and good friend of the theatre, Mr. Henry Betty, bequeathed for the benefit of the poor actor. As president of the late Dramatic and Musical Sick Fund in succession to Mr. Betby, I was approached in this matter, and I at once communicated with the Attorney-General, with a view to this bequest of £10,000 being handed over to the care of our Actors' Benevolent Fund. In this course I believe I have the approval of Mr. Edward Ledger, who was named by his friend Henry Betty as the almoner, and Mr. Ledger considered that this bequest could not be better administered than by the officers of our fund. I have every reason to believe that the Attorney-General will consider that the objects of this Fund most nearly come within the province of Mr. Betby's bequest. As you all know, our own Dramatic Sick Fund has ceased to exist, and it looks as if we were approaching the time when there will be only one great fund to administer our far-reaching charity. It is a pity that no performances were given at the theatres this year directly benefiting this fund, but there is a movement now on foot to establish an actor's day on which each theatre throughout the country should give up one performance and each actor one day's salary. This seems a somewhat Utopian scheme, but there is reason to hope that it may be accomplished. I know of one theatre where the actors and the manager are ready and anxious to fall in with this movement. At the same time I am sure that all right-thinking persons will agree that any money resulting from such a movement should be devoted exclusively to the theatrical charities. Once more I urge everyone present and everyone absent to contribute handsomely to the Actors' Saturday list in order that the reproach so frequently levelled at our calling may be a thing of the past. I beg to move the adoption of this report and accounts.

Mr. HENRY EVILL briefly seconded, and the motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. C. AUBREY SMITH proposed a vote of thanks to the committee for their work during the past year.

The Rev. C. E. L. WRIGHT, in seconding, remarked that he took a great interest in the Fund. Seven or eight years ago he became a steward at the festival, and he hoped he should remain a steward so long as life and strength were permitted to him. He pointed out that while in 1900 there were only 1,000 cases to deal with, last year there were as many as 1,474.

Mr. MORRIS ABRAHAMS returned thanks on behalf of the committee. They had been told, he said, by their esteemed chairman that the Fund was in a better position than it had ever been in before. He was glad to see that, but though their financial position had been on the rise, their responsibilities were on a par with that rise. A few of their respected professional friends had not yet subscribed to the Fund The committee would feel greatly pleased if they would do so.

Mr. M. R. MORAND proposed, and Mr. E. H. BULL seconded, a vote of thanks to and the re-election of the hon. standing counsel, Mr. J. Safford; the hon. solicitors, Messrs. J. H. Mote and Son; the hon. auditors, Messrs. W. Westcott, Maskall and Co.; the hon. physicians, Drs. G. Stoker, F. Horton Villanueva, C. Atkin Swan, A. J. Rice Oxley, and R. P. Middlemist; and the dental surgeon, Mr. P. de Pinto.

Mr. J. H. MOTE acknowledged the compliment on behalf of the hon. solicitors, Mr. H. H. COLE on behalf of the hon. auditors, and Mr. P. DE PINTO as the dental surgeon.

Mr. EDWARD TERRY, in proposing the election of Sir Charles Wyndham as president of the Fund, said: Your chairman has referred to the loss we have sustained in the death of our late president, Sir Henry Irving, and I therefore feel it unnecessary to speak further on that subject. We have now to elect a gentleman to take the position he so kindly and so ably occupied for so very many years for the great good of this Fund. I can think of no gentleman who would more fittingly fill the post of president of this Fund than our friend, Sir Charles Wyndham. He was one of the founders of the Fund in the old days; he has given most magnificently to the Fund; and he always will, I am sure, as long as he lives, maintain the interest he has shown towards the Fund. I do not think there will be a dissentient voice when I propose that the presidentship of this Fund should be in the hands of Sir Charles Wyndham.

Mr. GEORGE ALEXANDER, in seconding the proposal, said: Mr. Tree says that Sir Charles Wyndham got us £1,169 10s., in addition to a gift of his own. That alone, I am sure, will suggest that he will be a worthy successor to Sir Henry Irving, and I am equally sure that all actors will be pleased to see him president of this Fund.

On the proposal being put to the meeting, it was declared carried unanimously.

Mr. EDWARD TERRY: I am rather a stickler on points of order, and now that we have elected Sir Charles Wyndham as president, I should like to be allowed to commit a breach of order on this occasion. It is to propose that our friend, Mr. George Alexander, be asked to occupy the position of vice-president of this Fund.

The CHAIRMAN: I have much pleasure in being out of order with Mr. Edward Terry, and in seconding that Mr. George Alexander be elected as vice-president.

After the proposal had been passed by the meeting,

Mr. GEORGE ALEXANDER said that he heartily appreciated the honour which had been conferred upon him. His services were entirely at the disposal of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, and all that he could do for it would be done.

Mr. H. B. IRVING: I have much pleasure in proposing Mr. Tree as trustee of this Fund. I am sure it will be a satisfaction to all to have him in that post. Mr. Tree has been a very generous supporter of this Fund.

Mr. LOWNE, in seconding, said that he heartily endorsed Mr. Irving's sentiments.

The CHAIRMAN thanked the meeting for carrying the proposal, and expressed gratitude to Mr. Irving and Mr. Lowne for their kindly references to himself. As he had done in the past, so he would work in the future to further the interests of the Fund. He was sorry their old friend, Mr. J. L. Toole, could not be there that day. It was pleasant on such an occasion to recall that dear man. He (the speaker) had known John Toole for many years, and he had never heard him say one word of which he need be ashamed.

Mr. CHARLES CRUIKSHANKS proposed, and Mr. AKERMAN MAY seconded, the election of Mr. Harry Nicholls as hon. treasurer. Carried.

Mr. HARRY NICHOLLS said he was honoured and delighted at being appointed to such a position on the retirement of his old friend, Tom Thorne, and he should do his utmost to uphold the aims and objects of the institution.

The SECRETARY asked for three gentlemen to act as scrutineers, and Messrs. C. Aubrey Smith, Henry Evill, and Lionel Belmore, agreed to perform the duty of that office.

Mrs. CECIL RALEIGH proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree for presiding and giving the use of his theatre for the meeting, and

The CHAIRMAN'S response brought the meeting to a close.

COVENT GARDEN BALL.

Once again there was a good attendance at the Covent Garden fancy dress ball which took place on the night of the 26th ult., under the most favourable conditions. The dance programme contained no fewer than twenty-two items, and an admirable selection of music was as usual provided under the experienced directorship of Mr. Dan Godfrey. In the matter of costumes there was again great variety, indeed, it is a notable feature of these carnivals that with their progress in numbers there is corresponding advancement in the rivalry which seeks for prizes. The march past of competitors was, as usual, an attractive feature, and in the contest for prizes, which included an upright grand piano and a handsome boudoir suite of furniture, Mr. W. Clarkson was again to the fore, gaining the second for "Lucky Tips," fourth for "Back to the land," sixth for "The Ides of March," and others for "Three Jolly Sweeps," "Gold and Silver," and "The Dawn of Spring." The first award went to "Teneriffe, an Island of Delight," "Queen of the Wild West" gained the third, and "Pleasant Reflections" took the fifth.

At the next ball, which will be held on St. Valentine's Day, Wednesday, Feb. 14, Messrs. Frank Rendle and Neil Forsyth will, as a souvenir of "the Saint," distribute among the visitors handsome ostrich feather fans.

"LADY INGER OF ÖSTRAT."

A Play, in Five Acts, by Henrick Ibsen, Translated by Charles Archer, Revived at the Scala Theatre on Sunday evening, Jan. 28. (Repeated on Monday afternoon, Jan. 29.)

The Stage Society, by the production of Lady Inger of Ostrat, have given admirers of Ibsen an opportunity of judging of his very early work as a dramatist, and of comparing it with his later plays. One could not reasonably expect the workmanship to present that finish and skilful technique which are so plainly discernible in Ibsen's dramas of recent date. Taking into account that Lady Inger of Ostrat was written a little more than half-a-century ago, it bears critical examination better than might have been expected. As a matter of course, the piece is old-fashioned, a term that would be applied to any play of the same age; but, regarded from the view of the ordinary theatre-goer, its weakest point is the lack of dramatic incidents in the first three acts. Owing mainly to this serious defect and a certain haziness in the working out of the plot, the charge made against this early Ibsen play that it is dreary cannot well be denied. Opinions probably will differ as to whether it was worth while to rescue this sombre play from its dusty shelf and subject to the severe test of the modern theatre the immature essay of a dramatist who is now acknowledged to be a master of his art.

The plot is based upon certain incidents in Norwegian history. The date is the year 1528, and the scene Ostrat Manor, Trondheim Fiord. Here dwells Lady Inger, and it is to her that the Norwegians look to deliver them from the Danish yoke. An important character in the development of the story is Nils Lykke, a Danish knight, who comes to Ostrat on a secret mission. He is a good-looking libertine, who possesses a peculiar fascination for the fair sex, and was the betrayer of Lady Inger's daughter Lucia, who lies buried in the vaults below. She has still one daughter living, by name Elina, and an illegitimate son whose father was a Swede who eventually became king. This youth, known as Nils Stensson, has been brought up as the son of poor peasants, and is ignorant and uneducated. Elina is acquainted with her dead sister's tragic story, but does not know the name of the man who betrayed her. Nils Lykke falls in love with Elina, who at first treats him with scorn, but eventually succumbs to his fascinating manner and the hypnotic power of his wonderful eyes. Nils Stensson has been entrusted with certain despatches to be delivered to the stranger he will meet at Ostrat. He fulfils his mission, the stranger in question being Nils Lykke, who becomes acquainted with the secret of the young man's birth. Lady Inger is led to believe that he is the legitimate son of the man who betrayed her, and by her orders he is put to death. But before this happens, Lady Inger informs her daughter that Nils Lykke was the seducer of her sister. The girl is aghast, and, declaring that she is Lykke's bride in the sight of Heaven, departs with apparently suicidal intentions. Her mother displays all the symptoms of mental disorder, impressing upon her faithful old manservant, Biörn, the importance of having the nails of the coffin of the murdered youth hammered in tightly. The white-haired retainer mutters "I can't make her out," as he glances uneasily at his demented mistress. Finally, a dismal procession enters bearing the coffin, and Lady Inger is handed a ring taken from one of the fingers of the dead. By this token she learns that the coffin contains the body of her own son. With a wailing cry she casts herself upon the coffin, and the curtain falls.

Miss Edyth Olive presented a dignified, majestic figure as Lady Inger; while her acting was consistently impressive throughout, she rose to the occasion in the last act, and showed much power and feeling in depicting the woman whose mind has become unhinged, but who is able to realise that she caused the death of her own son. Miss Alice Crawford was also very successful in her rendering of Elina, a character that required delicate handling. Mr. Henry Ainley played the part of Nils Lykke with much spirit, his services being of the utmost value in every scene in which he appeared. Mr. Alfred Brydone was a stern and rugged Olaf Skaktavl; Mr. Harcourt Williams did well as Nils Stensson, relieving in some slight measure the soberness of the picture by his embodiment of a hungry youth intent on satisfying the inner man. Subsequently he vividly depicted the terrors of one pursued by the enemy, and in fear of instant death. Mr. W. R. Staveley gave a natural impersonation of Biörn, Mr. Kenelm Ross was good as Finn, an armourer, Mr. Charles A. Doran as Jens Bielke, and Mr. Talbot Homewood as a retainer deserve favourable mention. The play was produced by Mr. Herbert Jarman, and the scenery, dresses, and appointments were as elaborate and perfect as if the play had been staged for a long run.

"WHEN IT WAS DARK"; or, "THE CROSS OF THE CHRISTIAN," a play in four acts and six tableaux, suggested by and founded on Guy Thorne's celebrated novel of the same name, by S. Buchanan Rogerson, was produced by Mr. T. Morton Powell's company for copyright purposes at the Queen's Theatre, Farnworth, Bolton, on Saturday.

(from our own correspondent.)

PARIS, Thursday, Feb. 1.—Of all conspiracies the least known, yet the most remarkable, is that of General Malet. In the night of October 23, 1812, whilst Napoleon was vainly trying to beat the Russians, General Malet, an old Republican, and Napoleon's deadly foe, resolved to overthrow the Imperial Government. He escaped from the prison wherein he had been detained during three years, and, without money, without friends, with no other adherents than a half-mad corporal and a crazy priest, he started on his mission. Curiously enough, his first efforts were crowned with success. At five in the morning Savary, the Minister of Police, and Pasquier, the Police Prefect, were under lock and key; and Malet had taken possession of the Bank of France, the Town Hall, and the Post Office. Having spread the rumour that Napoleon had died in Russia, Malet succeeded in grouping round him a handful of followers; and Paris when it awoke in the morning was surprised to hear that a new form of government had been established. But poor Malet's victory only lasted a few hours. He was arrested, and with twelve of his accomplices thrown into prison. They paid dearly for their mad freak. Nobody had been killed, not a penny had been taken away; and a few years' imprisonment, with perhaps an occasional cold douche, would have brought these men soon to their senses. The Emperor, however, thought he had not spilt enough blood in Russia; and Malet and his thirteen companions were shot, the old General commanding the fire. This extraordinary historical incident has inspired M. Gavault, who has woven around it a plot, something à la Scribe, wherein, with a happy mixture of fiction and truth, he amuses his audience for a few hours. In the opening tableau Malet exposes his plan to Bautreux, a barrister, and to Rateau, a young soldier, who both promise to stand by him. Rateau is courting Pauline, a pretty girl, the niece of Pasque, a police spy. Malet himself plays but an insignificant rôle in the piece. Pasque is the principal personage, and it is, of course, he who first gets wind of the conspiracy, and saves the Empire. Unfortunately for him, his niece Pauline, whom he adopted, loves Rateau, and she dies from a bullet wound accidentally inflicted upon her by one of Pasque's own men, cursing her uncle. M. Gavault, an able farce-writer, should not have tried his hand at so-called historical dramas, which are altogether out of his line. Many of the situations are so improbable as to cause us to smile; and we never know whether we must shower our sympathies on General Malet, or reserve our pity for Mdlle. Pauline. A play of that sort, moreover, should be excellently mounted, which is not the case here. The soirée at the house of the Minister Cambacérès was anything but a brilliant affair; the ladies looked provincial, and the salons not particularly elegant. It was fairly well acted.

The great theatrical event this week has been the production at Antoine's of Le Vieil Heidelberg. After the phenomenal success it had, not only in Germany, but in England and elsewhere, it was highly interesting to watch the effect it would have on a typical Paris audience. And what could have been foreseen happened. Our public were deeply impressed with the exquisite sentiment of the piece, but the "sentimental" part therein did not appeal to them. Nor will Frenchmen ever understand the mentality of the German student, on whom they look as upon a strange animal. The beer-drinking youth will for ever remain a mystery to them. It is not probable that Old Heidelberg will have anything of a record run, but the play—translated by MM. Rémon and W. Bauer—was excellently received, and will be certain to remain on the Antoine répertoire for some time to come. Both acting and mounting were superb. Those who know the diminutive stage of that playhouse had reason to wonder how M. Antoine succeeded in squeezing so much effective scenery into such a small space. It was almost miraculous. As to the interpretation, it was worthy of the traditions of that house, which could not well be otherwise with such artists as Antoine, Chelles, Signoret, and Mdlle. Sylvie. The rôle of the Prince Charles-Henri had been entrusted to M. Maupré, a young man of about eighteen, whom M. Antoine has taken well in hand, and under whose guidance will be certain to succeed in his career.

It is in principle decided that we are to have a Popular Theatre. The commission formed to inquire into the matter are issuing a favourable report, and it is more than probable that the Chamber of Deputies will grant their permission to carry out the scheme. It will be a State theatre, for the benefit of those who cannot afford the high prices charged by the Paris playhouses. The scheme is an excellent one, and will be sure to receive every support. The money required will be raised by a lottery at low-priced tickets, a modus that always goes well with us. The only danger lies in the fear whether the managers will be sufficiently careful in the selection of the pieces they intend to produce. It requires more than ordinary tact to make the undertaking a success.

At the Palais-Royal the new revue will disappear from the bill next week, and be replaced by La Grimpette, a new farce by MM. Georges Berr and Marcel Guillemand. Apropos of this theatre it is not true that it has been sold to a well-known theatrical manager in Bordeaux.

Unheeding the hue and cry raised in the Press by several literary men who termed him a profanator, M. Busnach has finished his play Madame Bovary, which will be brought out at the Grand Theatre in Rouen. M. Busnach is trying to throw ridicule on his detractors, and in a measure succeeds in doing so. For all that, it can only be regretted that great works should not be safe from the hands of the adapter, who respects nothing. M. Pierre Decourcelle, not long ago, took liberties with Balzac, possibly in the belief that he could improve this author's works. To-day it is M. Busnach who wants to collaborate with Flaubert. Where will it end?

The staff of the Surrey Theatre recently had their annual supper, which proved to be a most enjoyable function. After the fall of the curtain, the stage was cleared and supper tables were set up. At 12.30 the happy assembly sat down, Mr. Chris Wordsworth acting as chairman, supported by Mr. Pete Murray, Mr. H. Cory Woodrow, and Mr. Wordsworth. After the tables had been cleared away the orchestra, under Mr. Hinkinson, gave some selections, whilst Will Driscoll and Harry Lynx entertained with songs. Dancing then became the order of the night, and it was getting on well towards daylight before the merry band dispersed. Mr. C. Craig acted as director of the ceremonies.

THE GERMAN THEATRE.

"DER MILITARSTAAT," Comedy, in Four Acts,
by Gustav v. Moser and Thilo v. Trotha, produced at the Great Queen-street Theatre on Saturday, Jan. 27.

Gustav Haller ..... Willy Klein
Mathilde ..... Charlotte Kelly
Resi ..... Johanna Becker
August Nordmann ..... Richard Starnburg
Asta ..... Margarete Russ
Hans Vogel ..... Georg Baselt
Max Starke ..... Hans Stock
Döring ..... Paul Wind
Waldemar Müller ..... Ernst Reicher
Emmy ..... Helene Marschall
Rettig ..... Bruno Wiburger
Karl Lachmann ..... Karl Berger
Bertha ..... Ida Weiss
Modistin ..... Asta Eggert
Eine Magd ..... Erna Lennox
Soldat ..... Hermann Weiser

There is no lack of amusement in Der Militärstaat, and the audience is kept laughing from the beginning to the end of the play, which has fun enough in it to supply several comedies. Haller, a wealthy business man, wishes his daughter Resi, a rather frisky young lady, to marry Vogel, a rich chocolate proprietor. This young man is the type of the brainless masher. He would give anything to belong to the "smart set," and would like to sell his factories and set up as a country gentleman. He is expected to pay his first visit to the house, and as Haller is compelled to go out, Resi is asked to receive the young man and make him comfortable till her father's return. Vogel is delayed, and sends his manager, Starke, to offer an apology. Resi takes Starke for the expected visitor, makes him welcome over a bottle of champagne, and induces him promise to come to dinner. When Vogel appears and finds his manager an invited guest of the house he snubs him, and, giving him a pressing order, sends him away from the dinner-party. For this and many other slights inflicted on him in the presence of Resi and her pretty cousin, Asta Nordmann, a visitor from the country, Starke gets his revenge. In Germany, of course, every man has to do his duty as a soldier, and Vogel, Starke, and Karl, the butler at the Haller's, are all summoned to take part in the manœuvres. They all have to serve in the same company, Starke as lieutenant, Karl as sergeant, Vogel as private. The manœuvres bring the company to Nordmann's house, where the Hallers are on a visit. We see a German military camp depicted, Vogel treated en camerade by the common soldiers, ordered about by his sergeant—in common life Karl, the butler—and ultimately sent to prison by his lieutenant—his manager, Starke—for flirting with the ladies when he had to do sentry duty. Fifteen days of seclusion do him a lot of good. He comes to the conclusion that Asta is really the girl of his choice, and he leaves Resi to Starke, who had won her heart from the first. The performance of the piece was admirable. Willy Klein, Charlotte Kelly, Margarete Russ, and Hans Stock were all excellent; but special mention is due to Georg Baselt, who made the best of a splendid part, and delighted everyone by his healthy humour and discretion. Johanna Becker, whom we had only seen in small parts before, played that of Resi in a way that augurs well for her future. The camp scene was a masterpiece of stage-management.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

The Finance and General Purposes Committee of the Actors' Association held a special meeting on Friday, the 26th inst., when there were present Messrs. Acton Bond (chairman), Arthur Holmes-Gore, Alfred Kendrick, Miss Kate Phillips, and Mr. Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary). The report of the council for the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, was formulated, and a draft prepared, and, after a lengthy discussion upon various points under consideration, the meeting was adjourned until the 30th inst., for the purpose of completing the draft of the report for submission to the council at their usual weekly meeting.

The adjourned meeting of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was held on Tuesday last. There were present Messrs. Acton Bond (chairman), A. E. Drinkwater, W. Devereux, A. E. George, Lawrence Grant, A. Holmes-Gore, Alfred Kendrick, M. R. Morand, C. Aubrey Smith, and Hubert Willis, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary). The draft report of the council for the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, was considered, and ultimately settled.

The usual weekly meeting of the council of the Association was held on Tuesday last, when the following were present: Sir Squire Bancroft, president (chairman), Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Mesdames Kate Bishop, Kate Phillips, and Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Messrs. Acton Bond, C. Hayden Coffin, F. Cremlin, Will Dennis, William Devereux, A. E. George, Lawrence Grant, Arthur Holmes-Gore, Alfred Kendrick, Fewlass Llewellyn, Norman McKinnel, M. R. Morand, Walter Russell, A. Morrice Seaton, C. Aubrey Smith, Hubert Willis, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary).

The insurance scheme was further considered, and after some lengthy discussion as to the extent of the benefits to be derived under the agreement with the company, it was ultimately decided to leave the final settlement of details in the hands of the honorary solicitors.

The hon. solicitors reported they had advised several members, and they were requested to advise others. Owing to the length of the sitting, the further consideration of the suggestions for the "Qualification and Registration of Actors" was deferred until next week.

The draft of the report of the council for the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, as submitted by the Finance and General Purposes Committee, was considered and ultimately settled. Dr. James Wallace, 7, Elmwood-gardens, Acton Hill, W., and Dr. W. S. McGowan, 84, Rusholme-road, Manchester, were elected as hon. medical officers to the A.A. A former member was reinstated. Alec F. Thompson, Nellie Garside, Mary Mannering, Henry Armstrong, Drelincourt Odlum, and Muriel Pope were nominated for election. The secretary received instructions in connection with the holding of the fifteenth annual general meeting, at His Majesty's Theatre, on Feb. 15.

FOOTBALL.

Bristol XLCR. and Harry Hare's Orchestral Band Athletic Clubs v. Music Halls A.F.C. Played on Clifton Downs on January 13. Messrs. H. Slade, J. Aubrey, E. Belding, D. O'Connor, J. Lacey, and J. Tyley (two) scored for their respective sides. The following were the teams:—

Bristol XLCR.—H. Belding, goal; J. Lewis and A. Hamlin (captain), backs; J. Aubrey, T. Alway, and S. Carter, half backs; J. Aubrey, T. Alway, L. Hamlin, E. Belding, and H. Edwards, forwards.

Music Halls A.F.C.—F. B. Nicholls, goal; J. Tyley and E. Denton, backs; T. Neagle (captain), D. O'Connor, and J. Lacey, half backs; H. C. Douglas, H. Clements, R. Callen, P. Reardon, and W. Hinder, forwards.

Referee, H. Hare. Linesmen, Frank Hansford and Walter Miller. Result: Bristol XLCR., three goals; Music Halls A.F.C., four goals.

All the artistic costumes worn by Mr. Tree in Nero, as well as most of the others, were supplied by B. J. Simmons and Co., of King-street, Covent-garden, and they do this well-known firm great credit.

POOR CHILDREN AT THE PANTOMIME.

The Britannia Theatre, Hoxton, was crowded on Saturday afternoon last, when some three thousand poor children of the neighbourhood were the guests of the Playgoers' Club. Among the audience were nearly two hundred blind, deaf and dumb boys and girls, and one's sympathy went out very naturally to them in their affliction. At the same time, even the halt and the lame, the blind, and the dumb and the deaf, were able to, and did give signs of delight in what was taking place on the stage, and this delight was evinced to a greater extent by those members of the juvenile audience who were perfectly sound in wind and limb. Mr. Pett Ridge and Mr. Wontner Smith were chiefly responsible for arranging the performance that afternoon, and it must be said of them that they spared no effort to make their young friends feel thoroughly at ease. Cakes and oranges and buns and sweets there were in abundance, and in this connection it should be mentioned that Miss Jessie Preston gave the children one thousand bags of eatables, and the youngsters were not slow to shout their hurrahs by way of returning thanks to Miss Preston. This clever lady was the very charming and sprightly Prince Radiant in the pantomime of King Wow-Wow, and she fairly won the hearts of the little ones by her pleasing actions and mannerisms, and her tuneful vocalism. Especially did her youthful admirers like her expressive rendering of "There's a home in my heart for you," "Remember me to mother, dear," "Good-bye, sweet Marie," and "My Irish Molly." Miss Joan Preston was engaging, pretty, and dainty as the Princess, and she quite made herself a favourite with the kiddies. Mr. Jock Preston was an exceedingly whimsical and comical page; and Mr. George Preston brought out in diverting fashion the amusing characteristics of King Wow-Wow. Mr. Leo Main was extremely entertaining with his drolleries and quaint sayings and doings as the village schoolmistress; and Mr. Fred Lawrence was lively and laughable as Tommy; while Miss Lillie Lassah was an agreeable Sir Bertie Boulevard, her sweet singing of "Hear the pipers calling" being immensely popular with her hearers. The children felt they had a great friend in Mr. Willie Albert as the Cat, and his impersonation of a tabby was repeatedly made the object of their appreciation.

All the artists entered heartily into the business of entertaining the little people, who dwell mostly in wretched tenements in the East-end, and the children's enjoyment of what was put before them was of the keenest and most demonstrative character. Among other members of the Playgoers' Club who assisted in various ways in front of the house were Messrs. A. F. Spencer, C. E. B. Kibblewhite, and Osman Edwards.

The Playgoers' Club also entertained 1,000 children at the Prince's Theatre, Poplar, on the same afternoon, Mr. H. Hart being in charge of the arrangements. Mr. Kenneth Howes and Mr. Louis Harfield officiated in a similar way over a huge party at the West London; while Mr. S. L. Bensusan and Mr. F. S. Hess did good work in connection with a crowd of youngsters who were taken to the Deptford Theatre. This afternoon the Grand Theatre, Islington, and the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway, have been secured by the Club.

MISS GLADYS MARY HOWITT.

Miss Gladys Mary Howitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howitt (Miss Mary Ford), has returned to boarding-school. She will remain for two years at Beach House, Penhurst-road, East Cliff, Ramsgate; then she will go to Paris for a year to complete her education. She is a beautiful girl, and inherits her father's gifts for drawing and painting. Although but a mere child, she has sketched a very striking likeness of the late Sir Henry Irving. She is studying drawing, music, and singing under clever masters. She possesses a sweet singing voice—a clear soprano. She is very anxious to study for light opera. Her first and only appearance (as a child actress) was at His Majesty's Theatre, in Mr. Tree's first production of The Tempest, and, to use her own expression, she "was a Nymph, a Reaper, and a Gnome." Mr. Leonard Rayne, with whom Mr. Howitt has been associated for so many years both as actor and friend, the night before they sailed for Africa in March last, presented little Gladys with a beautiful diamond ring, adding that he hoped the ring would be her "mascot." A rather amusing incident occurred the night Miss Howitt was driving with her mother to her school, it being the night of the election. A grand procession was about to start. To the great delight of Miss Howitt she drove through streets lined on either side by crowds cheering loudly. The secret of the cheers was that the ribbons on the cabman's whip were the colours of the successful candidate for Ramsgate—Mr. Marks.

Mrs. Howitt will remain in Ramsgate to be near her daughter during Mr. Howitt's African tour. Mrs. Howitt is devoting her time to dramatic instruction, and it is a great delight to her to prepare pupils for the art she has had, through years of ill-health, to unwillingly relinquish.

We may add that Miss Howitt (on her mother's side) is the great-grandchild of the Lady Ann Hewitt, and great-grandniece of the late Rev. Peter Hewitt.

In Memoriam.

Diey.—In ever loving memory of my dear husband, Captain Alfred Diey (Alexander M. Aitcheson), who died Feb. 1, 1901. Never forgotten by his widow and sons.

Rezene.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Polly (Miss Polly Cusick), wife of Charles Rezene (Rezene and Robini), died Jan. 31, 1903. Gone, but ever lives in my memory.

At the Alhambra Theatre, Stourbridge, Messrs. Fred J. Webb and Wilson Benge's company appeared this week with the military drama, The Two Hussars. Mr. Wilson Benge as Harry Alford proved a capable artist; while Miss M. Danvers Smith gave an able rendering of the part of Alford's lover. Mr. F. J. Webb is to be commended for his skilful portrayal of Captain Paul Villiers; and Mr. Louis Nanton caused unbounded merriment as Robert Runn. Mr. G. Paradise was responsible for a capable representation of Sergeant McFinnie; Miss Lallah Price was successful as Molly Cutts; and Miss Sadie Smith pleasing as Marie.

WHAT IS AN ACTOR?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Since, declining to be party to the Abolishing of all Qualifications, I retired from the Council and ranks of the Actors' Association I have refrained from joining in any discussions upon its failings or its virtues; but when the officer and representative of the Actors' Association affirms in a Court of Justice "that any person who speaks a line is an actor" we are surely being made a little too "cheap," and it behoves everyone, whether trammelled by A.A. considerations or not, to protest against such a pronouncement.—Yours faithfully,

Feb. 2, 1906. HARRY PAULTON.

The splendid character photograph of Mr. Mark Kinghorne which we reproduce in another column is from the studio of Mr. Albert Flint, 68, Church-street, Camberwell Green.

Presentation.—On Jan. 25, Mr. Harry Conlin presented Mr. Herbert Garside (stage-manager) with a set of gold cuff-links as a mark of respect.

The old Moulin-Rougé has once more opened its doors. It will be remembered that the former management tried to impart to the place another character by turning it into a variety theatre and doing away with the large dancing hall that used to attract so many strangers. The venture was not very successful—possibly on account of the suppression of the dancing—and the new manager, M. Victor Silvestre, acted perhaps wisely in restoring the old cachet to the Moulin-Rougé by reinstating the nightly Terpsichorean display. M. Silvestre is a most enterprising man. I knew him when he managed the Grand Theatre in Lyons, and afterwards the Folies Dramatiques. He likes to do things on a very big scale, and this ambition is sometimes fraught with danger.

Mr. George Dance's company, under the management of Mr. Bertie Ralland, in The Orchid, paid a welcome visit to the Stroud Subscription Rooms on the 26th ult. Miss Constance Hamilton was a charming and tuneful Lady Violet, and Miss Madeline Maude an irresistible Caroline Vokins; Miss Madeline Taylor was successful as Zelie Humbert, Miss Clara Beck effective as Thisbe, and Miss Maud Jay a capital Josephine Zaccary. Mr. Tom Maxwell gave a clever impersonation of the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour; Dr. Faussett had a capital exponent in Mr. W. Garland; Mr. P. Corray ably delineated the character of Mr. Aubrey Chesterton; Mr. L. Neville, as Comte De Cassignat, and Mr. G. Asaph, as Zaccary, were both admirably suited to their respective parts. Mr. Colin Campbell caused much merriment by his droll rendering of Meakin, the gardener.

Mr. Arthur Carlton's company is at the Theatre Royal, Wednesbury, in The Span of Life. Mr. Sanderson Moffatt as Richard Blunt and Mr. R. S. Trelawney as Dunstan Leach prove themselves highly-trained artists in their respective portrayals. A clever rendering of Nutty Brown is given by Mr. Syd Sylvester; Mr. Edwin T. Kisby is also good as Joshua Garnett. The Stebbing Brothers, in their famous acrobatic performance, are a decided success; Miss Phyllis Hamilton charmingly acts the rôle of Kate Heathcote; as Cecil Jelf Miss Graham is all that can be desired; and as Cecil Blunt Miss May Moffatt evokes warm applause. The part of Mrs. Jelf is well played by Miss Harriet Russell.

Mr. Emile Lazern desires to contradict an advertisement which has appeared stating that Mr. Fred W. Millis, the ventriloquist, is touring India and the East with his own company. The firm is known as Millis and Lazern's London Novelty Company, in which Mr. Lazern holds a half share.

Miss Millicent Marsden's song, "In Dreamland," written by Mr. Roland Carse, and composed by Mr. Walter Slaughter, increases in popularity at the Coliseum week by week. This is Miss Marsden's first attempt on the variety stage in London, but there is hardly any other branch of the musical profession with which she has not been associated. Making her début at the old Gaiety as a tot of six, when she sang and acted with Nellie Farren and Fred Leslie, Miss Marsden cannot remember a time before she tried to sing little songs and act little parts. With a voice of remarkable register—she has taken the high soprano of Mabel in The Pirates of Penzance and the low contralto of the title-rôle in Little Christopher Columbus with equal success—her speciality of late years has been in the style of a part that is best described as "the American stage widow," who is artful, captivating, and the smartest of the smart. Having lived in the United States, she can assume an effective twang. Her most recent part, before her present engagement at the Coliseum, was Cora Angelique, the Queen of Comic Opera, in The Belle of New York.

Chelsea.—George Farquhar, actor and dramatist, was born in Londonderry in 1678. In 1699, his first play, Love and a Bottle, was produced and well received at Drury-lane. Shortly after, The Constant Couple was produced, and was so successful that it ran for fifty-three nights in London. He continued to write plays, including The Recruiting Officer, and his last and best, The Beaux' Stratagem, was produced in 1707. He died April 30, 1707.

Grateful.—It is rather difficult to give advice on such a subject. There is always an opening at the variety theatres for first-class lady ballad vocalists, and the young lady might apply for a trial turn to Mr. A. Butt, the Palace, Shaftesbury-avenue; Mr. Frank Glenister, the London Pavilion, Piccadilly; Mr. Oswald Stoll, the Coliseum, St. Martin's-lane; or Miss Joseph Wilson, The Tivoli, Strand.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL J. A. WINSTANLEY, of the Royal Opera House and Theatre Royal, Leicester, who has been suffering from a severe illness, is, we are glad to hear, making good progress towards recovery.

"DICK WHITTINGTON," which has obtained a record success at the Crown Theatre, Peckham, will, as in the case of last year's pantomime, be transferred in its entirety to the Pavilion on Monday.

THE Swedish rights of Mine Hostess, the adapted translation by Miss Davies Webster of La Locandiera, have been purchased by one of the leading theatrical managers in that country, and it is expected that it will be translated and produced over there very soon.

MR. EDITOR, — Sir, — Your correspondent at Hastings last week describes us as giving "vocal selections," whereas we are instrumentalists (banjoes and harp).—Yours faithfully, THE STAVORDALE QUINTETTE.—Hippodrome, Eastbourne, Jan. 22.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. Harry Carlo, who, during the run of the pantomime at the Brixton Theatre, has been acting and advertising manager, is leaving to undertake an important position at the King's Theatre, Glasgow, and was on Wednesday evening presented by Mr. Murray Heriot, on behalf of the company and staff, with a handsome silver mounted umbrella, and by the management with a substantial cheque, as a token of goodwill and esteem.

SATURDAY, Jan. 13, was Hospital Saturday at the Lyceum Theatre, Newport, and Mr. Sidney Cooper appeared at the termination of the first act of the pantomime, and said: "Ladies and Gentlemen, —May I crave your indulgence to make a brief announcement? This is Hospital Saturday at the Lyceum. No words are necessary to urge the claim of such a deserving institution, but with your kind permission I will quote a few lines from an old play called The Stranger, in which there is a character called Tobies. He has been lying upon a bed of sickness for many months, but thanks to the kind and gentle nursing of the good sisters who devote their lives to the alleviation of suffering, he has been rescued from death's door, so to speak, and is carried into the sunshine into the garden. The doctor pays his morning visit, and says, 'Well, how do you find yourself to-day?' Tobies replies, 'Oh, sir, I am very happy, for, believe me, he who leaves a bed of sickness and for the first time breathes the fresh, pure air is at that moment the happiest of his Maker's creatures.' Ladies and Gentlemen, I ask your assistance to-day to enable us to lift our less fortunate brethren out of the shadow of the sick room into the sunshine of life so to speak." The result of this appeal was £14. The Chairman and two of the directors of the Hospital appeared on the stage, and thanked Mr. Cooper, and called for three cheers, which was heartily responded to.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Almanac and Annual for 1906, is not only a valuable collection of information and a history of the dramatic and musical year. It is also a very amusing and entertaining shillingsworth It contains contributions from many well-known actors and actresses. Mr. Frank Desprez, the editor, contributes a delightful story about an actress who sold her collection of Press notices in order to help a colleague in distress. There are numerous portraits. The lists of English, French, and German plays produced during the year are very useful. Altogether, "The Era" Almanack is indispensable to all interested in the stage.—The Star, Jan. 24, 1906.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1906.

THE SHOWMEN'S GUILD.

The formation of trades and callings for mutual protection and assistance is no new thing. As far back as mediæval times the principal crafts were collected into "guilds" or representative bodies which did yeoman service in resisting the encroachments of the feudal autocracy on the rights of the trade. The modern trade union is an echo of this spirit. It is not wonderful that for a long time the Showmen of England were not united in any way for self-protection. Indeed, when we consider the wandering nature of the showmen's life and their freedom from conventionality, it is surprising that they ever became united at all, and the establishment of the Guild marks the remarkable rise which has taken place in the social status of the class.

Even before their union in the Guild there was more of the corporate feeling in the showmen than there is in many more important callings. The leading showmen were all personally known to each other; and this knowledge was powerful in maintaining a high standard of good faith. The show business is in many ways "unique" and original. It is one of the few hardy, open-air industries at which money may be made both by large and moderate capitalists. It has, to a great extent, escaped the grinding, machinery character of the age. Showmen are, as a class, notoriously hearty and kindly. The life they lead can only be endured by the physically strong; and they are isolated from other classes by the peculiarity of their way of living. There is a charm about the showman's life that, once tasted, is never forgotten; a charm that every showman realises, though few could exactly explain it. This common sympathy has always found the knights of the road knit together in feeling; and the fact that they are so little understood by "outsiders" has bound them together all the closer. In the French play Le Chemineau the hero confesses that the "road" is always "calling" him with the same persistency that the East cried to KIPLING'S soldier; and long after showmen have made enough to retire upon they continue to travel for the benefit of their health.

Sooner or later the show business was certain to come into contact with what we may call "cut-and-dried" stupidity and petty official interference. We must not be too hard on the officious, unimaginative people who want to inspect, and legislate, and label and docket everything in existence; and who cannot see that there is no rule or system which can be applied in all cases and to all classes alike. All will remember GEORGE SMITH'S Movable Dwellings Bill, that monument of attempted officious meddling. It would, in all probability, have become law but for the energetic efforts of the Guild. More important still is the locus standi which was won for the show business over the Hyde Corporation Bill. The attacks on the showman's rights are frequent and constant, and their defence has to be equally so in order to be of any use.

It is with, we trust, pardonable complacency that we look back upon the steady growth of the Guild since its origination in 1889. As every showman knows, its objects were to watch any attempt at legislation which was calculated to affect or interfere with the rights or business of showmen and van-dwellers in general, and to take such proceedings in Parliamentary and other matters as might be deemed advisable; to assist members with legal advice upon any matter at a nominal charge; and to establish a fund whereby pecuniary aid might be rendered on the death of a member of the association. The Guild was cradled in the offices of The Era, being the practical business idea of its manager, Mr. F. H. PEDGRIFT, and has been steadily supported and fostered by this paper with all the influence and energy at its command; and a landmark of its triumphant success was the splendid presentation to LORD GEORGE SANGER, the President, at the Agricultural Hall last week.

LORD GEORGE stands out boldly as a type of the best class of showmen. He is a conspicuous example of the "native worth" that is recognised and admired by all men; and his ability is adorned with a rare flavour of natural humour. How striking are his powers of description may be judged by the following: We once had occasion to "interview" him with reference to an adventure with some lions that had escaped under the stage of a Paris theatre. Doubtless many imagined that our account was condensed and "written-up" from the speaker's conversation. As a matter of fact, we scarcely found it necessary to alter a word or a phrase, so admirably tense and telling was the raconteur's style. In one way at least LORD GEORGE reminds us of the late Sir HENRY IRVING; his leadership of his profession is unchallenged. Such men are not born every day; and when they depart they leave behind them a gap that, say cynics what they may, cannot be replaced. We do not know what the Guild would have done without its beloved president or without its chaplain, the Rev. T. HORNE. What Mr. HORNE does not know about showmen, their wants, and their ways, is not worth knowing; and as Mr. SANGER hinted at the Agricultural Hall last week, Mr. HORNE is a man, every inch of him. There is no mincing, drawling affectation about Mr. HORNE; he is an eloquent speaker, and he has a fine presence; and showmen may think themselves fortunate that he is able to devote himself both to their material and moral interests. They would not "stand" for a moment any patronage or formal "palaver"; and Mr. HORNE'S straightforward, earnest way of getting to work is just what suits them. During the past twelvemonth he has attended to the business of the Guild and visited one hundred fairs, feasts, and wakes. He has corresponded with over 1,000 people, and conducted services on the fair-ground and in the show-booths. He is an ardent defender of showmen's rights, and a thorn in the side of the corporations who endeavour to inflict unjust by-laws and regulations on the show folk. And—an excellent thing in a parson—he does not shrink when he thinks his flock want a little admonition from giving it to them; witness his remarks last week about the paucity of the number of the deputation which met the London County Council anent taking vans to Hampstead Heath. Mr. HORNE has been identified with The Era for many years; and if there were any link needed to bind the showman interest to our paper, it would be found in this popular and thoroughly suitable Guild chaplain. Like ourselves, he is fully aware of the necessity for constant vigilance in the show interest; like ourselves, he understands and appreciates the show folk and their ways; and, like ourselves, he feels the importance of the vast and increasing interest which has grown up, so to speak, by the side of this paper, and has intertwined with it more and more as the years have gone by.

ON Wednesday afternoon between 200 and 300 of the aged inmates of Brighton Workhouse were allowed out in order to accept an invitation to witness the pantomime at the Grand Theatre.

A NEW version of Oliver Twist, by R. F. Edgar, was produced for copyright purposes at the Athenæum, Glasgow, on Saturday.

MR. FREDERICK HARRISON has kindly lent the Haymarket Theatre for an amateur performance of Mr. Haddon Chambers's The Tyranny of Tears, which is to be given on Feb. 15 in aid of the funds of the Union Jack Club. The Duchess of Albany has promised to attend.

MISS NELLIE STEWART, the famous Australian actress, supported by the company from the Princess's Theatre, of Melbourne, under the personal direction of Mr. Geo. Musgrove, manager of a number of the prominent theatres in Australia, as well as the Shaftesbury in London, is playing a season of four weeks at the Majestic Theatre, San Francisco, with Sweet Nell of Old Drury.

THE Playgoers' Club's annual dinner will take place on Sunday, the president, Mr. William Sparks, occupying the chair. Capt. Robert Marshall will respond to the toast of "The Drama," and that of "The Visitors" will be acknowledged by Mr. E. Marshall-Hall, K.C., and Mr. E. Mostyn Pigott.

HERR ARTHUR VOLLMER had a tremendous ovation on his reappearance at the Royal Schauspielhaus on Friday night, after an illness which has deterred him from acting for nearly a year. The popular comedian gave his well-known rôle of Schmock in Freytag's comedy, Die Journalisten, and the house was filled to the last place. As soon as Herr Vollmer appeared upon the stage the storm of applause broke, lasting several minutes. It was a welcome such as must have rejoiced the heart of any actor.

MISS ADA REHAN, by a recent decision in New York, is awarded one-fifth of the Augustin Daly estate, according to the express desire recorded in the manager's will. Judge Joseph Daly, brother of the deceased, has been trying for several years to "break" the will. Miss Rehan will have a share in both of the Daly theatres, the one in London and the older playhouse in New York.

MR. PINERO'S NEW PLAY.

AN IMPRESSION.

The doors of St. James's Theatre will be besieged for several months; of that the first night of Mr. Pinero's new play leaves no doubt whatever. It is a play full of pith and marrow, with a poignant theme poignantly treated; with great moments; and acted with admirable and almost perfect concord. There are, to speak accurately, two themes; first there is an indictment of that large section of English opinion which may be described and summed up in the word "Pharisaic"; the second theme is the greater claim of the living than the dead. Perhaps I might even add that there is a third theme, namely, how difficult it is sometimes for a husband who is not too clear-eyed to realise all the sweetness, all the goodness, and even all the strength there may underlie the character of the wife whom he misunderstands; and whom he places below the false ideal of another woman, who never existed save in his imagination.

I will not deal, in a necessarily short and rapid sketch, with the story in full; that is well told in another portion of this paper. Suffice it to say that Mr. Filmer Jesson, M.P., has married the second time, his second wife having been the governess of his child by the first. It is the ghost of the first wife that lies long, bleak, and freezing across the fate of the second wife. The first wife is placed on a pedestal by her family and by her husband as a saint, and almost confessor; the second wife is snubbed, persecuted, brought down to a subordinate place in her own household by these worshippers at the dead woman's shrine. The chief part of the play is devoted to the exhibition of this family—the Ridgeleys—made by a number of bold and telling strokes into a fine, consistent, striking, unforgetable portrait of a great, not to say multidudinous, group of our fellow-countrymen and country-women. The poignant note of the drama comes when the discovery is accidentally made that the saint and confessor has been the mistress of another man; that the child which is supposed to have been that of her husband is in reality the child of the lover; in short, that the saint has been nothing better than a very frail sinner.

The great struggle, and also the fine exposition of character, come when the down-trodden second wife is placed in possession of this terrible weapon against all her persecutors; against the Ridgeley family in particular, and, among the Ridgeley family, against the daughter of the house, who has been brought in to usurp the place of the second wife and as a continuation of the tradition of worship of the first. In this second wife there is the second great study of character—the impulsive, hot-headed, slatternly, but true woman, who has such strength when the moment of crisis comes; so much tenderness when the flippancy is forgotten or cast aside. It is in the revelation of this woman's character and of the struggles between her lower nature craving revenge and victory over enemies, and her higher nature bidding her be generous, that the very finest scene in the play occurs; one of the finest scenes that even Pinero has ever written. Miss Irene Vanbrugh is just the woman, Mr. Alexander just the man, for such a scene. Throughout it all—it is lengthy—there runs the high throb of real and sweeping passion. Now and then the voices of the artists sound hoarse and almost raucous from the depths of their passion. One almost shudders as Miss Vanbrugh gloats over the torture she will inflict, the triumph she will enjoy, when she is able to wield this weapon against the hated sister-in-law of her husband, who has been the chief instrument in her own torture and humiliation. And Mr. Alexander pleads, on the other hand, the higher claims of forgiveness and generosity, and finally conquering the woman by an appeal to womanhood, is equal to the very great situation.

It is these great moments that will probably count most for the audience, and that will work them up as it worked the first night's audience, into the most profound sympathy and high excitement; but it is as a picture of manners that the play will ultimately have its highest importance, and perhaps its most enduring fame. The Ridgeleys are a real new creation—at least on the stage. The great family of snobs and bigots has often been described in the novel; some of the more odious and palpable forms of the group, such as the Mawworms, have also been been found on the stage; but the purse-proud, narrow-minded, bigoted people in all their symmetry of odiousness has never before been presented with such triumphant scorn. It is true that sometimes one is tempted to regard the picture as overdrawn—as caricature rather than a portraiture; such fatuousness and such self-complacence and vulgar arrogance are perhaps impossible. But the drama has to be broad in its effects, and perhaps not too scrupulous in some of its methods. Painted with more photographic fidelity to nature the picture of this odious family would have lost some of its intense realistic power; more realistic it would perhaps have been from the stage point of view, less real.

There are now and then passages which are a dangerous concession on the part of Mr. Pinero to prejudice and superstition. As one critic remarks, there is a faint suspicion of cant in this great crusade against cant. I would like to see the play, too, again when it is taken less slowly than it necessarily is amid the excitement and the nervousness of a first night. It gives the idea of a movement that is slow in the play where, as a matter of fact, the movement is rapid, at least throughout most of the scenes. But these small things will not count. Mr. Pinero has written a very fine play; Mr. Alexander has secured a very big winner in the perilous and precarious speculation of stage production.

T. P.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24th.—Grierson's Way, by Henry V. Esmond, was produced at the Princess's Theatre on the 18th inst. by Mr. Henry Miller, who assumed the title-rôle, this being his first appearance as a member of the company, which he organised at the beginning of the season, and his second managerial venture at this theatre. Mr. Esmond's play was admirably acted. Mr. Miller won the sympathies of the audience as James Grierson, acting the part with sincerity and feeling; Miss Rebecca Warren, in the difficult rôle of Pamela, was natural and effective; and Mr. Guy Standing distinguished himself as Captain Murray. Phillip Keen, the crazy violinist, was well represented by Mr. Henry Woodruff. Mr. Fred Thorne was capital as the burly old sea captain, John Ball. The play was favourably received by a large audience.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at any of Smith and Sons' bookstalls throughout the provinces.

NEW MUSIC.

METZLER AND Co. send the following recent publications:—"There is a Garden in her Face," edited by Dr. Cummings from a manuscript of the time of James I., dated 1605, is quaint and lively in style, and Dr. Cummings has done his work skilfully. "Through the Orchard" is written by Mr. Rutland Barrington and set to music by Barter Johns, and has considerable merit. "Before the Dawn," words by Magdalene Proctor, music by William Ratcliffe, will please by its simplicity. There is also a violin obbligato, which is effectively written. "Nature's Lullaby," words by Clifton Bingham, music by Noel Johnson, has the graceful lines of Clifton Bingham to recommend it, and the music of Noel Johnson is worthy of that gifted composer who has written so many good songs. "Berceuse Paysanne," for violin and piano, by James Coward, is a piece which the amateur violinist will find most useful, as the compass is easy. "Creep a little closer, do," is a setting by H. Trotère of a song by Clifton Bingham, in which we learn how a lover and his lass, sitting at the extreme ends of a rustic seat, find themselves gradually drawn together to the satisfaction of both. "Traümerei," for violin and pianoforte, by F. Sewell Southgate, the accomplished pianist, proves that the composer knows exactly how to provide for the amateur violinist. "Good-morrow, Phyllis" shows Dr. Cummings as ready as usual for editing an old-fashioned ditty. He has again taken a manuscript of the period of James I. "Who'll serve the King?" is a song from Knights of the Road, the lively piece which Sir A. C. Mackenzie wrote for a music hall. The distinguished Principal of the Royal Academy has set Mr. H. A. Lytton's animated words to just the kind of melody suitable, and we hope this excellent musician will soon be heard again in similar works. "This Rose of Mine," written by Walter Grogan and composed by H. M. Higgs, tells how a lover made a rose the medium of a passionate declaration. "Compositions for the Organ," by J. T. Field, will be warmly welcomed by performers on the "king of instruments." Several of these pieces have great merit, and none are deficient in strength or originality. The first item is an overture in G. Minor, which has spirit and novelty of ideas. This is followed by a pastorale (a hymn of shepherds) not altogether free from echoes of older composers. A scherzo, "Joyous Life," fulfils the suggestions of the title, and a Venetian barcarolle is graceful and melodious. Other pieces are distinctly pleasing, and a "Grand Triumphal March" winds up the selection with immense spirit.

Chappell and Co. send the following songs and instrumental pieces:—"Feu Follet, by Bernard Rolt, is a waltz of a somewhat eccentric character, illustrated with a title-page of a sensational kind representing a mysterious young lady with flames coming from her head, or rather from her fashionable hat, which appears to have caught fire. The young lady is, however, quite cool if her head is hot, and the music has some claims to distinction. The introduction in E Flat is melodious, and leads up to the waltz in B Flat with considerable spirit. But we can hardly see why so many changes of key were necessary, for we come next to A Flat and then back again to E Flat, which eventually winds up this curious, but rather effective, waltz. "Aubade," by John Ansell, is a pianoforte piece which a youthful student of that instrument would find useful as a study. "The Bell," by Teresa del Riego, with organ and violin accompaniments, is a kind of hymn, in which the singer is supposed to seek protection as the twilight falls. It has a rather stately style. "Deep in My Heart," by Frank Lambert, tells its own story, when we have read the sentimental verses of Harold Simpson, which remind us of a song by Vincent Wallace, "There is a Flower that Bloometh." "Deep in My Heart" has, however, merit of its own which may lead to its becoming popular. The composer known as Guy D'Hardelot generally writes music of an extremely sentimental character, but this ditty treats of propriety and Mrs. Grundy, and as a sample of the verse, we may quote the following—

"We'll learn how to kiss from the bees, dear,
And never count it a sin;
Just to show we are one with the world, dear,
Let's be quick and begin."

This, from a young lady, is hardly strict propriety, but the sprightly music makes us forget all prudish notions.

JOHNNY FULLER, who has so thoroughly established himself in the affections of all the children visiting the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, is an animal actor of rare humour and realism. He calls himself "the great little cat," for having decided that the character of Grimalkin is the most actable, he intends to avoid the attractive possibilities of dogs or monkeys in future, giving a turn of his own in the halls when his pantomime engagement comes to an end. In this he will introduce wire-walking, eccentric dancing, and acrobatic feats—to say nothing of the character sketch of a particularly clever tabby—all in his cat make-up. Like the late Charles Lauri—the Garrick of animal mimes—Johnny Fuller believes in studying animals' movements from the life. He is short and wiry, and long practice has enabled him to jump, run, and gambol as lightly as a kitten. His tour of the halls commences at the Grand, Clapham, on Feb. 26, and he appears at the Palace Theatre in the second week of March.

MR. JOHNNY FULLER was born and bred in the show world. Grandson of the proprietor of Hannaford's Circus, his father being a musician and his mother also in the profession, he himself made a first appearance in the arena at the mellow age of four and a half, dressed as a little clown, and inventing his own comic business as he went along. About half-a-dozen years later Johnny left his grandfather's show to be taken on as "improver" with Lloyd Brothers' Circus, when he learned everything that an all-round acrobat needs to know. It was not until Mr. Harry Rogerson—who, by the way, is also in the pantomime with his old friend at the King's this year—offered him the part of a clown in his musical absurdity, Jacko, that Mr. Fuller went on the regular stage. He afterwards took the leading part, Jacko, a gorilla, in the same piece, and began to make his reputation as an animal actor. Wrapped up in his work, "the great little cat" believes that energy and exercise are the two things needful to keep in perfect health; he rarely takes a holiday; he has never had an accident bad enough to be remembered, and he has mastered numberless difficult feats.

THE 150th anniversary of Mozart's birthday was celebrated in Vienna on Saturday, when the city authorities arranged an elaborate programme of festivities in honour of the great Austrian composer, who was especially connected with the capital. The celebration really began the previous afternoon, when the Burgomaster, Dr. Lueger, in the presence of a great gathering, laid a wreath at the foot of Mozart's monument, immediately behind the Opera House. Saturday was observed as a holiday in all the city schools, and the children were presented with souvenirs of the occasion. A special performance of Don Giovanni was given at the Opera, which was largely attended. The anniversary was also celebrated at Salzburg, the birthplace of the composer, and in other towns.

THE death is announced at Weimar of Fräulein Rosa von Milde, formerly a famous operatic singer. She was the Elsa in the first performance of Lohengrin in Germany, on Aug. 28, 1850.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

THE Holborn Empire programmes will be enriched with the music of a popular song—an agreeable innovation that will no doubt be highly appreciated by the patrons of the new and magnificent house near Kingsway. The programmes are priced throughout the house at one penny, and the first musical number is "The Right Kind of Girl," words by Edgar Bateman and music by Kenneth Lyle.

MR. WALTER GIBBONS is by way of altering the name of the Ealing Empire Palace to the Ealing Hippodrome. He has decided on the change in consonance with the wish of several of the inhabitants. It was also one of the conditions to which he agreed when he applied for his licence on Thursday, and as a result all opposition has been withdrawn.

MR. HENRY RAYMOND, the London district manager for the Stoll suburban houses, has resigned his position, and terminates his contract on April 7. Mr. Raymond desires most emphatically to contradict a false report that his resignation has been prompted by any other agency than his own free will, and he thanks Mr. Stoll not only for his personally expressed goodwill, but also for his unfailing kindness and consideration during the long period of nearly eight years during which he has been under engagement to him. Mr. Raymond came to the New Cross Empire as manager, and was appointed to the post he at present holds early last year.

AMONG the visitors to the Royal on Monday evening was Mr. John Brill, a former proprietor of the Royal, who is now installed at the Forest Hotel, Chingford. A twelvemonth since he met with a serious accident, breaking his left leg. Though he still feels some weakness in the limb, he is looking the picture of health. He heartily congratulated Mr. Walter Gibbons on his splendid house, and warmly praised the beauties of the Holborn Empire.

MRS. BARRASFORD'S purchase of the Devil's Dyke at Brighton and her arrangements in connection therewith will prove to be a most interesting undertaking. On the two hundred acres of ground which have now become her property there will be erected a number of superior side-shows, other features of this open-air exhibition, if we may so term it, being a café chantant and an Italian orchestra. It is Mrs. Barrasford's intention to build bungalows, cottages, and shops all over the grounds, and those residing in the Devil's Dyke will have no need to go to Brighton for domestic or other supplies. The Devil's Dyke will be a sort of self-contained, self-supporting village, and as there is in its midst a farm, which the new proprietress is enlarging, it will be seen that the place is admirably fitted for Mrs. Barrasford's "colonisation" scheme. The grounds, which will be open to the public in Easter, will be run as a show all the year round.

A PLEASANT sequel to the Fulham v. Notts Forest football match will take place this evening at the London Pavilion, when, at the invitation of the proprietors of Football Chat and Mr. Frank Glenister, both teams, with the committee and directorate, will be guests at the performance. They will have an opportunity of witnessing the remarkably clever and humorous impressions of a football match by Mr. Jock Whiteford. It is the intention of Mr. Whiteford to be present at the Cup-tie match, and to introduce into his performance the notable incidents of the day's play.

A FEW months ago some slight fire occurred at the Tivoli Restaurant, and in connection with that one of the waiters and cellarmen, William Kuhrmann, was charged at Bow-street with arson. This charge was dismissed by the magistrate, and it had its sequel on Monday and Tuesday last, when William Kuhrmann brought an action against Mr. James Howell, the acting-manager of the Tivoli, for damages for malicious prosecution. The plaintiff's evidence was gone into at great length, and after a consultation between the parties judgment was given by consent for the plaintiff for £100 and costs. Mr. Hume Williams, K.C., and Mr. John O'Connor, M.P., were counsel for the plaintiff, instructed by Mr. John Othen, jun., and Mr. Walter Payne appeared for the defendant.

MESSRS. DOUGLAS YOUNG AND CO. will sell, at the Mart, on Wednesday, February 26, the Battersea Empire Music-Hall, together with freehold and possession of the fully-licensed premises known as the Royal Standard, York Road, S.W. The hall has seating accommodation for over 1,000 persons, two main entrances, lofty stage (27ft. wide), dressing-rooms, three bars, and all equipment for a place of public entertainment, suitable for the densely-populated neighbourhood.

THROUGH the sudden death of His Majesty the King of Denmark the Scala Theatre, Copenhagen, where Mr. Carl Hertz is performing, and all other places of amusement, are compelled to close for eight days. Mr. Carl Hertz had received a Royal command to give his performance at the Palace on the following Wednesday, for which great preparations had been made.

MR. MARK MELFORD, we are sorry to say, is lying in a serious condition in Walthamstow Hospital as the result of a gun accident. For some time past he has been residing in the neighbourhood of Epping Forest for the benefit of his health, and on Wednesday afternoon was out in the forest near Chingford with his daughter. He was carrying a small folding rook-rifle in his coat-pocket. The weapon suddenly fell through a hole in the pocket to the ground, muzzle upwards, and exploded, the bullet entering his left loin. Up to late on Thursday the surgeons at the hospital had not been able to ascertain whether the bullet had passed through or remained in his body, but they hoped to do so. It was learnt on Thursday night that Mr. Melford was progressing favourably, provided no complications ensue.

IN connection with the forthcoming visit of the members of the London County Council to Paris, the Councillors of that city have engaged the Paris Alhambra, which is owned by Mr. Thomas Barrasford, the lessee of the London Lyceum, for a gala performance on Feb. 9. The programme will be provided by French and English variety artists of note.

"LET me make a nation's songs" might well be the motto of the Parliamentary candidate. Parodies with a swinging chorus—led by a cornet—did an immense amount of work, says the Globe, at the recent election, and, unfortunately, the Radical party has been the better supplied. The Radical candidate at Bridgwater had verses specially written for him by the librettist, Mr. Fred Bowyer, and Mr. Reginald Groome, the well-known tenor, was brought down from London to sing them. The victory by the narrow majority of seventeen was probably due to this.

MR. GUS LEONARD, the Odd Magical Musician, has just arrived in England from America by the ss. Majestic to fulfil engagements with Mr. Thomas Barrasford, he having been released from his New York contracts through the kindness of Mr. William Morris, the well-known American agent. It is anticipated that Mr. Gus Leonard, who presents a novelty, will be highly appreciated by his Transatlantic cousins. His business arrangements are in the hands of Mr. Hugh Jay Didcott, Ltd.

MR. WALTER DE FRECE has secured a very fine site in the centre of Portsmouth for the erection of a new hippodrome, and the plans, which have been designed by Mr. Bertie Crewe, the well-known architect, have been passed by the authorities.

OVER one hundred men are now fully engaged on the works of the Palace-by-the-Sea at Clacton, an illustration of which recently appeared in these pages. That well-known comedian, Mr. Edgar Curtis, who will manage the great place of entertainment when it opens during the forthcoming season, is engaged to appear at the Royal Albert, commencing on Monday.

MR. JAMES E. HARDY, professionally known as the American Blondin, has scored another triumph at the Royal Agricultural Hall, Norwich. During the past three weeks Hardy's performances have been the sensation of the town and district. Hardy has established himself as a worthy successor to the late Chevalier Blondin.

IN a certain town in the Midlands not many hundred miles from Nottingham, a new variety hall has been recently erected, and is doing good business. This prosperity seems to have raised the ire of the local goody-goodies, for we hear that at a prayer-meeting held in one of the adjacent places of worship one of the brethren prayed that this "wicked place would be closed, and so the young saved from temptation"!

AFTER being closed for a fortnight, the Victoria Hall, Southend, reopened on Wednesday evening, when a crowded audience thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment given by the Gipsies, consisting of Miss Rosa Mellish, Miss Florence Croft, and Messrs. Robert Tattersall, D'Arcy Clayton, Stuart Ethall, and Alex. B. Gilbert. The Gipsies are on a return visit, and Mr. Shakespeare Stewart the promoter, and his assistant-manager, Mr. E. Cutler, are to be congratulated on the success achieved. The entertainment given is high-class, pretty, and amusing, each member of the troupe possessing a good voice and knowing how to use it, while not only are all vocalists, but each is a humourist, too, of no mean degree.

MR. SYDNEY PAXTON, the popular manager of the Grand Theatre, Southampton, for Mr. Frederick Mouillot, and district manager of the Hippodrome for Messrs. Mouillot and De Frece, has been presented by Mr. Walter De Frece with a handsome opal and diamond scarfpin in recognition of his "Valuable assistance during the Hippodrome negotiations."

MY FANCY, the well-known queen of sand dancers, produced her novel bare-footed dance at the Empire and Theatre Royal, Johannesburg, on Feb. 24, 1896. Both My Fancy and Miss Mildred de Grey, who is doing the Trilby act at the Tivoli, hail from America.

THE "Bohemian Twins," Misses Rosa and Josepha Blazek, have not, as was reported, been separated, the physicians having declared that to separate the two bodies would mean death to both.

THE Mohamed Ben Mohamed troupe of Arabs, after a successful Continental trip, open a tour of the principal theatres in England at Birmingham on March 5.—The Brewster Troupe, owing to the great success made by them at the Hippodrome, Paris, have been engaged by Signor Leguis to play on his South American tour. They sail from Valencia on March 12.

MR. CHARLES DIAMOND AND MISS BEATRICE, after their long sojourn abroad, are meeting with bigger success than ever in their bright and clever musical act. This week they are at the Park Palace, Liverpool, and have fairly taken the audiences by storm.

BARRETT AND KNOWLES, who are appearing in pantomime at the Royal, Glasgow, have an excellent gag in the refrain of the song, "Are we downhearted? No." This has become the rage of Glasgow, and was extensively used during the recent elections by both parties.

MR. BRANSBY WILLIAMS has made a big success at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool. This is the first pantomime in which he has appeared, and he received telegrams from all parts of the country on his first night. Amongst the most cherished of the messages sent was one from the veteran comedian Mr. J. L. Toole, who takes a great personal interest in the young actor.

MANY of the older music-hall frequenters will remember Mr. J. H. Woodhouse, comedian, author, and composer, who, we regret to say, passed away on New Year's Day at the Bradford (Yorks.) Hospital after a long illness from paralysis. The widow, who is left in poor circumstances, has just undergone a serious operation, and lies in a critical condition at Sandown, Isle of Wight, and the son, Mr. J. J. Woodhouse, who has not a date booked until April, appeals through our columns for help to tide over a distressful time. Those who are willing to help may send subscriptions to James Graydon (Woodhouse), 33, Osney-crescent, London, N.W.

DR. WALFORD BODIE, since he left London, has been playing to record business all along the line. At the Empire, Portsmouth, he appeared nightly to packed houses, and has been rebooked to return at the biggest salary ever paid to any artist. This week he is scoring his usual gigantic success at the Argyle, Birkenhead, and Mr. Clarke has rebooked him for another two dates at a weekly salary of £200. On Monday next the doctor opens with Mr. Stoll at the Empire, Nottingham.

MISS DOROTHY DUNDAS (Mrs. Bert Weston) is recovering satisfactorily from her recent operation, and was able to leave the private nursing home last Wednesday.

WE recorded last week the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Charlie Phoite-Pinaud, a well-known circus and variety-hall performer, whose real name was Charles Hunt. He returned from an American tour in July last, and, being nearly sixty years old, it was thought that he would retire into private life. But the old showman instinct asserted itself, and he entered into negotiations with the Blackpool Tower Company with a view to producing a new entertainment on American lines at the Palace next season. This new show was to be a novel kind of picture gallery. The late Mr. Phoite-Pinaud was a widower, and leaves one son, who is the Kempton of the well-known Kempton and Murdock combination—a couple of smart knockabout duettists, who have frequently appeared at the Blackpool Palace.

AT the funeral, which took place at the Blackpool Cemetery, only the deceased's relatives and mourning friends were present, including his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hunt; Mr. G. H. Harrop, general manager of the Tower and Palace; Mr. F. Waller, acting-manager of the Palace; and Mr. F. H. Jepson, musical director of the Palace, and others. The coffin bore the inscription: "Charles Hunt, died January 20, 1906, aged fifty-nine years." Beautiful wreaths were sent by Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hunt, Mr. G. H. Harrop, Mr. Fred Waller, Mr. Richard Warner, "his old friends T. Sergenson and Fred Ash," Mr. and Mrs. Reed Pinaud, and others.

MR. RICHARD GREEN, who takes the character of Captain Aubrey Fane in Fenella at the Coliseum, has been re-engaged by Mr. Oswald Stoll for another month, owing to the continued success of the operetta. Last Saturday, whilst Mr. Green was entertaining a party of friends at lunch at the Savage Club, Mrs. Green quite unexpectedly gave birth to a son, "Which is the third pledge of affexshing," as the older Weller would have observed, for Mr. Green to be proud of.

MR. GEORGE LEYTON, indefatigable as ever in the cause of our military veterans, has just sent Mr. Clarke, the secretary of the local branch, a cheque for £6 14s., the proceeds on the sale of his song-books during his recent successful two weeks' engagement at the Birmingham Gaiety.

AN experiment is about to be tried at the Empire by the issue of season tickets for the parterre lounge to members of London clubs. The number of tickets would probably be limited to 500. Mr. George Edwardes believes the new departure will be a success. "The principle," he remarked to an interviewer, "would not apply to the ordinary London theatres. In many provincial theatres, however, which change their bill every week, the system of yearly subscriptions might be successful." At the Palace Theatre, the system is already in operation, tickets being issued at three guineas a year for the promenade.

THE directors of the Empire have decided to produce the romantic ballet of Coppélia, probably at Easter next. This ballet, one of the earliest composed by Léo Delibes, is that in which Mdlle. Adeline Genée, danseuse, made her first success some ten years back at the Royal Opera House, Munich, and she will resume her original part of Swanilda. It is worthy of note also that it was in this work that Mdlle. Genée appeared before the Queen at the Opera House, Copenhagen, on which occasion Her Majesty expressed a hope that it would be given in England. At the Empire it will be played, as is usual on the Continent, in two scenes, and will be produced by Mr. Alexander Genée, the well-known director of ballet, who has himself appeared several times in it.

MR. CHARLES COLLETTE, having returned from his provincial engagements, will make his reappearance at the London Pavilion on Monday next in his clever little comedy duologue Tea for Two, supported by Miss Helen Perry.

AUDRAN'S well-known comic opera La Mascotte was chosen on Monday for Mr. Stoll's operatic experiment at the Coliseum, and, as presented by Mesdames Cora Williams and Sybil Lonsdale, and Messrs. Andre Kaya and Watty Brunton, it has been very favourably received by large audiences at the early evening performances this week. The palace scene was selected as the most suitable for representation, and the Coliseum choir gave valuable assistance as members of a novel chorus.

THE pantomime skit of Nero, which is being prepared for the Coliseum by Chris Davis, with lyrics by Roland Carse and music by Walter Slaughter, will be built on broad lines, and will include a slight burlesque of The Charioteers. The first scene will show the arrival amid the Romping Romans of S'Nero, in his triumphal chariot drawn by his three pet horses, Merrie Maggie, Stonewall Sam, and Broken-winded Polly. Fun will be made of the unblushing bragging of Nero, and of his disputes with his stepbrother, his mother, and the chief poisoner by Imperial warrant to the Court. This scene will conclude with a stampede of the Royal Lions. In the second scene Nero will be seen racing for the old Roman Pewter Cup Stakes (2.30 on the yellow card), with a distant reflection of the burning of the Imperial City. The part of S'Nero will be sustained by Mr. M. R. Morand, and he will be supported by Messrs. Keino Johnstone, William Morgan, William Watts, Witty Watty Brunton, and Charles Trevor. Messrs. Harry Gardiner, Fred Lomas, and Fred Zeitz will impersonate S'Nero's horses. The skit will be produced on Monday, Feb. 12.

MR. FRED BAUGH'S legion of friends heartily welcomed him on Monday night, when he looked in at the Holborn Empire. He is quite convalescent, but still somewhat weak, and will go away northward for a change in a short time. Mr. Baugh speaks in glowing terms of the kindness shown him during his illness, and considers that his fine constitution has been the chief factor in his recovery from the serious operation he had to undergo for appendicitis.

The Lady in Red, the successful sketch written by Mr. Frank Dix, and produced during Christmas week at the Hippodrome, Brighton, has proved a sterling success. Mr. Tom Craven, a clever dramatist as well as a humorous comedian, is playing the part of William with his customary unction, and at the conclusion of the pantomime engagement Mr. Stephen Adeson will resume his performance of Johnson.

MR. JOHN LAWSON, commonly called "Humanity John" and "Only a Jew," appears at the Hackney Empire next week. "Humanity," he said, "plays thirty minutes, and it has been the most successful episode ever produced since the variety theatre evolved from its free and easy stage. I spend on an average £20 a week, and in the course of a year, on an average, I destroy or wear out 30 dress suits and coats, 12 new scenes, and 6 large carpets; 810 large sheets of real mirror are destroyed, 1,400 wine glasses, 3,630 art pots, 330 dress ties, 12 pairs of boots, 50 pairs of gloves, 311 pedestals, 4,330 sheets of ordinary clear window glass, 400 champagne bottles, 1,300 fruit plates, 2,560 vases, and innumerable boxes of candles and cartridges."

THE Secretary of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund has received a cheque for £20 from Mr. Fred W. Warden, as a donation from the Belfast Theatrical Charities. The president and committee are very thankful to Mr. Warden and the ladies and gentlemen who assisted for their kind efforts on behalf of the Music Hall Charity, which is in sad need of help.

MR. ROBERT GANTHONY has just finished a most successful engagement with Mr. Stoll. His style of entertainment is a welcome change in the usual variety programme.

ON the evening of Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, Harry Adams, the well-known writer for the variety stage, will be supported by a host of well-known professionals at the Horns, Kennington, the occasion being a complimentary social concert, organised in honour of the author of the late Charles Godfrey's famous "On Guard." Mr. Adams has deserved well of the profession, he having during the forty years he has been writing supplied many artists with notable successes. Miss Louie Frear's "All through the twiddly bits," and Mr. George Lashwood's "My latchkey," are examples of his workmanship.

MR. CARTER LIVESEY and Miss Lilian Rosebery have been engaged by Mr. Alfred Butt to present their successful skit, The Would-be Actors, at the Palace, Shaftesbury-avenue, for four weeks, commencing the 26th inst. The skit has been touring the provinces for the past six months, meeting with unprecedented success, and has secured bookings extending into 1908.

THE Terriers will give their fourth Social of the season at their headquarters, the Dover Castle Hotel, on Sunday, when a host of friends, ladies and gentlemen, are invited.

SO great has been the success attending the establishment in New York of a branch of Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter's great business concern that Mr. Fred Day has found it necessary to remove from East 28th Street to more commodious premises at 15, West 30th Street, which is "up town," and nearer the principal theatres, and where the firm will trade as the "Anglo-American Publishing House of London and New York." The The American press have devoted much space on enconiums on the house, its methods of business, and its latest venture, a new Orchestral Journal. An adaptation of "Hear the pipers calling, Jenny mine"—our Transatlantic cousins have no pipers—promises soon to be the vogue in America.

WE regret to hear that Mr. E. A. Tasker, the manager of the Encore, passed away at his residence at Harringay on Wednesday, the immediate cause of death being pneumonia. The news has caused profound sorrow among the deceased's many friends in and out of the profession, and a promising career has been cut short at the early age of 29. The remains will be interred on Monday, at 12.30, at Southgate Cemetery.

ACTING on the instructions of the managing director of the Coliseum, a young Frenchman was arrested on Friday last on the charge of selling pirated copies of the song "Dreamland." The man admitted that he had printed the copies himself, and on his consenting to the confiscation of his printing plant and all the copies found he was permitted to go.

MESSRS. WILLIAMS AND BROWN, who are playing a successful pantomime engagement with Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's Aladdin at the Grand, Nottingham, dissolve partnership on March 31, after being together for twelve years. Mr. Billy Brown has made arrangemnts by which he and Mr. Fred O'Malley (late of the O'Malleys) will immediately start working in double harness. The firm will, from April 2, be known as O'Malley and Brown. They have had an entirely new and original comedy sketch written for them, entitled The Day I Came Back, from the pen of the well-known Drury Lane and Mohawk Minstrel comedian, Mr. Johnny Danvers, and they have already been secured by several managers, both in London and the provinces.

AN application was made on Monday at the Thames Court for a licence to enable a boy to perform with his father, the head of an Arab acrobatic troupe, at the Bow Empire Music Hall. The magistrate, having questioned the boy, said he did not want to put any obstacle in the way of that sort of performance, but the law said every child should have certain education. The boy, although intelligent, was not getting that, and as the father was making money out of the son, he ought to provide him with a tutor. The application would be refused.

MR. FRED MCNAUGHTON, who is playing in pantomime with his partner Tom at the Borough Theatre, Stratford, recently met with a serious misadventure by applying some spirits of ammonia to his throat instead of menthol tincture, both liquids having unfortunately been placed in green bottles. Through the presence of mind of Mr. Tom McNaughton the sufferer, who was in great pain, was induced to vomit, and to this drastic action the doctor attributes Fred's recovery. He is now quite convalescent, and is meeting with an enthusiastic reception nightly.

THE admirable Urbanora animated picture exhibit will from Monday next take the Alhambra's patrons on a realistic excursion from Southampton Water to the Andes, by way of Uruguaya, putting before them the mighty Iguazu Falls (which far exceed Niagara), and many full and comprehensive illustrations of the two great national industries, cattle-raising and orange-growing. The Oxford and Cambridge crews will visit the Alhambra on Boat Race Night for the third year in succession.

MISS MILLIE PAYNE, on her return to town, has scored an unmistakable success, her new songs catching on at once. At Chelsea she is very welcome, and at Collins's, where she made her first appearance, audiences revel in her eccentricities.

THE Eskimo Troupe, in their production At Home in Lapland, have a novelty of considerable ingenuity, in which they present several effective illusions in a way that is quite out of the groove of the commonplace. We hope shortly to see these clever people in London.

MR. CARL LYNN, who is a young and exceedingly clever animal mimic, will make his first appearance in London at the Canterbury on Monday evening.—Miss Evelyn Taylor, who has been scoring heavily in her new line of business, is booked far ahead through Mr. Leo Fritz's agency.

THE Haverleys, American song illustrators, have been making a big success on the Macnaghten tour, and are now in the provinces for another four weeks before opening at all the London Macnaghten halls.

HICKS'S CLERKS will produce for the first time, on Monday next, at the Holborn Empire, a new musical absurdity entitled A Day at the Seaside, with special scenery, dresses, and electric effects.

MR. BOCK PYLADES, the well-known facial artist who should have performed this week at the Hippodrome, Accrington, fell and broke his leg shortly after arriving in the town last Sunday night. He now lies in the hospital at Accrington.

MR. HARRY NATION, who has had fifteen years' active experience in the variety profession at home and abroad, is about to start as an agent. His business will be known as the National Agency.

AT the meeting on Sunday of the International Artists' Lodge at the Hotel Provence, there were seventeen members and four guests present. The minutes being read and adopted, the chairman then proceeded to deal with the correspondence, among the most important communications being one from the London County Council, in answer to communications from the I.A.L. extending over several months, re lowering of lights in the auditorium of theatres and music halls during the performances. The County Council now disclaim any such intention, and only wish to enforce continual illumination in the corridors and over exits, etc.; the Council also stated that it would be willing to consider any further observations from the I.A.L. Reference was made to a paragraph in this week's Programm, drawing attention to the fact that contracts for America calling for Sunday performances are void according to law, performances on Sunday being illegal. The verdict in a recent case had made this point quite clear. It was pointed out that an article which had appeared in a contemporary had shown some misconception of the aims, objects, and nature of the Lodge. The meeting considered this unfortunate, when it was remembered that this might lead to a wide-spread misconception. It was therefore resolved to write letters to the different music hall publications asking them to kindly publish the correction of these errors.

A MEETING of the committee of the Le Brunn Testimonial Fund will be held at the Oxford on Monday next at 1.30 p.m.

MR. JOHN L. LAWSON produces his new sketch by Mr. Cecil Raleigh entitled The King's Minister at the Hounslow Hippodrome on Monday, the 12th inst. Artists, managers, and agents wishing to see the same will please forward their names to the Secretary, 49, Binfield Road, Stockwell, S.W.

THE late Mr. "Dick" Leggett used to tell some good anecdotes relating to his struggles in early youth. As a lad he toured Wales with his mother's concert party, who used to hire a large room in a public-house for the entertainment. The party travelled their own grand pianoforte, and, on one occasion, when the artists had assembled for the opening performance one evening, the pianist attempted to play the first bar of the overture, when, to the great consternation of all, nothing was heard but a most frightful discord. Inquiries eventually brought an old servant woman upon the scene, who proudly proclaimed the fact that, seeing a lot of dirty wires inside the piano, she thought she would be doing the actor-people a good turn by cleaning the instrument up, and she had spent the entire afternoon in burnishing each wire with a piece of sand-paper wrapped round a brick. Needless to say, there was no performance that evening.

"DICK" LEGGETT'S youngest daughter Amy (who so cleverly portrayed the title-rôle in their well-known sketch The Maid of Athens), only recently joined her husband, Eric Calcott, in a new act. Under the cognomen of "The Calcotts" they have already fulfilled numerous engagements in London and the provinces, and were this season specially engaged by Messrs. Little and Darcy for principal girl and speciality in their pantomime Sinbad. At the termination of the pantomime the clever couple are returning to the music halls, and commence an extensive tour at the Empire, Portsmouth.

LADY HALDON is busy rehearsing an original dramatic episode of real life, written for her by Mr. Arthur Shirley, entitled Two Pictures, which will be shortly produced at a leading variety hall. She will have the able assistance of Mr. Talbot Homewood and Mr. Irve Hayman, the popular American character actor. Mr. H. J. Didcott has the entire charge of bookings.

MR. JAMES WILLARD'S sketch Did he Deserve It? is enriched with a novel situation which readily appeals to popular audiences. A large mastiff defends a poor flower-girl from the advances of a young roué. The incident is so dramatically represented, and the intelligent canine plays his part so well, that the sketch invariably evokes enthusiastic cheers.

MISS BELLA BASHALL has been playing with great success the part of principal boy in the pantomime production of Beauty and the Beast at the Prince's, Poplar, in place of Miss Lottie Collins.

MR. WALTER NORMAN has been appearing as deputy this week at the Grenville, Walham-green, for Mr. Charles Cardow, and has met with a very big success. His "England with a great big E" has proved a strong number.

MISS VICTORIA MONKS produced Messrs. Lambe and Mellor's song "Can't you hear me calling Mister Primrose Brown?" at the Holborn Empire on Monday last. It proved an instantaneous "hit," and it will be published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

MR. CHARLES VALVO, society ventriloquist and humorist, was taken seriously ill twelve months since, and was advised by his doctor to take a complete rest for a year. He has now completely recovered, and desires to acknowledge with much gratitude the kindness of his friends. He commences work in a week or two, when he will present something new to his audiences.

THE Pollardy Brothers have been re-engaged by Mr. Frederick Mouillot to play the "Ugly Sisters" for the season of 1906-7. This makes the fourth season they have been engaged for these parts.

MR. ARTHUR ELVEY will produce, at the Surrey Theatre on Monday, his latest sporting act, by Albert Voyce, entitled The Up-to-Date Tipster, with special scenery, auxiliaries, and Raymond's Bioscope. Mr. Barrasford has secured the act for his halls through the agency of Messrs. Fortune and Granville.

HERBERT LA MARTINE will celebrate his twenty-first birthday at Newport (Mon.) to-day, when he will no doubt be the recipient of many hearty congratulations.

MDLLE. EUGENIE FOUGERE, the celebrated and charming French chanteuse, will sing her latest French successes at the Oxford on Monday, and will be seen in the newest Parisian confections. Morris Cronin, in his mysterious pantomimic juggling, and Francis Willy, with his grotesque dog circus, will also be added to the excellent programme.

"BILL BAILEY," the burlesque of a pantomime with which the Follies opened their month's season at Queen's (small) hall on Thursday, is not such a simple little production as it appears from the front. Each member of the clever little company has to make use of over thirty-five different "properties," and there are continual changes of costumes. As several of the best "gags" of Mr. H. G. Pélissier, who is the principal pierrot in the Follies, have been "lifted," he has wisely invented a new set, leaving his "good old jokes" to his sincerest flatterers.

JAMES PRESTON, fifty-one, a fruiterer, living in Rowton House, Newington Butts, was charged on Tuesday with attempting to obtain two admission tickets for the Alhambra Theatre, worth 6s., by false pretences. It was alleged that the prisoner, in the name of Pope, wrote for theatre tickets, using a newspaper shop in Kennington Park-road as his address. He was arrested by Detective-sergeants Duggan and Loader after he had left the shop, and when searched was found to have some theatre tickets in his pockets. When told the charge that would be preferred against him he said he was hard up, and tried to realise a shilling or two for food and lodging. Prisoner, who pleaded guilty, was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

HERBERT CLIFTON, who is only nineteen years of age, appeared at the Alhambra with remarkable success for the first time on Monday evening. According to Mr. George Scott, the manager of the Alhambra, whose "discovery" he is, Mr. Clifton had never appeared on any stage until a week or so ago. He was found by Mr. Scott at the Duchess, Balham. Mr. Scott was so struck with his wonderful mimetic powers and versatility that he promptly engaged him for a performance at the Alhambra. Mr. Clifton rehearsed his act there on Monday morning; and by Monday night his success was so assured that Mr. Scott secured him at once for a term of years. Clifton possesses an ordinary baritone voice of remarkable flexibility, and can sing soprano songs with the greatest ease; while his mimetic representations of feminine performers, including Miss Evie Greene, Miss Madge Lessing, and Miss Gertie Millar, are wonderfully true to the characters impersonated.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

LONDON PAVILION.

A very agreeable novelty in the London Pavilion programme is found in what is called an international sketch, produced by Mr. Emlyn Jones and his quartet of ladies, who have been great favourites at the Piccadilly-circus house for some considerable period now. The nations represented as "international" are Irish, Scotch, Welsh, and English, and from the rich stores of melody emanating from the composers of each country, Mr. Jones has selected songs that will never die. When the curtain rises four ladies, dressed in the national costumes of Britannia, Gallia, Cambria, and Erin, are discovered seated "in the vicinity" of a grand piano. To them enters a courtly gentleman in the elegant and most becoming costume of The School for Scandal period. Proposing the toast of "Merry England, the land of the free," the quintet raise their glasses, and break into the old English melody of "Lasses and Lads," delightfully harmonised. Even more effective is the harmonised version of Balfe's setting of "Killarney," representative of the music of Erin. "Loch Lomond" reflects in its lyrics the intense love of the land of burn and loch that is a religion with the Scot, and in choosing this sweetest and most pathetic of melodies, Mr. Emlyn Jones has shown much wisdom. It is rendered with faultless intonation and admirable expression. Gallant little Wales, with its soul steeped in music, its ancient bardic ceremonies, and its Eisteddfods, is apostrophised as the land of song, and the strains of "The Bells of Aberdovey," sung in Welsh, fall sweetly on the ear. In his final selection, "The Soldiers' Chorus," from Faust, Mr. Emlyn Jones suggests the Entente Cordiale—a very real and prominent factor in any "internationalism," and this stirring number—quite an inspiration with its composer Gounod—winds up a refined and very popular interlude which appeals very forcibly to that large-hearted Imperialism which is the sentiment uppermost in the minds of most lovers of variety.

Early in the evening Mr. Maynard Dakin, a young comedian of promise, sings a capital medley, and is also heard to advantage in "I've got nothing to grumble at." Mr. James Stewart, the tramp at the piano, gives examples of the art of commencing a simple melody in one key and finishing in another; and another gentleman who amuses us at the piano is Mr. Homer B. Mason, whose raiment also betrays his association with the (stage) criminal classes. Homer plays the part of a witty and philanthropic cracksman, who, after enjoying a good deal of fun at the expense of a happy pair in a flat, leaves them on the condition that they shall become betrothed, and that their first-born (if a boy) shall be named after him. Miss Marguerite Keeler is as pretty as a picture, and acts the character of Milly with much refinement and charm. The sketch, which is called Hooked by Crook, fills out an entertaining half-hour. Mr. Arthur Aldridge, who is endowed with a tenor voice of excellent range, sings "Nirvana" with fervour and charm of style; Miss Florence Schuberth, looking particularly well in a boy's costume of blue, praises in song the gallant little Japs; and Mr. Frank Leon dances in perfect rhythm a Lancashire clog dance—a form of terpischorean exercise that is apparently much enjoyed by the audience.

Shawlene, who is labelled mimic and siffleur, adopts the rôle of tramp in his exhibition of whistling. Choosing first the favourite air "Alice, where art thou?" he produces pianissimo and forte effects with great skill, and afterwards chooses the overture to Balfe's Bohemian Girl—a morceau of considerable difficulty. He, however, comes through the ordeal triumphantly, and is warmly applauded. Shawlene should try one or two of the florid arias of Sir Henry Bishop, such as "Tell me, my heart," "Should he upbraid," or "Bid me discourse," or he might even venture—in the dress of a jester, with cap and bells—on the beautiful settings of Shakespeare's songs by Dr. Arne. This would bring his entertainment up to a higher plane and display his abilities to even greater advantage. Strongfort, America's renowned athlete, is responsible for a graceful exhibition of muscular development and some trials of strength, which include the Roman column feat and heavy dumb-bell lifting. He winds up his entertainment by allowing four men to stand on his body during the time that his head and feet only rest on supports. Strongfort is a pleasant-looking athlete, but he gives us nothing new, and his entertainment was anticipated a good many years since by Sandow and other strong men. Mr. Chris Richards, Mr. Whit Cunliffe, and Mr. George Mozart are repeating successfully the same entertainments that we heard a week or two ago; Mr. Jock Whiteford has a popular new selection in "Keep on doing it, Sandy"; and Howard and Collinson exploit a clever interlude, which is founded on the animated doll idea. The Sisters Finney, two pretty girls in their teens, are responsible for a smart display of the graceful art of swimming in the crystal tank. The elder of the two picks up with her mouth no fewer than sixty-three coins from the bottom of the tank, and the exhibition throughout is particularly refined and instructive. Mdlle. Alethea is a most graceful gymnast, and Miss Marie Wilton asserts herself agreeably as a serio and dancer.

THE SURREY.

In variety administration, if not in politics, Mr. Frank Macnaghten is an out-and-out "Liberal," for all the turns on his bills are of the best. On Monday evening the queen of coster comediennes, Kate Carney, produced a new song-scena entitled The Sunday Promenade, which proves an admirable vehicle for the introduction of a song with a tuneful, swinging chorus, the fascination of which lies in the fact that everyone in the audience is induced to hum the refrain, and it is safe to predict that it will soon be whistled by every gamin and heard on every street organ in London. Seated on the benches in the Park we find quaint specimens of humanity. The dude promenader comes on the scene and inquires of the Park constable if he's seen "the Belle of the Promenade." It does not need the officer's reply, "She's coming now," for the merry "toot-toot" of a motor-horn is heard, and our one and only Kate Carney's elegant automobile dashes on the stage, bringing the coster queen in view of her enthusiastic subjects. She breaks into song, and at the end of each verse of "The Sunday Promenade" an endless procession of quaint personages fill the stage, singing and dancing, and creating rollicking fun. With a series of five enthusiastic curtains and many floral tributes the audience reluctantly lets the Belle of the Promenade make her adieu. The Sunday Promenade fully deserves the popular favour bestowed on it.

Mr. Frederick Maxwell and his carefully-selected company are this week presenting the sketch Bluejacket; or, a Son of the British Navy, which long since won popular favour, is renewing its success this week at the Surrey. Mr. Frederick Maxwell assumes the title-rôle, and gives a finished performance. Miss Lois Du Cane imbues the character of Nellie Drake, the heroine, with delicacy, tenderness, and artistic resource. As the villain, Marcus Mayne, Mr. Charles Levey invests his part with a brutal cunning that makes a deep impression, and wins the hearty execrations of the audience. As Goodman Giles and Ben Rivett, the two prying fishermen, Messrs. Gerald Blake and A. Charrington make the most of their opportunities, and add not a little to the general success. The staging is perfect.

The Livronis are exceptionally good in a light, breezy, amusing vaudeville, in which the clever couple are everything in turn and nothing long. Full of quaint business, this merry mixture of acrobatic dancing and ludicrous fun gives great delight.

Their burlesque of "The Sloppy Lovers" and Romeo and Juliet keeping the house highly amused. In response to an encore they give a Highland dance that creates uncontrollable merriment. The Sisters Beatrice are a pair of smart agile dancers, who charm in their duet, "I'll be your dewdrop, Rosie." Booker and Narbis in their duologue indulge in much amusing cross-talk and snatches of popular American coon-songs. Miss Childie Stuart sings of a pair of silk stockings "That were hanging on the line all day," the chorus of which is soon picked up by the audience; "Madame Butterfly," her second effusion, is also well received. Miss Dorothy Gould, a youthful vocalist, displays the possession of a clear and flexible voice in her pretty ballad "Dreamland," and gives high promise. The Four Kweeries give a weird illusionary act which leaves the audience full of wonderment. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux, with a series of amusing and interesting pictures, "Remorse; or, The Miser's Gold," "The Butterfly Chase," and "The Adventures of an Election Canvasser," form a fitting ending to a capital entertainment. The Surrey orchestra is distinctly a feature of the performance, and artists must appreciate the excellent work of Mr. Hinkinson's efficient band. Mr. Chris Wordsworth, the acting-manager, is as active as he is courteous, and keeps perfect order in the vast house. Congratulations are extended to Mr. Frederic Baugh, Mr. Macnaghten's general-manager, on his recovery from his recent severe illness.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

If continuous peals of laughter, intermingled with rounds of applause, may be accepted as the criterion of success, Mr. Arthur J. Barclay must be congratulated on having "struck ile" with his programme for the current week. It is certainly one of the most attractive bills that he has offered to his patrons for some time, and the crowded state of the house at each performance shows that a wise liberality is bound to secure the appreciative support of the paying public.

The Palace orchestra at once puts the house in good humour by a capital rendering of the tuneful overture, "Les Deux Magots," under the direction of Mr. H. Petersen. Mr. Frank Sylvo, who is no stranger here, repeats his quaint comedy juggling with great success, his tossing about of a lighted lamp, the clever trick with cigar-boxes, and that with the three hats, are accompanied by a running commentary of whimsical sayings. Miss Agnes Hazel, an exceedingly handsome comedienne, sings with all the charm of a naturally fine voice admirably trained. Herr Fritz, whose description as the "Mystifier of Mystifiers" certainly does not err on the score of extravagance, keeps his audience absolutely spellbound with a series of illusions which, not so many centuries ago, would have placed him in danger of his life as a magician closely in league with a certain nameless gentleman. The "horse and jockey" illusion, which is believed to have upset the customary equanimity of no less an august and universal genius than H.M. the German Emperor himself, must be seen to be believed. Scarcely less surprising is the feat of the flying lamp, while the articles produced from the harmless "bowler" of one of the audience—articles including a baby's complete outfit down to the feeding-bottle, a mass of millinery enough to stock a shop, and a whole flock of live pigeons—are simply amazing. Herr Fritz may be set down as one of the biggest successes the Palace has scored. That amusing couple of American Hebrew dialect comedians, Jordan and Harvey, convulse the house with their comical patter, clever singing and dancing. Another line that is responsible for no end of merriment is the appearance of Mark Melford and company in the farcical "screamer," Non-Suited, setting forth a breach of promise case that probably has not been equalled since Mr. W. S. Gilbert gave to the world his Trial by Jury. The little piece is played just in the touch-and-go manner necessary by the three clever artists comprising the cast. Few greater favourites ever visit Walthamstow than Dandy George and his inimitable "Rosie." The two comedians, human and canine, are as neat and entertaining as hitherto, and are the recipients of some of the heartiest applause of the evening. The Northern Troupe of International Dancers have a splendid reception for their really delightful dancing. Mr. Michael Nolan, singing two capital Irish songs, is at once admitted into popular favour and loudly cheered. The concluding item of the programme is an excellent dramatic sketch, entitled Dick Turpin. The authors, Messrs. George Roberts and Frank Gerald, have gone for their inspiration to Harrison Ainsworth's stirring romance, "Rookwood," and have produced an exceedingly compact and interesting drama in five scenes. The story is clearly told in language that is always to the point and never redundant. Mr. Frank Gerald gives a bold and picturesque rendering of the immortal highwayman, and rides bonny Black Bess with easy dash. That important and always popular character is sustained by Wiapera, a handsome creature, looking—if one may be pardoned the paradox in writing of a jet black steed—in the pink of condition. Sir Ralph Rookwood's villiany is well portrayed by Mr. Charles Aldred, and Mr. Lyndon Greenwood is a handsome and vigorous representative of the "rightful heir," Luke Bradley. Miss Evelyn Vaudray throws considerable dramatic fire into her impersonation of Eleanor Mowbray. Mr. Fred Rolls (Timothy Tittlemouse), Mr. Harry Prince (toll keeper), and Mr. Geo. Roberts (Peterson) all play well, and a word of praise is due to the imperturbable donkey Lazy Lightning. The scenery is effective, and the costumes handsome and redolent of the period. In a programme necessitating so many heavy "sets," the stage-management is a very important department, but Mr. John Grant, of the Palace, is fully equal to every call.

EMPRESS, BRIXTON.

A new sketch, written round the imposing personality of Miss Helen Kinnaird, figures in the programme at the Empress this week, and has well served its purpose of creating laughter. The little piece, which is called A Poor Weak Woman, serves to introduce to a solicitor's office a lady whose ample proportions strike dismay into the heart of the diminutive lawyer, and raise admiration in that of the equally undersized page-boy. The lady, who has a very assertive style, wishes to obtain a divorce, and produces a letter in her husband's handwriting in which a certain "Florence" is referred to in endearing terms. The reading of the letter induces a fit of hysterics on the lady's part, but when she has recovered the solicitor finds that there is some further writing on the other side of the letter which had escaped the lady's attention, and proves conclusively that the "Florence" referred to was the town in Italy, where the honeymoon of the couple was spent, and practically puts the plaintiff "out of court." Miss Kinnaird, by whom the sketch was written and produced, makes an impressive entry in a handsome dress, and carries the piece through with unfailing humour. Her aggressiveness towards the meek little lawyer is very laughable, and the lady's well-marked delivery gives all possible point to the lines. Mr. Willis Searle and Mr. J. W. Braithwaite share equally in the indignities heaped upon the crushed solicitor and his servant, the latter having literally to be sat upon in the course of the performance, which won laughter and cordial applause.

Included in the attractive bill is Little Tich, who renews his popularity at Brixton. His song as a chemist's assistant, who sings "It's very warm to-day," is highly relished, and is followed by an appearance as a member of the "Stay-at-Home Brigade," in which the little comedian cuts the most comical figure as a military officer. His mirthful devices are unbounded, and laughter, genuine and spontaneous, accompanies his turn throughout. An undeniable encore results in his return with his big boots, the process of putting them on and the dance which follows being deliciously droll. Howard and Collinson present their sketch The Porter and the Parcel to an admiring house, the singing and dancing of the marvellously realistic doll exercising their usual effect and calling forth a demonstration of approval.

Miss Julie Mackay's deep contralto gives thrilling effect to the refrain, "My father's as good as yours," the sentiment of which appeals powerfully to all, and the singing by the favourite vocalist of "Good-bye, my lady-love," reveals the melody of that agreeable song in the most striking way. Sentiment is also contained in the pictorial songs supplied by Martine and Son, "When you were sixteen," and "You may be old some day," being both admirably rendered by a youthful singer who has a strong and penetrating voice. The incidents of the ballads are pictorially displayed in colours on a sheet, and loud recalls testify to the success of the show.

Many droll expedients, which include the burlesque of a marvellous escape from a railway-train, are resorted to by Farley, Rennie, and Farley, in Fun in a Railway Station, in the course of which some admirable tumbling and contortionism are executed. Prosper and Madame Benn join harmoniously in their sketch From Pavement to Stage, and Miss Maud Esmond also charms in song. Mr. Walter Wallis, who dilates on the humours of a high hat, also makes a droll appearance as a policeman of the cheeriest kind, whose eccentricities are highly favoured and win loud recalls. The laughing song of Mr. Charles Penrose, in which different styles of cachinnation are cleverly imitated, wins well-deserved recognition, and his appearance as a small boy in frilled knickerbockers adds to his undoubted success. Mr. Harry Champion preserves his lightning-like style in the singing of his distinctive songs, three of which have to be supplied before the popular comedian is allowed to depart. The art of juggling is deftly practised by Raffin and Jackley, a comic complexion being put upon the turn by the latter, a young comedian who supplies a number of droll antics that cause laughter. Some very clever feats are performed by his partner, who at one time may be seen balancing a heavily-framed oil-painting on the end of a pole, the other extremity of which rests on his chin. Miss Violet Carlyle gives specimens of her vocal talent early in the evening. Lord, Murray, and Lord win hearty cheers for their boxing exhibition and ball-punching; and Ruffell's Bioscope concludes a well-selected bill.

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

We were pleased to see Mr. Edward H. Dobson, the capable manager of the Shepherd's Bush Empire, when we visited that house on Wednesday evening. Mr. Dobson has been ill with bronchitis, and although still looking far from well, has pluckily stuck to his post, for, as he says, he feels that he must see that everything is going on all right at the establishment under his control. We trust he will speedily be restored to complete health and vigour. Miss Vesta Tilley has been the leading line here this week, and in view of the fact that it was announced to be her last performance previous to her departure for her fifth tour of the United States, a special interest attached to her appearance at Shepherd's Bush during the past few days. She has been billed as "Everybody's idol," and everybody's idol she has proved to be. Whether as a dandified youth who pricks up his ears at the question, "Who said girl?" or as a gay and debonnair officer of the "Royal Artilleree," or as a small boy in Eton jacket unsteadily "following in father's footsteps," Miss Tilley succeeds in bringing to the notice of the audience an amusing character. Every movement of her dainty figure is followed by admiring eyes, and it is pleasing to be able to record that she seems to possess as much vivacity as ever.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden have an entertaining sketch in their Desperate Remedy. A petulant young wife threatens to commit suicide, and buys some prussic acid for that purpose. Her husband, however, does not take her seriously, and a very laughable situation arises as she is about to put the deadly glass to her mouth, and finds that her husband stands unmoved all the time. There is good reason for his nonchalance, for he had previously changed the poison for whisky, and when she refuses to poison herself he snatches up the tumbler, and says he will drink the liquid himself. There is another diverting scene, as she implores him not to do anything of the kind, and, finally, all ends happily. Fyne and Hurley appear in an extremely funny little "Coster and Dude" incident, which proves greatly to the delight of the house. The Mannons, in their Uncle Yank act, indulge in a variety of amusing knockabout and gymnastic antics, and liveliness is the order of things while they occupy the stage. Stewart and Morgan give an agreeable rendering of duets, their songs being "Eileen Alannah" and "Come back to Erin," one of the gentlemen singing in falsetto. Mr. W. H. Downs, the coloured tenor, exhibits considerable vocal skill with his interpretation of "Remember me," into the performance of which he imparts both feeling and expression.

Uproariously comical are Amann and Hartley in their sketch, The Naughty Professor. The gentleman's attitude, gestures, and remarks, as he endeavours to make love to what he believes is a new pupil, in reality his own wife, are amazingly whimsical. To both of these clever artists great credit is due for the absurd manner in which they tell the story of a music teacher, who has a liking for pupils of the fair and feminine order, and who also has a rather jealous wife. The Bohemians submit an entertaining musical show, in which different instruments, including a trick cornet, a flute, and a French horn are played in capital style. The Five Bellatzer Sisters take part in a smart aerial exhibition on the flying trapeze, their various feats being executed with neatness and agility. Drawee, Frisco, and Hambo excel in the direction of comedy juggling, the different portions of the talented trio's act causing much merriment. A series of interesting and attractive bioscope pictures concludes the programme.

MR. "SIXPENNY POPS" SMITH reports great business at the branch of Messrs. Francis and Day's establishment devoted to the now famous series identified with the name of the house. In the current number of our contemporary, Musical Opinion, are reproduced in facsimile three recent orders from wholesale dealers—to wit, Messrs. Paxton, Messrs. Pitman, Hart, and Co., and Messrs. Murdoch—each order being for 50,000 copies, assorted—150,000 in all!

A PIANOFORTE selection of popular melodies, the orchestral arrangement of which will also be hailed with delight by leaders of string, military, and brass bands, full or otherwise, has been just placed on the market by Messrs. Francis and Day, under the title of "The Pick of the Basket." It is by Warwick Williams, and introduces the melodies of "When the boys go marching by," "On the dear old shore," "Put a little bit away for a rainy day," "Little glow-worm," "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you," "In the shade of the old apple-tree," "Don't go too fast, little girlie," "Hear the pipers calling, Jennie mine," "Rainbow," "I love a lassie," "Riding on top of the car," "My Irish Molly, O," and "Come down from the big fig tree."

THE HOLBORN EMPIRE.

THE PRIVATE VIEW.

The march of improvement in the structure of variety theatres has been strikingly illustrated once more by the transformation of the old Royal into the Holborn Empire; and frequenters of the former house who availed themselves of Mr. Walter Gibbons's invitation to a private view of his new palace of pleasure on Saturday must have been agreeably astonished at the beauty, the elegance, and comfort of this latest of London's temples of amusement, and at the skill, ingenuity, and taste displayed by Mr. Frank Matcham, the distinguished theatrical architect. And here we must speak of the far-seeing enterprise of Mr. Walter Gibbons, the youngest of our music-hall magnates, who, notwithstanding the somewhat unfortunate career of the house, recognised that it might be run successfully on the two shows a night plan, and soon after acquiring it set about putting it in order, with the result that the new Empire is the leading theatre of the Gibbons' variety circuit. It worthily holds that position.

The new establishment will seat 1,600 people, and probably hold 2,000, and no less than fourteen entertainments will be given weekly, matinées being held on Thursday and Saturday. "Pilaster and architrave are set, and Doric pillar overlaid," in Holborn's latest theatre. One is moved to admiration on gazing from the stage at the graceful outlines and chaste decorations in cream and gold of the fine two-tier house, with its spacious pit, seated with tip-up chairs, its luxurious stalls, its splendid dress circle—not in this case built on the horse-shoe plan—and its comfortable and commodious gallery, with leather-covered seats and cork carpet. The prices range from fourpence in this gallery to eighteenpence in the fauteuils, and there are private boxes at five shillings, seven-and-sixpence, and half a guinea. Agreeably to the new order of things, all seats except those in the gallery can be booked in advance. As a full description of the architectural details of the new house was given in our last issue, we need only point out some of its principal features. The proscenium is one of the most beautiful of any in London. It is flanked by marble pillars, and by its magnificence proves that there has been no desire on the part of Mr. Gibbons to avoid outlay where results commensurate with it can be secured. The foyer, 40ft. in length, which is reached from the principal entrance in Holborn, and backs the dress circle, is a pleasant innovation, and it is delightfully planned. Pilasters and columns support carved beams and arches arranged in panels, and in the recesses are luxurious settees upholstered in fine green cloth richly ornamented with gold. A gold-embroidered crown forms the centre of the settee backs, which have a border to correspond and rest on a comfortable Saxony carpet.

Luxury of a similar character and a scheme of decoration to correspond are to be found in the saloon, to which entrance is obtained from the promenade at the back of the dress circle. This will become a very popular resort of the frequenters of the house, as it is directly over the entrance in Holborn, and should be a delightfully cool lounge for smokers in the summer. The saloon is on two levels, connected by three wide steps, flanked by pedestals and columns. The other saloons are equally as comfortable and elegant—that of the stalls being beautifully designed—but their position is not so advantageous. Everything that the skill and experience of the architect could suggest has been done to make the audiences comfortable and happy in their surroundings at the Holborn Empire, and Mr. Gibbons, the proprietor, is to be complimented on the great enterprise he has shown in the venture, and we may be sure that there will be a good entertainment enshrined in a beautiful house.

A large and distinguished company accepted the invitation of Mr. Gibbons on Saturday afternoon to be present, and among the visitors we noticed Messrs. Henry Tozer, the well-known director of half a score of halls; Harry Lundy, who was the managing-director of the syndicate that acquired the hall in 1901; Major Spencer Tyler, a manager during the Purkiss régime; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bawn, Mr. and Mrs. Laurie Graydon, Miss Fatmah Diard, Miss Amy Clevere; Messrs. Alec Hurley, T. Scully, Jack Edgar, Joseph Wilson (Tivoli), G. L. Wilson (Duchess, Balham), Fred McAvoy, E. W. James (Empire Palace, Ealing), J. H. Watling, Charles Beecham, J. Munro, Grimsdale, Harry Masters, Jack de Frece, R. Williams, Frank Elliot, W. Grimes, and a host of others.

Some excellent selections were played during the afternoon by the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. James Sale, who has been appointed musical director. Mr. Eustace Jay, the manager, received many hearty congratulations on his appointment, and the popular Mr. Harry Bawn, the general manager of the circuit, who has apparently entirely given up comic singing, was also felicitated on the latest addition to his responsibilities.

THE OPENING.

On Monday evening the reopening was marked by excellent business in both houses; but the joyous nature of the occasion was specially signalised in the second, for which most of the stalls and dress circle had been booked. There was practically no hitch in the arrangements, for, besides his well-disciplined staff, Mr. Walter Gibbons found excellent volunteer helpers in Mr. Hales, Mr. Harry Lundy, Mr. Emanuel Warner, and other friends, and by the time "God Save the King" had been played by the orchestra, under Mr. James Sale, an eager throng—many of them evidently frequenters of the old Royal—in stalls, pit, and dress circle, had expressed admiration for the beauty of the new house, and had settled themselves down to enjoy the excellent entertainment provided. As soon as the pretty tableau curtains had been lifted behind the magnificent marble-pillared proscenium, Silent Tait, the well-known conjurer, made his appearance. Quite a cockney garden surrounds the "speechless" magician, and a peculiar specimen of horticulture is the "deciduous" shrub on which billiard balls are seen to be growing in profusion. Tait pretends to gather these, and makes them disappear in a way that is at once amusing and mysterious. He changes the colour of a handkerchief while passing it through a paper cone, from which he afterwards produces flags; and his duplication of cards is also particularly neat. Silent Tait has a decided sense of humour, as one discovers when he indulges in an odd little dance at the conclusion of each of his tricks.

Satan, the sentimental sketch of the bill, enables us once more to admire Mr. Edward Sillward's realistic impersonation of the faithful gorilla. The Simian is heroic, and saves the young wife of a settler, George Golding, from the clutches of the villain Silas, whom he throttles. The poor animal's bravery and timely help are misunderstood, and he is unfortunately shot by Golding, who imagines his wife is in danger. An incident that adds to the pathos of this pretty little sketch is that the monkey, who has been educated to count up to five—a thing that has been proved to be quite possible—is supposed to think that he has been shot because he couldn't accomplish the feat previously, and in his last moments performs the simple trick with straws. Mr. Sillward contributes a wonderful sketch of the ape. He literally and metaphorically gets into the skin of the part. The animal's rage is expressed with terrible emphasis towards the villain, and the struggle between the two is exciting in the extreme. The other parts are well played, but the cast is not given.

A lively and entertaining interlude in the programme is filled out by the romantic absurdity, entitled A Trip to the Isle of Man. Ever since the production of Fun on the Bristol and Morocco Bound, "trips," both on the variety and theatrical stage, have been quite too numerous to mention. There is always a welcome, however, for anything so frankly hilarious and frivolous as Mr. Arthur Breton's work. Much of it certainly revivifies footlight echoes of musical comedy; but that doesn't really matter. The jolly old boy, Joshua Bacon, a retired merchant, when he sings to his six charming daughters, reminds us of Mr. Rutland Barrington chortling to his six stage-wives in San Toy; and the lunatic Count—but we need not draw further comparisons. The fun is fast and furious, especially in the hotel scene, where Mr. Arthur Breton plays fantastic tricks while carving a "bird." Other incidentals in the piece—which was fully described in our columns last week—include a chic bathing costume dance by the Sisters MacGovern, and Misses Lorne and Rene, in a musical duo, "Capital and Labour," both well-appreciated numbers. Miss Kitty Terris, who sacrifices her personal appearance to the exigencies of low comedy, plays with complete success the part of Matilda Pickles—a quaint delineation that contributes much to the success. Some pierrots, among whom we recognise that veteran performer Fred Harrington, sing a stirring military song; and fun and frolic mark the progress of the whole sketch, which is well illustrated and tastefully dressed.

The Two Bees (Harry and Flora Blake), in their comedy scena, "Pictorial Post-Cards," plunge the audience into the throes of excitement by the exhibition of portraits of party leaders; but the duettists touch a more sympathetic chord when they deliver lyrical tributes to—and honour the memory of—Sir Henry Irving and Dan Leno. Some of the political portraits might be better, and it would be difficult for the friends of John Burns to recognise the stalwart of Battersea in the counterfeit presentment displayed on the Bees' pictorial easel. Though some of the applause is cheaply obtained, they score a great popular success. Hill and Hull repeat their success in the lady dummy business, the complete inertia of one of the performers being cleverly simulated; Lee and Kingston combine in some amusing nonsense, the shower of missiles on the head of the male performer who burlesques Tommy Atkins, being a bit of drollery that is well appreciated; and the Australian Lady Meister Singers make a great hit. They contribute "The Lost Chord," and, responding to a very pronounced encore, sing "Dinah Doe," an American comic catch. An attractive quartette, indeed; but why meister singers? Ruffell's Bioscope presents a very fine picture on the Bioscope, which may be called "The Train Wreckers," and the programme has other contributors in Fraser and Haley, Zaro and Arno, and J. W. Rickaby.

IN consequence of the great demand for Dick Dare, M.P., Mr. Frederick Maxwell has had another set of scenery painted. The sketch will be played at Collins's and the Middlesex next week.

The first of a series of some eighteen original sketches, which will comprise Mr. Fred Karno's new répertoire, was successfully launched on Monday, at the Star, Bermondsey, where a packed audience gave every evidence of keen enjoyment. Hilarity is the watchword of all Mr. Karno's productions, and in his latest venture, which is brimful of bustle and excitement, there is no departure from so welcome a rule. The title of the sketch indicates some connection with Tommy Atkins's devotion to the canteen, and accordingly the opening reveals the interior of The Rifleman, a beer-house frequented by the military, wherein some very lively incidents are caused by an enthusiastic demand for drinks. A fillip to the fun is given by the arrival of a match-boy and a tramp, who cause many diversions by their comic antics. A conspicuous figure in the merry throng is Ben, a Bully, who engages in a game of dominoes with an old pensioner, and with the aid of a confederate wins all his money. The old veteran discovers the cheat, and denounces him, whereupon the bully strikes him a brutal blow, but is himself floored by a colour-sergeant who comes to enrol recruits. All the male occupants of the bar enlist; and in the second scene, the Exterior of the Barracks, the match-boy is found doing "sentry-go." The home-call is sounded, and men in uniform come rushing in from all directions, until the gate is closed, and a quartette of revellers are shut out. Their efforts to climb over the wall are made very funny, and when they eventually disappear, the sentry sinks promptly to sleep. The Encampment, with its long array of tents, is revealed in scene three, the réveille is sounded, and the men go through the processes of washing, cleaning, cooking, and drilling, including the mirth-making manœuvres of the "awkward squad." One of the characters is tossed in a blanket, the operation being executed with neatness, and supplying a most exhilarating scene, which aroused roars of laughter. Subsequently Ben the Bully has a dispute with his superior officer, and is placed under arrest. Night comes on, and the officer enters his tent, through which, by an ingenious lighting arrangement, he is seen preparing to retire. The contents of his portmanteau excite the cupidity of Ben, who has escaped from the guardroom, and with the help of the tramp he purloins the valuables. The theft is discovered, and an alarm raised, but while the officer and the bully are engaged in a terrific fight, a storm breaks over the camp, everything is blown about in disorder, and the tents are whirled into the air by the force of the gale, revealing the occupants in various stages of undress. A fearful thunderbolt completes the devastation, and upon this exciting picture the curtain descends.

With such a wealth of elaboration it was nothing less than remarkable that the fun, all performed in dumb-show, should be kept going so briskly as it was on Monday. The company, among which the names of many well-known comedians will be recognised, worked hard and indefatigably, and the laughter, which was general throughout the sketch, was well won. Mr. Albert Darnley, who appears as the colour-sergeant and also as a dandified officer, acts with admirable skill. He looks the parts to the life, and though he has no word to speak, his movements and facial play are full of meaning. The responsibilities of fun-making rest largely upon Mr. George Welch, who invests Miggs with numberless eccentricities. As the ubiquitous match-boy of the first scene and the sentry of the second, he is the cause of unceasing merriment, the comic expression he puts into his face intensifying the drollery of his actions. Quite a dramatic interlude is supplied by the domino-cheating incident in which Ben the Bully takes a prominent part. The character is played with well-marked intensity by Mr. Albert Weston, who has a most expressive countenance, and is able to work up a scowl of which no burglar need be ashamed. Mr. Harry Le Fre has the part of the old pensioner, and portrays the white-haired old veteran realistically, his make-up being especially praiseworthy. The comic exposition of the piece is aided by Mr. J. Russell, who gives a laughable performance of the tramp, and by Mr. W. Moran, whose endeavours to provoke mirth as a yokel are quite successful. Similar effect is obtained by Mr. J. Osborne as a "swell" who has to submit to many indignities, and by Mr. Reed Almonti, whose eccentricities as a lady of mature age are very pronounced. Miss Dorothy Dean gives an affecting portrayal of Winnie, the long-suffering wife of the bully. Two lively young ladies are found in Mary the Maid and Flo the Flirt, played respectively by Miss Emily Darnley and Miss Rosie Mayville, who act vivaciously, and have in the course of the action to engage in a realistic fight for the possession of a soldier lover.

The mounting of the sketch, which was produced under the personal supervision of Mr. Fred Karno, together with the author, Mr. Harold Gatty, was on a more than usually elaborate scale, the exterior of the barrack yard being admirably set, while the encampment, with its military impedimenta and long array of tents, forms a most inspiring scene. All the scenery and effects, down to the smallest detail, are supplied by Mr. Karno for all his numerous companies, and come direct from his extensive theatrical factory in Vaughan-road, Camberwell, to the resources of which there appears to be no limit. The principal scenic artists are Messrs. E. Grimani and Parr, who may be cordially complimented on their latest work. The sketch was received with uproarious laughter, and, with the added opportunities for fun which will inevitably arise, the sketch will form a successful beginning to Mr. Karno's new enterprise.

During the indisposition of Miss Maude Mortimer, the part of Prince Faithfull was taken up at a few hours' notice by Miss Ada Tilley at the Grand, Birmingham, and played so successfully that she has been highly complimented by the management.

Though the late Mr. G. W. Hunt in 1878 first used the term "Jingo" in the celebrated song "We don't want to fight, but by Jingo if we do!" which had special reference to the Eastern question, then very acute, it was the late Mr. G. J. Holyoake who first applied the term to a party. A meeting of those who favoured Lord Beaconsfield's policy was called in Hyde Park; it proved somewhat turbulent, and after the dispersal, a portion of the assembly set out for Harley-street and broke Mr. Gladstone's windows. In reference to this gathering Holyoake wrote a letter to the Press, headed "The Jingoes in the Park," and the word was added to the nomenclature of political discussion.

THE RIGHTS OF A SONG.

In the Court of King's Bench on Tuesday Miss Julie Mackay, the well-known music-hall artist, brought an action against Mr. George Edwardes to recover damages for alleged libel. In the alternative the plaintiff alleged that the defendant had improperly interfered with her engagement, and asked for an injunction restraining him from further interference. The defendant justified the alleged libel, but denied that he had interfered with Miss Mackay's engagement.

Mr. A. Powell, K.C., in opening the case for the plaintiff, said his client was a professional singer, and was well known in some of the music-halls in this country. The gist of her complaint against the defendant was that he had stopped her from singing a popular song with which she was identified and which she had a right to sing. The plaintiff, who was an American, was in New York in the autumn of 1902, and she heard several persons sing the song "Under the bamboo tree." It was a negro melody and became very popular. The song was published by Messrs. Joseph Stern and Co., New York, and in November of that year, when she was about to leave New York for this country, Mr. Stern recommended the song to her, gave her a copy of it, and said it was a "corking" song.

Mr. Justice Bigham: What kind of song?

Mr. Powell: A "corking" song. It is an Americanism. Continuing, counsel said that Miss Mackay, on her return to this country, fulfilled an engagement at the Granville Theatre of Varieties at Walham-green, and she sang the song with great success. Afterwards she sang the song at the Broadway Theatre, New Cross, and at the Opera House, Northampton. In March, 1903, she began to sing the song at the Tivoli and the Oxford Music Halls, and received £15 a week for each hall. It so happened that the song was being sung in the play The Girl from Kay's, which Mr. Edwardes was producing at the Apollo, and when he heard that she was singing the song nightly he instructed his solicitors to write letters of complaint to the managers of the Tivoli and the Oxford and to Miss Mackay. In those letters the solicitors stated that Mr. Edwardes had acquired the performing rights in the song for Great Britain and the British Colonies, that the song was then being sung in the play The Girl from Kay's, and asking for an undertaking that the song would not in future be sung at the Tivoli or the Oxford. In consequence of his action Miss Mackay was prevented from continuing to sing the song. The plaintiff, replying to the letter which she received, explained that she had been singing the song at the request of Messrs. Joseph Stern and Co., the publishers, and that she intended to continue to sing it, and asked Mr. Edwardes to expunge the song from the programme of the Apollo Theatre. Of course, the plaintiff had no right to make such a demand any more than the defendant had a right to call upon the plaintiff to cease singing the song. The song had been sung in America long before it was sung here, and there could be no doubt whatever that everybody had the right to sing it in this country. Managers sometimes affected to buy a right in order that they might be able to say they had purchased it and frighten off others. Being anxious to produce the song in the play The Girl from Kay's, Mr. Edwardes in December, 1902, after the plaintiff had sung the song at Walham-green, sent a cablegram to Mr. Charles Frohman, a well-known theatrical manager in New York, asking him to see Mr. Stern and secure the entire rights in the song for this country. The reply the defendant received was that Mr. Stern wanted £50 for each production. The defendant thought these terms very high, and he agreed to secure the song for the play The Girl from Kay's, paying £50. It was clear from the cablegrams that what he secured was not the exclusive right to represent the song in this country, but the limited right to have the song sung in The Girl from Kay's. The defendant must have known his exact position, and that he had no such title as he professed to have, and having interfered with the plaintiff's rights without any just ground he was liable to pay her damages.

Mr. Justice Bigham: What is the libel?

Mr. Powell: The letter infers that she had no right whatever to sing the song, and that she was attempting to appropriate the song.

Mr. Justice Bigham: That may be a libel, but I do not know whether the words bear any such construction.

The plaintiff was called, and gave evidence in support of her counsel's statement. She said she had had a special costume made for the song. In consequence of the action of the defendant she was prevented from singing the song, and had to fall back on an old song, which the London public had got sick and tired of, "The little bit of orange peel." The public accepted this old song, and she guessed they sympathised with her. In 1904 she went to the Grand Theatre at Leeds, and the manager asked her to sing "Under the bamboo tree." She explained what had taken place, and the manager then said he would not let her sing it. In cross-examination, plaintiff said the song was originally written for a lady to sing in America. She had no written document from Messrs. Joseph Stern giving her the right which she alleged she had. She had a letter from that firm in April, 1903, in which they said they regretted that their arrangement with the defendant precluded the granting of further singing rights in the song. She regarded that letter as bluff, All Americans bluffed.

Mr. Gill: What is your nationality?—I am an American.

In further cross-examination the plaintiff said at the time she produced the song at the Tivoli and the Oxford she had no idea that it had been sung at the Alhambra.

Mr. Philip Yorke, Mr. Albert Gilmer, manager of the Oxford Music Hall, and Mr. David Hart, theatrical manager, gave evidence.

Miss Marie Deighton stated that she heard the plaintiff sing the song in question at the Tivoli, and that it was a great success. A good song was a valuable asset to an artist.

Mr. Gill, for the defendant, maintained that his client honestly believed that he possessed the rights which he claimed, and that there was no evidence of malice. The defendant thought that he had the exclusive right to produce the song in this country, but that he could not use the song in any production other than The Girl from Kay's unless he paid £50 for each other production.

Mr. Justice Bigham said he should leave the case to the jury.

The defendant was then called, and stated that he first heard the song "Under the bamboo tree" at a rehearsal in 1902. It was sung to him by a member of his company. He said that Messrs. Joseph Stern and Co., of New York, were the publishers, and he cabled to Mr. C. Frohman, of New York, asking him to secure for him the exclusive rights in the song in Great Britain. As the result of Mr. Frohman's reply he agreed to pay £50 for the right to produce the song in the play The Girl from Kay's. He understood that he possessed the exclusive rights to the song in Great Britain, and that if he used it in any production other than The Girl from Kay's he would have to pay £50 in respect of each of the other productions. In February, 1903, he heard that the Sisters Hengler were singing the song at the Alhambra, and he asserted what he thought were his rights. The fact that the plaintiff was singing the song at the Tivoli and the Oxford was brought to his knowledge by Messrs. Price and Reynolds, the agents in London for Messrs. J. Stern and Co., and he directed his solicitors to write the letters. He had no malice against plaintiff. In cross-examination the defendant said he thought he had the entire English rights in the song, and that was the reason he paid £50 for it. The ordinary amount for a song of that kind was £10.

Mr. Powell: Do you understand the meaning of the term "bluff"?—I do not know what you mean.

Have you heard the term before?—Yes.

Does it mean putting forward a right which you do not possess in the hope that it will not be challenged?—I do not see what you are driving at.

Perhaps the jury will?—If you think I was trying to bluff the plaintiff you are mistaken.

You have never tried to bluff anyone?—I do not suppose I have. I do not know what you mean.

The defendant, in further cross-examination, said he thought at the time Messrs. Stern had protected the song, and it was not until afterwards he found out that they had not done so.

In re-examination the defendant said he received a letter on April 17 from Messrs. Stern stating that no rights with regard to the song had been granted to anyone but himself.

Other evidence having been given in support of the defendant's case, the jury found that there was no malice and no libel.

Mr. Justice Bigham entered judgment for the defendant, with costs.

Mr. Powell asked for a declaration that the defendant was not entitled to interfere with the plaintiff in the singing of the song.

Mr. Justice Bigham declined to grant it. He said he was not satisfied that the defendant intended to trouble his head about the song. In his opinion the defendant would be only too glad to dismiss it from his thoughts.

THE LATE RICHARD LEGGETT.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Richard Leggett, who passed away on Thursday, the 25th ult. He was born over seventy years ago in the Admiralty Buildings, Whitehall, and his father was a lieutenant in the Royal Navy. Dick Leggett was the originator of the American song and dance on the English stage, his partner being Allen. He had been by turns comic singer, dancer, strong man, ceiling-walker, and music-hall proprietor. For some years he controlled the entertainment at the Sun Music Hall, Knightsbridge, now demolished, and here he gave an engagement to Mr. Harry Randall in the early 'eighties soon after his début on the variety stage. During the latter years of his stage life he formed the chief member of the Leggett combination, and appeared with his family in the amusing farces Rural Retirement and Maid of Athens.

The deceased gentleman was a great favourite in Belfast, where his son, Sergeant-Major Leggett, who used to play in the above-mentioned sketches, holds a position as drill-instructor. One of his friends in that city writes: "When last in Belfast he showed me a faded programme, bearing the date March 14, 1860, relating to a compliment which he assisted in paying to the Chantrell Family at the Middlesex Music Hall, Mogul Tavern, Drury-lane. Even then he had been on the stage eighteen years. On May 23, 1903, on the occasion of Mr. Duignan's benefit at the Empire, father and son appeared on the same stage after a lapse of many years—the father in that well-known sketch Maid of Athens, and the son as an expert swordsman." One daughter of the late Mr. Leggett is in pantomime in Scotland, a son is in pantomime in Wales, and another son, Mr. Alfred Leggett, who was at one time musical director at the Temple, Hammersmith—now the Hammersmith Palace—is a well-known musical composer. Richard Leggett, who is in America, was a partner in the firm of the Brothers Tabra. The funeral took place at the Fulham Cemetery on Tuesday, the remains being interred in Mr. Alfred Leggett's private grave.

The feats of trick cyclists seem to become more and more daring every season, but Minting, who is giving two performances a day at the World's Fair, Agricultural Hall, holds his own. "The world's great uni-cyclist is to be congratulated to-day (Saturday) on entering his thirty-second year, and he has been riding a wheel for twenty-seven years of that time, having made his début at Bradford, when he was about four. An Englishman by birth, Mr. A. H. Minting lived long enough "down under" in the days of his boyhood to pass for an Australian; he speaks like an American, and he has travelled in fourteen different countries. The idea of riding a single-wheel up and down a spiral occurred to his father, who was a clever mechanic, and young Minting (known at that time as one of the Martini Troupe) at once consented to attempt the feat. It is fourteen years since he made a sensation with it in London, and his continuous successes have been punctuated by three accidents that would have broken the nerve of a less courageous and determined rider. The first was in London, when he was rash enough to practise before the net was in position, and fell 45ft.; the second was in Edinburgh, when the net broke, and he was sent to hospital with concussion of the brain; and the third was in America, when he broke two ribs, and was obliged to rest for a long time afterwards.

Mr. Minting has been in the United States for the last five years, his principal engagement being with Messrs. Forepaugh and Sells's big circus; but he will probably spend next summer in England, making his first appearance, in a few weeks, in the halls. He is a non-smoker, and proves that the strictest temperance is an absolute necessity for a man whose work depends, as his does, on a steady head and quick eye. Mr. Minting is accompanied in all his tours by his wife, a pretty young American, and their one little daughter.

Miss Peggy Fame, who has been playing the part of Alice in Dick Whittington on tour, was the recipient of some handsome presents on her birthday, the 26th ult. From the proprietor of the pantomime, Mr. H. Crossman, she received a massively framed photo with inscription, and a gold bracelet inlaid with turquoise and pearls; from Mr. Whiteley, a gold locket and chain; from her father a silver-mounted umbrella; from the lady principals of the company a large bouquet, and numerous other gifts.

THE INTERNATIONAL ARTISTS' LODGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Will you kindly extend to me the courtesy of your columns for the purpose of pointing out to the members of the music-hall profession a few mis-statements of facts contained in the leading article in The Stage of Jan. 25 on the subject of the coming conference of music-hall artists' societies? As a member of the Executive Committee, chairman of many meetings, and delegate to this conference from the I.A.L., I speak with some authority.

The International Artists' Lodge is not, as was stated, "a German society," but a federation of Artists' Lodges which meet and work in all parts of the world where music-halls exist. Wherever a meeting of the members takes place that place is the home of that particular section. The English Lodge has absolute home rule, and has, distinct and apart from any other section, its own meeting-rooms, its own offices, its own bank account, its own relief and loan funds, its own executive committee, its own solicitor, counsel, and Legal Protection Committee. Should this latter body desire to carry some test case even to the House of Parliament and the total funds of the organisation suffice, there is no power in Germany or any other country to say nay, no, or nein.

The I.A.L. is not "Berlin-bred" further than the German section is concerned. The English section is English-bred, and is as well-bred as the wisdom of the members in England have with conscientious effort been able to make it. It is a principle of the organisation that each section shall work out its own destiny, and that, when efficient, it shall be granted home rule, though always remaining an integral part of the vast federation with every other section at its back in case of need. That "its fees seem to place it outside the reach of the rank and file" sounds ridiculous when the fee, 9d. per week, is mentioned, and it is remembered that one-third of that amount goes into an old-age pension fund. Quoting again, "Were the International Artists' Lodge, as it is called, truly international, this fact would render it unsuitable as a representative body of artists constituting the English variety profession." That the Lodge is international surely every music-hall artist knows. That the present and future of the order in England depend entirely on the efforts of English artists I think I have proven—to argue the English section of the I.A.L. is foreign is to argue, therefore—I must not mention names—that a good many very prominent music-hall performers who were born within the sound of Bow Bells are foreigners. That a protective organisation for members of an international calling must, to be effectual, be international I think is apparent to all—all artists at least.

And we must consider that our calling is becoming more international every year. Never were so many English turns abroad, in America, Africa, Australia, and on the Continent, as at present, and by their success they are creating an extended and profitable working field for all English artists. Would it be advisable for English artists, any of whom may at any moment be called to an engagement out of England, to form an association only for England and lose the benefit of all they had worked and paid for the moment they chanced to cross the water? And especially when they have here in England a society already formed, with a constitution which has stood the test of five years' hard wear, and under which a capital of over £6,000 has been amassed—an order which is their own at home, and can aid and advise them abroad.

When "Little Englandism" is put to a body of Englishmen whose work and play know no political boundaries—except space, I am confident that the thin, piping cry will meet the defeat that it deserves. Whatever the result, I for one am with the majority—the greatest good for the greatest number.—Yours truly,

C. C. BARTRAM.

Empire Theatre, Cardiff, Jan. 26.

We well remember an incident, told us by George Sanger himself in a recent interview, that shows the power of personal influence for good that an employer may exercise amongst his people. The circus was at the end almost of its last tour, and the tent pitched in a great London suburb. Just across the road was a small settlement of show-people. A carnival fair had been held a few days before the advent of Sanger's Circus. A great sorrow, however, had come to the little colony of shows: the bright and bonnie daughter of the lessee and chief showman had been stricken unto death, and her body was coffined in the "home on wheels."

The news of the sorrow on the fair-ground soon spread to the working staff of the circus; and now comes the first interesting point of the sad incident. Without a word of caution from its grand old chief, the whole of the staff understood what he desired (so great is the power of personal character) that the immense concern was erected in silence, out of respect for the poor showman's grief over the way. Orders were given in a whisper, and, like the Temple of olden times, the circus "rose like a giant palm-tree," without sound, "all grandly silent." But the story does not end here. Sanger's people entered into a rivalry of sympathy with their kind-hearted chief. Knowing how tired and how busy his people would be, the Grand Old Man of the road had the kindly thought to save them trouble and to forestall their wishes. He provided a memorial wreath as from himself to lay on the dear girl's grave, and then another to be sent as from the staff of the circus. This he did unknown to his people, but his secret was discovered when a third wreath was sent in, addressed as the second—"From the Staff at Sanger's Circus, with deepest sympathy." Busy as they were, the Father of the Road's influence and example were too strong in their midst for any event demanding sympathy to pass over without ready help and kindly thought.

We seize upon some extraordinary gift or peculiarity in a man's public character or career, and it may be, in our readiness to record the merit and ability of a George Sanger, we neglect the acknowledgment of the finer soul and powers of the intensely human man hidden at times beneath the cap and bells of the jester or behind the pipes and drum of the showman. In a valedictory letter written to us a little while ago, George Sanger gave utterance to this truly fine ethical sentiment—"Nothing so well becomes a man as humility and integrity of character."

There are people who regard showmen as moral vagrants, beings distinct and apart, by the nature of their work and calling, from the rest of the community. Why should not a showman deliver a homily, and, if need be, preach a sermon?

Miss Jessie Preston will take a very short rest on the conclusion of her highly successful pantomime engagement at the Britannia Theatre, opening at the Tivoli on the 19th inst. in two new songs, written and composed for her by J. F. Lambe, entitled "I've a woe bonnie cottage" and a comedy song, "Jessie, the fair maid o' Perth."

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

MRS. T. READ (widow of the late T. Read), Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Read, jun., and family, of the World's Fair, Royal Agricultural Hall, Islington, desire to express their heartfelt thanks to the numerous friends who so kindly expressed their sincere sympathy—personal and otherwise—in their sad bereavement, also for the many telegrams, letters, and floral tributes from all quarters too numerous to answer.

SHOWMEN will be somewhat amused at the point made by the daily Press of the "sermon," or, as one writer puts it, the "homily," of the President delivered at the annual meeting of the Showmen's Guild last week. Even the Press of the Empire with its ready finger on the pulse of human things, fails somewhat to get at the heart of Showland—fails to realise the truth so admirably expressed by Mr. Muskerry-Tilson in his eulogy of Sanger. "I have travelled in many lands," he said, "but a better man, a cleaner or a straighter man than George Sanger I have never met." It is a man of this strong personal character that can dare to read the Riot Act, to proclaim at times unpalatable truths, and to "sermonise" in a good cause.

THE veteran showman Lord George Sanger paid a most welcome visit to the Era offices this week, driving into town in a very handsome equipage, drawn by piebald ponies. He thus signalised "the Days of his Leisure" by a visit to the staff of the newspaper that has persistently, in season and out of season, championed the rights and privileges of all sorts and conditions of showmen. The grand old man of the arena is in the best of health and spirits, and delighted us all by his youthful exuberance.

THE illuminated address presented to him by the showmen of the Empire has been an object of pious pilgrimage by his crowds of admirers who have visited the Era offices to see it. It is interesting to note that it is the work of a fellow-townsman of Sanger's, Mr. W. B. Pratt. The artist entered into the work con amore. "I have known George Sanger all my life," he said, when the commission was placed into his hands. "He's a Newbury man like myself. I will put my heart into it for 'Auld Lang Syne,' you may be sure." Mr. Pratt also illuminated the very beautiful testimonial presented to George Sanger by the members of his own family and a few intimate friends.

THE REV. T. HORNE and Captain Tom Payne, a Vice-President of the Guild, went to Hull this week in order to select a suitable memorial monument for the late James Dean, one of the founders of the Guild. Acting as the sub-committee appointed for that purpose, they made a selection of two appropriate designs, which will be finally decided between at the general Guild committee at King's Lynn.

VERY urgent Parliamentary defence work will come before the Lynn committee. Although the number of Bills touching the show business gets less every session of Parliament, constant vigilance and scrutiny are still necessary. The Guild executive does not relax its protective and defensive work. Private Bills must still be closely watched; and in every case of threatened danger met and fought.

THE most determined and costly fight in the past record of the Guild's work was with the powerful Corporation of Halifax. There were two elements of danger in the proposed Halifax Bill. The first was the power to increase the tolls to such a point as would have meant prohibition of the fair as a business fixture. The second was a new thing in English law—a monopoly in fairs secured to the corporation.

AFTER a three-days fight in committee the Guild obtained a fixed maximum as regards tolls—a great concession—and the "monopoly" clauses were expunged from the Bill. Thus the showmen secured the recognition of Free Trade in fairs and no corporation monopoly.

THE Corporation of Eccles, near Manchester, it will also be remembered, tried in a private Bill in 1889 to obtain additional powers of control over its local wakes. One proposal was to fix the hours during which any show or exhibition might be open. Here, again, was new law, and a proposal to interfere with trade. This was successfully opposed, and the clauses in restraint of trade struck out.

HERE were established two important precedents as affecting all branches of the amusement catering industry:—First, no monopoly by public bodies, but Free Trade in fairs; then, in the second place, all proposals in "restraint of trade" were ruled to be outside the province of private Bill legislation.

ORDINARY people might, therefore, conclude that, showmen having established these valuable principles of British jurisprudence—no monopoly and no private Bill legislation in restraint of trade—that there was an end of the matter. But it was not so. The technical complexity of Parliamentary procedure still left it possible for the corporation to ignore these precedents and to continue to load their private Bills with these oft-thrown-out and rejected proposals. This is being done, despite the fact that the Acton authorities were condemned in heavy costs, for vexatious persistence in proposals the Parliamentary Committee had so frequently thrown out.

ALL manner of variations and new readings of the old, old, and oft-condemned restrictions have been tried and have been detected, opposed, and condemned. It was reasonably conjectured that the awful example of Acton having to pay the showmen's costs would have acted as a deterrent, and of course it has in a large number of cases. Yet still we find a corporation here and there trying to obtain these vexatious and restrictive powers.

In the forthcoming session of Parliament the Guild executive will have to oppose the private Bills of Pontefract and Wallasey (New Brighton) unless these bodies agree by private arrangement to a working compromise that will safeguard the showman's interests.

THE objectionable provisions of the Pontefract Bill are as follows:—

Section 76 provides (1) that the Corporation may by licence permit the holding of fairs within the borough at such times and places for such purposes and subject to such conditions, restrictions, and limitations as they may think fit to impose, and the Corporation may in connection with any such fairs and in connection with the Statute Hiring Fair held annually in the month of November in the borough, make bye-laws for the conduct of the fairs and in particular may by such bye-laws

(a) Fix the hours during which the fairs may remain open;
(b) Provide for the preservation of order and good conduct among persons frequenting the fairs;
(c) Regulate the erection or placing on the lands on which the fairs for the time being are held, or upon any streets or other public places within the borough of any booth tents, sheds, stands, and stalls (whether fixed or movable), or vehicles for the sale or exposure of any article or thing, or any shows, exhibitions, performances, swings, roundabouts, or other erections, vans, photographic carts, or other vehicles, whether drawn or propelled by animals or mechanical power.

And the Corporation may by any such bye-laws so to be made by them impose such reasonable penalties as they think fit, not exceeding £40/- for each breach of such bye-laws, and such bye-laws shall be published in the manner following—viz., by advertisement in the local newspapers and by handbills and otherwise in such manner as they think sufficient.

(2) The Corporation may by licence permit the erection, placing, and use upon any streets or other public places within the borough during any of the days on which the Pontefract races are held, of any of the erections and things mentioned in paragraph (c) of sub-section (1) of this section, and any such licence may be granted upon such terms and conditions as the Corporation may think fit, and the Corporation may make bye-laws for regulating the erection, management and use of any such erections and things. Provided always that nothing in this sub-section shall be deemed to derogate from or prejudice any other powers or rights for the time being vested in or exercisable by the Corporation.

80. Subject to the provisions of this Act if any person shall without licence of the Corporation in any part of the borough hold or permit to be held any market or fair, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20 and to a daily penalty not exceeding £5. Provided that nothing in this section or in section 13 of the Markets and Fairs Clauses Act, 1847, shall be held to deprive the Corporation of any right to proceed by action or otherwise which the Corporation would have had if those sections had not been enacted.

THE provisions of the New Brighton Bill place the show business and open-air traders and stallholders at the mercy of the District Council and its officials.

The clauses of peculiar danger in the Wallasey Tramways and Improvements Bill read as follows:

Section 21.—The Council may make bye-laws for the preservation of order and good conduct among persons resorting to the foreshore and seashore in the district, and to the open lands adjoining the same, and for the regulation or prohibition of the placing of stalls or stands or of hawking thereon.

Section 122 (1.)—No person shall in any street or public place or on any land adjoining or near to any street or public place use or play or cause to be used or played any steam-organ or other musical instrument worked by mechanical or other means to the annoyance or disturbance of residents or passengers.

(2) Any person who shall offend against this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5.

We trust that not only the local show people but also the stallholders and outdoor traders of New Brighton will unite in the effort to throw out these objectionable clauses. The open-air traders of Blackpool remember to their cost the dictatorial and unreasonable manner in which the corporation has used its powers to stop trading on the sands, and also on the private land frontage of buildings on the promenade. Are the people of New Brighton going to allow the District Council to fetter them in their business enterprises as Blackpool traders have been hindered? We hope not.

New Brighton has a special and peculiar charm, it is the people's holiday resort par excellence. Tom, Jack, and Harry, and their wives and sweethearts may enjoy themselves on the shore and the sands at the mouth of the Mersey. We have witnessed this popular holiday festival at the sea, and we say that any attempt to make it smug and ultra-respectable will destroy its great power of attraction, and make New Brighton as desolate at holiday times as many another place by the sea, spoilt for ever, as far as the people are concerned, by by-laws and restrictions made in the interests of the select few and the "unco guid."

MR. TOM GREEN'S latest sensational picture, "Night Duty," a thrilling tale of a policeman's experiences, is now on sale at Cricks and Sharp, of Great Queen-street, Kingsway, and showmen who are on the look-out for an exciting picture should lose no time in securing this excellent production.

JENNINGS'S THEATRE is now on a visit to Tiverton-road, Bournbrook, and are giving some excellent performances.

A GRAND Trades Exhibition has been held at the Public Hall, Redditch. The attractions were the Flying Lady; Mme. Montague, the well-known palmist; and Mabel Lucie Strebelle's celebrated orchestra.

No portable theatre has visited Astwood Bank for some time.

SHOWMEN will do well to notice Mrs. M. Barrasford's new enterprise. To convert the famous Devil's Dyke into a valley of pleasure, with all the new advantages of a golden city, a perpetual fair under the glorious empyrean sky, and with the bracing breezes of Royal Brighton near by, is a fitting crown of glory for England's greatest lady manager of popular entertainments. The Devil's Dyke is an absolutely new field for showman enterprise, and we confidently anticipate that it will be widely embraced by show proprietors.

A BRITISH showman in Paris, on pleasure bent, sends us an interesting note of Montmartre Fair. It is now, he says, "in full swing, and fairly good trade is being done by a host of Parisian showmen, with various attractive novelties and side-shows, with a whole street of shooters and bazaar stalls, making altogether a capital fair." The roundabout proprietors and showmen are M. Charles Murray, with electric switchback railway; M. Eugene Dennis, with galloping piggies and rolling gondolas; M. Albert Dewella, menagerie and cinématograph annexe.

SHOWMEN OF TO-DAY.

WILLIAM LE NEVE.

Although yet young and in the vigour and prime of life, Le Neve has had unique and varied experience in the great world of shows both at home and abroad. When quite a boy he was apprenticed by his father to John Able, the trainer, to be a jockey.

At this time came the critical moment of his career. His aunt, the celebrated Fire Queen, Mme. Le Neve, took him with her to Egypt, where she had a most successful tour, making a notable appearance at the Khedival Palace at Cairo, and mystifying the wise men of the East by her marvellous power over the unquenchable fires. This gave our erstwhile jockey his first taste of show life, and a showman he determined to be.

On the finish of their tour in the East, Mme. Le Neve fulfilled a series of engagements in the homeland. Young Le Neve had made up his mind to start for himself, and he originated an entirely novel and decidedly British show—feats of strength and expert athleticism. At this point in his career he met his fate—lucky man, the gods were with him—in the charming person of Norah Sullivan, then "starring" as "The Amazonian Samson and Lion-Jawed Athlete." The romance of the road ended in marriage joybells, and the world-famed Norah Sullivan in her home life became Mrs. Wm. Le Neve.

Known on every fair ground in the kingdom as "the Sandows of the Ground Booth," Le Neve and Norah Sullivan have had a most successful and prosperous career, and are a bigger draw to-day than ever. We only need to watch them work on the parade outside and to step inside and see how up-to-date and attractive is the inside show to understand the secret of their abiding success. For example, at the World's Fair, Islington, where they are now finishing a most successful ten weeks' season, the special feature of their show is the modern craze, lady wrestlers and the Japanese Jiu-Jitsu, with a real Japanese wrestler in the company

Mr. Le Neve is a life-long friend of England's greatest pugilist, the renowned champion, Jem

NORAH SULLIVAN.

Mace, the last of the Titans of the prize-ring. It is an interesting sight to see the veteran prize-fighter exhibiting his many trophies of victory at Le Neve's show.

Norah Sullivan has reduced to an exact science the art of weight-lifting by teeth power. Her unbroken record is a bodily lift of 17cwt. All branches of athleticism come within the range of her powers. She has won innumerable prizes in the open arena as strong woman, expert boxer, and wrestler.

Le Neve's show does all the big fairs, making "the grand route" every season, and with ever-increasing success and public favour. Mr. and Mrs. Le Neve are members of the Showmen's Guild, and Mr. Le Neve one of its executive officers. They are typical show-folk of the new school, yet by their genial and generous nature illustrate the important truth that in the traveller's home on wheels is constantly found those higher sanctities of the domestic life that sweeten the world and brighten the pursuit of an arduous and honourable profession. We present a photo of Norah Sullivan (Mrs. William Le Neve), and give them (this is no figure of speech) this meed of honest praise—"they two are one."

THE announcement that little Eugénie Chaffroy, a girl of ten years, would dance in the lions' den at a menagerie at Aubray on Tuesday, drew a large crowd of spectators, but the child had hardly entered the cage and begun to dance than a cry of horror broke from them. A lion had leapt on the girl, and after knocking her down with a stroke of its paw, carried her in its mouth to a corner of the cage, and attempted to tear her to pieces. The trainer, armed with red-hot irons, sprang into the cage and rescued the girl, who was terribly mauled. The proprietor of the show has been arrested.

THE MUSIC PIRACY TRIAL.

OPINIONS OF PUBLISHERS.

CHAT WITH MR. CHARLES WARREN.

Mr. Charles Warren, who started Messrs. Witmark and Company's now prosperous London branch some five years ago, has had a fairly extensive experience of theatrical affairs. He has written and composed songs himself, and has sung and acted upon the stage. As the manager for Messrs. Witmark's British and Continental business, he has exhibited wonderful enterprise and energy, and the remarkable success the undertaking has achieved this side of the Channel is mainly due to his efforts. Mr. Warren has practically resided in England for the last sixteen years, and is thoroughly au fait with the musical and theatrical requirements of the United Kingdom as well as in other parts of Europe.

Asked for his opinion on the subject which has loomed so largely in the public eye recently, Mr. Warren said: "We have suffered more than most of the firms, because we have been very unfortunate in having a large number of popular 'hits' pirated most religiously. Our losses alone on 'Good-bye, little girl, good-bye' would run into three or four thousand pounds. It was certainly the most successful song of last year, and yet it is the song which turned out the least results from the financial point of view. The public, of course, have no interest whatever in our business any more than we have in the commercial affairs of our grocer—what he pays for his sugar—or what our tailor pays for his cloth. The public are quite unable to discriminate between songs on which a royalty has to be paid and a song that a publisher may own outright. When we take a song of 'The Cosy Corner Girl' type there are expenses not only with the royalties, but with the cost of production, advertising, and exploitation. Then you are never certain whether the song will turn out a success or not. We ourselves may like it, but whether the public are going to share our views is a question that can only be decided by the sale of the song."

"What is the condition of music piracy in America?"

"It is practically non-existent. The last case we had was one of a man who is now serving a long term of imprisonment for counterfeiting music. He went a little further than Willetts, for he not only copied the music itself, but the whole of the title-page, together with the publishers' name. Piracy has been pretty well stamped out in the States, as well as in Canada.

"The greatest evil that we have in this country," continued Mr. Warren, "is the legitimate publishers who sell the cheap so-called sixpenny editions through the medium of the street hawker. This sort of business is exceedingly detrimental to the music trade in general. These cheap jacks print an edition of a popular number of music ostensibly at sixpence, but this price is never enforced. The hawkers have no rates or taxes or rent to pay—absolutely nothing but their beer money to provide—and yet they are the rivals in business of respectable music firms who have all the expenses of a big enterprise to maintain. I have just been going over the country, which I always do at this season of the year, and I found outside almost every theatre in the different provincial towns from half-a-dozen to a dozen ragamuffins, formerly solely engaged in selling pirated music, now retailing the sixpenny editions, and perhaps assisting at the same time to get rid of pirated songs. The consequence is that the music dealer proper is simply afraid to take any chances upon new music, and instead of stocking his shop with novelties he simply buys what is in active demand, or what is ordered by his customers. I think, however, that the result of the Old Bailey case will have a deterring effect upon the principal people concerned in it. The fact that they have been proven guilty of a criminal conspiracy will put an end to much of the dishonest tactics of the smaller fry. The verdict ought also to point out to Members of Pardliament the necessity of some measure to protect this industry. This piracy has affected people in many different trades—printers, engravers, paper-makers, &c. The publisher finds that it is no advantage to him to put a lot of publications on the market."

"But, as you know, Mr. Warren, a good many people think that the price of music is too high."

"I know that there is a certain demand for cheap music, and I know that there are people who will only purchase this class of publication. But those who wish to have this kind of thing know very well that they can get it. A popular song is a luxury, and as such it should be paid for. And, curiously enough, the greater the popularity that a song attains, the greater nuisance does it become. To imagine, however, that people can buy the latest favourite number for twopence or threepence seems to me like asking for strawberries in January at June prices."

"Probably your Association will now try to introduce a stronger measure into Parliament?"

"I consider that the Bill they framed last year was a very half-hearted affair. They were afraid to ask for what was their absolute right—protection for their property. And what they did ask for was asked in a dilettante spirit. Our only hope now, as you suggest, is for adequate legislation. This Musical Copyright Protection Association, by the way, was originally organised in my office. We tried in the first place to get the assistance of our late ambassador, Mr. Choate, thinking that as these piracies concerned so many American publishers and their representatives on this side that we would make it a matter of international interest. With that object in view, I secured an interview with Mr. Choate, and he consented to see a deputation of publishers, including Mr. David Day, Mr. Charles Sheard, Mr. Sydney Mullen, and Mr. Frank Dean, and myself. Mr. Choate received us most kindly, and, as we promised not to sing any of our songs to him, he entered into our grievances. He told us, however, that it would not be in his power to make any direct representations to the British Government to remedy the evils complained of unless he had instructions from his own Government. As our representations in that direction failed, we returned to this office, and then and there was formed the nucleus of the Musical Copyright Protection Association, I being appointed the first treasurer."

"Did not the Royal Commission prove of material or moral assistance to you?"

"Not much, I'm afraid. I thought the report of that body one of the most laughable things I ever read. Willetts appeared before the Commissioners in the rôle of the Pirate King, and he knew more on the subject of musical publications and copyrights in connection therewith than all the other witnesses put together. He had everything at his finger-tips, and displayed a really wonderful knowledge of the whole question. I regarded some of the other witnesses as extremely unsatisfactory.

"We have now," concluded Mr. Warren dolefully, "no incentive to push the sale of popular songs. The present state of affairs is an injustice to a great industry. The composer suffers as well, though in nine cases out of ten we come out worst because we take the risk of a song proving a success or not."

CHAT WITH MR. BERT FELDMAN.

"I have just come back from a country tour," said Mr. Bert Feldman, of the well-known publishing firm of that name. "I recognised piracies everywhere, so I do not see that there are any instantaneous results of the Old Bailey case. My opinion is that the verdict will probably frighten a few of the principal pirates all over the country, but we cannot hope for any great improvement until Parliament, in the shape of a definite Act, comes to our aid."

"Will you tell me, in the best of your opinion, how this piracy business is worked in the provinces?"

"It is done in different ways. There are, of course, the hawkers, who retail the sheets in the gutter and outside theatres. These people are not so difficult to deal with as the gentlemen who go from house to house, leaving from fifty to one hundred copies, and who call on the following day for their 'tuppences' and the unkept numbers. I must confess that there has been a perfect organisation at work with these pirated editions, and I very much fear that we shall have a good deal of trouble before the evil is stamped out. I was in the Market-square, Birmingham, one day, and I saw about twenty hawkers selling this pirated stuff. When I told them that the Association men were coming down, and that if they did not get out quickly they might find themselves in prison, they simply told me that they were quite prepared for any emergencies, and fully armed to deal with our people. One of the hawkers turned to me and remarked, 'If any of those fellows tackle us we will put a bit of lead into them.' Willetts seemed to have agents all over the country, and presumably he was the producer of the pirated music, the other people being practically in the position of servants."

"And the authorities in the provinces?"

"The provincial police and magistrates appreciate that it is almost a hopeless task to deal with these people. There are so many hawkers, and there is no adequate Act under which they can be prosecuted. Of course, we have won an action which creates a precedent, and the thing now is to follow that up, and not be satisfied to let the matter rest there. Mr. David Day has made strenuous endeavours to suppress piracy, and he deserves the utmost credit for his admirable efforts in that direction."

"How many of your own songs have been pirated?"

"At least twenty-seven within the last few years, and these were all successes. Among them were 'Down by the old Bull and Bush,' 'Anona,' 'Framed in Oak' (one of the first to be stolen), 'A bird in a gilded cage,' 'Could you be true to eyes of blue?' 'Whistling Rufus,' 'Good-bye, my lady love,' and 'The cowslip and the cow.' Thousands upon thousands of pounds have been lost to composers and publishers over these songs alone, and these dishonest transactions also affect the printer and the engraver. A pirate once came to us and stated that he had sold 200,000 each of 'The old Bull and Bush' and 'Anona.' It may interest you to know that during an adjournment of the recent Old Bailey case I had a conversation with a man with whom I was not at all acquainted. We were talking about Willetts, and I expressed my feelings against that worthy in none too gentle language. The man wanted to know what would be the result of the trial, and I remarked that if the jury found there had been conspiracy the prisoners might rely upon a severe sentence. He joined issue on the point, and said that the printer and publisher of these pirated editions were public benefactors inasmuch as they put cheap music in the way of people who could not afford to pay exorbitant prices. Later on, to my great surprise, the stranger told me that he himself was Willetts, whereupon I said that I should be pleased to repeat my condemnation, and I hoped he would be put away for a long period."

"In what manner would you propose that a new measure should provide against these copyright infringements?"

"I think magistrates should be empowered to deal summarily not only with the people who sell pirated editions, but with those who purchase copies of them."

"Then you assume at once that the public know what is pirated music and what is not?"

"They must know very well that it is impossible to get numbers from our principal operas for 2d. a copy. If they want cheap music they can easily get it, for there are plenty of classical compositions that can be purchased for a few coppers, and upon which no royalty has to be paid by the publisher."

"If your song 'Down at the old Bull and Bush' had not been pirated, can you give me any idea of what you ought to have been in a position to pay the author as royalty fees?"

"We ought to have been able to pay him £1,500 on such a successful song as that was. But it was the pirates who made the money over it, not us. I can assure you that many authors who have been dependent upon song-writing as a living are now practically destitute. I meet cases of this sort every day—cases of clever men, who ought to be making handsome incomes, but who are in pecuniary difficulties owing to the depredations of the pirates. I am beginning to wonder whether it is safe nowadays to handle a popular song—whether it is not better to sell the songs for which there is not so great a demand, and out of which I am sure more money would be made."

Messrs. Feldman have taken a fine block of buildings a short distance away from their present quarters in High-street, Bloomsbury, and, when ready for opening, their new house will be of a very commodious and handsome character. Mr. Bert Feldman, who has had a remarkably successful ten years' music publishing career, is looking keenly forward to the time when the property of his firm and the other similar establishments will be protected by the law, as it should be.

MESSRS. SHEARD'S VIEWS.

"There is no telling what we have lost." Thus the manager of Messrs. Charles Sheard and Company. And then followed a list of popular compositions which had been through the hands of the pirates. The songs thus dealt with included "Always," "Sleep and forget," "When the sunset turns the ocean blue to gold," "Ring down the curtain," "If you want to have a row," and "There ain't another daddy."

"No wonder music piracy is a profitable business when the pirates have nothing to pay for their songs and only grab the successful ones. Popular songs no longer return an appreciable profit. Has piracy decreased during the last week or two? We believe it has; but still infringed music sheets are being sold. We publishers all feel that we are suffering from an injustice, and we want to see this nefarious business stopped. Whether the present Government will afford us any assistance remains to be seen. We certainly think they ought to do something.

"As to the contention that music should be cheaper, in our opinion a man should charge what he likes for his goods, and if you were on this side of the counter instead of the other you would understand that the price charged for music is not excessive when all the failures and the expenses in connection with them as well as with the successes are taken into consideration. It is to be hoped that an improvement in the state of the music trade will set in shortly, and that piracy will become a thing of the past; otherwise we don't know where we shall get to."

VERY satisfactory results were obtained from the matinée performance at Cardiff Empire last week in aid of the Cardiff branch of the Saturday Lifeboat Fund. Through the courtesy of Mr. Oswald Stoll, the Empire was lent for the purpose, and the artists of the companies at Cardiff, Newport, and Swansea Empires gave their services. As a result, the originator of the performance, Mr. Petty, Consul-General for Argentina, was enabled to hand over £150 to the fund.

Donations to the Fund will be gratefully received and acknowledged by Mr. David Day (Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter), 142, Charing Cross-road, London. Mr. David Day also asks all those friends who have had subscription lists sent to them to kindly return them as soon as possible, so that the amount collected can be announced without any undue delay.

Members of the circus profession will learn with regret of the death of Mr. W. Donbavan, the well-known jockey act rider, who passed away on Sunday, the 28th ult., at 19, Victoria-street, Shaw Heath, Stockport. The poor fellow had to relinquish his profession owing to consumption; but in his day he was one of the finest riders that ever entered a ring. He was lately employed at the Empire, Stockport. He was son-in-law to Mr. Transfield, of circus fame. The funeral took place on Thursday, the remains being interred in Stockport Cemetery. He was followed to the grave by his widow, children, and nearest relatives, who sent wreaths. Other floral tributes came from Mr. and Mrs. Cunliff, Miss Nattie Transfield (sister-in-law), the Stockport Empire employees, Mr. W. Gilmore and management Stockport Empire, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Egerton Arms, Stockport (M.H.A.R.A.), and friends. Telegrams of condolence were sent from Transfield's Circus, Algie's Circus, and Ohmy's Circus.

Had it occurred a few hours earlier the fire which on Thursday, the 25th ult., totally destroyed the Scala Theatre, Antwerp, would have been a frightful holocaust, owing to the rapidity with which the flames spread. The Scala is the most popular theatre there, and a large crowd was present until nearly midnight at the variety performance. Great bravery was shown by a fireman named Willems, who saved the manager, his wife, and daughter, who were cut off from escape by the falling in of a staircase. They were half-suffocated, and he brought them through a window in the midst of most intense excitement. The artists, among whom several are English, succeeded in saving most of their properties owing to the direct exit from the dressing-room to the street.

"Oma Seer," described as an American comique musical extravaganza, lyrics by Joseph Tabrar, was produced at the Islington Empire on Monday evening. Oma Seer, a "mysterious millionaire," is expected, and it is proposed to entertain him at a grand fancy dress ball at which the guests shall represent all the principal plays of the period. But as it is found impossible to secure the attendance of aristocratic personages as guests, Blackley's, the famous universal providers, come to the rescue, and their staff are called in to represent the absent aristocrats, the Duke and Duchess of Houndsditch being impersonated by the porter and the charwoman. When the mysterious stranger appears he does not give his own name, but declares himself to be a certain member of the nobility. He thus learns of the trick that is being played, and eventually reveals his identity, but not before he has retaliated by appearing as a crazy vocalist and in other strange disguises effected by a quick change of dress. The part of Oma Seer was played by the gentleman who calls himself "Spot," and Mr. Fred Terris was very active and alert as Mr. Hopkinson, the manager at Blackley's; other parts being well played by Mr. Fred Dorman, Mr. Arthur Browne, and Miss Leah Reve. The piece was brightened by some effective songs with choruses by the guests.

A juggler named Blumenfeld, who had been appearing at a Basle music hall for several nights, had been in the habit of asking one of the audience on to the stage, and inviting him to fire a pistol at him point blank. On the night of the 24th ult. the pistol was duly loaded, the man fired, and, to every one's horror, the juggler fell to the stage with a shriek. The performer had forgotten to extract the bullet, which had passed through his brain.

It was at a smoking concert long ago—a "printers' auxiliary"—and George Le Brunn to oblige a charity was at the piano. A self-important amateur fussily approached the master musician, and kept the crowded room waiting while he explained to the pianist where the accompaniment was to be pianissimo, and how it was to be played. Le Brunn listened patiently, with a scarcely perceptible wink to friends around "in the know," and then, when the singer had mounted the platform, carefully folded the song up—it was one of his own composing—placed it on top of the instrument, and played the accompaniment from memory, in the inimitable manner which was his alone.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

SEACOMBE.—Irving Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Councillor James Kiernan.—Miss Amy F. Hermann's company proves a popular attraction here this week in None but the Brave. Mr. Stanley Bedwell gives an excellent rendering of the cheery Lal Ray; Mr. Herbert Evelyn is an earnest and conscientious Captain Frank Forrester; and Mr. Geo. Herbert is capitally fitted in the strong character part of Zeke Whittier. Mr. Eric Hudson plays with telling force the unenviable rôle of the chief villain, Emmanuel de Solis; and the same may be said of Miss Madge Devereux as La Tarantula. Miss Amy H. Hermann gives a delightful reading of the vivacious and witty April Showers; Mr. Charles E. Sutton as Major Enriquez de Vandas, and Miss Francesca Strickland as Nellie Whittier, are both satisfactory in their respective parts.

SHEFFIELD.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. T. S. Carter.—Mr. George Davies's pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, concludes its successful visit here this week.

Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The annual engagement of the famous Compton Comedy Company always makes an interesting break in the ordinary round of theatrical attractions, and affords great pleasure to lovers of eighteenth century humour, wit, and sentiment. There was a good house to welcome Mr. Edward Compton and his loyal supporters on Monday, when they appeared in the ever-popular play, Davy Garrick. On Tuesday, She Stoops to Conquer was acted to a delighted audience; and other old comedies billed were To-morrow, New Men and Old Acres, The Rivals, and the immortal School for Scandal. As usual, all the plays were perfectly mounted.

Alexandra Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Cinderella continues its successful run, thanks to the efforts of Miss Alma Obrey, the Sisters Terry, Miss Cissie Kent, Miss Townend, Miss Edie Endon, the graceful and vivacious Tivoli Quartette, Pete and Juno (the wonderful trans-Atlantic vocalists and dancers), Mr. Walter Dale, Mr. H. Pleon, Mr. Jack McKenzie, the Karno Trio, the agile Bros. Levelle, Mr. Fred Biron, and Mr. Edward Ind.

Empire Palace.—Proprietors, the Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The pièce-de-resistance this week is a thrilling sensational sketch, entitled The Diamond Express, which is staged in a realistic manner, and cleverly played, by Mrs. Clement Scott's talented dramatic company. Mr. Sam Elton, the original humorist, "who made the Shah laugh," is causing great amusement; and other smart performers are Goggin and Davis, acrobatic comedians; Miss Bertha Winder, vocalist; Messrs. Flem and Broc, aërial boxers; Prof. Holden and his renowned fantoches entertainment; Mr. Harry Clifford, vocal comedian; Mr. George Ridgewell, baritone; and Prince Fee Lung, a clever Chinese conjuror. In addition to this, there is the American Bioscope, with comic and fanciful pictures.

Grand Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Richard Ralli.—The Pallister Biograph, with the latest events, is quite a local institution here. Miss Carlotta de Yonsen, a Sheffield theatrical favourite, appears with her company in Lodgings to Let; and others engaged are Mr. George Victor, vocal comedian; Mr. Harold Hughman, American mimic; Miss Minnie Dawn, serio; Phillips and Merritt, variety entertainers; and Mr. Harry Lawson, in a novel act.

Montgomery Hall.—The brilliant, refined, and humorous entertainment, known to fame as Maskelyne and Devant's illusions, is now in the sixth week of its successful season, and large audiences are still the rule. There has been a complete change of programme this week.

Wonderland.—Proprietor, Mr. Victor Sampson.—The Babes in the Wood, written and produced by the clever and energetic stage-manager, Mr. Herbert Lemley, is drawing good houses nightly.

SHREWSBURY. — Theatre Royal. — Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Mr. Edmund Tearle and a talented répertoire company occupy the boards here this week, staging Virginius, Othello, Richard III., The Three Musketeers, and The Octoroon. Othello was played on Tuesday, and Mr. Edmund Tearle was seen at his best in the title-rôle, which he presented with power and conspicuous ability. Mr. Richard Vane enacted with conscientious care and success the trying part of Iago; Mr. V. O. Crabtree was exceedingly good as Cassio; and other male characters were creditably filled. Miss Esther Tearle made a sweet and expressive Desdemona; Miss Mary Campbell may be complimented upon her clever and spirited acting as Emilia; and the Misses Mary Cleveland and Miss Clare Armitage merit praise.

SMETHWICK.—The Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Pantomime again kept the local audience in a good humour on Monday night, the popular story of Jack and Jill being presented in very acceptable form. Of fun, there is no end, with numerous knockabout scenes, and the usual complement of songs and dances. The Six Brothers Luck are responsible for the performance, and these expert comedians take care that there is nothing that will make the pantomime attractive is lacking. The Misses Mabel Thorne and Marjorie Cecil do excellent and graceful work in the name parts; Miss Flora Macdonald gives a charming interpretation to the fairy's rôle; Mr. E. Bathurst shines as King Usurpah; Mr. Harry Levaine kindles laughter continuously as Dame Migs; and the fun is completed by Mr. Ernest Luck as Herbert, Mr. Fred Luck as Henry, Mr. Phil Luck as the Chef, Mr. A. Luck as the Dude, Mr. Oscar Luck as the Dwarf, and Mr. Harry Luck as the Demon. Miss Edie Brenton gives a sprightly representation of Margery; and the Misses Maggie and Brenda Travers sing and dance in clever style. The show is well mounted, and the chorus and ballet work is of much worth. The orchestra, under the able conductorship of Mr. A. H. Cokayne, calls for special commendation.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—Empire Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Mr. Walter Melville's play, entitled A Girl's Cross Roads, is being presented here by a powerful company. In the rôle of John Meadows, the old farmer, Mr. Charles Tranmore is exceedingly good, and his characterisation merits considerable praise; Mr. Frank R. Robertson is suited as Jack Livingstone; and Dr. Watson is ably taken by Mr. Courtenay Bellenden. Cuthbert Lumley and his villainous methods are strikingly interpreted by Mr. Roy Fortescue, he being assisted by Mr. John Brooke as Luke Ramsden. Much merriment is caused by Mr. Fred Ingram as Toby Turvey and Miss Lena Delphine as Tilly Vane. Miss Elsie Saville makes a graceful and dignified Constance Cornell; Miss Nannie Mead is responsible for the part of Nellie Meadows, and gives a really clever impersonation; Miss Ada Oakley presents quite a lifelike picture in her clever impersonation of the rôle of Barbara Wade.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House, Winter Gardens.—General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming. — A hearty reception was accorded Mr. George Dance's excellent company on Monday evening, when the local patrons of the theatre had an opportunity of witnessing, for the first time here, the successful musical play, The Little Michus, which was presented with a completeness characteristic of Mr. Dance's productions. Mr. Leslie Holland's admirable interpretation of the rôle of General Des Ifs created roars of merriment; Mr. Cecil Clayton, who lends ample support in the part of Bagnolet, was distinctly successful alike in a dramatic and vocal sense; Mr. Gerald Clifford, whose baritone voice was heard to great advantage, was a spirited and clever exponent of Garston Rigaud; Aristide Vert had an excellent all-round representative in Mr. D. FitzGibbon; Mr. T. E Conover played well as Pierre Michu; Miss Alice Coverick and Miss Gracie Sinclaire, in the parts of Marie Blanche and Blanche Marie respectively, played in a charming, buoyant manner, their vocal numbers being very artistically rendered. Miss Maisie Gay presented a praiseworthy and vivacious portraiture of the French shopwoman, Madame Michu; Mdlle. Marjorie as Mdlle. St. Cyr submitted some elegant dancing, which was loudly applauded.

Pier Pavilion.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz. — Prominent amongst the artists engaged here this week are the Brothers Wynford, who give a novel and interesting exhibition of their skill as jumpers. The programme includes Marstro and Oretta, eccentric equilibrists and tumblers; Madame Emma Woodhouse, soprano; George Prince, the crazy comic; Ray Ford, comedienne and dancer; Sill and Sillcott, comedians; J. P. Ling, mimic and comedian; and the bio-tableaux.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—The boards are occupied this week by Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company in The Midnight Wedding. Miss Annie Saker furnishes a charming and artistic interpretation of Princess Astrea; Mr. Alfred Paumier, who skilfully handles the part of the heroic Paul Valmar, is accorded a good reception; Messrs. Frodk. W Freeman, W. S. Hardy, and Sydney Lynn capably represent the Crown Prince Leopold, Father Gerrard, and Lieutenant Eugene; Mr. Clinton Baddeley is vigorous and resourceful as the villainous Captain Rudolph Von Scarsbruck; Mr. Algie Spalding, a diverting Private Bobo, evokes much laughter; and an excellent coadjutor is seen in Miss Ada Champion as Kathie. The lighter vein is further strengthened by the characteristic efforts of Messrs. Fred Constable (Sergeant May) and Reginald Payne (Corporal Otto).

Empire Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. George F. Thompson.—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Lucas are visiting here again, and the various characters which they portray from Dickens arouse enthusiasm. W. H. Fox, "Paddywhisky," is as popular as ever, his musical entertainment being not only clever, but intensely funny; Ella Retford, a dashing coon singer and dancer, wins enthusiastic applause; the Korries repeat their successful and original musical act; Fanny Robina, comedienne, sings in good style; the American Bioscope has again had a host of admirers. The remaining items are Cora Caselli, comedienne and dancer; Chas. Russell, in a military monologue; the Three Sisters Slater, vocalists, banjoists, and dancers; and Chas. Danton, comedian.

Tivoli.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr. Jos. Sweeney.—The Montramos, in their burlesque musical comedy Do You Reverse? are proving a strong attraction here; Ada Fawn, serio, an old favourite, is vociferously encored; Florrie Cooper, sentimental singer, is warmly welcomed; and Ryde and Beeman, acrobatic eccentrics, score. Other successful turns are W. H. Morgan, Billy Bint, Beattie and Blanche, and Walter Payne's Bio-photoscope.

SPENNYMOOR.—Cambridge Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Harding Thomas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Herbert Vere.—Dare-Devil Dorothy is being presented here this week by Mr. Henry Swinerd's company, under the direction of Mr. J. W. Cordiner. Miss Dorothy Desmonde makes a charming Dorothy; and Miss Norah Caromne plays with marked discrimination as Ruth. Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith is a general favourite; Mr. Arthur Verne as Silas Crump supplies a fund of rich humour. As Harold Vivian Mr. Cecil W. Parke is a distinct success; and Mr. Henry C. Ward as George Fielding portrays a typical villain. Mr. Alf Stretton as Hawkins and Mr. Frank Howard as Featherstone Haugh are seen to advantage. Miss Mabel Blake and Miss Nellie Anderson prove themselves to be accomplished dancers.

STAFFORD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Elphinstone.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company was here for the first three nights of the week with the ever-popular musical comedy A Country Girl. Mr. Johnny Clegg gave a very clever and amusing impersonation of Barry; Mr. I. Marsall Stringer was a successful Geoffrey Chaloner; the Rajah of Bhang, in the capable hands of Mr. Bernard Vaughan, was a droll personage; Mr. W. O. Billington was a good Sir Joseph Verity; and Mr. George Stone as Granfer Mummery was an ideal rustic. Miss Eileen Guilbert as Marjorie is a capable actress of charming presence; Miss Vera Vizard was an effective Princess of Bhang; Miss Madge Campbell, as Sophie, was good; Miss Florence Brewster was a pleasing Mrs. St. Quinton; and Miss Florence Burdeth made a successful Nair.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre Royal and Opera House, Ltd. — General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—Mr. James Kiddie's pantomime Aladdin opened here on Monday. Miss Marie Beresford in the title-rôle sings and acts well; Miss Cecilia Gold makes a charming Princess; Radia has in Miss Lena Page an effective vocalist; Miss Maud Clarke scores with her legmania dancing; Miss Emmie Milsted as Saucee, and Mr. Joe Bell as Wishee Washee are the life and soul of the piece. Abanazar has a capable exponent in Mr. Arthur Aiston; Mr. J. D. McCarthy as the Emperor does full justice to the part; Mr. Jack Waller makes a humorous Vizier; Mr. W. D. Wesley is a most amusing Dame; and as the two Pekin policemen, Mr. Will Kelso and Mr. Tom Kelso greatly distinguish themselves.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. T. Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. V. Carnell.—Miss Fanny Edwards, and Messrs. E. Arthur, Tom Griffiths, and W. R. Gordon head the bill here with the operatic sketch Lily of Killarney. Others in an excellent programme include Kendick and Laura, Dan Robans, the Arundels, Henri Cazman, Florence Yaymen, Maud Edwards, and Juno Salmo.

STOCKPORT. — New Theatre Royal. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—The first visit of Mr. W. Maclaren and company in the late Wilson Barrett's play, Claudian, has afforded an attraction here of an exceptional character. Mr. Maclaren gives an admirable impersonation of Claudian; and as the Tetrarch, Mr. Wilson Howard acts with marked ability. Mr. Geo. R. J. Austin infuses much power and feeling into the part of Agazil; and Belos is amusingly presented by Mr. Chas. T. Chaloner. Charming and effective is Miss Lily C. Bandman as Almida; and Edessa is pleasingly portrayed by Miss Carlotta Anson.

Empire.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.—Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Nellie Wallace, styled the "whirlwind of fun," heads the bill here this week, and has been highly amusing; in addition to the feats of strength performed by Atlas, Vulcana, and Gwennie Atlas, the classical poses of Miss Vulcana have provided a distinct treat; Carlin is an exceedingly clever foot equilibrist; the Musical Saxonias are very pleasing; and Belle Braham is most successful in her picture songs. G. W. Foster, comedian, is well received; and the Three Clarions, in a musical absurdity, The Would-be Tenor, are most mirth-provoking.

SUNDERLAND.—Avenue Theatre.—Managing-Director and General-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—Mr. J. F. Elliston's successful pantomime of Cinderella will, so far as the Wearside town is concerned, finish its career, in the full zenith of its fame, to-night. The final week of its appearance here has been largely devoted to complimentary benefits, the most important of which was given to the popular managing-director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin, on Tuesday night, when the principal residents and officers of the borough and neighbourhood lent not only their patronage, but their attendance. The fine band of the 3rd Durham Light Infantry attended, and contributed some excellent selections. In addition to the usual performance there also appeared on behalf of the beneficiare Miss Agnes Molteno and Orpheus (by permission of Messrs. Rosen and Bliss), the marvellous Craggs (Royal Theatre), Miss Ella Redford, and the Sisters Slater (by permission of Mr. Rich. Thornton). The other benefits announced were in favour of Mr. J. F. Elliston and Mr. Fred Mulvey, the producer and business-manager of the Cinderella pantomime, to whom much of its success has been due.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hemingway.—The mirth-making pantomimical musical absurdity Laughter Land holds the boards here this week, giving ample opportunity to the marvellous Craggs for their more than clever acrobatic performances. The remaining members of the company are one and all most diverting, hearty laughter filling the house. Mr. H. B. Lewis as the Professor, Mr. Harry Rousby as Dick Marlow, Mr. G. Westcott as Sir Vincent, Mr. C. Edwards as Ald Trentham, Mr. S. Basil Reynolds as Archie, and Dan Hardie as Squire Tapsom all render excellent service; whilst much of the fun is due to the performance of Mr. Cremorn Cragg in his humorous impersonation of Billy. The Sisters Glynne are a couple of smart dancers.

Palace of Varieties. — Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. John H. Stringer; Treasurer, Mr. Alfred Browne.—The Children's Party remains from last week, and contributes an interesting as well as a unique item. Agnes Molteno, operatic and ballad vocalist, creates a most favourable impression; Grey and Welford are a couple of diverting comedians and boxers; La Danseuse is a versatile dancer; Harry Atkinson scores with his imitations of musical instruments; A-Ba-Be has some pretty picture sets; Orpheus is a clever instrumentalist; and Boyd and Gilfain, in an interesting operetta, are good, and the usual animated pictures are shown as a finale.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—King's Theatre.—Proprietor, Captain Clayton; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—The Master Criminal, a powerful melodrama, most capably represented by Miss Winifred Chalmers's company, is the attraction here this week. On Monday the play was well received. Telford Lestage is ably portrayed by Mr. Henry L. Osmond; Ben Beaudy, a detective, is played in meritorious manner by Mr. Elmore Frith, Miss Kate Sumerville as Mabel Manners, and Little Ivy Rochefort as Winifred Manners, do good work; as Cecile, alias Lady Travennes, Miss Winifred Chalmers scores heavily.

SWINDON.—Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners; Musical Director, Mr. F. Lucas.—Heavy pantomime business was followed on Monday by the initial visit to this town of that much-talked-of play, Sapho, presented by the New Sapho Syndicate, Ltd., under the acting-management of Mr. Chas. M. Daly. The play is well dressed and mounted under Mr. L. Kingsley's direction. The company is headed by Miss Annie Bell, who gives a capable delineation of Fanny le Grand; and Mr. Pringle Roberts, who is seen to some advantage as Jean Gausin. They are capably supported by Mr. Lawrence Kingsley, as Paul Dechelette; Mr. Francis Serle, as Cesaire; Mr. C. M. Daly, as Father Le Grande; and Miss F. Graham, as Little Joseph.

TAMWORTH.—Assembly Rooms.—Manager, Mr. F. Hughes.—On Thursday Mr. Cecil Clayton's company paid a flying visit here with the pantomime Dick Whittington, which was well staged. Miss Annie Rose made a charming Dick; Mr. Albert Evremond as Alderman Fitzwarren, and Mr. Tom Taylor as Idle Jack, provided much merriment; the Sisters Clancy were clever acrobatic dancers; Clyto, the gymnast and contortionist, was also good; Miss Edith Gough was the good Fairy; and Miss Marie Robertson made a bewitching Alice.

TON-Y-PANDY. — Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ridgewood Barrie.—Mr. F. J. Kirke's company is here in The Naval Detective, a bright musical comedy. Mr. Kirke, in the title-rôle, is excellent; Mr. G. Frere is well placed as Dr. Schriener; while Mr. Mack Practice creates much laughter as Captain Hustle, introducing a novel, but highly appreciated style of dancing. The Hon. Bertie Fairlox of Mr. B. Leighton is a mirth-provoking character; the Hans Winklepump of Mr. C. H. Barnes is a capital assumption; Miss Louie Fountaine is a charming Phyllis Leslie; Susan Scrubbs is made an extremely funny personage by Miss E. Claris; and the Misses Nancy and Amy Shaw dance well. Our Sailor Lad was played the latter part of the week.

TORQUAY.—Theatre Royal and Opera House—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. R. Smerdon; Secretary, Mr. A. Pearse.—Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer paid a very welcome return visit here on Monday, when she played the name-part in Mary Queen of Scots with consummate ability. In response to repeated calls, the popular actress expressed her pleasure at being again in Torquay, and meeting such an appreciative audience. Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer was supported by a very capable company, which included Mr. Sydney Bland, who was very dignified and lifelike as Lord Burleigh; Mr. Montague Lane, who acted as the Royal Lover with great skill and discretion; and Mr. Matthew Boulton, whose rendering of the character of Sir Edward Mortimer was distinguished for its care and finish. As Elizabeth, Miss Katherine Herbert was good, both in bearing and delivery, and Miss Marie Dunphie was well placed as Hannah. The week's répertoire comprised Nell Gwynn, Sapho, The School for Scandal, Hamlet, and Jane Shore.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS. — Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey.—There have been full houses this week for a welcome revisit from Mr. Norman V. Norman's excellent company in The Adventures of Lady Ursula, David Garrick, and As You Like It. Mr. Norman is ably supported by Miss Beatrice Wilson, and they have had a most enthusiastic reception. In the first-named piece Miss Wilson was a charming and sprightly Lady Ursula; while Mr. Norman gave a fine impersonation of Sir George Sylvester. Mr. Dennis Cleugh as the Earl of Hassenden, Mr. Francis Hope as the Chaplain, Miss Sybil Ruskin as Dorothy, and Miss Kathleen Willoughby as Mrs. Fenton, all gave admirable impersonations.

WAKEFIELD.—Royal Opera House.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company in the stirring drama, At Cripple Creek, opened here on Monday. Mr. Hilliard Vox gives a clever portrayal of Joe Mayfield; Mr. Walter Thornton does full justice to the part of Martin Mason, the terror of Cripple Creek, being ably supported by Mr. Charles D. Pitt as Manuel Alvarez. Mr. Reginald Harley West is seen to advantage as the faithful Indian; Mr. Albert Rogers is highly amusing as Ben White, a negro; and Mr. Will Hook does well as Reggie Harwood; Miss Vera Fordyce gives a forcible and effective rendering of Dynamite Ann; Miss Daisy Carlton acts with ability as Maggie Mason; Miss May Straker is good as Bell Gordon, the New York girl; and Little May Douglas deserves special mention for her delightful Little Tattoo.

Hippodrome.—Lessee, Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucas.—Mr. Theo. Hardeen, handcuff and trunk mystifier, heads the bill here, and gives an astounding performance; Cliff and Kean are a couple of clever dancers; Adelina, protean artist, wins applause; Tom Poole and Florrie Poole, vocalists and dancers, contribute a smart turn; Mdlle. Zelda gives a unique musical turn; Bob Stephenson is an amusing comedian; and Alma Curzon, comedienne, and the Vaudevilles, sketch artists, complete the bill.

WALLSEND. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Tony Richardson.—Messrs. Monti and Firth's Babes in the Wood pantomime is paying a week's visit here. Miss Florrie Bray makes a dashing hero and Miss Ada Clane is charming as Maid Marion. Miss Daisy Edney and Miss D. Cecil are excellent as Will Scarlet and Phillis respectively; Misses Lily and Maudie Cleave are deserving of notice as the Babes; Miss Lilian Player sings nicely as the Good Fairy; Mr. Arthur Allan makes the most of the part of the Baron; and Mr. Dan Idle keeps the fun rolling in his rôle of the Dame Belinda. Mr. Alf Valmore and Mr. W. Ellerslie render efficient service as Tired Tim and Willie; Mr. Fred Monti does what is required as Simple Simon; and the Misses M. Lewis (Phœbe), Flo Willmot (Mopsa), Alice Burke (Colin), Lily Miller (Lubin), and Dolly Milnthorpe (Dorothy) each add to the general success.

WALSALL.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Joint-Management, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and the Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. H. Westwood. — Messrs. Little and Darcy's operatic pantomime, The Forty Thieves, is here this week. The Sisters Silcott excel in the rôles allotted to them, and their singing and dancing are exceedingly good. Mr. George Rapley as Ali Baba and Mr. James Ferguson as Cogia Baba are most amusing; Messrs. Malone and Conley create great hilarity; and other characters are in capable hands. Specialities are introduced by the Rose Quartette, the Three Henriques, the Daunton-Shaw troupe, and the Three Sisters Silcott, speciality artists.

Grand Theatre. — Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Company, Ltd.; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Messrs. Stillwell and Tenlon's company are occupying the boards here this week with The Branded Woman. Mr. James Stillwell makes an excellent Philip Maurice; Miss Zana St. George, an artist of exceptional ability, well merits the applause accorded to her portrayal of the title-rôle; Mr. Edward Fryer does well as the Hunchback; and Mr. Beckett Boule makes a capital Leon Baron Hauber. Other parts are capably filled.

WARRINGTON.—Royal Court.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company is here this week, and on Monday evening Hamlet was staged. Mr. Henry Herbert submitted a careful study of the Dane, and in the dramatic passages he displayed histrionic abilities of a very high order. Miss Dorothy Green as Ophelia was very impressive. Mr. Alfred Harris was dignity personified as Claudius, and Miss Kate Turner ably assisted as the Queen of Denmark. Mr. Ross Shore's Polonius was a polished study, and Mr. Lionel Bevans as Horatio and Mr. Bernard Limpus as Laertes were both well placed. Mr. Shore gave a clever character sketch of the First Gravedigger; Mr. James Armand as the Ghost spoke his lines with great effect. On Friday night the Twelfth Night was performed before another crowded house. The Merchant of Venice, The Taming of the Shrew, She Stoops to Conquer, and Macbeth were billed for the remaining nights of the week.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmot.—Harry Weldon heads the bill here this week. A faithful portrayal of "John Bull" is presented by Norman Mills; Onda and Artell are clever gymnasts and Fields and Lewes capital burlesque artists; Lilian Victoria scores in her scena Aunt's Troubles and the Hugo Troupe supplies an acceptable turn in The Human Fountain. Harry Dayton, comedian, and the Royal Bioscope pictures complete a capital programme.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Grand.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—Mr. Eade Montefiore is presenting Cinderella, which has already been so successful this year at Edinburgh, and last year at Newcastle. It comes with a good reputation. Cinderella is charmingly played by Miss Nellie Merton, whose singing and dancing create a decidedly favourable impression. Conan and Doyle are old favourites here, and they, as Nabem and Nailem, along with Mr. Fred Lincoln as the Baron, Mr. Arthur Byron and Mr. George Antley as the Sisters, and Mr. George Rydon as Peter, keep the ball of fun rolling merrily. Dandini has a sprightly representative in Miss Adele Lincoln, who is gifted with a beautiful soprano voice; pretty Miss Vera Schlesinger is delightful as the Fairy Godmother; Miss Lizzie Lumsden is daintily chic in all she does as Pansy; Miss Georgina Leonard as the Prince possesses a rich, powerful voice; and Mr. G. W. Travener deserves praise for his rendering of the songs allotted to him as the Demon King.

Palace.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—Tee and Tee amuse the house immensely in their Motoring sketch, in which they introduce some remarkable musical novelties. A sketch, Do You Want to Buy any Coke? is provocative of much laughter, as played by Howard and St. Clair; some remarkable feats of juggling are done with balls of various sizes by Francis, who has a most amusing assistant in Alfred. An amusing sketch, Binks's Blunder, is drolly played by Harry Russell and company; and the remainder of the programme is filled in by Morimura, a Japanese conjurer; Rose Elliott, vocalist; Rae and Lea, comedy gymnasts; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux.

WEST STANLEY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Stanley Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is here with the successful musical comedy Florodora. Miss Gwladys Elvey is a picturesque and graceful Dolores; Miss Kate Leicester plays the part of Lady Holyrood admirably; Miss Florence Hersee is piquant as Angela Gilfain; and the special dances of Miss Lilian Coe are a feature. Mr. Albert Bruno imparts many touches of humour to the character of Tweedlepunch, and Mr. Edward Chester is admirably suited to the part of Gilfain. Mr. Ralph Courtier-Dutton is a capital Frank Abercoed; Mr. Harold Perry handles the part of Capt. Donegal with skill and effect; and Mr. C. A. James is good as Leanpro

Victoria Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. David Williams.—Mr. F. B. Wolfe's repertory company presented Lady Godiva here on Monday night. The title-rôle was excellently sustained by Miss Hilda Shirley; Miss Gwen Stewart gave a capital representation of Lady Aldyth; Editha and Ulrica were successfully acted by Miss Sara Wheatman and Miss Louie Ad

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. James Kiddie.—This week Messrs. W. H. and R. A. Maddox's company is here with the pantomime Dick Whittington, a creditable production, which has attracted good houses. There are eleven scenes. The staging is elaborate, and the dresses are in complete harmony. Throughout the singing is tuneful, and the popular musical numbers are quickly picked up by the "ear" of the house. Miss Mabel Kessler is a charming principal boy, and does good work as Dick. Miss Peggy Fame makes an attractive personality of Alice Fitzwarren; Miss Annie Brevitt is a pleasing Captain Dash, and it would be difficult to find a daintier Polly Perkins than Miss Linda May. The pantomime is particularly rich in its comedy. Mr. Dan Lyndon has the gift of irresistible drollery as Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr. Harry Howe is a comical dame as Betsy; and Mr. Gus Granville fills the part of Idle Jack in a manner which tickles the house greatly. The funniosities of Messrs. Rex Kempton and Harry Pastor as McFlip and O'Flop are decidedly clever, and Mr. Harry Wright aids the fun by his interpretation of the part of the Emperor of Morocco. Mr. Fred Garratt is an excellent King Rat, while Mr. Victor Leglere handles well the part of Dick's dumb companion. A word of praise should certainly be accorded to Miss Madge Laurraine, who is the fairy Melodia. The entertaining specialities in the Palace scene are by Miss Mabel Kesslér, cornet, post-horn, and bugle soloist; Mr. Harry Wright, extempore vocalist; Miss Peggy Fame and her pug dog Peter, and the Dandies Quartette of lady dancers.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—The Moody-Manners Opera Company opened on Monday before a well-filled house with their répertoire of operas, embracing The Lily of Killarney, Tannhäuser, Faust, The Bohemian Girl, Carmen, La Traviata, and Maritana. The pieces have been performed with all the brilliance and power which are so characteristic of this eminent combination.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—The star turn this week is that of the Jees, who present their highly comical sketch entitled The Musical Smithy. Bolloni gives an excellent exhibition with his performing cockatoos; Eight Lancashire Lads are a smart combination of singers and dancers; and Claver and Piccolo, equilibrists, are accorded a warm reception. A diverting ventriloquial turn is contributed by Richardson; Taylor, Kier, and Kempton give much pleasure by their delightful rendering of songs; Miss Lena Brunton submits good impersonations of leading star artists; the Falcons (acrobats), J. W. Ellison (comedian), and Little Barney are also successful.

WINDSOR.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Eglington.—An excellent pantomime—Cinderella—is presented this week by Mr. Cecil Clayton's company. Miss Eva Rosslyn as Cinderella is charming, her singing being much appreciated; Miss Lilian Ramsdale, who possesses a good stage appearance, makes a dashing Dandini; Miss Gertie Lovedale as the Prince is smart and captivating. Much amusement is caused by the clever impersonation of the two ugly sisters by Mr. Alf Selby and Mr. Arthur Loman; Mr. Herbert Cameron as the Baron plays admirably.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. E. H. Bull and Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Percival.—Mr. William Greet's company is appearing here this week in The Sign of the Cross. The company includes Mr. William J. Grant, who plays the part of Marcus Superbus in an admirable and powerful manner; Mr. J. Boyd Pearson, who gives a capital rendering as Nero; and Mr. Charles Aldred, who is excellent as Tigellinus. Miss Marie Leonhard, as Mercia, gives a charming and successful impersonation. Other artists in a numerous cast who are seen to advantage may be mentioned Mr. Frank Wood, Mr. Harry Jones, Mr. J. Wetherall, Miss Alma Bolton, Miss Nellie Bonsor, Miss Cissie Carlton, and Miss Ivy Millais. Miss Lillian Dacroy sings nicely, and the chorus is particularly good.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—Charles Fisher's pocket opera company, consisting of three excellent artists, is the leading attraction this week, and their vocal and dramatic renderings from the grand operas are well received. Other items in the programme are Lillie Langtry, who is popular; Emma Don and company in The Prodigal Son; Lottie Siegenberg in protean sketch; Terras Bros., balancers and gymnasts; Will Cornish, hand-bell manipulator, &c.; and Arthur Slater, silfleur and mimic. Ruffel's Bioscope also shows some novel pictures.

WORKINGTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—On Monday there was a large attendance to witness Mr. George Dance's production of The Cingalee. Mr. Walter Champney as Chambuddy revealed versatility and ability, causing roars of laughter as the hero; Mr. C. Comber played well and sang with effect; Mr. H. Webb was excellent as Boobhamba; Mr. W. Boso was clever as Sir Peter, several times drawing down the house; Mr. A. Foote was efficient as Bobby. Miss Mona Grey was charming as Patricia, and she sang with effect; Miss Cecile Beresford was graceful as Banoya; Miss Katie Yates sang and danced well as Peggy; and Miss Treseder was liked as Angy. The encores were frequent. Praise was accorded to the spirited chorus.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This week the great attractions have been Ted Waite, eccentric vocal comedian, and Charles Santon, male soprano and vocal comedian; Earle and Melville, comedians and dancers; the Amphletts, characteristic duettists; and Miss Lillie Edgar, comedienne, are also in the bill.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The Orchid is doing a capital business this week, Mr. George Dance's company having evidently hit the popular taste. Miss Chrissie Ralland as Lady Violet comes in for a large share of favour, giving a delightfully fresh rendering of a popular rôle; Miss Mamie Stuart as Josephine does remarkably well, her rendition of Little Mary being heartily applauded; Miss Elsa Werner makes a handsome Zelie Humbert, and Thisbe has a delightful impersonator in Miss Ruby Garman; as the Countess Miss Ida Chichester looks handsome, and a cleverer character sketch than the Caroline Vokins of Miss Florence Vic could hardly be imagined. As Meakin Mr. Bertie Wright is the life of the piece, the amount of work he gets through nightly being astonishing. Mr. Wright's reception is most gratifying. Mr. Harry T. Butler is a nimble dancer, and his talents in this direction make him particularly suited to the rôle of Zacchary. Mr. C. Stone does extremely well as Ronald Faussett; Mr. Clarence Seaton is acceptable as Aubry Chesterton; Mr. Alfred Bennett is amusingly clever as Guy Scrymgeour—clever alike in song and dance; and a well-thought-out part is the Raoul de Cassignat of Mr. S. Benson

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—The Pichel troupe of acrobats are marvellously clever; the De Breams give a most acceptable Japanese entertainment; and Frank Bertram and company's sketch, The Chaperon, is much appreciated. The banjo-playing of the Clarkes is a pleasing item; Ivy Leman sings sweetly; and Harry Barker is a comedian whose efforts never fail to please. Eno is a first-class mimic; Syd Herman's efforts are applauded; and the Bioscope completes a creditable bill.

Magnificent Scenic Production.
Brilliant Costumes.
Strong Company,
The most Startling Play on Tour.
Produced a week ago and 24 dates booked
24 dates booked by Managers who have seen or heard of its success.

. . . We have no doubt in stating that this will rank with the most successful of modern plays. The story is thrilling, realistic, and of real dramatic interest. . . . . Praise must be given to the striking scenery—a fit setting to this remarkable story of passion and jealousy.—The Oldham Standard.

. . . . The company is a strong one. . . . . The play is a most powerful one. There are several thrilling scenes, and the story is an enthralling one. . . The scenery, dresses, and uniforms are magnificent, and no expense has been spared to make the production a success.—The Chronicle.

. . . . . The stirring situation and the unfolding of a highly sensational plot. . . . . has written a drama of sterling worth. . . . It is evident there is money to be made out of the play.—The Stage.

. . . . . A most brilliant play. . . . . A distinct advance in dramatic writing. . . . Altogether the finest play staged here for years.—The Journal, Jan. 27.

Managers are respectfully invited to see this fine drama, with view to booking.

MR. HENRY RAYMOND,

LONDON DISTRICT MANAGER,
MOSS' EMPIRES, LTD., & STOLL COMPANIES, of his own free will and accord at the commencement of the year, and terminates per contract on April 7.

RESIGNED

A PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

I regret that this explicit statement is rendered necessary in order to emphatically contradict a false rumour now being circulated to the effect that my resignation was asked for.

The true facts are that for reasons of my own I preferred not to continue in my position as London District Manager, and I therefore notified Mr. Stoll in writing to this effect, informing him that I desired to terminate my engagement on the expiry of the three months' notice period.

I thank Mr. Stoll not only for his personally expressed goodwill and promised remembrance of my past services, but also for his unfailing kindness and consideration during the long period of nearly eight years that I have been under engagement to him.

Permanent Address—National Liberal Club, Whitehall-place, S.W.

THE

DOUGLAS TOWN COUNCIL INVITE TENDERS

for the SEASON of 1906

(1) For the right to perform on one or more suitable positions on the Foreshore; nature of entertainment to be stated; exact position to be fixed by the Borough Surveyor.

(2) For occupancy of Band Stand on the Harris Promenade during the Forenoon and Afternoon, for Musical Entertainments. Applicants to state the nature of the entertainments.

(3) The right to perform with a suitable String Band on the Public Music Stands within the Borough, other than those on the Promenades, and to perform on the Band Stand during the Evenings.

Separate tenders may be submitted for 1 or 2 or 3, or alternative tenders may be submitted for all or any two of the rights advertised above.

Persons tendering to state the nature of the respective entertainments, number and description of performers in each class of entertainment, and all other necessary particulars.

Persons tendering must do so on the condition that any tender is subject to the conditions of letting laid down by the Council, copies of which conditions can be seen at the Town Hall, Douglas, or obtained on application to the undersigned.

The Council does not bind itself to accept the highest or any tender. Tenders, endorsed "Entertainments," to be forwarded to the undersigned not later than Monday, the 12th day of February, 1906.

ALEXANDER ROBERTSON, Town Clerk.

TIT-FOR-TAT.

A series of magnificent transformation scenes in brilliant colours. The butterfly catcher. His adventures. Examining the butterflies under a microscope, first pinning them to a cork. He is captured by the butterfly fairies, who try him and sentence him to be tortured in the same way as he tortured the butterflies. He is then seen through a microscope pinned to a cork. He promises never again to pursue his sport, and after breaking his nets, &c., he parts on very friendly terms with those who taught him a well-deserved lesson. Very fine effects. About 330ft.

The Subject, £8 5s. 0d. Colouring extra nett £4 2s. 6d.

THE HEART GOVERNS THE HEAD.

An unwilling bride. The secret lover. The ceremony. The lady's refusal to sign. Stormy interview with parents. Departure for Convent. The elopement in a motor-car. Four years later. The happy family. The mother's letter. The little child causes father to relent. Reunited at last. About 540ft.

The Subject, £13 10s. 0d.

THE INGENIOUS DAUBER.

Starving painter has brilliant idea. The begging model reaps a good harvest, and the ingenious one is well satisfied. Very amusing. About 214 ft.

The Subject, £5 7s. 0d.

THE LAST WITCH.

The Witch and the men-at-arms. Fortune-telling. Scorn of the knight. Witch beaten. She curses the knight and vows revenge. The meeting on the heath. Strange disappearance. Abduction of the child. The search. The Witch's Haunt. The capture. The dungeon. Burnt at the stake. About 442ft.

The Subject, £11 1s. 0d. Colouring extra nett, £1 2s. 6d.

THE VICTIMS OF THE STORM.

Magnificent pictures of a storm. Splendid lightning and rain effects. Also intermingled with above:—The irate parent. The lovers' meeting. Walk in the forest. The storm. Tree struck by lightning falls on the gentleman, who only recovers consciousness when carried to his father's house. Reconciliation. About 250ft.

The Subject, £6 5s. 0d. Colouring extra nett 10s. 6d.

THAT AWFUL MOTHER-IN-LAW.

A serio-comic film introducing a mother-in-law, who will have her own way, and refuses to be sat upon. Family quarrels. A warm ending to a friendly meeting. The Law Courts. Mother-in-law again. Well worth seeing. About 310ft.

The Subject, £7 15s. 0d.

RECEPTION of PRINCE OF WALES at LAHORE.

A very fine film of the Indian Tour, showing the Camel Corps. The State Elephants. Excellent picture of the Prince and Princess of Wales. About 200ft.

No. 951. THE VILLAIN'S WOOING.
(A Melodrama in 13 Scenes).

SCENE 1.—Evil-looking but wealthy villain endeavours to persuade by force a young and pretty girl to marry him. Real lover appears to the rescue.

SCENE 2.—Father interviews his daughter's suitors, when the poor lover's offer is rejected, on hearing which the girl swoons.

SCENES 3, 4, and 5.—Rejected lover arranges secret appointment, giving the note he has written to a half-witted man to deliver to his sweetheart, and the messenger invests money given him on a monkey-on-a-stick.

SCENES 6, 7, and 8.—The half-witted Simon lays the note down to examine his toy, and the rich lover seizes the opportunity to read it. Simon eventually delivers the note to the girl, while the villain tells the father of the appointment he has discovered.

SCENE 9.—Shows the trysting place and the meeting. Appearance of angry parent, who is knocked down by lover, who realising what he has done rushes off for help. The villain comes up, and killing the unconscious old man accuses the poor lover of the deed, and the innocent man is locked up.

SCENES 10, 11, 12, and 13.—Girl abducted by villain; very exciting events. Guilt fixed on the villain through instrumentality of half-witted Simon. Chase of villain, who to escape capture takes mad leap over cliff.

Length 750ft. Price, £18 15s.

No. 977. THE TRAMP'S DREAM.

"Weary Willie," being reluctantly admitted to the workhouse, goes to bed and dreams of many marvels worked for his benefit by a fairy, during which time he enjoys all possible luxuries, only to wake up to be dragged off by one of the officials to the Bathroom, where he goes through the process of having the dirt of ages removed.

Length 450ft. Price, £11 5s.

No. 966. THE BURGLAR'S BOY.

Small boy thrust through window by burglar, and is discovered in the act of stealing jewellery by little girl. Father appears and engages the real burglar in desperate struggle.

Length 250ft. Price, the Subject, £6 5s.

No. 988. THE RIVALS.

A lady is riding in the company of two gentlemen, each of whom is eager to win her for himself. Diverting their gaze from her for a moment by pointing out a passing flock of birds, she drops her white gauntlet on the ground. Both men eagerly offer to ride and find the missing glove, and laughingly she tells them she will marry the one who brings it to her. The victorious horseman presents the glove to the lady and claims her fulfilment of the bargain.

Length 175ft. Price, £4 7s. 6d.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDARE.—NEW THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews.—This week the attraction is supplied by Mr. Allan Wilkie's dramatic company in Shakespearian and other plays. On Monday night Othello was played. Mr. Allan Wilkie as Othello was all that could be desired. Mr. G. Lambton was very realistic in his portrayal of the callous Iago. Mr. Clifford Rean made a manly and interesting Cassio; Mr. Louis Palgrave made the most of the part of Roderigo; and the same may be said of Mr. Martin Sands as Montana. The part of Desdemona, the devoted wife, was in the excellent hands of Miss Ine Cameron, who did full justice to her rôle. Miss Lizzie Maddocks was very efficient as Emilia. The remaining parts were in the hands of Messrs. Edwin King, James Willoughby, and B. Sullivan.

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah, C.A.—The Compton Comedy Company, who are always welcome visitors, opened a week's engagement on Monday with Davy Garrick. Mr. Compton's acting in the title part was as incisive and convincing as ever, and he was admirably supported by Miss Mackenzie, who made a most graceful Violet. Mr. A. B. Imeson played very realistically as Tom Tallyhaut, and Mr. Henry Crocker put a deal of quiet power into his Alderman Gresham, while Rumbelow, Sowerberry, and Simkins were in the capable hands of Messrs. Herbert Pigot, Arnold Lucy, and G. Wallace Johnston. Miss Marie Hassell was wholly successful as Mrs. Rumbelow, and Miss Muriel Meek gave a clever portraiture of Selina Sowerberry. The other parts were, without exception, capably filled. To-Morrow was presented on Tuesday. Money followed on Wednesday. It is notable that on that night Mr. Compton celebrated his silver jubilee as a touring manager. The other plays billed for the week were She Stoops to Conquer (Thursday), Old Men and New Acres (Friday), and to-day (Saturday) a matinée performance of The School for Scandal was to be given, Davy Garrick following in the evening.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The principal attraction for many visitors this week is The Children's Party, which is again successfully produced, with numerous new songs and dances, by Mr. and Mrs. Will Parker. Salambos contributed a weird and highly successful turn; Mdlle. Olivette also gives a remarkable performance; Mr. Harry Grey, comedian, made a distinct hit; Mr. Luis Hardt (the Mighty Atom) goes through some striking weight-lifting feats; Maxwell and Francis are capital duettists; Carr and Rox are also highly appreciated by the audience; Mr. Fred Lloyd and company play a highly amusing sketch; Miss Lil O'Gorman dances and sings smartly; and the bioscope picture of a mining tragedy is highly realistic.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sonnes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Williams.—A return visit is being paid this week by Mr. F. Jarman's company in Under the Czar. Miss Cathleen Cavanagh portrays Souci with capital results, and Misses Linda Riley and Lucy Murray are also well placed. Mr. Gerald Smythe as Capt. Johnson does well; Mr. B. Ross is a capable Nicholas; and Mr. W. H. Riley, Hugh Romsey, Louis Weston, and C. P. Amalia give god impersonations.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—We are favoured with a visit of Messrs. Lely and Mollison's company in the play, Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush. Mr. W. Mollison's picture of the stern, unbending kirk elder is pathetic and powerful; and what could be more winsome than the acting of Miss Evelyn McNay as Flora Campbell. Messrs. Allen Thomas and Mr. Alec. F. Thompson, as the doctor and Wee Posty, are also delightful impersonations; and one can also dwell with pleasure on the sketches of Scotch character depicted by Mr. Durward Lely, as the Rev. Jno. Carmichael, the Free Kirk minister of Drumtochty; Mr. E. R. Holloway, as the Earl of Kilspindie; Mr. Chapel, as Lord Hay; Mr. Kendal Chalmers, as Tammas; Mr. Maclaren, as Sandy Macpherson; Miss Alice Francis, as Kate Carnegie; and Miss Josephine Woodward, as Margaret Howe.

THE EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead: Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The company here includes some really good speciality artists. We have first a good turn in Brindall and Cooper, refined vocal comedians and dancing experts; George Russell is an entertaining singing comedian; the Paytes, as society entertainers and duologue artists, take a first place, and elicit from their auditors much approval; Carle and Carmanelli, musical comedians, appear in the latest sensational novelty, The Electric Moulding Mill, with lightning musical transformation act. A really good sketch is introduced by the Gregson Trio; the Danvils do well as song illustrators; the new farcical comedietta, Barmaids, brings in bold relief the varied talents for character impersonation of Miss Hulo Hodgson, Mr. Harry Lowther, and the artist who supports them. The comic singing of Jack Hylton, and the performances of the Adderleys' instrumental mimics, with the humorous depiction on the Bioscope of an "Unfortunate Policeman," make up a good "bill."

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—Miss Emma Litchfield, supported by a good company, occupies the boards here this week with the stirring drama, A London Actress, the chief parts being creditably sustained by Mr. J. C. Carlyle, Mr. A. F. Dudley, Mr. G. H. Doyle, Mr. J. Hitchins, Miss Emma Litchfield, Miss Millie Mayward, and Miss Nellie Fern.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Gibbons.—A well selected programme is submitted by the management this week. Miss Reta Grey and company, in an original musical-comedy scena, The Lancashire Lass, are received with hearty applause; Miss Clarice Netta, soprano, sings her numbers in excellent style; Alberto gives a clever exhibition of conjuring; Wisper, the expert juggler, pays a welcome return visit; Mr. E. C. Clayton's pictures are still a leading attraction; Mr. Harry Phydora scores as a comedian; and the Sisters Russell provide an interesting comedy turn.

BACUP.—NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Richard Nightingale.—Mr. Robert Perris's company is appearing here this week with the American drama A Fight for Millions. Mr. W. Henry Hargreaves as Tom Manley plays the part of the persecuted hero with marked ability; Richard Dudley is embodied in capital style by Mr. Archie Helsby, the villainy of the character being well depicted; Mr. P. George Beresford submits a good rendering of Hudson Rivers; Mr. Robert Perris gives a clever character sketch of Willie Neverwork, and Solomon Moses finds a clever exponent in Mr. Karl H. Edwards. Miss Eva Purcell acts with much feeling as Mabel Verner, and Miss Audrey Sutherland as Little Madge gives a credible performance; the trials of Helen Dudley are sympathetically represented by Miss Elma C. Turner; Mr. Nicholas Conway as Harold Hobbs, and Miss Lottie Pearce as Mag Brady, furnish humorous studies of their respective characters.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—The Moody-Manners Opera Co. is here, and opened on Monday with Maritana. Mr. Albert Bowyer was a capital and spirited Don Cæsar de Bazan and Miss Ethel Cadman a winning and interesting Maritana. The Don Jose of Mr. Marshall Vincent was exceptionally well done, and Mr. George Neilson was an accomplished King of Spain. Miss Rosina Blynon sang well and acted with appropriate sympathy as Lazarillo, and the Marquis, Mr. S. Lansdale, and the Marchioness, Miss M. Gaythorpe, were effectively portrayed. Other works billed are: Traviata, Faust, Bohemian Girl, Lohengrin, and the novelty, The Marriage of Figaro, which has not been done here for nearly a generation.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Roulledge.—The Gay Parisienne is paying a welcome visit here this week. Mr. Edward Kipling is a capital Ebenezer Huneycombe; Miss Alice Nixon, as the Gay Parisienne, is delightfully chic and piquant; Mr. Rudolph Kloss plays the part of Major Forsdyke in a clever and easy manner.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi.—The Lorch Family are the top of the bill here this week; the Dunedin Troupe of trick cyclists are paying a return visit; the Sisters Maginel Millini, the lady cornetists, are well received; Miss Emilee Warren is a particularly sweet singer; the Two Whites, comedy artistes, are an amusing turn; and Primavesi is a capable juggler.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—Mr. Bannister Howard is having quite a season with his companies in Bath this winter. Last Saturday his Aladdin pantomime finished in a triumphant fashion before a house crowded in every part, and on Monday his Florodora South Company commenced their spring tour, many of the artists engaged having the week previous gained for themselves great popularity in the pantomime. Mr. Daley Cooper resumes his old character of Tweedlepunch, putting, if possible, more energy and funny business into his work than before. Miss Edith Houseley, as the knowing Lady Holyrood, is excellent, her rendering of the well-known songs, "Tact" and "Inkling," meeting with all their old-time favour. Miss Leonora Grieve looks and acts the part of Dolores well, and her vocal contributions are given with much feeling. As Angela Gilfain Miss Lillie Gullick, a young Bath actress, won an instant success, her pleasing singing, together with her clever dancing, gaining several encores. Mr. Stanley White is good as Cyrus Gilfain. Frank Abercoed and Arthur Donegal have bright representatives in Mr. R. Courtier Dutton and Mr. St. John.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Charles Schubert.—The popular comedian, George D'Albert, claims first honours this week, his latest songs, given in his cheery and effective manner, arousing great enthusiasm. Ariel and Astarte, in their gymnastic act, gain much applause. Howard and St. Clair create plenty of laughter in their interlude. A new-comer is Ed. E. Ford, the Australian sundowner, his marvellous facial expressions and burlesque political speech causing great merriment. Dorothy Gould, vocalist and dancer, has some pretty melodies that she sings with acceptance. Billy Williams, the smiling Australian comedian, and Percy Hannan, the young American baritone are on welcome return visits. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux retain their place in favour.

BATLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Whitty.—The entertaining musical comedy Sergeant Brue is here this week. The company, under the direction of Mr. Thomas McKenzie, gives a good interpretation, and keeps the house in constant good humour. Mr. J. Harold Carson must be complimented on his successful work as the Sergeant; Mr. Frank Wilson is an effective Michael, his singing deserving praise; Mr. Fred Laceby does every justice to the character part of Mr. Crank; and Mr. Albert James is in all respects equal to the rôle of Scrubbs. Lady Bickenhall has an admirable exponent in Miss Reydon Dallas, Miss Gertie Fawcett is ladylike and lovable as Aurora, and Miss Amy Vivash scores in the part of Daisy. Other parts are creditably undertaken by Messrs. Harold Godwin, Cecil Strickland, George Robertson, Fred Spencer, Alex Johnstone, and Misses Kathleen V. Grey, Kate Sabine, Kitty Kerr, A. Dickens, and Nellie Burns.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—This week the boards are occupied by a vaudeville company and Ginnett's Turpin's Ride to York. The Lennox Murray Troupe meet with success in their exceedingly funny sketch, Fun in Siberia; and Messrs. Peakman and Walsh afford good amusement with their comedy and expert juggling. Little Miss Lily Arthur is a clever little ballad vocalist. Fred Childs and Clarnico (comedians), Witty Willie Danton (dancer), Jack Binns (actor vocalist) and Gertrude Moore (vocalist), with the Musical Dunvilles also contribute to the evening's entertainment. In the piece Turpin's Ride to York, Mr. J. Swallow impersonates with vigour the character of the famous highwayman, and Mr. Leslie Stanhope makes an excellent Tom King. Miss Lennox Murray is a charming Susan. The Bio-tableaux graph shows an amusing set of pictures.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—This week we are favoured with a visit from Mr. Lawrence Brough and company with The Lady of Ostend. Mr. Brough himself appeared as Le Baron de Longueville—a part he has played so many times—and needless to say he admirably sustained the rôle. Mr. Henry Hampson as Dick Whortles succeeded in creating much merriment; and the rôle of Mrs. Whortles was most capably interpreted by Miss Moyra Creegan. Mr. Percy Marshall's impersonation of Joseph Carbury was eminently satisfactory; and much praise must be accorded to Miss Edith Ormmensden for her vivacious impersonation of Millie Grace. The rôle of Dick's mother-in-law, Matilda Carbury, could scarcely have been in better hands than those of Miss Dorcas Corsbie; Mr. Harold M. McNay was a capital Toby Krockitt; and the title-rôle was well-sustained by Miss Daisy Cook. The little comedietta, Margaret's Stratagem, formed an attractive curtain-raiser. Last night (Friday), The Cruise of the Saucy Sally was performed, under special and distinguished patronage.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Edwin Leslie.—The chief feature this week is the production of Mr. Fred Bowyer's nautical sketch, The Little Stowaway, under the direction of Miss Ethel Arden and Mr. Geo. Abel, Ltd. The various characters are cleverly represented by Messrs. Geo. Abel, J. K. Walton, Leonard Russell, and Miss Eva Lumley, the latter undertaking the title-rôle with conspicuous success. Mr. Joe O'Gorman, the clever Irish comedian, has been loudly encored for his racy songs and patter, and deservedly so; and Ferguson and Mac, droll comedians, have nightly been accorded an excellent reception. Bromley and Fontem, a smart comedy duo, take well; and Miss Flo Banks is an attractive and clever comedienne. Also appearing are Mr. Chas. Sloman, comedian; Miss Lilian Boanar, vocalist; and Mr. Fred Harrison, comedian. The Palace pictures are also popular.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John S. Walker.—Kelly and Ashby head the bill, and have been most successful with their screaming act, Bouncing Billiardists. Miss Florrie Gallimore, the talented comedienne, has nightly been accorded an enthusiastic reception; and the Coloured Meisters delight all with their vocal items so capitally rendered. The Arthur Lloyd Trio create roars of laughter with their amusing sketch, Little Charley; or, The Twin Sisters, which is quite a feature of the bill. The marvellous gymnastic feats of Lydia and Albino have created quite a sensation; Mr. Billy Hobbs, a big favourite here, has gained much approval with his coon songs; and also appearing are Hans Hansen Trio, in their smart sporting act; the Three Amaranths, clever lady acrobatic dancers; and Princess Pauline, a charming comedienne.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The Dayton Troupe top the bill, and these marvellous acrobats have been accorded a hearty reception nightly. Craig, Rose, and Craig appear to great advantage in their astounding gymnastic performance; and Gillin's ventriloquial act amuses the crowds. Ray and Miles, comic jugglers, are smart; and Miss Raie Walters appears to advantage in her latest success, "Fishing." Mr. R. C. Revel, a capital juggler, introduces some novel and startling feats; and Mr. Lade Henderson's vocal items have been applauded to the echo. Also here are Miss Daisy Pearl, a charming comedienne; and Mr. Monty Walker, the droll Lancashire comedian.

BILSTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—The Span of Life has been presented here by Mr. Arthur Carlton's company, with the Stebbings Brothers forming the "human bridge." Mr. Sanderson Moffat makes a manly Richard Blunt; and the heroine, Kate Heathcote, is well sustained by Miss Phyllis Hamilton; Mr. R. S. Trelawney scores as Dunstan Leach; and praise should be awarded Miss Phyllis Graham for her Cecil Jelf; and to Miss Harriet Russell, for her Mrs. Jelf. The comedy element has a couple of good representatives in Mr. Syd Sylvester and Miss Kitty Russell, as Nutty Brown and Shrove Tuesday.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Following the prevailing fashion, pantomime continues to flourish here, this week Jazon and Warner's Aladdin company furnishing a very attractive entertainment. Miss Marie Braham is a sprightly and accomplished representative of the title-rôle, and is well supported by Miss Daisy Lane, who, as the Princess, wins general admiration. Widow Twankey is capitally impersonated by Mr. Harry Carmen; Mr. Edwin C. Jazon scores heavily as Abanazar; Miss Effie Morde shines with brilliancy as Pekoe; and Mr. Cyril Carle is a good Emperor. Mantell and Oval introduce some clever business as the Emperor's servants, and Mr. Peter Vone as Snow Ball and Mr. Alf Brooks as Gin Sling are most amusing. The specialities were the Delarie Troupe of Continental Gymnasts, the Sisters Varley, vocalists, and Saladi and Vone, dancers. The scenery and effects are excellent, and the production is highly creditable to all concerned.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Miss Marie Kendall, the popular comedienne, is again a leading attraction, and achieves her customary success. A numerous and comprehensive company also includes the Corty Brothers in their comedy bar and wrestling act; Keen and Waller, eccentric comedians; Flora Lumière, in some effectively illuminated dances; Tennyson and Wallis, comedians, and deservedly favourites; Fred and Lola Lorrison, versatile variety artists; Mr. Dick Geldard, comedian, an established favourite here; Mr. Steve McCarthy, comedian; and Miss Grace Williams, vocalist and dancer. An up-to-date display by the Bioscope is also an important feature. Mr. Ernest Denney is musical director.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Aladdin is now nearing its eighth week, and its marvellous success continues to be signified nightly and at the matinées by the notice "House Full."

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Cinderella draws enthusiastic audiences nightly, and its reign is assured for weeks to come.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—Beauty and the Barge has superseded The Sleeping Beauty, and the utmost pleasure has been derived from the play as presented by Mr. Cyril Maude's company. Mr. Harry Ashford distinguishes himself in the rôle of the amorous bargee, Capt. Barley; Mr. Percival Knight scores continuously as Lieut. Boyne, Miss May Fairclough presents a bright and fascinating picture as Ethel, Mr. Charles Goold does clever comedy work as the mate, Tom Codd; Mr. J. Wheatman does well as John Dibbs, and Mr. Percy Marmont as Herbert Manners, Mr. Walter Pemberton as Major Smedley, Mr. Forrester Harvey as Augustus, Mr. Charles Caffrey as Porter, Mr. J. W. Braithwaite as Mrs. Porter, Miss Mary Pemberton as Lucy Dallas, and Miss Mary Griffith as Mrs. Baldwin add to the delight of the piece. That Brute Simmons has also given much pleasure.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Blue Beard is in the full tide of success. Messrs. Hess and Lisbon, the clever grotesque specialty skaters, are new arrivals, and meet with a hearty reception. Mr. Syd Bazley, a comedian of much resource, humour, and agility, shines as Shacabac.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville.—Against the Tide, a powerful drama of truly human interest, was introduced here on Monday to a crowded audience, which applauded throughout with the utmost enthusiasm. Mr. Felix Pitt showed superb acting qualities in the rôle of Erasmus Grimley, Mr. Frederick Victor displayed similar ability in the rôle of the hero, Miss Frances Ruttledge appears as the heroine to the best advantage, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor renewed his popularity in the guise of the cobbler (Robert Tempest), Mr. Wyn Weaver duly emphasised the evil traits of Herbert Grimley, Mr. Fredk. Sandy (as the clerk Ashcroft) acted finely, and the Misses Jessie Yatman, Evelyn Marrable, and Messrs. Alic Macmillan, Louis Lingard, and Hubert Humphreys gain high commendation.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Master Criminal, capably represented by Miss Winifred Chalmers and company, is doing well here. Mr. Henry L. Osmond supplies a convincing counterfeit of the villain Telford Lestage, Mr. Albert Sember makes a popular hero of Philip Manners, Miss Kate Summerville is in full sympathy with the rôle of the wife Mabel Manners, and in the character of the wicked Lady Travennes Miss Winifred Chalmers holds her audience enthralled. Mr. Elmore Frith gives a good account of Ben Beandy (the detective), Mr. W. B. Somerville is successful as Mr. Manners, and the humour of the drama has capital exponents in Mr. J. W. Gallagher, Mr. Harry Cooke, and Miss Mabel Tremere, little Ivy Rochefort shining conspicuously as Winifred.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—Dick Whittington is fulfilling a successful week's engagement here with the Moore-Kennedy company. Mdlle Lucretia is a shapely and talented representative of the hero, Miss Vera Snowden acts with sweetness and charm as the fair Alice, and the comedians, who comprise Mr. Hyam Long as Fitzwarren, Mr. Dan Agar as Idle Jack, Mr. Clarence Turner as Captain Banting, Mr. Arthur Behan as the Cook, and Doyle and Massey as Shuffle and Shirk furnish unceasing mirth. The Palais Royal Quartette of dancers are applauded for their graceful steps, Mons. Pauletti, the agile representative of the Cat, gives a marvellous cycling performance, and numerous other clever specialities appear in the pantomime, which includes a gorgeous transformation scene.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—The principal items this week are the Grigolatis; the Seven Butterflies, whose rhythmic flights are most effective; and Arthur Lennard, who has had a big reception, his songs being well applauded; while Marie Dumas and Leo Stormont are loudly encored for the songs, "Lifeboat Crew" and "Good-night, Beloved"; Barton and Ashley have a funny skit, Canal Boat Sue; Tony and Flo Vernon, Herberte Lamartine, Lizzie Fletcher, and the Moulier Sisters come in for a good share of applause.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Bevan's Gordon Highlanders are attracting large audiences this week; Peggy Lennie and Walter Hast have a beautiful fantasy, The Sea Nymph; Marguerite Ismay is seen in a charming scena, Kick-a-poo; the Three Sisters Andersen are expert dancers; Emma Don, with her black and white comedy quartette, is highly appreciated; other popular turns are Fred Land, Arthur Boyne, Maudie Ford, Elton and Edwin, and the Bros. Terras.

HIPPODROME.—Managing Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Austin Rudd heads the programme here this week; while Clifford Cliff, as a comedian, should certainly make a name; Mabel Le Blanch sings sweetly, the electrical scena, The Maiden's Prayer, being most effective; Gus Lennard, the mysterious musician, is novel; Cherry Lass, the Dixons, Roma and Romani, Oliver Conroy, Kit Keen, the Geraldos, and the Bros. Ashley are in the bill.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—Tschernoff's ponies and dogs are entertaining crowded houses here; Goldman, Holles and Co. have an exceptionally smart sketch, The Little Charwoman; Alf. Gibson is more popular than ever, his songs making a big hit; Bicknelle, modeller in clay; Nina Gordon, Scotch mimic; Jeannie MacKay, comedienne; and D'Arc's Marionettes are most interesting.

BISHOP AUCKLAND.—EDEN THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. Addison; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. J. Huntley.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's romantic play, The Midnight Wedding, drew a good audience here on Monday night. In Mr. Alfred Paumier is found an actor of rare ability, and his rendering of Paul Valmar is a performance of great distinction. Miss Annie Saker, in the dual rôle of Princess Astrea von Strelsburg and Second-Lieut. Karl Helsburg, does not fail to elicit the sympathetic appreciation of the audience; in the character of Captain Rudolph von Scarsbruck, Mr. Clinton Baddeley acts with great power; whilst Lieut. Eugene von Strelsburg has a capable representative in Mr. Sidney Lynn; the Crown Prince, Leopold, is well depicted by Mr. Frederick W. Freeman; as also is the part of Father Gerard, by Mr. W. S. Hardy. Miss Florence Hunt is well adapted to the rôle of Rozel, alias Satanella. Messrs. Constable, Payne, and Spalding, as Sergeant Max, Corporal Otto, and Private Bobo respectively, comrades in war but rivals in love, cause much merriment in their endeavours to win Kathie, of the Golden Dragon, a character which is pleasingly rendered by Miss Ada Champion.

BLACKBURN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Business Manager, Mr. Reginald Yorke.—Mr. George Dance's company is appearing here in The Orchid. Mr. Bertie Wright as Meakin carries off chief honours, Miss Cissie Ralland as Lady Violet also being much admired. Miss Ida Chichester is an imposing Countess, Miss Mamie Stuart does well as Josephine, Mr. Harry Butler is a very clever dancer, and Mr. Alfred Bennet excels in a similar line. Business is very good.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—The Gotham Comedy Quartette give a bright and pleasing entertainment; Mdlle. Marvelle exhibits a number of highly-trained cockatoos; Henry Abdy has also an excellent show in his canine hippodrome; Queenie May is a very good little comedienne; Geo. Newburn wins much applause for his imitations; Anna Kenwick is first class both as singer and dancer; Mephisto, the Society contortionist, also goes well; Les Henris give a very good gymnastic act; Raymond's Biograph still remains a favourite.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. Fred Karno's company is here again this week with His Majesty's Guests. The play is aptly described as a pantomimical farce, and the fun-providers are Messrs. Arthur Lenville, Frank Morton, Charles Usher, S. Bolton, F. Fredericks, H. W. Lumley, Tom Manardo, and Misses Dolly Royce, L. Castelle, and Amy Rogerson.

GRAND THEATRE.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company is paying a welcome visit here this week. The Taming of the Shrew was the attraction on Monday, when Miss Dorothy Green contributed a clever study of Katharina, and Mr. Henry Herbert appeared as Petruchio. Mr. Lionel Bevans was the Baptista and Mr. Bernard Limpus played Lucantio. Miss Kate Turner was successful as Bianco and Miss May de Launay made a good Curtis. On Tuesday Romeo and Juliet was cordially received with Mr. Bernard Limpus and Miss Dorothy Green in the principal parts. Macbeth, The Merry Wives of Windsor, Hamlet, The Merchant of Venice, and The School for Scandal have also had a place in the bill.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Los Granadas are the leading stars here this week, and give a clever and amusing performance on the aerial bars and canvas spring. Dorothy L. Clarke wins favour by her sweet singing; the Rupertos are clever equilibrists; Dolly Golden dances well; Harry Nation scores as a character comedian; Henri Bekker is a smart conjurer; Otto and Olgar give an amusing sketch; and Tiny Reiff is a dainty comedienne.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. George E. Good.—Messrs. Fred J. Little and Fred D'Arcy's company is responsible for a capital production of the pantomime Sinbad the Sailor. A charming principal boy is found in Miss Marion May, who plays Sinbad, and Miss Amy Culcott as Zorilda is a great favourite; Mr. Walter Adams as Sinbad and John E. West as Mrs. Sinbad are both successful; Miss Amy Maud makes a good Selim, and the smaller parts are in adequate hands. Every praise is due to the specialties supplied by the Westwoods, comedy cyclists; Dobito and Buxton, operatic vocalists; Newcombe and Sullivan, in a laughable sketch, entitled The Captain's Lunch; the Culcotts, speciality artistes, dancers, and banjoists; Miss Masie Wyatt, solo 'celloist, and Little Tim, big-boot dancer.

BOOTLE.—MUNCASTER THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Manager, Mr. H. Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Wilson.—Messrs. Stillwell and Teulon's company is paying a visit here this week with the drama The Branded Woman. Miss Nana St. George, a clever artist, gives a good portrayal in the title-rôle; Mr. James Stillwell in the rôles of Philip Maurice and Zarka, the hypnotist, deserves the applause accorded him; Mr. Edward Fryer and Mr. Paul E. Tuelon give a capital rendering of the respective parts of Baron Hauber and Louis Duroe; a sympathetic embodiment of Rudolph is submitted by Miss Edith Wild. Other parts are capably played by Mr. Becket Bould as Dick Brown and Miss Pollie Denville as Jacqueline.

BRADFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Mother Goose continues to attract large and delighted audiences. On last Saturday afternoon Mr. Hart, with his customary generosity, entertained the adult inmates of the Bradford Workhouse, who were highly pleased with the pantomime and the presents they received. The little inmates of the Workhouse are to be present on the afternoon of Saturday, the 10th.

THE EMPIRE (Moss' Empires, Limited).—Resident Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—That wonderful instrumentalist and entertainer, Vasco, "The Mad Musician," is here again, with his bewildering assortment of instruments, which he manipulates with skill and astonishing rapidity. The Three Victorias follow with an acceptable turn as singers and dancers. "The Soldiers' Queen," Josephine Sabel, displays remarkable vivacity in a vocal turn of exceptional humour and originality. G. W. Hunter is an old-time favourite, and his quaint songs and stories are as humorous as ever. Will Haines, in an early Victorian "get-up," gives a delightful comic song with a well-known refrain, Daisy Ray's coon song and dance are excellent contributions to the programme. "The acme of animal training" is an accurate description of the performance given by Lux's French poodles. Elsie Claire is a very graceful comedienne. In her usual quaint and original style Amber Austa, coon comedienne, entertains the audience. Marzella's birds are put through a delightful and wonderful performance, and in their novel and clever trapeze performance Alexandra and Bertie win applause.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—In magnificent costumes and with well-rendered songs, Florrie Forde pleases the audiences here this week; and Harold Hughman is successful in his imitations of animals, etc. Spencer and Marks dance cleverly, and they are smart and humorous in a sketch, The Stage-struck Waifs. Some very wonderful jumping is done by Arthur Hartley, who holds the world's championship belt. "The Lancashire mill girl," Maggie Walsh, secures well-merited applause for her excellent vocalism. There is much novelty in the dancing, and the specialities presented by the Society Quartette. Ford Williams submits a good bass song in vigorous style. With the aid of the limelight Mdlle. Eldee presents beautifully-coloured pictures, in which she poses artistically; and there are interesting films exhibited by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

BRIGHTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr. and Mrs. Kendal and company opened a week's engagement here on Monday with Still Waters Run Deep. Mrs. Kendal gave an artistic and convincing portrayal of Mrs. Sternhold, and Mr. Kendal was completely successful as John Mildmay. Mr. Ernest Hendrie handled the part of Mr. Potter cleverly; Mr. Bassett Roe submitted a fine enactment of Captain Hawkesley, and Miss Elise Clarens made an excellent Mrs. Mildmay. The programme for the week included Dick Hope, The Elder Miss Blossom, The Housekeeper, and The Ironmaster.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Mr Ernest Carpenter's pantomime Robinson Crusoe worthily maintains its popularity here. Mr. Walter Kooney (Will Atkins), and Mr. Harry Karr (Dick Deadeye) provide boundless fun, and are capitally supported by Mr. Allan Wye (Mrs. Crusoe). Miss May Mars sings delightfully as Robinson Crusoe, Miss Rosalie Jacobi is a graceful and winsome Polly Perkins, and the remaining characters are ably sustained.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—An attractive programme is sustained here this week. The Moran and Marreece Quartet achieve conspicuous success in their clever musical transformation act, Booker and Narbis are amusing in their original comedy creation The Interviewer, the Three Firmans are diverting acrobats and gymnasts, Martine and Son (American song illustrators) are entertaining Lily Flexmore gives a capital exhibiton of high kicking and contortion, Fred Cullane's Comedy Trio are well received in the comedietta The Ladies' School, Andy Higginson (swell vocal comedian) is effective, Nash and Noel are good comedians and patterers, Rose D'Alberg is a pleasing comedienne, and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford. A capital company is here this week. Whit Cunliffe is warmly applauded for his amusing and topical songs; Millie Payne, "the new comedy queen," achieves much success; Harry Lamore, silent comedian on the slack wire, submits an excellent turn; Heely and Meely, American eccentrics, are mirth-provoking; Tina Clementa's loop-looping dogs and highly trained horse are wonderful performers; Mack Olive, assisted by Miss Daisy Baldry, is highly successful in his original whistling scena; Maxford and O'Neill are smart repartee comedians, Harry Allister's character impersonations are warmly appreciated, the Brothers Herbert O'Reilly are smart elastic equilibrist novelty specialists, Will Driscoll is a pleasing comedian and dancer, Violet Stockelle (comedienne) merits praise, and the Barrascope pictures are amusing.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mother Goose is having a very successful season here. The subject, as worked out by Mr. Hickory Wood, is interesting; the staging is all that could be desired, both scenery and dresses being fully up to the high standard to which we are accustomed at the Prince's, and so diversified are the attractions that the pantomime cannot fail to please all tastes. The company, headed by Mr. Wilkie Bard, is an exceptionally good and capable one all round; the small parts are all very carefully played, thus adding considerably to the success of the production. Mr. Wilkie Bard is very popular in the title-rôle; he presents a quaint study of the Goose Farmer, but never descends to burlesque. Jack is very carefully played by Mr. Edward Lewis; he is always amusing, and though there is great scope for comicality in the part he does not overdo it. Mr. Fred Conquest is clever as the Goose who lays the golden eggs; his movements are all very natural, and there is much expression in all he does. Messrs. Rich and Rich are amusing as the O'Tooles, pleasing with their song and dance specialities. Mr. Marriott Edgar and the Brothers Griffiths also add much to the general success of the pantomime; and the Tiller "Superba" troupe of dancers are experts in their line. All the principals are now established favourites.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident

the Hon. Crewe Boodle, and Miss Mary Morrison as Miss Bliss are also worthy of mention.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The excellent programme here this week includes the Avolos; Rastus and Banks in a sketch, entitled The Major and the Maid; Pollo Jerome, a lady athlete; Arthur Croxon, impersonator; Will McIvor, vocalist; The Falcons, comedy acrobats; and The Original Caledonian Boys.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead; Manager, Mr. Broadhead, jun.—A good bill is provided here, and includes The Five Grovinis, wonderful acrobats; Percy Honroi and Troupe in Concordia; Three Royal Temples, vocalists; Frank's Midgets, conjurors; Harry Thurston, impersonator; Fred Horsfall, mimic; J. C. Laurie, comedian; and Hinton and Wootten in football on bicycles.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L. — This week local playgoers are afforded the first opportunity of witnessing the delightful comic opera Peggy Machree. The company, which is under the direction of Mr. Charles E. Hamilton, is an exceptionally strong one. Foremost among the artists is Miss Claudia Lassell, who plays the title-rôle with charm and grace, whilst her vocal numbers are excellently rendered. Mr. Leslie Styles is a baritone of fine quality, and all his songs are vociferously applauded. Mr. Milroy Cooper realises the canny Scot well, and provides the local colour as Alexander McDougall. Miss Madge Avery and Mr. Dan Fitzgerald assist in the comic parts of Moira Cafferty and Michael. Mr. John Morley uses a good voice to advantage as Sergeant Bampton, and he has a dainty ally in Miss Blanche Astley as Molly.

CANTERBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—The Ticket of Leave Man has been played here this week. Arthur Burne, as Robert Brierley, won the sympathy of his audience; Mr. Austin Leigh did well as the detective, Hawkshaw; Mr. G. W. Elton embodied the Jew Melter Moss very satisfactorily; and Mr. Richard Fielding was capital as Dalton. Miss Violet Agnew successfully impersonated the poor girl who becomes Brierley's wife; Miss Emmie O'Reilly, as the garrulous landlady, caused much merriment; Miss Lilian Rogers proved a favourite in the rôle of Sam Willoughby. Other characters were ably undertaken by Mr. Claude Agnew, Mr. Dane Austin, and Miss Maude Creighton.

CARDIFF.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Bedford.—On the Love Path is being presented at the Royal this week by Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchinson's principal company, and the delightful comedy is attracting large audiences. Mr. Hutchinson as Arthur Taunton gives a performance that is quite up to his usual high standard. Miss Lilias Earle, in her charming portrayal of Charity Concannon, captivates everyone; Mr. George Mudie does some capital work as John Gripleigh; Miss Hilda Honiss and Miss Margaret Marshall make two pleasing representatives of Norah and Mary Concannon; while Mr. Frank Hill as Peter Concannon, Mr. Frank Elliott as Gerald Marvel, and Mr. T. W. Rawson as Denbigh Thrayle are all very faithful impersonators of their respective parts. The piece is preceded by the excellent curtain-raiser, His Landlady, in which Mr. George Mudie, Miss Hilda Honiss, and Mr. Frank Elliott work exceptionally well together.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Bateman; Business-Manager, Mr. Reg. Grant.—Mr. Geoffrey de Mowbray's company is here with The Bank of England. The important part of Sherlock Holmes is safely entrusted to Mr. Charles H. Lester; Mr. Walter Bentley as Stephen Hartley has ample opportunities for his well-known histrionic powers; Mr. Ernest Dare as Eric Dane gives a successful delineation, and Mr. Henry Compton, as the moneylender, Gordon Isaacs, proves a particularly good exponent of the part. Miss Phyllis Orme as Aminta J. Beane is the breezy American widow to the life; Mr. Chas. Goff as Tommy Sprouts, a detective in embryo, is responsible for a tremendous lot of fun.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—With Vesta Tilley at the head of the bill, the Cardiff Empire has been crammed at every performance. At the other end of the bill are Amann and Hartley in their comedy sketch The Naughty Professor; Stewart and Morgan in a pathetic "Leaving Ireland" episode, introduce some capital Irish melodies; W. H. Downes, coloured vocalist, contributes popular songs; the Five Bellaizers give a fine display of physical culture; and the Mammons in Uncle Yank prove amusing. Fyne and Hurley in a funny little "Coster and Dude" incident; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden in a bright conception, A Desperate Remedy; Drawee, Frisco, and Hambo, a trio of comedy jugglers; and the Bohemians, comedy musicians, are the remaining names on the programme.

CARLISLE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Trustees of R. S. M'Kino; Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers.—Mr. Milton Bode's production of Puss in Boots on Monday night was received with enthusiasm by a crowded and delighted audience. Mr J. Hickory Wood has provided a capital "book," and the staging and dressing are brilliantly effective. Mr. Tatten Hall's King Crabbus is an excellent performance, his song being cleverly rendered. Mr. Leo Sterling, an old favourite here, again delights with his musical specialities and broad humour. Mr. Tommy Nelldon also scores as Maggies. As the Dame, Mr. Harry Bickley is the principal laughter-maker, and gives a performance teeming with fun without the slightest trace of vulgarity. Miss Gladys Warren sings nicely and dances nimbly. Miss Marie Reeve made a big hit as principal boy, gaining several encores for her rendering of popular songs. The principal girl is Miss Janet H. Reynolds, whose charming appearance, bright acting, and delightful singing gain her hosts of admirers. Miss Grace Langley dances her way into favour, and Miss Addie Love, who made an ideal Fairy Queen, is heartily applauded for her pleasing vocal efforts. Mr. Barry Gilmore makes a nimble Cat, his antics causing much amusement. The Carlos Trio of lady dancers contribute a smart turn, and each number rendered by the Royal Welsh Glee Singers is encored.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME. — Proprietress, Mrs. P. E. Veitch; General-Manager, Mr. C. Algie.—A capital programme is provided here this week. Vermette and Dione, who are the star turn, contribute a marvellous bar act, and are recalled again and again. In The Master and Maid Les Mounts have a delightful interlude full of wit and humour and excellent vocalism, the Maid being daintily played by Miss Hilda Corelli, and the Master by Mr. Gerald Mount. Mr. Fred Hallam is a funny comedian, and keeps his audience thoroughly amused. Kloof and Ramsey, musical novelty burlesque artists, score an emphatic success. Horace Minto tells funny stories in an inimitable style. Miss Florence Schubert, burlesque artist, sings some good songs. Smart equestrian acts are submitted by Mdlle. Leo Claire in Scenes from Spain," and The Ernests in a lady and gentleman jockey act. The Hippodrome pictures complete the bill.

NEW PUBLIC HALL.—Poole's Myriorama is paying a visit here this week, and, as usual, is drawing good houses. A lot of new pictures are being exhibited, and excellent variety turns include The Mitsutas in a wonderful feet-balancing act, Learto with his clever dog "Bobs," Takagero and Commie in a sensational ladder act in mid-air; Houston, Chinese magician, who introduces a mystifying item in the Floating Lady; and Professor Chard's troupe of leaping dogs. Mr. Fred Poole is an excellent guide and humorist.

CASTLEFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business Manager, Councillor Hy. Masterman.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Fred C. Somerfield's company is paying a visit here with Geoffrey Langdon's Wife, and is meeting with a hearty reception. Elinor D'Arville is admirably sustained by Miss Dagmar, who, by her clever emotional acting, well sustains her high reputation; Mr. Somerfield is deserving of high praise for his careful study of Will Maynard; Mr. George Mitchell gives a clever reading of the double part of Geoffrey and Cyril Langdon; Messrs. Charles Stirling and Bradford Crosby are satisfactory as Harold Kingston and Peter Miles respectively; as Leonard Vimbart Mr. T. G. Vane gives a humorous impersonation and obtains the heartiest laughter and applause; Mr. Chas. E. Warne is also responsible for a good deal of merriment. Miss Maudie Grayson dances well and makes a dainty Phœbe; Miss Mollie Monaghan appears as Janet Miles, and her efforts meet with due appreciation; as Rosina Phillipi Miss Marie Clavering quite avails herself of her opportunities. Miss Marie Barrett as Lily Lorrimer makes the part acceptable; and Miss Alice Connaughton does well as Florette de Vere.

CHATHAM.—BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard. — The chief attraction here is the appearance of Young Colossus, aged eighteen years, weight thirty-five stone, and L'Homme Miniature, aged twenty-five years, weight 2st. 6lb., a very striking contrast which is proving attractive. Next in order come the Norman and Leonard Trio with The Itinerant, a scena which includes some clever musical selections. Lord, Murray, and Lord were to have appeared, but on the evening of our visit one of the partners was absent on account of indisposition; the other two gave a nimble display of ball-punching. Also appearing are: Marie Stolle, low comedienne; Blarney and Kennard, comedy artists; Tod Lowen and Harry Cotton, comic vocalists; and Davis and Davis with patter and medley; while Lacey's Erascope has fresh pictures.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. Frank J. Donne.—Hall and Wilson are introducing their novel cycling act; Allan and Hart are giving a capital display of dancing. Others who do their share of entertaining are A. E. Clifford, vocalist; Ida Kathrena, in her scena The Carnival of Toys; Walker and Lane, cross-talk comedians, and Florence Godfrey, ballad vocalist. The Edisonograph gives interesting pictures, while great praise must be awarded to Joe Boganny's Lunatic Bakers for their clever acrobatic display.

CHELTENHAM.—OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. George Dance's well-balanced company presented Lady Madcap for the first time on Monday evening to a crowded and enthusiastic house. Miss Vera Vere, in the title-rôle, plays with delightful abandon; Miss Peggy Primrose as Lady Betty's maid is irresistible, singing tunefully, and bewitching all by her dancing; Mr. H. V. Surrey as Oroya Brown puts a good deal of "character" into the part, which pleased everybody; Mr. Vincent Erne does very well as the comical little Corporal Ham; Mr. Bay Russell is effective in both singing and dancing as Stony Stratford; Mr. Alex. Chentrens, an old local favourite, sings as delightfully as ever as the amorous Count de St. Hubert; Miss Kathleen Ronayne does well as Gwenny Holden, Lady Betty's friend; Mr. Fred Payne is very droll as Posh Jenkins; Messrs. Lyall Grant, Fredk. C. Leister, Robert Cranny, and B. Whitelock are well placed as officers of East Anglian Hussars; Mr. Louis du Cane is good as Lord Framlingham; and Mr. Ralph Holland does his little well as his Lordship's butler.

CHORLEY (Lancs.).—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Clay.—Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton's company is here this week with the sensational drama, A Gambler's Daughter. The mounting is good, and special mention should be made of the realistic destruction of the drinking den in Act 3. As Desmond O'Dare Mr. Robert Ayrton shines conspicuously, Mr. Victor Millard doing excellently well in the dual rôle of John and Jack Grant. Solomon Solomons is capitally portrayed by Mr. Alfred Sanders; and Mr. C. Raymand is successful as Ralph Gillman, as is also Mr. George Vinning as Dick. Mildred and Miriam Grant (mother and daughter) are charmingly and effectively rendered by Miss Adria Hill; and Miss Harriet Loydall is good as Auntie Zeb.

CLYDEBANK.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Bayne.—The attraction here this week is the musical comedy drama The Sporting Girl, presented by Mr. J. W. Norton's company. Miss Maggie Sinclair in the title-rôle is a decided success. Mr. P. Piercy Watson gives a good portrayal of Jack Garling; Mr. Fred Hart is thoroughly amusing as Rev. John Bunyan; Mr. N. Drury looks and acts well as the Italian, Narco Castellina; Mr. James H. Stirling gives a convincing rendering of the heavy part, that of George Drewitt; Mr. Penton Hook of Chicago has a capable exponent in Mr. Harry Sinclair; Miss Nell Ascott acts and sings tunefully as Amy Beddoe; Miss Minnie Blackmore does well in the trying part of Mrs. Owen; and as Nartha, a cook, Miss Essie Murrall is very entertaining.

COATBRIDGE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Coatbridge Theatre Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Commins.—Messrs. Fred J. Little and Fred Darcy's company is doing good business with the pantomime Robinson Crusoe this week. Miss Marion Armitage is a capable Robinson Crusoe; Miss Nellie Moore cleverly enacts Polly Hopkins; Miss Cissie Conyers successfully enacts Captain Billie Taylor; and Miss Bertha St. Ruth scores as Princess Flumeza. Messrs. Bass and Guinness prove a clever pair of comedians as Billy Crusoe and Jimmy Crusoe respectively; Mr. Allen Hanbury shows capabilities as Mrs. Crusoe. Clever speciality turns are done by the Snow Family, expert skaters; the Sidney Quartette; Russell and Johnson, buck and sand dancers; and George French's troupe of acrobatic comedy cyclists.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—The 10.30 Down Express opened here on Monday night to a good house, with the proprietor of the company, Mr. Horace Stanley, in the humorous rôle of Sam Wagstaffe, A.B.; Mr. Chas. Burden is successful as Jack O'Malley, a like remark applying to Mr. Alaric Burton as the Country Squire; Mr. George Arthur is at times very powerful as the hypocritical and villainous James Inderwick; whilst the character-study of the old gamekeeper by Mr. William Matthews is a feature of the piece; Mr. Harry Day makes a capital emissary from "The Yard," and Mr. Arthur E. Francis well sustains the part of the man in possession. As the heroine Miss Elsie Capel is quite successful; and other female characters worth notice are Miss Clara Saintley as Olive Coombes, Miss Evelyn M. Walton as Letitia Leigh, and Miss Kate Kilpack as Peggy Pots.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Messrs. Granville and Thorne's company is here this week with the romantic drama Napoleon the Great. Mr. Hugh Montgomery gives a forcible impersonation of the rôle of Napoleon; and as Colonel Lavarennes, Mr. Henry Barlsmere is effective. Mr. Phil Harpin is very good as Colonel Julius Meuron, and as Paul Laczinska Mr. E. Bulmer Pitt is highly satisfactory. Mr. C. W. Spencer is very clever as the bluff old soldier, Sergeant Choripin, and as Pierre Pimpinnet Mr. Frank M. Thorne is really amusing. Marie Walmska is portrayed by Miss Leslie Warner, and Mademoiselle Leonie Marbeout by Miss Maud Russell. As Marcelli Choupin Miss Marie Harcourt deserves praise for her careful rendering of the part.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Wm. Greet's company opened here on Monday in The Earl and the Girl. Mr. William Stephens as Jim Cheese proves himself a clever comedian; Mr. Percy Carr as Dick Wargrave sings the ballad "My Cosy Corner" in good style; Miss Aimee Grey as the American heiress is charming and sings artistically; Mr. Vernon Davidson as Hon. Crewe Boodle scores with his song "The Grenadier"; as Daisy Fallowfield Miss Florence Imeson acts in a dainty manner; Miss Dot Carey as Jim's sweetheart, and Miss Gladys Fountaine as Mrs. Shimmering Black are all that can be desired.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—The bill of fare here includes the Yan-Kwai Troupe of Chinese acrobats and jugglers; Squire and Leslie present a comedy act; The Ladderites are skilful acrobats; Bros. Obo are capital comedians and patterers; the Great Vincent, acrobat, is well received; the Cranks, comedy cyclists, are clever; the Sisters Geronde are refined vocalists and dancers; the Jansons are clever trapeze performers, and the Three Zaraos in their triple horizontal bar performance win applause.

COVENTRY.—THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Wm. Bennett.—La Poupee is here this week. Mr. William Everard is seen to advantage as Launcelot, Mr. Walter Balfour makes a capital Father Maxime, Mr. Fred Seymour is quaintly funny as Hilarius, Miss Dot Stephens scores as Alesia, Miss Edith Hunter makes a charming Madame Hilarius, and Miss Althea Hyde's Henri is another well rendered part.

THE HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester.—Large audiences have gathered to witness the excellent programme at this place of amusement. M. Dartigan causes a great sensation in his sensational "Looping the Loop" on a motor cycle. The Eskimos give a successful speciality entertainment, entitled At Home in Lapland; Ben Harris and his nippers give a speciality act, entitled A Promising Pupil; the Sisters Stratton are capable duettists and dancers; Lillian Victoria appears in her quick-change vocal scena; Chant and Chant are capital vocalists; and a very interesting set of animated pictures are much admired.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Morton.—Mr. Morton Powell's company is presenting the new play, The Women Who Gambles here this week. The principal rôle, Countess Natalie Steinback, is entrusted to Miss Louisa Peach, and a very touching and finished representation she gives; Mrs. Morton Powell enacts the part of Cora Gouldhart in a pleasing manner, her enunciation being very clear; Mr. Horatio Sinclair has the "heavy" part, and as Baron Cratzlaw, has ample opportunity for displaying his evident histrionic ability; Mr. Edward Ashby as Count Otto Steinback wins constant applause; and Mr. Ernest J. Fare as Lieut. Carl Czarteryski plays a difficult part with tact and feeling; Mr. Ernest H. Clarke is a dignified Chief of the Police, M. Stambuloff; and Mr. G. H. Hurst is effective as M. Kosta Marinovitch. The fun is in the able hands of Mr. Tom Byron as the Hon. Bertie Bray, Miss Florrie Hall as Mdlle. Zila Zeyelda, and Mr. Fred Prior as Peter Peteroff, who all three provoke roars of laughter; Miss Marie Ramuz faithfully interprets the part of Stella Melakorf; Mr. Arthur Brandhurst is well placed as Georges Bloff, and Mr. Walter P. Carr and his colleagues are responsible for the "Friends of Freedom."

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company opened here on Monday evening for three nights with Are You a Mason? Mr. Allan Pollock makes a capital George Fisher, Mr. E. H. Paterson is decidedly amusing as Amos Bloodgood, and as Frank Perry Mr. H. Langdon Bruce achieves success. Mr. Richard Purdon as John Halton causes much merriment; and Mr. Percy Bell gives an excellent portrayal of Hamilton Travers. Mr. Howard L. Tracey creditably sustains the part of Ernest Morrison. Miss Adelaide Grace acts the rôle of Mrs. Bloodgood with dignity, and Miss Mabel Younge, Miss Babs Stuart, and Miss Mabel Jowett make three charming daughters. As Lottie Miss Alice Raynor is worthy of special mention; and as Mrs. Halton Miss Rita Narcelli is good. Mr. William A. Armour's company, in What a Woman Did, occupies the boards for the remainder of the week.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—The boards are occupied by Mr. Frank Curzon's company in Mr. Hopkinson. Miss Helen Russell is a captivating Lady Tyra Egglesby; Miss Blanka Stewart deserves high compliments for her handling of the rôle of the Duchess of Braceborough; and Miss Francis Davie is smart as Eliza Dibbs. Mr. Edward Vaughan is well placed as Lord Gawthorpe; Mr. Charles Esdale is quite at his ease as the Duke of Braceborough; Mr. George Desmond thoroughly identifies himself with the rôle of the Hon. Otto Dursingham; Mr. Cecil Burt is very quaint as the Earl of Addleton; Mr. Harold is capital as Mr. Smethurst; Mr. Edward Rigby is successful in a humorous rendering of Samuel Hopkinson; and Messrs. Oliver Rogers, W. Holland, and J. G. Lowther complete the cast as Purbury, a footman, and Blisset. The curtain-raiser, The Impossible Trio, is noticed in another column.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—The Indian Mutiny is being staged here by Mr. Frank E. Burdett's company. Mr. George Steel submits a fine rendering of Lieutenant Manley; Mr. Cyril Harrison is praiseworthy as Captain Manley; Mr. John Davidson is efficient as Major Ingleby; Mr. J. McElroy is a droll Terry O'Brien; Mr. Villiers Stanley enacts the part of Nebu Singh for all it is worth; Mr. J. S. Shedden does well as Abul Khan; Mr. Ernest Keand is commendable as Ra Goonga; and Mr. Arrack Saumy is creditable as Ghaute. Miss F. Melrose Millett acts with good judgment and skill as Ghuz-nah; and adequate renderings of Mrs. Major Ingleby and Kate Ingleby are given by Misses Kate Bruce and Lillie Grey.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—The Orchid is here this week. Mr. Harry Walsh, as Meakin, is amusing, and able support comes from Mr. George Asaf; Mr. Sinclair Holden, as the Hon. Guy Scrymgeour, is effective; Mr. Charles Seymour, as Dr. Fausette, is seen to advantage; Miss Marjory Moore acts with grace, and her singing is delightful; Miss Phil Gumpe, as Caroline Vokins, is charming; Miss Sissie Brand, as the adventuress, plays well; Miss D. West-Collins, Miss Maud Davis, and Miss Trilby Collier filled their rôles with success.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE. Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Chas. Denley.—There is a return to pantomime here, that of Robinson Crusoe, from Cardiff, having been secured for this week and next. Mr. Milton Bode's company is one of all-round excellence. The title rôle is played by Miss Maisie Ellinger, who is possessed of a handsome figure, a charming personality, and a well-trained and very pleasing voice. She is a great success. Amongst her most successful songs are "Bombay" and "Do you hear the Pipers' calling," and she scores heavily in all. Miss Veronica Brady is a bright and vivacious Polly Perkins, and her rendering of "The Little Wooden Hut," with a smart and original cake walk dance—indeed, her dancing generally—is as pleasing as it is effective. Miss Cassie Walmer, the octoroon comedienne, as the Empress of Jungalow, is received with well-merited recognition. She has several taking songs, in which her powerful voice is heard to advantage; she also contributes a clever sand dance. Miss Lily Beverley is a capital Lieut. Bobs, and Miss Blanche Courtney, as Jenny Atkins, is in every way acceptable. Miss Amy Singleton figures agreeably as Rome. Downes and Langford, as Samuel Salt and Peter Pepper, are extremely amusing and have several diverting duets. Mr. Clifford Morgan, as Will Atkins, is specially successful, his fine baritone voice securing for him general commendation. Mr. Tom Owen, as Mrs. Crusoe, is all that can be desired. Larola, as Friday, is a remarkably clever acrobat and juggler, and introduces a speciality turn of considerable merit.

PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Taylor.—The star turn is provided here this week by the Collinson Combination in their dramatic episode, A Club Raid. The various characters are cleverly impersonated by Messrs. Jack Collinson, Arthur Whitehead, W. Macnamara, and F. Walker, and Misses Jeannie Moss and Selina Seaforth. Hector and Lauraine, described as the Whirligigs, are clever mirth provokers, and deserve special commendation. Geo. Prince, "the crazy comic," is wonderfully entertaining, and Wallace Whitney is equally so. Beattie Foster is a charming comedienne and soon gains favour. Decona appears in an amusing musical act, and Mdlle. Sylvesto proves herself a contortionist of more than average ability. The Palace Bioscope depicts an amusing film, entitled The Interfering Mother-in-Law.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's No. 1 company scored another success on Monday with the Russian drama, entitled In Holy (!) Russia. Mr. Robert Cockcroft may be warmly congratulated upon his embodiment of the Tzar; Mr. Tom G. Warry did well as the Count Gregori Petrolski; Mr. Louis Norman played well as Michael Natolski, Captain of the Russian Guards; Mr. J. Rice Cassidy was droll as Colonel Richard Forrest; Mr. Carl Kovinelli brought passion and pathos to bear upon the rôle of Steragoff; Mr. John Chesterfield made the most of the opportunities afforded in the rôle of Ivan Overitch; Mr. Stephen Crossley did admirably in his presentation of Baron Von Pleve; and as Sir Harry Beresford, Mr. Frank Copeland was well placed.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessees, Michael Gunn, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Chas. Hyland.—The patrons of this popular place of amusement are this week being treated to an excellent répertoire of Shakespearean plays by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson and their well-known company. On Monday night Henry V. was produced, Mr. F. R. Benson appearing with his accustomed success as King Henry. Mrs. Benson gave a charming portrayal of the Princess Katherine, and Miss Tita Brand made a dignified and effective Queen Isabel. Mr. Philip Sanders displayed his abilities as the Duke of Exeter, and a capital reading of Fluellen was given by Mr. G. R. Weir, whose excellent comedy was heartily enjoyed. Messrs. Nicholson and Wilson gave a humorous conception of the parts of Nym and Bardolph, and in the character of Pistol Mr. Cyril Keightley was particularly good. Mr. Percy D. Owens did well as Charles VI. The remaining parts were in capital hands.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Whitbread; General-Manager, Mr. Kennedy Miller.—The Boom of Big Ben is being played here this week by Mr. E. H. Knight and George Denham's company. Mr. Fred Powell efficiently portrays the rôle of Joe Galloway, and as Judith Miss Nellie Fletcher is admirable. Mr. John Brittain is amusing in the rôle of Tony Prebble, and Miss Hilda Baynton acquits herself well as Marjorie Galloway. Mr Harry Scott is capital as Gilbert Galloway, and Miss Mildred Cottell is excellent as Olive Lorette. The parts of Tom Battleby and Henry Siegenbach are ably presented by Messrs. George Denham and Richard Ferriss, and the Misses Gwynne Spencer and Dorothy as Maud de Courcy and Clara Vere are both good in their respective parts.

EMPIRE.—General Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Musical-Director, Mr. H. J. Baynton.—The principal feature here this week is Fred Karno's comedians in their travesty, Mumming Birds, which causes roars of laughter. The Two St. Johns' musical act scores a triumph, and Katie Butler is a vivacious comedienne. The Tupps' knockabout act creates general mirth, and Edie King is a juvenile artist of much promise. Barney Vox, ventriloquist, is well appreciated, and Chas. Adams, comedian, merits applause. Edie Veni, comedy artist, is favourably received, and the Empire Pictures are also interesting.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The prominent turn here this week is Troba, a clever juggler and equilibrist. Another attractive turn is Valvero's Naval Bombardment, and Poole and Poole are vocalists and dancers of no mean order. The Du Gros Trio of Gymnasts make a decided hit, and Belle Harcourt is a pleasing comedienne. The Four Mill Lads render their vocal numbers in good style, and Fred Brick is a humorous comedian. Mattie Crawford wins favour as a comedienne and dancer; Wal Robins, musical comedian, is much in demand; and the bioscope is up to date.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. Norman V. Norman and company are paying a welcome first visit here this week, opening on Monday with The Adventure of Lady Ursula. Mr. Norman played Sir George Silvester in his usual artistic and admirable manner, ably seconded by that talented actress Miss Beatrice Wilson as Lady Ursula; and these two principals receive hearty calls at the close of each act. All the other principal parts are in good hands, the result being a performance of uniform excellence. David Garrick (Mr. Norman's master part), As You Like It, and Nell Gwynne are also billed.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Deputy-Acting-Manager, Mr. Rhodes Wells.—Rex Fox is causing quite a sensation here in a ventriloquial and musical act on the wire; Penstone and Yson-Ngo are exceptionally clever Chinese illusionists; the Zampas are first-rate vocalists and speciality dancers; a very quaint comedian with good songs is Fred Pollard; Jimmy James gives an enjoyable turn with the banjo and bones; Lily Simons is a charming comedienne; and some good singing is heard when the Brothers Mellor, blind vocalists, appear.

DUMFRIES.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday Mr. Arnold Bell's celebrated company appeared in Ben-Ma-Chree. Dan Mylrea was sustained by Mr. Arnold Bell in a most creditable manner; Mr Frank C. Robson was well placed as Thorkell Mylrea; Mr. Cuthbert Imrie made a capable Gilchrist Mylrea; Mr. F. C. Robson was very good as Mr. Harcourt; Miss Lillian Earle looked captivating as Mona Mylrea; Miss Henley as Nancy was very good; and Miss E. Mack as Liza Teare, Miss Vyner as Kerry, and Miss Violet Campbell as Kitty all filled their parts in a creditable manner. The piece was well staged and good houses were the rule.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sandon Perkins.—Veronique is the most magnificent production we have had here for a long time, and the company under the direction of Mr. George Dance is brilliant in every department. Miss Rita Leonhardt is a bewitching Veronique, and her vocal numbers are received with rapturous applause. Mr. Roland Bottomley as Florestan is a handsome and manly lover; Miss Florence Lee makes a fine appearance as Agatha; Miss Florence Aylwin as the Aunt displays a rich contralto voice, which is most effective; Miss Nesta Laurel acts and sings well as Denise; Mr. Ellis Holland scores a success in the part of Coquenard, his business being excruciatingly funny; Mr. Jack Crichton makes an excellent Roustot; and Mr. Tom Shelford as Seraphim acts, sings, and dances well.

PALACE THEATRE. — Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—The Motramos occupy the place of honour, and create much merriment with their comedy act entitled Do You Reverse? Billy Ross and company introduce a smart boxing item; a very clever juggling act is done by Frank Sylvo; Vasey and Ramsey are a couple of very smart dancers; a pleasing performance on the rings is given by the Lulaine Darrel Trio; Joe Mac is a comedian with original ideas; James Brady scores again with old favourites; Beatty and Blanche are clever song and dance artists; and a good turn is provided by Madame Stentora, a lady baritone. The pictures conclude an enjoyable evening.

EASTBOURNE.—PIER PAVILION. — Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—During the first half of the week Mr. J. Bannister-Howard's company is appearing here in The Eternal City. The exacting part of Roma Volonna is most capably filled by Miss Rona Merrick, who submits an earnest and capable performance. Miss C. Stephens satisfactorily doubles the parts of the Princess Bellini and Francesca, and Miss Mary Mannering and Miss Marie Grey give good help as Elena and Nattalina. Mr. E. Stanton Sharp is a commanding and incisive Baron Bonelli; Mr. Henry Deas a handsome and sympathetic David Rossi; and Mr. J. Fortesque a most appealing and picturesque Pope Pius. Mr. Geo. Cartwright works hard and well as Bruno Rocco; Mr. L. St. G. Lowther gives good assistance as Angelli, chief of police; and the remaining parts are in good hands. During the latter part of the week Mr. Louis Calvert's company is billed to appear in The Duffer.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith. — A capital bill finds a place here twice nightly. The New York Nippers provide plenty of fun, and are very expert dancers; Vernando is a clever and original ventriloquist; Miss Nell Richardson, with pretty face, voice, and dresses, gives a turn that is all too short; Zaro and Arno return again to give their clever and funny bar performance; the Kimberley Boys are a couple of original comedians; the Sisters Bartholomew are songsters and capital dancers; Mr. Fred Mason is a successful comedian and whistler; Mr. Dick Kendal a good dancing comedian; and Mr. Frank Purcell and company provide laughter in a farcical sketch.

ECCLES.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Potasch and Wardle; Manager, Mr. P. Potasch; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Ryan-Smith.—We have a welcome return visit this week of Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey, in The Wearin' o' the Green, and Mr. Mackey is again delighting his Eccles friends with his droll Irish comicalities. Mrs. Mackey again appears in the part of Norah McGrath, which she portrays with dramatic power; Mr. Charles Homer sings well as Shamus McDermott; and Miss Nana Hensberg is bright and vivacious as Biddy McGlinn.

EDINBURGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. William Whitehead.—The favourable impression gained by the first performances of the pantomime The Forty Thieves is amply confirmed by repeated visits. Mr. Wyndham has given his patrons a spectacle which for playful humour and beautiful scenery is in all respects worthy of the reputation of his theatre, and that this opinion is shared by a crowd of playgoers is amply shown by the large audiences which are nightly attracted to the Royal.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is meeting with continued success in The Little Michus at this house. The piece owes a great deal to the humour of Mr. Eric Thorne as General des Ifs and the buoyant style of Mr. Jack Cannot in the character of Bagnolet, as well as to the charm of Miss Iris Hoey and Miss Mabel Green as the Little Michus; Mr. Leonard Mackay is so admirable in the part of Aristide Vert as to inspire regret that he has not more to do, and Mr. Arthur Royd as Gaston, and Mr. Hardley Turner as Pierre Michu are unfailingly good; the opera is indeed sustained down to the smallest character with vivacity and sprightliness.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Eade Montefiore.—The concluding weeks of the Aladdin pantomime's long and successful run are now announced, though the interest in the production shows no symptoms of diminution. The principals continue to receive the most cordial tributes of appreciation and popularity, and the entertainment has been clearly stamped with the hall mark of public favour.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. J. Cawood.—Messrs. Edward Arthur and company take the lead in this week's bill with two scenes from the famous opera The Lily of Killarney, very admirably rendered; another pleasing musical turn is provided by Mr. Will H. Fox with his clever "Paddywhisky at the Piano"; and the Three Sisters Slater sing, dance, and play very agreeably; The Korries also contribute a smart musical act, while the comedy element is supplied by Little Barney, Collins and Rice, Palles and Cusick, and the versatile comedienne Miss Nellie Coleman. Bioscope pictures conclude a liberal programme.

COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. John Henry Cook.—This popular house of entertainment is now nearing the close of its present season, and the sensational Indian spectacle The Scalp Hunters still forms the principal item in a goodly bill; the equestrian and variety part of the programme maintains its usual high standard of excellence, including M. Hubert's dashing jockey act, Paquito's clever educated horse; a smart Continental novelty act, Mdlle. Yvette's performing dogs and ponies, and much amusing work by the clowns; the bio-photoscope adds pleasing and interesting variety to the show.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—The Walls of Jericho is drawing large and appreciative audiences here this week, and it is being presented by Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company, under the direction of Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. M. V. Leveaux. As Jack Frobisher Mr. Herbert Bunston's acting is both powerful and finished; Miss Florence Jackson, who is entrusted with the part of Lady Alethea Frobisher, gives an admirable portrayal; as Hankey Bannister Mr. George A. Brandram man; Miss Rose Helene is an effective Frau Ruder; Miss Nessie Blackford as Frau Dorffell also contributes important aid; and the part of Kathie has an able exponent in Miss Irene Lavington.

GATESHEAD. — King's Theatre. — General Manager, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—None But the Brave is being presented here by Miss Amy F. Hermann's Anglo-American company. Mr. Stanley Bedwell proves himself a clever comedian in the part of Lal Ray; Mr. Herbert Evelyn makes the most of his opportunities as Frank Forrester; Mr. George Herbert makes an excellent Zeke Whittier; Mr. Eric Hudson gives a clever study of the Spanish villain, Emmanuel De Solis; and Major De Vampas is capably portrayed by Mr. Charles E. Sutton. Miss Amy Hermann is seen to great advantage as April Showers; Nellie Whittier is successfully impersonated by Miss Francesa Strickland; and Miss Madge Devereux does well as La Tarantula.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietors, Newcastle and Gateshead Theatres, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Mr. Charles Pilkington's company in Mother Goose is the attraction here. Miss Gracie Graham plays Lubin, and thoroughly delights the audience. Miss Lily Ennis is charming as Daisy; Misses Dorothy Delamere and Cissie Duvan are successful as Peter and Colin respectively; Mr. Ted Young, a prime favourite with Gateshead ians, is quite at home as Mother Goose; Mr. Arthur Gribbin is really clever as Parchment, the wicked lawyer; the Freans as two impossible policemen give an excellent account of themselves; Mr David Fuller is seen to advantage as the Demon Avarice; and Miss Marion De Verne acts well as the Fairy. Specialities are introduced by the Freans and the Moxon Family.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Smith.—We have here this week Mr. T. Edward Ward's company in Her Wedding Day. Seth Mason is capably portrayed by Mr. Ward; Mr. S. Herbert Humber undertakes the part of Weedon Kenyon very creditably; Mr. Percy Brown gives an effective impersonation of Harold Saxby; Jordan P. Jessop, played by Morris Maud, is a very diverting person; and Sam Klink has an excellent exponent in Mr. James Barrett. Too much praise cannot be accorded Miss Ward for her excellent portrayal of Madge Conway; Miss Eva Bertram as Dora also deserves commendation; Miss Beatrice Sinclair scores as Dolly Klink; and Miss Ettie Spalding is successful as Mrs. Caccles.

GLOUCESTER. — Theatre Royal. — Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—Mr. Lingford Carson is presenting the successful play A Modern Adventuress. Mr. Leonard Aardale, who represents the most prominent character, plays in skilful manner; the title-rôle is powerfully enacted by Miss Kate Froude; and Mr. Sydney Grant is excellent as Wallace Dalton. Mr. Louis Edmonde is a capital representative of Harry Delby; Miss Alice Defoe, as his wife Vivette Delby, enlists sympathy by her clever acting; Mr. Stanley F. Champion, as the detective Walter Beal, renders a good account of himself; and Mr. Leonard Montgomery acts in a breezy style as John Crompton. Miss Ivy Chandos is smart as Sally Hodges; and Mr. Frank Orchard is noticeable as Steve Meredith. The cast is completed by Messrs. Frank Wilton, Tom Avery, H. M. Victor, G. Hampton, and F. C. Sutcliffe.

GRAVESEND.—Grand Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. David Hart.—Frank Cumminger, who claims to be the world's record sand-dancer, is particularly well received; the Lurins afford immense amusement in their Abode of Love; Elsie Earle does well; and Ada Vernon scores highly as a burlesque actress; Morritt, "King of Magicians," presents some clever illusions and mysteries; and Fred Neiman, with his ventriloquial minstrels, causes immense fun.

New Public Hall and Theatre.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. Feaver Clarke.—The always diverting Poole's Myriorama is in occupation here this week with an extremely good selection of views. There is also a variety entertainment, consisting of Miss Daisy Graham, with her highly trained collection of birds; Kitty Woodford, with her comic circus of trained dogs; Little Donetta, a bright and winning acrobatic dancer and vocalist; Harry Stewart, character singer, who effects the most rapid changes in sight of the audience; Leonard and Mac, a pair of the best mirth-provoking eccentrics; and the Avondale Quartette, who render a well-selected number of sentimental and comic ballads, and are encored nightly.

GREENOCK.—Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietors, The Greenock Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident Directors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—This week's attraction here is The Earl and the Girl, played by Mr. William Greet's company. Mr. Alfred Donohoe in the part of Jim Cheese is very amusing, and causes much laughter by his drolleries. Mr. Leslie Gaze makes an excellent Dick Wargrave, and sings and dances well. Mr. Thomas Kennard is suited as Hon. Crewe Boodle; Mr. A. E. Wilson is energetic and convincing as A. Bunker Bliss; Mr. Tom J. Edwards does fairly well as Downham; and Mr. Sam Lysons is good as Mr. Talk. Miss Hylda Dugdale is a delightful Elphin Haye, acting, singing, and dancing charmingly. Miss Lina Hicks is a clever exponent of Lizzie Shoddam; Miss Beatrice Anderson is good as Mrs. Black; Miss Ida Stratham is a bright and attractive Daisy Fallowfield; and the part of Virginia Bliss is ably played by Miss Winnie Plumpton.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—The principal turn here this week is W. J. Ashcroft, comedian, assisted by J. W. Morton, and their performance is loudly applauded. Other excellent turns are Mozondos in an eccentric jumping and tumbling act; Scottie's Waifs and Strays in their ballad, Life in the Streets; Ida Gladstone, Canadian contralto; Lambert and Glover in a duologue entitled My Birthday; Clive Watts, dancer; and Voldam Brothers, Dutch eccentric acrobats. The Cinematograph display is first class.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, The Palace Theatre (Greenock) Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Slingsby—Ford and Barras, dancers and bone soloists, head the bill here and give a very good performance. Mona MacDonald, a charming comedienne, is applauded; Tom Collins, comedian, gives a good turn; Los Dorians, gymnasts, are clever; Beattie Kent, comedienne, is applauded; Cliff and Kean do an excellent speciality act; Lidden and Hayward, speciality artists, also do a good turn; Marba and Verity, humorists and dancers, are well received; and the bioscope display is excellent.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Mr. Walter Reynolds' pretty play, Mr. Smith, presented by a thoroughly capable company, has quite charmed the audiences here. Mr. Stephen T. Ewart is admirable in the title-rôle, his acting meeting with universal approval. Miss Rosmond Berkeley's portrayal of Lady Mary is thoroughly in keeping with the character, while Miss Mary Bates and Mrs. Louis Lestrange, as the Duchess of Angleland and Mrs. Smith, win all hearts. Mr. E. Edwin Holloway is quite satisfactory as the libertine; Lord Angleland and his club mates, Dudley Dysart and Jack Berkeley, are capably represented by Mr. Chas. Pilling Baird and Mr. H. Carter Bligh. Mr. Fred Darrell is responsible for quiet but effective humour in the character of the rich brewer. Herr Anheuser, and Mr. Russell Norrie, as the Earl of Oxted, and Miss Fife Alexander, as Ruth Anheuser, are also deserving of mention.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—Irish comedy, as presented by Horace Wheatley, proves a decidedly attractive form of entertainment, his songs and patter being equally good; Arthur Kenny accomplishes some extraordinary feats of jumping whilst mounted on a bicycle; and Ulrick's manipulation of barrels causes some sensation; Zarmo combines with a juggling performance some capital burlesque, which causes roars of laughter nightly; puzzling illusions are introduced by Prince Ishmael; and others who contribute to an excellent programme are Ventom Swift, vocalist and dancer; Doris Lillian, comedienne and dancer; Fred Elrick, who gives an entertaining act at the piano; and Tom Dunmore, comedian.

Curry's Tivoli.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Arthur Saxon Trio of strong men prove a popular attraction here, entertaining large audiences nightly with their wonderful feats of strength; Jake Friedman, "the one man opera," delights his audiences with his amusing songs and patter; Rappo and Ella give a very smart equilibristic turn; the Sisters Llewellyn possess distinctly superior voices, and contribute several operatic selections with pleasing effect; Gracie Taylor proves very popular as a comedienne; the Dunvilles appear with much success in an instrumental entertainment; Stanley and Vandyke present an amusing comedy act, and Sheila McNeil, comedienne, contribute Scottish dialect songs.

The Hippodrome.—General Managers, Messrs. Barnard; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Pease; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Baker.—Daisy de Roy, an old Grimsby favourite, repeats her former successes, her dainty style and elaborate costumes being the subject of much favourable comment. Marionettes, as manipulated by the Sisters Petram, prove a very interesting turn; the audiences are greatly delighted by the dancing of Melita, and the Ongars also give a popular dancing exhibition. Laughable burlesque is supplied by Felton and Manley; and other participators in the programme are the Two Leons, comedians; Ruby Norton, comedienne; Mitzi, juggler; the Camerons, in an absurdity; Bishop and Hanlon, acrobatic comedians; and Stanert and Yondi, in a musical scena.

HALIFAX.—Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—The original Leopolds are doing good business here this week in New Frivolity. Mr. Watson Hume is a humorous Oliver Buckwheat, and is well supported by Mr. Barry Lupino as Sammy. Some astounding acrobatic feats are introduced by the Leopold Bros.

Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Messrs. G. M. Palmi and Austin Melford's company are paying a visit this week with The Silver King. Nothing finer could be desired than Mr. Herbert Ford's interpretation of the heroic Wilfred Denver; while Mr. Edward J. George gives a masterly and convincing assumption of Jaikes. Mr. Algernon J. Hicks excites abhorrence in the character of the spider, and Mr. James L. Power evokes laughter as Henry Corket. Mr. Arthur Wright as Elijah Coombe is admirable, and Miss Daisy Scudamore makes the most of her opportunities as Nelly Denver.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—The star attraction here this week is George Leyton in his grand military song scena Boys of the Chelsea School. Mr. Leyton is adequately assisted by the gallant old Crimean veteran, Francis Curly. After a lengthy absence Leo Tell gives some very realistic imitations of animals; Chas. Ray provides plenty of fun; Mdlle. Fredrica's clever and pretty little terriers, Miss Cordite, world's champion rope spinner, Sidney Dolf, the vocal trickster, the Three Sisters May, Jolly Dutch Girls, and Rose Elliott all win appreciation.

HANLEY.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Charles Howard.—Mr. Smith is the attraction here this week. Mr. Hamilton Stewart as Mr. Smith plays with vigour, and contributes a capital reading of the part. Lady Hildegarde is both sympathetic and natural in the capable hands of Miss Ethel Milton; Mr. Sydnev Price is distinctly successful as the Earl of Oxted; Mr. William Dunlop makes the most of his allotted part; Miss Mary Relph as the Duchess of Angleland represents the mother of Lady Hildegarde admirably; the millionaire's daughter finds a worthy exponent in Miss Phillis Relph; Mrs. Alfred Davis as the mother of Mr. Smith is well-placed; and Mr. Austin Spencer scores as Jack Berkeley.

Grand.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Alfred Edwardes.—Bella and Bijou head the bill here. Newhouse and Ward are comedy cyclists of much ability; Haig and Novel in their comedy act are as funny as ever; Charles F. Best in his burlesques or strong men, &c., is most amusing; Harry Wenburn meets with success; Gracie Merton renders her songs cleverly; J. W. Ellison is a comedian of ability; and the grand pictures by Urbanora include interesting illustrations of the life of the bee.

HARTLEPOOL.—Empress.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Craggs; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—The bill here is headed by the Mannings, who, although they have been seen here on a previous occasion in their Turkish Bath absurdity, are received with more uproarious laughter than ever. Ada Fawn obtains a flattering reception from her admirers. Another turn which is welcomed as heartily as ever is that by the Frantz family of marvellous acrobats. Olive Veno's dancing is the acme of dexterity. Songs that appeal to all are well sung by Mr. J. B. Nobel; Vesta Whelan, a young singer with a remarkably strong and clear voice; W. H. Morgan, a vocalist who is equally at home in serio or comedy; and an interesting series of pictures on the Bioscope are also on the programme.

HASTINGS. — Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr Charles E. Scull. — Messrs. Murray King and Clark's company is here this week in Bluebell in Fairyland. Miss Gladys Cooper enacts the rôle of the London flower-girl with much pathos and pleasing simplicity, and her champion, Dicky, is smartly played by Mr. Lawrence Emery. Mr. Percy Farramond, the singing collier, supplies a special interlude, and arouses enthusiastic applause. Mr. Fred F. Allen makes a comic policeman, and afterwards enacts the Sleepy King. Messrs. H. C. Morton and E. Cossart make merriment in their appearances as the Footmen and the Schoolboys. Mr. Stanley Crisp appears as Peter, the cat, and later as the Spiteful Sparrow. Mr. Albert Mac is the second cat, and gets later much applause as the Thrush. Miss Minnie Blanchard is a pleasing Good Fairy, and later as the Autumn Leaf gained much applause for a pas-seul. Miss Muriel Juin sings exceptionally well, and is much applauded. Miss Ruby Carter as Will-o'-the-Wisp dances gracefully, and Mr. Chauncey Morris makes a good burlesque king. The Yellow Dwarf is enacted by Mr. Edgar Pleon, and the benevolent Mr. Joplin has a good exponent in Mr. David Cruikshank, who also stage-managed.

HOYLAND. — Metropole Theatre. — Owner, Arthur Carlton's Theatres, Ltd.; Lessee and Manager, Geo. S. King.—On Monday, Mr. Charles Harrington presented Uncle Tom's Cabin. Mr. J. Carr, in the rôle of the good old nigger, is greatly applauded. As Legree, Mr. J. H. Rogers makes the most of his part. Mr. J. H. Renny as Phineas Fletcher, and Mr. Walter Langford as Marks, are good; and Messrs. S. Howard, L. Beaufort, and John Gibson, as Mr. St. Clair, George Harris, and Mr. Wilson, are capable in their respective parts. Miss H. Johnson as Eliza Harris is interesting, Aunt Ophelia is well taken by Miss J. Malcolm, Miss Annie Watson causes much amusement as Topsy; and Little Minnie as Little Eva is very popular. Miss Carrie Ellis is excellent as Emmeline; and in the rôle of Cassy, Miss Zerlina Zerbini gives a very fine study. In the plantation scene, Miss May Vincent (vocalist), W. H. Nott (tenor), Ikey Jones (eccentric dancer), W. Langford (banjoist), and Shorty May appear, and are ably assisted by a large number of coloured people. The scenic effects and staging are very good.

HUDDERSFIELD. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy G. Arthur.—The bright, dainty freshness of The Little Michus has fairly captivated local playgoers, and Mr. George Dance's company is having a cordial reception. There is excellent singing by the two bewitching little Michus, Miss Alice Coverick and Miss Gracie Sinclaire; also by Mr. Gerald Clifford as Gaston. The fun perpetrated by that arch-humourist Mr. Leslie Holland as General des Ifs, loyally supported by Mr. Cecil Clayton as Bagnolet and Mr. T. E. Conover and Miss Maisie Gay as Monsieur and Madame Michu, sets the house rocking with laughter. Mr. D. FitzGibbon is good as Aristide, and there is some pretty dancing by Mdlle. Marjorie. The chorus, smart singers and well dressed, are a real help. The bright music is admirably played under the alert guidance of Mr. Victor Champion.

Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The Barra Troupe of Accomplished Musical Humorists are an easy first in this week's bill, which also includes Fred Villiers, comedian; Fields and Lewis, comedy sketch artists; the Hugo Troupe of Novelty Acrobats; Miss Emmie Ames, comedienne; Zasma and Louie, gymnasts; Charlie Deane, comedian; Chas. Baldwin's Pantomimists in the sketch The Bank Clerks; and the Hippodrome Pictures.

HULL.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—The Prince of Pilsen, presented by Mr. George Musgrove's company, is here this week, and is proving very popular. Mr. Edwin Adeler as Herr Wagner gives a humorous portrayal of the character; Mr. Stuart Alexander as the Prince sings and acts in a creditable manner; and Mr. G. Villiers Arnold is seen and heard to advantage in the rôle of Lieutenant Wagner.—Miss Mabel Osborn is very dainty as the brewer's daughter, and is an effective vocalist; Miss Mildred Baker is pretty and charming as Edith Adams; Miss Nellie Cozens is a handsome Mrs. Crocker, being especially acceptable as a singer; Miss Nell Emerald gives a clever study of the French maid, and is extremely popular; Mr. Alfred Selby also contributes much fun as François; Mr. Lawrence Wenley's assumption of the rôle of the Earl of Shrimpton deserves great praise.

Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—After an absence of only eight weeks, Lucky Durham, presented by Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company is paying a return visit here. The company is precisely the same as on its former visit, and is headed by Mr. Edmund Kennedy, who sustains the character of John Durham with great skill, and confirms the good impression he previously made. Miss Gertrude Robins is charming and delightful as Helen Vallerton; and Miss Florence Dalhunty invests the rôle of Margaret Steighton with much interest. Mr. Benson North makes a most acceptable Lord Mountfallon; and Mr. Arthur Leigh as the Hon. Reginald deserves much praise. Miss Louise Gourlay creditably fills the rôle of Mrs. Durham; and Miss Frances Wolviston gives a dignified rendering of Lady Mountfallon. Mr. A. E. Walker is seen to advantage as Mr. Vallerton; and other parts are in capable hands.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietors, Mortons, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. George Morton.—A welcome change has been provided at this theatre by Mr. James Kiddie's pantomime company, with Little Aladdin, which has entered upon a fortnight's run. The pantomime, which is full of fun and frolic, is meeting with great success, and is under the personal management of the author, Mr. Joseph L. Barry, who can always be relied upon for a bright and vigorous production. Miss Marie Beresford is an excellent principal boy, and is loudly encored for her popular songs; Miss Cecilia Gold is charming and graceful as the Princess; Miss Emmie Milstead makes a good impression with her coon songs and clever dancing. Foremost amongst the comedians is Mr. Arthur Aiston, who as Abanazar immediately establishes himself a favourite; Mr. W. G. Wesley as the Widow is very amusing; and Mr. Joe Bell as Washee contributes some enjoyable business. Mr. D. J. McCarthy is seen to advantage as the Emperor; and Messrs. Will and Tom Kelso as policemen are clever and humorous.

New Empire.—Moss Empires, Ltd. Acting-Manager, Mr. John S. Barnett.—Ahmed Madrali, the wrestler, and troupe provide a strong attraction here. Holden's Mannikins gave a clever Marionette performance. Harry Clifford is an acceptable character vocalist, and the baritone voice of Geo. Ridgwell is much admired. Arthur Melrose is a popular whistling comedian, and the sisters Hayden sing with good effect. Other artists include Flem and Brok, Goggin and Davis, and Prince Fee Lung.

The Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—Haley's Prize Juveniles in a carnival of songs and dances make a welcome first appearance in Hull. Coley Grant and Mamie Grant, in some smart American songs and dances, are popular. A hearty welcome is accorded Gus Harris in two of his latest successes. Sisters Volbecque are old favourites in Hull, and their songs gain much applause. Billy Martin Luigg, a local artist, has a good reception. An excellent programme is completed by Marie Gibson and Wake and Dean.

The Circus.—Resident Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—Animated pictures are being presented here.

ILKESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Arthur Gibbon's company is here in the pantomime Little Red Riding Hood. The title-part has a very suitable representative in Miss Ruby Lester. Miss Janet Lawton as Prince Bountiful secures many admirers, and Miss Nina Terri as Maid Marion is highly successful, her dancing being both smart and graceful. Mr. J. Banks as Johnny Stout is amusing, and Mr. Chas. Ellis scores as Tommy Thin. As Dame Marjory Mr. D'Arcy Kelway is conspicuous; Mr. Chas. Honey makes a good Baron Badenough; Miss Rose Salisbury as the Wolf deserves praise; and the Three French Idols are clever dancers.

INVERNESS.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Cameron Burgess.—Miss Lillie Mowbray's company is here this week with Cinderella. Miss Ethel Burns makes a dashing Prince Elegant; Miss Fay Garnet Voyne, as Cinderella, is petite and pretty; Miss Eva Dumante, as Fairy Lightheart, acts and sings well; Miss Madge Browne and Mr. Tom Read are good as the Baron's pet daughters; Mr. Will Wilson, as Peter, the Baron's page, makes the part an outstanding one; the Baron is played by Mr. Lester Reekie, who shows undoubted ability; the Boston Twins, as Sheriff Officers, are amusing. Special variety turns include smart dancing, and tricks by cleverly trained dogs and ponies. Altogether a bright and attractive pantomime.

IPSWICH.—Lyceum Theatre.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Jennings.—The pantomime of Cinderella has been played here during the week by a company organised by Mr. James Kiddie. The part of Pimples, the page, is capitally played by Mr. Frank Dunlop, and the Baron has a humorous representative in Mr. Dick Thomas. Miss Adele Roze is a graceful and pretty Cinderella, her singing evoking much applause. The Ugly Sisters are personated with much cleverness by Messrs. Steve and Sidney Benson; Miss Zena Pana is a smart Dandini. Others contributing to the success of the performance are Miss Rose Pareczer, Miss Fanny Hartland, Miss Nellie Barrell, Miss Polly Kiddie, and Messrs. Houpla and Heda.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—One of the chief items in the bill here is the diverting sketch entitled Fun at the Zoo, given by the Donaldson Brothers and Ardel. A troupe of Continental artists, called the Schiavonys, accomplish some clever acrobatic feats; Angeline, termed the "female Cinquevalli," justifies her title by her marvellous juggling performances; Nora Emerald, soubrette and dancer, pleases the audience; and Kate Blanche, in a sketch called Grave and Gay, is very satisfactory; Madame Collard introduces her burlesque lions and tigers in an amusing act entitled Robinson Crusoe and His Pets; and a couple of vaudeville artists, Bert Oakley and Polly James, have made a decided hit; Wilson Blackledge also in vocal imitations and recitations receives deserved applause.

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. G. Jefferson.—Hardie and Von Leer's company is paying a visit here with a powerful drama entitled A Path of Thorns. Mr. W. Frazan gives a manly portrayal of John Edmunds, and Mr. T. Gilbert Fenn is quite at home as the Rev. Frank Selby. Mr. Gordon Kay Bull does full justice to the part of Jonas Deane, Mr. Frank Gordon gives a capital embodiment of Jim Price, and Mr. H. Wright ably assists as Ratty Gabbitt; Mr. Chris Manson serves as Sam Hallett. Miss Kitty Lofting is well placed as Constance Howard, while Miss Emil Leslie's Nellie Hallett deserves praise. Miss Muriel Dean is a charming Bessie Edmunds, Miss Marion Ryder is good as Lucy, while Miss Evelyn Shaw makes the most of the part of Jane Adelaide.

KENDAL.—St. George's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. R. F. Chorley; Manager, Mr. J. W. Butler.—Mr. Ian McLaren's company opened on the 1st with Hamlet. Mr. McLaren submitted a careful study of the Prince, and in the dramatic passages he displays histrionic abilities of a high order; the pathetic Ophelia of Miss Gertrude Gilbert was also a very creditable effort; Miss F. G. Harris's excellent portrayal of Queen Gertrude stood out as a performance of marked ability; whilst Mr. Stanley Roberts as Horatio, Mr. Paul Lovett as Laertes, and Mr. B. Iden Payne as Polonius ably filled these important parts. Mr. Aubrey Mather gives an admirable impersonation of Claudius. On Friday, David Garrick was staged, when Mr. McLaren had a capital reception in the title-rôle, and was well supported by Mr. J. B. Payne as Alderman Brackson, and Miss G. Gilbert as Mabel Brackson. On Saturday evening, The Merchant of Venice occupied the boards.

KIDDERMINSTER. — New Opera House.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. James P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon, jun.—We have here this week an excellent pantomime entitled Cinderella, produced by the Midland Syndicate. Miss Evelyn Desa gives a charming impersonation of Cinderella, and her songs are sung in good style; Miss Lillie Monckton is a popular Prince Charming; Miss Josephine Freece's Dandini is all that can be wished; the Fairy Godmother has a good representative in Miss G. Every. As the Baron Mr. Cecil Fredericks is full of humour. Mr. Billy Jackson and Mr. Herbert Grapho as Flossie and Araminta, the Baron's daughters, are very funny. Messrs. Duncan and Morton keep the audience in roars of laughter as Cop'em and Grab'em.

KILKENNY. — New Theatre. — Manager, Mr. J. I. Brown.—Mr. Leigh Lovel, Miss Octavia Kenmore, and company, opened on Tuesday in Sydney Grundy's Sowing the Wind. Mr. Lovell, as Mr. Brabazon, is to be complimented on a fine performance; Miss Octavia Kenmore is excellent as Rosamund; other members of the company do justice to their respective parts. For the rest of the week, In the Soup and The Duke of Killicrankie were announced.

KIRKCALDY. — King's Theatre.—Managing Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Rex Sugden.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Maclaren's company is presenting Proof here this week. Mr. F. H. De Quincey gives a strong impersonation of the part of Pierre Lorance; and praise should also be bestowed upon Miss Lucy Prittie-Tydd as Adrienne, and Mr. William Dexter as Lazare; Miss May Grimshaw is good as Valentine; Mr. Wilford does good work and is most humorous as Chamboran; and Mr. Terence Nerrey as the Duke, Miss Dorothy White as the Duchesse, Miss Phena Powell as Madame Duprets, and Mr. G. Garnet Vane as Victor are all well suited.

LANCASTER.—Athenæum. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hy. Wilkinson.—This week the Ian Maclaren Shakespearean Répertoire is here with a round of plays, which includes Hamlet, David Garrick, Romeo and Juliet, The Corsican Brothers, The Merchant of Venice, and The Three Musketeers. Hamlet was played on Monday evening, with Mr. Ian Maclaren in the title-rôle and Miss Gertrude Gilbert as Ophelia.

LEAMINGTON. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—After a short interval, The Girl from Japan paid a return visit at the beginning of the week. Mr. Ernest Spalding as the forlorn Curate, Mr. Charles L. Ludlow as the ubiquitous Bingle, and Mr. Percy Baverstock as the fierce General formed an inimitable trio of comedians; while from a musical point of view distinction was added by the songs of Mr. George Hudson in the part of Lord Allenburg, and Miss Dorothy Glenton, who made a charming Violet; the graceful dancing of Miss Josephine Ellis gained her deserved honours. For Thursday and following nights Mr. Norman Macowan and company, in Monsieur Beaucaire and A Soldier of Fortune were billed.

LEEDS.—Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—Babes in the Wood continues its highly successful course, many new additions of tuneful song and humorous interlude having been made. Mr. G. H. Elliott, the clever coon specialist, has made a big hit with new items, and continues on excellent terms with the audience; Miss Hilda Jacobsen is a bright and popular principal boy, and the principal girl of Miss Katie May is a fascinating performance; Miss Ivey Roze and Miss Kitty Lindley, with increased opportunities, continue to gain in public favour, and the very excellent vocal work of Miss Hebe Bliss as the Good Fairy is much admired; Mr. Arthur Stigant as the Dame contributes largely to the humour of the pantomime; Carlton is very successful with his card manipulation; and Mr. J. W. Rowley, The Anartos, and Mr. Frank Calvert arouse hearty laughter in their different specialties.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—Mr. John Tiller's excellent pantomime Jack and Jill continues to delight all comers, and there is no diminution in the hosts of pleasure seekers which throng the house at every performance. Several new songs have been added, and the comedians continue to elaborate their parts with increasing success.

Queen's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Levy and Mr. J. E. Cardwell's fairy pantomime Beauty and the Beast, played by a clever juvenile company, is here this week, and is drawing big houses. Miss Kitty Trewhitt and Miss Dolly Dodds play Prince Charming and Beauty with exceptional grace, and Miss Mona Townshend and Miss Isa Gibson are also very capable little actresses; Masters J. G. Aitken, Fred Ellis, Freddy Bently, and Tot Hunter are displaying much humour, and Miss May Gibson, the Good Fairy, is an excellent vocalist. Thursday saw a bumper benefit to Mr. Charles Bush, the indefatigable and popular acting-manager, at this cosy suburban theatre. A monster programme of good things was presented in addition to the pantomime, Mr. Bush himself playing a prominent part in an impromptu entertainment.

Empire Palace.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—The chief attraction this week is Staley's Novelty Transformation, a marvellous quick-change musical act, which is much enjoyed. The Empire Comedy Four have a smart entertainment, and are deservedly popular; Clemart, the ventriloquist, introduces a very original show, and Griff is vastly amusing with a combination of expert juggling and excellent fooling; Bijou Russell is a pleasing song and dance artist; James Fawn, the favourite comedian, is again having a good time, and an excellent example of the up-to-date comedy duo appear in Fraser and Mac. The Musical Royal Six, vocalists and instrumentalists, A Bo-Kou, juggler, and the pictures finish an enjoyable programme.

Tivoli.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Managers, Mr. Charles Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—The Musical Jees head a good bill here with their mirth-provoking act The Scarecrow; Martin Conway is again popular with smart songs and comicalities; The Waldrons are seen in clever comedy act; King's College Boys dispense harmony to the satisfaction of all; The Henris do some expert club juggling; Hughes and Elliott and E. J. Wilks are smart vocal jokers; The Two Erralls shine as comedy acrobats; enjoyable comedy is supplied by The Louberts, and Billie Burford, vocalist. Frances and Letty, burlesque artists and specialty dancers, complete the bill.

LEICESTER.—Royal Opera House.—Sole Proprietor, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. M. Slater.—A most enjoyable attraction is presented here this week in a welcome return visit of Mr. George Dance's company, in the musical play, The Duchess of Dantzic, which was beautifully staged and dressed. Miss May Glenn has made a conspicuous success in the title-part, both her acting and singing winning the highest admiration; Mr. Leonard F. Griffiths is also to be highly complimented on his success as Sergeant Francois Lefebvre; a clever character-sketch of Napoleon is given by Mr. Gilbert Yorke, his make-up and general bearing in the part being very good. Other artists who are also to be singled out for embodiments of merit are Mr. Gilbert Childs as Papillon, Mr. J. H. Goldsworthy as Vicomte de Bethune, Miss E Derwent as the Empress Josephine, Miss Violet Blyth as the Grand Duchess of Berg, Miss Maisie Blyth as Princess Borghese, Miss Maggie White as Renee de Saint Mezard, and Miss Buena Bent as Lizette. There are an excellent chorus and orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. Sydney Shaw.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Winstanley; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. M. Slater; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. C. Candler.—Nothing but unstinted praise can be bestowed on the artists engaged in Mr. James Kiddie's pantomime of Dick Whittington, which entered on its concluding week here on Monday. Miss Bessie Willow has won the affections of all by her smart and dashing portrayal as Dick, and Miss Maggie Summerson scores a success with a dainty performance as Alice; a big hit has been made by Miss Florence Hilton as Sir Algernon de Mash, her vivacious and spirited singing of popular songs earning for this clever lady a rich reward. Laughter loud and long is evoked by Mr. Charles Dillon as Amelia Florence, Mr. Will Summerson as Idle Jack, and Messrs. Clifton and Gibson as Silly Peter and Lazy Larry. Mr. Cyril Dundas is very good as Alderman Fitzwarren, and Mr. W. V. Vido has proved popular as the Cat. The outstanding feature of the specialities are Curtis and Vanity, who arouse enthusiastic applause for their cake walk dance. The Sisters Kilner, three charming young ladies, give some exceedingly pretty dances; the Saxon Trio of dancers are also to be highly complimented on their "show." Both Mr. Archie J. Milne as Rodento and Mdlle. Marchani as Concordi sing well.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leonard Vidal.—The great attraction here this week is Mr. George Gray and company, who are presenting, with the usual big success, The Fighting Parson. The coster romance, Me and 'Er, as presented by Minnie Duncan and Arthur Godfrey, is a delightful trifle, which affords the audience great pleasure and amusement; Professor Dunning is a ventriloquist whose clever and entertaining show is always heartily welcomed; Kokin, an artistic Japanese juggler, pleases the audience with his wonderful dexterity and smartness; Fred Poplar sings his songs in a style which arouses the merriment of all; Kahn and Kahn bewilder all with their modern necromancy. Others who entertain with much success are Kitty Wager, vocalist; Hardy Drew, bass vocalist; and Sadie Simpson, comedienne.

Pavilion Theatre. — Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—Fred Southern and his sketch company entered on the third week of their record engagement and record business on Monday, and are presenting two sketches, viz., The Poacher's Wife and Lashed to the Mast, in which the chief parts are well sustained by Mr. Fred Southern, Mr. Percy Emery, Miss Florence Creagh, Miss Gipsy Alexander, Mr. Chris. Redgrave, and Charles Ashwell. It is remarkable the popularity that has been attained here by Mr. Southern's company. The Paolias, introducing gymnastics, feats of strength, posing, &c., are very smart; the Casino Girls, vocalists and brass and string instrumentalists, give an enjoyable turn; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope is a special feature; Harry Hale, comedian, is well received; Minnie Dawn, comedienne and dancer, also entertains.

LEIGH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Dewhurst; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Dewhurst.—Mr. T. Morton Powell's company is here on a second visit with the drama Honour Thy Father. Mr. J. W. Evelyn gives an exceedingly fine performance of Gabriel Garth; Mr. Clavering Craig acts the rôle of Sir Duncan Bly with much realism; Mr. Douglas B. Watson gives an effective study of Jack Halyard. The drolleries of the piece are safely entrusted to Mr. W. M. Cameron as Mike Copplestone and Mr. W. H. Melrose as Ned Pennycomquick. Miss Mabel Coleman contributes a charming portrayal of Lillian Garth, Miss

NEW PARTHENON.—Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—At the top of the programme here this week is the popular Harry Taft, the quaint American comedian, with latest songs. Syd Bird and Walter Arnold remain another week, delighting everyone with their illustrated songs; some remarkably smart juggling is done by Friscari; Smiler Lee has some excellent songs, dances, and stories; two Liverpool lads, Davies and Roberts, discovered by Mr. Smith playing in the streets, gave a most satisfactory turn as dancers and players on tin whistles, spoons, &c.; and the Sisters Ford (Cissie and Queenie) are a couple of accomplished character duettists. The Tuesday matinées here continue to prove popular.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The dramatic sketch this week is London's Curse, by E. Hoggan-Armadale. Mr. Percy Boucher, whose stock company has now enjoyed a long and successful run here, produces it, Mr. Boucher himself assuming the character of Mussels.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Included in an excellent programme here this week is the laughable absurdity, The Captain's Daughter, presented by Mr. W. L. Lee and company. It has created roars of laughter. Drum and Major, a smart pair of versatile artists, have a good comedy speciality act; Ella Bourne, an accomplished comedienne, pays a return visit; Leo Best, a comedian with some good points, makes a first appearance; Horace Sade executes some remarkable dancing; and Jack Harris, possessed of a capital baritone voice, sings a number of acceptable songs.

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palaces, Liverpool, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—At the top of the bill is Belle Davies with her interesting "Pick Chick Actors." The marvellous banjo playing by the Miltons is loudly applauded; Ivy Leafe is a dainty comedy artist; as vocal duettists and dancers the Campoens are a good turn; the Rolands give an interesting show in physical culture; a unique and refined naval act is provided by Captain Ralston, assisted by Miss Francis and company; and Rose Cass sings several aceptable songs.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The popular Ella Dean is here this week with her latest pieces, and has had a hearty re-welcome, being much appreciated in Liverpool. Brady and Johnston and company cause endless laughter with their absurdity, Turning the Tables; Yorkshire Tom shows great powers as a mimic; Akbar performs some clever work with the silver rings; Frances Lyric sings and dances neatly; and as the aristocratic ragman at the piano Tony Iveson is extremely funny.

WESTMINSTER.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Mongomery.—The Three Deveres are at the head of the bill here this week with their smart comedy act. E. Wordley, Hulse, and company command much attention with their sketch, The Fight in the Forge; Pulo is a smart young juggler; as a comedy tramp cartoonist Carl Osmond is good; Tom Brantford, a clever and witty comedian and raconteur, affords much pleasure with his "The one-man band"; Kitty Lewis sings and dances delightfully; and Bert Holmes renders several popular songs.

OLYMPIA.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—In big type here this week is the wonderful animal act by Richard Sawade's lions, dogs, bears, and tigers, which has been witnessed by highly pleased audiences. Frank Bertram and company have a lively comedy sketch, The Chaperon; the Bros. Leslie provoke screams of laughter with their trifle, A Cure for Lockjaw; the Three Merrils provide a merry episode on wheels; a neat comedy act, Old Daddy Watchman, is gone through by Payne's Little Vagabonds; Helen Martin sings several pleasing songs; Frobel and Ruge are a pair of droll comedians; a smart comedy turn is provided by Mueller and Coyne; and Dan Conroy as a comedian puts in some good work.

LOUGHBOROUGH.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and George Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsey Edwards.—Mr. Henry Swinerd's Dare-Devil Dorothy company is this week paying a welcome return visit, and is affording great enjoyment. Mr. C. W. Parke makes a manly Captain George Fielding, acting with ability; the heavy rôle of Captain Edward Dudley is in the capable hands of Mr. Henry C. Ward; Miss D. Desmond plays the part of Dorothy Montrose with plenty of dash and spirit, and renders her songs in excellent style. Both Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith, and Mr. Arthur Verne as Silas Crump are most amusing, and the Misses Mabel Blake and Nellie Anderson introduce some clever dancing.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Galby.—Messrs. Ernest Chesney, Arthur C. Sanderson, and Miss Bessie Elma's company is here with the successful drama The Power and the Glory. Mr. A. Fitz maurice is admirably suited to the part of Harry Goodluck, Mr. Reginald Fox is successful as Harold Hartree, Mr. Arthur Rodney as Ferdinand Crayle makes the most of his part, and as Johnnie Mr. Douglas Hutchins is capital. Miss Flo. Florence is good as Linda, the blind girl. Owing to the illness of Miss Bessie Elma, Miss Ada Salmon is entrusted with the part of Kate Goodluck, and right well does she sustain the rôle; Miss May Lovett as Lizzie Medwin is charming. Messrs. Jack Bigwood as Tommy Jinks, Henry Gilpin as Jacob Hardbake, and the Misses Lizzie Lennon as Ina Goodluck, and M. Le Ruy as Bessie Goodluck are responsible for the humorous element.

MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester.—Woodward's sea-lions are causing quite a furore here this week, their tricks being very amusing. The sketch The Registry Office as played by Matt. Wilkinson and company, is funny; Mr. H. J. Kisbey, in The Call-Boy, causes great amusement; Miss Evelyn Taylor, comedienne, and Mr. Bert Marsden, comedian, are popular. Miss Elsie Roby, comedienne, is also included in the bill.

MANCHESTER.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—Mr. Fred Karno's pantomime Cinderella is here this week after a successful run at the Gaiety, Dublin. It is well staged and a bright entertainment throughout. Miss Annie Purcell, well-known in musical comedy, is altogether delightful as Prince Alexis. She acts and sings well, and is particularly successful in the pretty songs "Shine Little Glowworm" and "Moonshine." A more pleasing Cinderella than Miss Lulu Louden would be difficult to find, and Miss Lilian Lea makes a dashing Dandini, and sings "Come on, boys," with plenty of go. The low comedy part of Sally is well done by Miss Muriel Palmer. Miss Rosa Snell is nice as the Secretary, and little Gladys Francis is a very promising juvenile. Comedians are well to the front, and cause no end of fun, perhaps the most successful being Mr. William Gourlay as Pepper, Mr. Alex. Keith as the Baron, and Messrs Fred Winn and Austin Lenton as the Ugly Sisters. Messrs. James Fletch and Fred Palmer as the broker's men are also funny, and wonderfully clever and amusing is Mr. Fred Whittaker as the Cat. The Canadian Comedy Four are sweet singers, Miss Alma Mary is a clever and graceful dancer, and Vaughan Neale's Aerial Ballet is pretty. The scenery and dresses are excellent, and the orchestra is under the energetic baton of Mr. Clement Locknam, who has composed most of the music.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Mr. Bulmer's company presented here this week what is described as "the greatest of all convict dramas," Sentenced for Life, by Frank Bateman. Mr. Arthur Keand is very good as Lieut. Roy Stillwell, the hero, who emerges triumphantly from the evil machinations of Capt. Paul Derrick, a character capably portrayed by Mr. Ernest Vaughan. Miss Madge Douglas makes a charming and vigorous heroine, and Miss Mary Dalby makes the most of the rôle of Kate Rennell. Two "komical" convicts are depicted by Messrs. A. Horton and Reg. Oldroyd, while Mr. Dan Taylor makes an excellent Warder Blake. Others who do well are Mr. Jas. F. Firth, Mr. T. C. Glenville, and Mr. R. Brancepeth-Nevill.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—An excellent programme here this week includes Witty Watty Walton, in tales and songs, Hayde's clever Vaudeville Theatre, the Sisters Williams, accomplished Welsh duettists; Henderson, a clever blind musician; Chas. Ashdowne, the india-rubber comedian; Dwight and Son, singers, dancers, and instrumentalists; Chris Masters, character vocalist; Amy Tilley's Minstrels, in up-to-date songs and business; and Will Souls, a cheerful variety artist.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. B. Broadhead.—The Beast and the Beauty, by Fredk. Melville, is the attraction here this week, presented by a company under the direction of the author. Mr. Fred D. Davis and Miss Alice Bowes play heroic parts with distinction, and others who distinguish themselves in a clever cast are Mr. Bernard J. Lieil, Mr. Bernard Mervyn, Mr. Will Corrie, Mr. Harry Wimpany, Mr. Ronald Adair, Mr. Harry Soton, Miss Jessie Danvers, and Miss G Thierry. The staging is very good, and the play adds to the reputation of the author.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. A. Jordison; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. S. Nicholas.—Mr. T. Morton Powell's company are here this week in the attractive dramatic novelty, Greed of Gold, by H. R. Silva. An excellent interpretation is given, the principal exponents being Mr. Bert Fox, Miss Nelson Ramsey, and Mr. H. Carmichael.

PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—The top turn here this week is Yukio Tani, the famous Japanese wrestler, who gives examples of the Ju-Jitsu style against all comers. A good turn also is that of the Four Avocas, in a new operatic scena depicting the interior of a coal-mine; excellent also is George Gilbey, the favourite comedian, in his latest successes; white capital business is contributed by Geo. Penn, comedian; Lozelle, sensational gymnast; Charles Cass, character vocalist; Cyclumina, in an electrical cycle act; Bertha Winder, smart clog dancer; Henry A. Moore, a clever mimic of popular comedians; and Jack Pleasants, a droll comedian.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Will Collins.—Fred Karno's latest creation, Moses and Son, is the big attraction here this week. The inimitable Fred Kitchen, one of our greatest comedians, as Perkins, causes roars of laughter the whole of the time he occupies the stage. The sketch from start to finish is highly amusing, and considerably above the average. Others who take prominent parts are Miss Leah Morris (who is capital as Rebecca), Mr. Herbert Landeck, and the Misses Rosa Abrahams, Kate Forster, and Janet Reeve. Mr. and Mrs. Lucas appear in scenes from Dickens, and are well received; Paul Powell's electrical marionettes are most elaborate; the Sisters Geretti do some exceedingly smart tricks on the trapeze; Morton and Elliott are wonderful paper manipulators and good singers; Ruth Molloy is a good mimic, and Harry Brown is a capital coloured comedian. The Bioscope pictures are excellent.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—The Redskins remains here a second week, and is attracting large audiences. The Courtiers are the latest combination of entertainers, and are very successful, their singing being very enjoyable. James Macdonald and Valeni Huntingdon are delightful duettists and triple-time dancers, Derenda and Green are exceedingly clever club manipulators, and Mattie Wicks is a pleasing vocalist. The Two Bostons, as usual, have some excellent business, Mdlle Chalon is a most graceful equilibrist, and the Vernon Quartette of lady vocalists are good singers. "The Great Jewel Robbery" is shown on the Bioscope, and Mr. Tom Grundy sings "Pal of Mine," assisted by the choristers.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Excellent and well-received turns here this week are Harry Reynolds's Minstrel Quintette in gems of American minstrelsy, and Ray and Calden in an exceedingly amusing and clever act, entitled Peculiarities. Other good turns are Robert Gilbert's troupe of well-trained dogs and cats; Massona, juggler; John Val, comedian and dancer; Myra Stansfield, comedienne; Florrie St. Roy, comedienne and acrobatic dancer; Minnie Dare, comedienne and dancer; and Amy Elcock, comedienne and dancer. Raymond's Vivagraph completes.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Mr. H. A. Jordison's pantomime of the Babes in the Wood, recently seen in Manchester, is presented here this week to delighted audiences. Miss Madge Daly, Miss Nancy Thornton, and Mr. Rowland Hill are prominent in a capable and lengthy cast.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Menotti, the "Stockholm Wonder," introduces a sensational novelty in wire-walking here this week. A single wire, upon which the performer rides a bicycle, is arranged to revolve at a rate of forty miles an hour. The Five M.P.'s give a good musical performance on various instruments, the veteran Billy Richardson shows that he is still in possession of much of his old mirth-provoking ability, Kendrick and Laura sing and dance well. Lilian Doric is a graceful trapeze artist, Lottie Abbey (a refined vocalist) meets with much success, Harry Walker tells quaint stories in an amusing way, Rice and Rudge offer a funny cycle act, Daisy Almer sings and dances satisfactorily, and a series of animated pictures complete.

HIPPODROME (Hulme).—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The Narows, two very clever comedy trick cyclists and acrobats, head the bill here this week, and provide a smart turn. J. W. Rickaby, the comedian of "I've bought the coal" fame, is very popular, and the efforts of Bert Weston, comedian, also meet with much applause. The Marion Sisters are dainty juvenile vocalists, and are greatly appreciated; the Stoll Brothers are capital bar performers and burlesque wrestlers, Lily Gaston is a very smart top-boot dancer, and the Sultan Brothers are clever comedy acrobats. Other entertaining items are provided by the Cellos, in a novel musical act, and Bertha Stuart, a Scotch vocalist. The Bigamist is depicted on the Bioscope.

MANSFIELD.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Morella and Jennings; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Metcalf.—Good houses are again the rule at this popular playhouse, and a good programme is presented. Tom Herman's company presents Defending the Colours, in which seventy local children take part. Ward and Wylie give an amusing turn, introducing song, dance, and acrobatic gyrations; Miss Lily Pender, comedienne, pleases the audience with her singing; and Bob Pearson, comedy humorist, is heartily applauded. Bandoni, the concertina king, is much appreciated; and the Reays, equilibrists, do some skilful balancing. The Bio-Photoscope is still here, and give an entire change of pictures.

MARGATE.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. P. Howells.—The Three Romos, the modern gladiators, take first place on the programme this week, and their clever performance is vociferously applauded. Onda and Leon give a wonderfully smart comedy triple bar act; Rosie Lloyd is a vivacious comedienne; Guy Rider is a talented whistler; Thornbury is an old Margate favourite with some new features in his entertainment; Ruffell's Bioscope is responsible for three excellent pictures; and Ethel May, singer and dancer, also contributes.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson. The Life of a Showman, played by Mr. G. T. Sante and Company is here this week. Mr. Sante, who plays the title-rôle, accomplishes some clever feats with heavy weights; the Bros. Sante produce a comic interlude with much success; the parts of Dickie, as played by Master Harry Warden, and Lynette, by Miss May Warden, are greatly appreciated; Mr. Logan Darra gives a good portrayal of Hendrick Marias; and Miss Amy McNeill cleverly sustains the character of Agatha Winter.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles Imeson.—Mr. J. F. Elliston's company in the pantomime Cinderella enters upon its first week at this place of amusement. Miss Lola Patey is a fascinating Cinderella, her songs greatly pleasing the audience; Miss Madoline Rees's vivacity and winsomeness are much admired; Miss Jennie Benson wins golden opinions as Phyllis; and Mdlle. D. Velen proves a charming Fairy. Messrs. Shaun Glenville and W. T. Thompson are irresistibly funny as the Baron and Buttons, their patter and amusing antics creating roars of laughter. The Wedburns prove a capital pair of comedians, and Silly Billy Elliot does well. Mr. George Goodfellow and Miss Jennie Gregson are amusing as Cinderella's sisters. The scenery is magnificent, and speciality turns are provided by King and Benson, who make a great hit.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. W. Chatto.—Messrs. C. and F. Renad's company in the musical comedy The Swiss Express appear here this week. Mr. Chas. Renad as James and Mr. Frederick Renad as John are the mainstay of the play, and their acrobatic antics are very amusing. Miss Jessica Ford proves a charming Virginia, and Miss Helen Douglas is an attractive Mrs. Squeeze. Mr. Herwood Cooper as Jack Gadabout and Mr. Jack Douglas as the Surgeon, Mr. A. Johnson, and Mr. A. E. Cooke admirably aid the fun. Mr. Herbert Lewis as Dr. Gull, Mr. George Martin, and Mr. Alec Finlayson are also very amusing. The scenery is on a lavish scale, excellent songs are introduced, and special dances are performed by the Edene Quartette.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—Excellent turns are provided here this week. Wright and Elton head the bill, and are well applauded. The Mackinnon Family and the Knick-Knacks in their speciality act both supply good items. Mr. Frank Seeley creates roars of laughter with his funny songs and sayings; Austin Boyd and Trixie Gilfain are successful; and Jerry Hart and Beatrice Leo and Jimson's animals also contribute valuably to the programme.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf. Graham.—The star turns at this place are provided by Mr. Carter Livesey and Miss Lilean Rosebery, who are appearing with considerable success in an amusing sketch. The company also includes Aryama, a little Jap, who gives a wonderful display on a slack wire. The Bros. Ralston also prove an amusing turn, and Marie Yorke, with her catchy songs, Ethel Dunford, Dan Noble, and Bob Hamilton also contribute to the programme.

NELSON.—NEW GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft; Business-Manager, Mr. George E. Mudd.—The Milton Ray's pantomime Beauty and the Beast is here this week. Miss Edie Rivers as Beauty plays in pleasing and unaffected manner; Miss Nellie Randall infuses plenty of "go" into the part of Silver Buttons; Miss Florence Burns is a Prince of fetching appearnce, her singing being of a high order; Mr. Arthur Milton, with his quaint humour, keeps the house in constant merriment. He is ably supported by Messrs. Robert Anderson, Edwin Garth, Fred O'Mally, Sydney Wilton, and others. The Eldorados, an accomplished trio of dancers, gain plenty of applause for their songs and dances; Baron and Kemp, quick-change artists, are very smart; Burley and Burley, in their acrobatic and bending act, are funny, and create much amusement; Wallace, the boy juggler, astonishes the house with his unique performance.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Sutcliffe.—The last two weeks of the pantomime Mother Goose are announced, despite the fact that large houses are the rule nightly. New business and jokes have been added by the various artists, and the entire show increases in popularity.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Teale Lingham.—Cinderella continues its run of popularity, and the genial manager, Mr F. Teale Lingham, finds the utmost difficulty in providing seating accommodation for his patrons, so great is the demand for seats at each performance. This gratifying state of affairs is as it should be, as there is no doubt Cinderella is one of the finest all-round pantomimes ever produced at The Royal.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—The second and last week of Mr. George Brydon Phillips's pantomime Little Red Riding Hood was entered upon last Monday night before a large house. Miss Louie Hurman as the Prince is exceedingly popular, and her song "Remember me" is repeatedly encored; Mr. Charles Gardiner is irresistibly funny as the Dame, and the remainder of the cast all work harmoniously and successfully together.

GRAND THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Jack the Giant Killer is proving a popular attraction here, and exceedingly good business is being done. Miss Mimi Fisher makes an ideal principal Boy, and delights one and all with her numerous vocal successes. Miss Bijou Dreno acts and sings in dainty style as Margery Daw, Miss Evelyn Robson speaks her lines clearly as Mephisto, and Miss Louie Niemann presents a typical rendering of the Fairy Queen. Messrs. W. S. Stevenson, Charles Grantley, Fred C. Imbert, Gilbert Payne, Jack Henri, and Messrs. Denby and Dent are the principal fun purveyors and create the utmost merriment during their occupancy of the stage. The scenery and dresses are exceptionally pretty, and the specialities of the Two Sparks and the Continental Girls are greatly enjoyed.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy.—Heading a strong programme here is Selma Braatz, a lady juggler of remarkable ability, whose various feats are executed with neatness and precision; Mendel, the blind pianist, proves highly entertaining; Seeley and West are exceedingly funny as comedy musicians, and O'Gust is loudly applauded for his clever imitations. Ella Retford is heard to especial advantage in her singing of coon ditties, and is also an excellent dancer. Bert Woodward, the cycling coon, performs some astonishing tricks on the bicycle. The Three Missouris now introduce into their act an amusing burlesque wrestling match. Mezetti and Mora, parallel bar performers; Brookes, Dale, and Blitz, with their mule; and Spessardy's troupe of performing bears and ponies all win applause for their respective turns.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Mr. John Tiller's pantomime company in Little Red Riding Hood is paying a visit here this week, and has played to good houses. Miss Bessie Cohen is a dashing Prince, and is entirely successful in her singing of several popular numbers. The title part is charmingly enacted by Miss May Merry, who, besides being a pleasing vocalist, also wins approval for her dancing. Miss Maud St. John is a sprightly Margery Daw, and Miss Edna Morgan as Tommy Tucker and Miss Florence Leonard as Goodwill contribute much to the success of the pantomime. Mr. Harry Morgan proves amusing as the Baron, Mr. Howard Ward is excruciatingly funny as the Dame, and Mr. Harry Elliston and Mr. Teddy Gibbs as Johnny Green and Johnny Stout respectively are responsible for a lot of the fun. Acceptable specialities are introduced by The Poppy Quartette, The Excelsior Troupe, and The Musical Johnsons. The programme also includes Carson Hicks, singer and buck-dancer; Edney and Wade, vocalists and dancers; and the Barrascope.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Miss Elaine Verner's company in Saints and Sinners is attracting good houses here this week. Mr. Harding Thomas, who is general-manager for Miss Verner, is a striking and pathetic figure in the part of Jacob Fletcher; Miss Elaine Verner plays Letty Fletcher admirably; Mr. Frank Lindon makes a demonstrative Samuel Haggard; Mr. W. Cronin Wilson plays Capt. Fanshaw with credit; and Miss Ada Clarke's portrayal of Lydia is highly successful. Mr. Benson makes an excellent man-servant, Raddles (Mr. J. Edwards) is a very clever little study, and Mr. Kent as Lot has a song that is acceptable. Other characters are well taken by Mr. J. J. Houker, Mr. J. Max Jerome, and Mr. George Jervis.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—Tarro Myaki, Jap wrestler, is proving a draw here this week; Verno and Voyce give a couple of popular songs in good style; Ryan and Hall, acrobatic comedians, are responsible for a continuous ripple of laughter; and Albertus and Bartram are dexterous Indian club manipulators. A neat gymnastic turn is furnished by the Picquays, the Sisters Green do some clever arm and head balancing, and Sybil St. Elmo's excellent soprano is heard agreeably. The Wally-Hoste Trio of comedy acrobats do some amusing feats, and Leona Dare combines an exhibition of strength and musical ability.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mr. Milton Bode's pantomime Dick Whittington concludes a successful fortnight's engagement this evening.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—The Lavails are loudly applauded for their clever and novel aerial feats on an elaborate fit-up of silver arch, ladders, and bars; the George Power company provides a funny farcical sketch, entitled Matrimonial Bliss; Rosa Loader, musical mimic, displays rare talent as "The Happy Slavey at the Piano"; Andrew's and Thomas also give an appreciated high-class vocal act; Charles Williams, Scotch coon comedian and big-boot dancer, meets with a good reception; the Brothers Wynford, the well-known jumpers, give a capital display of their powers; Prince Kuroki is a clever "Illusioniste"; the Raymond Trio tender a refined musical act; and Ethel Loftus, "the comedy girl," gives great delight. The Palace Pictures are an important item in this popular programme.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Musical comedy again forms the bill of fare here this week, Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company with Florodora proving a strong attraction. As Anthony Tweedlepunch Mr. Albert Bruno makes a decided hit, and Mr. Edward Chester is an admirable representative of Gilfain. Mr. Henry Crossland is highly successful as Frank Abercoed; Mr. Harold Parry gives a capital impersonation of Captain Donegal; and Mr. C. A. James is clever as Leanpro. As Dolores Miss Gwladys Elvey is worthy of the highest praise, her excellent singing being greatly appreciated. Miss Kate Leicester as Lady Holyrood is a great favourite; Miss Florence Hersee gives a smart portrayal of Angela Gilfain; and the remaining parts are all in able hands.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—The Martafi Troupe of Servian Acrobats top the bill here, and perform some wonderful feats. The Henderson and Stanley Quartette provide an enjoyable turn; Cinizelli, the Silent Jester, is funny; Mr. Syd Herman, Hebrew comedian, has made a great hit; Johnny and Charlie in their wrestling, poses and ring performance have created a favourable impression; and Mr. Charles Daunton (vocal comedian), Miss Grace Logan (serio and dancer), and the bio-photoscope are all well received.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and L. Maitland's company in The Coal King is here this week. Mr. Lauderdale Maitland as Tom Roberts displayed manly force and ability; Mr. Joseph Millane as Walter Harford did well; Mr. Charles Stone was amusing as Jim Williams; and Mr. Robert Shiels scored as Sir Reginald Harford. Miss Gertrude Valentine elicited sympathy as Grace Shirley; Miss Mabel Rose as Mrs. Baker was very good; Miss Joan Wellman as Mad Ann and Miss Hetty Cornwallis as the parlourmaid were excellent in their respective parts.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—Lady Mansel's team of children are a genuine treat in their turn, and their singing and dancing are much appreciated; Hall and Earle are very funny in their contortions; The Harvey Boys as boxing comedians create much fun and obtain much applause; The Three Haverleys are unique in their song illustrations; Lea and Lovell are clever duettists and dancers; and the Lannons deserve the reception accorded them; The Northern Troupe are a capital turn, and their dancing is well received; Ernesto is a clever juggler, musician, and equilibrist, whilst the Hippo. Bioscope fills up an excellent programme.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The latest musical comedy Sergeant Brue is presented this week by Mr. Frank Curzon's company. Mr. George Barrett is singularly happy in portraying Crookie Scrubbs. Mr. Percy Clifton is not only comical as Sergeant Brue, but scores well with his singing and dancing. The singing of Miss Constance Lait deserves hearty praise, and she plays Aurora Brue with freshness and vivacity. Miss Violet Dene makes a delightful Lady Bickenhall, also dancing in a graceful and attractive manner. Mr. Charles Hanbury furnishes an acceptable interpretation of Michael Brue.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles P. Cooke.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden have got together an excellent company for the production of the pantomime Aladdin. The principal comedian is Mr. Ernie Myers, who as Abanazar pursues his irresponsible way through the performance to the accompaniment of shrieks of laughter from the delighted audience. Miss Maidie Scott fills the title-rôle, and her charming manner and pleasant voice gain her hosts of friends. Mr. Joe Robins and Miss Flo Collier have plenty of opportunity of exhibiting their dexterity, which always meets with due reward, and Messrs. Williams and Brown are exceedingly clever eccentric and cross-talking comedians. Miss Madge Northcote's singing as the Geni of the Cave is a great treat, and Miss Lily Lonsdale as the Princess is successful. Mr. Julian Mack has a unique but thoroughly happy method of representing Widow Twankey, and Mr. George Cooper makes an excellent Emperor. Mr. Carl Muller is very smart in his speciality dancing, as also are the quartette Les Belles Américaines. Toch and Tard, two very clever acrobats, have a turn which arouses great enthusiasm.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. A. W. Bull.—The company of Mr. Henry Bedford is here with Mafeking, See-Saw of Life, and Gipsy Jack. The last-mentioned was presented on Monday. Mr. Bedford fairly revels in the breezy character of Gipsy Jack, and Mr. G. W. Hewetson does well as Sir John Dexter. The portraits of the unscrupulous Skinners, father and son, are strongly drawn by Messrs. W. H. Domney and Alec Alexander respectively. Mr. Cecil S. Churton gives a manly interpretation of the Rev. Francis Harvey. Miss Mary Masters imparts a winsome attractiveness to her rôle as Dorothy Dexter; Miss Bessie Bedford acts charmingly as May Harvey; and the humorous relief is capitally sustained by Mr. Sid Bedford (Joe Banks), Mr. J. H. Darner (Charley Bates), and Miss Jennie Risley (Jennie Huggins).

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles H. Bowmaker.—Crowded houses are nightly watching and applauding Dr. Walford Bodie in his efforts to alleviate and cure his numerous patients. Miss Alexandra Dagmar must be warmly congratulated on her successful impersonations, and she also shines as a raconteuse; Miss Georgina Middleton, fresh from her pantomime triumphs at the Theatre Royal, sings with charming sweetness; the Trapnell Family submit a skilful and artistic acrobatic performance; Hays and Suits prove themselves expert dancers; the Howards are a grotesque couple; abundance of laughter is evoked by the comical musical item of Wood and Bates; Ike Scott and Son add greatly to the mirth; and the dancing of Viviana meets with full appreciation. The American Bioscope supplies several capital films.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS CO., LTD.—Managing Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Pantomime is the order of the day here. Pardoe's company with Cinderella commenced a week's engagement on Monday. In the title-rôle Miss Dolly Wright is exceedingly charming; Miss Lottie Holland is a capital Prince Charming; Miss May Daventry is a vivacious Dandini; Miss Nelly Rose as the Princess finds favour, and Miss Annie de Brice the Fairy Godmother. Messrs. Bert Gordon and Jess Boxer are funny as Eva and Maud; The Baron finds an excellent exponent in Mr. Tom Hulme; and Mr. Tom Griffitt is conspicuous as Father Time. On Thursday evening Mr. Cross (Managing Director) took his fifth annual benefit.

OLDBURY.—PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Tom Richard; Manager, Mr. R. A. Brown.—The chief item of this week's programme is supplied by Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the Singing Mill Hands, in harmonious vocal items, which are encored; Charles Bayman, negro comedian, creates a great impression with "Old King Cole"; George Scott, descriptive vocalist, is well received; Gertrude Moore is a favourite, introducing Dutch, Italian, and big-boot and coon dancing; Charlie Drew scores with his comical mannerisms; Blancho White is a clever exponent of sand dancing and coon songs; and G. Robyson, comedian, and the Palace pictures make up a good programme.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—The Carl Rosa Opera Company is paying us their customary annual visit this week, and never before has their welcome been more cordial. Practically all the seats had been booked for the week before the company arrived, notwithstanding that prices were raised for all parts, and even on the opening night (Monday) extra rows of stalls had to be added. Carmen was the opening opera, and a more delightful performance has never been given here. Miss Doris Woodall, in the title-rôle, singing so beautifully and acting with such abandon and go as to completely captivate all hearts. She was admirably supported by Miss Ina Hill and Miss Anna Hope, as Frasquita and Mercedes; and Miss Grace Nicoll was also highly successful as Micaela. Herr Julius Walther had a big reception on appearing, and played José with the artistic finish that always marks his impersonations, while his singing was a great artistic treat; Mr. Frank Arthur was admirably suited as Escamillo; Mr. Alec Richord was a capital Zuniga; Morales and Lillas Pastia found admirable exponents in Messrs. R. Cliffe and A. Felton; and the same can be said of the Doncairo and Remandado of Messrs. F. Clendon and A. Hyde. The dances were beautifully executed, the choruses rendered with precision and effect, while the Rosa orchestra, under the skilful baton of Mr. Walter van Noorden, did full justice to the music. The week's programme includes Rigoletto, The Marriage of Figaro, Lohengrin, Fidelio, Tannhäuser, and Faust.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. G. P. Wells.—Mr. Cecil Clayton's company is occupying these boards with the pantomime Cinderella. Mr. Herbert Colley is full of life and vigour as Baron Loweralotte; and Mr. E. Clarke, as his page Pimples, does well. Gertie is played with considerable verve by Mr. Alf. Selby; and Lily has a capable exponent in Mr. Arthur Loman. Miss Eva Rosslyn is well suited as Prince Charming; and Miss Lilian Ramsdale is attractive as Dandini. Miss Gertrude Gray sings well as Fairy Sunshine; and Cinderella is daintily portrayed by Miss Gertie Lovedale.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—The popular musical comedy Sergeant Brue has been presented here by Mr. E. Lockwood's company under the managership of Mr. P. McLeod Foster. Mr. Paddy Dupres is the irrepressible Sergeant Brue, and his amusing business has much to do with the success of the performance. Mr. Charles McLagan plays Crookie Scrubbs with well-sustained comedy and no little originality. Miss Midge Clark as Lady Bickenhall is first-class; she has a pleasing voice which she uses to advantage; and the same may be said of Miss Lilian Middleton, whose rendering of the part of Aurora Brue is noteworthy. Mr. E. Percy Rogers is admirable as Michael Brue, his singing giving great enjoyment; to Mr. Henry Chichester belongs much credit for his carefully studied portraiture of Mr. Crank; and Mr. Arthur Stroud displays excellent qualities in his impersonation of Gerald Treherne. Capital are the assumptions submitted by Mr. Charles Sims as Matthew Habisham, Mr. Clarence Napier as Inspector Corringe, Mr. Arnold Webster as Mr. Lamb, and Mr. J. F. Leighton as Captain Bay. Miss Eliza Earle earns distinction as Daisy, acting in an amusingly eccentric manner; and others acquitting themselves well are Miss Aileen Macdonald (Mabel Widget), Miss Violet Ward (Vivienne Russell), Miss Preda Vaughan (Louise Claire), and Mi

Bosco, R. F. Stacey, and Greeve Taylor. Miss Irma Farington gives an impressive and stirring impersonation of Lady Isabel; whilst Miss Myrtle Woodward as Barbara Hare and Miss Kathleen Saunders as Little Willie are seen to advantage.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr. W. H. Michell.—Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company are appearing here in The Face at the Window, a strong and interesting drama from the pen of Mr. F. Brooke Warren. A very capable company do full justice to the piece, and the mounting is exceptionally good. Mr. E. H. Armadale presents a powerful study of the villain, Chevalier Delgardo; Mr. G. Hall is strong and emotional as the hero; and Miss N. Hallam is telling and charming as the heroine.

Palace of Varieties.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Livermore Brothers; Manager, Mr. J. Field.—The programme is excellent. A pantomime show by the Five Osranis catches on splendidly, and is both clever and funny; Horace White's ventriloquial entertainment is full of good qualities; the Labakans supply an amusing and skilful acrobatic performance; Alf. Davis is a popular comedian; Lee and Arden are up-to-date artists; Norman French dances in eccentric fashion; Linton's tight-wire performance is novel and smart; and Alice May is a brilliant quick-change artist.

PORTH.—Poole's Opera House.—Mr. George Gordon and company are here this week in The Scarlet Clue, opening on Monday evening to a good house. Mr. George Gordon gives a powerful and masterly rendering of Michael Stanton; Mr. Reginald Brown in the double part of Jack Esmond and Harry Esmond, is well received; Mr. Horace Roseley makes a capital Edward Croker; Mr. J. E. Tomlinson earns great applause as Crazy Jim; Miss Grace Jones gives an effective rendering of Elsie Dane; Miss Ellen Beverley capably portrays Miss Tabitha Esmond; Mr. V. T. Raymond makes a hit as Billy; Little Polly has an excellent representative in Little Edith Rutland, who receives loud applause for her singing; Miss Kathleen Cranston is satisfactory as Mother Scrooge; and Miss Grace Warner is responsible for some excellent acting as Scarlet Sal.

PORTSMOUTH.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager. Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Martin Harvey and his company are appearing here in The Breed of the Treshams. Mr. Harvey's embodiment of the royestering cavalier, Lieut. Reresby, surnamed "The Rat," is a most striking and powerful one; Viscount Dorsington is ably presented by Mr. Charles J. Cameron; the arch-traitor, Col. Hungerford, is depicted with great judgment by Mr. Charles Glenney; Mr. Percy Anstey, in the rôle of Cornet Francis Tresham, acts with intelligence and spirit. Miss Coleridge makes a charming Margaret Hungerford, her womanly tenderness being delightful; Mrs. Bagshaw and Helena Pierrepoint are effectively portrayed by Miss Francis Ivor and Miss Bessie Elder; the boy, Batty, is acted by Miss N. de Silva with energy and success.

Prince's Theatre.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—The Price of Her Soul is being played here this week by Messrs. John B. Shinton and Alexander Greenwood's company. The part of Lord Rolf Mandeville, V.C., is played by Mr. Shinton in a forcible and manly fashion; Mr. Annesley Hely depicts the villain, Major Ivan Skoboloff, in a powerful manner; Mr. Edwin Coates and Mr. Will Percy, as the Hon. Algy Fraser and Pat Murphy, are responsible for some effective work; Miss Mona Gray, as the scheming and relentless Olga Sanovitz, plays a difficult part with commendable success; Miss Ida M. Ryder, as the Countess Inez Steinmitz, acts carefully; and Miss Ina Arnott is excellent as Vera.

Empire Palace. — Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—An excellent programme is offered to the patrons of this house for the week, Max Gruber, with his performing elephant and horse, is the principal attraction, the intelligence of the animals arousing great astonishment; Rosie Archer, lady mimic, gives a very pleasing turn that is highly appreciated; Mr. and Mrs. Royston-Dene and Co., in His Birthday, artistically played and mounted, are received with acclamation; Mountford and Walsh, society entertainers, give satisfaction in their capital show; Amy Anderson and Co., are really smart with their scenes of London coster life, and meet with a flattering reception; Simosa San is a clever lady juggler; the Bros. Phillipi's comedy acrobatic act, "Shunting," is intenseiy amusing; and also contributing successfully to the bill are Rumbo Austin, eccentric comedian; Sisters Selwyn, duettists and dancers; and Chas. Ridgwell, character comedian.

PRESTON.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Mr. Geo. Dance's company is here this week in The Cingalee. Mr. Frank Crimp acts and sings commendably as Harry Vereker; Mr. Bertrand Gates effectively depicts Boobhamba, and his topical numbers are popular; Sir Peter Loftos has a capital representative in Mr. Coop Edmunds; Mr. Ethelbert Edwards acquits himself creditably as Bobby Warren; Mr. Laurie de Freece, who impersonates Chambuddy Ram, is an exceptionally clever and amusing comedian; Miss Marjorie Clarke is a charming Lady Patricia Vane, and her vocalism is deservedly appreciated; Miss Gladys Guy makes a captivating Peggy Sabine. Praise is due to Miss Essie Perrin for her graceful dancing as Angy; and Nanoya finds an attractive exponent in Miss Winifred O'Connor, who gains a hearty encore for her rendering of "The Cinnamon Tree."

Prince's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company is appearing here this week in The Midnight Mail, which has met with a cordial reception. Mr. George Harvard gives a powerful impersonation of Harry Steyne; Mr. Fred G. Evison creates much merriment and also shows great dramatic ability as Billy Brewer; much praise is due to Miss Grace Lester for her portrayal of Mary Steyne; the part of Lady Phyllis Eustace is ably sustained by Miss Hilda Merriles; Leonard Royle has an excellent representative in Austin Mortimer; Miss Lydia Hart is seen to advantage as Nancy Brewer; Mr. Dobell Lyle acquits himself well as Donald Craig; and Mr. Harry Emmerson and Mr. C. P. Wentworth also capably sustain their parts.

Royal Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—Henry Hallam and Joseph Stanton provide the chief attraction here this week in a musical comedy sketch which is genuinely diverting. The Three Clements give a daring display on the flying trapeze; the mimetic ability of Harry Morris evokes loud applause; Harris L. Bell, Lily Pearl, and company appear in a mirth-provoking sketch, A Bit of String. Mabel Holt and Marie Blythe are successful comediennes; and a capital turn is that of Harry Weldon, comedian. A. J. Rebla combines astonishing skill with really funny "business" in his juggling act. Bioscope pictures conclude the entertainment.

RADCLIFFE. — Grand Opera House. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company is here in the romantic historical drama A Royal Divorce. Mr. Frederick Moyes plays the part of Napoleon with great credit, and Mr. H. Gray Dolly as Talleyrand is good; Mr. Henry Ludlow scores as the Marquis de Beaumont, and Mr. T. W. Ford as Marshal Murat and Mr. C. Lionel Brocknor as General Augereau both deserve a word of praise; and Mr. Dennis Bryan is a laughable Grimaud. Miss Lilian Dundas shows power as the Empress Josephine and Miss Gertrude Entwistle is a chic Stephanie, while Miss Muriel Thompson is masterly as Marie Louise.

RAWTENSTALL.—Grand Theatre. — Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller. — Messrs. W. H. and R. A. Maddox's company opened here on Monday with Dick Whittington, and made an excellent impression. Miss Mabel Kessler—a fine Dick Whittington—imparts considerable dash into her rendering of the part; Miss Peggy Fame as Alice is also a clever actress, and makes a charming principal girl, dancing and singing delightfully. Mr. Dan Lyndon as Fitzwarren causes great amusement; as also does Mr. Gus Granville as Idle Jack. Messrs. Rex Kempton and Harry Pastor as McFlip and O'Flop are clever knockabouts. Mr. Harry Howe is also a capable "dame," Betsy, and is responsible for some clever comedy. Miss Annie Brevett as Captain Dash, Miss Linda May as Polly Perkins, and Miss Lilian Bates as the Lieutenant are all good in their respective parts; as also are Miss Louie Yates (Miladi Loo), Mr. Harry Wright as Muley Ben Whac, and Miss Jessie Lauraine. The songs and music are sprightly and catchy, and the dances are very enjoyable, the chorus being a thoroughly capable one. The specialities include Miss Mabel Kessler, lady cornetist, Mr. Harry Wright, extempore vocalist, Miss Peggy Fame, the Dandies' Quartette of dancers, and the Schallers, grotesque gymnasts.

READING.—Royal County Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr. Reginald Taylor. — Miss Maud Hildyard and an excellent company are here this week in the new drama The Great Awakening. Miss Hildyard scores a great success in the part of Lola Selby; Miss Jessie Burgwitz acts charmingly as Molly Merton; Miss Isa Bellington is highly amusing as Selina Worts; Mr. Charles Vivian plays effectively as James Selby; Mr. Bernard Copping acts very ably in the dual rôles of Sir Henry and Jack Merton; Mr. Julian Hartleigh plays most creditably as Guy Rogan. Mr. C. Fancourt as Captain Harry Lambert, Mr. Willie Scott as Billy Brass, Mr. James E. Page as Richard Wilson, Mr. Tracy Barrow as Antoine, Mr. Godfrey Sheldon as Doctor Lang, and Mr. E. Gordon as the newsboy, all sustain their parts well.

ROCHDALE.—New Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd; Managing Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—Mr. Chas. Chard's pantomime Goody Two Shoes is proving a strong attraction here this week. Miss Annie Casey as Goody Two Shoes sings with power and scores a distinct success; Miss Chummie La Mara as the principal boy invests the part of Roland with dash and vivacity; Wee Langton is well placed as Simple Simon; Mr. Sydney Dean makes up exceptionally well as Dame Freckles, and Mr. Charles Chard as Sammy Sops has a style of his own which creates great amusement. As Phil and Tom Messrs. Keith and Merson are irresistibly funny, and keep the audience in roars of laughter; the Misses Lily and Gladys St. Julian are two bright and winsome artists as Dolly Dimple and Peter Piper; Mr. Edwin Ramsdale does well as Baron Grab, and Messrs. Selby and Myers deserve praise as Smirk and Smile. The Immortals Benevolentia and Mephisto have two capital exponents in Miss Hawthorne Thwaites, whose vocalism was thoroughly appreciated, and Miss Julie Fuller; and specialities are submitted by the Mikado troupe of lady dancers, Messrs. Selby and Myers, Miss Annette Aseiky, Messrs. Keith and Merson, Sisters St. Julian, and Cyrus and Maud, with their performing donkey.

Circus of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Lee; Business Manager, Mr. S. L. Lee.—A strong and attractive programme is presented here this week. Kavados, juggler and equilibrist, performs some clever tricks and feats with a cannon ball; the Four Aces, in a comedy acrobatic display, deserve their well-earned plaudits; Edna, the Whistling Girl, Flo Melville, comedienne, &c., The Coopers, in comedy and music, Royal Best, impersonator of celebrities, Vernon's Bioscope Clarke's Nippers, in a variety of exercises requiring skill, and Geo. H. Keith, vocal comedian, complete the list.

Empire Theatre of Varieties. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—"Whirling the Whirl" is proving an immense and sensational attraction here this week, the performance of three cyclists on motor-cycles in mid air is daringly executed; Molly Doon sings daintily some pretty songs; Agnes McKeller is a welcome visitor with some finely rendered and refined songs; J. P. Boston, variety entertainer, Smith and Johnson, coloured duettists, Helm and Cozens, in the "Doctor and the Patient," and the Empire Bioscope complete a capital programme.

ROTHERHAM.—Theatre Royal, Limited.—Managing Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Miss Mary Austin and company are paying a very welcome return visit with The Cotton Spinner under the management of Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds. Mr. John E. Haydon as John Prescott is life-like; and Mr. F. Edwin Fisher is seen to advantage as Lord Northbury; Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds is very smart as Arthur Northbury; and Mr. Ernest C. Edwards scores as Major Stratton; Miss Enid Ross is pleasing as Constance Harrington; and Miss Mary Austin acts dramatically in the difficult rôle of Mary Prescott. The mounting and scenery are excellent.

RUGBY.—Theatre Royal.—Managing Director, Mr. A. F. Cross.—This week Messrs. Monti and Firth are presenting their pantomime The Babes in the Wood. As the Babes, Miss Lily Cleave and Miss Maudie Cleave are very successful, acting, singing, and dancing well. Miss Florrie Bray is a picturesque and pretty Robin Hood; Miss Ada Clare as Maid Marion is excellent; and Miss Lilian Player as Sylvania proves herself to be a vocalist of high order. Miss Daisy Edney is good as Will Scarlett, and as Phyllis Miss Daisy Cecil is excellent. Mr. Fred Monti as Simple Simon displays great ability and much humour, and is ably seconded by Mr. Dan Idle, whose impersonation of Belinda, the governess, is worthy of the highest praise. Mr. Arthur Allan as Baron Graball has a part that suits him; Messrs. Alf Valmore and Will Ellerslie as Tired Tim and Weary Willie work hard and cause much amusement. The Sisters Godfrey give a clever exhibition of acrobatic dancing, and the Ascotts in their bâton swinging and side-drum playing score a success; and Professor E. Needham proves himself to be a ventriloquist of exceptional excellence. The Izons are also good in their scena The Captain and the Mate.

RUNCORN.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. H. W. Caddick.—At Duty's Call, as played by Mr. John Gerant's company, is having a good reception here. Mr. Ernest St. John submits a very impressive embodiment of the hero, General Gordon; Mr. John Gerant makes the most of the part of Harold Allison; Mr. Frank V. Fern is seen to great advantage as Captain George Allison. In the humorous business Mr. Harry Ugar as Terry O'Hallaron, Mr. Gwyn Richardson as Jack Spencer, and Miss Harlington excel. A pleasing feature is the acting of Miss Marie Menzies as Dora Drummond; while the work of Miss Georgina Hamilton is of a finished and forceful nature.

SALFORD.—Prince of Wales's.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The Lights o' London is the attraction this week, presented by Mr. Herbert Hollister's Company. Harold Armitage is well played by Mr. Arthur Cornell and Miss Jeannie Burgoyne scores as Bess. Mr. R. Robinson as Clifford Armytage and Miss Eily O'Dempsey as Hetty Preene are suitably placed. Mr. Herbert Hollister is excellent as Seth Preene. Some good comedy business is contributed by Mr. W. E. Passmore as Jarvis, Miss V. Temple as Mrs. Jarvis, Miss G. Murray as Shakespere Jarvis, and Mr. Geo. Wallace as Philosopher Jack. Several other good character studies, including little Ida Murray as Joey, a street Arab, are well received.

Regent Theatre of Varieties, Ltd. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Signor Pepi, quick-change artist, appears in the comic sketch Love Always Victorious. Ella Shields is well received for her clever singing. Sam Redfern's funniosities deserve mention. Hesketh Meade, basso, is a favourite. Hector and Paulus (comedy specialty artists), Sisters Charnley (charming duettists and dancers), Dante Bentley and Elton in their novelty Always Moving, the Bodino Trio in their musical specialities, Mamie Cannon (drawing-room entertainer), and George Bendon (the white coon), also gave attractive turns.

Royal Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—An excellent entertainment is headed by the Alexandroffs, who delight with their singing and dancing. Winona, assisted by Col. King, gives an exhibition of expertness with firearms. An amusing sketch, A Manager's Lunch, is given by the Ringling Trio of American eccentrics. Other acceptable turns include Nellie Voltair (quaint juvenile comedienne), Marconis (electric wonders), Carlotta Lunn (American comedienne), Cavalottis (instrumentalists), Chas. Melton (character vocalist), Harry Bent (with his smart patter), and Grogie (vocal comedian).

SALISBURY.—County Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T. Brinsmead.—A full house welcomed the re-visit of Mr. John A. Thomson's company in the pantomime The Babes in the Wood. Miss Minnie Litchfield and Miss Kathleen Cogan gave a creditable impersonation of the Babes; Miss Beatrice Wadham as Robin Hood, and Miss Trixy Toole as Maid Marion played excellently; Miss Clair Wadham as the Fairy sang sweetly. Mr. Tom G. Warren as the Schoolmistress kept the audience in roars of laughter, Mr. Newton Pearce was particularly good as the Wicked Uncle, and was well supported by Messrs. Ted Mack and Henry Young as the villains. Some clever dancing was given by the Butterfly Troupe of Dancers, and some excellent variety turns were also introduced.

SHEERNESS.—The Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton.—An attractive bill of fare is submitted here for this week. The Bros. Gilbert secure loud applause for their smart and clever performance on the tight-rope; the Illumino Statuo reveals a pretty floral stage scena, from which a lady sings with pleasing effect; Miss Jessie Albini, comedienne, is very popular; Mr. Geo. Edney, descriptive vocalist, is well received; Miss Ida Brophy wins admiration both in song and dance; and Mr. Pain Lee, eccentric comedian, also contributes. Ruffle's Bioscope pictures are as popular as ever.

Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. P. Reymond.—An entertaining programme here comprises: The Arundel Sketch Co. in the farcical act A Broken Promise; and other turns meeting with favour are the Sisters Bathurst, duettists and dancers; Mr. Gus Daniels, descriptive vocalist; Miss Amy Hurst, comedienne and dancer; Mr. Charlie Howard, comedian; Miss Annie Lacey, comedienne; and the Dennisons, comedy sketch artists.

SHEFFIELD.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. T. S. Carter-King.—Pantomime still exercises its potent and beneficial sway here, for The Babes, which finished here on Saturday, was succeeded on Monday by The Forty Thieves, transferred "lock, stock, and barrel," from the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington. Mr. Ben Albert, who made a hit here three years ago as Simple Simon, was a quaint and laughter-provoking Ali Baba, and his patter, as usual of the dryly-humorous style, kept the audience in a continual roar. Mr. Will Johnson was a droll and indefatigable representative of Mrs. Baba. Mr. Espinoza made a weird Avarice, and his clever pirouette dance fairly brought down the house. The New York Comedy Four were very successful. Mr. Powis Pinder acted dramatically as Cassim, and his mad scene à la Gaspard was loudly applauded. Miss Jennie Armstrong was a handsome and shapely Abdallah; and Miss Fanny Wright made a pretty and delightful Ganem, and her song "Don't cry, little girl," was twice encored. In Miss Ruby Verdi was found a graceful and tuneful Morgiana; Miss May Gurnay sang two songs in a cultured manner; and the Four Papillons did several dances in an agile and elegant style. The pantomime is perfectly stage-managed.

Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is here in The Spring Chicken. Mr. George Gregory as Mr. Gridle was very funny, and in song, dance, and repartee he proved the main support of the piece, from the humorous point of view. That old favourite, Miss Irene Verona, quite in her element as Mrs. Gridle, caused great merriment. Miss Gertrude Glyn as Rosalie was the incarnation of girlish grace, delicious naivete, and feminine charm. Miss Rita Everard proved to be a fascinating Ducie; and Miss Gertrude Gilliam made a prepossessing Baroness. The fun was kept briskly going by the able assistance of Miss Nellie Lonnen, Mr. Harris, Mr. E. Ronald, Mr. Nelson Keys, and Mr. C. D. Cleveland.

Alexandra Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Cinderella finished a successful run on Saturday, and on Monday the regular season commenced with the engagement of Mr. Harry Pleon and his company in the laughable musical comedy The Shop Boy, a dramatic episode called The Club Raid, and an amusing burlesque on Nero. Thursday was the great night with the loyal patrons of the Alexandra, when Mr. Ramsay took his second annual benefit.

Empire Palace.—Proprietors, the Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—Miss Florence St. John has often appeared before local comic opera lovers, but it was a novelty with Sheffielders to see her on a music-hall stage, and when the curtain went up on Monday on A Milliner's Bill the Empire was packed with an expectant and enthusiastic audience. Miss St. John acted in the little comedy with all her old charm, keen sense of humour, and delicacy of touch, and she was well supported. Mr. Ranschle gives some clever impersonations of well-known men; and a funny act by the clever duo Cooke and Rothert, is a good item in this week's programme. Virto and his performing girls do a refined musical show; Mr. Tom Edwards and his quaint wooden-headed friend Curly cause roars of laughter; and other talented and popular performers are the pretty Urma Sisters, the vivacious Brontes, and Mr. Frank Harwood. In addition there is the American Biograph (which now seems a fixture here) with up-to-date pictures.

Grand Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Richard Ralli.—Miss Carlotta de Yonsen, supported by Mr. C. A. Carlile's dramatic company, is appearing in a thrilling sketch this week. Other contributors to the gaiety of Grand patrons are Mr. Harry Luck, comedian and burlesque artist; Mr. Frank Coyle, the old original Westbar favourite; Rayne and Hope; and Mr. C. H. Fergus. Pallister's popular local and topical Bioscope pictures continue "firm."

SLIGO.—Town Hall.—Proprietors, Sligo Corporation.—Mr. C. Macdona's company in Three Little Maids was presented by Mr. W. Payne Seddon on Monday before a crowded house. The piece was well staged and dressed in a gorgeous manner, and the chorus, under the direction of Mr. J. Lennoi, was well balanced. As the Three Little Maids, Miss Doris Lind as Ada Branscombe, Miss Cora Lingard as Hilda, and Miss M. West as Edna were charming, and acted in a commendable manner; Miss K. Graham Beck made an effective Lady St. Mallory, Miss Laura Wright was very good as Gretchen, Miss G. Hardy as Lady Rosmary had a part well suited to her, Miss G. Bruce as Venician Grafton was excellent, Miss Mabel Sarl successfully impersonated Lady Margory, and Miss Phillis Castleton cleverly acted the part of Miss Price. Mr. F. Henderson made a capital Lord Cheyne, Mr. Garnet Wilson was an effective Bryan Molyneaux, the Rev. Mr. Branscombe was in the hands of Mr. W. P. Morgan, Mr. Ewart Drake as Cupid gave a really fine impersonation, and Mr. Wilfred Heath, in the part of M. de L'Orme could hardly be excelled.

SMETHWICK. — Theatre Royal. — Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Mr. Frank Bateman's company gave an excellent performance of a new domestic drama, entitled No Wedding Bells for Her, at the above house on Monday. In the principal rôle, that of an actress, Miss Lizzie Montague excels; and she is ably supported by Messrs. George C. Doughty as a detective, Stuart Lomath, a clergyman, Louis Garton, the actress's husband, and Walter S. Clifford, a city wastrel. Other parts are in good hands. The Bioscope pictures still prove a great attraction.

SOUTHAMPTON. — Grand Theatre.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton.—The attraction here is Mr. Walter Melville's sensational drama, The Worst Woman in London. The play is well mounted and capably acted, Miss Florence Dalton in the title-rôle playing very effectively.

Palace.—Sole Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Trussell.—The pièce de résistance at this popular variety temple is the pantomimic sketch, The Bricklayers, which is presented amidst uproarious laughter by the Boisset Troupe. Florence and Lilian give a refined and artistic musical turn which is well appreciated; and Miss Moore Duprez, the jolly Dutch girl, dances admirably; the Sisters Wingrove, dainty dancers, score; and others who do well are Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian; Mark Merry, comedian; and Blake and Granby, in a successful duologue. Mr. W. Trussell is welcoming huge crowds this week.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Freece; District Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton; Resident-Manager, Mr. P. C. Aldin.—Arthur Reece is a big favourite, and well applauded for his capital songs; the Athos Troupe of acrobats submit a wonderful performance; and the McConnell Trio score with a musical act. Alice Hollander sings artistically; and May Moodie excels as a piccolo soloist. Francesco, equilibrist; Amy Sullivan, comedienne; and Eily Adair, also successfully appear.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—Empire Theatre.—Sole Owners, The Southend Theatre Co. (1905), Ltd.; Managing Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Mr. G. H. W. Burrough's pantomime entitled Sinbad the Sailor is the attraction this week. Mr. George Sinclair's Excelsior Quartette of Dancers contribute largely to the success of the pantomime, their exceptionally clever turn being rapturously re-demanded. Master Sydney is heard to every advantage in his songs, and Fred and Louie Fuller's cakewalk is applauded. Sinbad is ably impersonated by Miss Louie Fuller, and the Misses Florence Barnes and Winifred Hamilton play well the rôles of Princess Yazora and Captain Selim respectively. Tinbad finds in Mr. Chas. J. Langton a clever interpreter, and with Messrs. Jack MacMahon and Fred Fuller as Bizbad and Quizbad cause much merriment. Mr. H. G. Brandon is satisfying in every way in his portrayal of Mrs. Mary Ann Sinbad.

SOUTHPORT.—Opera House, Winter Gardens.—General Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—The annual visit of the Moody-Manners Opera Company is regarded in local theatrical circles as the "red-letter" week of the season; and seldom has the Opera House presented a more animated appearance than on Monday evening, when a large and representative audience greeted this famous combination of high-class artists. Bizet's beautiful opera Carmen was the selection for the opening night, and the anticipations of the patrons were fully realised by a brilliant performance. The title-rôle was undertaken by Mdlle. Zelie de Lussan, who delighted the audience with a realistic conception of the fascinating and impassioned Southern Gipsy Girl, which she depicted with irresistible abandon and charm, alike in a vocal and dramatic sense; Miss Kate Anderson in the part of Michaela played and sang in a charming manner, her rendering of the appeal, "Jose, to seek thee I come," being beautifully executed; Don Jose had an excellent representative in Mr. Wilson Pembroke, whose fine tenor voice was greatly admired; Mr. William Dever as the bull fighter, Escamillo, gave a splendid rendering of the exhilarating Toreador song, which was loudly encored; Mr. W. Bailey and Mr. C. Moppett as Il Remendado and Il Dancairo respectively lent ample assistance; as did also Miss Rigby and Miss J. McCarthy in the parts of the cigarette girls Frasquita and Mercedes. The orchestra was largely augmented, and under the conductorship of Signor Joilio Nini-Bellucci the music was superbly rendered. The week's bill includes Il Trovatore, Maritana, The Huguenots, The Marriage of Figaro, Lohengrin, and The Bohemian Girl.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—The successful domestic drama entitled The Little Bread Winner is being staged here by Mr. J. A. Campbell's company. Little Miss Emmie Thomas cleverly and characteristically portrays the title-rôle; Mr. Scott Leighton is a forcible villain as Joseph Prior; Mr. J. A. Campbell appears with his wonted success as the Quaker, Lord Dorrington; Mr. David Gordon well accounts for the heroic Richard Lawrence; a pleasing and pathetic rendering of Margaret Daventry is contributed by Miss Catherine Parry; Mr. Allen Charles evokes roars of laughter as Charles Prior, and able assistance is submitted by Miss Jennie Bostock as the Irish housekeeper.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—The bill here includes Zarmah's African forest-breelions, bears, and boarhounds; a pantomimic absurdity, Swimming the Channel, by the Folkstones; Les Gittis have a wonderfully trained dog, whose gymnastic business creates a lot of fun; decidedly funny songs are rendered by Frank Lynne; the duets of Sinclair and Parr are favourably received, and the Fitzroys submit a good gymnastic act. Stephens and Rennior, comedy artists, Irving Jones, the funny little black man, and the American Bioscope complete an excellent programme.

SPENNYMOOR.—Cambridge Theatre.—Lessee Mr. Harding Thomas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Herbert Vere.—On the first four nights of this week A Guilty Man occupied the boards here. Mr. James Hare and company are responsible for the presentation. Mr. Hare appeared successfully as James Redman; and Miss Irene Clifford displayed considerable histrionic abilities as Nell Radford. Mr. Chas. O'Connor succeeded in giving a manly rendering of George Seymour. Miss Violet Hammersley was sweet and winsome as Audrey Priestley. As the Jew, Esau Hebron, Mr. Edmond O'Grady acquitted himself with credit. Mr. John A. Stimson supplied plenty of rare comedy as Bob Sparrow; and Miss Alice Buckland, a young but promising artist, was exceedingly piquant as Susie Barton.

STAFFORD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone. — Mr. Norman Macowan's company opened here on Monday with the pretty costume play, Monsieur Beaucaire. The title-rôle is sustained by Mr. Macowan, who gives a polished and highly-finished performance of the part. In the hands of Miss Marguerite Cellier every phase of the character of Lady Mary Carlisle is defined, the result being an artistic triumph. Mr. Murray Hathorn is a capable Duke of Winterset; Mr. Leonard Laurence is a dignified Beau Nash; and Captain Badger is ably sustained by Mr. P. Ramsey Forman.

ST. HELENS. — Theatre Royal and Opera House, Limited.—General Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—Mr. Edmund Tearle and Company opened here on Monday in Virginius. Mr. Tearle gave a fine impersonation of the Roman father, ably supported by Miss Esther Tearle as Virginia, Mr. Richard Vane as Appius Claudius, Mr. Spencer Geach, Mr. V. O. Crabtree as Julius, Mr. James Skea as Munitorius, and Mr. T. W. Benson as Dentatus. Othello, Jeanie Deans, The Three Musketeers, Hamlet, and Richard III. are also in the Co.'s repertoire.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Will Sley, and F. Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. V. Carnell.—The Six Brothers Luck opened here on Monday with their pantomime Jack and Jill. In addition to the Six Brothers Luck the company includes:—Misses Mabel Thorne, Marjorie Cecil, Evelyn Beresford, Flora Macdonald, the Sisters Brenton, the Sisters Travers, Mr. P. Bathurst, and Mr. Harry Levaine.

STOCKPORT. — New Theatre Royal. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Pantomime once again forms the attraction here, the Babes in the Wood, which abounds with entertaining items, being presented by Mr. Peter Thompson's company with a marked degree of success. Miss Maude Beaumont is a dashing Robin Hood; and Miss Molly Hackett is a charming Maid Marian; as the babes, Bertie and Cissie, little Renee Graham and little Daisy Noel are exceedingly pleasing and clever; The Danbys as Tim Tired and Willie Wearied are genuinely amusing, in addition to being expert dancers; and Mr. Fred Danvers is mirth-provoking as the Dame. Chief among the numerous specialities is N. T. Kioto, a Japanese equilibrist, whose feats are of a wonderful character.

Empire, Ltd.—Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Pantomime also reigns at this establishment, Mr. Wm. Holland's company appearing here in Aladdin. Frances Haskoll makes an excellent Aladdin; Florence Wood as the Princess also sings delightfully; and Jack and Evelyn as Wishee Washee and Cheeki are highly amusing; as also are Sandy and Carl as the policemen Bo Bi and Bo Ko; George Reeves is a capital Widow Twankey; and Fred Russell is genuinely funny as Abanazar; Glanmore Jones as Ping Pong acts well, and displays vocal ability; and R. K. Woodville is a most satisfactory Emperor. The Three Florodora Girls and the Colonial Vocal Four are among the specialities that command much appreciation.

STOURBRIDGE. — Alhambra Theatre.—Manageress, Miss Maude Lynton.—This week we are receiving a special attraction with the engagement of Mr. J. H. Clyndes' company with the drama A Royal Revenge. In the dual rôles of Estevan Alverez and Pedro de Castro Mr. Clyndes displayed his customary clever and effective style; Mr. Reginald Foxhill scored heavily as Nicholas Vargas; Mr. Fred Rivers as Azan Bon Musid and Count Ulric Uzeda was versatile. Miss Enid Eloni as Inez Alvarez gave a capable representation, and Miss Annie Grattan as Cora Casilda submitted another piece of winsome character-acting. Miss May Wynard gained distinction as Mother Maria Teresa, and Mr. Herbert King as the King of Spain gave a dignified reading of the character. The lighter element of the drama was in the able hands of Mr. J. E. Worth as Michael Sancha, and Miss Nellie Stuart as Paquita.

SUNDERLAND.—Avenue Theatre.—Director and Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—Another of Mr. J. F. Elliston's successful pantomimes is appearing here this week, The Sleeping Beauty Beauty having been transferred in its entirety from Birmingham to the Northern borough. Miss Maude Mortimer, who is a great favourite with the "Wearsiders," is a dashing Prince Faithful, and on Monday night received quite an ovation on making her first appearance. Miss Lilian Digges is charming as Beauty Allfair, singing her allotted numbers in a most pleasing way. Les Voces as Silver Star and Mother Baneful act and sing with effectiveness. Mr. Lorimer Meadows does exceedingly well in the arduous rôle of the Yellow Dwarf. Mr. W. J. Churchill is excellent as Count Incognito; Mr. Alf Bishop and Mr. James Chippendale create amusement in the respective parts of King and Queen Half-a-Crown; Miss Ada Lilley scores as the Grand Chief; the Sisters Cora deserve mention as Bon-Bon and Bonnie Bouche respectively; as also does Little Vera in the character of Petit Maitre. The Morton Trio as the Woodcutters are entertaining.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hemingway.—Mr. Carlton Wallace's company opened here on Monday in the pleasing romantic drama The Love that Women Desire Mr. J. O. Stewart plays the part of Squire Abingdon with considerable power and ability; Mr. C. Quinton Fulford is effective as Richard Abingdon; Mr. G. Carlton Wallace is commendable as Frank Hardy; Mr. David G. Noble is sufficient as Phillip Carnaby; Mr. John Hignett scores with his portrayal of the character of Dennis O'Rourke; Miss Lydia Donavan admirably depicts the rôle of Sybil Thorburn; Miss Alice Livesey as Madge Abingdon plays skilfully; Miss Maude Stuart is good as Pattie Swift; Miss Violet Haye does well as Molly; and Miss Clarissa Bamford cleverly enacts the rôle of the Indian maiden, Mariquinka.

Palace of Varieties.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stringer; Treasurer, Mr. Alfred Browne.—The bill here is headed by Madame Ada Colley, who secures the usual flattering reception. Other attractions are the Venola Bros., comedy gymnasts; Allan McAskell, versatile conjuror; Rita and Roma, vaudeville artists; George Collins, comedian; Burnette, character musician; George Bernard, actor-vocalist; Alsopp and Beckwith, vocalists and dancers; and Verona's animated pictures.

SWINDON.—Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Another of Mr. Milton Bode's pantomimes is do tertainment. The overture of the week is Ch. Richards' "La Fée de Potsdam," finely played by the orchestra under the direction of Mr. H. Peterson.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—This week Mr. A. G. Smith's company is here in Little Bo-Peep. Miss Elsie Douglas is a charming Bo Peep, and a dashing Boy Blue is seen in Miss Kathleen Garnon; Miss Hilda Dayton is good as Colin; and Miss Ena Martin well placed as Maisie; Mr. Fred Maitland scores as Baron Hardupp; and Messrs. Reed and Lerne as Percy and Patsy cause much mirth with their clever knockabout business; Mr. William Greene, the possessor of a rich baritone voice, is nightly encored for his songs, and Miss Issa Steel charms all by her portrayal of the Queen of the Fairies and delightful singing. The specialities include the Doreen Troupe of Lady Dancers, Bindene, contortionist, Oliva Chew, sifleur.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. Fred J. Willmot.—The Sladinbacks in the gymnastic potpourri turn astonishes with a really wonderful entertainment; Letty Lind charms all with her soprano voice; and Tom E. Johnstone and Little Don are clever comedians; sketches are played by the Arundels (The New Office Boy), Carney and Armstrong (The Pro. and the Baggage Man), and The Delmes (The Phantom Clogs). The Bioscope pictures are very interesting.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manager, Mr. W. J. Cranston.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's powerful company in the sensational drama An Abandoned Woman is here this week. Captain Herbert Seaton is admirably portrayed by Mr. Walston Foster, and an able rendering of Sir Marmaduke Seaton is presented by Mr. George Gormley. Mr. Harry Foxwell as Robert Saunders proves himself a highly skilled artist, and as Philip Malvoisin, Mr. W. J. Butler is a decided success. Mr. Michael Madden evokes loud applause in his humorous interpretation of Paddy Bayle; Miss Bernice Fielding plays Ninan Malvoisin in an effective manner; a capital study of Eleanor Dean is supplied by Mrs. Henry Foxwell; and Miss Lily Addison is warmly appreciated in the rôle of La Celeste.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore.—Mr. Frank Lindo is here this week with his London company in the domestic drama entitled Home, Sweet Home. Mr. F. Lindo is remarkably good in the character of Stephen Armitage; a clever bit of character acting is given by Mr. J. W. Henson as David Armitage; the Lucas Lyle of Mr. Wilson Coleman is well portrayed; Mr. George Overs displays great talent in the part of Dick Redmayne; Captain Gerald Gambier is all that one could desire as the Duke of Ancaster; Miss Daisy Rochefort acquits herself cleverly as Dora; and Miss Marion Wakeford gives a strong impersonation of the part of Joan.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—Cinderella, Mr. Eade Montefiore's successful pantomime, has been well received during this (its second) week's stay here. Miss Georgina Leonard has become a popular favourite in her songs; Miss Nellie Merton retains her charming style as Cinderella; the fun is kept going fast and furious by Mr. George Rydon, Mr. Fred Lincoln, and those favourite variety artists Conan and Doyle. Amusement was also the result of the efforts of Mr. Arthur Byron and Mr. George Antley. Miss Adele Lincoln's graceful dancing is an attraction, as is also the sweet singing of Miss Vera Schlesinger and the baritone of Mr. G. W. Traverner.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—The principal attraction this week is undoubtedly the clever mimicry and comicalities by J. P. Ling. The musical eccentricities of Will Van Allen are humorous and decidedly clever. Belle Braham is here again, and adding greatly to the eulogiums already gained by her. Lottie Lennox, "chorus vocalist," is well received. Others who provide acceptable numbers are Phillips and Merrett, Mdlle. Rosa's Canine Hipodrome, Harry Lawson, and Renson and Waite.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Mr. Edward Marris's pantomime Dick Whittington is here. Miss Madge Merry appears as Dick Whittington with much success; and Mr. William Kashma as the Cat is very good. Miss Winifred Preece is a winsome Alice Fitzwarren; Mr. W. H. Ball does well as Alderman Fitzwarren; Mr. Walter Nugent has made a decided hit as Julia, the cook; Mr. Walter Wade is excellent as Idle Jack; and Mr. C. Kashma is a success as Captain Kettel; Lieut. Hatchway and Lieut. Mainbrace are in the capable hands of Miss Lottie Vincent and Miss Elvira Vincent. The character of Muley Ben Whac, Emperor of Morocco, is well played by Mr. Geo. Harris; Miss Poppie Howard as Princess Dainty is very charming. Specialities are introduced by Les Sprays, the Rashmas (knockabouts), the Italian Glee Singers, the Sisters Vincent (coon singers and dancers), and Miss Effie White, whose dancing elicits applause.

WEXFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. E. P. Ronan.—Mr. J. W. Whitbread's Co. is here this week in a round of Irish dramas, and are meeting with much success. The Irish Dragoon was produced on Monday night. Mr. R. Faulkner made a dashing Charles O'Malley, and Mr. Ion Ireland was excellent as Sir George Dashwood. Mr. H. R. Leigh depicted the treacherous Major Hammersley in a realistic manner. Mr. James O'Brien, an old favourite, extracted all the fun possible out of the part of Micky Free, and his efforts were ably seconded by Miss Monica Kelly as Susie Dogherty. Mr. T. Bayley made a capital Dr. Quill, and Mr. Dane Clark gave an excellent character sketch of Napoleon. Miss Cecilia Dare, as Lucy Dashwood, did full justice to the rôle, and Miss May Axon was well placed in the part of Donna Inez. Mrs. E. F. Brady was highly amusing as Annette.

WHITEHAVEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Clark; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Clark.—Messrs. Beaudyn and Crowe's company is appearing here in the melodrama The Way of the World. Mr. Herbert Skardon submits a manly performance as Cecil Montague, and Mr. Clarence Temple is good as Matthew Magon. Humour is well represented by Mr. Louis Scott as Horatio Bluff, Mr. Dick Seddon as Joe Sparrow, and Miss Violet Vivienne as Polly, whilst villainy has a capable exponent in Mr. Victor Gordon as Captain Slade. Miss Cissy Bellamy acts and looks well as Kate Montague, and Miss Sidney Crowe acts powerfully in the character of Adela de la Roche.

WIDNES. — ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Jas. Kiddie.—A solid attraction is provided at this popular house this week by Mr. John F. Preston's company in Rogues on the Turf, and a good house assembled on Monday evening, the progress of the piece being followed with the keenest interest. Mr. John F. Preston gives a finished study of the part of Joe Flaxman, the old trainer, making a dee pimpression; Mr. Ernest R. Allen is a manly hero as Arthur Somerton; and Mr. Hamilton Deane plays the heavy part of Captain Dudley Clifton on original and acceptable lines. Mr. H. Macro is an excellent and amusing Moses Solomons. Mr. Harry Benson's playing of Sam Flaxman is humorous, his dancing being decidedly good; Mr. Alfred Wade makes a good Steve Burton; Miss Mabelle F. Barlow is quite at home in the part of Marion Heathcote, an adventuress of considerable refinement; the Nellie Flaxman of Miss Madge-Nelson is charming; and Miss Lalla Stanhope is no less winning as Phyllis Murzel.

DRILL HALL.—An attraction of unusual merit is to be found here in the Australian Bioscope Company's animated pictures, some good sentimental and humorous films being exhibited. Pleasing interludes are created by Mr. Stanley Green, humorist and drawing-room entertainer; and Mr. Charles Boulton, baritone vocalist.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Mr. Frederick Melville's drama Her Forbidden Marriage has been presented during the week. Mr. Albert Ward gives an excellent representation of George Maddison, and Mr. Lionel d'Aragon's Charles Devereux is an interesting study. Mr. Holland Day is distinctly good as Geoffrey Broughton; and Mr. Fred De Vere is capital as Timothy Tuttut. Miss Eugenie Magnus capably assumes the rôle of Lady Lucretia Lancaster, and Miss Isla Garnet Vayne is pathetic as Lucy. Miss Sybil Hammersley gives an ideal impersonation of Pattie Lovejoy, and Miss Barbara Gott is admirable as Mother Superior. Little Alice also gives an acceptable performance as Little Lucy.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—A first-class entertainment is provided here this week. The Julians, a clever troupe of acrobats, are loudly applauded; Bernar, the King of Marionettes, also receives hearty plaudits; Mdlle. Yetta is exceptionally good as a wire performer; and Sinclair and Whiteford appear in an amusing comedy, entitled Getting Even. Other pleasing turns are given by Bessie Travis, lady pianist-ventriloquist; Spry and Monti; Selbo, club juggler; Bert Bowden, comedian; Eric Graham, comedian; and Alice Maud, child impersonator. Some interesting pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

WOLVERHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. E. H. Bull and Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Percival.—This week Claudian is being produced here by Mr. Wm. Maclaren and an excellent company. The arduous and exacting part of Claudian is powerfully and effectively played by Mr. William Maclaren, whose characterisation is admirable; he is well supported by Miss Lily C. Bandmann, who greatly contributes towards the success of the play by her excellent impersonation of the part of Almida; Mr. Wilson Howards is capital as Thariogalus; Mr. Chas. T. Chaloner is good as Belos; Mr. George R. J. Austin is successful as Agazil; and Miss Carlotta Anson was praiseworthy as Edessa. The play is splendidly staged.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. W. H. Lennon.—A good all-round company, including Kate Carney, is engaged here this week.

WORKINGTON. — OPERA HOUSE. — Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes. — Craggs' Laughter Land attracted a capital house on Monday night, when the acrobatic performance was cheered to the echo. Mr. H. B. Lewis was enjoyable as the professor; Mr. H. Rousby was good in the part of Dick. Amusing and humorous as Sir Vincent, Mr. G. Westacott secured applause. Miss L. Millward as Clothilde acted well, and Miss Amy Hastings was satisfactory as Clarissa. The Sisters Glynne danced gracefully.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Her Lost Self (Miss Frances Delaval's company) is the attraction here this week. Miss Delaval as Phillipine Marcel again demonstrated her power as a finished actress; Mr. Charles Linney was admirably subdued as Paul Kimberly, playing with much praiseworthy skill; George Lyttleton as Wilfried Daventry was well placed; and Miss Dora Hammersley in a dual rôle was most commendable; as Bridget Mahone Miss Nellie V. Varden caused much amusement; and Mr. Chas. Kean as Norman Desmond gave an excellent rendition. A special word of praise is due to little Carrie Johnson, who sings a song in first-rate style.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—Kitts and Windram figure prominently in a strong company, their sketch The Entracte, is very funny, and the Zerbini Troupe are able musicians with a refined show; the Boccaccio Minstrels give an artistic and neat turn, which is well received; the Manello and Marnity Troupe are well worthy of the applause which greets them; Fredo's illusory act is fair; Seely and Dowton are clever; and success is gained by Fraser and Haley, who sing in good style.

AMUSEMENTS IN GLASGOW.

ROYALTY, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—Mr. George Edwardes's company is now in its third week here, and is still delighting large audiences with Lady Madcap, Miss Marie Studholme being charming as the merry Lady Betty. The part of Trooper Smith, who "butles" so amusingly throughout the later scenes, is laughably played by Mr. Arthur Longley. Fine soldierly figures are those of Mr. W. E. Richardson as the Colonel, Mr. B. H. Eustace as the Major, Mr. J. Edward Fraser as the Captain, and Mr. Harold Parkes as the Lieutenant; while Mr. E. Statham Staples as the little Corporal is highly diverting. Mr. Ernest Mahar as the Count de St. Hubert acts and sings the part to satisfaction. A bevy of ladies who act pleasingly are Miss Nina Sevening as Gwennie Holden, Miss Mabel Russell as Susan, and Miss Ethel Griffies as Mrs. Layton. Mr. J. Robert Hale as Bill Stratford plays the artful schemer effectively, while Mr. Oliver J. Round is equally good as his confederate Posh Jenkins.

KING'S THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—This week sees the close of the bright and enjoyable pantomime Red Riding Hood, which has proved most successful during its run of over nine weeks. Miss Phyllis Monkman as Red Riding Hood, Miss Margaret Ruby as Boy Blue, and Miss Dorothy Monkman as Bo-Peep make a popular trio of principals; and the clever patter of Mr. Malcolm Scott as Dame Trot, and his versatility in song, dance, and funny business have combined to make his performance the outstanding feature of the pantomime. Messrs. Brown and Le Clerq added considerably to the enjoyment of the audience, and the acrobatic feats of Messrs Grell and Grey were likewise highly popular. Misses Ruth Argent and Florence Somers formed an attractive couple as second boy and girl; Mr. Arthur Ricketts as the Baron displayed a fund of dry humour; Miss Lola Templeton as the Fairy Etherea and Mr. Frank A. Wood as the Demon rendered valuable aid in the singing; and Messrs. Will Cutler as Peter Piper and Steve Asher as the Wolf ably completed a good cast. The dancing of the Eight Snowdrops and the other Tiller dancers proved one of the best items in popular estimation, and the pantomime as a whole was worthy of our handsome west-end theatre. On Friday a complimentary benefit was given to Messrs. Brown and Le Clerq, at which Mr. Harry Lauder, Dan Crawley, and other favourite artists from the various theatres assisted.

GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Mascard.—On Wednesday of last week the management here gave the second of their elaborate productions by arrangement with Mr. Richard Flanagan, of the Queen's, Manchester, the play being The Prodigal Son; or, the Judgment of Pharaoh, by C. Caimour. This play was originally produced in Manchester on Oct. 30, under the more distinctive title of Jevan, the Prodigal Son. The new work tells a simple and touching story in poetic language, and is sufficiently interesting to attract regular playgoers, while its religious aspect will undoubtedly serve to make it palatable to many who hold aloof from ordinary theatrical fare. The production has the advantage of being under the direction of Mr. Richard Dalton, who stage-managed it at Manchester, and several members of the original cast reappear here, notably Miss Frances Wetherall, who as Mione, the Egyptian concubine, gives a particularly clever performance of a difficult part. Mr. John M. Troughton again plays the Hebrew patriarch Neziah, and acts well in the scene of parting with his son Jevan, and also in the final scene representing the return of the prodigal. Mr. Frederick Sargent as Jevan gives a fine performance, his dreamy abstraction when listening to the glowing description by Mione of the wonders of the Egyptian cities, his indignant refusal to bow the knee to the calf of gold in the Temple of Osiris, and his poignant grief when thrown out on the desert to perish among the lions being given with excellent effect. This scene was specially well put on the stage, the cloth representing a night view of the Sphinx of the Pyramids, while the pathetic figure of Jevan was lying bound and helpless on the sandy desert. A realistic touch was given when in the dim light two cleverly made-up "lions" prowled across the stage. Miss Olive Noble acts well as the good-hearted Hebrew maiden Miriam, to whom Jevan is betrothed. The scheming Egyptian prince, Pharus, had a striking representative in Mr. D. Lewin Mannering. Mr. Cecil A. Melton was a duly dignified and impressive Pharaoh, and the prayers and incantations of the High Priest were sonorously given by Mr. Ernest Griffen. Jethro, the elder brother, who, as in the parable, resents the welcome accorded the prodigal on his return, was cleverly played by Mr. A. Cecil. Simeon, the servant of Neziah, is in the hands of the original representative, Mr. Edgar C. White, and Miss Minnie Webb capably fills the part of Rachael. Mr. T. S. Cooke, Mr. J. Detliv, and Mr. H. Gomer May ably act three officials in the household of Pharus, and Misses Frances May, Elaine Vanburgh, and Rosie Dunstan as the attendants of Mione contribute several dances. The play is beautifully staged, the three principal set scenes—the Home of Neziah in the Valley of Rephaim, the Palace of Pharus, and the Temple of Osiris—being striking examples of stagecraft. The music incidental to the play is well rendered by a special choir. At the conclusion of the first performance a hearty call was given to Mr. R. C. Buchanan and to Mr. Richard Dalton, and both gentleman had to respond to the imperative calls for a speech.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—The production staged here this week is Fred Melville's stirring drama Between Two Women, which attracted a large audience on the opening night. The company is altogether a strong one, and includes several able artists, notably Mr. Arthur B. Murray, who is seen to great advantage as Henry, Earl of Millard; Miss Marjorie Murray and Miss Winifred Pearson as Violet and Carmen respectively do exceedingly well.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—This week the Govan playgoers have capital entertainment provided for them in Mr. T. H. Savile's pantomime The Sleeping Beauty, written by Fred Locke. Miss Marie Adair fills the part of Princess Beauty with complete success, her cultivated singing being a special feature of the performance; for the hero Prince Perfect an exceedingly graceful exponent is found in Miss Ethel Wilson, who also sings with more than average ability; Miss Ettie Cinders (Ladida) and Miss Annie Wright (Pipette) make a very acceptable second boy and girl, while the good and wicked Fairies are attractively represented by Miss Kitty Jones and Miss Florence Lister; King Henpeckina is played by Mr. Dan O'Connor, who sings several ballads in good style; the part of the Queen being suitably filled by Miss Alma Evelyn; Mr. Willie Garvey's Nurse Butterscotch is an excellent example of the familiar pantomime dame, and in all the funny business he has a valuable ally in Mr. George Hestor, whose Crankiwitz is a highly amusing personage; Mr. Peter D. Bermingham is provided with a very good Scotch part in Taki M'Craw; and Mr. Arthur Ferris is likewise well suited as Prince Tommy. Mr. Bert W. Stephens acts as musical director, and Mr. Frank Sutherland is responsible for the stage management.

EMPIRE (Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.).—District Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Mussett.—Heading the list of performers is Madge Gray, a very clever mimic of children; an exceptionally clever turn is given by the Riogoku family of Japanese acrobats; and Park's Eton Boys render songs and glees in a most acceptable manner. Other attractions include smart dancing by Collins and Hawley; head and hand-balancing by the Rhodes Bros.; Messrs. Baker and Lynn, in a humorous sketch, The Electric Boy; Wal Pink's Co. in The Day Breakers; Ruth Dorris, a dainty comedienne; Sylvesta, a smart conjurer; and a fine series of pictures on "The Urban Bioscope."

ZOO-HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—De Gracia's elephants provide a revelation in animal training, their cricket match being heartily enjoyed; Tom White's Arabs, a well-known combination, gave a humorous sketch of schoolboy life; Frank Darwen, actor-vocalist, has a gratifying reception for his acceptable singing; the Huxter Bros. are a clever combination of youthful acrobats; Picitt and Lizette provide a wonderful series of mysterious tricks; and English and Penley provide amusement in their humorous sketch, A Fishmonger's Romance. Other attractive turns are given by Conway and Leland; Mabel Hind, a smart coon singer; and Gertrude Bradshaw, a vocalist of merit; a good series of pictures brings an enjoyable programme to an end.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rich Waldon and Thos. Barrasford; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. McKelvie.—The Two Kays open well in a pretty vocal duologue, and their concerted singing is warmly received; the Donovans, in similar business, chiefly operatic, are warmly recalled; Bonnie Goodwin, her piccaninnies, and the entertainment they contribute, is too well-known to require any special comment; the coster singing of Tom Yorke is appreciated; Mr. Henry Cooke's contributions find considerable favour; and in Montague Bigge we have a clever female impersonator. The chief item is, however, The Orange Girl, in which Miss Dolly Elsworthy and Co. score a pronounced triumph.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—The chief attraction here is Jordan and Harvey, American-Hebrew dialect comedians, who meet with a great reception; a good sketch is provided by Bob Hanlon and Co., entitled Jinks in a Jungle; and the songs of H. O. Wills win much appreciation. The Swift Trio get through some daring tricks as bicycle entertainers; and Miss Ida Ross justifies her reputation as a tyrolean vocalist; Starr and Jerome, sketch artistes; Rose Waller, burlesque artiste; Essman, juggler; Mdlle. Theresa and Mill May, in a pot-pourri act; and that favourite actor-vocalist, Leo Dryden, in his latest song-scenas are also big attractions.

COLISEUM. — Proprietors, Moss's Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. S. MacLachlan.—Hackenschmidt crossed the river this week, and is wrestling to crowded houses here; Fanny Robina had a flattering reception for a charming turn; Bell and Hendry created great merriment; and the international dances of the Macdonald Troupe were admirable; T. C. Callaghan was again very popular; Florrie St. Clair, comedienne, was very well received; the Bandurrias give a pleasing musical turn; a pretty cycling display is given by the Sisters Warwick; Geoffreys and Benson appear in an amusing sketch, Spoofed; and the Bioscope completes an excellent programme.

QUEEN'S.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. T. J. Colquhoun and B. M. Armstrong.—There was a large audience at this house when Dan Thomas and his company presented Aladdin. The company is a thoroughly capable one. Mr. Dan Thomas filled the part of Widow Twanky with credit, and he was ably supported by Mr. Fred Lake as Abanazar; Mr. Ernest Cass was successful as the Emperor; as was Mr. Bert Wallace as the Grand Vizier; Miss Nellie Lewis as Aladdin did that character every justice; and the part of Princess Badroulbadour was neatly rendered by Miss Sadie Seymour.

POLYTECHNIC "OPEN NIGHT" RECITALS.

The students of the Polytechnic School of Elocution held their open night recital on Tuesday evening in the Grand Hall of this popular institution, before a large, critical, and appreciative audience, who gave marked encouragement to new aspirants for dramatic honours and enthusiastic approval to those whose elocutionary powers have already received recognition. As usual on these occasions, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Hasluck had selected some fifteen of their students of both sexes to provide the entertainment. There can be nothing but praise for Miss Rita Gallally and Mr. W. Bloye Higgs for their scene from Sheridan Knowles's The Hunchback. Mr. Frank Burrows, in Trowbridge's Roger and I, gave a careful character study, full of clever points. Mr. Ernest Welbeloved gave due expression to Chevalier's "The Veteran" and "'E can't take a roise out of Oi," the latter by far the best. Mr. W. J. Douglas contributed a fine sterling piece of work with Barrie's "My Brother Henry." Mr. Archie Terrill scored unmistakably in Bret Harte's admirable trifle, "Jim." Misses Violet Parry and R. Smith both showed emotional force, feeling, and artistic resource, the former with "David Copperfield and the Waiter," and the latter in "Bob Cratchitt's Christmas Dinner." Miss Richards, in Tennyson's strong domestic story, "Dora," portrayed deep feeling and expressive sweetness. Mrs. Sweasey got all the humour that can be got out of "The Jackdaw of Rheims." Miss Lillian Church, in Pemberton's merry little study, "I and my Father-in-law," was conspicuously good, and without any uncertainty displayed in turn pathos, indignation, and vivaciousness. Others who showed ability were Mr. A. C. Rickatson, in "The Last Test Match"; Mr. Walter Acourt in a neat speech, "Is Marriage a Failure?"; Miss Florence House, "The Relief of Lucknow"; and Mr. C. Walters in "Mad."

DURING the temporary retirement through a severe accident of Miss May Glenn from the cast of The Duchess of Dantzic, the title-rôle has been ably sustained by Miss Blanche Lynd, whose delineation of "Sans Gêne"—one of the most exacting parts in comic opera—is a painstaking and praiseworthy performance.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

Cinderella attained such success at the Brixton that its run had to be extended, and, although it is now in its seventh and last week, the house is crowded both at matinée and evening performances. Mr. Tom Conway as the Baroness is inimitable, the manner in which the lady exercises her superiority over her poor diminutive husband being very funny. What a humorous portrait of the impecunious, downtrodden husband is presented by Mr. George French, and it would be a difficult matter to find a more original and quaint impersonation than that provided by Mr. French. Mr. Wm. Pringle as Capers is very much to the fore, and his scenes with Cinderella are carried out with a thoroughness which shows him to be a real artist. Mr. Jack Linnol has succeeded to the part of Dandini, and plays with a genial swagger which suits the rôle exactly. Miss Lily Iris makes a charming Prince, and a better selection could not have been made. Perfect in form and feature, she carries all before her and is admired by all. Miss Molly McIntyre is an ideal Cinderella, bewitching yet demure. That this young lady has won her way to the hearts of her admirers is shown by the floral favours which fall to her share at each performance. Miss Adelaide Gracey as Araminta, one of the daughters who frequently breaks into poetry, is good, and is to be commended for her rendering of a very uncongenial character. Miss Madge Yates as Elvina, the other daughter, is soon on good terms with her audience, especially in her song, "Yes, you are," which is taken up by the gallery with a fervour which is unmistakable. Miss Ellaline Thorne is very graceful as the Duke of Whistbridge, and excels herself in song and dance, notably in the song "My Irish Molly."
